HONEYMOON BEACH: Billy Bevan—I did not see this one, but I heard them laugh, so it must have been a comedy.—R. D. Carter, Fairfax Theatre. Kilmarnock, Va. Town and country patronage.

TIRED FEET: Harry Langdon—We are glad to have Harry back again. This is a good comedy for comedy lovers. Running time, 17 minutes.—R. D. Carter, Fairfax Theatre, Kilmarnock, Va. Town and country patronage.

MGM

ALLEZ OOP: Sport Champion—Excellent.—J. E. Tunstall, Nottawa Theatre, Blackstone, Va. General patronage.

FALLEN ARCHES: Charley Chase—This is a good one. Charley isn't so funny, but the situations, story and cast he has with him are always good. Running time, 20 minutes.—Bert Silver, Silver Family Theatre, Greenville, Mich. Town and country patronage.

HOLLYWOOD PREMIERE: A two-reel color musical revue that will make a poor feature go over big and is a wow with a good feature. Running time, 18 minutes.—Gladys E. McArdle, Owl Theatre, Lebanon, Kan. Small town and country patronage.

OVER THE COUNTER: A fine two-reel short. Color shorts always go over big and this is one of the best. Running time, 18 minutes.—Gladys E. McArdle, Owl Theatre, Lebanon, Kan. Small town and country patronage.

SHOW BUSINESS: Zasu Pitts, Thelma Todd—Up to the usual Pitts-Todd standard, which is 100% entertainment. Zasu always sends them away with a smile.—Gladys E. McArdle, Owl Theatre, Lebanon, Kan. Small town and country patronage.

TAXI BARONS: Good nut comedy. Two reels.—Bert Silver, Silver Family Theatre, Greenville, Mich. Town and country patronage.

Paramount

BETTY BOOP CARTOONS: These are all good.—A. L. Lightner, Orpheum Theatre, Mellen, Wis. Small town patronage.

SCREEN SONGS: Another good single reel.—A. L. Lightner, Orpheum Theatre, Mellen, Wis. Small town patronage.

RKO

BRIDE'S BEREAVEMENT: Masquer comedy—While these comedies often get laughs, I do not think country people quite get them. To me they are very funny, indeed. Running time, 19 minutes.—R. D. Carter, Fairfax Theatre, Kilmarnock, Va. Town and country patronage.

DUMB DICK: Benny Rubin—A very good comedy. —J. E. Tunstall, Nottawa Theatre, Blackstone, Va. General patronage.

THE GOLF CHUMP: Edgar Kennedy—Fair. Most of these Kennedys are good. Florence Lake always gives a laugh when she chatters. The more slapstick the better. Those who like "comedies" don't care a snap about "art." Running time, 20 minutes.—R. D. Carter, Fairfax Theatre, Kilmarnock, Va. Town and country patronage.

JITTERS, THE BUTLER: Clark and McCullough —Good, but too much talk. Not as good as "Millionaire Cat." Running time, 20 minutes.—R. D. Carter, Fairfax Theatre, Kilmarnock, Va. Town and country patronage.

MICKEY'S APE MAN: Mickey McGuire, Billie—Not as good as some of the other McGuire's. Producers should cut out this "horror stuff." It is harmful to business. Many mothers do not like their children to see horror scenes. Running time, 18 minutes. —R. D. Carter, Fairfax Theatre, Kilmarnock, Va. Town and country patronage.

MICKEY'S CHARITY: Mickey McGuire—Better than the average kid comedy. Running time, 20 minutes.—L. G. Tewksbury, Opera House, Stonington, Me. Small town patronage.

PRIVATE WIVES: Funny. Two reels.—Bert Silver, Silver Family Theatre, Greenville, Mich. Town and country patronage.

Universal

HUNTING TROUBLE: Louise Fazenda—A very funny two-reel comedy by this oldtimer.—Bert Silver, Silver Family Theatre, Greenville, Mich. Town and country patronage.

OSWALD CARTOONS: Very good.—A. L. Lightner, Orpheum Theatre, Mellen, Wis. Small town patronage.

STRANGE AS IT SEEMS: A good cartoon.—A. L. Lightner, Orpheum Theatre, Mellen, Wis. Small town patronage.

Warner Vitaphone

C'EST PARIS: This musical in color is very pretty, but not up to their other musicals.—J. E. Tunstall, Nottawa Theatre, Blackstone, Va. General patronage.

C'EST PARIS: Color. Fine. Running time, 17 minutes.—G. A. Hart, Roxy Theatre, Stratford, Tex. Small town patronage.

HOW'S TRICKS: Jean Sargent, George Owen and gang—Great entertainment. Melody Masters series always good.—Gladys E. McArdle, Owl Theatre, Lebanon, Kan. Small town and country patronage.

PICKING A WOMAN: Broadway Brevity—One of the new color subjects. Any theatre which has failed to buy these Broadway Brevity subjects is missing a real opportunity. Absolutely the best short subject on the market this season. The color is beautiful, singing great, sound excellent, and filled with beautiful girls, who know what to do. Not a dull moment in this whole series. Rush right down to Warner and grab Broadway Brevities.—S. H. Rich, Rich Theatre, Montpelier, Idaho. Small city patronage.

SEA LEGS: Very good comedy including interesting music, singing and dancing. Running time, 20 minutes.—L. G. Tewksbury, Opera House, Stonington, Me. Small town patronage.

'THE MOST IMPORTANT CRAFTSMAN'

APPRECIATIVE OF GOOD PHOTOGRAPHY

Editor Motion Picture Herald:

It was a great joy to see your splendid article dedicated to the industry's most important craftsman, the photographer or cameraman. I am sure that all the men belonging to the fascinating profession are grateful and most thankful to you. I suppose it is only natural that my interest in the production of motion pictures should be in photography, being a "ham" myself. Looking over recent screen hits, who can overlook the outstanding camera work? I may mention Warner Bros.' "Forty-Second Street," photographed by Sol Polito, a veteran in panoramic work; Fox's "Cavalcade," photography in charge of Ernest Palmer, a veteran on the Fox lot and also photographer on some of their biggest money-makers. Indeed it is possible to go into great length in praising the work of the truly important men but to my mind it is the projectionist in the theatre who should extend his greatest thanks, for it certainly adds greatly to the quality of his work in presenting a perfectly photographed motion picture.—Lester Borst, Rivoli Theatre, Two Rivers, Wis.

NEW DEAL AND THE PROJECTIONIST

On the currently widely discussed problem of projectionist salary and the business situation, following are the views of Mr. Burt Carlisle, vice-president of the Independent Motion Picture Operators' Union, with national executive offices in Minneapolis. Mr. Carlisle captions his statement "'A New Deal' for the Exhibitor."

In keeping with President Roosevelt's program, the exhibitors throughout the country are planning a New Deal of their own. The closing of the Cleveland and Indianapolis theatres, the planning of similar movements in Chicago and many other major cities is synonymous of a forthcoming series of events to cover the entire nation, namely, a new and different economy program. An economy heretofore seemingly impossible.

One need not be an efficiency expert to realize the determined effort on the part of the exhibitor to take advantage of reducing salaries of managers, ushers, janitors, cashiers, etc., and greater yet an enormous reduction in film rentals, which has already threatened to bring about an inferior product.

Many of the major companies have decentralized, permitting some of the units to declare bankruptcy enabling each unit to deal independently of the major corporation, and by so doing have been able to obtain substantial reductions in building leases.

Now the age-old law of supply and demand has initiated itself into existence. The projectionist "must take his cut." Receiving a salary twice that of the manager of the theatre certainly is not and cannot be fair. Prior to these changes it had been impossible for any group of theatres to obtain the necessary number of competent projectionists to man their booths. This condition no longer exists. Through dissatisfaction with the governmental bodies of the Motion Picture Machine Operators' Union, a great number of members have withdrawn from the original group, having established a new competitive union of national recognition.

This new independent union covers all theatrical crafts, and through its fast expansion program is meeting the greatly needed demand for a more efficient and economical wage scale by union craftsmen, and is offering the necessary salary reductions that many theatres must obtain to reopen or to continue to remain open.

Thus, considering the many movements now in progress, the exhibitors are obtaining for themselves "a new deal," which in itself, if given six months' time, will completely revolutionize the theatrical industry.

SQUARE DEAL ADMISSIONS

To the Editor of the Herald:

I am convinced that to fix a minimum admission and fail to protect the second, third and subsequent runs will not help any one—except the circuits and producer-owned theatres. It would be possible for them to show the picture first-run at the minimum price, then force the second, third and subsequent runs to charge the same price—nothing but suicide. The new policy must be fair to all—big showman, little showman, and the public. A large percentage of the working class of people cannot afford to go to the first-run houses. These people deserve and demand the same consideration as the rich. A "square deal" should be the foundation for building up a new policy. Thus, the exhibitor and the producer, as well as the public, will profit.

The plan of having "specials" is not a new one, at least to me. Back in 1916 to '24 I used the same plan in my theatres. I set aside two days each week for my special days—playing only the kind of pictures on these days that I was sure would please my patrons and advancing my admission price 10 cents. My patrons knew that I had to pay more for the better pictures and I sold them the idea that they were worth more. The plan worked very successfully for me, and I am sure that it will work successfully again, provided the theatre manager uses his head and books only the kind of pictures that will please his patrons on these special days. Back in those days we did not have to play in order of release, thereby being able to select pictures for our special days. Furthermore, some pictures will click in one locality and flop in another. All these things should be taken into consideration. The producers should help the exhibitor get all the money he can out of his product, not force him to some fool rules made by some one who has never operated a theatre and cannot possibly understand the public as well as the manager himself.

Then again, the first-run theatres should be forced to charge a minimum on these "specials;" second-run should be forced to charge not less than 15 cents under first run; third and subsequent runs not less than 20 cents under first-run. If first-run admission was 50 cents, you see other admissions would be fair prices.

Price cutting, long protection, play in order of release (catch-as-catch-can), along with many other evils have put the moving picture industry on the rocks—and will keep it there. We can kid ourselves along, but we will go on down unless some sound minds get to work and change the course. First of all, protect the public—give them value received for their money—they have been taken advantage of long enough. Too much home office and not enough on-the-spot management has ruined us. Let some of the would-be experts listen to such men as Adolph Zukor, Sidney Kent, Carl Laemmle, H. B. Franklin, Samuel Goldwyn, William Fox, Jesse L. Lasky, and others.

I have been an exhibitor for 20 years. I have watched the industry grow from a flicker to a talkie and back to a flivver; saw the small fellow grow to be a big shot, then shoot a blank—too many blanks. Let's have some sure hits!—Geo. L. Denton, Booth Theatre, West Cumberland, Knoxville, Tenn.

ASKS CREATIONS BORN OF MEDIUM ITSELF

To the Editor of the Herald:

May I be among the first to congratulate you on your splendid editorial entitled "Exclusively of the Screen."

While, naturally, I would be expected to react enthusiastically to anything that praises Mickey Mouse, it is not that alone that excites my enthusiasm. I believe, with you, that possibilities are wide open in the field of "presenting events which never happened—save in the fancy of creative artists."

I predict that this thought, which you have so lucidly set forth, will have an effect on production beyond your own expectations.

Mickey paved the way in "shorts"; "King Kong," as you point out, effectively blazed a trail in features.

I think what the screen needs more than anything else are creations born of the medium itself and not borrowed from other sources, the use of which can only continue to result in hybrids.

Again, many congratulations! — Hal Horne, United Artists Corporation, New York City.

LOGICIAN AT THE STUDIO

To the Editor of the Herald.

Why not a logician? It is my belief that producers could improve pictures by engaging a man who knows nothing at all about writing plays, acting or production technic, but is experienced in sales and sales direction. To such a man, a script would be nothing more than a piece of merchandise and if any flaws appeared in the sales presentation his suggestions would be passed on to the continuity department and there incorporated into the plot. Actors, writers, directors, all of them temperamental, most of them impractical, need a pair of logical suspenders. Technicians galore—why not a logician?—E. Nicolay, St. Louis.

MANAGERS' ROUND TABLE CLUB

An international association of showmen meeting weekly in MOTION PICTURE HERALD for mutual aid and progress

A NEW ERA — — AND SHOWMANSHIP

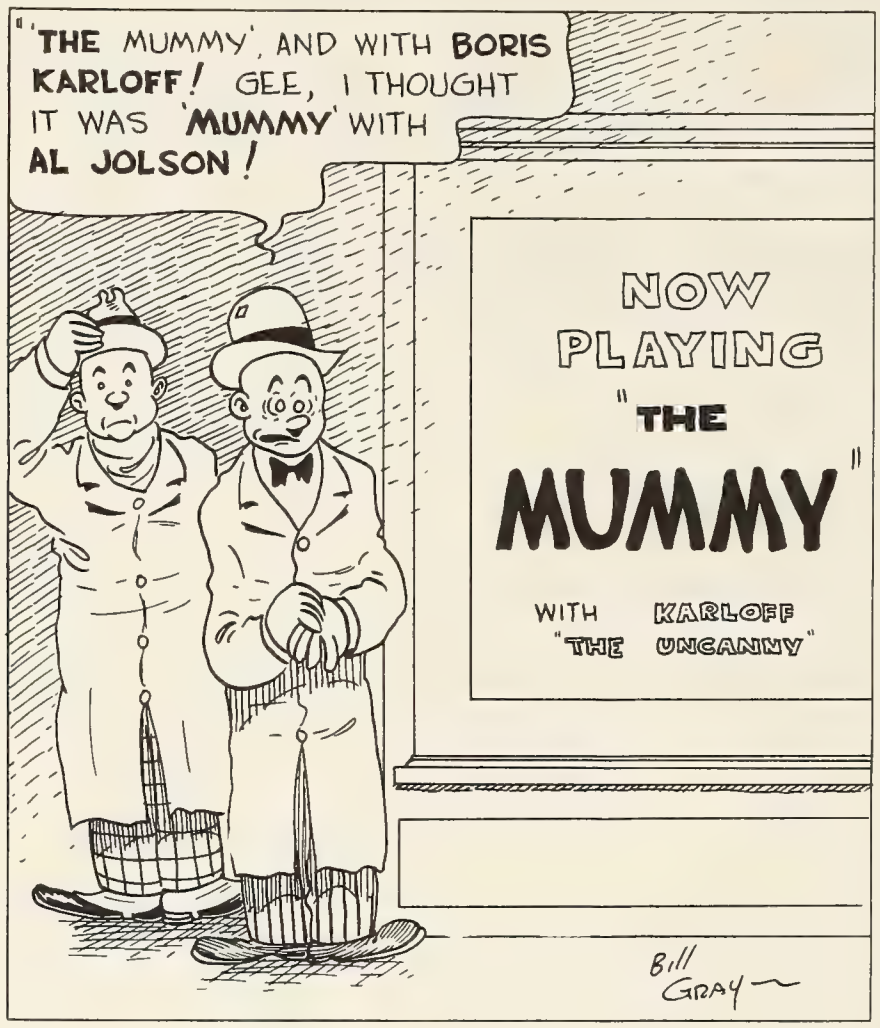
By MORRIS ROSENTHAL
Manager, Arcadia Theatre, Wilmington, Del.

Well fitted to speak of Showmanship and its importance is Morris Rosenthal, this week's contributor to the editorial columns of the Round Table Club pages. Long known as an active, enterprising showman, Mr. Rosenthal joined the ranks of the Round Tablers early in 1929, shortly after the Club's founding, and since has been an indefatigable contributor. To all members again is the invitation extended to make full use of these pages, editorially or otherwise. To the list of future editorial contributors this week are added: Harry Botwick, Rutland, Vt.; William Brown, Brooklyn, N. Y.; Milton Chamberlain, New York, N. Y.; Tom Edwards, Eldon, Mo.; Joseph Kinsky, Sioux City, Ia.; Milton Schosberg, Pittsfield, Mass.

IN times of economic stress, standards invariably decline in many industries. There comes a temporary period of artistic collapse. Picture producers in general have gone through a very trying period in an effort to keep the ship afloat. With banks withdrawing financial support and the necessity of meeting the weekly payroll at the studios to insure a constant supply of pictures to keep theatres open, it has been a very rough road. In addition, box office grosses have found new bottoms.

Yet in spite of all obstacles, they have managed to put out box office hits that have dragged in the quarters and half-dollars from a public reluctant to part with its money. Pictures such as "I Am a Fugitive," "Bill of Divorcement," "A Farewell to Arms," "The Animal Kingdom," "The Kid From Spain," "Cavalcade," "Rasputin," "State Fair" and "42nd Street" are pictures that even in palmy days would do credit to any studio.

It is true that we have also had a great many weak sisters, and here enters the man who helped make these pictures profitable, the Theatre Manager. He has worked and slaved and schemed 18 hours a day in an effort to draw in more money at the box office. And all this in spite of the many hardships he has undergone. Too much supervision in some cases, lack of appreciation and cooperation, salaries reduced so that in some cases the family man has a hard time of it to make ends meet. But out of this will come a new era. The manager able to take it at the present time and willing to deliver one hundred per cent cooperation to his employer will come through this period a stronger man, mentally and financially. There is no doubt that when the bosses are able to breathe easier the manager will receive his reward. The motion picture has accomplished miracles by being able to exist as it has and keep its feet on the ground. The least that the managers can do is to acknowledge the courage of their leaders in the present and be optimistic for the future. With pictures in the offing that will be big box office attractions the public will wake up.



What this industry is badly in need of at the present moment is a better understanding between the bosses and the men on the firing line. Closer cooperation and a mutual understanding of each others' problems will cement the two so that nothing can stop the upward trend of progress. What we need is a return to Showmanship. Warners displayed this with their "42nd Street" special and the national publicity it received. Metro is doing likewise with its studio train. And the theatres that are talked about in each city are the ones in which the manager is a showman. It is true that limited advertising budgets have kept down a good deal of activity, but this is no reason for any manager to quit trying and use it as an alibi. If the manager had to do the worrying with respect to raising the money to meet the budgets and other expenses, he might curtail his expenditures the same way.

The Managers' Round Table Club members can exert a tremendous amount of good will in this country by talking, living and breathing optimism. It is contagious once it gets going and with the right spirit will spread over the country like water released from a dam. I do not pretend to know the answer to what corner prosperity is hiding behind, but with all shoulders to the wheel it shouldn't be impossible to find it.

Now that we have back our showmen who created this industry and built it up to huge proportions, we can look to these leaders to give us quality pictures that we can sell at the box office as in the good old days. A new era is coming to this industry, or shall I say an old one is being revived and Showmanship will count once again. Showmanship to make the proper kind of pictures. Showmanship to sell them in the proper way to the public. With a united front and a common understanding between the leaders and the men of the rank and file, nothing can stop the forward march of progress.

SCREEN LAUGHS!

By BILL GRAY

Too bad the title of the picture isn't "The Mummies"; then Bill could have one of these birds stand on either side of the frame to complete the picture.

HOME OFFICE GANG MADE FINE TIE-UP WITH LARGE STORE

The exploitation department of United Artists Corporation, New York City, engineered a neat and effective piece of work in connection with the recent showings of "Secrets" at the Rivoli Theatre by tying in with the R. H. Macy Company for a combined window display of the gowns worn by Mary Pickford during production of the picture.

Two entire windows were broken through on the Broadway side at 34th Street to provide adequate space for the huge portrait, gowns, gowned figure and other articles shown in the accompanying photo. There was a card in the window (barely visible in still) which informed passers-by where the gowns came from, gave the title of picture, theatre and playdates.

This fine display was held for eight days

One of the chief executives of the Macy store is reported as having made the claim that this window was the most effective one the concern ever arranged. It was originally scheduled for three days and on the strength of the number of pedestrians it attracted the display was held over for eight days. It was tied-in with the big splurge the store was making at the time of its 75th Anniversary, which made it very timely. Several writers on leading newspapers devoted quite a bit of space to the stunt.

Monroe Greenthal, of the U. A. home office exploitation force, advises this department that there were eighteen dresses in the display and that it is his intention to break the lot up and route the gowns to as many cities as possible so that even the smaller towns may receive the benefit of this tie-up. Interested showmen should get in touch with the U. A. Exploitation Dept., 729 7th Avenue, New York City.

PAUL GLASE TOOK FANCY OF PATRONS WITH JIG-SAW GAG

Capitalizing on the present craze on the part of old and young for jig-saw puzzles, Paul E. Glase, manager of Wilmer & Vincent's State Theatre, Reading, Pa., not only tied up with a local craft shop operated by the unemployed, but created a jig-saw gag of his own that took the town by storm.

As for the puzzles turned out by the unemployed, he arranged to purchase several hundred sets, packed them in bags and awarded them to the first 250 girls and boys to attend a designated Saturday matinee. Announcement of this give-away in the daily papers packed the theatre, aided the unemployed and gave the kiddies an interesting souvenir.

His own puzzle stunt consisted of mounting a one-sheet on beaver board and cutting it into 150 to 200 regulation jig-saw pieces. He then secured an empty store in the vicinity of the theatres and announced that several 2-boy teams would enter the window at a given time and compete for a prize to be awarded the team completing the assembly in the fastest time. Guest tickets were given to the runners-up. Ages of the contestants run from 10 to 15 years and time for solving the puzzle varies from 8 to 16 minutes, according to intricacy of design.

The above stunt was started several weeks ago and ever since then teams have been battling in the window from 2 P. M. until 10 P. M., with crowds flocking around to watch them work. Reports have it that the crowds caught a regular "collegiate" spirit and rooted for the teams they picked to win. Police had to be called upon a number of times to clear the pavement.

At the bottom of the one sheets was imprinted "Coming to the State Theatre Soon" and various puzzles included advertising on Tom Mix, George O'Brien, Buck Jones, Tim McKoy and Ken Maynard. Each subject was plugged one week prior to opening. Stills, inserts and other advertising was placed around the window and on the walls to advertise the Embassy Theatres. Ages of the boy contestants run from 10 to 15 years and time for solving the puzzles varies from 8 minutes up to 16 minutes, according to intricacy of design.

Beyond all doubt the above has proven a great gag for drawing a crowd to a window and to all appearances the idea originated within the W & V ranks. In Reading it has attracted so much attention that the Five and Ten Cent stores have taken it up for exploitation of their own jig-saw puzzle sales by placing girls in the store windows to work out puzzles.

At any rate, thanks to Round Tabler Paul Glase for passing the idea along. He also has a radio-station and theatre hook-up stunt up his sleeve which he has promised to pass on to the rest of the gang, just as soon as he can find time to jot down details and send them in to Club headquarters. Until then, we'll sign off on this member and wish him continued success.

Capitulates to Movies!

For the first time in its history "Delineator," well known fashion mag, has devoted space to picture fashions as displayed by Kay Francis in her forthcoming release "Keyhole." Of course the press book won't miss this one, so the foregoing is just a reminder of a possible tie-up.

AD MAT SERVICE

COMPLETE NEWSPAPER CAMPAIGNS (10 Ads) on all nationally released feature pictures sent from one source.

Also

A MONTHLY GENERAL SERVICE of seasonal and attention-getting borders, ads, miscellaneous slugs, etc.

Centralized Service insures Economy.. and Efficiency. . . New low service charge to meet reduced budgets.

Write to

UNITED THEATRE ADVERTISERS, Inc.
330 WEST 42nd STREET, NEW YORK CITY

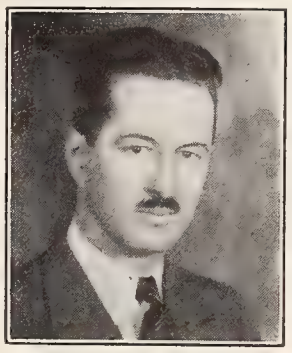
ACE SHOWMAN'S BAG O' TRICKS PROVES THERE IS A MOVIE SANTA!

Billing Plays Very Important Part in Successful Selling of Show, Declares Ace Showman Who Won with Many Campaigns

by BUNNY BRYAN

THE Belmont is one of Chicago's unusually large and costly neighborhood theatre. Located in the heart of a decidedly German and Hungarian section with a heavy sprinkling of Swedes, Norwegians and Silesian Polish thrown in to further cosmopolize things, selling seats to satisfied Belmont patrons is a very interesting problem. We have the majority of the deluxe theatre's operating problems plus neighborhood perplexities. We must always remain on our toes in order to meet the terrific nut required by such an of-necessity overhead. And, we must sell these seats at 20c and 30c weekdays and 25c and 35c Sundays with "Kids a Dime Anytime." The Belmont family includes every employee and every patron, as every Belmont patron is a member of our family, and every resident of our territory a candidate for adoption into our household.

"All Together"



Every member of our staff knows that, not only his job but his own happiness, peace of mind and personal welfare depends upon the success of HIS theatre. From the cashier's "Thank You" on through the usher's smile—not a forced, artificial, don't-mean-a-damn-thing smile, but the kind of smile they wear when receiving a friend into their own home, a smile that makes the patron settle into his seat and feel at home before he has had an opportunity to form an opinion on the show—up to the booth, where the men appreciate very keenly their load which makes it necessary for them to deliver in the best possible manner the merchandise that has attracted more paying members of our family into the house, you will find the will to do cooperatively that which is for the general good of our family, the family built around the Belmont.

Backstage, the electrician and deckhands are doing their best to set and light everything so those out in front will leave the house satisfied and in a mood to sell the Belmont to their friends. "How's the house?" is a very frequent remark backstage here.

This spirit of carrying-on for the common good is reflected on down into the engine room, through the cleaning staff into every department, not because of any inspirational bunk, but because we all realize that our present and future is tied up, to a great extent dependent upon the success of our family and its home, the Belmont. In fact, as I write these lines, our orchestra leader is coming into the office to discuss Sunday's vaudeville and show. He is interested. He wants the show to go over, not once, but again and again, if for no other reason than to make it possible for his orchestra to continue to have employment.

All of this may read like a preamble and that's exactly what it is, a building of the foundation for all our effort, as we firmly believe all booking, selling, maintenance and other departments are sadly handicapped if the house staff is not one hundred percent efficient.

The newsy, intimate story about ticket-selling and theatre operation from a manager right on the firing line is always a welcome addition to our Club pages. In this case we are more than glad to welcome back to the "preferred" contributors, Bunny Bryan, manager of the Belmont Theatre in Chicago,—a B. & K. de luxe, neighborhood operation,—former director of advertising and publicity for the entire Publix-New Jersey Division, and a showman with practical experience to back up everything he discusses.

BUNNY BRYAN

Articles of this type are all too rare in the Club section. Not that we do not use them often enough, but, because they are difficult to secure. They differ in this respect from the usual type of Club story; recounting actual experiences rather than suggesting the different things you may be able to do. Let's have more articles direct from the men on the fiiring line who have had the opportunity of trying out the suggestive type of articles we are always offering. In this way we will get to know how useful are the many valuable contributions from men like Bunny Bryan and others who have so willingly contributed to our section.

Pulling 'Em In

Columns might be written about the necessity of careful, intelligent booking, as after all that is the very source of our merchandise—unless we want to go back to the studio, and we are discussing theatre operating. The Managers' Round Table Club has requested us to dwell upon "Selling Tickets at the Belmont" and so we'll go into the dance.

Newspaper advertising and publicity is the backbone of all theatre merchandising effort BUT no outlying house can afford to spend enough in the metropolitan sheets to warrant any real ticket selling ads or publicity. We must be satisfied with small announcement ads, ads that are informative but of necessity lacking in sock.

This narrows the ticket selling efforts down to the local or neighborhood newspaper, billing, exploitation, the house front, lobby and screen, all media requiring constant study and application, as novelty and change, we believe to be one of the real arteries of show business.

Our Belmont family has access to one of the livest, most newsy neighborhood papers in the Middle West. It numbers among regular advertisers several of Chicag largest department stores. Its circulation is unquestioned; its pulling power admitted. We use single column space, as we believe we are able to put more informative sales copy into a single column layout; however, at times, when our attractions, changes in policy or institutionalizing warrants, we change to double column layouts. We are never hungry for free space, and so we usually obtain satisfactory publicity breaks. We know every member of the staff personally and make it our business to keep them acquainted with, sold on what's going on at the Belmont.

Radio Shows Prove to Be Asset to Showmen; Have You Tried Putting on Artists; Tie Up Stage with Station?

Billing and Exploitation

Billing should play a very important part in any complete campaign; however, because of our very low admission prices, we must carefully analyze every cent of outlay, and mainly for that reason, we are not regular users of outdoor paper. We use two sheets, ones, window cards and occasionally 24s for added attractions or policy changes. We endeavor to eliminate hit and miss by discussing all territory to be billed with the biller prior to billing and then following through and checking after the paper is out. We change color combinations fro time to time in accordance with the tractions, seasons or opposition. Weat street and sidewalk conditions are al taken into consideration when thinkin billing. Billing properly done is usu good investment. Billing done in hazard, pass-the-buck-to-the-biller is just so much money thrown awa

Exploitation is such a broad a prehensive term we could not possi it in any one article and so here exploitation stunts we have us Belmont.

No-Cost Activity!

One of our last double feat cluded "Bird of Paradise," Walker Fight Pictures and La dy in "Scram." Two ushe tumed as Laurel and Hard larity to the famous comic attention. They strolled shopping section Saturd day. This section is itself, shoppers comin every shopper being Belmont family. A they started argume in a phoney fight. them and the tall a scroll reading "S Hardy plus Bird ing-Walker fight TOMORROW." trons and neighb in detail about se stunt, and its cost date. His band is said to be one of the hottest colored bands in the section. Our colored porter, a valuable member of our family, stepped to the front and dug up a colored quartette, who accompanied by a ukelele gave the neighborhood shoppers a treat on Saturday prior to opening. In addition to wearing banners on their backs they improvised songs about Half Pint and the Belmont. Inexpensive and it clicked.

HOW'S YOUR FAMILY?

(Continued from preceding page)

A recent serial opening campaign was tied in with a congressional candidate's parade. The bugle and drum corps used are all Belmont family members. The majority of the banners contained theatre or attraction copy and we tied up traffic as effectively as any circus parade.

Radio Stage Shows!

WLS radio station features its "Barn Dance." We bought several of their acts for a Sunday on stage appearance. Whipped them into a unit and then sold them as follows: Miniature barn built in center of grand stairway. An elderly man was dressed as a farmer and used to quietly sell the coming attraction to patrons. Nine foot easels flanked the stairway. These easels contained circus copy, thereby lending size and strength to the show. All ushers and the porter were dressel in overalls, rube hats and banners placed on their backs. Imagine the contrast from the smart looking Band K uniform. Entire front lobby was trimmed with fireproof cornstalks and leaves obtained by the assistant manager the country. Pumpkins were spotted ınd the lobby. An A-Board was placed he sidewalk in front SIX DAYS IN ANCE so as to take advantage of the trolley, automobile and pedestrian Billing and a sound truck covered ray from the theatre zone. Inci-
Ed. O'Donnell, manager of the went us one better, when he played Dance by putting a bannered team on the street.
ıtire neighborhood was talking coming show and we were oldouts less than two hours after ɔpened.

'Fu Manchu"

of Fu Manchu" was very ıg it needed extra added ad-
rt. It was alive with sales ıl for some houses, if prop-re is a part of our cam-ɔats were borrowed from nent. Chinese hats with e obtained at practically department store. The hief and doorman, were ith "Coming Sunday" of patron comment,
ıts were up during ved from a neigh-vas placed on an ıt the centre foot

4 inches by nine
" with Fu Man-

pot burned during the show in front of the idol. An exchange six sheet was mounted on beaver board and adapted by painting a three-inch border all around. Nine-foot easels were used on each side of the grand stairway. Promoted Chinese lanterns, parasols and other atmospheric items were used in decorating the front lobby. Practically this entire display was moved out in front around box office, etc., during play dates. And, so as to put this form of selling to as severe a test as possible, no additional effort was made away from the theatre. Results—a gross almost up to "Prosperity."

Miscellaneous Efforts

Our screen and other stereotyped advertising differ very little from the usual run-of-mine, so why use space talking about them? We do know that time spent contacting local merchants has yielded a genuine return. They are friendly; ready to cooperate with tie-ups and "Have You Seen the Show at the Belmont?" educated. They are Belmont boosters. Our kiddies' parties have proven worthwhile. Last Saturday we handled 5,100 kids at a special morning Kids' show. Six firemen and six police were necessary to handle this mob. And there were no disorders, everything moving along per schedule. We believe that by taking care of the kids of today we are not only contacting the best little in-the-home advertisers of the present, but also building patrons for the future.

Showman's Calendar

MAY

9th	Commander Byrd at North Pole—1926 Richard Barthelmess' Birthday
10th	Confederate Memorial Day
11th	Minnesota Admitted to Union —1858
12th	Florence Nightingale (Founder Modern Nursing) Born—1820 Admundsen North Pole Flight —1926
13th	Jamestown, Va., Settled—1607
14th to 20th	Girls' Week Billie Dove's Birthday Mother's Day
15th to 20th	National Cotton Week (Sponsored by Cotton Textile Institute) Mississippi Flood Bill Signed—1928
16th	Abe Lincoln Nominated—1860
17th	Maureen O'Sullivan's Birthday
18th	Peace Day Napoleon Proclaimed Emperor —1804

JAMES TOTMAN PUT OVER GOOD CAMPAIGN ON "SILVER DOLLAR"

Many extra dollars rolled into the Warner Theatre at Erie, Pa., when Manager James M. Totman got behind his "Silver Dollar" campaign and gave it every effort he had.

Following a suggestion from the merchandising plan Totman arranged with one newspaper to run the "Silver Dollar" serial story for seven days. He also had a tie-up with another paper for a daily color feature that gave rafts of publicity to the theatre and picture.

A splendid tie-up was effected with a bakery to put out 7,500 kitchen hangers and 10,000 bread inserts in the baked goods which is sent out by this bakery every week. This tie-up cost the theatre absolutely nothing except a few passes. A fine window display was obtained with a big drug company on the Main Street which caused considerable comment. Other valuable window displays were gotten with the three leading hotels and with a leading book shop.

One of the biggest and best tie-ups was with the local radio station for organ broadcasts on Monday, Wednesday and Friday in addition to the Kiddie Club broadcast on Saturday morning. The broadcast offered a great opportunity to plug the theatre and picture.

Congratulations to Totman for his effective campaign and we'll be looking for other accounts of his work, which, judging from efforts made in behalf of "Silver Dollar," will be well worth passing on to his brother showmen.

WOODWARD AND BEN BLACKMON TIED-UP WITH LOCAL ICEMAN

For a stunt on "What, No Beer?" Manager Woodward and Publicity Director Ben Blackmon, of the Victory Theatre, Tampa, Fla., made a hook-up with a local ice concern for the freezing of beer bottles inside the cakes and obtained permission from city authorities to place them on the corners of principal streets of the city.

Another stunt that helped sell the picture was a parade of 300 newsboys to the theatre on opening night, all carrying banners with appropriate copy on picture. Routine advertising, etc., was, of course, also carried out.

We are glad to list both Woodward and Blackmon as new members of the Round Table Club and hope this department will receive from them many other interesting tips on the business of selling shows. Meanwhile, good luck to both.

Simplicity Helped!

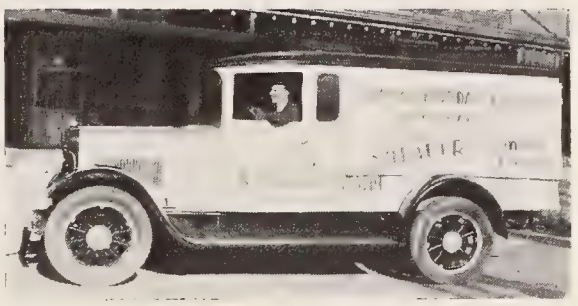
When advertising "Life Begins" in local newspapers, D. K. Edwards, manager of the State Theatre, Salt Lake City, followed out the suggestion of using the simplest kind of copy. All his ad consisted of was a silhouette head mat, title and names in very small but legible type. There was plenty of white space all around. Since the brightness of the ad was in direct contrast to the rest of the heavy theatre ads in the section, it stood out and occasioned comment from a number of exhibitors and newspapermen.

QUICK SERVICE IDEAS THAT WORKED

JAKE ROSENTHAL, manager of the Iowa Theatre, Waterloo, is in entire accord with President Roosevelt's policy that the best way to bring back good times is to keep happy. So Jake said as much in the top of a recent newspaper ad and followed up in italics with "Keep Rosy with Rosenthal." . . .

CARL B. SHERRED, in charge of the Paramount and Strand Theatres, Cumberland, Md., is smiling these days as the result of a bill permitting all movie houses in Allegany County to open Sundays. The bill awaits the Governor's signature at this writing. . . .

S. G. KARLAS, manager, and Robert Collier, publicity director, of the Fox-Criterion Theatre, Los Angeles, obtained excellent results in their campaign on "Once in a Lifetime" by stressing "the picture Universal dared to make" angle. "Can Hollywood Take It?" and a lot of other catchlines of the same order were featured in newspaper ads, cards, front and lobby. . . .



S. D. WEINBERG, publicity director for Great Lakes Theatres, Inc., Uniontown, Pa., is turning out some mighty attractive newspaper ads these days. And what a co-op he promoted on the occasion of the West End's first birthday! Just as soon as we resume our ad page we'll include some of his work. . . .

SAM SOSNA is managing the Varsity Theatre at Manhattan, Kan. During the national bank holiday he collected a neat batch of promissory notes, because he advertised he would accept checks or I.O.U.'s, and accepted them with a cheery smile. He is not sorry he did, now. Folks appreciated it, and he made many friends for the theatre, too. . . .

BILL CADORET, of the Capitol Theatre, Rochester, N. Y., found "42nd Street" a veritable gold mine as the result of a well planned and executed advance advertising and publicity campaign. Tie-ups were made with book stores, music dealers, radio station, street cars and haberdasheries, the latter for "Dick Powell shirts." Bill stole reams of free newspaper space on photos and stories. . . .

CHARLIE ROSE, in charge of the Colonia, Norwich, N. Y., Bill Smalley's shiny new house up-state, worked in with the Legion for the promotion of a fine double truck co-op on "Big Drive." A big streamer head carried the Legion's endorsement. Newspaper supported with photos and generous readers. . . .

YOUNG'S CALLIOPE!

Above is a photo of the advertising car used by John C. Young, manager of the Fox-Mainstreet Theatre, Lexington, Mo. It goes out on an average of once each week, or whenever some special publicity is needed. The tacked-on sides are easily changed.

E. R. TOERPE, manager of the Orpheum Theatre, Galesburg, Ill., among other selling efforts in connection with "What, No Beer?" planted a jig-saw puzzle in a newspaper of Keaton and Durante drinking a glass of beer. Readers contested for single guest tickets. On the opening day he had his colored porter parade streets with the sign: "For a Good Thirst and Hearty Laugh Follow Me—Free Beer." The Elks Club loaned him a collection of steins for window display. . . .

HARRY W. RICE, manager of the Paramount, Monroe, La., took the jig-saw reader idea from the press sheet of "42nd Street" and made it over into a producer of two corking co-op pages. Says it works much better this way, as each merchant gets a break on account of having to turn to every ad in order to pick up "leg parts." Regular reader and three others were used in boxes to excite. Good publicity and not hard to sell, says Harry. . . .

H. A. LARSON, manager of the Majestic Theatre, Oakland, Neb., literally shocked his patrons into patronizing "So This Is Africa." On a yellow herald he told 'em it was the most risque film ever played in his theatre; that it was not good for children and to keep the kids at home. A box at the bottom urged patrons to write their Congressman to pass bills "S-3770" and "HR-170" after viewing the picture so he would not be forced to show such films in the future. And did they turn out for this picture! . . .

LOU LAZAR and Phil Smakwitz, Warner theatre men in Albany, N. Y., invaded the State Capitol and bearded the State Prison Commission right in its den so that members might see a special screening of "20,000 Years in Sing Sing." Local newspapers published photos and stories of the affair. . . .

SOL DOLGIN, exploiteer, arranged for the renaming of Hollywood Boulevard to "42nd Street" when the picture by that name played the Hollywood, Los Angeles. The signs remained in effect during the entire engagement. The same stunt might be tried in your town. . . .

LOU LAZAR, Warner zone manager in Upstate New York, kept 2,300 Albanians wide awake until 3 A.M. as the result of a midnight showing held for "42nd Street" at the Strand. The stunt helped make the film one of the biggest money-makers in the history of the house. . . .

STAN SHUFORD, advertising manager of Warner Bros., N. Y. C., calls attention to a new slant on the "not recommended for children" gag on page eight of "Ex-Lady" press sheet, wherein a box states: "If you feel like 60 you better not see this picture of today's youth." . . .

MANAGER J. H. BRENNAN and publicity man, Joe De Pisa of Loew's State Theatre, Boston, Mass., established a precedent in the history of Bean Town theatredom by securing permission from Christian Science Monitor officials to string a banner from their new publishing house, across Massachusetts Avenue. This, and many other showman angles sold "Rasputin." . . .

JOHN P. VOGT, manager of Rialto Theatre, Gladstone, Mich., effected a good tie-up on "If I Had a Million," by borrowing a car from a local agency, using it to distribute 500 pay envelopes, each containing a new penny, and carrying copy: "The Enclosed Good Luck Token and $999,-999.99 Will Give You Your First Million." (Then followed sales copy on the play date.) . . .

C. C. STANFIELD, managing the Rex Theatre, Elk City, Okla., utilized a clothing store dummy, wrapped in rags, and coated with orange shellac, to sell "The Mummy." A local undertaker loaned a coffin for the display, which was put out front of the theatre, attracting considerable comment.

J. C. STROCK, manager, Granada Theatre, Minneapolis, Minn., is a staunch advocate of community association, evidenced by his recent election as President of the Uptown Business Men's Association, and the many stories his theatre receives in the local paper. . . .

EDMUND M. BURKE, of Fort Plain, N. Y., keeps us posted on the Sunday movies situation around Gloversville, N. Y., and, in the belief fellow showmen will find it interesting, we are passing along the news, that the town won. Congratulations. . . .

GROWING LARGER EVERY WEEK!

H. A. WINKLER
is another one of the men out in the Publix-Northwest Division to become a member of this outfit and we're glad to record that his application is at hand. Winkler is in charge of the Nokomis Theatre in Minneapolis, Minn., and operates on straight picture policy. We will be glad to hear what he's doing for the good old cause of show-business and if he'll just shoot along a few lines now and then, we'll see that word is passed along the line. Come through, Winkler, for the rest of the gang will be wanting to hear from you.

▽

FRANK SABIN
is located out in Eureka, Minn., where he operates the Majestic Theatre and we're also acknowledging his application for membership in the Round Table Club. The Majestic is an independently operated house, and since Frank doesn't list himself as manager on his application card, we'll assume he is the owner-operator and let it go at that. At any rate, we're welcoming him to this big army of showmen and hope he, too, will put his shoulder to the wheel and help the good work along.

▽

MARTIN GOLDENBERG
needs no recommendation to the Club. He manages the Colonial Theatre in Philadelphia, Pa., and believe us he is doing some great work. A recent stunt was that of putting "Goona-Goona" across, and he did it in spite of the censors. Another gag, on a Cantor film, was that of posting placards on all the trolley poles. Martin wants us to give plenty of credit to his assistant, Johnny Wilson, who helps on all the campaigns. Right, Martin. Keep it up.

▽

GEORGE FOX
handles the Northeastern Theatre in Philadelphia, Pa., and with so much keen competition going on, he finds that he has to step high, wide and handsome, to keep the old cash registers banging away that success story so much desired by good showmen.

▽

MILTON BRENNER
is the manager of the Hawthorne Theatre, Newark, New Jersey. It is a ten hundred and fifty seat house and since Newark, too, is an exploitation conscious town, we have an idea that Milton does some live-wire work.

▽

MRS. S. L. BYERLY
is partner and manager of the Rainbow Theatre in Mechanicsburg, Ohio, and you can take it from us that she and Mr. Byerly do some plain and fancy show selling, and one of their recent efforts—that of selling the house to the merchants for a day and giving free tickets—helped them balance the budget. We are glad to welcome you into the Club, Mrs. Byerly, and we want to hear more about your work.

▽

JOE MILLMAN
is the latest of the Canadian showmen to join our ranks. Joe hails from Vancouver, B. C., and handles the Grandview Theatre there. Welcome, Joe, and let's hear from you.

▽

MARTY INGRAM
manages the Millburn Theatre in Millburn, N. J., and since he is located in a town that enables him, no doubt, to cover all the public's fancies, we have an idea or so that he is cracking some good showmanship. Are we right, Marty?

▽

E. L. LEFFLER
manages the Rialto Theatre, York, Pa., and is one of the more recent of that town's enterprising show sellers to enroll in the Round Table Club. Glad to have you "E. L." and we want to hear from you real soon.

H. E. KELLY
is the manager of the Grand Theatre in Minneapolis, Minn. The latest from his city to join our crowd, we want to welcome "H. E." in, and we look forward to listing him an active member.

▽

CHARLES WINCHELL
is the Division Advertising Manager for the Publix Northwest Division in Minneapolis, Minn., and from what we have already heard about Mr. Winchell, he is to be classed as a "regular fellow." That is all we want to know, right now, Charley, because we expect to hear a lot about your work real soon.

▽

CHARLES V. MARTIN
manages the Playhouse Theatre in Clyde, N. Y., and while it has never been our pleasure in travelling over the country to see his town, we have no doubt but that it is a spot where some great work can be done. Why not give us the lowdown, Charley?

▽

E. P. KANGA, ESQUIRE
is the managing director of the Regal Theatre, Mall, Lahore, India, and is the latest of the foreign showmen to join our international organization. We extend him a hearty welcome and eagerly await news of his show selling methods. Welcome, Mr. Kanga.

▽

RAY O. DUNN
assistant manager of the Jeffery Theatre, Chicago, Ill., enjoys the sponsorship of Showman Irving Lipnick, manager of the house. And when Irving recommends you, Ray, that is all we want right now. Keep us posted, however, on what you are doing to help Mr. Lipnick sell his attractions.

▽

HERMAN COMER
who handles the Grant Theatre in Philadelphia, Pa., in the capacity of manager, enters his application for membership in the Club, thus swelling our Philly enrollment to even greater proportions. Well, Herman, we want to hear from you often. How about it?

APPLICATION FOR MEMBERSHIP

MANAGERS' ROUND TABLE CLUB

Please enroll me in the Club and send me my framed certificate.

NAME _____

POSITION _____

THEATRE _____

ADDRESS _____

CITY _____ STATE _____

DATE OF BIRTH _____

(Mail to Managers' Round Table Club, 1790 Broadway, New York)

WILLIAM J. REILLY
joins the Club and, hailing from Philadelphia, Pa., helps us towards that coveted 100 per cent Round Table goal we have set for the City of Brotherly Love. Reilly handles the Market Street Theatre for Warner Brothers and we'd like to hear from him regarding his work. What do you say, Bill?

▽

O. BEER
manages the Circuit of Messrs. Meardi Hermanos in San Salvador, El Salvador, Central America, and we want to welcome him into the ranks of this showman organization because we know that his work is going to prove very interesting to his fellow showman and they in turn will pass along their efforts. Welcome, Mr. Beer.

▽

JOHN J. BIELMAN
is the manager of the Columbia Theatre in Philadelphia, Pa. A Philly showman, we can hope to see lots of Mr. Bielman's efforts on the Club pages, as it has long been tradition in the Quaker City that showmen vie with one another on their excellent campaigns. Keep up the good work, John.

▽

ALEX. H. WEINBERG
manages the Ambler Theatre in Ambler, Pa., and does his show campaigning for Warner Brothers. Mr. Weinberg, we understand, is well versed in showmanship, and it is for that reason we hope to hear from him real soon with a letter containing an account of his recent work. Oke, Alex?

▽

JACOB MINSKY
who manages the Auditorium Theatre in Philadelphia, Pa., helps us to boost our Philly quota yet another membership with his application. It is perhaps not necessary for us to say that Mr. Minsky is active night and day putting over the attractions playing his house. You all know the corking brand of showmanship shown in the city. Let's go, Jacob.

▽

MARTIN J. MAHER
assistant manager of the Ritz, Jersey City, comes well recommended by George Allison, and from what we hear of his work he is stepping right along to a new deal in show business. Keep up the good work, Martin, and we'll probably be announcing your appointment as a manager in the very near future if we're not much mistaken.

▽

JACK MURRAY
is not a manager, but division advertising artist for North Western Division of Publix in Minneapolis, Minn., and we extend him a hearty welcome to the Club and express the hope that he will soon furnish us with some of his artistic efforts in order that we can pass them along.

▽

KENNETH FOSTER
gets off to a flying start as a Club member. He is assistant manager and projectionist of the Rialto Theatre, Gladstone, Mich., and is sponsored by none other than our very active member, John Vogt, manager of the house. Let's go, Ken.

▽

JIM MALONE
manager of the Garden Theatre in Paterson, N. J., is located in a city which we have been given to understand contains some corking showmen. If this be true, Jim—and we believe it so—let's have an early account of your activities so that we can pass them along. Right?

▽

E. L. DILLEY
is the manager of the Grand Theatre, Northfield, Minn., and out there in the great Northwest showmanship has been hitting the high spots. That's why we want to hear from you, "E. L.," so that we can let the rest of the Club see what you are doing out yonder.

THE RELEASE CHART

Productions are listed according to the names of distributors in order that the exhibitor may have a short-cut towards such information as he may need, as well as information on pictures that are coming. Features which are finshed or are in work, but to which release dates have not been assigned, are listed in "Coming Attractions." Running times are those supplied by the distributors. Where they vary, the change is probably due to local censorship deletions. Dates are 1932, unless otherwise specified.

ALLIED PICTURES

Features

Title	Star	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
Cowboy Counsellor	Hoot Gibson-Sheila Manners	Oct. 15	63	Oct. 8
Dude Bandit, The	Hoot Gibson-Gloria Shea	May 1,'33	67
Eleventh Commandment	Marian Marsh-Theo. Von Eltz	Mar. 15,'33	64	Mar. 18,'33
Intruder, The	Monte Blue-Lila Lee	Dec. 26	69	Jan. 14,'33
Iron Master, The	Lila Lee-Reginald Denny	Nov. 1	69	Dec. 10
Officer 13	Monte Blue-Lila Lee	Nov. 26	67	Dec. 3
Parisian Romance, A	Lew Cody-Marian Shilling	Oct. 1	77	Sept. 17
Shriek in the Night, A	Ginger Rogers-Lyle Talbot	Apr. 15,'33	70	Mar. 25,'33

Coming Feature Attractions

Anna Karenina
Beyond the Law
Boots of Destiny	Hoot Gibson
Cheaters
Davy Jones' Locker
Fighting Parson, The	Hoot Gibson-Marceline Day
Midnight Alarm
Nesters, The	Monte Blue
Open for Inspection
Pullman Car
Red Kisses
Scarlet Virgin, The Silk Trimmed
Slightly Used
Sphinx, The	Lionel Atwill-Sheila Terry
Three Castles
Valley of Adventure, The	Monte Blue
Without Children

CHESTERFIELD

Features

Title	Star	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
Forgotten	June Clyde-Lee Kohlmar	Feb. 15,'33	65
King Murder, The	Conway Tearle	Sept. 15	64
Love Is Like That	Rochelle Hudson-John Warburton	Mar. 15,'33	65
Secrets of Wu Sin	Lois Wilson-Grant Withers	Dec. 15	65
Slightly Married	Evalyn Knapp-Walter Byron	Oct. 15	65	Dec. 3
Strange People	Hale Hamilton-Gloria Shea-John Darrow	Jan. 15,'33	65
Women Won't Tell	Sarah Padden-Gloria Shea	Nov. 15	67

COLUMBIA

Features

Title	Star	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
Air Hostess	Evalyn Knapp-James Murray-Thelma Todd	Jan. 15,'33	67	Jan. 28,'33
As the Devil Commands	Alan Dinehart-Neil Hamilton-Mae Clarke	Dec. 24
Below the Sea	Ralph Bellamy-Fay Wray	Apr. 25,'33
Bitter Tea of General Yen	B. Stanwyck-Nils Asther	Jan. 6,'33	89	Nov. 26
California Trail, The	Buck Jones-Helen Mack	Mar. 24,'33
Child of Manhattan	John Boles-Nancy Carroll	Feb. 4,'33	71	Jan. 21,'33
Circus Queen Murder, The	Adolphe Menjou-Greta Nissen-Donald Cook	Apr. 10,'33
Deception	Leo Carrillo-Barbara Weeks-Nat Pendleton	Nov. 4	67	Jan. 14,'33
End of the Trail, The	Tim McCoy-Luana Walters	Dec. 19	59½
Fighting for Justice	Tim McCoy-Joyce Compton	Dec. 28	60½
Forbidden Trail	Buck Jones-Barbara Weeks	Nov. 18	71
Man Against Woman	Jack Holt-Lillian Miles	Nov. 15	68	Dec. 10
Man of Action	Tim McCoy-Caryl Lincoln	Jan. 20,'33	57
Mussolini Speaks		Mar. 10,'33	76	Mar. 18,'33
Night of Terror	Bela Lugosi-Sally Blane	Apr. 24,'33
No More Orchids	Carole Lombard-Lyle Talbot
Obey the Law	Leo Carrillo-Lois Wilson-Dickie Moore	Jan. 20,'33	69	Mar. 18,'33
Parole Girl	Mae Clarke-Ralph Bellamy	Mar. 4,'33	67	Apr. 15,'33
Silent Man	Tim McCoy-Florence Britton	Mar. 3,'33	68
So This is Africa	Bert Wheeler-Robt. Woolsey-Raquel Torres	Feb. 24,'33	70	Jan. 28,'33
Soldiers of the Storm	Regis Toomey-Anita Page	Apr. 4,'33
Speed Demon	Wm. Collier, Jr.-Joan Marsh	Nov. 5	65	Nov. 26
State Trooper	Regis Toomey-Evalyn Knapp	Feb. 10,'33	68	Apr. 1,'33
Sundown Rider, The	Buck Jones-Barbara Weeks	Dec. 30	69
Unknown Valley	Buck Jones-Cecilia Parker	May 5,'33
Treason	Buck Jones-Shirley Grey	Feb. 10,'33	61½
Virtue	Carole Lombard-Pat O'Brien	Oct. 25	69	Nov. 5
When Strangers Marry	Jack Holt-Lilian Bond	Mar. 20,'33	68
Whirlwind, The	Tim McCoy-Alice Dahl	Apr. 14,'33
Woman I Stole, The	Jack Holt-Raquel Torres-Fay Wray	May 1,'33

Coming Feature Attractions

Ann Carver's Profession	Fay Wray-Gene Raymond
Biddy	Richard Cromwell
Cocktail Hour	Bebe Daniels-Sidney Blackmer-Randolph Scott
Fighting Code, The	Buck Jones-Diane Sinclair
Fighting Ranger, The	Buck Jones-Dorothy Revier
Full Speed Ahead	Chic Sale-Diane Sinclair
Kaleidoscope in K
King of the Wild Horses	Wm. Janney-Dorothy Appleby
Madame La Guimp	Warren William-Guy Kibbee
Man's Castle
Open Road, The	Buck Jones-Cecilia Parker
Party's Over, The
Rusty Rides Alone	Tim McCoy-Barbara Weeks
Thrill Hunter, The	Buck Jones-Dorothy Revier
Twentieth Century
Wrecker, The	Jack Holt

EQUITABLE PICTURES

[Distributed through Majestic]

Features

Title	Star	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
Cheating Blondes	Thelma Todd-Rolfe Harolde	Apr. 1,'33	66
Gigolettes of Paris	Madge Bellamy-Gilbert Roland	Mar. 15,'33	65
What Price Decency?	Dorothy Burgess-Alan Hale-Walter Byron	Mar. 1,'33	60	Mar. 11,'33

FIRST DIVISION

Features

Title	Star	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
Big Drive, The		Jan. 19,'33	91	Jan. 28,'33
Condemned to Death	Arthur Wontner	Oct. 10	78½	July 23
Goona Goona		Nov. 28	66	Aug. 27
Ringer, The	Franklyn Dyall	Oct. 30	60	June 11

FIRST NATIONAL

Features

Title	Star	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
Blondie Johnson	Joan Blondell-Chester Morris	Feb. 25,'33	69	Feb. 4,'33
Central Airport	Richard Barthelmess	Apr. 15,'33	75	Apr. 1,'33
Central Park	Joan Blondell	Dec. 10	55	Nov. 19
Elmer the Great	Joe E. Brown	Apr. 22,'33	74	Apr. 1,'33
Employees Entrance	W. William-Loretta Young	Feb. 11,'33	75	Dec. 24
Frisco Jenny	Ruth Chatterton	Jan. 14,'33	76	Dec. 17
Grand Slam	Paul Lukas-Loretta Young	Mar. 18,'33	65	Jan. 14,'33
Match King, The	Warren William-Lili Damita	Dec. 31	79	Dec. 17
Mind Reader, The	Warren William	Apr. 1,'33	68	Feb. 25,'33
Silver Dollar	Edward G. Robinson	Dec. 24	78	Nov. 5
They Call It Sin	Loretta Young-Geo. Brent	Nov. 5	74	Sept. 3
20,000 Years in Sing Sing	Bette Davis-Spencer Tracy	Feb. 1,'33	81	Nov. 5
You Said a Mouthful	Joe E. Brown	Nov. 26	72	Nov. 19

Coming Feature Attractions

Breadline	Richard Barthelmess-Loretta Young
Captured!	Leslie Howard-Doug. Fairbanks, Jr.-Paul Lukas
Goodbye Again	W. William-Joan Blondell
Lilly Turner	Ruth Chatterton-Geo. Brent
Little Giant, The	Edward G. Robinson
She Had to Say Yes	Loretta Young-Lyle Talbot

FOX FILMS

Features

Title	Star	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
After the Ball	Esther Ralston-Basil Rathbone	Mar. 17,'33	69	Mar. 25,'33
Bondage	Dorothy Jordan-Alex. Kirkland	Mar. 31,'33	65	Apr. 15,'33
Broadway Bad	Joan Blondell-Ginger Rogers-Ricardo Cortez	Feb. 24,'33	59	Mar. 11,'33
Call Her Savage	Bow-Owsley-Todd-Roland	Nov. 27	88	Dec. 3
Cavalcade	Clive Brook-Diana Wynyard	Apr. 15,'33	110	Jan. 14,'33
Dangerously Yours	Miriam Jordan-Warner Baxter	Feb. 3,'33	73	Feb. 4,'33
Face in the Sky	Spencer Tracy-Marian Nixon-Stuart Erwin	Jan. 22,'33	77	Feb. 4,'33
Golden West, The	Geo. O'Brien-Janet Chandler-Marion Burns	Oct. 30	74	Oct. 15
Handle with Care	James Dunn-Boots Mallory	Dec. 25	75	Dec. 24
Hello, Sister	James Dunn-Boots Mallory	Apr. 14,'33
Hot Pepper	Victor McLaglen-Edmund Lowe-Lupe Velez-El Brendel	Jan. 22,'33	76	Jan. 28,'33
Humanity	Boots Mallory-A. Kirkland	Mar. 3,'33	70
Infernal Machine	Genevieve Tobin-Chester Morris	Feb. 10,'33	65	Apr. 15,'33
Me and My Gal	Joan Bennett-Spencer Tracy	Dec. 4	78	Dec. 17
Pleasure Cruise	Genevieve Tobin-Roland Young	Mar. 24,'33	72	Apr. 1,'33
Rackety Rax	Victor McLaglen-Greta Nissen-Neil O'Day	Oct. 23	75	Oct. 29
Robbers Roost	George O'Brien-Maureen O'Sullivan	Jan. 1,'33	64	Apr. 1,'33
Sailor's Luck	James Dunn-Sally Eilers	Mar. 10,'33	78	Mar. 25,'33
Second Hand Wife	Sally Eilers-Ralph Bellamy	Jan. 1,'33	64	Jan. 21,'33
Sherlock Holmes	Clive Brook-Miriam Jordan	Nov. 6	69	Nov. 26
Smoke Lightning	George O'Brien-Neil O'Day	Feb. 17,'33
State Fair	Janet Gaynor-Will Rogers-Lew Ayres-Sally Eilers-Norman Foster-Frank Craven	Feb. 10,'33	100	Feb. 4,'33
Tess of the Storm Country	Janet Gaynor-Chas. Farrell	Nov. 20	75	Nov. 26
Too Busy to Work	Will Rogers-Marian Nixon	Nov. 13	70	Nov. 12
Trick for Trick	Ralph Morgan-Victor Jory	Apr. 21,'33
Warrior's Husband, The	Elissa Landi-Ernest Truex-David Manners	May 5,'33
Zoo in Budapest	Gene Raymond-Loretta Young	Apr. 28,'33	85	Apr. 22,'33

Coming Feature Attractions

Adorable	Janet Gaynor-Henry Garat	May	12,'33
Five Cents a Glass	Marian Nixon-"Buddy" Rogers	May	19,'33
Hold Me Tight	James Dunn-Sally Eilers	May	26,'33
I Loved You Wednesday	Warner Baxter-Elissa Landi	June	9,'33
It's Great to Be Alive	Edna May Oliver-Raul Roulien	June	2,'33
Man-Eater	Marion Burns-Kane Richmond
My Lips Betray	Lilian Harvey-John Boles
Pilgrimage	Marian Nixon-Norman Foster
Power and the Glory, The	Colleen Moore-Spencer Tracy

FREULER FILM ASSOCIATES

Features

Title	Star	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
Deadwod Pass	Tom Tyler	May 1,'33
Fighting Gentleman, The	Wm. Collier, Jr.-Josephine Dunn-N. Moorhead	Oct. 7	65	Oct. 15
Forty-Niners, The	Tom Tyler	Oct. 28	59
Gambling Sex	Ruth Hall-Grant Withers	Nov. 21	65
Kiss of Araby	Maria Alba-Walter Byron	Apr. 17,'33
Penal Code, The	Regis Toomey-Helen Cohan	Dec. 23
Savage Girl, The	Rochelle Hudson-Walter Byron	Dec. 5
When a Man Rides Alone	Tom Tyler	Jan. 15,'33

Coming Feature Attractions

Black Cat, The
Bulldog Edition

(THE RELEASE CHART--CONT'D)

Title	Star	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
East of Sudan
Easy Millions	Skeets Gallagher-Dorothy Burgess-Merna Kennedy
Green Paradise
My Wandering Boy
Red Man's Country
Silent Army, The Sisters of the Follies

MAJESTIC

Features

Title	Star	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
Crusader, The	Evelyn Brent-H. B. Warner	Oct.	1....72	Oct. 8
Curtain at Eight		May	1,'33
Gun Law	Jack Hoxie-Betty Boyd	Apr.	15,'33
Law and Lawless	Jack Hoxie-Hilda Moreno	Nov.	30....62
Outlaw Justice	Jack Hoxie-Dorothy Gulliver	Oct.	1....61
Sing, Sinner, Sing	Paul Lukas-Leila Hyams	Apr.	15,'33
Unwritten Law, The	Greta Nissen-Skeets Gallagher	Nov.	15....70	Jan. 4,'33
Vampire Bat, The	Lionel Atwill-Fay Wray	Jan.	21,'33....67	Jan. 28,'33
Via Pony Express	Jack Hoxie-Marceline Day	Feb.	6,'33....62
World Gone Mad, The	Pat O'Brien-Evelyn Brent	Apr.	1,'33....80	Apr. 22,'33

Coming Feature Attractions

Buried Alive		June	1,'33
Trouble Buster	Jack Hoxie-Lane Chandler	May	15,'33
Woman in the Chair, The		May	15,'33

MAYFAIR PICTURES

Features

Title	Star	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
Alimony Madness	Helen Chandler-Leon Waycoff	Apr.	1,'33
Behind Jury Doors	Helen Chandler-Wm. Collier, Jr.	Dec.	1....67
Heart Punch	Marion Shilling-L. Hughes	Oct.	15....64	Oct. 29
Her Mad Night	Irene Rich-Conway Tearle	Oct.	1....67	Oct. 29
Her Resale Value	June Clyde-George Lewis	Apr.	15,'33
Justice Takes a Holiday	Patricia O'Brien-Lloyd Whitlock	Feb.	'33
Malay Nights	John Mack Brown-D. Burgess-Ralph Ince	Nov.	1
Midnight Warning	William Boyd-Claudia Dell	Nov.	15
Revenge at Monte Carlo	June Collyer-José Crespo-Lloyd Whitlock	Feb.	'33
Sister to Judas	Claire Windsor-John Harron	Jan.	1,'33....75	Feb. 18,'33

METRO-GOLDWYN-MAYER

Features

Title	Star	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
Clear All Wires	Lee Tracy-Benita Hume	Feb.	24,'33	Feb. 18,'33
Faithless	T. Bankhead-R. Montgomery	Oct.	15....74	Oct. 15
Fast Life	William Haines-Madge Evans	Dec.	16....75	Dec. 10
Fast Workers	John Gilbert-Mae Clarke	Mar.	10,'33....66	Mar. 25,'33
Flesh	Wallace Beery-Karen Morley-Ricardo Cortez	Dec.	9....75	Dec. 17
Gabriel Over the White House	Walter Huston-Karen Morley	Mar.	31,'33....87	Apr. 8,'33
Kongo	Walter Huston-Lupe Velez	Oct.	1....86	Nov. 26
Looking Forward	Lewis Stone-Benita Hume-Lionel Barrymore	Apr.	28,'33....83	Apr. 1,'33
(Reviewed under the title "The New Deal")
Mask of Fu Manchu, The	Boris Karloff	Nov.	5....67	Dec. 10
Men Must Fight	Phillips Holmes-Diana Wynyard	Feb.	17,'33....72	Mar. 18,'33
Outsider, The	Harold Huth-Joan Barry	Jan.	28,'33....90	May 2,'31
Payment Deferred	M. O'Sullivan-C. Laughton	Oct.	8....76	Sept. 24
Prosperity	Dressler-Moran	Nov.	18....76	Nov. 12
Rasputin and the Empress	Ethel, John and Lionel Barrymore	Mar.	24,'33....127	Dec. 31
Secret of Madame Blanche, The	Irene Dunne-Phillips Holmes	Feb.	3,'33....78	Jan. 21,'33
Son Daughter	Helen Hayes-Ramon Novarro	Dec.	23....79	Jan. 7,'33
Strange Interlude	Norma Shearer-Clarke Gable	Dec.	30....112	Sept. 3
Today We Live	Joan Crawford-Gary Cooper	Apr.	21,'33....115	Apr. 22,'33
What! No Beer?	Buster Keaton-Jimmy Durante	Feb.	10,'33....78	Feb. 11,'33
Whistling in the Dark	Ernest Truex-Una Merkel	Jan.	21,'33....78	Feb. 4,'33
White Sister, The	Helen Hayes-Clark Gable	Apr.	14,'33....101	Mar. 25,'33

Coming Feature Attractions

Barbarian, The	Ramon Novarro-Myrna Loy	May	12,'33....88	Apr. 15,'33
Black Orange Blossoms	Jean Harlow
Devil's Brother, The	Laurel and Hardy-Dennis King-Thelma Todd	May	5,'33....90	Apr. 8,'33
Dinner at Eight	Marie Dressler-Wallace Beery-Lionel Barrymore-Jean Harlow-Madge Evans-Karen Morley-Franchot Tone-Lee Tracy-Jean Hersholt
Eskimo
Hell Below	Robt. Montgomery-Jimmy Durante-Robt. Young-Walter Huston-Madge Evans		78	Apr. 15,'33
Lady of the Night	Loretta Young-Franchot Tone
Made on Broadway	R. Montgomery-Sally Eilers	May	19,'33....70	Apr. 8,'33
Never Give a Sucker a Break	Lee Tracy-Madge Evans	June	2,'33
Night Flight	H. Hayes-J. Barrymore-L. Barrymore-C. Gable
Peg O' My Heart	Marion Davies-Onslow Stevens	May	26,'33
Reunion in Vienna	John Barrymore-Diana Wynyard-Frank Morgan		98
Tarzan and His Mate	J. Weissmuller-M. O'Sullivan
When Ladies Meet	Ann Harding-Alice Brady-Robt. Montgomery	June	9,'33

MONOGRAM PICTURES CORPORATION

Features

Title	Star	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
Black Beauty	Alex. Kirkland-Esther Ralston	Apr.	1,'33
Breed of the Border	Bob Steele	Mar.	1,'33
Casey Jones	All Star	Apr.	30,'33
Crashin' Broadway	Rex Bell	Dec.	30
Diamond Trail, The	Rex Bell	Dec.	30
Fighting Champ	Bob Steele	Dec.	15
Fighting Texans, The	Rex Bell	Apr.	30,'33
Guilty or Not Guilty	Betty Compson-Tom Douglas	Nov.	15....7 reels
Hidden Valley	Bob Steele	Oct.	10....6 reels
Jungle Bride	Anita Page-Charles Starrett	Feb.	15,'33....63	Feb. 25,'33
Lucky Larrigan	Rex Bell-Helen Foster	Dec.	1
Man from Arizona, The	Rex Bell	Oct.	1....6 reels
Oliver Twist	Dickie Moore-Irving Pichel-Jackie Searle	Feb.	28,'33....80	Mar. 4,'33
Phantom Broadcast	Ralph Forbes-Vivienne Osborne	Mar.	15,'33....68	Apr. 8,'33
Self-Defense	Pauline Frederick	Dec.	15....68	Dec. 10
Strange Adventure	Regis Toomey-June Clyde	Nov.	20....7 reels
West of Singapore	Betty Compson	Jan.	31,'33....68	Apr. 15,'33
Young Blood	Bob Steele	Nov.	5

Coming Feature Attractions

Gallant Fool	Bob Steele	May	10,'33

PARAMOUNT PUBLIX

Features

Title	Star	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
A Bedtime Story	Maurice Chevalier-Helen Twelvetrees	Apr.	21,'33....87
Big Broadcast, The	Stuart Erwin-Bing Crosby-Kate Smith-Leila Hyams-Mills Bros.-Boswell Sisters-Cab Calloway-Vincent Lopez-Arthur Tracy-Sharon Lynn	Oct.	28....80	Oct. 8
Billion Dollar Scandal	Carole Lombard-Robt. Armstrong	Jan.	6,'33....78	Dec. 31
Crime of the Century	Stuart Erwin-Wynne Gibson	Feb.	24,'33....75	Mar. 4,'33
Devil Is Driving, The	Edmund Lowe-Wynne Gibson	Dec.	9....70	Dec. 10
Evenings for Sale	Herb Marshall-Sari Maritza	Nov.	11....65	Nov. 5
Farewell to Arms, A	Helen Hayes-Gary Cooper	Jan.	6,'33....78	Dec. 10
From Hell to Heaven	Carole Lombard-Jack Oakie	Feb.	24,'33....70	Feb. 18,'33
He Learned About Women	Stuart Erwin-A. Skipworth	Nov.	4
Hello, Everybody	Kate Smith	Feb.	17,'33....70	Jan. 14,'33
Hot Saturday	Nancy Carroll-Cary Grant	Oct.	28....73	Oct. 22
I Love That Man	Nancy Carroll-Edmund Lowe	May	5,'33
If I Had a Million	Gary Cooper-Wynne Gibson-Geo. Raft-Richard Bennett-Mary Robson	Nov.	95	Nov. 12
Island of Lost Souls	Chas. Laughton-Richard Arlen-Leila Hyams	Dec.	70	Dec. 10
King of the Jungle	Frances Dee-Buster Crabbe	Mar.	10,'33....74	Mar. 4,'33
Lady's Profession, A	Alison Skipworth-Roland Young	Mar.	3,'33....72	Feb. 25,'33
Luxury Liner	Geo. Brent-Zita Johann-Frank Morgan	Feb.	3,'33....70	Jan. 28,'33
Madame Butterfly	Sylvia Sidney-Cary Grant	Dec.	30....88	Dec. 31
Murders in the Zoo	Charlie Ruggles-Lionel Atwill	Mar.	31,'33....55	Mar. 11,'33
Mysterious Rider, The	Kent Taylor-Lona André	Jan.	20,'33
Night After Night	Geo. Raft-C. Cummings	Oct.	14....70	Oct. 8
No Man of Her Own	Clark Gable-Carole Lombard	Dec.	76	Dec. 24
Pick Up	Sylvia Sidney-George Raft	Mar.	24,'33....75	Mar. 25,'33
She Done Him Wrong	Mae West-Owen Moore	Jan.	27,'33....66	Feb. 18,'33
Sign of the Cross	Fredric March-Elissa Landi-Claudette Colbert	Feb.	10,'33....123	Dec. 10
Song of the Eagle	Chas. Bickford-Mary Brian-Richard Arlen	Apr.	28,'33
Strictly Personal	Marjorie Rambeau-Eddie Quillan-D. Jordan	Mar.	17,'33....70	Mar. 4,'33
Supernatural	C. Lombard-Randolph Scott-V. Osborne	May	5,'33....64½
Terror Aboard	Neil Hamilton-Chas. Ruggles-Verree Teasdale	Apr.	14,'33....65½
Tonight Is Ours	C. Colbert-Fredric March-Paul Cavanagh	Jan.	13,'33....76	Jan. 7,'33
Trouble in Paradise	Miriam Hopkins-H. Marshall-Kay Francis	Oct.	21....73	Oct. 29
Under Cover Man	Geo. Raft-Nancy Carroll	Dec.	2....74	Dec. 10
Under the Tonto Rim	Stuart Erwin-Verna Hillie	Apr.	7,'33....59
Wild Horse Mesa	Randolph Scott-Sally Blane	Nov.	25....72½
Woman Accused, The	Cary Grant-Nancy Carroll-John Halliday-Lona André	Feb.	17,'33....73	Feb. 4,'33

Coming Feature Attractions

College Humor	Bing Crosby-Jack Oakie
Dead on Arrival	James Dunn-Gloria Stuart	May	26,'33
Disgraced	Helen Twelvetrees-Wm. Harrigan
Eagle and the Hawk, The	F. March-C. Grant-J. Oakie	May	19,'33
Her Bodyguard	Wynne Gibson-Edmund Lowe
International House	Peggy Hopkins Joyce	May	26,'33
Jennie Gerhardt	Sylvia Sidney-Donald Cook
Song of Songs	Marlene Dietrich-Brian Aherne
Story of Temple Drake, The	Miriam Hopkins-Jack LaRue	May	12,'33
Sunset Pass	Randolph Scott-Tom Keene	May	19,'33

POWERS PICTURES

Features

Title	Star	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
Lucky Girl	Gene Gerrard-Molly Lamont	Sept.	1....69
Man Who Won, The	Henry Kendall-Heather Angel	Sept.	15....70	Mar. 4,'33

RKO RADIO PICTURES

Features

Title	Star	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
Animal Kingdom	Leslie Howard-Ann Harding	Dec.	23....78	Dec. 10
Cheyenne Kid	Tom Keene	Jan.	20,'33....54½
Christopher Strong	K. Hepburn-Colin Clive-Billie Burke	Mar.	31,'33....72	Mar. 18,'33
Conquerors, The	Ann Harding-Richard Dix	Nov.	18....80	Nov. 19
Goldie Gets Along	Lili Damita-Chas. Morton	Jan.	27,'33....68
Great Jasper, The	Richard Dix	Mar.	3,'33....76	Feb. 11,'33
Half-Naked Truth, The	Lee Tracy-Lupe Velez	Dec.	16....77	Jan. 7,'33
King Kong	Fay Wray-Bruce Cabot	Apr.	7,'33....100	Feb. 25,'33
Little Orphan Annie	Mitzi Green-Buster Phelps	Nov.	4....70	Oct. 29
Lucky Devils	Bill Boyd-Bruce Cabot-William Gargan-D. Wilson	Feb.	3,'33....60	Dec. 31
Man Hunt	Junior Durkin-Mrs. Wallace Reid	Mar.	24,'33....68	Feb. 4,'33
(Reviewed under the title "A Successful Bunder")
Men Are Such Fools	Lee Carrillo-V. Osborne	Nov.	18....66
Men of America	Bill Boyd	Dec.	9....75	Nov. 12
Monkey's Paw, The	Ivan Simpson-Louise Carter	Jan.	13,'33....52	Oct. 1
No Other Woman	Irene Dunne-Chas. Bickford	Jan.	6,'33....58	Jan. 21,'33
Our Betters	Constance Bennett	Mar.	17,'33....72	Mar. 4,'33
Past of Mary Holmes, The	Helen MacKellar-Eric Linden	Jan.	20,'33....62
Penguin Pool Murder	Edna May Oliver-Jas. Gleason	Dec.	30....75	Nov. 12
Renegades of the West	Tom Keene	Nov.	25....55
Rockabye	Constance Bennett-Joel McCrae	Nov.	25....75	Nov. 26
Sailor Be Good	Jack Oakie-Vivienne Osborne	Feb.	10,'33....68	Mar. 4,'33
Scarlet River	Tom Keene-D. Wilson	Mar.	10,'33....57	Jan. 21,'33
Secrets of the French Police	Gwili Andre-Frank Morgan	Dec.	2....58	Dec. 17
Son of the Border	Tom Keene-Julie Hayden	May	5,'33....55
Sport Parade, The	Joel McCrae-Marian Marsh	Nov.	11....65	Dec. 24
Sweepings	Lionel Barrymore	Apr.	14,'33....80	Mar. 18,'33
Topaze	John Barrymore-Myrna Loy	Feb.	24,'33....78	Feb. 11,'33

Coming Feature Attractions

Bed of Roses	Constance Bennett-Joel McCrea
Black Ace, The	Chester Morris-Vivienne Osborne
Careless	Ginger Rogers-Norman Foster
Cross Fire	Tom Keene-Betty Furness	June	30,'33....55	Apr. 8,'33
Diplomaniacs	Bert Wheeler-Robt. Woolsey		63	Apr. 15,'33
Emergency Call	Bill Boyd-Betty Furness
Flying Circus	Arline Judge-Bruce Cabot-Ralph Bellamy-Eric Linden
India Speaks	Richard Halliburton
Jamboree	Robt. Armstrong-Helen Mack
Maiden Cruise	Phil Harris-Helen Mack
Morning Glory, The	K. Hepburn-D. Fairbanks, Jr.
Rafter Romance	Joel McCrea-Dorothy Jordan
Silver Cord, The	Irene Dunne-Joel McCrea

(THE RELEASE CHART--CONT'D)

STATE RIGHTS

Features

Title	Star	Dist'r.	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
Bachelor Mother	Evalyn Knapp-James Murray	Goldsmith	Jan. 5,'33	71	Jan. 21,'33
Bal, Le	Andre Lefaur	Protex		80	Oct. 8
Blame the Woman	Adolphe Menjou-Benita Huma	Principal	Oct. 15	74	Nov. 5
Charlotte Lowenskold	Birgit Sergellius-Eric Barclay	Scandinavian
Contraband	Don Alvarado-Dorothy Sebastian	Hoffberg	Apr. 1,'33
Devil's Playground, The		Principal	Jan. 1,'33	54
Eternal Jew, The	M. B. Samuylow	Jewish Talking Pictures
Face on the Barroom Floor, The	B. Fletcher	Invincible		66	Oct. 22
Forgotten Men		Jewel Productions	Feb. '33
Fourteenth of July, The	Annabella - Georges Rigaud	Tobis-Rene Clair		85	Jan. 28,'33
High Gear	James Murray - Joan Marsh	Hollywood	Apr. 14,'33	67	Apr. 22,'33
Hotel Variety	Hal Skelly - Olive Borden	Screencraft		68
In the Days of the Crusaders	Alberto Pasquali	Monopole	Oct. 1	75	Oct. 15
Italy Speaks		Enrico Cutali			Feb. 25,'33
Jungle Gigolo		Principal	Feb. 15,'33	55
Jungle Killer	Carveth Wells	Century Productions	Dec.
Lady of the Night	Francesca Bertini	Portale Picts.	Mar. 9,'33
Love and Passion		Yugoslavian Picts.
Manhattan Tower	Mary Brian - Irene Rich-James Hall	Remington	Dec. 1	67	Nov. 19
Men and Jobs		Amkino	Jan. 1,'33	70	Jan. 14,'33
Moon Over Morocco	Rene Lefebvre-Rosine Derean	Protex	Jan. 21,'33	80	Feb. 25,'33
Out of Singapore	Noah Beery	Goldsmith Picts.		61	Sept. 24
Piri Knows All	Margit Dayka	Arkay Film
Potemkin		Kinematrade	Mar. 31,'33	54	Apr. 15,'33
Pride of the Legion	Sally Blane-B. Kent	Mascot	Oct. 10	70	Oct. 29
Shadow Laughs, The	Hal Skelly-Rose Hobart	Invincible		67
Shame	Vladimir Gardin	Amkino	Oct. 15	65	Dec. 3
Socko		Hoffberg		30
Soviets on Parade		Kinematrade	Mar. 31,'31	60
Sucker Money	Mischa Auer	Hollywood	Apr. 5,'33	70	Apr. 15,'33
Truth About Africa, The		Wm. Alexander		47
Virgins of Bali		Principal	Dec. 8	46	Dec. 17
With Williamson Beneath the Sea		Principal	Nov. 24	59	Dec. 3
Wives Beware!	Adolphe Menjou	Regent Picts.
Woman in Chains	Owen Nares	Invincible		69	Aug. 13

(Reviewed under title "The Impassive Footman" — Assoc. Radio British)

TOWER PRODUCTIONS

Features

Title	Star	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
Daring Daughters	Marian Marsh-Joan Marsh
Red Haired Alibi	Merna Kennedy-Theodore Von Eltz-Grant Withers	Feb. '33	60	Apr. 15,'33
Reform Girls	Dorothy Peterson-Skeets Gallagher	Oct. 15	72	Oct. 29
		Mar. '33	70

UNITED ARTISTS

Features

Title	Star	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
Cynara	Ronald Colman-Kay Francis	Dec. 24	80	Nov. 5
Hallelujah, I'm a Bum	Al Jolson	Feb. 3,'33	82	Feb. 18,'33
Kid from Spain, The	Eddie Cantor	Nov. 17	90	Nov. 5
Magic Night	Jack Buchanan	Nov. 5	76	Nov. 12
Rain	Joan Crawford	Oct. 22	85	Sept. 17
Perfect Understanding	Gloria Swanson	Mar. 11,'33	84	Mar. 4,'33
Secrets	Mary Pickford-Leslie Howard	Apr. 16,'33	90	Feb. 18,'33

Coming Feature Attractions

I Cover the Waterfront	Claudette Colbert - Ben Lyon - Ernest Torrence
Joe Palooka	Jimmy Durante-Stuart Erwin
Masquerader, The	Ronald Colman-Elissa Landi
Yes, Mr. Brown	Jack Buchanan

UNIVERSAL

Features

Title	Star	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
Afraid to Talk	Eric Linden-Sidney Fox	Nov. 17	76	Sept. 24
(Reviewed under title "Merry Go Round")
Air Mail	Pat O'Brien-Ralph Bellamy	Nov. 3	83	Oct. 8
Be Mine Tonight	Jan Kiepura-Magda Schneider	Mar. 23,'33	78	Feb. 18,'33
Big Cage, The	Anita Page-Clyde Beatty	Mar. 3,'33	75	Mar. 4,'33
Cohens and Kellys in Trouble	Chas. Murray-Geo. Sidney	Mar. 23,'33	69	Apr. 22,'33
Destination Unknown	Pat. O'Brien-Ralph Bellamy	Mar. 16,'33	67	Jan. 28,'33
Fighting President, The		Apr. 14,'33	50	Apr. 15,'33
Flaming Guns	Tom Mix-Ruth Hall	Dec. 22	57
Hidden Gold	Tom Mix	Nov. 3	56
Kiss Before the Mirror	Nancy Carroll-Paul Lukas	May 4,'33	67	Mar. 11,'33
Laughter in Hell	Pat O'Brien-Gloria Stuart	Jan. 12,'33	68	Jan. 7,'33
Lucky Dog	Charles "Chic" Sale	Apr. 20,'33
Mummy, The	Boris Karloff-Zita Johann	Dec. 22	78	Dec. 3
Nagana	Tala Birell-Melvyn Douglas	Jan. 26,'33	74	Jan. 7,'33
Old Dark House, The	Boris Karloff-L. Bond	Oct. 20	74	July 18
Out All Night	Summerville-Pitts	Apr. 13,'33	72	Mar. 11,'33
Private Jones	Lee Tracy-Gloria Stuart	Feb. 16,'33	89	Apr. 1,'33
Rome Express	Esther Ralston-Conrad Veidt	Feb. 16,'33	87	Jan. 21,'33
Rustler's Roundup	Tom Mix—Diane Sinclair	Mar. 16,'33
Terror Trail, The	Tom Mix	Feb. 2,'33	57	Feb. 18,'33
They Just Had to Get Married	Summerville-Pitts	Jan. 5,'33	75	Feb. 11,'33

Coming Feature Attractions

Black Pearl	Tala Birell
King of the Arena	Ken Maynard
Rebel, The	Vilma Banky-Luis Trenker
S. O. S. Iceberg	Rod La Rogue-Gibson Gowland
When the Time Comes	Spencer Tracy

WARNER BROS.

Features

Title	Star	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
Baby Face	Barbara Stanwyck	Apr. 22,'33	74	Apr. 1,'33
Ex-Lady	Bette Davis	Apr. 8,'33	62	Feb. 18,'33
Forty-Second Street	Warner Baxter - Bebe Daniels - Geo. Brent	Mar. 11,'33	89	Mar. 18,'33
Girl Missing	Ben Lyon - Mary Brian - Peggy Shannon	Mar. 4,'33	69	Apr. 8,'33
Hard to Handle	James Cagney	Jan. 28,'33	76	Jan. 7,'33
Haunted Gold	John Wayne	Dec. 17	58
I Am a Fugitive from a Chain Gang	Paul Muni	Nov. 19	90	Oct. 22
Keyhole, The	Kay Francis-George Brent	Mar. 25,'33	69	Apr. 8,'33
King's Vacation, The	George Arliss	Feb. 25,'33	60	Jan. 28,'33
Ladies They Talk About	Barbara Stanwyck	Feb. 4,'33	64	Jan. 7,'33
Lawyer Man	Wm. Powell-Joan Blondell	Jan. 7,'33	72	Dec. 3
Parachute Jumper	Douglas Fairbanks, Jr.	Jan. 28,'33	72	Dec. 31
Picture Snatcher	James Cagney	Apr. 29,'33	75	Apr. 1,'33
Scarlet Dawn	D. Fairbanks, Jr. - Nancy Carroll	Nov. 12	58	Nov. 12
Telegraph Trail, The	John Wayne	Mar. 18,'33	55
Untamed Africa		Apr. 8,'33
Wax Museum, Mystery of the	Lionel Atwill-Fay Wray	Feb. 18,'33	72	Jan. 7,'33

Coming Feature Attractions

Gold Diggers of Broadway	Warren William-Joan Blondell-Aline MacMahon-Ruby Keeler-Dick Powell	May 27,'33
Life of Jimmy Dolan, The	D. Fairbanks, Jr.-Loretta Young	June 3,'33	70
Man from Monterey, The	John Wayne-Ruth Hall
Mary Stevens, M.D.	Kay Francis
Mayor of Hell, The	James Cagney
Narrow Corner, The	Douglas Fairbanks, Jr.
Private Detective 62	William Powell	June 17,'33
Silk Express	Neil Hamilton-Sheila Terry	June 10,'33
Somewhere in Sonora	John Wayne	June 3,'33
Voltaire	George Arliss-Doris Kenyon
Working Man, The	George Arliss-Bette Davis	May 6,'33	73 Apr. 8,'33

(Reviewed under the title "The Adopted Father")

WORLD WIDE

[Distributed through Fox Films]

Features

Title	Star	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
Between Fighting Men	Ken Maynard	Oct. 16	62
Breach of Promise	Chester Morris-Mae Clarke	Oct. 23	67
Constant Woman, The	Conrad Nagel-Leila Hyams	Mar. 18,'33	75	Mar. 3,'33
(Reviewed under the title "Auction in Souls")
Death Kiss, The	Adrienne Ames-David Manners-John Wray	Jan. 8,'33	75	Dec. 24
Drum Taps	Ken Maynard	Jan. 29,'33	61
False Faces	Lowell Sherman-Lila Lee	Oct. 13	83	Dec. 3
Fargo Express	Ken Maynard	Nov. 20	62
Hypnotized	Moran and Mack	Dec. 25	70	Dec. 24
Lone Avenger, The	Ken Maynard	Apr. 9,'33	61
Phantom Thunderbolt	Ken Maynard	Mar. 5,'33	62
Racetrack	Leo Carrillo-Kay Hammond	Feb. 25,'33	78	Mar. 11,'33
Study in Scarlet, A	Reginald Owen-June Clyde	Apr. 2,'33
Tombstone Canyon	Ken Maynard	Dec. 25	62
Trailing the Killer	(Special)	Dec. 4	68	Oct. 15
Uptown New York	Jack Oakie-Shirley Grey	Nov. 20	80	Nov. 19

Coming Feature Attractions

Tarnished Youth	Jetta Goudal-Gilbert Roland

GERMAN

Features

Title	Star	Dist'r.	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
A Door Opens	Lily Rodien-Curt Lucas	Protex	Feb. 4,'33	70
A Night in Paradise	Anny Ondra-Herman Thimig	Kinematrade
Barberina, The King's Dancer	Lil Dagover	Capital	Oct. 25	87	Nov. 12
Beautiful Maneuver Time	Ida Wuest	World's Trade
Cadet, The	Frans Fiedler	Film Exchange		80	Apr. 8,'33
Captain of Koepenick, The	Max Adalbert	Kinematrade	Jan. 16,'33	93	Feb. 18,'33
Comradeship		Assoc. Cinema	Nov. 8	78	Dec. 10
David Golder	Harry Baur	Protex		80	Oct. 29
Don't Tell Me Who You Are	Liane Haid-Gustav Froehlich	Interworld	Feb. 15,'33	91	Feb. 25,'33
Enchanted Escapade	Kaethe von Nagy	Protex	Dec. 7	83	Jan. 28,'33
Friederike	Mady Christians	Kinematrade	Feb. 25,'33	80	Mar. 18,'33
Gitta Discovers Her Heart	Gitta Alpar	Capital		91	Oct. 15
Gloria	Gustav Froehlich	Tobis	Oct. 27	87	Nov. 12
Hertha's Awakening	Toni Van Eyck	Protex	Mar. 10,'33	82	Mar. 25,'33
Herzblut	Renate Mueller	Cines-Pittaluga	Sept. 30	77	Oct. 15
His Majesty, King Ballyhoo	Hans Moser - Heinz Ruehmann	Capital	Nov. 15	86	Feb. 11,'33
Louise, Queen of Prussia	Henny Porten	Assoc. Cinemas	Oct. 4	92	Oct. 15
M	Peter Lorre	Foremco	Mar. 31,'33	96	Apr. 8,'33
Maedchen in Uniform	Hertha Thiele	John Krimsky - Gifford Cochran		110	Oct. 1
Man Without a Name, The	Werner Krauss	Protex	Nov. 5	90	Dec. 17
Party Does Not Answer, The	Dorothy Wieck	Capital	Nov. 29	76	Dec. 31
Ronny	Willy Fritsch-Kaethe von Nagy	Protex
Song of Life	Albert Mog - Margot Ferra	Tobis	Mar. 24,'33	66	Apr. 15,'33
Spell of Tatra, The		Protex	Feb. 17,'33	65	Feb. 25,'33
Upright Sinner, The	Max Pallenberg- Dolly Haas	European Films	Mar. 28,'33	78	Apr. 15,'33
Victoria and Her Hussar	Michael Bohnen-Friedel Schuster	Kinematrade	Apr. 8,'33	90	Apr. 22,'33
Yorck	Werner Krauss	Protex	Nov. 23	99	Dec. 10

OTHER PRODUCT

Features

Title	Star	Dist'r.	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
Counsel's Opinion	Henry Kendall	London Film		71	Apr. 22,'33
Fires of Fate	Lester Matthews	British Int'l		72	Oct. 15
Flag Lieutenant, The	Henry Edwards-Anna Neagle	British and Dominions		85	Dec. 31
Ghost Train, The	Jack Hulbert	Gaumont-British		68	Feb. 25,'33
Good Companions, The	Jessie Matthews	Gaumont-British		96
Green Spot Mystery, The	Jack Lloyd	Mutual, London		66	Sept. 3
Here's George	George Clarke	P.D.C.-British		64	Nov. 5
Josser on the River	Ernest Lotinga	British Int'l		71	Sept. 17
Leap Year	Tom Walls - Anne Grey	British and Dominions		89	Dec. 17
Lodger, The	Ivor Novello	Twickenham		84	Oct. 15
Looking on the Bright Side	Gracie Fields	Assoc. Radio - British		82	Oct. 15
Love in Morocco	Rex Ingram	Gaumont-British	Mar. 18,'33	67	Oct. 15
(Reviewed under the title "Baroud")
Maid of the Mountains, The	Harry Welchman - Nancy Brown	British Int'l		80	Apr. 22,'33
Man They Couldn't Arrest, The	Hugh Wakefield - Renee Clama	Gaumont-British	Mar. 11,'33	70	Mar. 25,'33
Marry Me	Renate Mueller-Geo. Robey	Gaumont-British		85	Apr. 22,'33
Men of Tomorrow	Maurice Braddell	Paramount-London Film		80	Apr. 15,'33
Private Wives	Claude Allister-Betty Astell	British Lion
Sally Bishop	Harold Huth - Joan Barry	British Lion		82	Dec. 10
There Goes the Bride	Jessie Matthews - Owen Nares	Gaumont-British		79	Mar. 11,'33
Wedding Rehearsal	Roland Young	London Film

(THE RELEASE CHART--CONT'D)

SHORT FILMS

[All dates are 1932 unless otherwise stated]

COLUMBIA

Title	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
CURIOSITIES
C 237	Sept. 1	10	Sept. 24
KRAZY KAT KARTOONS
Broadway Malady	Apr. 18,'33
Bunnies and Bonnets	Mar. 29,'33
Crystal Gazabo	Nov. 7	1 reel
Medicine Show	Feb. 7,'33	1 reel
Minstrel Show, The	Nov. 21	1 reel
Prosperity Blues	Oct. 8
Russian Dressing
Seeing Stars	Sept. 12	8	Dec. 17
Snow Time	Nov. 30
Wedding Bells	Jan. 10,'33
Wooden Shoes	Feb. 25,'33	1 reel
LAMBS GAMBOLS
Hear 'Em and Weep
Ladies Not Allowed	Sept. 8	2 reels
Lambs All-Star Gambol	Dec. 20	21½
Mutual Man, The	Mar. 20,'33
Poor Fish, The (Tent.)
Shave It with Music	Sept. 30	19
MEDBURY SERIES
Laughing with Medbury In India		1 reel
Laughing with Medbury in Philippines	Nov. 11	1 reel
Laughing with Medbury Among the Wide Open Faces	Oct. 11	1 reel
Laughing with Medbury Among Dancing Nations	Dec. 23	1 reel
Laughing with Medbury in Wonders of the World	Dec. 13	1 reel
SCRAPPY CARTOONS
Bad Genius, The	Dec. 1
Beer Parade, The	Mar. 4,'33
False Alarm
Flop House	Nov. 9
Great Bird Mystery	Oct. 20
Match Kid, The
Sassy Cats	Jan. 25,'33
Scrappy's Party	Feb. 13,'33
Wolf at the Door, The	Dec. 29
SILLY SYMPHONIES
China Plate		7	Dec. 3
SUNRISE COMEDIES
Campus Codes	Jan. 19,'33	21
College Gigolos	Jan. 3,'33	18½
His Vacation	Sept. 8
I'm a Fugitive from a Chain Store	Feb. 11,'33
Mind Doesn't Matter	Nov. 21	19½
Partners Two	Jan. 19,'33	22
The Curse of a Broken Heart	Feb. 4,'33	18
The Strange Case of Poison Ivy	Mar. 23,'33
WORLD OF SPORT
All's Wet That Ends Wet
Good Old Winter Time
Rough Sport	Dec. 29
Throwing the Bull	Jan. 14,'33	11

EDUCATIONAL

[Distributed through Fox Films]

Title	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
ANDY CLYDE COMEDIES
A Fool About Women	Nov. 27	22
Artist's Muddles	Jan. 29,'33	20
Boy, Oh Boy!	Dec. 25	21
Feeling Rosy	Feb. 26,'33	21
Giddy Age, The	Sept. 25	21½	June 4
Loose Relations	Apr. 9,'33
She Dunked Him Wrong
Sunkissed Sweeties	Oct. 30	22
BABY BURLESKS
Glad Rags to Riches	Feb. 5,'33	11	Dec. 31
Kid' in' Hollywood	May 14,'33	11
Kid's Last Fight, The	Mar. 26,'33	11	Dec. 3
Pie-Covered Wagon	Oct. 30	10	Dec. 31
Polly Tix in Washington
War Babies	Sept. 18	10	Aug. 6
BATTLE FOR LIFE
Battle of the Centuries	Oct. 2	9
Desert Demons	Nov. 27	9
Killers	Oct. 30	10
The Sea	Dec. 25	9
BRAY'S NATURGRAPHS
An Oregon Camera Hunt	Sept. 11	9
Giants of the North	Mar. 26,'33
Our Bird Citizens	Oct. 9	8	Dec. 10
Our Noble Ancestors	Dec. 4	9
Pirates of the Deep	Feb. 26,'33	9
Stable Manners	Nov. 6	7
Wild Company	Jan. 1,'33	10
Woodland Pals	Jan. 29,'33	1 reel
BROADWAY GOSSIP
No. 1	Sept. 25	11
No. 2	Dec. 11	9	Dec. 31
No. 3	Feb. 5,'33	11
No. 4	Mar. 5,'33	11
No. 5	Apr. 30,'33
CAMERA ADVENTURES
Taming the Wildcat	Jan. 15,'33	8
The Forgotten Island	Sept. 4	10
The Iceless Arctic	Nov. 6	11
Two Hundred Fathoms Deep	Mar. 19,'33	8
DO YOU REMEMBER
Gaslit Nineties, The	Nov. 27	8	Jan. 7,'33
Highlights of the Past	Apr. 9,'33	8
Old New York	Sept. 11	10	Jan. 14,'33
Puffs and Bustles	Mar. 12,'33	7
When Dad Was a Boy	Jan. 22,'33	8
GLEASON'S SPORT FEATURETTES
A Hockey Hick	Dec. 11	19
Always Kickin'	Oct. 9	20
Off His Base	Sept. 18	20
GREAT HOKUM MYSTERY
Burned at the Steak	Oct. 16	18
Evil Eye Conquers, The	Jan. 8,'33	14
In the Clutches of Death	Nov. 13	14
On the Brink of Disaster	Feb. 19,'33
HODGE-PODGE
Across America in Ten Minutes	Jan. 1,'33	11
Animal Fair, The	Jan. 15,'33	10
Bubble Blowers	Sept. 11	10
Down on the Farm	Dec. 18	10
Little Thrills	Oct. 23	9
Skipping About the Universe	Feb. 12,'33	10
Traffic	Nov. 6	10
Women of Many Lands	Mar. 12,'33	9
Women's Work	Sept. 25	9	Mar. 11,'33
Wonder City, The	Nov. 20	9	Feb. 25,'33
MERMAID COMEDIES
All Aboard Harry Langdon
Big Flash, The Harry Langdon	Nov. 6	22	Oct. 15
Hitch Hiker, The Harry Langdon	Feb. 12,'33	21
Knight Duty Harry Langdon	Mar. 26,'33	22
Tired Feet Harry Langdon	Jan. 1,'33	22
Vest with a Tale, The Tom Howard	Dec. 4	22
MORAN AND MACK COMEDIES
A Pair of Socks	May 14,'33
As the Crows Fly	Feb. 5,'33	19
Hot Hoofs	Apr. 16,'33
Two Black Crows in Africa	Mar. 5,'33	20
OPERALOGUES
Brahmin's Daughter, A	Jan. 8,'33	22
Canteen Girl, The
Walpurgis Night	Oct. 30	20
SPIRIT OF THE CAMPUS (Reinald Werrenrath)
California	Mar. 5,'33	10
Cornell	Dec. 18	9	Dec. 17
Georgia Tech	Apr. 2,'33	9
Michigan	Dec. 4	8
Yale	Oct. 9	10
TERRY-TOONS
Burlesque	Sept. 4	6
College Spirit	Oct. 16	6
Down on the Levee	Mar. 5,'33	6
Farmer Al Falfa's Birthday Party	Oct. 2	6	Dec. 3
Forty Thieves, The	Nov. 13	6
Hansel Und Gretel	Feb. 5,'33	6
Hollywood Diet	Dec. 11	6
Hook and Ladder No. 1	Oct. 30	7	Nov. 5
Ireland or Bust	Dec. 25	6
Jealous Lover	Jan. 8,'33	6
Oh! Susanna	Apr. 2,'33	6
Pirate Ship	Apr. 30,'33	6
Robin Hood	Jan. 22,'33	6
Romeo and Juliet	Apr. 16,'33	6
Southern Rhythm	Sept. 18	6
Tale of a Shirt, The	Feb. 19,'33	6
Toyland	Nov. 27	6	Dec. 17
Who Killed Cock Robin?	Mar. 19,'33	6
THREE-REEL SPECIAL
Krakatoa	Apr. 2,'33	26
TOM HOWARD COMEDIES
A Drug on the Market	Jan. 22,'33	11
The Acid Test	Nov. 27	11
The Mouse Trapper	Sept. 11	12
TORCHY COMEDIES (Ray Cooke)
Torchy's Big Lead (Tent.)
Torchy's Busy Day	Oct. 2	20
Torchy's Kitty Coup	Jan. 22,'33	21
Torchy's Loud Spooker	Apr. 23,'33
Torchy Rolls His Own	Nov. 20	21
Torchy Turns Turtle	Mar. 19,'33	21
VANITY COMEDIES
Hollywood Run-Around Monty Collins	Dec. 18	20	Mar. 25,'33
Honeymoon Beach Billy Bevan-Glenn Tryon	Oct. 23	21
Keyhole Katie Gale Seabrook-John T. Murray	Jan. 15,'33	20
Techno-crazy Monty Collins-Billy Bevan	Mar. 12,'33	19

FOX FILMS

Title	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
MAGIC CARPET SERIES
1 Alpine Echoes	Aug. 14
2 Incredible India	Aug. 21	9
3 Big Game of the Sea	Aug. 28	8
4 The Tom-Tom Trail	Sept. 4	9
5 By-Ways of France	Sept. 11	9	Dec. 17
6 Manhattan Medley	Sept. 18	10
7 Rhineland Memories	Sept. 25	8
8 Fisherman's Fortune	Oct. 2	9
9 Zanzibar	Oct. 9	9
10 Belles of Bali	Oct. 16	8	Jan. 7,'33
11 Sailing a Square-Rigger	Oct. 23	10	Dec. 10
12 Venetian Holiday	Oct. 30	10	Nov. 12
13 Havana Ho!	Nov. 6	9
14 Paths in Palestine	Nov. 13	8
15 Ricksha Rhythm	Nov. 20
16 Pirate Isles	Nov. 27	9
17 From Kashmir to the Khyber	Dec. 4	9	Nov. 19
18 Silver Springs	Dec. 11
19 Desert Tripoli	Dec. 18
20 In the Guianas	Dec. 25	9
21 Mediterranean Memories	Jan. 1,'33
22 The Lure of the Orient	Jan. 8,'33	9
23 Here Comes the Circus	Jan. 15,'33
24 Sicilian Sunshine	Jan. 22,'33	10	Mar. 25,'33
25 Gorges of the Giants	Jan. 29,'33	9	Dec. 31
26 When in Rome	Feb. 5,'33
27 Berlin Medley	Feb. 12,'33	9	Nov. 26
28 Rhapsody of the Rails	Feb. 19,'33
29 Taking the Cure	Feb. 26,'33
30 Down from Vesuvius	Mar. 5,'33
31 Paris on Parade	Mar. 12,'33
32 Broadway by Day	Mar. 19,'33
33 The Iceberg Patrol
34 Mississippi Showboats
35 Sampans and Shadows
36 Boardwalks of New York
37 A Gondola Journey
38 Isles of the East Indies
39 Pagodas of Peiping

METRO-GOLDWYN-MAYER

Title	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
CHARLEY CHASE
Arabian Tights	June 3,'33	20
Fallen Arches	Feb. 4,'33	19
Girl Grief	Oct. 8	20
Mr. Bride	Dec. 24	19
Now We'll Tell One	Nov. 19	19	Oct. 22
Tarzan in the Wrong		20
Young Ironsides	Sept. 3	20
COLORTONE MUSICAL REVUES
Hollywood Premiere	Jan. 7,'33	18
Menu
Over the Counter		18	Feb. 25,'33
Wild People	Feb. 4,'33	18
FITZPATRICK TRAVELTALKS
Barbados and Trinidad	Sept. 24	9
Big Ditch of Panama, The
Come Back to Erin		9	June 4
Cuba, Land of the Rhumba	Feb. 25,'33
Daughters of the Sea		9
Iceland	Jan. 14,'33	10	Feb. 11,'33
Leningrad	Dec. 17	9	Mar. 11,'33
Norway	Feb. 4,'33	9
Over the Seas to Borneo		9
Rio the Magnificent		9
World Dances, The		9
FLIP, THE FROG
Cuckoo the Magician	Jan. 21,'33
Funny Face	Dec. 24	8
Lunchroom, The
Music Lesson, The	Oct. 29	8
Nursemaid, The	Nov. 26	7
LAUREL & HARDY
Scram	Sept. 10	21	Oct. 15
Their First Mistake		21
Towed in a Hole	Dec. 31	21
Twice Two	Feb. 25,'33	21
ODDITIES
Chill and Chills	Sept. 10	9
Duck Hunter's Paradise	Dec. 31	10	Dec. 31
Microscopic Mysteries	Oct. 18	10	Apr. 8,'33
Toy Parade, The	Dec 3	7	Dec. 17
Whispering Bill	Dec. 31	10
OUR GANG
A Lad an' a Lamp	Dec. 17	17
Birthday Blues	Nov. 12	20
Fish Hooky	Jan. 28,'33	19
Forgotten Babies	Mar. 11,'33	17
Free Wheeling	Oct. 1	20
Kid from Borneo, The	Apr. 15,'33	19
Mush and Milk	May 27,'33
PITTS-TODD
Alum and Eve	Sept. 24	18	Aug. 13
Asleep in the Feet	Jan. 21,'33	19
Bargain of the Century		20
Maids a la Mode		18
Sneak Easily	Dec. 10	17
Soilers, The	Oct. 29	19
SPECIAL
Roosevelt, the Man of the Hour		18	Apr. 15,'33
SPORT CHAMPIONS
Allez Oop	Mar. 11,'33
Auto Racing	Apr. 1,'33
Blocks and Tackles	Nov. 5	12	Mar. 11,'33
Bone Crushers	Feb. 8,'33	8
Chalk Up	Dec. 10	10	Jan. 7,'33
Desert Regatta	Sept. 17	10
Football Footwork		12
Motorcycle Mania	Jan. 28,'33	9
Old Spanish Custom	Oct. 15	10	Mar. 11,'33
Pigskin	Oct. 22	12	Dec. 10
Swing High	Dec. 10	10	Dec. 17
TAXI BOYS
Bring 'Em Back a Wife	Jan. 14,'33	20
Call Her Sausage
Farewell to Legs
Hot Spot	Oct. 22	18	Oct. 1
Rummy, The		18
Strange Innertube	Sept. 22
Taxi Barons
Taxi for Two	Dec. 3	18
Thundering Taxis	June 24,'33	16
Wreckety Wrecks	Feb. 18,'33	19	Mar. 25,'33

PARAMOUNT PUBLIX

Title	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
HOLLWOOD ON PARADE
No. 1	Aug. 26	10	Aug. 13
No. 2	Sept. 23	1 reel
No. 3	Oct. 21	1 reel

(THE RELEASE CHART--CONT'D)

Title	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
No. 4	Nov. 18	1 reel
No. 5	Dec. 16	1 reel
No. 6	Jan. 13,'33	1 reel
No. 7	Feb. 10,'33	1 reel
No. 8	Mar. 10,'33	1 reel
No. 9	Apr. 7,'33	1 reel
No. 10	May 5,'33	1 reel
ONE REEL ACTS
Be Like Me — Ethel Merman	Feb. 18,'33	1 reel
Breaking Even — Tom Howard	Sept. 30
Hawaiian Fantasy — Vincent Lopez	Jan. 20,'33	1 reel
Let's Dance — Burns and Allen	Mar. 17,'33	1 reel
Moonlight Fantasy — Vincent Lopez	Apr. 14,'33	1 reel
Musical Doctor — Rudy Vallee	Oct. 28	10	Oct. 1
Rhapsody in Black and Blue — Louis Armstrong	Sept. 2
Rookie, The — Tom Howard	Dec. 23	1 reel
Walking the Baby — Burns and Allen	May 12,'33	1 reel
Your Hat — Burns and Allen	Nov. 25
PARAMOUNT PICTORIAL—NEW SERIES
No. 1—Mists of the Morning—Temple Bells of Indo-China—Famous Radio Personalities	Aug. 12	1 reel
No. 2—Just Mentioning the Unmentionable — New England Sunsets—Famous Radio Personalities	Sept. 9	1 reel
No. 3—Making Friends in the Desert—The Fall of the Year — Radio Star-Maker	Oct. 7	1 reel
No. 4—Distinctive Hair for Distinctive Heads — The Blooming Desert — The Camels Are Coming	Nov. 4	1 reel
No. 5—John Mongol Comes to Town—Have a Little Ski—Meet Your Favorite Radio Personalities	Dec. 4	1 reel
No. 6—Land of Sun and Shine — La Rumba de Cuba—Big Shots of U.S. Navy	Dec. 30	1 reel
No. 7—This Is Ducky — Music from the Ancients —Bringing You the News	Jan. 27,'33	1 reel
No. 8—Glass Making at the Corning Glass Works — "Going Back Home" — Costuming the Earl Carroll Vanities	Feb. 24,'33	1 reel
No. 9—A Drama of the Northland — Paramount Pictorial Presents Amelia Earhart	Mar. 17,'33	1 reel
No. 10—Birth of the Year — Laboratory Sleuth — Three X Sisters	Apr. 21,'33	10	Apr. 22,'33
SCREEN SONGS
Ain't She Sweet — Lillian Roth	Feb. 3,'33
Aloha Oe — Royal Samoans	Mar. 17,'33	1 reel
Dinah — Mills Bros.	Jan. 13,'33	1 reel
Just a Gigolo — Irene Bordoni	Sept. 9
Peanut Vendor, The — Armida	Apr. 28,'33
Popular Melodies — Arthur Jarrett	Apr. 7,'33	1 reel
Reaching for the Moon	Feb. 24,'33	1 reel
Romantic Melodies — The Street Singer	Oct. 21	1 reel
School Days — Gus Edwards	Sept. 30
Sing a Song — James Melton	Dec. 2
Time on My Hands — Ethel Merman	Dec. 23	7	Jan. 7,'33
When It's Sleepy Time Down South — Boswell Sisters	Nov. 11	1 reel
SCREEN SOUVENIRS — NEW SERIES
No. 1	Aug. 5	1 reel
No. 2	Sept. 2	1 reel
No. 3	Sept. 30	10	Oct. 15
No. 4	Oct. 28	1 reel
No. 5	Nov. 25	1 reel
No. 6	Dec. 23	1 reel
No. 7	Jan. 20,'33	1 reel
No. 8	Feb. 17,'33	1 reel
No. 9	Mar. 17,'33	1 reel
No. 10	Apr. 14,'33	1 reel
No. 11	May 12,'33
PARAMOUNT SOUND NEWS
Two Editions Weekly
SPORTS EYE VIEW
Aggravatin' Bear, The	Apr. 28,'33	1 reel
Canine Thirlls	Feb. 3,'33	1 reel
Catch 'Em Young	Dec. 9	1 reel
Fighting Fins	Oct. 14	10	Oct. 15
Hot and Cold Thrills	Mar. 31,'33	1 reel
Jabs and Jolts	May 26,'33	1 reel
Over the Jumps	Jan. 6,'33	1 reel
Stuff on the Ball	Nov. 11	1 reel
Water Jamboree	Sept. 16	1 reel
Wonder Girl, The — Babe Didrickson	Mar. 3,'33	1 reel
TALKARTOONS
Betty Boop's Bamboo Isle	Sept. 23
Betty Boop's Birthday Party	Apr. 21,'33	1 reel
Betty Boop's Crazy Inventions	Jan. 27,'33	1 reel
Betty Boop for President	Nov. 4	7	Oct. 1
Betty Boop's Ker-Choo	Jan. 6,'33	7	Dec. 10
Betty Boop, M.D.	Sept. 2	7	Dec. 10
Betty Boop's May Party	May 12,'33	1 reel
Betty Boop's Museum	Dec. 16	1 reel
Betty Boop's Ups & Downs	Oct. 14	1 reel
Betty Boop's Penthouse	Mar. 10,'33	6	Feb. 25,'33
Is My Palm Read	Feb. 17,'33	1 reel
Minding the Baby	Sept. 26	1 reel
Snow-White	Mar. 31,'33	1 reel
TWO REEL COMEDIES
Blue of the Night — Bing Crosby	Jan. 6,'33	20	Sept. 10
Bring 'Em Back Sober — Sennett Star	Nov. 18	2 reels
Caliente Love — Sennett Star	Mar. 10,'33	2 reels
Cook's Day Off, The — Sennett Star
Courting Trouble — Charles Murray	Oct. 28	19	Dec. 17
Dentist, The — Sennett Star	Dec. 9	20	Dec. 3
Don't Play Bridge With Your Wife — Sennett Star	Jan. 13,'33	2 reels
Druggist, The — Sennett Star	Apr. 21,'33
Doubling in the Quickies — Sennett Star	Dec. 16	2 reels
Easy On the Eyes — Sennett Star	Feb. 17,'33	2 reels
False Impressions — Sennett Star	Nov. 4	2 reels
Fatal Glass of Beer — W. C. Fields	Mar. 3,'33	2 reels
His Perfect Day — Sennett Star
Hollywood Double, A — Sennett Star	Nov. 25	2 reels
Honeymoon Bridge — Sennett Star
Hubby's Vacation — Sennett Star
Human Fish — Sennett Star	Dec. 30	2 reels
In the Bag — Sennett Star
Lion and the House, The — Sennett Star	Dec. 23	18
Ma's Pride and Joy — Donald Novis	Oct. 14	18	Aug. 27
Morning After, The — Sennett Star
Pharmacist, The — Sennett Star	Apr. 21,'33	2 reels
Plumber and the Lady, The — Sennett Star	Mar. 31,'33	2 reels
Prosperity Pays — Tom Howard	Nov. 4
Shot for Love — Sennett Star
Sing, Bing, Sing — Bing Crosby	Mar. 24,'33	2 reels
Singing Boxer, The	Jan. 27,'33
Singing Plumber — Donald Novis	Sept. 23
Sweet Cookie — Sennett Star	Apr. 14,'33	2 reels
Temporary Butler — Sennett Star
Too Many Highballs — Sennett Star	Feb. 10,'33	2 reels
Uncle Jake — Sennett Star	May 5,'33	2 reels
Wrestlers, The — Sennett Star	Jan. 20,'33

POWERS PICTURES

Title	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
Dream Flowers	Sept. 15	9
Dual Control (Capt. James A. Mollison and Amy Johnson)	Sept. 1	12
It All Depends on You	Nov. 1	8
Land of My Fathers		9
Light of Love	Oct. 15	9
Me and the Boy Friend	Oct. 1	8

RKO-RADIO PICTURES

Title	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
CHARLIE CHAPLIN SERIES (Re-Issues)
Easy Street	Sept. 30	19½	Dec. 17
The Floorwalker	Dec. 23	20½
The Pawnshop	Mar. 17,'33
The Rink	Nov. 11	20
The Vagabond	Feb. 3,'33	21
CLARK & McCULLOUGH SERIES
Druggist's Dilemma, The	May 5,'33	17
Hocus Focus	Mar. 3,'33	20
Jitters, The Butler	Dec. 30	20½	Aug. 20
Millionaire Cat, The	Oct. 21	21
HARRY SWEET COMEDIES
Firehouse Honeymoon	Oct. 28	18	Jan. 14,'33
Heave Two	Mar. 10,'33	20½
Loops, My Dear	Jan. 6,'33	17
Shakespeare With Tin Ears	June 30,'33	18½
Thrown Out of Joint	May 12,'33	21
HEADLINER SERIES
No. 1—Shampoo, the Magician — Roscoe Ates-Hugh Herbert	Nov. 25	17
No. 2—Private Wives — Skeets Gallagher W. Catlett	Jan. 27,'33	21
No. 3—Hip, Zip, Hooray — Nat Carr	Mar. 31,'33	18½
MASQUERS COMEDIES
Abroad in Old Kentucky
Bride's Bereavement, The	Nov. 18	19
Lost in the Limehouse	Apr. 7,'33	20½
Through Thin and Thicket	Jan. 20,'33	17½
Two Lips and Juleps	Sept. 9	20
MICKEY McGUIRE SERIES
Mickey's Ape Man	Feb. 10,'33	18
Mickey's Big Broadcast
Mickey's Busy Day	Sept. 2	18	Aug. 6
Mickey's Charity	Dec. 2	18
Mickey's Disguise
Mickey's Race	Apr. 14,'33	18
MR. AVERAGE MAN COMEDIES (EDGAR KENNEDY)
Art in the Raw	Feb. 24,'33	19
Fish Feathers	Dec. 16	18
Inferior Decorations
Merchant of Menace, The	Apr. 21,'33	19½
Parlor, Bedroom and Wrath	Oct. 14	20½
PATHE NEWS
Released twice a week
PATHE REVIEW
Released once a month
SPECIALS
So This Is Harris	28		Mar. 11,'33
TOM AND JERRY SERIES
Barnyard Bunk	Sept. 16	6
Happy Hoboes	Mar. 31,'33
Magic Mummy	Feb. 7,'33	7
Panicky Pup	Feb. 24,'33	7
Pencil Mania	Dec. 9	7
Piano Tooners	Nov. 11	7½
Puzzled Pals		7	Apr. 22,'33
Spanish Twist, A	Oct. 14	6
Tight Rope Tricks	Jan. 6,'33	7

STATE RIGHTS

Title	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
ATLANTIC FILM
Playgrounds in the Sky	10		Nov. 5
Sportsmen's Paradise	10		July 30
CAESAR FILMS
Veneziana		1 reel
CENTRAL FILM
A Pilgrimage Through Palestine	10		Dec. 3
Boston Common—and Proper	10		Jan. 7,'33
Hula		3 reels
In Old New Orleans			May 28
Syria			May 21
F. M. S. CORP.
Newslaughs		7	Jan. 28,'33
IDEAL
Evolution	28		Sept. 3
INDUSTRIAL
The Silent Enemy	30
MARY WARNER
Berlin: Its Sports and Recreation		8
Berlin: Rhythm of a Metropolis		8	Apr. 8,'33
Glimpses of Germany		8
Green Heart of Germany, The		20
Springtime on the Rhine		7
The Mosel		8	Oct. 15
Trier, Oldest City in Germany		6
Vintagers' Festival in the Palatinate	10		Mar. 11,'33
Winter in the Bavarian Alps		1 reel
Young Germany Goes Ski-ing		1 reel
MASCOT
Technocracy	10		Jan. 7,'33
MASTER ART PRODUCTS
Melody Makers Series:
Sammy Fain	10		Dec. 24
Benny Davis		9
Gus Edwards
Cliff Friend		9
Night of Romance		7
PRINCIPAL
Beer Is Here
Get That Lion	29		Aug. 27
Isle of Desire		3 reels
Isle of Peril	32		July 16
Isles of Love		1 reel
Killing the Killer	11		July 30
Matto Grosso	24
New Western Front	25
Primitive		1 reel
Tiger Hunt, The	20		Dec. 31
Voodoo	36
WARD PRODUCTIONS
Your Technocracy and Mine		9½	Feb. 11,'33

UNITED ARTISTS

Title	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
MICKEY MOUSE
1. Mickey's Nightmare	Aug. 8	7½	Oct. 8
2. Trader Mickey	Aug. 26	7
3. The Whoopee Party	Sept. 16	7	Nov. 12
4. Touchdown Mickey	Oct. 7	6½
5. The Wayward Canary	Oct. 28	7¼
6. The Klondike Kid	Nov. 18
7. Mickey's Good Deed	Dec. 9	8
8. Building a Building	Dec. 20	7
9. The Mad Doctor	Jan. 20,'33	6
10. Mickey's Pal Pluto	Feb. 10,'33	7
11. The Mellerdrammer	Mar. 3,'33
12. Ye Olden Days	Mar. 24,'33
SILLY SYMPHONIES
1. Bears and Bees	July 15	6½
2. Just Dogs	Aug. 12	7
3. Flowers and Trees	Sept. 9	8	Oct. 15
4. Bugs in Love	Sept. 21	7
5. King Neptune	Oct. 7	7	Oct. 29
6. Babes in the Wood	Dec. 2	8	Apr. 1,'33
7. Santa's Workshop	Dec. 30	7	Dec. 24
8. Birds in the Spring	Dec. 30
9. Father Noah's Ark	Jan. 27,'33

(THE RELEASE CHART--CONT'D)

UNIVERSAL

Title	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
OSWALD CARTOONS
Beau Best	May 22,'33	1 reel
Busy Barber	Sept. 12	1 reel
Carnival Capers	Oct. 10	1 reel
Going to Blazes	Apr. 10,'33	1 reel
Ham and Eggs	June 19,'33	1 reel
New Deal, A	July 17,'33	1 reel
Ocean Hop (Reissue)	Apr. 24,'33	1 reel
Plumber, The	Jan. 30,'33	7
Shriek, The	Feb. 27,'33	7...Mar. 25,'33
Teacher's Pest	Dec. 19	7
Wild and Wooly	Nov. 21	1 reel
POOCH CARTOONS
Butcher Boy, The	Sept. 26	7...Sept. 17
Cat and Dogs	Dec. 5	1 reel
Crowd Snores, The	Oct. 24	1 reel
Hot and Cold	May 8,'33	1 reel
Lumber Champ, The	Mar. 13,'33	7...Apr. 8,'33
Merry Dog, The	Jan. 2,'33	1 reel
Nature's Workshop	June 5,'33	1 reel
Terrible Troubador, The	Feb. 13,'33	1 reel
Underdog, The	Nov. 7	1 reel
RADIO STAR REELS
Morton Downey—No. 1 With Vincent Lopez	Oct. 31	2 reels
The Street Singer Nick Kenny—No. 1	Nov. 14	2 reels
Morton Downey—No. 2 With Brown and Henderson	Nov. 28	2 reels
Art Jarrett Nick Kenny—No. 2	Dec. 12	2 reels
Down Memory Lane Louis Sobol—No. 1 With Texas Guinan	Dec. 26	1 reel
Married or Single Nick Kenny—No. 3 With Little Jack Little	Jan. 16,'33	21
I Know Everybody and Everybody's Racket Walter Winchell—No. 1 With Paul Whiteman	Jan. 30,'33	21...Feb. 11,'33
Morton Downey—No. 3 The Holdup With Joe Young	Feb. 14,'33	2 reels
Radio Murder Mystery Louis Sobol—No. 2	Mar. 6,'33	2 reels
Morton Downey—No. 4 My Pal the Prince	Apr. 17,'33	2 reels
SPECIALS
Voice of the Vatican	Mar. 13,'33	10...Mar. 11,'33
Your Technocracy and Mine	Apr. 15,'33	1 reel
STRANGE AS IT SEEMS SERIES
No. 21—Novelty	Aug. 22	1 reel
No. 22—Novelty	Sept. 19	1 reel
No. 23—Novelty	Oct. 17	1 reel
No. 24—Novelty	Nov. 14	1 reel
No. 25—Novelty	Dec. 12	1 reel
No. 26—Novelty	Jan. 23,'33	1 reel
No. 27—Novelty	Mar. 20,'33	1 reel
No. 28—Novelty	Apr. 17,'33	1 reel
No. 29—Novelty	May 15,'33	1 reel
No. 30—Novelty	June 12,'33	1 reel
No. 31—Novelty	July 10,'33	1 reel
UNIVERSAL BREVITIES
Boo!	Dec. 26	1 reel
Dr. Jekyll's Hide	Sept. 26	9...Oct. 1
Good Old Days, The	Nov. 21	1 reel
Greeks Had No Word for Them, The	Oct. 24	1 reel
Lizzie Stratta	Jan. 23,'33	10
UNIVERSAL COMEDIES (1932-33 SEASON)
A Quiet Night Bert Roach	May 31,'33	21
Alias the Professor James Gleason	Mar. 8,'33	2 reels
Boys Will Be Boys Frank Albertson	Nov. 30	2 reels
Family Troubles Henry Armetta	Jan. 11,'33	21
Finishing Touch Skeets Gallagher June Clyde	Oct. 19	2 reels
Hesitating Love L. Fazenda-M. Prevost	Nov. 16	2 reels
Hunting Trouble Louise Fazenda	Feb. 8,'33	20...Mar. 11,'33
Kid Glove Kisses Slim Summerville	Sept. 21	2 reels
Lights Out James Gleason	Dec. 24	2 reels
Mister Mugg James Gleason	May 10,'33	21
My Operation Vince Barnett-June Clyde	Dec. 28	2 reels
Officer, Save My Child Slim Summerville	Nov. 2	2 reels
Pick Me Up Marie Prevost	Apr. 5,'33	19
Rockabye Cowboy James Gleason	Jan. 25,'33	2 reels
Room Mates Frank Albertson	Apr. 19,'33	20
Should Crooners Marry? Frank Albertson	Feb. 22,'33	2 reels
Trial of Vince Barnett Vince Barnett	Mar. 22,'33
Who, Me Frank Albertson	Sept. 7	2 reels
Yoo Hoo! James Gleason	Oct. 5	21...Sept. 3

VITAPHONE SHORTS

Title	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
BIG V COMEDIES
No. 1—Sherlock's Home Jack Haley
No. 2—Here, Prince Joe Penner
No. 3—You Call It Madness Richy Craig, Jr.
No. 4—Hey, Pop Roscoe (Fatty) Arbuckle
No. 5—Then Came the Yawn Jack Haley
No. 6—The Run Around William Demarest
No. 7—Trouble Indemnity Codee and Orth
No. 8—The Build-Up Jack Haley
No. 9—Buzzin' Around Roscoe (Fatty) Arbuckle
No. 10—Wrongorilla Jack Haley
No. 11—How've You Bean? "Fatty" Arbuckle
No. 12—An Idle Roomer Jack Haley
BROADWAY BREVITIES (NEW SERIES)
No. 1—C'est Paris Technicolor Musical	Sept. 3	17
No. 2—Passing the Buck Alexander Gray	Sept. 24	18
No. 3—Tee for Two Technicolor Musical	Oct. 8	17...Nov. 12
No. 4—Tip-Tap-Toe Hal Leroy-Mitzi Mayfair	Oct. 22	19
No. 5—A Modern Cinderella Ruth Etting	Nov. 5	18
No. 6—Picking a Winner Technicolor Musical	Nov. 19	16...Nov. 19
No. 7—The Red Shadow Al Gray-Bernice Claire	Dec. 3	18
No. 8—Sky Symphony Stoopnagle & Budd	June 3,'33
No. 9—Poor Little Rich Boy Phil Baker	Dec. 24	18
No. 10—Hey, Hey, Westerner Technicolor Musical	Dec. 31	17...Oct. 15
No. 11—That Goes Double Russ Columbo	June 17,'33
No. 12—Bygones Ruth Etting	Jan. 14,'33	18
No. 13—Pleasure Island Technicolor Musical	Feb. 25,'33	18
No. 14—Yours Sincerely Lanny Ross	Mar. 11,'33	19
No. 15—Speaking of Operations Pick & Pat	Jan. 28,'33	18
No. 16—Northern Exposure Technicolor Musical	Apr. 8,'33	16
No. 17—Nothing Ever Happens Musical	Mar. 25,'33
No. 18—World's Champ Jack Dempsey	July 11,'33
No. 19—The Way of All Freshmen Hal Leroy-Mitzi Mayfair	Apr. 22,'33
No. 20—Along Came Ruth Ruth Etting	May 6,'33
No. 21—Fifi V. Segal-Chas. Judels	May 20,'33
HOW TO BREAK 90 BOBBY JONES
No. 1—The Grip	May 15,'33
No. 2—Position and Back Swing
No. 3—Hip Action
No. 4—Down Swing
No. 5—Impact
No. 6—Fine Points
LOONEY TUNES SERIES
No. 9—Bosko and Bruno	7	Dec. 10
No. 10—Bosko's Dog Race	8	July 8
No. 11—Bosko at the Beach	7	Nov. 5
No. 12—Bosko's Store	7
No. 13—Bosko the Lumberjack
LOONEY TUNES (NEW SERIES)
No. 1—Ride Him, Bosko
No. 2—Bosko the Drawback
No. 3—Bosko's Dizzy Date
No. 4—Bosko's Woodland Daze
No. 5—Bosko in Dutch
No. 6—Bosko in Person
No. 7—Bosko the Speed King
No. 8—Bosko's Knight Mare
MELODY MASTERS (NEW SERIES)
No. 1—Music to My Ears Jack Denny and Band
No. 2—Municipal Band Wagon
No. 3—Smash Your Baggage Small's Paradise Band
No. 4—The Lease Breakers Aunt Jemima	9	Dec. 3
No. 5—The Yacht Party Roger Wolfe Kahn's Band
No. 6—Hot Competition The Continentals-Barris-Whiteman-Ted Husing
No. 7—Abe Lyman and Band	10	Apr. 1,'33
No. 8—"How's Tricks?" Jean Sargent-George Owen and Gang
No. 9—That's the Spirit Noble Sissle and Band
No. 10—The Alma Martyr Fred Waring and His Pennsylvanians
MERRY MELODIES (New Series)
No. 1—You're Too Careless With Your Kisses	8	Dec. 17
No. 2—I Wish I Had Wings
No. 3—A Great Big Bunch of You
No. 4—Three's a Crowd
No. 5—Shanty Where Santa Claus Lives
No. 6—One Step Ahead of My Shadow
No. 7—Young and Healthy
No. 8—The Organ Grinder
No. 9—Wake Up the Gypsy in Me
NOVELTIES
Bigger They Are, The Primo Carnera	2 reels
Gypsy Caravan Martinelli	1 reel
Handy Guy, The Earl Sande	2 reels
Rhythms of a Big City	1 reel
Season's Greetings, The Christmas Special	5
Trip to Tibet, A	1 reel
Washington, The Man and the Capitol Clarence Whitehill	18
ONE-REEL COMEDIES
Baby Face Victor Moore
Military Post, The Robert Guzman
No-Account, The Hardie-Hutchison
No Questions Asked Little Billy
Strong Arm, The Harrington-O'Neill
ORGAN SONG-NATAS
For You Organ-Vocal	1 reel
Say a Little Prayer for Me Organ-Vocal	1 reel
When Your Lover Has Gone Organ-Vocal	1 reel
JOE PENNER COMEDIES
Moving In	2 reels
Rough Sailing	16
Stutterless Romance, A	1 reel
Where Men Are Men	2 reels
PEPPER POT (NEW SERIES)
No. 1—Rambling Round Radio Row No. 1
No. 2—Nickelette
No. 3—Contact
No. 4—If I'm Elected
No. 5—King Salmon
No. 6—Rambling Round Radio Row No. 2
No. 7—Babe O' Mine
No. 8—Dangerous Occupations
No. 9—Out of the Past
No. 10—Love Thy Neighbor
No. 11—Rambling Round Radio Row No. 3
No. 12—A Whale of a Yarn
No. 13—Africa Speaks—English
No. 14—Rambling Round Radio Row No. 4
No. 15—Sea Devils
No. 16—Parades of Yesterday
No. 17—Breakwater
No. 18—Little White Lies
No. 19—Rambling Round Radio Row No. 5
No. 20—You're Killing Me
No. 21—Inklings
No. 22—Rambling Round Radio Row No. 6
No. 23—Around the World in 8 Minutes	8	Aug. 20
No. 24—Fishermen's Holiday
No. 25—Stuck, Stuck, Stucco
No. 26—Seeing Samoa
SPORT THRILLS SERIES TED HUSING
No. 1—
No. 2—
No. 3—
No. 4—Old Time Sport Thrills
No. 5—
No. 6—
S. S. VAN DINE MYSTERY SERIES (Donald Meek-John Hamilton)
No. 10—Campus Mystery, The
No. 11—Crane Poison Case, The
No. 12—Transatlantic Mystery, The	22	Sept. 19
TWO-REEL COMEDIES
Dandy and the Belle, The Frank McGlynn, Jr.-Mary Murray
Freshman Love Ruth Etting
Old Lace Ruth Etting
WORLD TRAVEL TALKS— E. M. NEWMAN
No. 1—Little Journeys to Great Masters	1 reel
No. 2—Southern India	9
No. 3—Road to Mandalay	1 reel
No. 4—Mediterranean By-ways	9
No. 5—Javanese Journeys	9
No. 6—Northern India	1 reel
No. 7—Oberammergau	1 reel
No. 8—South American Journeys	9	June 25
No. 9—Soviet Russia	1 reel
No. 10—Paris Glimpses	9	July 30
No. 11—Dear Old London	1 reel
No. 12—When in Rome	9	June 18
No. 13—Berlin Today	9	Oct. 29
WORLD ADVENTURES E. M. NEWMAN (New Series)
No. 1—Dancing Around the World	1 reel
No. 2—Transportations of the World	1 reel
No. 3—An Original Cocktail	10	Oct. 8
No. 4—Curious Customs of the World	1 reel
No. 5—From Bethlehem to Jerusalem	10	Apr. 1,'33
No. 6—High Spots of the Far East	10	Sept. 10
No. 7—Main Streets	1 reel
No. 8—Beauty Spots of the World	1 reel
No. 9—Workers of the World	1 reel
No. 10—Wonder Spots of the World	1 reel
No. 11—Costumes of the World	1 reel
No. 12—Strange Ceremonies	1 reel
No. 13—Top of the World	1 reel

SERIALS

UNIVERSAL

(EACH SERIAL 12 EPISODES OF TWO REELS)

Title	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
Clancy of the Mounted Tom Tyler-Jacqueline Wells	Feb. 27,'33	20 (each)...Feb. 4,'33
Lost Special Frank Albertson	Dec. 5
Jungle Mystery Tom Tyler	Sept. 12	20 (each)
Phantom of the Air Tom Tyler-Gloria Shea	May 22,'33

TRAVELERS

ADOLPH ZUKOR, Paramount president, arrives in New York Thursday from the Coast.

WILL H. HAYS, JOSEPH and NICHOLAS SCHENCK and PAT CASEY left Hollywood for New York on Tuesday.

ROY DEL RUTH, Columbia director, arrived in New York from Coast.

THELMA TODD sailed for London to star for BIP.

CLARK and MCCULLOGH were scheduled to leave New York for Coast to appear in Brock shorts for RKO.

GEORGE ARLISS, Warner star, was en route to New York, sailing shortly for England.

CLEVE ADAMS arrived in New York from Cleveland, where he sold his interest in First Division exchange.

EDDIE CANTOR left New York for Hollywood to prepare new Goldwyn feature.

ERNST LUBITSCH, Paramount director, arrived in New York from Coast.

DU BOSE HEYWARD, author, arrived in New York from Coast to treat "Emperor Jones" for Krimsky and Cochran.

TOM BAILY, Paramount studio publicity director, and WILLIAM PINE, studio ad chief, arrived in New York Tuesday.

Warner branch manager ROBERT SMELTZER, Washington; R. H. HAINES, Cincinnati, and R. MOCHRIE, Philadelphia, left New York for their respective territories.

GENE RAYMOND, Fox player, leaves Hollywood Thursday for New York, en route to England.

JOHN BALDERSTON, author, arrived in New York from Fox coast studio, returning next week.

IRENE DUNNE, RKO player, arrived in New York from Coast.

L. J. SCHLAIFER, sales manager, and HENRY HENIGSON, studio manager for Universal, arrived on the coast for production conferences with the Laemmles.

ANNA MAY WONG sailed for Europe.

WILL ROGERS, Fox star, flew to New York from California for Lambs' Gambol.

NORMAY MORAY, Vitaphone sales executive, is due in New York from a ten-week tour.

BURNS and ALLEN, radio performers, returned to New York from Paramount's coast studio.

SALLY EILERS, Fox player, sails for Europe Saturday.

BEBE DANIELS and her husband, BEN LYON, sail for Europe Saturday.

HENRY GARAT sailed for London for two months, returning then to Fox studio.

CHARLES S. GOETZ left New York for sales trip for Exhibitors' Screen Service.

SIR HAROLD BOULTON, song and lyric composer, returned to London.

MARTIN BECK, RKO vaudeville executive, sailed for Europe, reputedly to negotiate with Max Reinhardt and also for Folies Bergere, for RKO appearances.

F. J. MORTIMER, editor of the Amateur Photographer and Cinematographer, sailed for England.

M. A. LIGHTMAN, MPTOA president, arrived in New York from Memphis, for board meeting.

SAMUEL GOLDWYN arrived in New York from Europe, en route to Hollywood.

GEORGE H. THOMAS, coast publicity chief for Warners, and MAXWELL ARNOW, casting head, arrived in New York from Burbank studios, for conferences on production.

N. A. REICHLEIN sailed for Panama and Central America to roadshow "Does Noches," representing J. H. Hoffberg Co.

CLAIRE TREVOR, stage player, leaves New York for Movietone City on Sunday, to work for FOX.

CLAUDE SAUNDERS, of Ross Federal Checking Service, arrived in the south from New York.

GEORGE B. WEST, Chicago manager, and BEN ROSENBERG, of the Hollywood office of Exhibitors Screen Service, arrived in New York.

GRADWELL SEARS, Warner sales executive, left New York for sales tour to Dallas and Chicago.

W. C. MICHEL, EDDIE ALPERSON and SIDNEY TOWELL, returned to New York from Hollywood.

CHARLES STEWART, of Hollywood, and IKE STEWART, of Washington, attorneys for Harman-Ising Productions, arrived in New York for conferences with Mitchell Leichter.

BARTON MACLANE, stage player and playwright, is en route to Hollywood to work for Paramount.

HARRY MCCOY, Sennett director, arrives Thursday in New York from California aboard the S.S. Santa Ana of the Grace Line.

EDMUND MANTELL, Bronx exhibitor, returned from Hollywood.

ARCHIE MAYO, Warner director, left New York for Hollywood.

MAURICE D. KANN, editor of Motion Picture Daily, returned to New York from Hollywood, where he reported on the recent industry conferences for QUIGLEY PUBLICATIONS.

HENRY GINSBERG, Roach executive, was due in New York from the coast.

CHARLES R. ROGERS, Paramount producer, and HARRY JOE BROWN, were due in New York from Hollywood, en route to Europe.

JOHN FLINN, of Paramount, arrived in New York from the coast Tuesday.

JOSEPH SCHNITZER returned to New York from Hollywood.

EDMUND GOULDING, Metro director, arrived in New York from Culver City in search of ideas and talent.

ARTHUR LOEW, Metro executive, and DAVE BLUM, will return to New York from Europe May 1.

NEWS PICTURES

FOX MOVIETONE NEWS—No. 61—Nation observes Easter—Racing season opens in Maryland—Japan's army sweeps on in Jehol—Max Schmeling arrives in New York—New York police get new head—Burma women join circus.

FOX MOVIETONE NEWS—No. 62—Lindy and Anne fly again—Reforestation started in Arkansas—Germany sends new spokesman to United States—Farley promises two-cent postage—Roosevelts give party for kids in Washington—French war eagles fly near Germany.

HEARST METROTONE NEWS—No. 260—Set new marathon record in Boston—France shows air might near German border—Farley to restore two-cent postage—French play football with motorcycles—Roosevelts host to kids in Washington—Lindbergs take to air.

HEARST METROTONE NEWS—No. 261—Macon in first flight at Dayton, Ohio—Pope blesses vast multitude in Rome—Circus performers visit sick New York kiddies—New air record set in England—Parley brings European leaders to United States.

PARAMOUNT NEWS—No. 75—Tots in fashion show at Palm Springs, Cal.—Lindys aloft again—President gives kids Easter party in Washington—New German ambassador arrives in United States—French airmen maneuver near Rhine frontier.

PARAMOUNT NEWS—No. 76—Pope blesses world in Rome—World's eyes on United States—New summer hat styles shown in Paris—Macon in test flight at Akron, Ohio—Circus performers cheer kids in New York hospital.

PATHE NEWS—No. 76—Women fish at Branford, Conn.—Macon's new home at Sunnyvale, Cal.—Woman becomes Minister to Denmark—Cut-proof glass invented in Berlin—Woman lives 36 years in German steeple—Washington crew beats Olympic mark—Dempsey greets Schmeling on arrival in New York.

PATHE NEWS—No. 77—Public gives opinion on Vasko child—Kiddies in fashion parade at Palm Springs, Cal.—Hitler speaks in Berlin—Steam plane test successful at Oakland, Cal.—Heavy rains leave many homeless in New England—Col. and Mrs. Lindbergh start tour.

UNIVERSAL NEWSPAPER NEWSREEL—No. 138—Inflation plan spurs activity in New York—Steam engined plane tested at Oakland, Cal.—Train wreck kills four at Cartersville, Ga.—Police guard beer trucks in Chicago—Convicts combat floods at Glendora, Miss.—Lindys starts air tour.

UNIVERSAL NEWSPAPER NEWSREEL—No. 139—Foreign envoys here for parleys—Forestry unit starts work at Luray, Va.—Seaplane sets world's record in Italy—Akron wreckage found at Barnegat, N. J.—New dirigible on trial flight at Akron, Ohio.

WABASH AVENUE

CHICAGO

A reproduction of a Hollywood stage, showing motion pictures in the making to the nth detail, is to be a feature at the Century of Progress Exposition. Just what good purpose this will serve the industry is something of a question but the public will be let in on all the secrets of picture making as a result of the plans of Oscar Rosenthal of the contracting firm of Rosenthal, Cornell & Dwyer, which are sponsoring the project.

▽

Steve Montgomery of the United Artists office was called to Minneapolis suddenly last week on account of the death of his father.

▽

L. K. Brin, Milwaukee exhibitor, and Jack O'Toole, exchange operator of the same city, have acquired the Tiffany franchise for Chicago, Milwaukee and Mineapolis and are expected to open an exchange here in the near future.

▽

Ted Morse will manage the new World theatre which is Al Steffes' "carriage trade" theatre, formerly known as the Playhouse, on Michigan avenue.

▽

Henri Ellman announces that he will open a branch of Capitol Film Corporation in Indianapolis.

▽

Edward Schlaefer, who hails from Denver, is a new member of the United Artists sales staff.

▽

Phil Goldstone, Majestic producer, spent several days in Chicago enroute back to the production center following conferences in the east.

▽

Vendome theatre has been opened by the firm of Copson & Dallies Company.

▽

Walter Branson, RKO district manager, is spending plenty of time out in the territory contacting middlewest exchanges.

▽

Bill Pearl again is operating the Alcyon theatre at Highland Park. For the past few years the house has been in the hands of Universal and more recently operated by Johnny Jones.

▽

F. J. Flaherty, recently connected with Educational and Fox sales departments, has joined the Columbia sales staff under Phil Dunas.

▽

Henri Ellman of Capitol Film Corporation is shouting long and hard over the extensive circuit booking given his productions, "With Williamson Under the Sea" and "Devil's Play Ground." He has announced he will open a Capitol branch in Indianapolis.

▽

Henry Bambaras is going to put the Circle theatre, Forest Park, very much on the map, current reports having it that Bambaras has put $12,000 into making this an ace house.

▽

Benjamin Schultz, attorney for the "rebel" operators, has announced that the court action pending before Judge William Lindsay in behalf of the group of operators headed by Fred Oser, who was shot by Ralph O'Hara, will be vigoriusly prosecuted in the near future.

HOLQUIST

Producing Shorts in South

National Pictures, producing in San Antonio, Texas, has completed the second of a series of 10 musical "westerns" starring Hal Byrnes. P. B. Willett is directing the series. A. A. Phillips and H. W. Kier are producing the subjects, and Mr. Kier was in New York negotiating for national release of the product.

CLASSIFIED ADVERTISING

the great national medium for showmen

Ten cents per word, money-order or check with copy. Count initials, box number and address. Minimum insertion, $1. Four insertions for the price of three. Contract rates on application. No borders or cuts. Forms close Mondays at 5 P.M. Publisher reserves right to reject any copy. Address correspondence, copy and checks to MOTION PICTURE HERALD, Classified Dept., 1790 Broadway, New York City

REPAIR SERVICE

BEST GRADE REPAIR WORK. PRICES RIGHT. Free relief heads. Prompt service. GUERCIO AND BARTHEL, 1018 South Wabash Avenue, Chicago, Ill.

USED EQUIPMENT

UNUSUAL BARGAINS IN USED OPERA Chairs, Sound Equipment, Moving Picture Machines, Screens, Spotlights, Stereopticons, etc. Projection Machines Repaired. Send for catalogue H. MOVIE SUPPLY COMPANY, 844 So. Wabash Ave., Chicago.

HIGH GRADE LENSES, ALL SIZES; SELL OR trade. Cheap. BOX 288, MOTION PICTURE HERALD, 407 So. Dearborn St., Chicago, Ill.

PAIR SIMPLEX MACHINES REBUILT, GUARanteed, $350; Peerless low intensity lamps, $190. CROWN MOTION PICTURE SUPPLIES, 311 West 44th Street, New York.

BARGAINS RECONDITIONED ARTIC-NU-AIR blowers noiseless drives. Write for prices. SOUTHERN FAN CO., Box 440, Atlanta, Ga.

TWO REBUILT PORTABLE HOLMES PROjectors with new sound head, new amplifier and speaker comprising complete double outfit—$525. BOX 294, MOTION PICTURE HERALD.

SILENT FILM. PORTABLE MACHINES. Stereopticons. Spotlights. NATIONAL EQUIPMENT CO., Duluth, Minn.

SACRIFICING COMPLETE RECORDING STUDIO —Mitchell, Bell Howell Cameras; Amplifiers; Mikes; Recording Heads; Glowlamps, etc. BOX 289, MOTION PICTURE HERALD.

LIQUIDATION PROCEEDING — GOVERNMENT Surplus—Tremendous Reductions: Projectors, Lamphouses, Generators, Rectifiers, Amplifiers, Soundheads, Loudspeakers. Trades accepted. S. O. S. CORP., 1600 Broadway, New York.

PRINTING SERVICE

EXHIBITORS CAN SAVE MONEY ON STATIONery, window cards and advertising paper by ordering through the mail. Let us know your wants. BOX 135-A, MOTION PICTURE HERALD.

NEW EQUIPMENT

LIQUIDATION SOUNDHEAD STOCK LEADING manufacturer—fraction original value. Built like finely jewelled watch. Year's greatest opportunity. BOX 293, MOTION PICTURE HERALD.

WANTED TO BUY

WILL PAY $10.00 CASH EACH FOR SIMPLEX pedestals, complete. BOX 292, MOTION PICTURE HERALD, 407 S. Dearborn St., Chicago, Ill.

THEATRES

HAVE SEVERAL THEATRES FOR SALE OR lease, but not on rental, to reliable showmen. If interested will gladly supply details. BOX 134-A, MOTION PICTURE HERALD.

PROJECTIONISTS UNIONS

THE NEW NATIONAL PROJECTIONISTS' Union—Independent Motion Picture Operators' Union, National Executive Offices, 3546 Vincent North, Minneapolis, Minn.

ENTERTAINERS MATERIAL

MONOLOGUES, DIALOGUES, SPECIALLY written. Dollar each. TIZZARD, 801-A Willoughby Ave., Brooklyn, N. Y.

GENERAL EQUIPMENT

RECTIFIERS, 30 AMPERES, FOREST, $75; 15 amperes rectifiers, $25. Special prices for this month only. Act at once. Guaranteed. CROWN MOTION PICTURE SUPPLIES, 311 West 44th St., New York.

DEBRIE SLOW MOTION CAMERA, TURRET front and three other styles. Universal Cameras. Tripods, Lenses, Gelb-Wohl Lamps, Developing Racks. MRS. CLARENCE E. RUNEY, Palace Hotel, Cincinnati.

NEW & USED SCENERY DRAPES, TRACKS, etc. KINGSLEY STUDIO, Alton, Ill.

FILM EXCHANGES

INDEPENDENT EXCHANGES ALL OVER THE country wanted to act as local representative for independent productions handled on state right basis. State number of theatres servicing in territory together with list of producers you are now representing. BOX 134-A, MOTION PICTURE HERALD.

EQUIPMENT EXCHANGE

IF YOU WANT TO REPLACE ANY TYPE OF equipment with brand new material we will be glad to make an allowance on your old equipment and a better price on new equipment. Let us know what you need and what you want to exchange and we will send complete details on our proposition. EQUIPMENT EXCHANGE, c/o MOTION PICTURE HERALD, 1790 Broadway, New York City.

BUSINESS STIMULATORS

IT PACKS THEM IN. IT HANGS THEM ON the paint. A new novelty. Costs practically nothing. Write for samples. ONEIDA NOVELTY COMPANY, Box 103, Oneida, N. Y.

POSITIONS WANTED

OPERATOR—ELECTRICIAN WANTS JOB. WALTER INGALLS, Ionia, Iowa.

MARRIED MAN, EXPERIENCED SOUND PROjectionist and capable of servicing equipment. Will go anywhere and accept any reasonable offer. Best references furnished. BOX 132A, MOTION PICTURE HERALD.

MANAGER OR ASSISTANT, 23, DESIRES POSItion with future, experienced, operated own theatres. BOX 295, MOTION PICTURE HERALD.

WANTED POSITION AS THEATRE MANAGER. Experienced. References. C. E. USHER, Jamaica, Vt.

MOTION PICTURE STUDIO EXPERIENCE—general office—typing—professional commercial artist —title cards. MRS. CLARENCE E. RUNEY, Palace Hotel, Cincinnati, Ohio.

TECHNICAL BOOKS

"RICHARDSON'S HAND BOOKS OF PROJECtion" in three volumes. Universally accredited as the best and most practical. Aaron Nadell's "Projection Sound Pictures." Complete information on sound equipment. Both text books complete for $12.80. QUIGLEY BOOKSHOP, 1790 Broadway, New York.

TRAINING SCHOOLS

LEARN MODERN THEATRE MANAGEMENT. Approved home-study training. Free Catalog. THEATRE MANAGERS INSTITUTE, 315 Washington St., Elmira, New York.

POSTERS

GOOD, CLEAN, USED ADVERTISING CHEAP. Liberal credits. Highest cash prices paid for paper on current releases. We pay transportation charges. ALABAMA POSTER EXCHANGE, 528 North 18th St., Birmingham, Ala.

HELP WANTED

FILM SALESMEN AND REPRESENTATIVES TO contact exhibitors and secure contracts and bookings for independent productions on a state right basis. State in first letter experience, etc. Those with car and interested in percentage basis preferred. BOX 133-A, MOTION PICTURE HERALD.

BRANCH MANAGERS WANTED IN EVERY State. Knowledge of projection helpful but not necessary. Business consists of theatre supplies. BOX 280, MOTION PICTURE HERALD.

AGENTS IN EVERY CITY IN AMERICA TO represent reliable concern furnishing necessary service to theatres. Those experienced as film or premium salesmen preferred. Must have car and willing to work on commission basis only. State all requirements in first letter. Box 136-A, MOTION PICTURE HERALD.

CONFIRMED BY TIME

IT may have been fate that prompted the perfecting of the first Eastman motion picture film just when Edison's first projector demanded it.

But it was time's judgment of its merit that again and again confirmed Eastman film as a leader in the industry it helped to father.

Today it's Eastman Super-sensitive Panchromatic Negative that points the way to new heights of accomplishment, in a new era of cinematography. Eastman Kodak Company (J. E. Brulatour, Inc., Distributors).

EASTMAN FILM

AS EASY AS TAKING A BOTTLE FROM A BABY!

Bravo, Maurice!

Bravo, Monsieur Le Baby! 10,000 Lusty "Bravo's" For Your Efforts! We Say Again: Taking Box-Office Dollars With This Honey Of A Show ...Will Be As Easy As Taking A Bottle From A Baby!

Maurice
CHEVALIER
IN A Bedtime Story

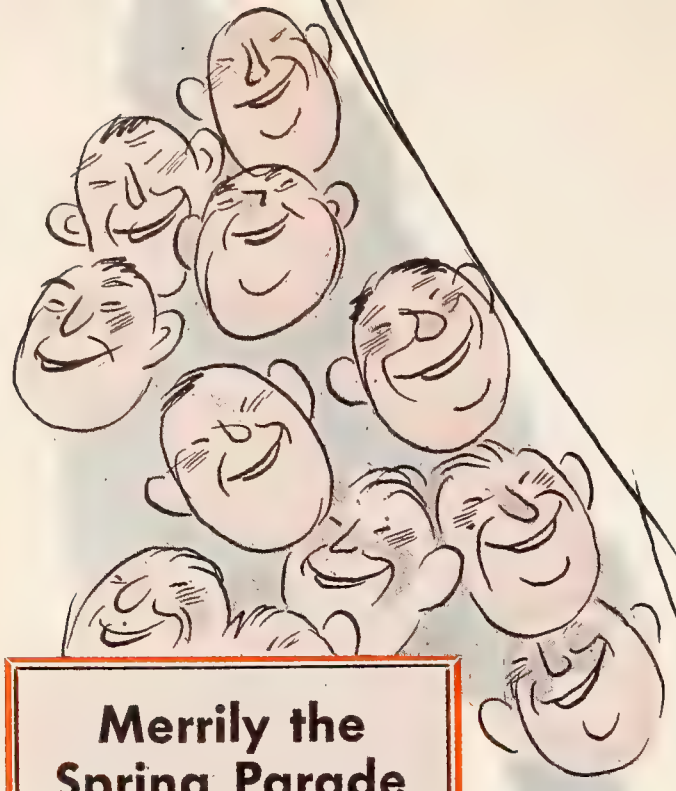
with
HELEN TWELVETREES
EDW. EVERETT HORTON
ADRIENNE AMES • BABY LEROY
Directed by
NORMAN TAUROG
A Paramount Picture

MOTION PICTURE HERALD



A CONSOLIDATION OF EXHIBITORS HERALD-WORLD AND MOTION PICTURE NEWS

PICTURES for the EXHIBITOR NEXT SEASON

In Two Sections—Section One

Vol. 111, No. 6 Entered as second-class matter, January 12, 1931, at the Post Office, at New York, N. Y., under the act of March 3, 1879. Pub- May 6, 1933

Merrily the Spring Parade of M-G-M hits continues—

"TODAY WE LIVE" (Joan Crawford—Gary Cooper) packing them in everywhere.

"WHITE SISTER" (Helen Hayes—Clark Gable) brings out the fans from Coast to Coast.

"RASPUTIN" (with the three Barrymores) consistently BIG!

"GABRIEL OVER THE WHITE HOUSE" a tonic to theatres, a public sensation!

"THE BARBARIAN" (Ramon Novarro) is another "Pagan."

"LOOKING FORWARD" (Lionel Barrymore) is doing swell business.

Watch for:

"NEVER GIVE A SUCKER A BREAK" (Lee Tracy).

"PEG O' MY HEART" (Marion Davies).

"DEVIL'S BROTHER" (Laurel-Hardy and Dennis King).

—and plenty more!

"You'll hear plenty about these!"

Smiles on Every Film Row!

Happiness in every Home Office!

The Talk of the Industry!

METRO

SHOT IN THE ARM

that woke up the industry!

TWO M-G-M $2 ROAD-SHOWS ON BROADWAY!

It hasn't happened since the days of "Big Parade" and "Ben-Hur." History repeats! M-G-M electrifies the industry with TWO BIG $2 ATTRACTIONS PACKING THEM IN ON THE GAY WHITE WAY! What a thrill for every man and woman connected with pictures! It's the best stimulus for picture attendance this industry has had in years! Sure we're proud as hell!

GOLDWYN-MAYER

Year after year after year!

. . . Now tell us HOW to BILL

THE WEALTH OF STARS IN "GOLD DIGGERS"

- That's the question facing this third session of exhibitor conferences which are planning the national promotion campaign for Warner Bros.' Show of the Century!
- Look at this amazing cast! There's such an embarrassment of star riches that it's a real problem to decide which should be given most prominence.
- We're putting the decision up to you — because you know which draw best at your box-office!
- Send us your suggested ranking now on the coupon below. The consensus of opinion indicated by the replies will be followed to the letter in the ads and paper we supply you — so get your vote to us without delay!

DICK POWELL

GUY KIBBEE

THIS COUPON WILL HELP YOU GET THE AD MATERIAL YOU WANT FOR

GOLD DIGGERS OF 1933

WARNER BROS.' FIRST 1933-'34 PRODUCTION . . . READY SOON!

ALINE MacMAHON

WARREN WILLIAM

RUBY KEELER

JOAN BLONDELL

GINGER ROGERS

STERLING HOLLOWAY

FERDINAND GOTTSCHALK

TAMMANY YOUNG

CLARENCE NORDSTROM

NED SPARKS

I think the "Gold Diggers" Stars should be billed in the following order. (If you would prefer to have only a selection of these stars featured, omit the names of the others from your list.)

1_____ 7_____

2_____ 8_____

3_____ 9_____

4_____ 10_____

5_____ 11_____

6_____ 12_____

*Name*_____ *Theatre*_____

*City*_____ *State*_____

--M.P H.

HUNDREDS ARE JOININ

these unprecedented weekly conferences! Already an avalanch of exhibitor votes have guided us selecting girls and scenes to featur Get in now on this unique oppo tunity to tell us how you want th all-important campaign prepare Fill out and to Warner Bros., Advertising Dept 321 West 44th St., N.Y.C.—ar watch for the fourth conferen in trade papers next week!

MAIL THIS COUPON TODA

VITAGRAPH, INC., DISTRIBUTORS

In one voice critics proclaim it GREAT ENTERTAINMENT

as Radio City Music Hall throngs throb to its thrills and romance

Get ready film fans, here comes THE movie of the year. Don't you DARE miss it!—L. A. Herald Express

Provides plenty of entertainment. Should make Fox proud of Mr. Lasky. —N. Y. Eve. Post

Handsome entertainment for all classes. —N. Y. American

Captures the sentimental mood of "Seventh Heaven." —N. Y. Herald-Tribune

Will undoubtedly please audiences. —N. Y. Sun

As hair-raising a wild animal sequence as any audience can bear to sit through. —N. Y. Daily News

Will cause talk. Carries appeal for all classes.—Variety

Thrilling, has drama, spectacle, action. Heart-touching . . . almost of "Seventh Heaven" type.—M. P. Herald

Tenderly charming...develops into smashing climax. Double appeal — for children and grownups. —M. P. Daily

A pip from every angle. Wide appeal for all classes. —Film Daily

ZOO IN BUDAPEST

LORETTA YOUNG, GENE RAYMOND,
O. P. Heggie. Directed by Rowland V. Lee.
Story by Melville Baker and Jack Kirkland.
A JESSE L. LASKY Production

HIT NO. 1 IN THE FOX May FESTIVAL

MAY -5 1933 ©CIB 188805

MOTION PICTURE HERALD

Vol. III, No. 6 May 6, 1933

BACK TO SELLING

DECENTRALIZATIONS and the breaking up of the circuits also break up the gay little Broadway game of trading playing time for the nation's more important houses and make motion picture distribution once again a selling job, a job of selling exhibitors motion pictures for their customers, one may gather from a news story in Motion Picture Daily.

It is recorded that whereas in the era now at an end, the Broadway playing time traders juggled with the product for the screens of 2,500 theatres, there are now but 600 left for the so-called "national buy".

This will tend to increase the responsibilities and opportunities of sales managers, salesmen and advertising men. It promises, too, to tend toward a condition that might favorably react on the product. Eventually the necessity for selling the product to the theatres which produce the preponderance of the revenue will exert pressure on production calculated to make it somewhat more responsive to the market. Merchandise and marketing, instead of inter-circuit-corporate politics and coalitions, give greater promise of something to look at on the screen.

A movement which bases selling on what is for sale instead of "Who do you know and what will he do for you?" can help the industry by encouraging the consumer.

Wholesale buying has been quite as destructive a factor as the endeavors at wholesale manufacture and wholesale machine exhibition.

There seems to be an inexorable natural law, applying widely across the field of human activities, which requires that most things to be really well done shall not be made too easy to do. The automatic machine processes of production, selling and exhibition developed a tremendous burst of speed and swept the industry to a high crest—producing ultimately a crop of disasters, receiverships and bankruptcies, admitted and unadmitted, without any parallel in the exciting career of the art and industry. There have been methods of operation in this industry which we have previously pointed out as schemes for the protection of failures rather than for the promotion of successes. Just now the industry finds nothing quite so important as film, motion picture merchandise. That is a return to sanity.

△ △ △

A LOVELY EVENING

THE robins are nesting and the spring is gay with the pink and white of hepaticas. Everything is sweet and Roxy is home again. The managerial operetta of Radio City theatres has just achieved a spring song and love feast number, with a dinner in the managerial suite at the Music Hall with Mr. Samuel L. Rothafel, tanned and brown from his recuperative sojourn in the Southland, in the seat of honor at the head of the table, and flanked by Mr. Merlin H. Aylesworth, president of the Radio-Keith-Orpheum Corporation, and Mr. Harold Franklin, host and president of the Radio-Keith-Orpheum Theatre Circuit. They each sent Roxy baskets of roses. There were roses also from the Roxyettes, and down in the grand theatre to signalize the gala night the ushers wore their aiguillettes. It is not reported that white doves, emblematic of peace, were released, but they ought to have been. There ought to have been a cage of love birds for a center piece, too. Only an incurable cynic would even remember anything that has been said by anybody about anything in the last few months. Anyway, there's consistency and sincerity, too, in a show world that puts them on for itself. Perhaps it's more cut flowers the industry needs.

△ △ △

GOOD BUSINESS, GOOD TASTE

THERE being in various sectors of the industry and in the movie columns of the public press considerable chatter these days about the moral content of motion pictures, all in sequel to the recent pronunciamento of Mr. Will Hays in Hollywood addressed to evaders of "The Code", it appears necessary, or at least warrantable, to observe that there really is some relation between good business and good taste.

Producers, directors, script writers and picture makers in general have been of late much tempted, it seems, to prove their catholicity of understanding, their comprehensive culture, by trying to make the motion picture film follow up the esoteric paths of drama and literature.

Now mayhap even if there is art in the Decameron, in Rabelais, in O'Neil, if there is wit in Lewis and Maugham, even if there are facts in Freud, they are not necessarily mass pabulum or screen merchandise.

If a man were to come raging into your office screaming about the dirt that he had read in a book, you might properly say that he did not have to buy it, and he did not have to read it. But if the same man discovers that doing his best at a bit of motion picture shopping he cannot on a given weekend find fit entertainment for his wife and family of adolescents, it is a very different story.

Just now there appear to be rewards in sight for the producer who can be smart without smut and innuendo and the license called "frankness", smart enough to tell a story within the proprieties without being dumb. A proud industry cannot be proud of a condition which brought Mr. Hays to the state of mind which produced the verbal reproaches of his Hollywood ultimatum. The problem is a merchandising problem, and the customer is a decent America, or at least a nation that wants to be decent in public.

MOTION PICTURE HERALD MARTIN QUIGLEY, Editor-in-Chief and Publisher

Incorporating Exhibitor's Herald, founded 1915; Motion Picture News, founded 1913; Moving Picture World, founded 1907; Motography, founded 1909; The Film Index, founded 1906. Published every Thursday by Quigley Publishing Company, 1790 Broadway, New York City. Telephone CIrcle 7-3100. Martin Quigley, Editor-in-Chief and Publisher; Colvin Brown, Vice-President and General Manager; Terry Ramsaye, Editor; Ernest A. Rovelstad, Managing Editor; Chicago office, 407 South Dearborn street, Edwin S. Clifford, manager; Hollywood office, Pacific States Life Building, Wid Gunning, manager; London office, 41 Redhill Drive, Edgware, London, England, W. H. Mooring, representative; Berlin office, Katharinstrasse 3, Berlin-Halinsee, Germany, Hans Tintner, representative; Paris office, 19, Rue de la Cour-des-Noues, Paris 20e, France, Pierre Autré, representative; Sydney office, 102 Sussex street, Sydney, Australia, Cliff Holt, representative; Mexico City office, James Lockhart, Apartado 269, Mexico City, Mexico. Member Audit Bureau of Circulations. All contents copyright 1933 by Quigley Publishing Company. All correspondence should be addressed to the New York Office. Better Theatres, devoted to the construction, equipment and operation of theatres, is published every fourth week as section 2 of Motion Picture Herald. Other Quigley Publications: Motion Picture Daily, The Hollywood Herald, The Motion Picture Almanac, published annually, and the Chicagoan.

THIS WEEK - - - -

SALE'S ESSENTIAL

Sharply last week two of the film's eminents scored today's exploitation methods, pleaded for the punch of yesteryear. Sorely needed, essential in selling is exploitation, said MPTOA's president M. A. Lightman, soon to resign. From the film's source, Hollywood, should exploitation emanate, said Paramount producer Charles R. Rogers at an AMPA luncheon. Planned by Paramount, under direction of general sales manager George J. Schaefer, is such a scheme, with John C. Flinn intimately concerned. Ten-fold return in added gross is confident Mr. Rogers' estimate of the value of his idea, telling the exhibitor, selling him as the picture making progresses." . . . .

ANTI-TRUST SPECTRE

Once more rearing its long-fanged head is the spectre of anti-trust law violation on the part of major distributors, as federal judge Francis G. Caffey, via a corrected decision last week, referred back to the recent Quittner vs. Paramount-Publix, MPPDA case, which he dismissed. Hinted is the fact that sufficient evidence was adduced in the trial to warrant presentation to a jury to determine whether anti-trust laws were violated, proof and prosecution of which is automatically a government function. Said the court: "It would be an error for me to withdraw the case." . . . .

PLAYERS' PASSING

Comparative youth, definite age this and last week passed from life's scene, the film's screen as dread heart disease took its toll. But 43, J. Roy Stewart, hero of many a yesterday's boy for his part in the famed early "Western," passed in Los Angeles, was buried at his birthplace, San Diego. In London, aged (74) Frederick Kerr, born Frederick Grinham Keen, succumbed. A long, brilliant stage career of playing, direction preceded screen work at 72. At his bedside was a son, Geoffrey Kerr, who had rushed from his Hollywood dressing room, himself a player. . . .

PRECEDENT SETTER

Little did young Gene Raymond, known two years ago on the Shubert stage as Raymond Guion, think when he accepted an offer to "go West," that today he would be in a fair way to setting a legal precedent, causing reform in the dealings of talent agents between the Coasts. When Agent George Frank sued him for $900 in commissions due, Raymond hired Neil McCarthy as counsel. Quibbling, bickering, lawyer McCarthy won a verdict for his client from Judge Ada Mae Adams in Los Angeles municipal court last week on a technicality in the New York agent law. Appeal is promised, while agents meanwhile may revise their methods, forcing players signed in New York to sign California contracts. . . .

JUVENILE PROTEST

To juvenile ranks has penetrated propaganda for clean motion pictures, cleaner advertising. Called one day recently was a special assembly at St. Catherine's High School, Racine, Wis., at which was discussed films, their state of purity—or lack of it. Result: a declaration, student body-signed, distributed to local theatre managers, proclaiming the signatories "interested in clean shows . . . and advertising. We ask you to note our preference and bring it to the attention of producers." A question arises: Could St. Catherine Schoolchildren's parents have had anything to do with the declaration. . . .

CLEAN HANDS

Fighting back, demanding a clean bill of health, Chester A. Millis, business agent of Milwaukeè projectionists' union 164, and eight operators, some time since filed suit against city police officials for $65,000. claiming false arrest, resulting from a raid on union headquarters by zealous police following theatre bombings. Dickering, counsel for the police, projectionists agreed, the case was dismissed. Plaintiffs, apparently satisfied, had proved their white-handedness. . . .

In This Issue

Ample and improved product is assured exhibitors for next season — Page 9
Film selling decentralized; large companies postpone conventions until July 1 and thereafter — Page 15
A Music Lesson for Hollywood — Page 14
Sirovich bill for film inquiry likely to be shelved for this session; Rules Committee recommends quiz on equity receiverships — Page 32

FEATURES

Editorial — Page 7
The Camera Reports — Page 20
J. C. Jenkins — His Colyum — Page 40
Asides and Interludes — Page 23

DEPARTMENTS

What the Picture Did for Me — Page 41
Showmen's Reviews — Page 26
Managers Round Table — Page 45
Short Features — Page 31
Technological — Page 35
Voice of the Industry — Page 36
The Release Chart — Page 51
Box Office Receipts — Page 37
Classified Advertising — Page 58

HOME PROJECTION

From an English dinner table Tuesday evening rose a group, strolled into an adjoining room, there viewed a motion picture, for which special equipment had been installed. The group looked unconsciously for social direction to two of their number, their Majesties, King George, Queen Mary of England. The scene, Windsor Castle; the occasion, a command performance; the screening, the Waterloo Chamber; the picture, Fox's "Cavalcade." Unknown in the United States is the unique distinction, "a command performance," which puffs with pride the recipient of the King's command. . . .

GERMAN PYRE

High toward the sky will reach tongues of vicious flame on May 10, as 62 German institutions of socalled higher education consign to the flames, under Nazi direction, any books which might in the slightest degree be construed as of Jewish origin. To the pyre also will go "Berlin-Alexanderplatz," by one Alfred Doeblin. On that day, at New York's intimate Vanderbilt theatre, will be screened the picturization of that book. Under the Hitler thumb will now be squeezed those trade unions, with all others, which have to do with motion pictures. Raided were all union offices this week, arrested were all officials, their papers confiscated, as Nazis took charge. Out of a machine will Herr Hitler perhaps eventually grind motion pictures. . . .

PLACATING PLAGIARISTS

Seeking standardization of method, policy in view of the numerous plagiarism cases it is forced to handle, a committee of writer members of Hollywood's Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences recently was formed, exhaustively to study the situation, report to the Writers Branch executive committee for recommendation in turn to the Academy directorate. More facile handling of such cases, the establishment of a writers' adjustment committee were proposed. A fertile field for plagiarism appears the motion picture industry. . . .

REVELATIONS

No secret will be the machination of the motion picture to visitors at Chicago's Century of Progress Exposition this summer. Planned is the erection of a huge stage in an equally huge building, where will be demonstrated the making of the motion picture. To Oscar Rosenthal has gone the concession, to Rosenthal, Cornell & Dwyer a contract for construction. No believers are the promoters in the adage: "What you do not know will not hurt you." . . .

AMPLE AND IMPROVED PRODUCT ASSURED EXHIBITORS NEXT SEASON

Promised Production of High Standard; Majors Plan 366, Independents Announce 306; Little Change from 1932-33

[Joint decision of the large distributors to postpone sales conventions until July 1 or thereafter is a new development discussed on page 15. Further details of company product plans and policies for 1933-34 will be found on pages 10 and 11.]

by FRED AYER

Exhibitors will find available for next season an abundance of product, and product in general of a higher standard than in the current year, a summarization of company plans shows.

Ending the quandary of theatre men because of the business situation, which has caused a delay of two months in the schedules of four out of nine of the largest distributors, and a concomitant retarding of the new selling season, a total of approximately 366 features is in sight from the larger companies, and 306 features from independent companies.

A comparison of the product planned for release by those distributors which have completed releasing plans to date for this survey shows for this season 686 features and 818 short subjects exclusive of newsreels, as against 672 features and 954 shorts announced to date for the 1933-34 season. The following shows the distribution of these figures:

	1932-33		1933-34
	Features	Shorts	Features	Shorts
Majors	397	719	366	760
Independents.	289	99	306	194

This is the first estimate of the 1933-34 situation and exhibitors are advised to bear in mind that there will be many additions to these figures as plans are completed.

Earlier reports that shortened lines of credit, plus difficulties in arranging new financing, might result in a substantial curtailment of product next season, are answered by the announced figures showing only a slight change in the major companies' totals and an average increase from the independents. For example, MGM announced 50 for the current season, and sets the same figure for 1933-34; Paramount has 63 currently and plans 65 next season; Warners announced 60 for this season and may release as high as 100 in 1933-34; United Artists announced 18 and may make up to 25 next season, with a minimum of 20. On the other hand, Radio will make only 52 in 1933-34 as against 62 currently, Columbia 32 to 36 as against 48 for this season. Universal plans 36 for 1933-34 and set 32 for the current schedule. Fox set 42 pictures for this season and next season's product will approximate the same number.

Greater Competition Seen

Due to the fact that almost 1,900 theatres were added this season to the list of those whose annual film deals are closed in the field, all selling organizations are facing the greatest sales competition in eight years, since the rise of national circuits with their accompanying increase in centralized film buying. This change has been brought about by general theatre decentralization the past year and, even more strongly emphasized by circuit receiverships and bankruptcies, completely alters the selling situation. It will place field sales forces in a position of their greatest importance since 1925. Heretofore film deals for approximately 2,500 circuit houses have been closed in New York. This year, with decentralization of Publix and Fox and with several RKO theatre units either in bankruptcy, or receivership, it is doubtful if New York will buy for more than 600 houses. RKO's national film purchases will be restricted to its theatres east of the Mississippi for the most part. In New York, Loew's and Warners will provide the only appreciable national deals to be closed.

Sales this year, in many instances, will find themselves in the peculiar position of having to sell in a competitive field to theatres formerly affiliated with the parent company with which deals were heretofore automatically closed in New York. As an example, Paramount and Fox men in the field will find themselves calling upon former Publix and Fox theatres' film buyers and will be little more assured of a sale than is the remainder of the competition.

Flat Rental Situation

Exhibitors are said to be in favor of a trial of the proposal for contracting with distributors for a definite amount of their next season's playing time on a flat rental basis, instead of specific picture contracts. They regard the plan as a complete solution of block-booking evils. One of the exhibitor advantages of the plan would be that the theatre man contracting with a distributor for a specific amount of playing time at a fixed sum would not be obligated to play all of the distributor's releases and would be permitted to hold pictures, as desired, for extra playing time. On the other hand, some exhibitors believe that the proposal, if carried out, would require a flat rental figure far beyond the reach of most of them. The chief benefit to the distributor is the definite advance knowledge he would have as regards revenues, and it automatically would eliminate losses of thousands of dollars annually on pictures contracted for but not played.

With the exception of a few, distributors will not make known any titles until after their sales conventions and will be able to keep story material in pace with the ever changing public taste. This will make for a far greater flexibility than heretofore, enabling the studios to turn out product of a more timely character. A clue, however, is in MOTION PICTURE HERALD'S report, in the April 22 issue, of story purchases, complete with titles changed for production, for the current and 1933-34 seasons.

It is generally felt within the industry that a better class of product will be forthcoming for exhibitors because of the wholesale return to unit production and the general decentralization of the industry's structure, which included partial cessation of mass production by most large companies and a return to the unit system. In many cases not all the program will be turned out by studio organizations alone, as in the case of Jesse L. Lasky, producing independently for Fox; B. P. Schulberg and Charles R. Rogers for Paramount; Darryl Zanuck and Joseph M. Schenck for United Artists, with the probability of Sam Katz also contributing to the U. A. program.

Exhibitors Are Said to Favor Trial of Plan to Contract Playing Time on Flat Rental—Sales Conventions Delayed

Regardless of what is done in Hollywood about reduction of negative costs, distributors are determined to gauge film rentals and percentages for 1933-34 according to the amount of money taken in at the box-office between now and October 1. The distribution end anticipates theatre attendance during the next season far in excess of what it is at present. This indicates that instead of reducing rentals, distributors will ask more money for a probably lower budgeted product. Percentage terms for first run houses probably will remain as they are at present. A sharp reduction in the number of percentage contracts which will be written for smaller metropolitan theatres and others in rural sections, was predicted last week by sales executives, who said that lower grosses nationally, and the cost of checking percentage engagements in the small situations, were the principal reasons for the selling policy change. The new uniform contract, to be offered unreservedly by five major distributors, including RKO, Fox, Paramount, MGM and Universal, with the opening of the new selling season, is definitely seen as resulting in extended playing time for many pictures next season.

The elimination clause of the new contract permits cancellations of 15 per cent of the contract; the first five per cent allowed without payment; the second five per cent permitted with the exhibitor paying 50 per cent of the contract price of the pictures cancelled, and the third remitted in consideration of 100 per cent payment. Payments made for cancellation of the final 10 per cent may be applied as rental on pictures held for extra playing time.

A marked increase in the production of short subjects is seen for the new season. It is the independent and smaller companies chiefly, which will contribute a greater number of shorts, with the major companies maintaining approximately the same level of their production. With the passing of double feature bills in Southern territories and in California, sales of short subjects have increased threefold in the past few weeks.

10 Wisconsin Theatres Return to Independents

Several theatres in Wisconsin formerly operated by circuits have been reopened by independent exhibitors in the last week. At least ten houses formerly operated by RKO, Fox Midwesco or Warner Brothers, have reverted to independents within a month.

In Oshkosh the Rex, formerly Midwesco, was reopened by J. S. Grauman and E. L. Weisner, operators of the Downer, in Milwaukee, and the Shorewood, in Shorewood. The Palace, also formerly Midwesco house, has been reopened in Antigo by Harvey Hanson, owner. In Green Bay, George E. Hannon, formerly Midwesco manager in Marinette, has reopened the Grand theatre.

PRODUCT OFFERED FOR COMING YEAR

Aeolian
Aeolian Pictures Corp. has acquired American rights to "Hell on Earth," recently banned in Germany as being "too international."

Allied Pictures
In all probability 26 features will be produced by Allied in 1933-34. M. H. Hoffman, in New York, said the current program of 26 features would be finished by August.

Allied Exchanges
Fifty-two pictures are on the current schedule for Allied Exchanges, 37 released. No figure was obtainable for next season.

Amity
Amity Pictures Corp., Robert Savini general manager, has acquired Tiffany and Quadruple pictures, which it will reissue, and may contract for four new 1933-34 features.

Amkino
Twenty-five features have been set as a quota. The current schedule called for 21. Twelve short subjects also will be released next season.

Artclass
No figures are available.

Auten
Capt. Harold Auten will release six features and six short subjects in 1933-34, as against only three features and two shorts this season.

Beverly
Beverly Hills Pictures scheduling 13 three-reelers the current season is contemplating the same number for 1933-34. Elmer Clifton is producing, with release through Stanley Hatch Company.

Borden
Ramon Nazzaro has been signed by Borden Pictures Corp. to write and direct 12 shorts.

Bray
Three features and 36 shorts have been tentatively set by Bray for next season.

Brown & Rosenzweig
Hiram S. Brown, former president of RKO, and Charles Rosenzweig, who recently resigned as sales manager from Columbia, plan to make 12 features for 1933-34.

Chesterfield
Chesterfield will make nine features for next season together with Invincible, which also will produce nine.

Columbia
32 to 36 features will comprise Columbia's schedule next season, Jack Cohn, vice-president, said. A few westerns will be included. The number of shorts has not been determined. Forty-eight features were planned this season, plus eight single reel and two double reel shorts.

Cullen
Cullen Pictures is making distribution arrangements for "The Pope Speaks." No statement could be obtained for 1933-34.

Eagle
Eleven pictures are on the schedule of the newly organized Eagle Pictures Corp. for 1933-34, according to M. Leon Levine. Albert Herman is production head.

Educational
There will be 156 on Educational's program for 1933-34, among them 11 musicals. One-reel subjects will total 104, the remaining 52 being two reelers. All subjects will be distributed by Fox. With four shorts in production, the company has six more to go to complete the current lineup of 145. Fifteen subjects will be released between the present and the end of May. Stars never before associated with shorts will highlight the new program. Negotiations are underway for several feature comedians. Six series have been completed on the current schedule. Feature production by Educational to date cleared through World Wide, with physical distribution through Fox, is expected to end at the close of the current season, thus returning Educational to shorts exclusively.

Fanchon Royer
Fanchon Royer will deliver 15 pictures during 1933-34, commencing production June 1. They are forming their own distributing company, having left Mayfair. Branches in New York, Boston and Philadelphia are to be opened immediately.

Ferrone
Eighteen features will be produced and released by Frank D. Ferrone, who has formed a new company. Richard C. Kahn has been signed to produce six melodramas.

Film Exchange
Five features and 14 short subjects have been tentatively set for 1933-34 by Film Exchange. Fourteen shorts are on the current program.

First Choice
No plans have been set for 1933-34.

First Division
Fifty-two features have been set by First Division for the new season, no short subjects. A sales convention was held last week in Atlantic City in conjunction with the Monogram meeting. Seventy-three features were planned for the current schedule.

Fox
While no official announcement has been made, it has been stated that Fox will have 12 pictures on its 1933-34 schedule ready and in the exchanges by September 1, and that probably 42 will be released. A report from London in April, indicated Fox might release six Gaumont-British productions annually. Mark Ostrer, Gaumont head, said if the deal is completed it will be subject to agreement between G-B and Fox on stories, casts and exploitation. Among the Fox productions to be released next season are "Movietone Follies of 1933," "My Lips Betray," "The Power and the Glory," "Berkeley Square," "The Devil's in Love,"" "Paddy-the-Next-Best-Thing," "The Last Adam," "Green Dice," "Tough Guy," "The American" aind "The Lady Cop." Fox plans 52 shorts: two new series of 13 each and 26 "Magic Carpet of Movietone."

Freuler
Freuler will release 24 features in 1933-34, no short subjects. Regional meetings have been held in New York and Chicago.

Garrison
No definite plans have been made because of the German situation. Garrison handles German and Russian pictures exclusively. "Kuhle Wampe," a German picture, is now ready and a Russian, "Shame," opens in New York next week.

General Film
General Film Library has purchased 80,000 feet of original travel negative from E. M. Newman. No plans have been made for the new season.

General Foreign
General Foreign Sales Corp. will release between 10 and 12 features made by Henri Diamant Berger. The company, formed recently, has acquired American rights to "Trenck," "Laubenkolonie," "Luegen auf Ruegen" and "Der Hellseher." Other more recent acquisitions include "Das Abenteuer Der Thea Roland," "Vampyr," "Ein Traum von Schoenbrunn" and the first of the Berger pictures, "The Three Musketeers."

Goldstein
Ten of 15 features to be handled by Mannie Goldstein are now ready for release, and negotiations are underway for the Broadway showing of "Carnival," with Joseph Schildkraut. Others ready are "Say It With Music," "Canaries Sometimes Sing," "A Night Like This," "Wolves," "Plunder," "On Approval," "Almost a Divorce," "Chance of a Night-time," and "Tons of Money." Features not yet received from England, but included in the first group to be handled, are "The Blue Danube," "Just My Luck," "The Little Damozel" and "Getting Gertie's Garter."

Helbar
Phil Meyer, former Columbia sales executive, in New York, announced formation of Helbar Company. Six feature pictures will be produced for current release and 26 will be on the schedule for 1933-34.

Ideal
Headed by M. J. Kandel, Ideal Films is going into production with its first subject entitled "The War Tomorrow." Production of six three-reel films is contemplated.

Imperial
Eight features have been tentatively set by Imperial Distributing Corp., 31 short subjects. Six features and 26 shorts are on the current schedule.

Kinematrade
In addition to "Soviets on Parade" and "Potemkin," Kinematrade has taken over American distribution of "Hauptmann Von Kopenick," "One Night in Paradise," "Friederike" and "Victoria und Ihr Hussar." Between 20 and 25 features have been set for release in 1933-34. A few foreign shorts may be released.

LaSalle
Set up as La Salle Pictures Corp., and with his first distribution venture, "Big Drive," well into circulation, Ben Serkowich will follow the official war picture with two American-made films, independently produced.

Majestic
Majestic will have twelve features for the 1933-34 season. For the present season it was decided to engage in individual selling of the five remaining of the 16 pictures and in the next season. This policy becomes effective with release of "The World Gone Mad," applying also to "Sing Sinner, Sing," "The Woman in the Chair," "Curtain at Eight" and "Buried Treasure," all on the current schedule.

Mascot
Eight features and four serials are on the 1933-34 program. Four features and four serials are on the current. Nat Levine, president, is independently producing one feature starring Victor McLaglen.

Mayfair
Twenty-four features have been decided upon by Mayfair for 1933-34, no shorts. Regional sales meetings were set for May 15 in New York, Chicago and Los Angeles. The same number of features is on the current program.

PLENTIFUL FOR ALL PLAYING TIME

Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer

With approximately 50 features and 89 short subjects on its 1933-34 program, MGM announced control of negative costs will be centered in New York. Laurel and Hardy will make only feature pictures. Hal Roach will contribute 40 shorts next season, but will eliminate the Taxi Boys series. Ben Blue has been released from his contract; Billy Gilbert remains as a feature comedian and comedy writer. Eight Charley Chase and eight Our Gang comedies have already been set by Mr. Roach for the new season. No plans have been made as yet for sales conventions. Metro's entire current short subject schedule of 89 will be delivered this season, Mr. Feist declared. 21 features out of 50 have been completed to date.

Monogram

Twenty-four features will comprise Monogram's production and release schedule for 1933-34, and no short subjects are included, it was decided at the convention in Atlantic City last week. Production budgets have been doubled. Outside producers, players and directors will be signed and practically all story material will be bought outside. Eight outside westerns are to be acquired for franchise holders who require them. A list of titles follows:

"Wine, Women and Song" and "Manhattan Love Song," musicals; "The Woman in White," novel by Wilkie Collins; "Two Little Arms," original; "Jane Eyre," Charlotte Bronte's novel; "Moonstone," mystery story; "Chuck Connors, Mayor of Chinatown," by L. M. Simmons and B. R. Solomon: "The Avenger"; "Other People's Money"; "Mystery Liner," by Edgar Wallace; "Beggars in Ermine"; "Woman's Man," by Adela Rogers St. John; "Great God Fourflush"; "Numbers of Death," by E. Phillips Oppenheim; "Sixteen Fathoms Deep"; "The Loud Speaker," an original by Tristram Tupper; "River Street Kitty"; "Sky Patrol"; "Hotel Register," also an original by Tupper; "He Couldn't Take It," by Albert Payson Terhune, and "City Limits."

Outdoor

Robert C. Bruce, producer of short subjects and scenics, is planning to enter the feature field. He is making a trip into northern North America soon to gather material.

Paramount

Five of 16 productions scheduled by Paramount during the final quarter of the 1932-33 season are ready for May release. Six Paramount releases are scheduled for June and five for July.

Paramount will produce from 60 to 65 features next season and approximately 125 short subjects, exclusive of 104 issues of Paramount News. There will be from 24-30 2-reel comedies, 13 Paramount Pictorials, 13 Screen Souvenirs series, 18 Paramount Screen Songs, 12 Betty Boop cartoons, Bimbo and Koko series, 13 Hollywood on Parade, 13 Grantland Rice Sportlights and 13 Paramount Headliners. Six of the eight pictures Charles R. Rogers will produce independently next season are set. The other two will comprise a musical comedy and a big book or play. Romance, comedy and biography will highlight the new list, according to Mr. Rogers, who states he will keep away from underworld pictures next year.

New production titles are: "Golden Harvest," a story of the farmer today; "Swift Arrow," which centers about the West Point Indian; "I Can't Go Home," based on "Adopted Children"; "Bottom of the Sea," Victor McLaglen and Edmund Lowe in "No More Women"; "Baby in the Ice-Box," temporary title based on a story in Mercury magazine, and two others to be announced at a later date. The Paramount studios have about eight features to complete on their current schedule. Eugene Pallette and Walter Catlett will appear in a series of six short features to be produced by Phil L. Ryan for Paramount release in 1933-34. Bing Crosby and Harry Langdon will each make six two-reel pictures. The Paramount studios will be held to a full-time basis throughout the spring if necessary to complete the full schedule of 61 pictures. This quota will be met, it is understood. Paramount decided near the beginning of March not to renew its contract in 1933-34 with Mack Sennett for the production of two-reel comedies. The company has bought American release rights to "M," which just ended three weeks on Broadway. The meeting of district managers was postponed until late this week.

A total of 34 new faces will be shown to the public with the first of the 1933-34 product. Among them are Dorothea Wieck, Mari Colman, Barton McLane and Grace Bradley.

Principal

Frank R. Wilson, of Principal Distributing Co., has purchased "White Trails," a skiing feature, as the first in Principal's 1933-34 line-up.

RKO Radio

Radio is figuring on 52 features, according to B. B. Kahane, Radio president, recently. Twelve will be made by Admiral Productions, Inc., of which Burt Kelly, Samuel Bischoff and William Saal are sole owners. The three owners are reported to be negotiating with Daniel Frohman, theatrical manager, to become associated with Admiral. The first picture made by Admiral will be released on RKO's current schedule.

Radio has signed anew three comedy units with contracts for the coming year. A deal has been closed with Clark & McCullough for another series of eight two-reelers which Sam White will direct. Harry Sweet and Harry Gribbon will co-star in another series of six, and Edgar Kennedy will make a series of six shorts. Wheeler and Woolsey are to make three more features over a 24-month period and Irene Dunne will make two more. Richard Dix has been signed to do two more. In addition to its regular schedule, RKO will distribute six Jack White features. Seventeen Radio pictures will be made in England. Producers in England for Radio have not yet been set. In addition to the shorts mentioned there will be a new series of six comedies to be titled "Dumb Dicks." With six features now in production and two in the cutting rooms, the studio expects to bring the current schedule almost to completion. The six now before the cameras are: "The Morning Glory," with Katharine Hepburn and Douglas Fairbanks, Jr.; Constance Bennett in "Bed of Roses"; "The Public Be Sold," with Richard Dix; "Careless," with Ginger Rogers; "The Flying Circus," with Ralph Bellamy and Eric Linden, and "Jamboree," an adventure film.

Regent

Twelve features will be on Regent's schedule for 1933-34. There will also be 12 short subjects. The current season's release calls for seven features and 12 shorts.

Showman's Pictures

Plans for 1933-34 of Showman's Pictures, headed by D. J. Mountan, call for not less than eight features. The first gets underway this week, "Private Secretary," with Evalyn Knapp, John Wayne and Alec B. Francis. The company is presenting two features for present season release—"Public Stenographer" and "Hard Boiled."

Stage and Screen

Stage and Screen Productions, Inc., will film various Shubert plays. The company is headed by Robert Mintz, and Louis Weiss will supervise production.

Standard

Standard Motion Pictures, Inc., has completed its two first short subjects, "Nearly Naked," a nudism subject, and "Beer Is Here," with Weber and Fields.

Sterling

Sidney Algier, former general production manager for Tiffany and general production executive for Allied Pictures, has formed Sterling Pictures Corp. to produce independent features.

Synchro-Art Pictures

Two features and six shorts will be released for 1933-34. Two features and no shorts are on the current release schedule.

United Artists

With Darryl Zanuck, who recently resigned as production head of Warners, and Sam Katz, former Publix theatre operator, producing independently for release through United Artists, the U. A. quota for 1933-34 probably will be 20 to 25 pictures, with a possible maximum of 22, according to Joseph M. Schenck, president.

Specifically listing Twentieth Century Productions, Inc., which Mr. Zannuck and Mr. Schenck own, for 12 features, and one each from Douglas Fairbanks and Charlie Chaplin, Mr. Schenck makes no mention of Reliance Pictures, of which Edward Small is the head, or Samuel Goldwyn, Mary Pickford and Gloria Swanson. He did say, however, that United Artists was considering the release of whatever pictures are made by Sam Katz, via Producing Artists Pictures, Inc. Mr. Schenck further stated that Chaplin had promised United Artists a picture for September release and that the film will be silent and similar to "City Lights" in treatment. "The Masquerader," with Ronald Colman, has been withdrawn from the current release schedule and will be placed on the company's new season list for August release.

Reliance Pictures will produce four features. The Sam Katz organization has set a quota of four or five pictures for release through U A in 1933-34. Lewis Milestone is understood to be set for the production of four features for United Artists.

Universal

Universal will add ten pictures to its 1933-34 schedule over its present quota. It expects to release 36 features as against 26 for the current season. Its short subject releases, while not definitely set, probably will present the same number as for the current season: 99, including five serials, 26 two-reel comedies, 22 Radio reels, 13 Oswald Cartoons, 13 Pooch Cartoons, 13 Strange As It Seems and 7 Brevities.

There will quite likely be three or four musical features. More than half the material for the 1933-34 season has been purchased. Benny Zeidman is planning 12 features for release through Universal during the next season, although nothing definite has been announced by either Zeidman or the company. Universal has completed 63 subjects, in addition to four serials, on its 1932-33 schedule. The short subjects announced above do not include newsreels, of which Universal releases two per week. Universal will not withhold releases because of business conditions, Carl Laemmle says in the current issue of Universal Weekly, the company's house organ. The Universal studios will reopen about June 19. Rowland-Brice has made no definite plans for release through Universal next season, although it is expected they will contribute the usual number of the Louis Sobol and Down Memory Lane series.

Wafilms

Twenty-six short subjects will be on Wafilms' list for 1933-34. No features have been set. There are five features and 26 shorts on the current program.

Warner

Warner and First National are prepared to make up to 100 features for 1933-34 if the public so demands, the company announced. There will be a minimum of 60, as on the current schedule; no definite number of Vitaphone shorts has yet been set, but it is expected to approximate 120.

Following the nationwide success of "42nd Street," the company is busily engaged in selling "Gold Diggers of 1933," with intensive advertising campaigns. Jack Warner has been keeping at least 15 films ahead of release dates; 14 writers are now busy at the Burbank studio preparing ten stories for immediate production.

The ten are: "The Kingfish," with Edward G. Robinson; "Convention City," with Warren William; "Bureau of Missing Persons," with either James Cagney or Spencer Tracy; "Red Meat," "America Kneels," "Wild Boys of the Road," "Finger Man," "Female," for Barbara Stanwyck; "Easy to Love," for Bette Davis and "The Footlight Parade."

The Warner studio is expected to reopen early in June, with 15 stories ready for casting and shooting by that time. The sales conventions probably will not be held before August, at which time a complete program for the new season will be announced. Leon Schlesinger recently signed contracts with Warner for release of the new series of "Looney Tunes," and "Merrie Melodies," animated cartoons, in 1933-34.

World International

L. A. Carson, president of World International Distributing Corp., announced three specials and 12 short subjects, the specials to be made with well known players.

something to remember

maurice chevalier

in

"a bedtime story"

with

Helen Twelvetrees

Edward Everett Horton

Adrienne Ames

directed by Norman Taurog

"i love that man"

with

Edmund Lowe Nancy Carroll

Robert Armstrong Lew Cody

directed by Harry Joe Brown

a Charles Rogers production

"jennie gerhardt"

with

Sylvia Sidney Donald Cook

Mary Astor H. B. Warner

directed by Marion Gering

B. P. Schulberg production

★"the search for beauty"

theatres are writing, wiring and phoning the Paramount Studio to register in the international contest to find 30 perfect men and women to appear in the forthcoming Paramount picture

"the search for beauty"

...theatres wishing to participate must register by may 19 . . . wire for details.

if it's a Paramount picture us buy

while other companies tell you how good next season's pictures look, Paramount gives you nine power-house pictures now.

"song of the eagle"

with

Charles Bickford — Richard Arlen
Mary Brian — Jean Hersholt
Louise Dresser — Andy Devine
George E. Stone

directed by Ralph Murphy

a Charles Rogers production

"the story of temple drake"

with

Miriam Hopkins — Jack La Rue
Wm. Gargan — Wm. Collier, jr.

directed by Stephen Roberts from William Faulkner's famous novel

"the eagle and the hawk"

with

Fredric March — Cary Grant
Carole Lombard — Jack Oakie directed by Stuart Walker

"international house"

with

Peggy Hopkins Joyce — W. C. Fields
Rudy Vallee — Stuart Erwin
George Burns & Gracie Allen
Sari Maritza — Col. Stoopnagle & Budd
Cab Calloway and his Orchestra
Baby Rose Marie — Girls in Cellophane

directed by Edward Sutherland

"the girl in 419"

with

James Dunn — Gloria Stuart
Jack La Rue — David Manners directed by George Somnes and Alexander Hall

B. P. Schulberg production

"college humor"

with

Bing Crosby — Richard Arlen
Mary Carlisle — Jack Oakie
George Burns and Gracie Allen and the "ox-road" co-eds directed by Wesley Ruggles

it's the best show in town!

A MUSIC LESSON FOR HOLLYWOOD

O'Sullivan Calls "Be Mine Tonight"; It's a Gaumont-Ufa Production Released by Universal

by JOSEPH O'SULLIVAN

WHILE HOLLYWOOD IS STILL EXperimenting with melody-tinkerers and with trick formulas in socalled "musicals," and in general progressing rapidly like a crab back to where it was in 1929, there is increasing evidence that our foreign confreres in the art of making pictures talk, sing and gesticulate, are developing a musical-film technique that is effective in its merging of sound media.

They have sent us various productions in which the lyric element has been conspicuous and salutary, welded with a deft hand into a homogeneous structure, but thus far these pictures seem to have had no marked influence on our domestic product. The tradition is that American audiences demand their movie menu raw and meaty—stark with action, plot and counterplot and unhampered by any idealizing medium; and music, being essentially romantic, has been left out of the red-blooded menu. The increasingly favorable reception accorded these foreign lyric productions indicates that this tradition has been over-emphasized, or else our audiences show signs of "softening up" in their atavistic tastes.

THE LATEST MUSICAL-PHOTOPRODuction from foreign studios to make a bid for our approval is "Be Mine Tonight," Universal picture which had its New York premiere at the Paramount theatre. An unqualified success in Europe, assuredly nothing finer in the way of cinema musical entertainment has come to us from foreign studios than this romantic story strung on melodic lines. It reveals a subtle and unselfconscious coalition of music and picture material that makes for real enjoyment, unadulterated and undefiled. At no time does it give the impression of being synthetic or forced in its application of musical motivation, and it is in this naturalness that its distinctive charm lies.

The adventures of a famous and handsome young tenor (Ferraro) who escapes from his she-demon of a manager and the grind of too frequent public appearances, to play around in Switzerland, with the connivance of a clever impostor (Koretsky) who has attached himself to the singer and eventually poses as the artist, while Ferraro himself assumes the role of his own secretary, presents opportunities for romantic and lyrical episodes that fit inevitably into the scheme of the story and the picturesque background.

When the truant tenor bursts into song al fresco on the Alpine landscape, the incident seems indigenous to the soil and the occasion. One feels that such things are done in that dear Switzerland under such circumstances. A beautiful young fraulein, who has more than a platonic interest in the famous singer, overhears the supposed secretary vocalizing with much gusto for the amusement of a crowd of children, and suspects the truth. Her suspicions are confirmed when the bogus tenor, who has promised to serenade her that night, appears under her window accompanied by Ferraro.

AT THIS POINT THE PRODUCERS utilize a device that is not unknown to the dramatic and lyric stage. It is a musical variant of the scene in Rostand's "Cyrano de Bergerac," where the brilliant but homely Cyrano successfully woos the maiden with his eloquence on behalf of the real lover who is handsome but dumb. In the picture, Ferraro (with whom the fraulein is in love) does the vocal work while his impersonator (Koretsky) makes the motions in the moonlight.

With this romantic setting—genuine Swiss scenery, a lovely Fraulein leaning out of an authentic Swiss chalet, and the luscious voice of Mons. Kiepura (Ferraro) caroling a lilting serenade, "Tell Me Tonight"—there are presented visual and vocal elements that serve a very definite purpose in furthering the scheme of things.

Incidentally, Mons. Kiepura is endowed with many attractive attributes, including a very excellent voice which he uses with artistry and which records beautifully.

Subsequent events find the runaway tenor haled before a magistrate who has been advised that Koretsky is a notorious crook, and as Ferraro is assumed to be Koretsky, he is put on the spot. The only way to establish his real identity is to expose his voice; and here the musical exigencies of the story provide a unique setting for musical travesty. A brilliant rendition of an aria from "Rigoletto" converts the skeptical judge and jury into an enthusiastic audience. An aria and scene from "Traviata" turn the court into an impromptu operatic performance, with his accompanist (the local vocal teacher), the judge and the jury completing the ensemble. Ferraro is vindicated, and the police get on the trail of the impostor, Koretsky, who has disappeared.

The climax of this musical counterpoint and dramatic counterplot occurs the evening following the opera bouffe scene in the courtroom, when Ferraro sings in a performance of "La Boheme" at the local opera house. Koretsky, who had a semblance of a voice, had rashly promised to sing the role when he was bluffing through his impersonation of the famous singer. The fraulein in the case (Mathilde) had organized a clique to give Koretsky the Swiss "razzberry" as soon as he started to sing. When she learns that the real Ferraro is going on, her clique are already distributed through the audience, and the young lady feels that she has messed up things. That contretemps is solved by Ferraro himself when he sings gloriously—and the clique who came to razz remain to cheer.

THE OPERATIC SCENE INCLUDES portions of the first act of "La Boheme," up to and including Rodolfo's great aria, "Che gelida manina," and Kiepura does full justice to it.

Eight months ago "Be Mine Tonight" was made as a strictly German picture in the studios of Berlin. Its success prompted Gaumont to make an arrangement with the UFA to send an English cast to Berlin to make the picture with the same director, Anatole Litwak, and the same stars, Kiepura and Magda Schneider. Its first success in England was scored at the Tivoli theatre, where it enjoyed a phenomenal run. Since that time the producers have made a version in French, and one is also contemplated in Spanish.

In addition to "Tell Me Tonight," which is utilized in a thematic manner throughout the picture, there are some typical musical comedy numbers introduced logically by Sonnia Hale, who plays Koretsky, and Betty Chester, who enacts the role of Ferraro's manager. Hale sings "The Things I Do, I Do For You," and Miss Chester a "Non-Stop" number.

"TELL ME TONIGHT" © Harms, Inc.

This is the song with which the famous tenor, Ferraro (Kiepura), who has escaped from his manager into the picturesque environs of Switzerland, enacts a musical variant of the celebrated scene from "Cyrano de Bergerac." The song is used thematically throughout the picture. The music is by Mischa Spoliansky; the English words are by Frank Eyton, from the German of Marcellus Schiffer.

Oregon Exhibitors Form Club, Study Sales Tax

Oregon's state sales tax and local scrip were the subjects discussed at the first meeting of the Motion Picture Club of Oregon, at Portland. Ted Gamble, manager of Parker's Portland Theatres, was named president; Vete Stewart, Warner-First National manager, vice-president; Miss Ruth Doyle, secretary of the Film Board of Trade, was chosen club secretary. William Cutts was made chairman of the sales tax committee and Floyd Maxwell chairman of the scrip committee.

Among those instrumental in initiating the organization were Colonel Woodlaw of the Woodlaw Theatres; George Jackson, manager of the Woodlaw circuit, and Mr. Cutts, owner of the Kenton theatre.

FILM SELLING DECENTRALIZED; SALES CONVENTIONS POSTPONED

Divorcing of 2,000 Theatres from Large Circuits Points Way to Increase of Individual Selling in the Field

Decentralized sales effort will be the order of the day in the new season, in line with nationwide decentralization of the motion picture industry's theatre structure, which has made rapid progress in recent months.

Once again the industry will return to the old style of film salesmanship, embracing individual sales effort out in the field on a highly competitive basis. Every large distributor is now giving thought to the problem, which has been created by wholesale turning back of theatre properties to independent former owners and by the receivership and bankruptcy situation whereby localized operation was placed in the hands of representatives of the federal courts.

Some 2,000 houses have been divorced from large circuit operation. This means that distributors who heretofore disposed of product en bloc to large circuit buyers in New York, will now have to rely to an appreciable extent upon the sales efforts of their men in the field. Increased responsibility will fall, too, upon the posts of district and branch managers, and the necessity for reestablishing personal sales contact with the new group of independent operators will be multiplied numerous times.

The banking moratorium which brought about a cessation of sales activities of practically every large company, coupled with the unsettled business situation which followed within the industry, has also complicated the distribution problem, setting back the current season several weeks. This undoubtedly will require additional sales effort in the first months of the new season.

Sales Conventions Postponed

Probably the most important decision affecting the activities of the distribution department of the large distributors was made last Wednesday when all companies except Columbia, agreed to postpone sales conventions until July 1 or any time thereafter. The reasons given were:

1. Because of the lateness of the current season due to interruption by the general business situation;
2. The rapid changes in the theatre situation whereunder the operators of theatres today may not be the operators tomorrow, with consequent confusion as to responsibility for contracts;
3. Decision of distributors to supply exhibitors with more specific data on new season production schedules in order to lessen the number of cancellations, readjustments and changes in contracts which have been made heretofore because of the indefinite nature of early product announcements.

Generally, vigorous sales campaigns which usually take place at the beginning of each season will be held back by many companies at least until midsummer. Previously, the majority of companies started their own men on the road with new contracts in late April, May or in early June. This year the situation is quite different. Delayed sales conventions, which usually signal the beginning of selling activities, are indicative of the situation.

Sales heads of the large distributing companies said Wednesday that decentralization of sales effort would be the highlight of their activities in 1933-34, but few would predict to what extent they would enlarge their sales staffs to meet the new situation. Currently, distribution staffs of practically every company employ fewer salesmen than at any previous period. In any event, most of the corporations evidently have not decided on their lines of procedure to capture their share of the extremely widened market.

Decentralizing Is Highlight

Felix Feist, general sales manager of MGM, said the new situation does not necessarily mean a large increase in sales forces, but added that more work impends for those already in the field, and particularly for district heads and for sales executives at the home office.

John D. Clark, sales executive of Fox, said approximately 1,900 new independent accounts have emerged from the decentralization movement, all representing operators of properties which formerly were in control of the large circuits. He said: "With the new season there will be far greater responsibility on the heads of district managers and the sales heads than ever before." There will be few additions to salesmen already in the field, Mr. Clark predicted. "Competition will be only a matter of who has the best product to sell," he added. "Theatres will be operated better in the future because there will be closer cooperation between salesmen and theatre owners than ever before."

Universal's sales executives indicated that, generally, there will be little increase in sales forces in the field, but they, too, agreed that there will be a necessity for considerable increased effort.

Major Albert Warner, of Warner-First National, said he is familiar with the situation, but he would not discuss the eventualities.

More Selling in the Field

RKO distribution officials agreed that while there will be considerably more selling in the field than heretofore, but said that while some companies may engage a few more salesmen to handle the problem, there probably will not be any appreciable increase in personnel.

Regardless, it is apparent that the distributors are facing their keenest competitive sales engagement since eight years ago when centralized circuit operation first started centralized selling. Vigorous effort evidently will be necessary in the field next season in order to gather, individually, product contracts from the hundreds of accounts which now are operating independently, but formerly were sold en masse by a stroke of the pen over the desk of a circuit film buyer in New York, usually involving socalled "trading deals" between distributor-circuit companies.

Large Distributors, Except Columbia, Agree to Delay Conventions Until or After July 1; Current Season Set Back

However, salesmen in the field next season will be aided by the fact that they will not be compelled to give as much attention as previously to satisfying the protection demands of the large circuit divisions. Heretofore, in hundreds of instances, the job of the film salesman in dealing with independents has been quite difficult because of this protection situation.

Although theatre decentralization progressed throughout the whole of 1932-33, it has had little or no bearing on centralized selling during the current season because contracts had been in force.

Sales heads in New York have heretofore sold 2,500 circuit houses in block deals, but because of decentralization, voluntary and involuntary, it is unlikely that New York will do the new season film selling for more than 600.

Monogram May Join MPPDA; Independent Group in Session

Monogram Pictures Corporation may become a member of the Motion Picture Producers and Distributors of America. A definite decision will be reached at the next executive committee meeting of Monogram in a month. W. Ray Johnston, president, said the company is not interested in associating itself with the proposed Independent Producers and Distributors Association.

A communication to that effect was received and read at the first meeting of the Independent group called to discuss the proposed association, at the law offices of Keppler and Keppler on Wednesday. Present were representatives of Mayfair, Mascot, Fanchon-Royer, Helber, Artcraft, Rowland-Brice, Tobis Film, Luporini. It was decided to hold meetings every Monday after May 15 to decide policies.

See Katz Return To Theatre Field

That Sam Katz is re-entering the theatre business through Producing Artists Pictures, Inc., is the belief in film circles at Madison, Wis., where Asher Levy of Chicago and Mark Heiman of New York are expected to take over operation of the Orpheum and the Parkway, both Shubert houses, on May 7. It is reported that Mr. Heiman is to be in charge of Mr. Katz's theatre operations.

Agfa Raw Film Moves Office

Agfa Raw Film Corporation has announced the removal of its New York offices on Saturday from 1328 Broadway to 245 West 55th street. A new negative will shortly be announced to the industry by the company. R. G. Cunningham is in charge of the corporation.

HIS PROFITS FOR MA
5¢ A GLASS
BUDDY ROGERS · MARIAN
ADORABLE
Janet GAYNOR · Henry GARAT
STATE FAIR
REPEAT DATES
CAVALCADE
PICTURE of the GENERATION
HOLD ME TIGHT
JAMES DUNN · SALLY EILERS
THE WARRIOR'S HUSBAND
A JESSE L. LASKY PRODUCTION
with ELISSA LANDI
A JESSE L. LASKY PRODUCTION
ZOO IN BUDAPEST
GENE RAYMOND
LORETTA YOUNG

ARE COMING FROM FOX!

No worries cloud that joyful spring feeling for exhibitors with FOX contracts. They're sitting pretty. Just look what they get on the FOX MAY FESTIVAL alone:

Jesse L. Lasky's Zoo in Budapest doing a whizzing business at Radio City Music Hall...while reviewers rave.

Janet Gaynor and Henry Garat in Adorable...tender, tuneful romance. Radio broadcasts have made the songs hits before the picture opens.

James Dunn and Sally Eilers in Hold me Tight —the perfect title for the perfect story for this winning team.

Another Jesse Lasky production with the dash and originality his name guarantees . . . The Warrior's Husband with Elissa Landi. Uproarious she-man vs. he-woman comedy.

FOX scooped the field to get Buddy Rogers for 5c a Glass. Happy, snappy romance with music. Here's to exploitation!

State Fair . . . doing a land-office business on repeat bookings.

And the greatest production this industry has ever boasted . . . Cavalcade!

No other studio has ever given you so many hits in a single month. But they're just pace-makers for what's coming.

FOX May FESTIVAL

POINTS WAY TO HALVE THEATRE INSURANCE BILL

Thirty Million Dollars a Year Now Paid, 90 Per Cent by Theatres, Survey Published in Better Theatres Shows

That the motion picture industry is paying $30,000,000 a year for fire insurance when it might be paying only half that amount under a "fact" system of rating, is asserted by C. H. Gray, New York insurance broker, in making known his findings in a survey recently conducted with the co-operation of industry interests. At least 90 per cent of the industry's insurance cost, he states, is charged to theatre properties.

The entire survey is presented in BETTER THEATRES, published as Section 2 of this issue of MOTION PICTURE HERALD.

Asserting the present methods of setting rates for fire insurance covering theatres to be poorly adapted to actual conditions today, Mr. Gray declares that this class of property is being discriminated against. For this he blames the industry itself, stating that apparently "no one having anything to do with the industry's insurance matters has been interested in knowing what its indemnity should cost."

The step recommended to bring about a reduction is the establishment by the industry itself of a system for compiling the actual figures on fire losses.

"There can be no intelligent rate-making," he asserts, "without complete classified loss experience as a basis upon which to work. This is the crux of the whole rating subject. The lack of such classified experience is the reason the fire underwriting fraternity is woefully open to criticism. It is the reason the motion picture industry is paying millions of dollars a year excessively."

This statement is based on his belief that the present rates have been established according to conditions which have disappeared. In place of the old highly inflammable theatre is the fireproof, well protected structure of today, built according to strict fire codes. The film itself was the source of early underwriting prejudice which has carried through into today. The actual loss-experience of the industry, he believes, if properly tabulated, would show the theatre not to be the risk reflected in the present rates.

"The remedy is most obviously the adoption of uniform schedules for rating properties of the industry. Such schedules, carefully made and based on the class experience record for the past five or ten years would doubtless bring a reduction of at least 50 per cent, because the schedules would be based on fact and not guess-work."

Wisconsin Writ Holds Pending Suit Hearing

The temporary injunction restraining the Wisconsin state department of markets from enforcing its order that independent exhibitors of the state should not suffer discrimination from film distributors has been continued in district court at Madison, pending final hearing on a suit of distributors against the state department. The injunction was issued a year ago.

The state department more than a year ago started proceedings to prevent distributors from refusing pictures to independent theatre operators not licensed with the distributors. The distributors brought action against the state department on the grounds that interference by the state conflicted with the national copyright and interstate commerce laws.

Schine Resuming Operation of 24; Paramount Status

With the operation of 24 upstate New York houses resumed by Schine Brothers this week, Fox Metropolitan Playhouses continues its program of decentralization. The Schine houses, originally leased to Fox Metropolitan, were subleased to Skouras Theatres Corp. Most leases had 17 to 18 years to run. Charles Caballero, operator for Skouras, held a 25 per cent interest.

Theatres reverting to Schine are: Echo, Syracuse; Strand, Carthage; Globe and Hippodrome, Gloversville; Liberty, Herkimer; Colonial, Norwich; Rialto, Little Falls; Oneonta and Palace, Oneonta; Pontiac, Saranac Lake; Capitol, Newark, N. Y.; Playhouse, Canandaigua; Fox and State, Corning; Capitol and Strand, Oswego; Strand, Jefferson and Palace, Auburn; Olympic and Avon, Watertown; Babcock, Bath, and two of the three Utica houses operated by Skouras.

Plans for reorganization of Metropolitan will not be held up as a result of the turning back of these 24 theatres. Reversion to the original operators now leaves Fox Metropolitan with about 100 theatres, all of which are expected to be retained, under reorganization plans.

Sam Rinzler and Louis Frisch of Randforce and George Skouras of Skouras Bros. are to figure prominently in the new set-up, with Si Fabian co-receiver with Irving Trust for Fox Metropolitan. Frisch and Rinzler are negotiating with Fox to turn back a number of their Brooklyn houses. The Fortway is set to return.

For some time there have been differences between the Schines and the Skouras circuit. The climax was reached recently when Meyer Schine refused to grant a rental reduction and asked for the return of his circuit. On Thursday last, Judge Francis G. Caffey signed an order directing the return of the theatres.

The proposed recapitalization for the parent Fox Film Company, expected in a month, it is believed will provide a "new deal" for the company by virtually eliminating present financial encumbrances, thus permitting it to start the 1933-34 sales season with practically a clean slate.

In Kansas City Herbert M. Woolf and M. B. Shanberg, who sold the Fox and Midland circuit in 1929, filed a motion in federal court asking that the voluntary petition in bankruptcy be set aside and the receiver discharged on the grounds that indebtedness on which the bankruptcy was based is false and fictitious. This indebtedness includes $1,900,000, due Fox West Coast Service Corp. and $1,000,000 due Chase National. Attorneys for Shanberg and Woolf said last week they would carry the case to the U. S. supreme court, if necessary.

Numerous Fox Midland houses are involved and the attorneys for Shanberg and Woolf are making the fight in order to secure the unpaid balance of $487,000 on the purchase price contract entered into four years ago. They insist this is a prior lien on the theatres and want Shanberg made chief operating officer until the money is paid. The original purchase price was $3,500,000. On Tuesday a show cause order issued by U. S. circuit court of appeals in St. Paul was believed by the attorneys to act as a stay on the bankruptcy of Fox Midland. They applied for the writ of prohibition staying the bankruptcy and the Appeals Court issued the order for the receiver, Fox Midland, to show cause why the writ should not be issued. The stay was granted.

In Milwaukee last week a $15,000 cash offer for the trustee's interest in the bankrupt Midwesco Theatres and his interest in the stock of the Statewide and Wisconsin Amusement Enterprises, as well as a release of any interest in the property, leaseholds and equipment held by these companies, was approved by the trustee and the referee in bankruptcy. The offer was submitted by F. W. Pride of the law firm of Hughes, Schurman and Dwight, New York. In return for its acceptance, claims of FWC Service Corp., Fox Film and Statewide are withdrawn. These total $1,100,000. The withdrawal will provide a minimum of 10 per cent for unsecured creditors.

An eviction suit brought by the Six Point Realty Co., owner of the building occupied by the Paradise, West Allies, Milwaukee, against Julius J. Goetz, receiver for the bankrupt Midwesco Theatres, Inc., was dismissed last week by Civil Court Judge Gausewitz.

Turning back of the Pantages Hollywood to Alexander Pantages leaves Fox West Coast without a first-run in Hollywood for the first time in several years.

In the Paramount Publix bankruptcy situation, a creditors' meeting, long pending, was again put off, this time until May 8. Referee Henry K. Davis will preside. The postponement was made in order to give Root, Clark and Buckner, attorneys for the Paramount Publix trustees, sufficient time to complete their investigation of bank transfers.

Samuel Zirn is continuing his efforts to disrupt the general proceedings. His next move will be to ask the Circuit Court of Appeals for a writ of mandamus compelling Mr. Davis to subpoena the corporation's three trustees to attend a creditors' meeting and be examined as to their qualifications to serve in their capacities. Zirn is counsel for several Publix bondholders.

In Hartford, Conn., Tuesday, U. S. District Judge Edwin S. Thomas ordered the lease on the Paramount in New Haven surrendered to the receiver for Olympic Theatres, Inc., and at the same time ordered payment of 18 per cent of the theatre's income for the past three months to the lessor.

E. V. Richards, receiver for Saenger Theatres, has been authorized by Federal Judge Borah, New Orleans, to enter into an agreement for operation of the Saenger at Pine Bluff, Ark., and the Saenger and Hope Paramount at Helena, Ark.

Publix houses in Lexington, Ky., have been turned back to their owners. Paramount pictures henceforth will be shown in John Elliot theatres.

Fox New England Houses Drop Exclusive Run Plan

Fox New England Theatres receivers have discontinued the practice of exclusive runs, with new arrangements completed with Fox and MGM for product originally bought on the exclusive basis. Harry Arthur adopted the plan when he operated the 16 theatres involved under the Arthur Theatres Corporation. He is now acting for the receivers.

Towns where theatres have been playing exclusives include Springfield, Worcester, New Haven, Bridgeport and Waterbury.

RCA Reelects Directors; Shareholder Increase Noted

The annual meeting of stockholders of the Radio Corporation of America was held Tuesday in New York. Directors, whose terms had expired, were re-elected. They are: Cornelius N. Bliss, Bertram Cutler, James G. Harbord and Owen D. Young. Other directors are Edward J. Nally, James R. Sheffield, DeWitt Millhauser, Frederick Strauss, Arthur E. Braun, John Hays Hammond, Jr., Edward W. Harden and David Sarnoff. Mr. Sarnoff, president, reported an increase of 188,000 in shareholders.

Rowland Resigns Fox Post; Plans Ready Next Week

Richard A. Rowland, pioneer in motion picture production, resigned this week from the executive staff of Fox Film Corporation and immediately opened headquarters at 1790 Broadway, New York. Mr. Rowland, who had been a Fox vice-president, was engaged principally in the company's production policies, with headquarters at the home office. Within ten days he will announce his future plans.

"There is nobody in business life I have a higher regard for than S. R. Kent, president of Fox," said Mr. Rowland, "and it is with great regret that I sever my connection with his organization. For some time, however, I have had certain plans, the consummation of which would take me away from my duties at Fox."

Mr. Kent expressed regret at the resignation of Mr. Rowland, saying: "I have known Mr. Rowland for many years, and I have always looked upon him as one of the foremost executives of this industry. He has fully outlined his new plans to me and under the circumstances I do not see how I could do other than to cooperate with him at this time by regretfully accepting his resignation I join with my associates in wishing him every success in his future work."

The beginning of Richard A. Rowland's career in motion pictures dates back to 1905, when he became an independent distributor, also engaging in the business of selling lighting fixtures, which he built up to the point where, when he sold out to General Film in 1910, he had eight offices throughout the nation. His earnings in his first ventures and the sales price paid by General made Mr. Rowland a motion picture millionaire at 30.

In 1914, he organized and was president of Metro Pictures, and started to buy and build theatres, developing into one of the first circuit operators in the industry. Later, Metro became an integral part of the Loew structure.

One year later, Mr. Rowland disposed of his interests in Universal, Paramount and Mutual, leaving him only his theatre properties and Metro, which he sold to Marcus Loew in 1919. In 1917 he joined First National Pictures as general manager, remaining in that position for several years. Mr. Rowland is accredited with production of "The Four Horsemen" and other noted features. He joined Fox in 1931 in the post of executive production authority at the home office.

Brandt Heads New Group Of Independent Exhibitors

Harry Brandt was elected this week to the presidency of the Independent Theatre Owners' Protective Association at the second meeting of the newly formed organization in New York.

Charles Moses is vice-president; William Small, treasurer; Louis Nelson, secretary, and Al Friedlander, sergeant-at-arms.

Auctioning Powers Assets

The assets of Powers Pictures, Inc., are to be sold at public auction on Thursday, at 537 Broome street, New York, by order of the Irving Trust Company, receivers.

ROSES, FLORAL AND ORAL WELCOME BACK ROXY

Daily Press Tells the Story of Rothafel's Greetings From Aylesworth and Franklin On His Return to Radio City

The week was made most momentous at Mr. John Davison Rockefeller's $250,000,000 Radio City in midtown New York, thus:

1. Merlin Aylesworth, dual president of RCA subsidiaries, unlocked the massive hand-chiseled doors to the new seventy-story central office tower—75 elevators, 6 escalators, 50,000 inhabitants (when it's rented).

2. The white-stone front British Empire Building unfurled the Star Spangled Banner beside the Union Jack of John Bull, as the first paying tenants arrived at the entrance atop bulging moving vans.

3. Former Premier Edouard Herriot, of France, conservatively attired in tails, formally dedicated La Maison Francaise, and then hurried away to board the sumptuous Ile de France, to report back home on important conversations with President Roosevelt. The fate of nations hung in the balance.

4. Roxy—S. L. Rothafel—came back from a vacation for his health, to function at Radio City again, welcomed with a banquet and roses from Harold B. Franklin and Mr. Aylesworth.

Roxy and his bags arrived home in New York quietly one morning last week, fresh from the baths at Hot Springs. He had been sojourning in Mexico and Texas and splashing in the waters of Arkansas' famous springs.

There had been some ominous reports around town, but Mr. Rothafel could not discuss them—the telephone in his westside apartment had been discontinued. An alert Motion Picture Daily reporter immediately queried the RKO management to establish Mr. Rothafel's position. He was told:

> "If Roxy insists on being an omnipotent 'genius' he will do so outside of Radio City."

The spokesman for the RKO corporation refused permission, absolutely, to use his name. In any event, bright and early on the morning of April 26, a few days after Roxy's return to New York, the Herald-Tribune presented a new story, saying:

> "S. L. Rothafel, titular head of Radio City's theatres, will be allowed to 'slide back into the organization in a place where he will fit without too great a disturbance,' Harold B. Franklin, president of the RKO Theatres Operating Corp., said yesterday. Mr. Franklin has been taking the place of Mr. Rothafel during the latter's sojourn in the South recoving from an operation.
>
> "Although Roxy returned to New York on Monday, he has not yet been down to the Radio City offices. The reason for that, Mr. Franklin intimated, is that Roxy's future status is yet to be decided.
>
> "'While the matter has not been decided definitely,' said Mr. Franklin, 'I feel sure that there is a place for Roxy in the organization. He ought to be able to slide back into it in a place where he will fit without too great a disturbance.'
>
> "Mr. Franklin added that 'no one man is bigger than the organization; no one can treat the Radio City theatres as his own personal property. . . .'
>
> "'What if Roxy . . . takes his name away from the RKO Roxy Theatre?' Mr. Franklin was asked.
>
> "Mr. Franklin smiled broadly. 'If he wants his name back he can have it.'"

On Tuesday morning of this week appeared this headline in The Film Daily:

FRANKLIN GIVES DINNER TO ROXY

Said the New York Times:

> "The return of S. L. Rothafel as managing director of the two Radio City theatres was announced last night by M. H. Aylesworth. . . . Mr. Aylesworth spoke at a dinner at Radio City Music Hall given in honor of Mr. Rothafel by Harold B. Franklin."

That absolutely verified two points, viz.: That Roxy was back at the Radio City theatres, and (2) The name of the banquet host.

Mr. H. A. McCausland, of the Irving Trust Company—the receivers—was on hand, too, with other receivers to receive Roxy, and when Mr. Franklin was asked later about the reception, he told a reporter from the New York Journal:

> "'We are glad to again have Roxy associated with us once more and to work with him in establishing new standards of motion picture presentation. . . . In these efforts he will have the full cooperation of the entire RKO Theatre organization.'"

The Herald-Tribune recorded:

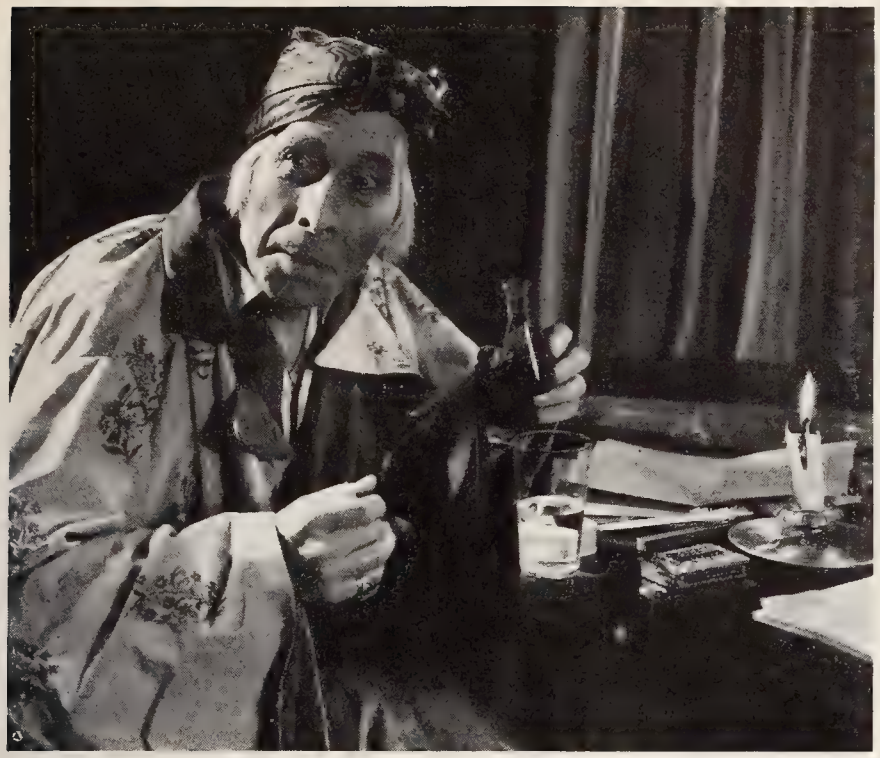
> "Places were laid for twenty-eight executives, with Roxy at the head of the table with Mr. Franklin and Mr. Aylesworth. . . . The executives were also represented by baskets of roses with their cards attached, all wishing good luck to the managing director upon his return. . . . Not to be outdone, the stage crew, the Roxyettes and the members of the orchestra also sent enormous baskets of flowers. The whole theatre took on a festive air, with the celebrated Roxy ushers donning their aiguillettes, reserved for special occasions." (Editors' Note for Plain Exhibitors: 'Aiguillettes' are nothing more than tags, cords and loops which adorn the uniforms of the 'celebrated Roxy ushers.')

The banquet was a special occasion, all right, but Motion Picture Daily's account said:

> ". . . The understanding is Roxy will be directly responsible on costs and operation to M. H. Aylesworth and H. B. Franklin. . . .
>
> "Indicating how Franklin stands with Aylesworth, although he has signed no new contract as yet, was that portion of Aylesworth's statement which read:
>
> "'I can never fully express my gratitude to Harold Franklin, who, in addition to his many executive responsibilities, carried on the direction of the Radio City theatres.'"

THE CAMERA REPORTS

BEAUTY SEEKERS. An illustrator, a novelist and a sculptor, McClelland Barclay, Faith Baldwin and Bryant Baker, discuss masculine and feminine pulchritude ere they seek 30 boys and girls for Paramount's "Search for Beauty."



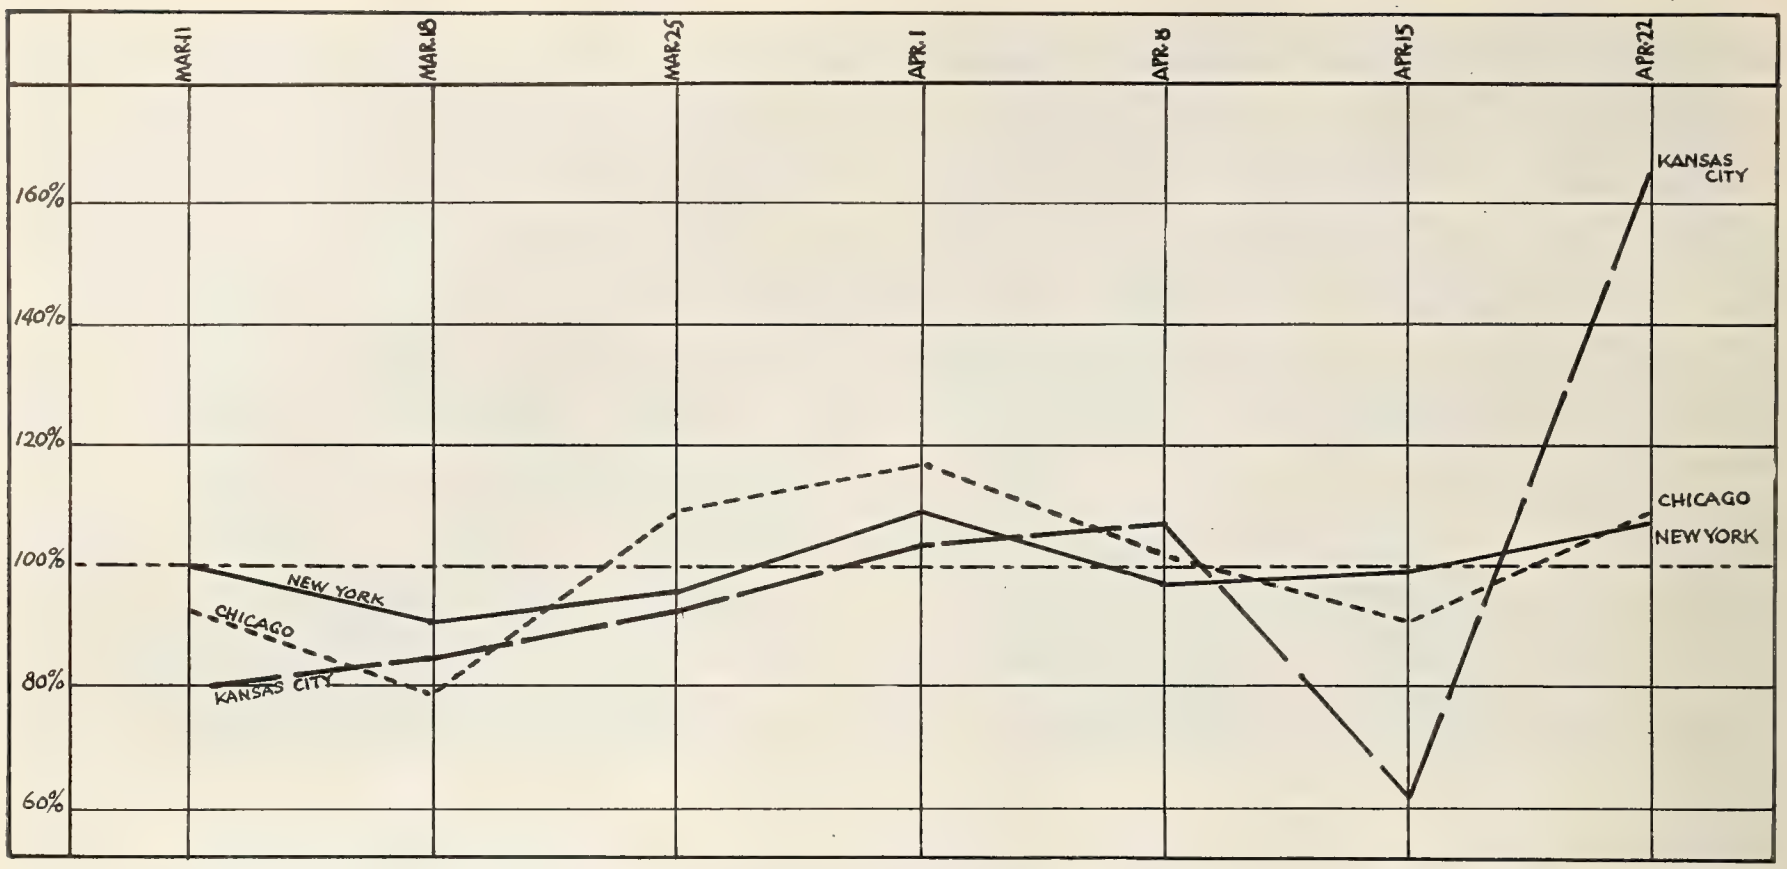
CONCENTRATION. Personified as Spencer Tracy, Fox player, swings his mallet and the pony renders assistance.

THE STARRING B'S. Being Ben (Lyon), Bebe (Daniels) and Barbara (Lyon), their daughter, off to Europe and picture making in England. Ben was in "I Cover the Waterfront," United Artists; Bebe in "Cocktail Hour," Columbia.

CONVENING MOTION PICTURE ENGINEERS. Pause for a moment to watch the "birdie" during the annual Spring meeting of the Society of Motion Picture Engineers, much more familiarly known as the SMPE, held this year April 24-28 at the Hotel Pennsylvania, New York. President Alfred N. Goldsmith presided over the sessions which were occupied by the reading of technical and not-so-technical papers, the result of indefatigable research on the part of inquisitive scientific minds, in the onward march of industry.

MASTER AND MASTER. As the master of histrionics, Mr. George Arliss appears in the characterization of the famed master of biting satire, Voltaire, in the motion picture of that name in which Mr. Arliss, as a Warner star, is now engaged. Highly effective is this still camera study by Bert Longworth.

A HEARTY WELCOME. Greeted Monogram representatives arriving in Atlantic City for the annual sales convention at the Ambassador Hotel. Monogram's executive triumvirate, from left to right, are president W. Ray Johnston, distribution vice president Harry Thomas and production vice president Trem Carr.



TRANQUIL CHARM. (Left) Typified by Ann Dvorak, Warner player, recently returned from a lengthy European vacation with husband Leslie Fenton, and now awaiting assignment.

INDEPENDENT. (Right) Now is Phil Meyer, recently resigned as Columbia's New York branch manager, who has formed Helber Company to distribute independently. [Page 22]

Relative changes in box office grosses, since the national bank holiday, in three cities—Chicago, New York and Kansas City—are depicted in the graph, based upon the weekly theatre business reports in Motion Picture Herald. The 100 per cent line indicates the average weekly gross in each city during the seven weeks period covered.

WAR SPIRIT DARKENS BUSINESS IN JAPAN

But Larger American Branches Manage To Remit Some Cash to Home Offices; Titles Changed to Military Appeal

[By Special Tokyo Correspondent]

Business conditions in Japan—including the motion picture situation—have been so uncertain in recent weeks that until the tense Manchurian problem is adjusted no relief will be forthcoming for any enterprise. People in Japan are at the moment supersensitive. They do not feel too kindly toward the rest of the world since the League of Nations voiced condemnation of Japan for the Sino-Japanese conflict. This attitude is directed particularly against the United States.

Even under normal conditions, the film business is a battle in Japan, but currently it is next to impossible. However, the important American motion picture branches are managing somehow to hold up and are remitting some cash to the New York offices.

Pictures with the greatest appeal at the moment are those with naval or military background or atmosphere. MGM's "Hell Divers" and RKO's "Suicide Fleet" both did much more business throughout Japan than they would have done ordinarily.

The Japanese frequently change the titles of such naval or military productions into something entirely different in meaning. For instance, the literal translation of the title given "Hell Divers," when released locally, is "Bombed by Airplanes from the Pacific." The title given "Suicide Fleet" had a double meaning—one being "The American Destroying Fleet," and the other, "The Fleet to Destroy America." Naturally, such titles create much excitement among the populace.

"Six Hours to Live" was given a new title, "Winds and Storms Within the League of Nations," in order to bring home the League situation. This automatically made the film a very timely subject, Japan having withdrawn from the League a few weeks earlier.

The biggest handicap of American motion picture representatives in Japan is the low value of the yen. Currently, the yen is 60 per cent below par value, and all business of the branches is done in yen. This means that the exchanges must do about 150 per cent more business than formerly in order to remit former sums to New York. However, instead of doing more business, practically all the companies are doing less, which reduces the net intake to a very low point. The situation has long since necessitated excessive curtailment of operating expenses.

Except in cases of military subjects, the American representatives are generally much disturbed to have to release their best productions for extremely poor rentals, as at present. They say that if the studios in Hollywood will continue to produce some naval or military features, perhaps American exchanges in Japan will be able to pull through this "zero" year.

Meyer Launches New Independent

Phil E. Meyer this week announced formation of Helber Pictures Corp., an independent distributing company which will market features as the Marquee brand.

The company will undertake the dubbing of American voice on talkers made in England. Mr. Meyer thus aims to overcome obstacles of English accent which have heretofore limited distribution of British films. The company also will handle other foreign as well as domestic product.

The first two releases are "Faithful Heart," starring Herbert Marshall and Edna Best, and "The Stronger Sex," featuring Colin Clive. Both are now being produced at the Gainsborough studios in England. Sales copy will emphasize the policy: "A complete new sound track made in the United States."

The first release is set for June 15. Others will follow twice monthly until the end of the season in late August. Twenty-six features will be released in 1933-34. The Edgar Wallace mystery, "White Face," and a melodramatic novelty, "The Man They Couldn't Arrest," are on the schedule.

Mr. Meyer has also formed General Pictures Exchange in New York to handle distribution in this territory. Manny Meyer probably will manage the local branch.

Mr. Meyer is president of Helber and president and general manager of General Pictures Exchange. Al Selig, formerly with Paramount's home office advertising department, will handle publicity and advertising. Sam Citron resigned last week from Educational-Fox to take charge of Helber's editing, cutting and recording.

ASIDES & INTERLUDES

By JAMES CUNNINGHAM

BEN LYON and his wife, Bebe Daniels, arrived in town the other morning, en route to London. They wired ahead to the United Artists' home office that they would be delighted to see their "countless" friends on the newspapers and they "would like to throw a little tea" for this purpose, at the Hotel Warwick. Accordingly, at the appointed hour early Friday afternoon, the best tea hurlers of the press, both trade and lay, assembled in Sixth Avenue and marched south in columns of eight in the direction of the Lyons suite, where all and sundry quaffed until far into the night.

Ben and Bebe introduced at the gathering their youngest daughter, Barbara, who is one of the few persons from Hollywood who is not affected—she's just twenty months. Mrs. Daniels sings the youngster to sleep every night with two songs—no more. After that, Barbara wails, "That's 'nuff, mummy."

▽

Publication last week in New York's Herald-Tribune, of a story about Samuel Lionel Rothafel's status at Radio City, caused quite a stir along Broadway. Harold B. Franklin, who has been running Radio City since Mr. Rothafel left for a lengthy vacation, was quoted as saying that he thought Roxy would be back, if he could be slipped in without creating too much of a disturbance in the routine. Inquiries were made at M. H. Aylesworth's office to determine whether he saw the yarn. His assistant replied that Mr. Aylesworth starts reading all of the New York dailies at 7:30 every morning. That's keeping step with the march of time.

▽

Mr. Hays and the producers hope hereafter to establish the suitability of stories before purchasing screen rights, in order to effect economies and eliminate questionable material. Basically, the idea is to put an end to the old practice of investing enormous sums in well known story properties, or plays, only to drop the original title, then rewrite the story to fit the new title, and finally drop both title and story.

▽

The last of the Hollywood conferences has not been told. The epitaph should read: "They Came. They Saw. They Feinted."

▽

It is not our duty to report on the extra-marital activities of young Fairbanks and Joan Crawford. But we do wonder what prompted Warner Brothers to send to the trade a publicity story captioned: Doug (Warner star) and Joan to go abroad together this summer." Two days later, newspaper headlines told about divorce proceedings.

▽

From funnywriter John P. Medbury we learn about the owner of a film row drug store on Broadway who has been dispensing whiskey and gin illegally for six years, and was finally arrested the other day—for using oleomargarine on sandwiches.

▽

Hollywood Herald reports on economy in circuit operation: An executive of a large chain issued orders last week that, hereafter, all scrub-women in theatres must supply their own scrub clothes. Savings effected will probably help pay the cost of redecorating the studio bungalow of the star's best performer in Hollywood.

A WORD TO THE THIRSTY

Robert F. Sisk, ad chief for RKO, urges managers of the circuit not to run their cooling systems as if they were trying to cool a case of beer in 20 minutes. Colonel "Jake" (3.2) Ruppert won't like that.

W. P. ("Pat") GARYN is vacationing under Florida's warm sun, at St. Petersburg. Writes Pat: "It's a tough job to keep from goin' native down here. I now understand how a guy can become a beach-comber and like it.

"I was out fishin' in the Gulf of Mexico yesterday, and, boy, I near broke an arm draggin' 'em in. You just whistle, toss over your pole and line and they come leapin' at it. What part of the catch I was able to lift is exhibited in the snapshot. The long baby is a kingfish I got trolling. The others are black and red 'groupers'. Whereinell they get that name, I don't know, but they are okay eatin'. The well-burned fish in the middle is muh."

Some highly perplexing problems arising from enactment of New York State's new sales tax of one per cent, which became effective at midnight May 1, are now before the state tax commission. The big problem is one in which both a product and installation service constitute a sale. For instance, should an exhibitor, paying $50 for draperies, pay a tax on that amount, when, actually, the deal represents a sale of materials worth only $30, the balance of the expense being incurred through work in hanging them? Exhibitors will not pay a tax on Erpi equipment, because the reproducer is only leased. The tax applies only to actual sales. RCA's sound device is taxable, because it is sold and not leased.

▽

There's a swell-headed executive about town who is so ritzy he won't even talk to himself without being announced.

▽

A well known New York attorney, prominent in motion picture affairs, is quietly working with Representative Sirovich on his proposed bill to investigate the business.

▽

Trem Carr makes pictures for Ray Johnston and money for himself. He's one of the largest producers of oil in the East Texas fields. Last week, Trem gave the august state railroad commission a licking when he got an injunction restraining the commissioners from interfering with the removal of oil from his three 50,000-barrel wells near Gladewater.

CLYDE BEATTY, whose animal training activities have placed him in hospitals 20 times, is the only member of the Ringling Brothers, Barnum and Bailey Circus who can secure no life insurance. The one exception, he told newspaperman Louis Sobol, was when he went to Hollywood to make "The Big Cage" for Universal. After a great deal of argument, the Laemmles finally persuaded Lloyd's to take a chance and insure him for $100,000. With such a sum hanging over his head, he said he suffered apprehension for the first time in his career. Nothing happened.

▽

Mrs. Dagmar O'Connor, United Artists publicist in India, reports from headquarters in Calcutta that exhibitors there cannot be coaxed into putting on special stunts, and exploitation parades are taboo, because police will not permit them. Cows and goats, however, are allowed to roam at large. "We would love to use the banner on the cow as suggested in the pressbook for 'The Kid from Spain,'" she said. "But the cow is a sacred animal here and the Hindus would be sure to resent taking such liberties.

"There are plenty of cows and bulls roaming the main streets of Calcutta," continued Mrs. O'Connor. "They even sit on the steps of the leading banks"—(We have wolves over here). One day, Mrs. O'Connor saw a cow in a theatre lobby sheltering from the rain. A herd of 86 cows passes the United Artists' office during the lunch hour every day, followed by a flock of 100 goats. A cow may be just a pot roast in other countries, but in India it's quite different.

▽

Mayor John Patrick O'Brien, Tammany Hall, take notice. In the exclusive statement made currently in the Fox-Metrotone newsreel, ex-Mayor John Francis Hylan announces that his hat is again in the ring for the mayoralty campaign. Judge Hylan, who has been in and out of Tammany variously over a long period, recalls the happiness and prosperity that flourished during his eight years of administering New York City's affairs. Evidently Mr. Hylan believes that a couple of city politicians who have held office since he was defeated, are responsible for the depression.

▽

At 22, Miss Evelyn Koch is the youngest director of advertising and publicity in the business. She took over the reins at Majestic last week.

▽

The inflationists in Congress were wildly enthusiastic over President Roosevelt's inflationary activities, until they heard of J. Pierpont Morgan having indorsed the move. Then they are reported to have shaken their heads and to suspect there might be a bug under the chip. Later they learned that ex-Senator Smith Wildman Brookhart, our old friend from the corn fields of Iowa, had called Washington on the telephone to indorse inflation. So everybody was happy again.

▽

Kaufmann and Fabry have installed a large photograph, 35 by 30 feet in dimensions, in the administration building of the Chicago world's fair. Which prompted Advertising Age to remark, "This is unfortunately going to be too suggestive to politicians, movie actors and others who are in love with their own faces."

SIGN ON A HARLEM THEATRE MARQUEE:

"THEY JUST HAD TO GET MARRIED"
"WHAT PRICE DECENCY?"

MUSIC

IRENE DUNNE
THE SILVER CORD
with JOEL McCREA
FRANCES DEE
ERIC LINDEN

BASED UPON THE PLAY BY SIDNEY HOWARD as presented by THE THEATRE GUILD directed by JOHN CROMWELL
MERIAN C. COOPER
Executive Producer

RKO Radio Pictures

RADIO CITY

OPENS TODAY

RED MEAT FOR WIVES

Over the back fence and the bridge table they're going to talk about this picture!

It hits home! Hits with a wallop!... in a good many million homes where the mother-in-law story is no joke!

"It's your mother . . . always your mother," shouts the heroine of this play. "WHAT ABOUT YOUR WIFE . . . Doesn't she count?"

. . . IT'S A SWELL PICTURE! IRENE DUNNE IS SWELL! THE WHOLE CAST IS SWELL!

NEW ROXY
OPENS
TOMORROW
RADIO CITY
SILENT A THOUSAND YEARS...
"INDIA SPEAKS"
with RICHARD HALLIBURTON
Author of "THE ROYAL ROAD TO ROMANCE" "THE GLORIOUS ADVENTURE" "THE FLYING CARPET" PRODUCED BY
WALTER FUTTER
MAKER OF "AFRICA SPEAKS"
DISTRIBUTED BY RKO Radio Pictures
. . . Every exhibitor knows what "AFRICA SPEAKS" did at the box-office! "India Speaks" is another . . . bound to startle, and hang up new records. A tale of adventure in a fabulous land where a thousand golden temples hide a million sins.
In it, RICHARD HALLIBURTON, romancer, adventurer . . . most popular of authors . . . reveals almost incredible adventures, thrills, sights, in a land where girls of twelve marry men of fifty and some women have a dozen husbands.

SHOWMEN'S REVIEWS

This department deals with new product from the point of view of the exhibitor who is to purvey it to his own public

Reunion in Vienna

(MGM)

Comedy-Drama

John Barrymore adds another leaf to his laurel wreath by reason of his performance in MGM's talking screen version of the highly successful, highly lauded stage play by Robert E. Sherwood which some time ago held the Broadway boards for many weeks. Mr. Barrymore and Diana Wynward step into the shoes so deftly, capably occupied in the original by the brilliant Alfred Lunt and Lynne Fontanne, and fill them with splendid capability. Miss Wynyard, late of England and the feminine lead in "Cavalcade," does surprisingly well in a difficult role which requires a measure of drama, combined with and dominated by a fine touch of proper comedy.

Amusing, entertaining, wholly delightful and deft as the picture turns out, a "finished" product, it is nevertheless inescapable that the play, for such it is on the screen as much as on the stage, is rather definitely of that character which makes for class, rather than mass appeal. It is highly sophisticated fare.

That it is a picture version of the highly successful play by Robert Sherwood, that Barrymore and Miss Wynyard fill the roles taken by Lunt and Fontanne, that it ran for many weeks on Broadway as a play, it is likely, will mean little to the common denominator of picture patronage over the country, in the smaller towns and lesser situations. In the larger key cities it should mean much, and much should be made of it there. In the smaller situations it may be mentioned, but the greater stress should be set on the story, the players and the selling value of their names.

Besides Barrymore and Miss Wynyard, the marquee may be graced with the subordinated names of the capable Frank Morgan, May Robson, Una Merkel (in a minor role). The others will be quite thoroughly unknown.

The context of the play has been rather rigidly, and wisely adhered to. Briefly, Miss Wynyard, urged by her psychoanalyst husband, Morgan, agrees to attend a reunion of the ragged remnant of what was once brilliant Viennese society, there to meet, forever banish the mental picture of the wildly reckless, romantic Rudolph, played by Barrymore, with whom she was once on more than good terms. The gathering is at the hotel of Frau Lucher, delightfully played by May Robson, as the sharp-tongued proprietess. Barrymore appears suddenly on the scene, and the pace quickens. He makes love to Miss Wynyard in his old style, finally melting her resistance. She flees to her home, Barrymore follows, there indulges in a verbal tilt with Morgan, stays overnight as Morgan goes out to permit his wife to fight her own battle, and in the morning Barrymore leaves, still the gallant, still the glamorous Rudolph, yet stripped of his self-assurance, knowing he is just a Riviera cab driver, a shadow of the pre-revolution grandeur, as are all the rest, leaves Vienna, and the victorious Morgan and Miss Wynyard. Henry Travers, as Morgan's senile father, a role he played in the original, adds a different note of comedy, is completely delightful.

There is something touching in the story, a bit of pathos which is masked behind a cloak of pseudo gaiety, lively banter and gold braid—which is frayed. There is much dialogue, which is not action, and which may fail of complete appreciation by the rank and file of picture-goers. Sell the story, its implications, and the fact that Barrymore and Miss Wynyard play brilliantly in the lead. It is comedy, with hidden pathos, drama, made stronger since it is registered entirely by implication, suggestion. Indicate that this is a motion picture of a high grade of entertainment. It could not possibly be appreciated by any but adults.—AARONSON, New York.

Produced and distributed by Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer. Directed by Sidney Franklin. From the play by Robert E. Sherwood. Screen play by Ernest Vajda and Claudine West. Musical score by Dr. William Axt. Photographed by George Folsey. Film Editor, Blanche Sewell. Running time, 97 minutes.

CAST

Rudolf	John Barrymore
Elena	Diana Wynyard
Anton	Frank Morgan
Father Krug	Henry Travers
Frau Lucher	May Robson
Poffy	Eduardo Ciannelli
Ilse	Una Merkel
Kathie	Bodil Rosing
Musician	Bela Loblov
Musician	Morris Nussbaum
Countess Von Stainz	Nella Walker
Count Von Stainz	Herbert Evans

The Girl In 419

(Paramount)

Melodrama

This is a melodramatic romance. All the action takes place within the walls of a metropolitan receiving hospital. Actually there are two stories. The first establishes the hero as an expert surgeon—the Lothario of all the nurses—the envy of all the resident doctors. The second is a novel melodrama, tinged with an atmosphere of gangster menace, which develops into an interesting romance. Although the picture tends to slowness in spots, the tempo picks up as the story develops and mainly through dramatic suspense builds into a satisfactory attraction. Giving a colorful insight into what goes on behind the scenes in a public hospital, it has a topical appeal.

After the preliminary sequences, one of which pictures the investigation of a notorious character's murder during which Dr. French notes some peculiar markings on a table, the picture reaches its main theme. A beautiful, unidentified girl is brought into the hospital unconscious. Still in a coma, on the border of life and death, Dr. French drops everything to give personal attention to the girl he has named Mary Dolan.

Lawton, whom Dr. French knows as a racketeer, visits the hospital. He asks him to try and identify the girl. She is a stranger to Lawton. But back in his apartment it develops that Mary Dolan was his girl and that his gangsters are responsible for the beating up that put her in the hospital. Sammy, his gunman, fails in an attempt to kill Mary, but does kill Otto, the doctor's handy man. Sammy, in turn, is killed while trying to flee. Dr. Martin, French's assistant, is also wounded. Knowing the relation between Lawton and Sammy, French endeavors to get him to the hospital again, while Lawton exerts political pressure to have the girl discharged. Amid his other troubles, French relates his suspicions to Martin. Trying one life or death method he succeeds in bringing Mary out of her coma. Readily she tells him about the gangster murder and her part in it. When French sees Lawton marking up his desk with the same characters that he noted in the murdered man's room, he knows he has a complete case. In the meantime, Dr. Martin takes Lawton into a room and in the guise of giving him a drink poisons him. Of course, the finale is love and happiness for Dr. French and Mary.

Even though the hospital atmosphere is well done, it seems that the title is the best thing to use in building an audience interesting campaign for "The Girl in 419." Accentuating this by strong references to the dramatic-romantic motif of the story, with cleverly constructed hints as to the mystery that is behind everything, may be just the thing to stimulate curiosity. The cast offers a variety of names that can be used in drawing various classes of patrons.

Smart newspaper advertising that creates the impression that in the picture patrons will witness a different dramatic romance should be the most effective means of bolstering audience interest. Because of the theme, its appeal should be confined principally to adults. The cast may make it attractive to the younger generation, but as a whole it is much too deep for the youngsters.—MCCARTHY, Hollywood.

Produced and distributed by Paramount. A B. P. Schulberg production. Screen play by P. J. Wolfson, Allen Rivkin, Manuel Seff. From a story by Jules Furthman. Photographed by Karl Struss. Release date, May 26, 1933. Running time, 76 minutes.

CAST

Dr. Daniel French	James Dunn
Mary Dolan	Gloria Stuart
Dr. Martin Nichols	David Manners
Peter Lawton	William Harrigan
Irene Blaine	Shirley Grey
Sammy	Jack LaRue
Slug	Johnny Hines
Otto Hoffer	Vince Barnett
Telephone operator	Kitty Kelly
Lieutenant Riley	Edward Gargan
Detective Jackson	James Burke
Horton	Clarence Wilson
Lucy	Gertrude Short
Mrs. Young	Effie Ellsler
Rankin	Hal Price

The Warrior's Husband

(Fox)

Comedy

Ridiculously burlesquing mythology, "The Warrior's Husband" is novelly new and different entertainment. It certainly is amusing. Its time is 800 B. C. Naturally it is a costume picture. Principally it's a laugh-laden comedy which takes on a romantic twist. It tells the story of a race of fighting, ruling women, where men are the weakling stay-at-homes. As the story unfolded on the screen, the preview audience laughed almost continuously. Dialogue putting modern slang phrases into classical mouths helped keep attention keyed up.

Farcical even in its most serious moments, it never hints at dignity. Undoubtedly, novelty of idea and presentation are its most appealing factors.

In the story it develops that Pompus, land of Amazons, is being invaded by an army of Greeks. Hippolyta, Mussolini of the land, and her sister Antiope are all for rounding up their feminine army, sallying forth and lambasting the Greeks. Even the appearance of a couple of envoys, Theseus and the doggerel reciting Homer, bearing gifts, does not assuage their anger. Not even Theseus' desire to make love with Antiope, rather than war, is of any use.

But the domain's war chest is busted flat. As a condition for advancing funds, Pomposia insists that Hippo marry Sapiens. The old warrior never heard of such a thing, but in her anxiety to get at the Greeks she consents. Through the person of Pokus, the anxiety of the Greek hosts to mingle with the feminine army is hilariously established.

Then it develops that the source of all the Amazon's power is vested in a goddess-given girdle which Hippo wears and guards with her life. One of Hercules' jobs is to grab that girdle—and Hercules is a lily-of-the-valley character. Antioppe and Theseus agree to a hand-to-hand battle, and though he tries to kid her out of it he has to defend himself until he disarms her. He carries her to the Greek camp. Hippo thinks Antiope has carried the girdle back, but Sapiens has seen her hide it. Making a deal with Hercules, he gives him the girdle. When Hippo finds that out the battle is on. But the gals in the army have lost all their martial powers. Reverting to true womanhood, they stage a grand carnival of love-making with the Grecian stalwarts.

Here's a picture with which smart showmen can stage a gay carnival of interest-creation. It demands a funny campaign. Kid the idea, cartoon it; burlesque the standard methods of intriguing patronage. Make your advertising breezy and slangy. Satirize our own times ridiculously. Do a little reading of classical mythology, then let your imagination run riot. Pick on the old catch phrase, "The Greeks Had a Word For It," and dare your patrons to find a word that will describe this show, or any of the stunts you concoct.

There are a few racy lines, but as the whole thing is all in fun, it hardly seems possible that there will be any strenuous objections. Fun is the thing to sell. That, and of course, romance.—McCarthy, Hollywood.

Produced and distributed by Fox. Directed by Walter Lang. Based on a play by Julian Thompson. Adaptation and dialogue by Ralph Spence. Continuity by Sonya Levien. Photgraphed by Hal Mohr. Release date, May 5, 1933. Running time, 68 minutes.

CAST

Antiope	Elissa Landi
Hippolyta	Marjorie Rambeau
Sapiens	Ernest Truex
Theseus	David Manners
Pomposia	Helen Ware
Buria	Maude Eburne
Heroica	Claudia Coleman
Sapiens Major	Ferdinand Gottshalk
Pokus	John Sheehan
Homer	Lionel Belmore
Sergeant of the guards	Helene Madison
Hercules	Tiny Sanford

Never Give a Sucker a Break

(MGM)

Comedy

This is a fast-paced, laugh-laden comedy leavened with a catchy romance. It is a modern portrayal of an old racket, a shyster lawyer playing hob with a street car company. But it doesn't follow the well-trodden track of the usual racketeer type of picture. Hilariously comic, appealingly romantic, dramatic at times, but devoid of stark melodrama, it has a fresh new slant of novelty necessary for a show of "smash" possibilities. Checking the laughs became a useless task as the preview audience giggled, guffawed and roared continuously. The women enjoyed it as much as the men. The few youngsters in the crowd ate it up, a sure indication that it was understandable, enjoyable entertainment and right down the popular alley.

In brief, it is the story of a glib-tongued, resourceful, shyster lawyer who takes the traction company over the hurdles. Maintaining his own staff of "victims," witnesses, as well as doctor for expert testimony, he costs the company about $500,000 a year. Dramatically and comically playing on jury sympathies he is a bitter pill for the company's sedate legal staff.

Eventually, however, they capitalize on his notorious "on-the-make" propensities, hire Dorothy, detective operator, to get the goods on the rascally Stevens. She does, but when the death of Dr. Prescott reveals that Dorothy is working for Attorney Calhoun, he pulls a stunt that he knows will checkmate the company's counsellor. It is not revealed to the audience until during an accident trial, Calhoun forces Dorothy to testify that she framed with Stevens. Then Phineas pulls the old prerogative that a wife can not testify against her husband and Calhoun is stuck. But he jails Dorothy for perjury, and though Stevens is ready to call it quits, he can't let Calhoun trick him. Rebuffed when he tries to make a deal with the company, he digs up old ordinances, and stops all street car traffic. When the company resorts to buses, he digs up more moss-covered laws that paralyze traffic again. Still Calhoun is adamant until Stevens frames him on a drunk-driving charge. Then Stevens relents, Dorothy is freed and every one but the traction company is happy.

Selling "Never Give a Sucker a Break" should be easy. It is alive with modern, novel comedy. Then it is full of natural showmanship potentialities. No suggestions should be necessary as far as star and cast names are concerned. Alluring advertising copy can be developed. Dialogue and theme suggest some great exploitation lines. For exciting gags, pick on forgotten local ordinances. Tracy used many in the picture. There must be funny regulations in every town. Dig 'em up as part of your interest-creating campaign.—McCarthy, Hollywood.

Produced and distributed by MGM. Directed by Jack Conway. Original story by Chandler Sprague and Howard Emmett Rogers. Adaptation and dialogue by Bella and Samuel Spewack. Photographed by Gregg Toland. Release date, June 2, 1933. Running time, 80 minutes.

CAST

J. Phineas Stevens	Lee Tracy
Dorothy	Madge Evans
Dr. Prescott	Frank Morgan
Floppy	Charles Butterworth
Calhoun	John Miljan
Miss Rutherford	Virginia Cherrill
Kelley	David Landeau
Mrs. Mannheimer	Greta Mayer
Willy	Herman Bing
Beaumont	Samuel Hinds
Fred	Syd Saylor

Noc Listopadowa

November Night

(Capital)

Drama

There are unquestionably a goodly number of people of Polish extraction in this country, and probably others who understand that difficult language. Where those people live, this picture, made in Warsaw, should have a ready market, since it is perhaps the first picture from that source to be brought to the United States.

It is an able effort, distinguished definitely by reason of the excellence of its technical quality. The sound is splendid, the film flawless. the photography always of good quality, occasionally unusual. Technically, the picture compares most favorably with any of the product of the best of the Hollywood studios.

The story is strong, dramatic, well developed and interesting. In the nature of an historical romance, it is yet not the generally expected type, interspersed with many musical interludes and fancy costumes. Rather it is straigfhtforward drama, depicting a scene significant of the freedom of Poland from the Russian yoke of Czarism. There is romance, but it is hardly cheerful, the picture concluding on a note in keeping, natural and satisfactory, if a trifle tragic. The romance, by and large, has been subordinated to the historical element. The cast is extremely capable, the players all Polish.

A forword on the screen carries a brief synopsis of the story in English, making it possible to follow the sequence of the story though lacking a knowledge of the language. In selling the picture—where it can be sold—stress the drama, the historical significance involved, and the romance.

Grand Duke Constantin, brother of Czar Alexander I and governor of Poland, rules with an iron hand. The opression keeps the patriotic fervor of the populace at white heat continuously. A young major, actually leader of the patriots, introduces his attractive fiancee to Constantin, who forces her to marry him, with the approval of her parents, who foresee easing of the oppression. She is named a princess by the Czar. The girl cannot help but pity her aging husband, fearful for his life. The major is betrayed, and after torture fails to bring forth the names of his confederates, he is disgraced before his troops in an impressive sequence and confined to a dungeon in the palace. When the Czar dies, Constantin is about to flee when the people storm the palace, Constantin escaping with his life through a ruse. The girl, forced to flee with him, hears, as a closing sequence, the confident words of the freed major, worn and in chains, predicting freedom for his country.

It is a strong drama, well played, and should be found interesting, entertaining by many who do not understand the language, and any who do.—Aaronson, New York.

Produced by Blok-Muzafilm, Warsaw, Poland. Distributed by Capital Film Exchange. Directed by J. Warnecki. Adapted from the novel "The Princess of Lovicz," by Waclaw Gasiorowski. Photographed by Z. Gnaizdowski. Music by Felix Rybickiego. Historical supervision by Captain A. Boncza-Bartoszewski, director of the Polish National Army Museum. New York release date, April 27, 1933. Running time, 97 minutes.

CAST

Grand Duke Constantin	Stefan Jaracź
Major Walerjan Lukashinski	Josef Wegrzyn
Princess Joanna	Jadwiga Smosarska
Her Mother	Amelja Jarninski
Her Father	Alexander Zelwerowicz
A Street-singer	Stanislaw Grusczynski

The Eagle and the Hawk

(Paramount)

Drama

This is an unusual picture. It is a powerful, realistic portrayal of a flying-soldier's reactions to war's ruthless killing. In its telling many accepted entertainment formulae are violated. Others are ignored. Comedy is the sole contrast to stark drama. Romance is omitted. The principal feminine character is on the screen for hardly five minutes, and then the angle is suggestive of sex rather than love interest. Yet "The Eagle and the Hawk" is impressive entertainment. Human interest that continually centers sympathy on the hero is its motivating force, and the element seemed to grip the attention of the preview audience. It was evident that many of the scenes touched them deeply. The crowd seemed to have been impressed by the spirit of the picture. From the foregoing it might seem that the picture lacks feminine appeal. Such is hardly the case. Proper handling of its elements can make this a strong woman's picture. Not glorifying war; rather showing it in all its horror, the picture tells a story that is close to every woman's heart. In this connection, the show is quite apt to create controversy. Flying in the face of all patriotic tradition, it mocks heroism. Instead of considering himself as a shining example, the hero considers himself a force that is luring young boys to slaughter.

In the beginning Young and Crocker are bitter enemies. Young and Richards are pals. All are serving in the British Flying Service. Believing Young responsible for him being at home while the others are ordered to the front, Crocker hits him. In France Young is eager for the great adventure. Richards (in hilarious ad-lib, Oakie fashion) supplies the comedy. After five of Young's flying mates have been killed and boys brought in for more slaughter, Young begins to crack. Crocker is sent to the front, assigned to Young's plane, and Young takes his foe out for a spectacular adventure. Reporting to the major that he believes Young needs a rest, the hero is given a 10-day leave. Here the Beautiful Lady sequence intervenes, as strangers that meet in the night. She is gone when Young wakes.

Young returns to France as Richard's body is lifted from Crocker's plane. His death was the result of a needless escapade—to satisfy Crocker's wish for a medal. In a binge, held up as a shining example, Young delivers a scathing denunciation of war. Going to his quarters he commits suicide. To cover up Young's act, Crocker loads the body into a plane and to completely eliminate any suspicion that Young killed himself, shoots several rounds of bullets into the body. Finale is a cop ordering the war-wrecked Crocker away from Young's memorial.

"The Eagle and the Hawk" should not be Bigger today

KING

Universal's TIMELY revival of the most glorious musical ever produced! . . . Re-edited to match the pace of 1933 . . . Transformed to meet today's demand for screen entertainment with music . . . NEW TECHNICOLOR PRINTS . . . NEW ACCESSORIES . . . NEW BOX-OFFICE APPEAL!

than ever!!

OF JAZZ

with

PAUL WHITEMAN AND HIS BAND

JOHN BOLES, BING CROSBY

JEANIE LANG, The Rhythm Boys, Grace Hayes, Jeanette Loff, Stanley Smith and scores of other stage and screen stars. Produced by Carl Laemmle, Jr. Directed by John Murray Anderson. Presented by Carl Laemmle.

sold as an ordinary war picture. It tells too vivid a story to be handled in the usual style. In dignified, straight-from-the-shoulder methods sell the tragic drama of heroism. Impress your patrons with the knowledge that here they are going to see the grisly side of the story about which so many paeans have been written. Handle it without gloves. Don't try to cover up. By being fair and honest with yourself and your patrons, you should bring more business than other methods would produce.—McCarthy, Hollywood.

Produced and distributed by Paramount. Screen play by Bogart Rogers and Seton I. Miller. Based on a story by John Monk Saunders. Photographed by Harry Fischbeck. Release date, May 19, 1933. Running time, 72 minutes.

CAST:

Jeremiah Young	Fredric March
Henry Crocker	Cary Grant
Mike Richards	Jack Oakie
The Beautiful Lady	Carole Lombard
Major Dunham	Sir Guy Standing
Hogan	Forrester Harvey
John Stevens	Kenneth Howell
Kingsford	Leyland Hodgson
Lady Erskine	Virginia Hammond
General	Craufurd Kent
Tommy	Douglas Scott
Major Kruppman	Robert Manning
Fanny	Adrienne D'Ambricourt
French General's Aide	Jacques Jou-Jerville
Flight Sergeant	Russell Scott
French General	Paul Cremonesi
Taxi Driver	Yorke Sherwood

The Past of Mary Holmes

(RKO Radio)

Drama

There is still much of drama, much of suspense, a good deal of appeal in Rex Beach's story, "The Goose Woman," which made an extremely popular film in the silent era, with Louise Dresser in the role of the Goose Woman. In this talking version, Helen MacKellar plays the role, and does exceedingly well by it. She makes the most of it, offers a convincingly sincere portrayal, and thereby imparts to the picture a sparkle of effectiveness which it might not have had, had that vital role not been so ably performed.

Since the story of "The Goose Woman" tells a tale of a once famous opera singer, now a decrepit, drink-sodden shanty occupant, tending her flock of geese with a vindictive temper and a deep hatred for the son whose birth caused her to lose her voice, the picture has an unquestioned feminine appeal. In that direction the exhibitor should make his strongest play for patronage, not neglecting, of course, the fact of the origin of the picture and story and the note that this is a talking film version of the picture most of the older patrons will remember well.

The complications of murder, a trial, and the activities of a live-wire city newspaper reporter who brings things to a head, should add an appealing factor for the masculine portion of the patronage. It is a well told tale of lost hopes, hatred and a still living thirst for publicity, yet having the mass-appeal elements of final reconciliation. Basically it is a story of mother-hate which only turns to mother-love as the result of a crisis in three lives.

Miss MacKeller hates her son, Eric Linden, and when he announces his intention of marrying Jean Arthur she all but throws him out of the house. He leaves for Chicago and a job, after Miss Arthur, local actress, informs him of an earlier affair she had had with Clay Clement, her employer, which, however, makes no difference to Linden. That night Clement is murdered, Linden accused. Athirst for publicity, Miss MacKellar tells a tale of a one-eyed car, shots in the night, building a chain of circumstantial evidence which conclusively accuses Linden, though she does not know it. Skeets Gallagher brings J. Carrol Naish, district attorney, into the case and Neish puts the Goose Woman into the hands of experts and turns her out in all the splendor of demeanor and appearance which she once knew. Only on the witness stand, when she suddenly and dramatically realizes she is sending her son to the gallows, does she admit she really knew nothing. Too late, the boy is convicted, and is later saved when Miss MacKellar unearths the fact that the theatre doorman had killed Clement. The Goose Woman, changed by the near tragedy, burns her shanty, looks forward to a home with her son.

The names are fairly good, Miss MacKellar, Linden, Gallagher leading the way. The story is saved from a certain triteness by the appeal in its plot, the performance of Miss MacKellar. Sell the story, its origin, Miss MacKellar's work, the theme of the mother and her son. It is rather definitely adult material.—Aaronson, New York.

Produced and distributed by RKO Radio. Directed by Harlan Thompson and Slavko Vorkapich. From the story "The Goose Woman," by Rex Beach. Adapted to the screen by Marion Dix and Edward J. Doherty. Cameraman, Charles Rosher. Art directors, Van Nest Polglase and Al Herman. Release date, January 20, 1933. Running time, 62 minutes.

CAST

Mary Holmes	Helen MacKellar
Geoffrey Holmes	Eric Linden
Joan Hoyt	Jean Arthur
Pratt	"Skeets" Gallagher
Jacob Riggs	Ivan Simpson
Etheridge	Clay Clement
Brooks	Franklin Parker
Flannigan	Eddie Nugent
Klondike	Rosco Ates
Kent	J. Carrol Naish
Kinkaid	John Sheehan

Terror Aboard

(Paramount)

Melodrama

As a saga of death in wholesale and retail lots and a graphic exposition of unique methods of bringing death, "Terror Aboard" may have some things that will appeal to certain classes of audiences. It can hardly be called a drama; there is a bit of romance but it only plays a distant second to the terror premise; only occasionally is the comedy relief of sufficient strength to offset the gruesomeness of the underlying theme.

Although the title suggests it, there is really no mystery. After the tramp liner discovers the unmanned palatial yacht, the story is told in retrospect. Kreig is a big business promotor who receives a radiogram that his companies have crashed and a warning that he cannot escape justice. First killing the radio operator so that no one will know the news besides himself, he fixes it so that Cordoff kills Hazlitt. Then he freezes Mrs. Hazlitt to death, pushes Lena, the maid, off the boat, kills Alison and by suggestion causes Cordoff to commit suicide. Jumping from retail to wholesale killing, he dumps a boatload of sailors into the ocean and tries to kill Lili and Cowles by setting fire to engine room oil.

By that time the tramp steamer has come up on the apparent derelict, and killing Larson by slugging him, Kreig jumps overboard only to have a shark appear and write finis to his murderous career.

This will be a difficult picture to sell inasmuch as there is so little of what people consider entertaining entertainment in it. Its short running time indicates that it will fit on a double bill, but where it is offered as a single feature, probably the best way to kick up any kind of audience interest would be to publicize it as a straight terror picture, one wherein gasps override everything else. The picture is absolutely n. g. for children, and at its best, even given the benefit of most expert showmanship, hardly can be expected to have wide appeal.—McCarthy, Hollywood.

Produced and distributed by Paramount. Supervisor, William LeBaron. Director, Paul Sloane. Assistant director, Russ Mathews. Screenplay, Harvey Thew and Manuel Seff. Story, Robert Presnell. Cameraman, Harry Fischbeck. Sound engineer, M. M. Paggi. Art director, W. M. Ihnen. Film editor, Eda Warren. Release date, April 14, 1933. Running time, 63 minutes.

CAST

Blackie	Charlie Ruggles
Kreig	John Halliday
Cowles	Neil Hamilton
Lili	Shirley Grey
Cordoff	Jack La Rue
Millicent Hazlitt	Verree Teasdale
Lena	Leila Bennett
Morton Hazlitt	Morgan Wallace
Captain Alison	Thomas Jackson
Wilson	William Janney
Boatswain	Paul Hurst
Captain Swanson	Stanley Fields
Larson	Frank Hagney
Ship's Doctor	Clarence Wilson

I Love That Man

(Paramount)

Comedy-Drama

Nicely balancing comedy and drama, flavoring both with a novelly interesting brand of hokum, "I Love That Man" has the entertainment elements that constitute strong program fare. Adding a unique love story further peps up the show. Smart and interesting all the way through, the story assumes an effective dramatic trend in the closing reels in which the suspense build-up gives the climax a hefty punch. The human interest factor is made particularly effective by a sinister menace twist.

"Brains" is introduced as a suave confidence man. A couple of safe-crackers, Driller and Mousey, and a booze baron, Labels, are his first victims, and next to easy marks, dames are his favorite dish.

Grace, a settlement worker, he envisions as both a delightful interlude as well as the medium to more easy dough, and the audience gets a surprise when the demure lass decides to team up with "Brains" without benefit of clergy. Together they flit about the country, trimming the yokels and losing the swag to the gamblers. It's a big thrill to Grace and she finds herself learning to love that man despite all his harem-scarem foolishness.

A glass confidence gag turns into a legitimate business under Grace's skillful guidance and "Brains" becomes respectable—leading citizen, Rotarian, philanthropist, talker before women's clubs and all that. But "Brains" privately is always squawking. There's no excitement in this humdrum success. Then his partner, Harker, skips out with the firm's funds, and Driller and Mousey show up to buy a "show case" coffin for a defunct gangster pal.

Meeting "Brains," they remember how he gave them a load of counterfeit money and they tell him he'll pay pronto or else. It's tragedy for Grace. "Brains" is desperate. He turns crook again. Cracking a bank looks to be the quickest way to appease Driller as well as recoup his own fortunes. Rounding up the occupants of a tenement house, they start tunneling toward the safe. Driller will brook no interference. A baby is born, a mother dies. Burglar alarms tinkle in a nearby police station. Cops surround the layout. Driller thinks Grace has tipped off the bulls. She tries to save the man she loves. Driller shoots him. Angelo stabs Driller to avenge the loss of his wife. The cops round up Mousey.

In a hospital Grace takes the desperately wounded "Brains" to love and cherish until death does them part. The audience is left to imagine whether "Brains" lives or dies.

Besides its other commendable features the picture has the quality of being decidedly different. Sell the show as something more interesting than usual. Promise laughs and thrills and hint that maybe it will draw a tear or two. The cast offers a host of names for marquee and other advertising purposes. Use Lowe, Armstrong, Hymer and Cody to stimulate masculine curiosity. Concentrate on Nancy Carroll to attract the women.

Put a little extra effort behind this one, using the title in strong teaser ways.—McCarthy, Hollywood.

Produced and distributed by Paramount. A Charles R. Rogers production, directed by Harry Joe Brown. Story by Gene Towne and Graham Baker. Screen play by Gene Towne, Graham Baker and Casey Robinson. Photographed by Milton Krasner. Film editor, Joseph Kane. Release date, May 5, 1933. Running time, 75 minutes.

CAST

"Brains" Stanley	Edmond Lowe
Grace Clark	Nancy Carroll
"Driller" Ganuzzi	Robert Armstrong
Mousey	Warren Hymer
Giggles	Dorothy Burgess
"Labels" Castell	Lew Cody
Dentist	Grant Mitchell
Angelo	Luis Alberni
Harper	Harvey Clarke
Babe	Esther Muir
Maria	Belle Mitchell
Cohen	Lee Kohlmar
Abe	Leon Holmes
Publisher	Walter Walker
Secretary	Susan Fleming
Chaplain	Harry Bradley
Interne	Pat O'Malley
Ace	Lloyd Ingraham

ON BROADWAY

Week of April 29

CAPITOL

Bone Crushers	MGM
Cuba	MGM
Pirate Ship	Educational

MAYFAIR

Coocoo Capers	Beverly Hills Productions
Gus Edwards	Master Art Products
Sponge Divers of Tarpon	Capital

PARAMOUNT

Betty Boop's May Day	Paramount
Dream Stuff	Paramount

RIALTO

Jabs and Jolts	Paramount
The Peanut Vendor	Paramount
The Pharmacist	Paramount

RKO MUSIC HALL

A Pair of Socks	Educational
Broadway Malady	Columbia

RKO ROXY

Bali, Isle of Paradise	RKO Van Beuren
Runaway Blackie	RKO Van Beuren

ROXY

The Vagrant	RKO Van Beuren
The Whoopee Party	United Artists

STRAND

Sea Devils	Vitaphone
Young and Healthy	Vitaphone

15 States Using Daylight Saving

Observance of daylight saving time is under way in 15 states, as well as in 62 cities and towns of eastern Canada, in five European countries and two South American.

New York state has 205 cities under the summer time schedule, New Jersey 118. Among 33 Connecticut towns are Bridgeport, New Haven and Hartford. Portland and 35 other cities in Maine have it; Concord, Nashua, Manchester and 20 others in New Hampshire. The observance is statewide in Massachusetts and Rhode Island.

Bennington is the lone daylight saving city in Vermont; New Castle, Newark and Wilmington in Delaware; 21 in Illinois include Chicago. All cities in Michigan have the new time, and so does all of Ohio except Steubenville, which sets its clocks back on May 27. The 67 daylight saving cities of Pennsylvania include Philadelphia and Pittsburgh.

Educational Increases First-Run Bookings

An increase of first-run bookings by Educational is due in part to the falling off of the double feature program and the shortening or elimination of stage shows, President E. W. Hammons said this week. He cited a material rise of bookings into first-runs in New York, and one or more Educational short features have played the Music Hall, RKO Roxy, Rivoli, Capitol and Mayfair in the last four weeks. Educational is lining up product to fill first-run needs, he said.

NEWS PICTURES

FOX MOVIETONE NEWS—No. 63—Foreign statesmen here for parleys—Senator Thomas explains inflation plan—Forestry workers happy with jobs in Virginia—Pope Pius bestows blessing in Rome—

FOX MOVIETONE NEWS—No. 64—Hoover receives Boy Scouts of San Francisco—Hunt classic won by woman's horse at Baltimore, Md.—MacDonald leaves America—Japs return Emperor of China to power—

HEARST METROTONE NEWS—No. 262—Cliff blasted for Los Angeles dam—Secretary Perkins backs 30-hour law—Real beer a hit in zoo at San Antonio—Carnival crowds at Cannes engage in Battle of Flowers—MacDonald bids United States farewell.

HEARST METROTONE NEWS—No. 263—Mooney trial starts in San Francisco—President's secretary gives story on Roosevelt's aims—United States Marines cheerful in China—Bombs rock Chicago—

PARAMOUNT NEWS—No. 77—Vacationists at Cannes join in Battle of Flowers—Senator Thomas explains inflation—Jobless get work at Camp Roosevelt, Virginia—Labor secretary backs 30-hour week—

PARAMOUNT NEWS—No. 78—Speed drivers perform in Monte Carlo—Chicago teachers ask for back pay—George Burns tells Gracie Allen about daylight saving—Quell mortgage riots at LeMars, Iowa—

PATHE NEWS—No. 78—Roosevelt's actions inspire world; President confers with MacDonald and Herriot; Public opinion on inflation; Inflation plan explained by Senator Thomas—

PATHE NEWS—No. 79—Labor secretary favors shorter working hours—Reforestation work started at Fort Devins, Mass.—Wallace Beery becomes Naval Reserve officer in California

UNIVERSAL NEWSPAPER NEWSREEL—No. 140—British Premier leaves United States—Lumberjacks show skill at Skytop, Pa.—Autoists trapped by blizzard in Denver—Police battle labor rioters in New York—

UNIVERSAL NEWSPAPER NEWSREEL—No. 141—"Reds" mass in New York rally—May Day bombs terrorize Chicago—Freed Britons home from trial—Inverted flying record set in Rome, Italy—Martial law in farm-riot at LeMars, Ia.—

WELL EARNED LEADERSHIP

ANACONDA COPPER
for their many important contributions to the science of COPPER MINING and SMELTING

CONSOLIDATED
for their many important contributions to the art and science of FILM PRINTING

CONSOLIDATED FILM INDUSTRIES, INC.
NEW YORK HOLLYWOOD

SIROVICH BILL LIKELY TO DIE THIS SESSION

House Committeeman Says He Will Not Call Up Inquiry Proposal Until All Important Legislation Is Finished

Investigation into the conduct of equity receiverships of all types in all federal district courts was recommended late Wednesday by the rules committee of the House of Representatives at Washington. The resolution of Representative Celler (D.), New York, who originally limited the proposed investigation to Irving Trust Company, was adopted.

Chances for passage this session of the resolution of Representative William I. Sirovich, Democrat, New York, calling for a Congressional investigation into practically every important phase of motion picture operation, became measurably dimmer on Wednesday when Congressman Sabath of Illinois, of the House rules committee, said he would not call up the measure until all other important legislation was out of the way. Adjournment in five weeks is the aim of the President and Senator Robinson, majority leader.

Moving to prevent the raising of points of order against consideration of his resolution, Representative Sirovich over the weekend obtained approval of the House rules committee to a resolution to bring his measure up for consideration with all points of order against it waived. If the measure does come under discussion, under the rule, general debate shall be limited to one hour, on the conclusion of which a single vote will be taken to decide the fate of the investigation proposal.

Although the rules committee members expressed some doubt whether the investigation was necessary, in view of the pending "blue-sky" legislation, the rule was adopted without the hearing of arguments, Representative Sirovich having discussed the matter with committee members individually.

Heavy Costs Cited

Sharp debate is predicted if the resolution comes before the House. Congressman Blanton, of Texas, in describing the proposal as a "junket," voiced the opinion of other Congressmen who said, at the time the measure was first introduced, that expenditures which would be necessitated for salaries of employees engaged by the investigating committee and for travel and other expenses would make the cost of the probe ridiculously high as compared with probable results. It was against this and other threatening opposition that Mr. Sirovich late last week fought successfully in the rules committee.

A. Julian Brylawski, of the MPTOA at Washington, continued to circularize exhibitors and association members throughout the country enlisting their support against the measure and urging all theatre operators so to instruct their Congressmen. For three weeks legislative authorities within the industry have been outlining to Congressmen the industry's side of the story.

Arriving in New York for a session with directors, M. A. Lightman, president of the MPTOA, warned that passage of the resolution would mean that exhibitors eventually would be burdened with costs of the defense. The entire industry would suffer, he said.

Exhibitors of the Philadelphia territory who are members of the MPTO of Eastern Pennsylvania, Southern New Jersey and Delaware, assembled at Philadelphia in special session and passed a resolution favoring the Sirovich resolution. Various state units of Allied also are supposed to be on record in favor.

The Situation in the Field

While the industry generally was concerning itself with the Sirovich situation, exhibitors in the field were continuing their battles against state legislation which might work hardships on theatre operation. Although most legislative bodies had adjourned, there were still some which threatened to pass adverse legislation. In others, exhibitors were making progress against pending measures.

In California, following one of the most serious fights against anti-industry legislation, the lawmakers either tabled or rendered impotent a series of measures, including a 10 per cent tax, chain operation bills relating to unfair practices, an eight-hour regulation governing women employed in production, a two-men-in-a-booth proposal, and others.

Theatre owners in Florida are fighting a 10 per cent tax proposal.

Maryland counties were given the right to raise the bar against Sunday shows, Governor Ritchie having signed a measure passed at the last session of the general assembly.

Theatres are not involved in New York's new 1 per cent sales tax, which became effective last Monday at midnight. However, all sound equipment sold and not leased is taxable.

The governor of Oklahoma signed a sales tax, effective July 21, which will exact 2 per cent of theatre grosses, along with returns from other businesses. Theatres already pay 10 per cent.

Senator Scott of Pennsylvania would tax projectionists $5 for annual license fees and $2 for examination. For non-theatrical operators, the license fees would be $2, besides $1 for examination.

Canadian interests defeated a measure which would have placed a 12½ per cent tax on film rentals on imported product.

The Connecticut legislature has under consideration a measure to reduce theatre taxes, on a sliding scale; the house already has passed the measure.

Missouri legislature may meet again, in special session, next fall, to raise revenues by taxation. A sales tax is being discussed.

Newark, principal city in New Jersey, is expected to vote favorably May 16 on a Sunday opening bill.

A 2 per cent tax on incomes is included in a new tax program presented this week to the Ohio legislators. This supersedes a 10 per cent admission tax proposal.

Handling Majestic Publicity

Evelyn Lee Koch has been named director of advertising and publicity of Majestic Pictures Corporation. Miss Koch, who is 21 years old, succeeds Charles Reed Jones, resigned.

Research Group Foresees Picture Lecture Systems

School and college students of the future may very likely listen to lectures by "long-running phonographs or talking pictures. Moving pictures may be transmitted by wireless into houses," according to a report of the Research Committee on Recent Social Trends, released recently in Chicago. The committee had had Dr. William F. Ogburn, professor of sociology at the University of Chicago, as its director of research. More than 500 scientists and field workers aided in the compilation of data. The research was financed by the Rockefeller Foundation, and cost in excess of $500,000.

Possibilities of change in the business and social structure as the result of new inventions are discussed in the report, which points out in addition to the probable development of talking picture lectures, the indication that "it may be that the world will find much use for talking books. Seeing with that new electric eye, the photo-electric cell, and recording what is seen, appear to have almost unlimited application. New musical instruments different from any now in use may be given to us by electricity."

The studies of population trends emphasize a probable steady decline in the future rate of growth and also the probability that the larger cities may not become much larger than they are at present. The committee sees the possibility of still further declines in growth and a probably stationary population.

The studies indicate a probable population in this country of between 145 and 150 million during the present century with the probability of the lower figure being the more accurate estimate. The report says in this connection: "Ideas regarding the domestic market will have to be revised in the light of these estimates, not only by manufacturers and farmers, but by real estate owners, lawyers, doctors, teachers and many others. The problem will be to compensate for less rapidly growing numbers by endeavoring to raise standards of purchasing power and consumption."

The calculations of the committee indicate that the population in 1940 probably will not exceed 132,000,000 or 133,000,000, which compares with the estimates of manufacturers that the population in 1940 will reach 140,000,000. The necessity for the expansion of foreign markets or the raising of domestic consumption standards is seen in the event that the population increase is smaller than manufacturers estimate, as the committee believes it will be.

Film Salesmen Return To New Mexico Field

Motion picture salesmen have been returned to the field in New Mexico following the obtaining of a temporary injunction restraining the state from enforcing the new film marketing law which requires that all pictures be offered simultaneously to independents as well as circuit theatres. June 12 is the date for arguments on whether the injunction shall be made permanent.

"they'll be saying things about you"

The man or the corporation with nothing to say these days, these days of critical thought and frequent "fearing for the worst," is inviting the twin foes of oblivion and gossip.

The chief, and often only, asset of many individuals and concerns, is the good name, the good will and repute built up over long periods of performance and service in this industry, which can be kept alive only by alive, alert public expression.

They will be saying things about you and your company—in fact they are saying things, everyday. Whether those sayings are good or bad, whether they are to help you or your company now and tomorrow, helping to make you a part of the new motion picture industry, depends on what you give them to say, the cues that you reveal to the talkers, the word-of-mouth makers and destroyers of good will.

This is an excellent time for men and corporations to speak well of themselves and their intent. Reputations are in the crucible now.

The advertising pages of Motion Picture Herald are well thought of and recommended for the purpose to those who have it in mind to say something to the one great, complete, coverage of the motion picture industry of the world.

MOTION PICTURE HERALD

1790 BROADWAY NEW YORK CITY

SIGNED . . .

Columbia

Peter Adrian and Dorothy Tree given contracts. . . . Ward Bond, Bradley Page, Frank Rice and Paddy O'Flynn added to "The Fighting Ranger." . . . Preston Foster and Frank Albertson engaged for "Full Speed Ahead." . . . Marjorie Gateson signs for "Cocktail Hour." . . . Diane Bori and Edward Keane join "Ann Carver's Profession." . . .

▽

Fox

Warner Baxter and Janet Gaynor in "Paddy," Edwin Burke to direct. . . . Preston Foster succeeds Spencer Tracy in "The American." . . .

▽

Mack Sennett

Walter Catlett, Billy Gilbert and Elise Cavanna in "Prodigal Husband," George Marshall signed to direct. . . . W. C. Fields, Harry Watson and Julia Griffith in "The Barker," Arthur Ripley directing. . . .

▽

Mascot

Victor McLaglen and Conchita Montenegro engaged for "I'll Be Hanged If I Do." . . .

▽

MGM

Fanchot Tone and May Robson given contracts. . . . Robert Montgomery and William Gargan added to "Night Flight." . . . Helen Hayes and Robert Montgomery assigned to "Another Language," E. H. Griffith to direct. . . . Douglas Wakefield and Billy Nelson given contracts by Hal Roach. . . .

▽

Monogram

Wally Wales and Yakima Canutt added to "Fighting Texans." . . .

▽

Paramount

Gary Cooper in "One Sunday Afternoon," Stephen Roberts to direct. . . . Charlie Ruggles and Mary Boland assigned to "Mama Loves Papa," Norman McLeod to direct. . . .

▽

RKO Radio

Richard Carle signed for "Morning Glory." . . . William Seiter and Minor Worthington, directors, given contracts. . . . Eric Linden cast for "News Reel," Otto Brower to direct. . . . Arthur Housman joins "Ad Man." . . . Ginger Rogers in "The Death Watch," Irving Pichel to direct. . . . Betty Furness in "Fire-Eater," Ralph Ince director. . . . Alexander McKaig becomes associate producer. . . .

▽

Universal

Start preparations on "All American Girl." . . .

Pathe Exchange Loss $17,849 in Quarter

A loss of $17,849.50 for the thirteen weeks ended April 1, is announced by Pathe Exchange. Profit before interest was $31,724.53, but interest on funded debt and amortization of discount and expense totaled $49,574.03. Operations loss was $33,158.38. Gross sale and rentals amounted to $57,896.64.

70-Story RCA Building Is Opened to Tenants

The seventy-story RCA Building opened to tenants Monday as the central tower of the Rockefeller Center development in mid-town New York. RCA has moved into the tower and is to be followed by National Broadcasting Company.

Allied Declares Exhibitors Must Curtail Expenses

Allied States Association, national exhibitor organization, has issued a communication to all exhibitor members, citing the need for "important readjustments in the overhead and other expenses of every exhibitor who would remain in business during the next twelve months."

The statement concludes with the declaration that "Allied hopes to see a great co-operative movement within the industry," its slogan "Keep the Theatres Open."

Rent, film, sound equipment and labor are named as principal items requiring attention. Discussing each in turn, the communication reads:

"As regards rent, real estate values have greatly depreciated in the past three years and a commensurate part of the shrinkage must be passed along to the tenants in the form of reduced rent. . . . Exhibitors are urged to take this up with their lessors at once, pointing out that unless relief is immediately forthcoming their houses will not long survive, thus inflicting on the landlord a much greater loss than that represented by the reduction in rents.

"As regards film, it is common knowledge that the studios have greatly reduced production costs and are planning further reductions. Some distributors are trying to maintain film rentals despite these reductions in cost in order to maintain earnings in the face of decreased business. This is a short-sighted policy. If persisted in it will drive many exhibitors out of business and in the end further curtail the market for film. Therefore, exhibitors signing new contracts must buy for less. If they have already signed for more than they can afford to pay they should at once lay their situation fully before the distributors and seek necessary readjustments. To obtain consideration exhibitors will have to be deserving, candid and honest. . . .

"New and valuable precedents have been set by one of the great electrical companies (for which Allied makes due acknowledgment), but many exhibitors are still paying more on account of installments, interest and service charges than are fair. The electrical companies certainly will not profit if these exhibitors fail. If sales managers can not see beyond their quotas, then the matter should be taken up with those in ultimate authority, to the end that the interests of the electrical companies, the exhibitors and the industry in general may be protected.

"Labor costs in some industries and some territories have kept step with declining revenues, but in some territories theatre employees still are paid on scales long outdated. . . . The welfare of the employee is bound up with that of the employer and the former can not prosper if the latter is impoverished. For that reason employees, organized and unorganized, must yield to the extent that their wages are brought in line with the present earning power of the theatres. They must be made to realize that a reasonable wage is greatly to be preferred to no wage at all. They have the same interest as the landlords, the film exchanges and the electrical companies in keeping the theatres open."

Trade Screening Facilities

Moe Usoskin and Matty Jackson announced this week the establishment of the M. & M. Projection Room in the Film Center Building, 630 Ninth avenue, New York, available for trade showings as well as representation for western producers.

TRAVELERS . . .

TREM CARR and LOU OSTROW, Monogram production officials, returned to Hollywood from New York and Atlantic City, where they attended the annual convention.

NORMAN TAUROG, GENE FOWLER and BENJAMIN GLAZER arrive Saturday in New York.

GEORGE RAFT arrives in Hollywood this week from a personal appearance tour.

MICHAEL L. SIMONS, Monogram's advertising director, returned to New York from Atlantic City.

M. H. HOFFMAN, president of Allied Pictures, returned to Hollywood this week, from New York.

BRIAN AHERNE sailed for London.

HENRI DIAMANT-BERGER, French director, returned to Paris.

WILLIAM A. JOHNSTON returned to Hollywood.

MEYER FINE and MAX LEFKOWICH, Cleveland exhibitors, were in New York for product.

GEORGE ARLISS, Warner star, arrived in New York from Hollywood, en route to England.

ROY DEL RUTH, Warner director, arrived in Hollywood from New York.

M. STANLEY BERGERMAN arrived in New York from Universal City to supervise the Rowland and Brice feature, "Shoot the Works."

HARRY JOE BROWN, Paramount director, sailed for European vacation.

SALLY EILERS, Fox star, sailed for Europe.

GRADWELL SEARS, Warner sales executive, returned to New York from five-week trip.

IRVING DASHKIN, of the Savoy theatre, Jamaica, N. Y., sailed for Bermuda and West Indies.

BOB WOLF, Radio exchange manager in New York, is due back from Bermuda.

THELMA TODD sailed for London.

SPYROS SKOURAS returned to New York from Kansas City.

IRENE DUNNE arrived in New York from Hollywood.

GROUCHO and CHICO MARX arrived in New York from coast.

DOUGLAS FAIRBANKS is returning to Hollywood from Europe; due in New York Friday.

LILY DAMITA left New York for Europe.

DR. HERBERT KALMUS, head of Technicolor, arrived in New York from Hollywood.

SIDNEY FRANKLIN, director, arrived in New York from coast.

M. A. LIGHTMAN returned to Memphis from New York, having resigned as MPTOA president.

ANN HARDING left Los Angeles on an air trip to Cuba.

JACK S. CONNOLLY, Pathe News general manager, arrived at Radio studio on coast, from New York, to supervise "News Reel" feature.

JOSEPH H. SEIDELMAN, Paramount foreign executive, sailed for London.

GRETA GARBO returned to Metro's studio, from Sweden.

E. H. ALLEN, Educational production official, arrived in New York from the coast, by plane.

WILL H. HAYS, NICHOLAS M. and JOSEPH M. SCHENCK and PAT CASEY returned to New York last Saturday from industry conferences in Hollywood.

ARTHUR LOEW and DAVE BLUM returned to New York from Europe.

PAT GARYN will return to New York from Florida May 15.

WARD WING, director, and LAURI BARA, his wife, arrived in New York from coast.

J. MAURICE RIDGE, Erpi's western sales representative, is in New York from Los Angeles.

WILL ROGERS, Fox star, is in New York for NBC radio conferences.

AD SCHULBERG is due in New York from Hollywood, en route to Europe.

TECHNOLOGICAL

The BLUEBOOK School.

By F. H. RICHARDSON

BLUEBOOK SCHOOL QUESTION NO. 171.—(A) Tell us, in detail, just how you would proceed to inspect film received from an exchange. (B) Suppose you have some old film from which you desire to remove the emulsion. How would you go about it? (C) Suppose you wish to know the exact footage of film on a reel, or in some short subject. You have no film-measuring device. How may the precise footage be ascertained? Suppose you have a film you wish to store for an extended period of time, say for some years, without using it. What would you do?

Answer to Question No. 164

Bluebook School Question No. 164 was: (A) Why is it impossible to be sure of making a perfect splice without the use of locating pins, or in fact without a good film splicer? (B) What effect or effects will be produced if film cement is left exposed to the air? (C) Tell us just how you keep your cement from contact with the air. (D) How often do you think it necessary to inspect film to guard against loosening splices?

The following made at least reasonably good:

First, here is our old friend Lester Borst back on the job, and there are S. Evans and C. Rau, G. E. Doe, Dale Danielson, T. Van Vaulkenburg, K. Dowling, J. Wentworth, F. Parkinson, W. Ostrum, H. Edwards, H. D. Schofield, W. Broadbent, L. D. Rubin, Bill Doe, T. McGruder, G. Patterson, L. Jones and B. L. Banning, O. Allbright and J. Williams, J. Hendershot and L. G. Gergeson, E. L. Richardson, L. N. Trazler, O. L. Davis and F. Sims, C. L. Cyrus and B. Olmsby, L. B. Bryant and D. L. Monehan, T. T. Golley, L. Thomas and D. D. Davis, H. Rogers, R. Wheeler, H. Grant, L. M. Richards, P. R. Fox, H. B. and D. Coates, D. L. Sinklow, H. D. Tyler, F. L. Benton, D. Little and J. H. Rathburn, K. Griener, D. Howard and D. Kurts, F. H. Dalbey and P. Dalbey, M. Henderson and K. L. Knight, Nic Granby, D. T. Arlen and M. Spencer, D. Emmerson, A. L. Dodson, L. B. and H. D. Palmer, T. H. Morton and F. B. Klar, R. D. Oberleigh and J. Lansing, U. S. Daniels, W. T. Granger and A. Wythe, R. L. Mitchel, M. U. Sampson, D. Goldberg and L. Hutch, D. U. Granger, M. F. Fallon, D. Lally and F. Ferguson, M. H. Lonberger, K. L. Hess, M. D. Oleson and J. B. Nalley, L. Thomas and D. D. Davis, D. Danielson and H. Pilson, F. Harlor and G. Harrison, M. Gregg, B. Jones and . K. Ormie, R. and A. Wells, R. Schuler and M. R. Davidson, P. L. Harley, B. L. Blinkendorfer, W. R. Lemke, L. Grant and R. Geddings, G. Tinlin, J. L. and F. Hanson, F. L. Granby, U. L. Tipton, M. R. Rathburn, G. Thompson, H. R. Baldwin, T. M. Vinson, F. F. Franks, D. Haber and D. Breaston, M. Henderson and D. Singleton and J. B. Buckley.

(A) I think we must celebrate friend Borst's return to health and the school by printing his answer to section A. He says: "In making a splice with only eyesight as our guide, there will never, save by accident, be a perfect matching of the overlapping perforations. This is the more especially true when splicing old, shrunken film. Then, too, in making a splice with the fingers it is a practical impossibility to apply even pressure all over the splice, and without that it of course follows that the completed splice will not have even strength at all portions of its area. Another point is that all modern film splices have means provided for cutting and scraping the film perfectly straight and true, which is seldom if ever done perfectly in a hand made splice.

"To sum up: the locating or pilot pins provide for matching the sprocket holes as nearly as may be perfect. The film splicer provides not only that, but also for even pressure, straight cutting at precisely the right point and perfectly straight scraping right up to exactly the right point. Without means provided for the accomplishment of all these things, perfect splices will seldom if ever be made and really good ones will be very rare."

(B) We will listen to Dale Danielson on this one. He says: "Good film cement is made from tested chemicals and in accordance with a certain, exact formula. Some of the ingredients are quite volatile. If cement be exposed to air for any considerable period of time, or in fact for any period at all, a portion of these said volatile ingredients will evaporate, thus disturbing the formula and weakening the effect of the cement. Film cement will absorb water from moist air with avidity if opportunity is provided. Moisture (water) added to cement weakens its welding effect."

Note: At the end of his answer brother Danielson says: "When water is intermixed with cement there is an effervescence and a thickening of the cement. Neither the water nor gas has any effect upon the celluloid." Now that is a new one on me. If it is true I did not know it. Have any of you fans found this to be the case?

(C) Four hundred and sixty-seven men answered almost exactly as did Messrs. Evans and Rau: "A small bottle with snugly fitting cork and brush handle thrust tightly through a small hole bored in said cork and sealed therein with cement."

However, G. E. Doe said: "I regard the condition of cement as of large importance. I am one who believes the projectionist should guard his film cement from contact with the air just so far as it is humanly possible to do so. I therefore went to considerable trouble to construct a cement bottle similar to the one illustrated and described on page 271 of volume 1 of my Bluebooks. I, however, used a round bottle instead of the Gooch funnel. Had some trouble finding exactly the right kind of bottle, but I found it, cut off the bottom and the ring at upper end of neck, and it works perfectly. My cement is 'just like new' down to the last drop. It is the best scheme I have yet seen (experience 17 years) for keeping film cement in perfect condition. If more men went to the trouble of making one, there would be less gum splices to pull in two and cause trouble."

(D) J. Wentworth says: "There is some difference of opinion on this point of projection procedure. In theory, film should be inspected before each projection. In practice this is not done in a very large percentage of theatres. My own practice is (A) I go over the films very carefully upon receipt from the exchange. This should not be necessary, but experienced projectionists know they may rely upon the exchange supposed-to-inspector exactly to the extent he can rely upon his chance of wearing white wings in the life to come. I therefore go over the films very carefully before projection. (B) I have my projector tensions set according to the Bluebook rule, than which I have been unable to find any better one, or even one nearly as good. I therefore know no undue strain is being put upon splices during projection. (C) Thereafter, at each rewinding I use a gadget I have devised for myself which has been working just fine for a long while. I cause the film to pass between two flanged rollers such as are used to guide the film at the top of the gate. These are set only one inch apart center to center. Between them is a round-point V-shaped slide upon either side, held toward each other with spring pressure. I adjust this pressure, by means of a screw, just so that it will not buckle the film at the maximum tension I care to give my film between reels by means of a brake applied to the tail reel shaft. The connection is such that when a splice with loose edge or edges passes the first flanged roller, the film 'gives' more or less by reason of the loose splice, thus permitting the spring to draw the 'fingers,' as I call them, together. The action is restrained, however, for the V indentation or 'fingers' are formed at the center of a thin piece of spring steel, and unless the break be a very bad one it acts to permit only a bit of pull. However, in any event, the total movement on each side can only amount to 1/16 inch because of a steel stop.

"When this 'pull together' occurs, it automatically stops the motor. At the same time it lights a lamp. So you see, I actually inspect my film, in part, at any rate, each time it is rewound."

Excellent! I can see no reason why that scheme would not work very well, provided, of course, the rewinding speed be not too fast. It might work at race-horse speed of rewinding, but I doubt it, save where a splice might be very loose.

'RESTORE THE MAGIC OF MYSTERY'

GLAMOUR WRECKERS

To the Editor of the Herald:

A reference in an editorial recently to the loss by a film chieftain of a huge sum of money in a poker game, and the unfortunate publicity given the incident, inspires the thought that (of all the things that are the matter with the show business) the most damaging has been the zeal with which some "press agents" and some film supervisors or advisers have exposed to the public its trade secrets.

Like the all-revealing summer costumes and bathing suits effected by our young women, these things have left nothing to conjecture, with the result that all the glamour of this greatest of all amusement businesses stands as a revealed secret to the public.

Not content with taking the public into their confidence regarding the intimate habits of the screen notables, telling to whom they are now married, to whom they have been married, how soon the baby is expected, what they wear and how near the skin it is worn, these bright spots in a suffocating business not only go into wide detail about how motion pictures are made, the use of processing cameras and what they do to commonplace things, but these things are made the basis of stories in which cameras are shown grinding away pointed directly at the directors, sound boxes and other cameras which are grinding away also.

A good many years ago the speaking stage was subjected to this same treatment, with dressing room scenes revealed as a part of the "action" of a plot, socalled stars were shown donning make-up, quick-change artists with zipper coats and pants were shown making their lightning changes, protean artists exhibited their craftsmanship to a no longer wondering public, and what resulted? Nothing more than a complete lessening of the public's interest in the theatre.

This damage has already blighted a business which up to a decade ago was a deep secret to the theatre going public. Until these bright young men came into the business with their space-grabbing ideas the public did not ask for nor was it given the secrets of the business, but when they saw great ships tossing away on the crests of huge waves, struggling against great icebergs, saw savage animals in close proximity to human beings, and thousands of other wonderful and wondrous sequences in pictures, they were thrilled and left the theatres asking questions and prepared to return to see more of the same absorbing and breath-taking entertainment.

But what have we now? A sophisticated, wise and wise-cracking audience of adults and children who turn up their noses at such things and go into detail to explain to others how it is done, others who know as well as they do, and who probably are prepared to learnedly dispute some moot point.

If I should have my way about matters of moment in a great business I would immediately ban all such wise boys from the business, and trust that the new generation of motion picture theatregoers would never see or read of such things, and thus, in a decade or so, the magic of mystery would be rehabilitated for camera and screen.

Until this is done, one of the blights of the box office will remain, as a complete knowledge of the veriest tyro among patrons of all that is done, how it is done, why it is done, with what it is done, and by whom it is done.

The public learns all these trade secrets fast enough as it is, without having them "blue-printed" for a more ready understanding. Is there any way to get show business into the hands and at the tender mercy of honest-to-God show people?—Earle E. Griggs, Universal Film Exchanges, Atlanta, Ga.

LIQUOR AND BOX OFFICE

To the Editor of the Herald:

As an exhibitor, I was cheered by Mr. Laemmle's warning against the return of the saloon. What he says is true. I know lots of people who think they cannot afford to go to the theatre, but who some how afford to patronize the legal liquor store.

I was a little disappointed in your editorial comment.

Now that the warning has been sounded, perhaps the producers will realize how much their efforts in the past to glorify drinking in almost every movie is responsible for the impending return of legal liquor.

No, I am not a person who hates liquor. I have been using it for 24 years. I am simply an exhibitor who needs every dollar he can get to keep afloat.—Exhibitor, North Sidney, Australia.

ENTERTAINMENT ALSO NECESSITY

To the Editor of the Herald:

Down here in Florida we have a state law which prohibits all work on the Sabbath except a "work of necessity." Though this law had been in effect for years, there are many businesses in operation on Sunday which many people contend are not a "work of necessity."

The showing of motion pictures on Sunday has been permitted in Tampa for upwards of 25 years.

While Sunday shows and many other forms of amusement and business are permitted in Tampa on Sunday, public dances are not. There is a direct ordinance prohibiting them. So, the Sunday dances are held in locations just outside the city limits.

Just beyond the north limits of Tampa there is a resort town called Sulphur Springs, with a swimming pool, dance hall and other attractions. Sunday dances have been very popular.

Now, we go back about seven years to the "boom days," Tampa, like all other Florida towns, decided to take in a few miles of extra territory. An ordinance was put through; a bill introduced in the Legislature, and Tampa extended its limits away out in "the sticks." As this annexation took in the town of Sulphur Springs, the Sunday dances were ordered out.

The owner of the amusement features of this little town was all "hot and bothered" about having to give up the Sunday dances. Picture shows were in operation in Tampa, and he couldn't have his dances. Well, he would see about it.

So, the lawyers dug up the blue laws and uncovered the one about nothing but a work of "necessity" being permitted on Sunday. They figured they could make a pretty good case that picture shows were not a work of necessity, and so they had people buy tickets and visit different theatres on the Sabbath, and then warrants were sworn out against the managers and operators for violation of the said law.

The principal theatres at that time were operated by Publix, with John Carroll as city manager. Several of his managers were arrested, but the case against J. H. McLaughlin, manager of the Franklin, was the one brought up for trial before the municipal judge.

Now every time Sunday arrived, we (the missus and I) just naturally had to have our recreation, and as our best loved recreation was to sit in a comfy theatre and see a brilliant photoplay unfolded before our eyes, we always went to the theatre. We felt it was a necessity to us; in fact, we would go without eating to get our necessary recreation.

With this thought in mind, your correspondent went to Mr. Carroll and told him we considered the motion picture a work of necessity as we could not visit the theatre on weekdays and must have our recreation on Sunday.

So, we were called to testify at the trial. We told the judge our ideas on the subject. There was some bantering by the prosecuting attorneys, but they failed to shake us the least bit; in fact, we made it all the stronger.

Others testified to the orderly character of the entertainment, and in a very short time the judge found the defendant "not guilty" of doing a work that was not one of necessity. With this finding he also ordered all others released.

After the trial the owner of the dance hall approached us and said, "So you think picture shows are a work of necessity, hey?"

I told him I did.

"Well, our forefathers got along without them. They were not necessary to them."

"Yes," I answered, "our forefathers got along without window glass, automobiles and a thousand other things, but you cannot claim they are not a necessity now-a-days."—Scott Leslie, Tampa, Fla.

A RUDDER FOR THE THEATRE

To the Editor of the Herald:

Trying to run a theatre without the Herald is like trying to run a ship in a rough sea without a rudder; it simply can't be done.—M. C. Moore, Arcade Theatre, Kissimmee, Fla.

THEATRE RECEIPTS

Theatre receipts from 116 houses in 20 major cities of the country from the calendar week ended April 29, 1933, aggregated $1,154,541, a decrease of $103,688 from the total of the previous calendar week, ended April 22, when 115 theatres in 20 cities reported a total gross of $1,258,229. No new high individual theatre records, and three new low house records were recorded during the more recent period, which compares with no new "highs" and one new "low" for the previous week.

(Copyright, 1933: Reproduction of material from this department without credit to MOTION PICTURE HERALD expressly forbidden)

Theatres			Current Week		Previous Week		High and Low Gross (Tabulation covers period from January, 1931 to date)
Boston			Picture	Gross	Picture	Gross
Fenway	1,800	30c-50c	"Central Airport" (F. N.) and "Hello, Sister" (Fox)	10,500	"Pleasure Cruise" (Fox) and "Girl Missing" (W. B.)	11,000
Keith's	3,500	30c-50c	"So This Is Africa" (Col.)	18,500	"Sweepings" (Radio)	17,000	High 12-5 "Frankenstein"	27,000
							Low 3-9-33 "When Strangers Marry"	12,000
Keith-Boston	2,900	25c-50c	"Out All Night" (U.)	17,500	"The Big Cage" (U.)	17,000	High 4-9-32 "Steady Company"	26,000
							Low 3-9-33 "Topaze"	11,000
Loew's State	3,700	25c-50c	"Secrets" (U. A.)	18,500	"Today We Live" (MGM)	18,000	High 6-18-32—"Hell Divers," "Possessed" and "Sin of Madelon Claudet"	26,000
							Low 3-9-33 "Men Must Fight"	11,000
Metropolitan	4,350	30c-65c	"Cavalcade" (Fox)	34,000	"A Bedtime Story" (Para.)	33,000	High 1-31 "No Limit"	44,500
							Low 3-9-33 "King of the Jungle"	26,500
Paramount	1,800	30c-50c	"Central Airport" (F. N.) and "Hello, Sister" (Fox)	13,000	"Pleasure Cruise" (Fox) and "Girl Missing" (W. B.)	13,500
Buffalo
Buffalo	3,500	30c-55c	"The White Sister" (MGM)	18,300	"A Bedtime Story" (Para.)	14,900	High 3-28 "My Past"	39,500
							Low 3-24-33 "Our Betters"	9,800
Century	3,000	25c	"Mystery of the Wax Museum" (W.B.) and "A Lady's Profession" (Para.)	7,400	"Out All Night" (U.) and "Broadway Bad" (Fox)	7,200	High 2-14 "Cimarron"	25,600
							Low 3-24-33 "Hello, Everybody" and "Parachute Jumper"	4,700
Great Lakes	3,000	25c-40c	"Central Airport" (F. N.)	7,500	"Cavalcade" (Fox)	13,700	High 8-8 "Politics"	35,100
							Low 4-14-33 "Rome Express"	5,400
Hippodrome	2,100	25c	"Hallelujah, I'm a Bum" (U. A.) and "Forgotten" (Chesterfield)	6,600	"The Woman Accused" (Para.) and "Sailor Be Good" (Radio)	7,300	High 2-14 "Free Love"	26,300
							Low 7-16-32 "New Morals for Old"	4,200
Lafayette	3,300	25c	"Daring Daughters" (Tower) and "Soldiers of the Storm" (Col.)	5,900	"Oliver Twist" (Monogram) and "Officer 13" (Allied)	8,100	High 4-11 "Ten Cents a Dance"	24,100
							Low 2-10-33 "Hypnotized" and "Trailing the Killer"	5,100
Chicago
Chicago	4,000	35c-68c	"Central Airport" (F. N.)	22,000	"Today We Live" (MGM)	33,000	High 1-23-32 "Two Kinds of Women"	67,000
							Low 12-22-32 "The Match King"	20,000
McVickers	2,284	25c-50c	"Mussolini Speaks" (Col.) (3 days)	2,000			High 2-7 "Doorway to Hell"	38,170
							Low 2-10-33 "Hello, Everybody"	5,500
Oriental	3,940	35c-68c	"A Bedtime Story" (Para.) (2nd week)	9,000	"A Bedtime Story" (Para.) (1st week)	17,000	High 3-7 "My Past"	46,750
							Low 3-24-33 "The Big Cage"	12,000
Palace	2,509	35c-75c	"King Kong" (Radio)	25,400	"Sweepings" (Radio)	19,000	High 4-2-32 "Cheaters at Play"	33,000
							Low 12-15-32 "False Faces"	14,000
Roosevelt	1,591	25c-50c	"Today We Live" (MGM)	7,000	"Grand Slam" (F. N.)	6,800	High 4-11 "Dishonored"	30,350
							Low 3-3-33 "Luxury Liner"	6,200
United Artists	1,700	35c-68c	"Secrets" (U. A.) (2nd week)	8,000	"Secrets" (U. A.) (1st week)	11,500	High 3-21 "City Lights"	46,562
							Low 3-17-33 "Perfect Understanding"	6,800
Cleveland
Allen	3,300	15c-35c	"Rome Express" (U.) and "Hypnotized" (World Wide)	3,000	"Bondage" (Fox) and "Speed Demon" (Col.)	3,800	High 1-30-32 "Hell Divers"	26,000
							Low 3-3-33 "Infernal Machine" and "Exposure"	1,800
Mall	753	15c-25c	"Smoke Lightning" (Fox)	1,400	"Strictly Personal" (Para.)	1,750
RKO Palace	3,100	25c-40c	"Sweepings" (Radio)	10,000	"King Kong" (Radio)	15,000	High 5-2 "Laugh and Get Rich"	40,000
							Low 2-11-33 "Child of Manhattan"	8,000
State	3,400	25c-40c	"Cavalcade" (Fox)	12,500	"The White Sister" (MGM)	14,500	High 12-5 "Possessed"	30,000
							Low 4-14-33 "Rasputin and the Empress"	10,500
Stillman	1,900	25c-35c	"Sailor's Luck" (Fox)	4,000	"The Woman Accused" (Para.)	5,000
Warner's Lake	800	25c-40c	"Elmer the Great" (F. N.)	4,500	"Central Airport" (F. N.)	5,800	High 10-3 "Five Star Final"	15,000
							Low 7-4 "Big Business Girl"	2,000
Denver
Aladdin	1,500	25c-40c	"Destination Unknown" (U.) (6 days)	3,000	"The Keyhole" (W. B.)	4,000
Denham	1,700	15c-25c	"The Death Kiss" (World Wide)	2,700	"Week-End Marriage" (F. N.)	2,850
Denver	2,500	25c-50c	"A Bedtime Story" (Para.)	11,000	"Central Airport" (F. N.)	10,000	High 8-8 "Politics"	25,000
							Low 3-23-33 "Clear All Wires"	6,000
Orpheum	2,600	25c-40c	"The Great Jasper" (Radio) (6 days)	6,000	"Cavalcade" (Fox) (8 days)	9,000
Paramount	2,000	25c-40c	"Blondie Johnson" (F. N.)	4,500	"She Done Him Wrong" (Para.)	5,500	High 1-10 "Hell's Angels"	22,000
							Low 3-23-33 "Grand Slam" and "Whistling in the Dark"	3,000
Detroit
Downtown	2,750	25c-40c	"Out All Night" (U.)	7,300	"Sweepings" (Radio)	5,500
Fisher	2,700	15c-40c	"Blondie Johnson" (F. N.)	5,200	"Men Must Fight" (MGM)	6,100
Fox	5,100	15c-40c	"Cavalcade" (Fox) (2nd week)	9,100	"Cavalcade" (Fox) (1st week)	17,400
Michigan	4,000	25c-50c	"Today We Live" (MGM)	14,200	"Ex-Lady" (W. B.) and "Luxury Liner" (Para.)	10,200
State	3,000	25c-50c	"A Bedtime Story" (Para.) (2nd week)	11,600	"A Bedtime Story" (Para.) (1st week)	10,700
United Artists	2,009	25c-50c	"The White Sister" (MGM)	12,100	"Secrets" (U. A.)	6,200

[THEATRE RECEIPTS--CONT'D]

Theatres			Current Week		Previous Week		High and Low Gross
			Picture	Gross	Picture	Gross	(Tabulation covers period from January, 1931 to date)
Hollywood
W. B. Hollywood	3,000	25c-50c	"Central Airport" (F. N.)	10,500	"The Keyhole" (W. B.)	9,627	High 2-7 "Little Caesar" 30,000 Low 11-7 "Honor of the Family" 7,000
Indianapolis
Apollo	1,100	25c-40c	"King Kong" (Radio)	3,500	"Cavalcade" (Fox)	3,500	High 6-13 "Daddy Long Legs" 10,000 Low 3-10-33 "Topaze" 2,500
Circle	2,800	25c-40c	"Parole Girl" (Col.)	4,000	"Central Airport" (F. N.)	5,000	High 2-14 "Cimarron" 13,000 Low 3-3-33 "Sign of the Cross" (Second run) 2,500
Indiana	3,300	25c-40c	"Girl Missing" (W. B.)	13,000	"Child of Manhattan" (Col.)	7,000	High 1-17 "Her Man" 25,000 Low 4-16-33 "The Big Drive" 5,000
Palace	2,800	25c-40c	"Today We Live" (MGM)	6,000	"The White Sister" (MGM)	6,000	High 5-2 "Trader Horn" 22,000 Low 3-3-33 "Clear All Wires" 3,500
Kansas City
Mainstreet	3,049	25c-40c	"King Kong" (Radio) (2nd week-4 days)	2,000	"King Kong" (Radio) (1st week)	9,000	High 1-9-32 "Peach o' Reno" 25,500 Low 3-7-33 "The Great Jasper" (Second week of straight film policy.) 4,000
Midland	4,000	25c	"Rasputin and the Empress" (MGM) (7 days and Sat. midnite show)	17,000	"The White Sister" (MGM) (7 days and Sat. midnite show)	16,000	High 1-5-33 "Strange Interlude" 30,000 Low 12-8-32 "Man Against Woman" 6,000
Newman	2,000	25c-50c	"Ex-Lady" (W. B.) (6 days and Sat. midnite show)	3,500	"A Bedtime Story" (Para.) (7 days and Sat. midnite show)	6,500	High 2-27-32 "Shanghai Express" 25,000 Low 4-28-33 "Ex-Lady" 3,500
Uptown	2,000	25c-40c	"Cavalcade" (Fox) (2nd week-4 days)	2,000	"Cavalcade" (Fox) (1st week)	5,000	High 1-10 "Girl of the Golden West" 8,000 Low 5-21-32 "Lena Rivers" 2,000
Los Angeles
Loew's State	2,416	25c-40c	"Cavalcade" (Fox)	16,083	"Pleasure Cruise" (Fox)	10,500	High 10-25 "Susan Lenox" 39,000 Low 3-5-32 "The Silent Witness" 6,963
Paramount	3,596	25c-40c	"A Bedtime Story" (Para.) (2nd week)	14,500	"A Bedtime Story" (Para.) (1st week)	18,500	High 10-31 "Beloved Bachelor" 41,000 Low 2-6-32 "Tomorrow and Tomorrow" 7,500
RKO	2,700	25c-55c	"Our Betters" (Radio)	6,100	"Sweepings" (Radio)	4,400	.....
W. B. Downtown	2,400	25c-50c	"Central Airport" (F. N.)	12,750	"42nd Street" (W. B.) (5th week)	11,278	High 2-7 "Little Caesar" 27,000 Low 4-23-32 "Destry Rides Again" 6,200
W. B. Western.	2,400	25c-50c	"The Keyhole" (W. B.)	7,200	"42nd Street" (W. B.) (2nd week)	5,243	.....
Minneapolis
Century	1,640	25c-40c	"The Keyhole" (W. B.)	4,000	"Secrets" (U. A.)	5,500	.....
Lyceum	1,800	25c-40c	"Kiss Before the Mirror" (U.)	3,000	.....		.....
Lyric	1,238	25c-40c	"Hello, Sister" (Fox)	2,000	"Clear All Wires" (MGM)	2,000	High 5-30 "Kiki" 4,000 Low 1-24 "Men on Call" 1,200
RKO Orpheum	2,900	25c-50c	"The Vampire Bat" (Majestic)	10,000	"The Great Jasper" (Radio)	6,000	.....
State	2,300	25c-55c	"Cavalcade" (Fox)	8,000	"A Bedtime Story" (Para.)	7,500	High 1-2-32 "Sooky" 10,000 Low 3-10-33 "King of the Jungle" 3,500
World	400	25c-75c	"Be Mine Tonight" (U.) (2nd week)	1,750	"Be Mine Tonight" (U.) (1st week)	2,400	.....
Montreal
Capitol	2,547	25c-60c	"Be Mine Tonight" (U.) and "The Mind Reader" (F. N.)	11,000	"Pick Up" (Para.) and "From Hell to Heaven" (Para.)	11,500	High 1-10 "Just Imagine" 18,000 Low 12-23 "The Guardsman" and "The Tip Off" 8,000
Imperial	1,914	25c-60c	"Les Deux Orphelines" (French) (2nd week)	1,500	"Les Deux Orphelines" (French) (1st week)	3,000	High 1-17 "Office Wife" 10,000 Low 4-14-33 "Allo, Mademoiselle" 1,500
Loew's	3,115	25c-75c	"Clear All Wires" (MGM)	13,000	"Cohens and Kellys in Trouble" (U.)	13,500	High 4-2-32 "Fireman, Save My Child" 16,500 Low 7-18 "Stepping Out" 9,000
Palace	2,600	25c-75c	"Cavalcade" (Fox)	13,500	"King Kong" (Radio)	13,500	High 4-2-32 "One Hour With You" 19,500 Low 12-23-32 "Life Begins" 8,500
Princess	2,272	25c-60c	"Rome Express" (British) and "There Goes the Bride" (British)	10,000	"So This Is Africa" (Col.) and "State Trooper" (Col.) (2nd week)	6,500	High 4-1 "City Lights" 22,500 Low 12-23-32 "The Crusader" and "Hearts of Humanity" 6,000
New York
Astor	1,120	55c-$2.20	"Hell Below" (MGM) (d days and premiere)	13,911	"The White Sister" (MGM) (5th week)	7,000	High 1-2-32 "Hell Divers" 24,216 Low 3-26-33 "The White Sister" 14,559
Cameo	549	25c-75c	"Kuhle Wampe" (Kinematrade)	2,750	"The Truth About Africa" (Alexander)	3,550	.....
Capitol	4,700	35c-$1.65	"Today We Live" (MGM) (2nd week)	27,974	"Today We Live" (MGM) (1st week)	54,551	High 1-9-32 "Mata Hari" 110,466 Low 2-2-33 "Whistling in the Dark" 23,600
Mayfair	2,300	35c-85c	"Bondage" (Fox)	12,700	"M" (Foremco) (3rd week)	10,500	High 12-12 "Frankenstein" 53,800 Low 3-10-33 "Racetrack" 7,100
Paramount	3,700	35c-99c	"Supernatural" (Para.)	23,300	"Be Mine Tonight" (U.) (8 days)	25,600	High 2-7 "Finn and Hattie" 85,900 Low 2-2-33 "Hello, Everybody" 15,600
Rialto	2,200	40c-65c	"So This Is Africa" (Col.)	17,500	"Cohens and Kellys in Trouble" (U.)	9,200	High 2-27-32 "Shanghai Express" 64,600 Low 6-27 "Dracula" and "Hell's Angels" 4,500
Rivoli	2,103	40c-85c	"A Bedtime Story" (Para.)	32,220	"Oliver Twist" (Monogram)	11,500	High 1-9-32 "Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde" 67,100 Low 7-29-32 "Igloo" 8,000
RKO Music Hall	5,945	35c-$1.65	"The Working Man" (W. B.)	79,332	"Cavalcade" (Fox) (2nd week)	105,986	.....
RKO Roxy	3,700	35c-$1.65	"Cavalcade" (Fox)	34,090	"The World Gone Mad" (Majestic)	30,873	.....
Roxy	6,200	25c-55c	"Humanity" (Fox)	20,200	"High Gear" (Goldsmith)	20,000	High 1-1-32 "Delicious" 133,000 Low 1-26-33 "Air Hostess" 9,100
Strand	3,000	25c-85c	"42nd Street" (W. B.) (7th week)	19,431	"42nd Street" (W. B.) (6th week)	23,721	High 1-17 "Little Caesar" 74,821 Low 4-2-32 "The Missing Rembrandt" 8,012
Oklahoma City
Capitol	1,200	10c-40c	"Ex-Lady" (W. B.)	3,500	"Christopher Strong" (Radio)	3,200	High 2-7 "Illicit" 11,000 Low 3-11-33 "From Hell to Heaven" 1,350
Criterion	1,700	10c-55c	"A Bedtime Story" (Para.)	5,300	"The White Sister" (MGM)	5,800	High 2-21 "Cimarron" 15,500 Low 3-11-33 "Clear All Wires" 1,800
Liberty	1,500	10c-35c	"Circus Queen Murder" (Col.) (4 days) "Destination Unknown" (U.) (3 days)	1,100 900	"Out All Night" (U.)	3,400	High 1-24 "Under Suspicion" 7,200 Low 6-20 "Big Fight" and "Drums of Jeopardy" 900
Mid-West	1,500	10c-55c	"Cavalcade" (Fox)	5,000	"Central Airport" (F. N.)	3,300	High 9-19 "Young As You Feel" 11,000 Low 3-11-33 "Employees' Entrance" 1,400

[THEATRE RECEIPTS--CONT'D]

Theatres			Current Week		Previous Week		High and Low Gross
			Picture	Gross	Picture	Gross	(Tabulation covers period from January, 1931 to date)
Omaha
Orpheum	3,000	20c-40c	"Sweepings" (Radio)	5,000	"King Kong" (Radio)	8,500	High 2-14 "Cimarron" 25,550 Low 4-29-33 "Sweepings" 5,000
Paramount	2,900	25c-50c	"Cavalcade" (Fox)	7,500	"The White Sister" (MGM)	7,000	High 4-23-32 "Tarzan, the Ape Man" 13,750 Low 5-21-32 "Wet Parade" and "It's Tough to Be Famous" 4,000
State	1,200	15c-25c	"King Kong" (Radio) (4 days) (20c-50c)	1,300	"The King's Vacation" (F. N.) (4 days)	1,000	High 3-14 "Trader Horn" 10,000 Low 2-10-33 "The Devil Is Driving" and "The Intruder" 1,000
			"Trick for Trick" (Fox) (3 days)	500	"Strictly Personal" (Para.) (3 days)	800
World	2,500	25c-40c	"Mystery of the Wax Musuem" (W. B.) and "Pleasure Cruise" (Fox)	4,750	"The Keyhole" (W. B.) and "Clear All Wires" (MGM)	5,000	High 4-11 "Men Call It Love" 16,000 Low 11-28 "The Cisco Kid" 4,500
Philadelphia
Arcadia	600	25c-50c	"What! No Beer?" (MGM) (6 days)	2,400	"She Done Him Wrong" (Para.) (10 days) (2nd run)	7,500	High 12-17 "The Guardsman" 6,500 Low 10-1-32 "Make Me a Star" 1,500
Boyd	2,400	40c-55c	"The White Sister" (MGM) (2nd week-4 days)	7,000	"The White Sister" (MGM) (1st week-6 days)	16,000
Earle	2,000	40c-66c	"Out All Night" (U.) (6 days)	14,000	"From Hell to Heaven" (Para.) (6 days)	17,000	High 1-5-33 "Breach of Promise" 29,000 Low 4-13-33 "Fast Workers" 12,000
Fox	3,000	35c-75c	"Cavalcade" (Fox) (2nd week-6 days)	17,000	"Cavalcade" (Fox) (1st week-6 days)	29,000	High 2-7 "Man Who Came Back" 40,000 Low 6-18-32 "Mystery Ranch" 15,000
Karlton	1,000	30c-50c	"King Kong" (Radio) (5 days)	3,800	"Past of Mary Holmes" (Radio) (7 days)	3,200	High 5-2 "City Lights" 8,000 Low 3-23-33 "Air Hostess" 2,500
Keith's	2,000	15c-35c	"West of Singapore" (Monogram) (6 days)	6,500	"Trailing the Killer" (World Wide) (6 days)	6,700	High 1-30-32 "Arrowsmith" 27,000 Low 3-23-33 "Jungle Bride" 6,000
Locust	1,300	25c-55c	"Oliver Twist" (Monogram) (2nd week-6 days)	5,000	"Oliver Twist" (Monogram) (1st week-6 days)	6,000
Stanley	3,700	40c-55c	"Central Airport" (F. N.) (6 days)	10,000	"King Kong" (Radio) (7 days)	15,000	High 12-19 "Frankenstein" 31,000 Low 7-25 "Rebound" 8,000
Stanton	1,700	30c-55c	"Ex-Lady" (W. B.) (6 days)	7,500	"Pick Up" (Para.) (6 days)	7,500	High 3-21 "Last Parade" 16,500 Low 3-23-33 "Cohens and Kellys in Trouble" 5,500
Portland, Ore.
Broadway	1,912	25c-40c	"A Bedtime Story" (Para.)	7,300	"Cavalcade" (Fox)	6,500	High 1-10 "Min and Bill" 21,000 Low 10-1-32 "The Crash" 2,800
Liberty	1,800	15c-25c	"Grand Slam" (F. N.)	2,000	"Handle with Care" (Fox)	2,000
Music Box	1,600	15c-35c	"Sailor Be Good" (Radio)	2,400	"Girl Missing" (W. B.)	2,300
Oriental	2,040	25c-35c	"42nd Street" (W. B.) (2nd week)	5,800	"42nd Street" (W. B.) (1st week)	7,300
Rialto	1,500	15c-25c	"From Hell to Heaven" (Para.)	1,700	"The Mysterious Rider" (Fox)	2,000	High 3-21 "Trader Horn" 12,000 Low 2-10-33 "Billion Dollar Scandal" 1,000
RKO Orpheum	1,700	25c-55c	"King Kong" (Radio)	5,000	"Sweepings" (Radio)	5,300	High 2-14 "Cimarron" 20,000 Low 3-17-33 "Great Jasper" 4,000
United Artists	945	25c-50c	"The White Sister" (MGM) (25c-40c)	5,000	"Gabriel Over the White House" (MGM)	4,700	High 1-10 "Hell's Angels" 12,500 Low 3-10-33 "Madame Butterfly" 1,600
San Francisco
Embassy	1,380	25c-50c	"Night Club Lady" (Col.)	4,000	"Magic Night" (U. A.)	3,500
Filmarte	1,400	25c-50c	"Soviets in Armenia" (Foreign)	3,000	"Holzapfel Knows Everything" (Foreign)	1,300
Fox	4,600	10c-35c	"Unwritten Law" (Majestic) and "Iron Master" (Allied)	10,350	"Oliver Twist" (Monogram) and "Self-Defense" (Monogram)	11,500	High 1-3 "Lightning" 70,000 Low 4-28-33 "Unwritten Law and "Iron Master" 10,350
Golden Gate	2,800	25c-65c	"King Kong" (Radio) (2nd week-5 days)	6,500	"King Kong" (Radio) (1st week)	17,500	High 2-9-33 "The Mummy" 25,500 Low 6-11-32 "Lena Rivers" 7,000
Paramount	2,670	25c-75c	"Central Airport" (F. N.)	11,000	"Cavalcade" (Fox)	15,000	High 1-9-32 "The Champ" 35,600 Low 3-31-33 "The King's Vacation" 9,500
St. Francis	1,435	25c-50c	"Men Must Fight" (MGM) and "A Lady's Profession" (Para.)	7,500	"Strictly Personal" (Para.) and "Secret of Madame Blanche" (MGM)	5,000
United Artists	1,200	25c-50c	"Be Mine Tonight" (U.) (2nd week)	10,000	"Be Mine Tonight" (U.) (1st week)	10,000
Warfield	2,700	35c-90c	"The Keyhole" (W. B.)	20,000	"Pick Up" (Para.) (6 days)	12,500	High 3-14 "Parlor, Bedroom and Bath" 28,000 Low 4-6-33 "Grand Slam" 12,000
Seattle
Blue Mouse	950	25c-50c	"Our Betters" (Radio)	3,500	"Cohens and Kellys in Trouble" (U.)	3,000
Fifth Avenue	2,750	25c-55c	"The White Sister" (MGM)	8,000	"Cavalcade" (Fox)	7,500	High 7-30-32 "Million Dollar Legs" 18,500 Low 3-18-33 "From Hell to Heaven" and "Secret of Madame Blanche" 5,000
Liberty	2,000	10c-25c	"Officer 13" (Allied) and "Midnight Warning" (Mayfair)	4,250	"Robbers' Roost" (Fox) (8 days)	4,250	High 1-10 "The Lash" 11,500 Low 11-11-32 "Amazon Head Hunters" 3,000
Music Box	950	25c-50c	"42nd Street" (W. B.) (4th week)	4,000	"42nd Street" (W. B.) (3rd week)	5,000	High 2-28 "City Lights" 14,000 Low 11-25-32 "The Crooked Circle" 3,000
Paramount	3,050	25c-55c	"Central Airport" (F. N.) and "Pleasure Cruise" (Fox)	5,500	"Heritage of the Desert" (Para.) and "The Mind Reader" (F. N.) (6 days)	4,000	High 1-10 "Paid" 18,000 Low 4-15-33 "Clear All Wires" and "Broadway Bad" 4,500
Rex	1,500	25c-35c	"Girl Missing" (W. B.) (15c-25c)	2,500	"Parachute Jumper" (W. B.)	2,500
Roxy	2,275	25c-50c	"Child of Manhattan" (Col.)	7,000	"A Kiss Before the Mirror" (U.)	11,500
Washington
Columbia	1,232	25c-40c	"The Big Stampede" (W. B.)	3,200	"Humanity" (Fox)	2,500
Earle	2,323	25c-66c	"Elmer the Great" (F. N.)	22,500	"Ex-Lady" (W. B.)	16,000
Fox	3,434	25c-66c	"Pleasure Cruise" (Fox)	22,000	"Looking Forward" (MGM)	28,500
Loew's Palace	2,363	35c-55c	"The White Sister" (MGM) (2nd week)	10,500	"The White Sister" (MGM) (1st week)	17,500
Metropolitan	1,600	25c-55c	"A Bedtime Story" (Para.)	9,000	"Oliver Twist" (Monogram)	7,200
Rialto	1,900	25c-55c	"Be Mine Tonight" (U.) (2nd week)	5,000	"Be Mine Tonight" (U.) (1st week)	9,000
RKO Keith's	1,832	25c-55c	"Mussolini Speaks" (Col.) and "Parole Girl" (Col.) (4 days).	2,500	"Sweepings" (Radio)	8,000
			"The World Gone Mad" (Majestic) (3 days)	3,000

JENKINS' COLYUM

Whitewater, Wis.

DEAR HERALD:

We had the pleasure of renewing acquaintance with Mr. Jake Rosenthal of Waterloo, Iowa. Mr. Rosenthal operates the Iowa theatre at Waterloo, and his long experience in the show business makes him one of Iowa's most prominent theatremen. We always enjoy a visit with him and can always gain a fund of information that makes our visit doubly worthwhile. Like all other towns, Waterloo is hard hit by the depression, but Mr. Rosenthal thinks the bottom has been reached and better times are on the way.

The Iris Theatre at Postville is owned and operated by L. E. Palmer and is as fine a theatre as we have ever seen in a town of that size. The Iris draws patronage from a large scope of country which is due in part to the beauty and comfort of the Iris, but largely because of the popularity of Mr. and Mrs. Palmer. Postville, in a pinch, could probably muster 1,200 people at the most, and to find as nice a theatre as the Iris in so small a town is quite a revelation. The only fault we can find with Mr. Palmer is that he does not report often enough to What the Picture Did For Me, but maybe he will correct that delinquency after a while.

▽

There is no darn sense in a man like Wayne Dutton at Manchester treating a perfectly good friend as he does. Every time we call on him he takes us out to the golf links and whips the tar out of us. It's a habit he has fallen into which will grow on him if he don't break himself of it. We can't complain very much, though, for that night he played Spencer Tracy, Marion Nixon and Stuart Erwin in "The Face in the Sky," and that covered a multitude of sins, for which Wayne has his share. Then after the show he gave us a "Dutch lunch" which, among other things, included Mrs. Dutton and his operator and his wife, and then we forgave everything (except that golf). Elmer, that "Face in the Sky" is SOME picture. Better play it.

H. H. Hall is still fighting the game at Elkader. He'll win because he's a fighter, and it takes fighters these days. He's another boy who doesn't report half often enough to What the Picture Did For Me. The HERALD ought to send some of these Iowa boys some "Little Early Risers." Some of 'em don't get up soon enough. H. H. is a HERALD fan and any further remarks will be unnecessary along that line. Come on, H. H., do your duty.

▽

T. F. Lee, the "Wild Irishman," is still the purveyor of amusements at Shulesburg, Wis. T. F. was still voting for Thomas Jefferson and Roosevelt when we called. He is also the purveyor of doughnuts for the natives of Shulesburg. We accused him of putting sand in his doughnuts instead of sugar and he said it wasn't so, that he used gravel so it would keep 'em down. He invited us to try a bottle of Wisconsin's "Prosperity" and we did, and we have had it in for that guy ever since. He says as soon as he can market his doughnuts he will send us a check to renew his subscription to the HERALD. We are betting he will, for Irishmen tell the truth—sometimes.

▽

Ken Lang has more nerve than that "Wild Irishman" has doughnuts. He is opening a new theatre at Cobb. Cobb is where the roads cross and it boasts a population of 250 Badgers and no skunks, and to open a theatre in a town of that size under present conditions would be like going to the dentist to have your wife's tooth pulled and then have him stick the forceps in your mouth. If Ken makes it he's a whiz, and he may make it, for he put over the theatre at Spring Green when clouds were coming in on him from all sides.

A. Lienhardt still operates the New Glarus theatre at New Glarus. He also reads the HERALD and swears by it. That's why he is still operating the theatre. We always have a pleasant visit with him. He also dispenses "Prosperity" in his wakeful moments.

T. E. Smith drives a film delivery truck daytimes and operates the Dorlyn theatre at Broadhead of nights, which keeps him rather busy. T. E. used to sell equipment out of Omaha in Nebraska. Out there he was known as "Dynamite" Smith. Whenever Dynamite went into a town they blew the fire whistle and locked up every hen house in the town. Women ran for their homes and fresh milk would "clabber" in thirty minutes.

Dynamite wasn't a bad feller, he was just nervous, that's all, and being nervous he couldn't help raisinghel wherever he went. Nevertheless they all liked him because his word was good and his installation of sound equipment was satisfactory. He and our son-in-law, Walt Bradley, came near having a fight once, only they both had a chance to run.

▽

Dan Kelliher put a whale of a lot of dough in his Sprague theatre at Elkhorn, and Dan is justified in "pointing with pride" to this most excellent show house. Southern Wisconsin can boast of no better, in fact she doesn't need any better. Elkhorn is a tourist town and the summer season is the harvest season for Dan.

▽

Plattville is another Wisconsin town where there is a beautiful theatre and a swell manager. Mr. Tracy is a delightful gentleman to meet, but he also has a habit of treating you rough on the golf course, as was demonstrated when we called on him two years ago. We shied him this time. Mr. Tracy says when he can get good pictures he does good business.

▽

Lake Geneva is another summer resort town, and during the summer season. W. Silcock, who operates the Geneva theatre, says he does remarkable business. Thousands of people come there from Chicago and the Geneva is the only theatre in the town, and it's good enough for Chicago or anybody else.

Jack Yeo is a 100 per cent plus swell guy. Jack operates the Plaza at Burlington, and Burlington ought to shake hands with herself. As we remember it, Jack was operating a theatre at Great Bend when we called on him two years ago. Maybe we haven't got the right town, but it doesn't make much difference since we met him at Burlington and that squares everything. If we should come back to Wisconsin and not meet Jack we'd be mad about it the balance of our life.

▽

Whitewater is surrounded by the state of Wisconsin, and Fred Hinds is surrounded the most of the time by all the ladies in Whitewater. Fred operates the Strand theatre, and the Strand is what makes Whitewater one of the bright spots of the state. As soon as we crossed the line into Wisconsin they began to ask us if we were going to Whitewater, they would say, "You know that's where Fred Hinds lives." Fred used to do time on the Minneapolis dailies and he would cover night courts, police courts, pink teas and other festivities. He was also publicity man for some of the circuits both in the South and the North. His knowledge of the show business runs clear back when—. He is now one of the guest editors of the "Round Table" department of the MOTION PICTURE HERALD, but he works more as "guest" than he does as "editor," but that's his fault and he ought to break himself of it because his thousands of acquaintances over the country would be glad to hear from him. Mrs. Hinds invited us to have Sunday dinner with them. That was lovely of her, but Fred kept us out too late the night before.

COLONEL J. C. JENKINS,
The HERALD'S Vagabond Colyumnist

IN THE NEWS...

OWEN D. YOUNG has been reelected chairman of the board of General Electric. He must decide by Friday to relinquish the chairmanship of either General Electric or Radio Corporation of America, under the consent decree which bars him from holding both offices simultaneously. . . .

JOE SHEA has succeeded MARTHA WILCHINSKI as newspaper contact representative of Radio City. . . .

SAMUEL GOLDWYN is postponing release of RONALD COLMAN'S "The Masquerader" until August. . . .

HARING AND BLUMENTHAL are nearing completion of a deal for taking over four New Jersey houses formerly of the BRATTLER AND POLLACK circuit and now being operated by the RKO receivers. . . .

ERNEST TORRENCE is recuperating from an operation at Lenox Hill hospital in New York. . . .

MONEY FOR SPEED, a motorcycle racing picture produced in England by BERNARD VORHAUS, formerly of Hollywood, and to be released by United Artists, is to be handled by EDWARD L. KLEIN in the United States and Canada.

CONRAD NAGEL has left MGM, refusing a contract when the company declined to give him a guarantee on assignment of roles. . . .

W. RAY JOHNSTON, president of Monogram, is to be the recipient of company honors in the form of a sales drive in June and July. . . .

CARAVEL FILMS, producer of industrial and commercial sound pictures, has contracted for RCA Victor's high fidelity extended range recording. . . .

CHARLES REED JONES, publicist, is leaving Mascot and moving his office to Gaumont-British at 226 West 42d street, New York, on Monday. . . .

TECTRON RADIO COMPANY has instituted a $3,000,000 suit against RCA and Westinghouse Electric, in federal court in New York, charging monopoly and conspiracy in restraint. . . .

NORMAN H. MORAY, Vitaphone sales manager in charge of short subjects and trailers, returned from the field last week with the report that double features are definitely passing from the scene. . . .

FEODOR CHALIAPIN'S rich bass voice will be heard in "Don Quixote," English talking picture made in Paris, with United Artists distributing it. . . .

SPRINGER AND COCALIS will add 16 New York Theatres within the next five months, according to JACK W. SPRINGER. . . .

Union Permit Men Appeal to Courts

The 237 permit men, operators and stagehands, in local 306, New York, who have obtained a temporary injunction restraining Harry Sherman, president, from interfering with their employment and disposing of funds they have contributed to the union, ask that the court decide whether they are union members. Supreme Court Justice Lewis issued the injunction, which will be argued May 2. The men also seek an accounting.

Levinson Resigns From Supreme Screen

Michael Levinson has resigned as vice-president of Supreme Screen Service, which he founded. He retains his stock.

Mr. Levinson said that production plans which he has been developing have now materialized and he will enter upon the new activity following a rest at Atlantic City.

WHAT THE PICTURE DID FOR ME

IN this, the exhibitor's own department, the theatremen of the nation serve one another with information on the box office performance of product for their mutual benefit. It is a service of the exhibitor for the exhibitor. Address all communications to—

What the Picture Did for Me
MOTION PICTURE HERALD
1790 Broadway, New York

Columbia

AMERICAN MADNESS: Walter Huston—Here is one of the finest pictures I have ever shown, but barely made expenses. Huston, beyond a doubt, is a finer actor than either of the Barrymores. You can just bet it will be good if he appears in a picture. You may not make any money on this one, but you will have one of the best shows of the year.—Robert K. Yancey, Paradise Theatre, Cotter, Ark. Railroad and general patronage.

CHILD OF MANHATTAN: Nancy Carroll, John Boles—Another fine program picture from Columbia. Not a dry "meller" by a long shot. Plenty of wit mixed with some spice, although not offensive. Aunt Minnie and Jessie Ralph supply the fun. A picture that pleased all and drew well. Played Mar. 22-23-24.—L. F. Bonaventura, Brown's Grand Theatre, Nashwauk, Minn. Small town patronage.

DECEPTION: Leo Carrillo, Nat Pendleton—If you have any wrestling fans in your town, sell this to them hard for there is some mighty fast mat work in it. Reviewers notices' on this said the women might not like the brutality of the wrestling scenes, but they certainly ate it up here. Played Apr. 18-19.—Roy W. Adams, Mason Theatre, Mason, Mich. Small town patronage.

THE NIGHT CLUB LADY: Adolph Menjou—A very clever Thatcher Colt murder mystery. The acting was fine, but for some reason we did not get swamped at the box office. Played Apr. 5-6-7.—L. F. Bonaventura, Brown's Grand Theatre, Nashwauk, Minn. Small town patronage.

THE NIGHT MAYOR: Lee Tracy—Excellent recording. Well done throughout. The kind of entertainment I am looking for. Increased my business better than average against "State Fair" opposition. Played on Thursday, Friday and Saturday.—W. H. Brenner, Cozy Theatre, Winchester, Ind. General patronage.

THE NIGHT MAYOR: Lee Tracy—You'll have to hand it to Columbia. They certainly know how to make good entertaining pictures. So far, I believe, they have the best average of any company in the business for good, wholesome pictures.—Robert K. Yancey, Paradise Theatre, Cotter, Ark. Railroad and general patronage.

NO MORE ORCHIDS: Carole Lombard, Lyle Talbot—For pleasing entertainment they don't make them any better than this one. It's witty and sophisticated without being overdone or going over the heads of any class of audience. Played Mar. 24-25.—Roy W. Adams, Mason Theatre, Mason, Mich. Small town patronage.

SOLDIERS OF THE STORM: Regis Toomey, Anita Page—Here is a good Friday and Saturday picture. Has plenty of action and George Cooper, the slightly bugeyed comedian, carries the comedy. If the westerns are losing out for you and you have this under contract, it will click, for it moves fast and is a good story. The cast does some swell work in keeping up the pace of the picture.—A. E. Hancock, Columbia Theatre, Columbia City, Ind. General patronage.

SO THIS IS AFRICA: Wheeler and Woolsey—This picture takes the cake for best presentation of smut. We made money, in fact did better and bigger business with this picture than with "Prosperity." If you must play it, keep the children away.—L. F. Bonaventura, Brown's Grand Theatre, Nashwauk, Minn. Small town patronage.

THAT'S MY BOY: Richard Cromwell, Dorothy Jordan—A fine football picture. Pleased all. We packed the house with kids and the second night a few more adults turned out. Played Mar. 25-26. Running time, 60 minutes.—L. F. Bonaventura, Brown's Grand Theatre, Nashwauk, Minn. Small town patronage.

First National

CENTRAL AIRPORT: Richard Barthelmess—If Barthelmess is not a past number in your town this should register as a hit. Just enough of the hokum to make it good entertainment. The rescue scene toward the end will hold any audience. Played Apr. 22.—H. A. Griswold, Sewanee Union Theatre, Sewanee, Tenn. University town patronage.

CENTRAL AIRPORT: Richard Barthelmess, Sally Eilers—Jack Moffit's novel "Hawks Mate," a dramatic romance of several soldiers of fortune, brought to light on the screen with an increased number of action and thrills that left the audience thrilled and almost awed gazing at the thrilling maneuvers performed by daring pilots. Only the best tricks that could be exhibited by an expert pilot were used. Scenes are thrillingly handled and guaranteed to bring the patrons to their feet in excitement. Sequences are well tempered with humor and situations produce hearty laughs. Richard Barthelmess in a typical Barthelmess role affords him every opportunity to exercise his dramatic acting talents and adds new laurels for his fine rendition. Sally Eilers, the feminine interest, offers more "chic" and personality than in anything she has done and gives a touching and emotional performance. Sally put everything she had into this picture, which is built around a plot ideal for her type of performance, which will gain much more popularity with both masculine and feminine contingent. Tom Brown shows a marked improvement in his acting, which will class him with the leading men in front. Some of the highlights are: bursting of a plane in midair, a head on collision, a daring rescue of a transport plane from water and a breathtaking landing in the fog. William Wellman not only directed a great picture but made an epic that the whole industry may be proud of. First National set out to hit the sky's ceiling and evidently they succeeded in doing it. Sure fire production and destined to be an outstanding hit of the month. Outlook on business brightest in months. Book it and see yourself smile at depression. Played Apr. 17-18-19. Running time, 70 minutes.—William Dabb, Lyric Theatre, Shenandoah, Pa. Small town patronage.

THE CROONER: David Manners, Ann Dvorak—The low-down on a "Crooner." His rise and fall. Played it on Sunday and all were pleased that saw it.—L. F. Bonaventura, Brown's Grand Theatre, Nashwauk, Minn. Small town patronage.

FRISCO JENNY: Ruth Chatterton—Good picture of its kind that did about average business for us. Kind of "Madam X" story only Ruth Chatterton makes her money from prostitutes and booze running.—Gerald Stettmund, H. & S. Theatre, Chandler, Okla. Small town patronage.

THEY CALL IT SIN: Loretta Young, George Brent—People liked it very well and we had several say they enjoyed it immensely. Interesting story well acted. Good, snappy dialogue with only a few smutty cracks.—Gerald Stettmund, H. & S. Theatre, Chandler, Okla. Small town patronage.

THREE ON A MATCH: Joan Blondell, Bette Davis—A corking good picture with all kinds of please 'em stuff in it. Well acted, well directed, good sound and photography. Play it. We say it will please nearly all of them.—Ned Pedigo, DeLuxe Theatre, Garber, Okla. General patronage.

20,000 YEARS IN SING SING: Spencer Tracy—A fine, well acted picture, but this is the fifth similar picture, Chain, jail, pen and others. No business. My fault, I overdid the thing. I never want to see another jail picture. With a title "Twenty Years in Sing Sing" it would draw much better. People just can't savvy this 20.000 years thing. It's a "bone." Sure pop.—New Pedigo, DeLuxe Theatre, Garber, Okla. General patronage.

YOU SAID A MOUTHFUL: Joe E. Brown—Up to Joe E.'s standard of comedy. Worth playing. Played Apr. 3-4-5.—G. A. Troyer, New Lyric Theatre, Rugby, N. D. Small town patronage.

Fox

BONDAGE: Dorothy Jordan—An exceptionally poor subject for a company like Fox to release. Subject matter distasteful to majority of patrons and not worth playing. We've had everything about babies except actual delivery—now's the time for some ultra-smart executive to film this and we can then have censorship we have so frequently invited. Played Apr. 13-14.—Cecil Cupp, Royal Theatre, Arkadelphia, Ark. College town patronage.

CALL HER SAVAGE: Clara Bow—Splendid acting on the part of Bow, but the class of fans who used to like her have no money nowadays. Consequently lost money on her. Played Mar. 13-14-15. Running time, 88 minutes.—G. A. Troyer, New Lyric Theatre, Rugby, N. D. Small town patronage.

CALL HER SAVAGE: Clara Bow—This picture sure suits Clara Bow, and it will also suit any audience. Plenty spicy, and that's what they want with Clara. This picture, however, did not draw over average business and I cannot understand why, as I put out more than average advertising. Played Mar. 19-21. Running time, 88 minutes.—W. L. Stratton, Challis Theatre, Challis, Idaho. Small town patronage.

DOWN TO EARTH: Will Rogers—This picture is very good and will please most everyone. With no extra advertising, this picture drew the best Sunday crowd I have had in weeks. If Will draws as good on the other two of his pictures I have booked I will be satisfied, and if the other pictures are as good as this one the public will be satisfied also. Played Mar. 26-27. Running time, 72 minutes.—W. L. Stratton, Challis Theatre, Challis, Idaho. Small town patronage.

FACE IN THE SKY: Spencer Tracy, Marion Nixon—It is one of those light, breezy stories that carries one's interest throughout. Was well liked by our patrons.—Gerald Stettmund, H. & S. Theatre, Chandler, Okla. Small town patronage.

THE FIRST YEAR: Janet Gaynor, Charles Farrell—This picture did the best Sunday and Monday business for me in over a month. I put out extra advertising and boosted it high. Although this is not the best picture that these stars are turning out it is better than the general run of pictures and it pleased 100%. If I can do as good on the rest of the pictures these stars turn out I won't kick. Played Mar. 12-13.—W. L. Stratton, Challis Theatre, Challis, Idaho. Small town patronage.

HANDLE WITH CARE: James Dunn, Boots Mallory—To our way of thinking, this was fine entertainment in way of story, but there was too much talk and not enough of El Brendel. Wish they would use this "laugh getter" more. We need more fun, brightness and a happy ending more now in this time of depression than ever. This is no time for heavy entertainment. Played Apr. 10-11.—R. D. Carter, Fairfax Theatre, Kilmarnock, Va. Town and country patronage.

HAT CHECK GIRL: Sally Eilers, Ben Lyon—A pleasing little programer that did fair business. More acceptable to the young people than to the children and older ones. Played Mar. 29-30. Running time, 63 minutes.—R. D. Carter, Fairfax Theatre, Kilmarnock, Va. Town and country patronage.

HAT CHECK GIRL: Sally Eilers, Ben Lyon, Ginger Rogers—Although a very pleasing picture, it did not draw and failed to take in film rental. Times are getting so tough here that I cannot break even on anything except a picture rated as a special and only then when I get out plenty of advertising. You cannot make money on any pictures as you lose all you make on the poor drawing cards. Played Apr. 14-15. Running time, 64 minutes.—W. L. Stratton, Challis Theatre, Challis, Idaho. Small town patronage.

HOT PEPPER: Victor McLaglen, Edmund Lowe—Not nearly as "hot" as we had been led to believe when we read reviews and some exhibitors' remarks. It was rather suggestive in some spots and the dancing was quite torrid, but throw out those which are not suggestive and . . . what have you? Played Mar. 31-Apr. 1.—Horn and Morgan, Star Theatre, Hay Springs, Neb. Small town patronage.

INFERNAL MACHINE: Chester Morris, Genevieve Tobin—Pretty weak, but better than we expected, with quite an unusual and unexpected ending. Some novel situations with quite a lot of comedy. Played Apr. 12-13.—Horn and Morgan, Star Theatre, Hay Springs, Neb. Small town patronage.

RACKETY RAX: Victor McLaglen—I did not expect much from this one, as most of the reports panned it, but I booked a good bunch of short subjects and did extra advertising and managed to do about average business. This picture is not a good picture by 40 miles, but there were some patrons who said they liked it. I cannot see it. Played Mar. 17-18.—W. L. Stratton, Challis Theatre, Challis, Idaho. Small town patronage.

ROBBERS' ROOST: George O'Brien—This is an excellent Zane Grey picture. We had several nice compliments on this one and so it must be extra good, because patrons seldom comment on westerns.—Gerald Stettmund, H. & S. Theatre, Chandler, Okla. Small town patronage.

SAILOR'S LUCK: James Dunn, Sally Eilers—Anything but a high class, sophisticated picture and bordering on downright risqueness, this picture nevertheless comes through with good entertainment and pleases patrons. They'll even go out and talk about "how good it was." So that's that. Played Apr. 6-7.—Cecil Cupp, Royal Theatre, Arkadelphia, Ark. College town patronage.

SECOND HAND WIFE: Sally Eilers, Ralph Bellamy—Nice picture. Nothing out of the class of regular pictures. Business below average. Played Mar. 27-28-29. Running time, 64 minutes.—G. A. Troyer, New Lyric Theatre, Rugby, N. D. Small town patronage.

SHERLOCK HOLMES: Clive Brook—This character has been forgotten, although the suspense is good in spots. Fox has fallen down on product. Played Feb. 23-24-25. Running time, 69 minutes.—G. A. Troyer, New Lyric Theatre, Rugby, N. D. Small town patronage.

STATE FAIR: Janet Gaynor, Lew Ayres—Very good. The type of picture that you can face your patrons when they come out. Business good for conditions. Played Apr. 16-17.—C. H. McCroskey, Allied Theatre, Dermott, Ark. Small town patronage.

STATE FAIR: Janet Gaynor, Will Rogers, Lew Ayres—A natural for small towns. Should go over good anywhere. Rogers not quite so prominent, which helped the picture. Other stars filled in to good advantage. Believe it pleased 100%. Rogers will be able to play for years and be a drawing card, providing he does not try to be the whole show as in this. Best business in two years and first time we ever took in more the second than the first. Played Apr. 16-17.—D. E. Fitton, Lyric Theatre, Harrison, Ark. Small town patronage.

TOO BUSY TO WORK: Will Rogers—Rogers is always to be depended upon for a good performance. It is impossible to say what a picture can do for one out here under present conditions. However, those who saw this were pleased 100%. Played Mar. 2-3-4. Running time, 76 minutes.—G. A. Troyer, New Lyric Theatre, Rugby, N. D. Small town patronage.

WILD GIRL: Joan Bennett—A well liked western type of picture with beautiful scenes. If producers would use more natural beauty in the westerns, also more comedy, less shooting, killing and "dark" scenes, westerns would live forever. "Dark scenes" in any picture have a very depressive effect on everyone. Played Mar. 24-25. Running time, 77 minutes.—R. D. Carter, Fairfax Theatre, Kilmarnock, Va. Town and country patronage.

Mayfair

LOVE IN HIGH GEAR: Alberta Vaughn, Harrison Ford—Rapid-fire farce comedy. Not bad entertainment. Played Apr. 10.—Roy W. Adams, Mason Theatre, Mason, Mich. Small town patronage.

MGM

CLEAR ALL WIRES: Lee Tracy—It's pictures like this that make me want to go back to the farm where we are all headed for if pictures are not improved on. Played Apr. 18-19.—C. H. McCroskey, Allied Theatre, Dermott, Ark. Small town patronage.

CLEAR ALL WIRES: Lee Tracy—This is a very good show. Should do good business, especially where Lee Tracy is liked. Played Apr. 21-22. Running time, 75 minutes.—J. E. Tunstall, Nottawa Theatre, Blackstone, Va. Small town patronage.

DOWNSTAIRS: John Gilbert—So far as my patrons are concerned, Gilbert can go farming. No one cared for this one. No business.—Robert K. Yancey, Paradise Theatre, Cotter, Ark. Railroad and general patronage.

FAST LIFE: William Haines, Madge Evans—This is the type of picture they want to see Haines in. Cliff Edwards almost steals the show. Seemed to please all and drew fairly well.—Robert K. Yancey, Paradise Theatre, Cotter, Ark. Railroad and general patronage.

FAST WORKERS: John Gilbert, Mae Clark—Plenty of kicks on this one. These boys are structural steel workers and while they are not at work they are playing the red light district. John Gilbert is the fascinating hero who bends all women to his evil will. Show this one on some stormy night when you do not expect any business, because you will not have any anwyay.—Gerald Stettmund, H. & S. Theatre, Chandler, Okla. Small town patronage.

FLESH: Wallace Beery—Just a fine picture my gang thought. Action, story and everything O. K. Good audience picture. A little slow the first four reels. Could have been trimmed to seven reels nicely. —Ned Pedigo, DeLuxe Theatre, Garber, Okla. General patronage.

FLESH: Wallace Beery, Ricardo Cortez—Pleased 100% and that's what counts nowadays. As word-of-mouth advertising is the best bet and you can count on an increase in business here when a picture pleases as did this one. Coal mining community.—B. A. McConnell, Emerson Theatre, Hartford, Ark. General patronage.

WORTH THE SUBSCRIPTION

The note which Milton T. DuBois, of the Majestic theatre, Cotulla, Texas, appended to the subscription renewal blank received recently by the circulation department of the HERALD, speaks very well for itself, thus:

"I thought I could get along without the HERALD, until you started the 'What the Picture Did for Me'. That department is worth the subscription price alone."

FLESH: Wallace Beery—Wonderful acting by Beery, Karen Morley and Ricardo Cortez. But hardly as good as should be expected from such a cast as the story is not pleasant and it is hard to believe a man could be so ignorant. Played Apr. 9-10. Running time, 75 minutes.—Horn and Morgan, Star Theatre, Hay Springs, Neb. Small town patronage.

FLESH: Wallace Beery—A little sordid in spots. However, patrons seemed to like the picture in general. Played Mar. 9-10-11. Running time, 75 minutes. —G. A. Troyer, New Lyric Theatre, Rugby, N. D. Small town patronage.

FLESH: Wallace Beery—Not as good as his previous offerings. Drew only fair.—Robert K. Yancey, Paradise Theatre, Cotter, Ark. Railroad and general patronage.

GABRIEL OVER THE WHITE HOUSE: Walter Huston—A timely and entertaining picture that will please most any audience, but from some cause was a terrible disappointment at the box office for me. Just simply could not get them interested in it. "Damfino" what people want in the way of pictures any more. They come to the poor ones and pass up the good ones. Played Apr. 17-18. Running time, 85 minutes.—R. W. Hickman, Lyric Theatre, Greenville, Ill. General patronage.

GABRIEL OVER THE WHITE HOUSE: Walter Huston—Here is the perfect picture. Our Sunday business was off. Monday showed about 100% increase. Very hard to sell to the public. However, I believe after the picture has been shown in key situations it will do more business in small towns. This one brought out the people who only attend the theatre on rare occasions. This picture has the effect of causing one to have more confidence in the government and being a better citizen. Played Apr. 16-17. —Gerald Stettmund, H. & S. Theatre, Chandler, Okla. Small town patronage.

KONGO: Walter Huston, Lupe Velez—A terrible conglomerated mess of nothing. Had a lot of walkouts and I felt very much like taking it to the brush. When one pays two bits to see this one, he doesn't forget when he comes out. Hand him 30 cents back. Beg his pardon and I doubt if that will square it.—Ned Pedigo, DeLuxe Theatre, Garber, Okla. General patronage.

THE MASK OF FU MANCHU: Boris Karloff—Trade it for a cartoon—you'll have more entertainment.—Robert K. Yancey, Paradise Theatre, Cotter, Ark. Railroad and general patronage.

PROSPERITY: Marie Dressler, Polly Moran—This pair always good anywhere. Played Feb. 20-21-22. Running time, 76 minutes.—G. A. Troyer, New Lyric Theatre, Rugby, N. D. Small town patronage.

RASPUTIN AND THE EMPRESS: Ethel, John and Lionel Barrymore—The Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Science may just as well put their gold medal on a plate and present it to Lionel Barrymore for the best acting for this or any other year. What a wonderful actor he is. Picture one of the very best. Played Apr. 10-11. Running time, 125 minutes. —R. W. Hickman, Lyric Theatre, Greenville, Ill. General patronage.

SMILIN' THROUGH: Norma Shearer, Leslie Howard—It was a pleasure to hear the patrons rave over this picture. Our local Methodist minister came all through the run and boosted it to everyone he came in contact with. MGM should be proud of this one as it is one of the really good pictures.—B. A. McConnell, Emerson Theatre, Hartford, Ark. General patronage.

SMILIN' THROUGH: Norma Shearer, Fredric March, Leslie Howard—Words cannot express the amount of praise this show should have. The acting is superb. The direction the same, and anything else you could ask about it is the same. Played this little late but one certainly feels like being at the door to receive the comments instead of criticism as the patrons walk out. Pleased 110%, if such a thing is possible. Played Mar. 23-24-25. Running time, 99 minutes.—G. A. Troyer, New Lyric Theatre, Rugby, N. D. Small town patronage.

STRANGE INTERLUDE: Norma Shearer, Clark Gable—Just another one of Metro's specials. I lost $19.00 on only a program picture and it should have been bought at those prices.—Robert K. Yancey, Paradise Theatre, Cotter, Ark. Railroad and general patronage.

WASHINGTON MASQUERADE: Lionel Barrymore, Karen Morley—A wonderful picture and Barrymore certainly keeps up his good work. You can't go wrong on this one. I traded a 1933 cluck for it and I'm certainly glad.—B. A. McConnell, Emerson Theatre, Hartford, Ark. General patronage.

WHAT! NO BEER?: Jimmy Durante, Buster Keaton—Very, very ordinary. Metro is hardly holding up its reputation with this one. Played Apr. 7-8.—Horn and Morgan, Star Theatre, Hay Springs, Neb. Small town patronage.

WHISTLING IN THE DARK: Ernest Truex, Una Merkel—Did we almost lose our pants on this one? Had a hunch that it was just another lot of film wasted when we read the plot and read the cast. However, took a long shot and played it. More gangster plot. Lay off as it did not mean a thing here. Played Apr. 10-11-12.—G. A. Troyer, New Lyric Theatre, Rugby, N. D. Small town patronage.

WHISTLING IN THE DARK: Ernest Truex, Una Merkel—Here is a picture I consider above the average, but it did not click with my patrons for some reason. Played Apr. 9-10.—D. E. Fitton, Lyric Theatre, Harrison, Ark. Small town patronage.

WHISTLING IN THE DARK: Ernest Truex, Una Merkel—Good, interesting picture about an author who falls into the hands of gangsters while he and his girl were going to get married. The gang is going to kill a man and the author has to tell them how to do it in order to save his own life. Story interesting and has subtle comedy throughout. Will please the average patron.—Gerald Stettmund, H. & S. Theatre, Chandler, Okla. Small town patronage.

Monogram

BOILING POINT: Hoot Gibson—About an average western. This has some kind of trick recording with a sound track about 1/32nd inch wide. Sound is not natural and volume is not uniform.—Gerald Stettmund, H. & S. Theatre, Chandler, Okla. Small town patronage.

Paramount

A BEDTIME STORY: Maurice Chevalier, Baby LeRoy—A splendid picture, naughty but nice, good direction, Chevalier's voice more acceptable than in the past and the Baby LeRoy very fine. Edward Everett Horton good. This picture will please. Go the limit on exploitation. I cannot refrain from complimenting Paramount on their pictures and their splendid cooperation with exhibitors under present trying conditions. Played Apr. 23-24.—Cecil Cupp, Royal Theatre, Arkadelphia, Ark. College town patronage.

THE BLONDE VENUS: Marlene Dietrich—Dietrich doesn't mean much to us, as we have lost money on all her pictures so far. Played Mar. 6-7-8. Running time, 93 minutes.—G. A. Troyer, New Lyric Theatre, Rugby, N. D. Small town patronage.

HE LEARNED ABOUT WOMEN: Stuart Erwin —Here is a picture that serves as fine entertainment. You will enjoy it all. Just one of those pictures that moves right along and you have a feeling all the time that it is being done by folks that know their stuff. Marie Dressler has a double in it, too.—W. H. Brenner, Cozy Theatre, Winchester, Ind. General patronage.

HELLO EVERYBODY: Kate Smith—Clean and wholesome but slow moving. Very little entertainment except for Smith's radio fans. Did 145% by selling Smith and Fannie Hurst. Played Mar. 31. Running time, 70 minutes.—D. B. White, Ritz Theatre, Fernandina, Fla. General patronage.

HORSE FEATHERS: Four Marx Bros.—I ran this three days and ran only one picture for the week instead of the regular two changes and to my extreme surprise, in spite of the extra cost of the feature, I made a three dollar profit. What's going to happen? This is the first time I have made a profit on a picture for so long that I cannot understand it. I guess the depression is about to give us a break. Well, it is about time. This picture seemed to please most everyone who saw it and I ran enough good short subjects with it so that it had to please. Played Mar. 31, April 1-2. Running time, 68 minutes. —W. L. Stratton, Challis Theatre, Challis, Idaho. Small town patronage.

IF I HAD A MILLION: All star—Good picture. Patrons commented very highly. Mar. 30-Apr. 1. Running time, 86 minutes.—G. A. Troyer, New Lyric Theatre, Rugby, N. D. Small town patronage.

ISLAND OF LOST SOULS: Charles Laughton, Richard Arlen, Kathleen Burke—Although I was informed by Paramount that this picture was not a picture that would appeal to the average patron I believed it was an out of the ordinary picture and did a little extra billing. The paper was good and had good drawing power so consequently I pulled 50% better than average business and made a few dollars. The general comment on this picture was that the picture pleased but that they would not care to see another of the same type. It was pretty much gruesome in spots but the acting was fine all the way through. I billed it not recommended for children and had only 14 kids in the two nights that I played it. I believe that it will make any exhibitor money if he bills it as the show it is. Played Apr. 9-10. Running time, 70 minutes.—W. L. Stratton, Challis Theatre, Challis, Idaho. Small town patronage.

LUXURY LINER: George Brent—A fairly good comedy-melodrama. Only pleased a few. Audience tired of sameness of scenes confined to one ship at sea. 65% box office. Played Apr. 12-13. Running time, 68 minutes.—D. B. White, Ritz Theatre, Fernandina, Fla. General patronage.

MADISON SQUARE GARDEN: Jack Oakie, Marion Nixon, Thomas Meighan—No drawing power in this community. Title had no meaning to the people out here and stars do not mean much more. Oakie and Meighan no attraction. An exceptionally good fight climax that was realistic and where pictures of this type appeal, may go over big. Played Feb. 13-14-15. Running time, 75 minutes.—G. A. Troyer, New Lyric Theatre, Rugby, N. D. Small town patronage.

MURDERS IN THE ZOO: Charlie Ruggles—Just another murder picture with which the people have been fed up. If they like their chills it will hold them. Otherwise best on a double feature program. Played Apr. 20-21.—H. A. Griswold, Sewanee Union Theatre, Sewanee, Tenn. University town patronage.

MYSTERIOUS RIDER: Kent Taylor, Lona Andre—Hardly up to the regular Paramount Zane Grey standard, as people did not know anything about the leads. Taylor and Andre just ordinary as actors, but Taylor is a fine looking fellow and Miss Andre cute little trick. Story pretty weak. Played Apr. 14-15.—Horn and Morgan, Star Theatre, Hay Springs, Neb. Small town patronage.

NIGHT AFTER NIGHT: George Raft—Can't say so much for this star out here. Those who saw the picture liked it for what it was. Only mediocre, nothing to rave about. Paramount can do better. Too bad they can't lay off this gangster hokum. People are getting tired of it. Played Mar. 20-21-22. Running time, 70 minutes.—G. A. Troyer, New Lyric Theatre, Rugby, N. D. Small town patronage.

NO MAN OF HER OWN: Clark Gable, Carole Lombard—Very good program picture, running along with a story in which everything happens about as you expect and just as you like, ending most satisfactorily. One exhibitor remarked that Metro should have loaned Thalberg also, but we thought this Gable's best picture in a long time, far surpassing "Strange Interlude." Played Apr. 2-3.—Horn and Morgan, Star Theatre, Hay Springs, Neb. Small town patronage.

NO MAN OF HER OWN: Clark Gable—A show that was liked by the few that saw it but these few were few indeed. I don't know where business has gone, but it certainly has deserted this theatre. A few more flops like this one and I will turn the theatre into a hay barn. The picture was good as far as story and acting was concerned. Played Apr. 16-17. Running time, 76 minutes.—W. L. Stratton, Challis Theatre, Challis, Idaho. Small town patronage

THE PHANTOM PRESIDENT: George M. Cohan, Jimmy Durante, Claudette Colbert—This was a good comedy, but in spite of the advertising I put out it failed to draw. My idea of this picture is that unless played during election it is not worth playing. Played Mar. 24-25. Running time, 74 minutes.—W. L. Stratton, Challis Theatre, Challis, Idaho. Small town patronage.

PHANTOM PRESIDENT: Jimmy Durante, George M. Cohan, Claudette Colbert—Paramount turned out another good comedy feature in this one. Played Feb. 27-28-Mar. 1. Running time, 78 minutes.—G. A. Troyer, New Lyric Theatre, Rugby, N. D. Small town patronage.

PICK UP: Sylvia Sidney, George Raft—Very good. Better than average program picture. Should click in all spots. Played Apr. 17-18. Running time, 75 minutes.—J. E. Tunstall, Nottawa Theatre, Blackstone, Va. Small town patronage.

SHE DONE HIM WRONG: Mae West, Cary Grant—Excellent for an audience that likes entertainment bordering on vulgarity that is not necessarily offensive. By advertising considerably in advance, raising the admission, prohibiting children and with a midnight show we did 150%. Everyone enjoyed it, but a few said it wasn't vulgar as they had hoped and had anticipated. Played Apr. 5-6. Running time, 65 minutes.—D. B. White, Ritz Theatre, Fernandina, Fla. General patronage.

STRICTLY PERSONAL: Dorothy Jordan, Eddie Quillan— An entertaining little picture. Only one murder in it. All are good that play in it. Edward Ellis is mighty good. Played Apr. 11-12.—D. E. Fitton, Lyric Theatre, Harrison, Ark. Small town patronage.

STRICTLY PERSONAL: Marjorie Rambeau—Just another program picture. Not bad, not good. Just fair. Played Apr. 19-20. Running time, 70 minutes.—J. E. Tunstall, Nottawa Theatre, Blackstone, Va. Small town patronage.

TONIGHT IS OURS: Claudette Colbert, Fredric March—Very well done and this type picture will help end the exhibitor's depression, and God knows, he needs it. Played Apr. 23-24.—C. H. McCroskey, Allied Theatre, Dermott, Ark. Small town patronage.

TONIGHT IS OURS: Fredric March, Claudette Colbert—Certainly one beautiful romance and pleased our patrons almost 100%. Acting of two leads very fine and story ends happily which is what theatregoers want nowadays. Sob stuff goes blah here. Played Apr. 16-17. Running time, 76 minutes.—Horn and Morgan, Star Theatre, Hay Springs, Neb. Small town patronage.

UNDER COVER MAN: George Raft—Just another picture, racketeering and gangsterism. Played Apr. 6-7-8. Running time, 74 minutes.—G. A. Troyer, New Lyric Theatre, Rugby, N. D. Small town patronage.

UNDER THE TONTO RIM: Stuart Erwin—They tried to make a cowhand out of Stuart Erwin in this picture. Can you imagine anything so silly as that? Picture is cheaply constructed and story very weak. Use it on a double program. Played Apr. 15. Running time, 68 minutes.—R. W. Hickman, Lyric Theatre, Greenville, Ill. General patronage.

RKO

ANIMAL KINGDOM: Ann Harding, Leslie Howard—Excellent for those who like sophisticated entertainment. We tried to build up patronge through the vanity of a few supposedly sophisticated patrons, but only did a 60% business. Played Apr. 2-3-4. Running time, 85 minutes.—D. B. White, Ritz Theatre, Fernandina, Fla. General patronage.

ANIMAL KINGDOM: Ann Harding, Leslie Howard—They all walked out.—Robert K. Yancey, Paradise Theatre, Cotter, Ark. Railroad and general patronage.

CHRISTOPHER STRONG: Katharine Hepburn—An excellent production and Miss Hepburn's performance is very fine. Poor box office attraction. Played Apr. 18-19.—Cecil Cupp, Royal Theatre, Arkadelphia, Ark. College town patronage.

COME ON DANGER: Tom Keene—A dandy western that drew better than the usual western. Rosco Ates furnishes the comedy with his stuttering that just rolls 'em in the aisles. My patrons will all turn out if they know he is going to be in a picture.—Robert K. Yancey, Paradise Theatre, Cotter, Ark. Railroad and general patronage.

THE CONQUERORS: Richard Dix, Ann Harding—Excellent from all standpoints. Very timely. Good acting by every member of the cast.—Robert K. Yancey, Paradise Theatre, Cotter, Ark. Railroad and general patronage.

GOLDIE GETS ALONG: Lily Damita, Sam Hardy—Fair entertainment. Played Apr. 11-12.—Roy W. Adams, Mason Theatre, Mason, Mich. Small town patronage.

THE GREAT JASPER: Richard Dix—Best performance of Dix since "Cimarron." Dix seldom draws here, so we were content with an 85% box office. Played Apr. 9-10-11. Running time, 80 minutes.—D. B. White, Ritz Theatre, Fernandina, Fla. General patronage.

THE HALF NAKED TRUTH: Lee Tracy—Good little picture that will please the majority. Not big but better than average.—Robert K. Yancey, Paradise Theatre, Cotter, Ark. Railroad and general patronage.

HOLD 'EM JAIL: Wheeler and Woolsey—This was a very funny picture but the football angle doesn't go in this town and consequently I did not do very well. Pulled about two-thirds of regular business and pleased about 50%. Played Apr. 7-8. Running time, 74 minutes.—W. L. Stratton, Challis Theatre, Challis, Idaho. Small town patronage.

HOLD 'EM JAIL: Wheeler and Woolsey—As usual this team gave good entertainment. Edna May Oliver contributing very largely to the fun. However, this picture did much less than any Wheeler and Woolsey subject we have ever run. First I think it was the word "jail" in the title that made our patrons "shy" off from this one, for they are dead set against prison pictures. "Big House" gave them an overdose. Played Mar. 27-28. Running time, 68 minutes.—R. D. Carter, Fairfax Theatre, Kilmarnock, Va. Town and country patronage.

KING KONG: King Kong—Here is a picture that you must sell to your people. The public today is fed up on wild animal pictures, thrill and horror pictures. To them "King Kong" is just another of this type. It's your job to sell them the idea that this is something else, something that they should see to try and figure out how it was made. I believe that this picture will be a terrible box office flop in some spots and break box office records in others. The boys who sell it will do the big business. It's good. Played Apr. 16-17-18. Running time, 100 minutes.—Steve Farrar, Orpheum Theatre, Harrisburg, Ill. Small city patronage.

LITTLE ORPHAN ANNIE: Mitzi Green—Had more kids than usual on this, and it seemed to please everyone, except that some of the youngsters went home crying because it wasn't made sufficiently plain to them that the little boy who fell out of the window was slated for an early recovery. Played Apr. 7-8.—Roy W. Adams, Mason Theatre, Mason, Mich. Small town patronage.

LITTLE ORPHAN ANNIE: Mitzi Green—Had more kids than any other show I ever had in my life. Very good.—Robert K. Yancey, Paradise Theatre, Cotter, Ark. Railroad and general patronage.

MEN OF AMERICA: Bill Boyd, "Chic" Sale—Very good combination gangster-western story. Running time is listed as 75 minutes, but it only clocked 55. Played Mar. 21-22. Running time, 55 minutes.—Roy W. Adams, Mason Theatre, Mason, Mich. Small town patronage.

OUR BETTERS: Constance Bennett—A more suitable title to this would be "Our Bitters," as it was bitter to me. Pulled it after the first night as the eight who saw it complained. Played Apr. 20.—C. H. McCroskey, Allied Theatre, Dermott, Ark. Small town patronage.

PHANTOM OF CRESTWOOD: Ricardo Cortez, Karen Morley—Well produced murder mystery yarn. Good to the last drop. Played Mar. 18-19.—Roy W. Adams, Mason Theatre, Mason, Mich. Small town patronage.

PHANTOM OF CRESTWOOD: Ricardo Cortez—A fair mystery that drew average business. Nothing to get excited about.—Robert K. Yancey, Paradise Theatre, Cotter, Ark. Railroad and general patronage.

RENEGADES OF THE WEST: Tom Keene—A good western. This boy is a good rider and scrapper and fills the bill for this type of story. Played Apr. 4-5.—Roy W. Adams, Mason Theatre, Mason, Mich. Small town patronage.

SECRETS OF THE FRENCH POLICE: Gwili Andre, Frank Morgan—Another murder mystery story. Ingenious, entertaining and well made, but too much of this kind of story is a great sufficiency. Played Mar. 31.—Roy W. Adams, Mason Theatre, Mason, Mich. Small town patronage.

THE SPORT PARADE: Joel McCrea—A very pleasing little picture.—Robert K. Yancey, Paradise Theatre, Cotter, Ark. Railroad and general patronage.

Universal

BACK STREET: Irene Dunne, John Boles—Success should be a lesson to producers to be sure to place stars where they belong. Can't say much for it. Played Apr. 9-10-11. Running time, 84 minutes.—J. M. Ensor, Crescent Theatre, Little Rock, Ark. General patronage.

THE BIG CAGE: Clyde Beatty, Anita Page, Andy Devine, Raymond Hatton—This is a great picture with Beatty all the way and that is what you have to sell. There is plenty of excitement and a fierce fight between a lion and a tiger that makes the fur fly. His handling of the cats in the big arena is the high spot. The story behind this is rather trite, not much to it. A drunken trainer that has lost his grip, Raymond Hatton, to make good with his kid, who comes, goes into the cage in an effort to make a comeback and is killed. It is Beatty's picture and his handling of the big cats, forty of them, in a large cage is spectacular. Percentage, of course the outstanding ones always are.—A. E. Hancock, Columbia Theatre, Columbia City, Ind. General patronage.

THE COHENS AND KELLYS IN TROUBLE: Charles Murray, George Sidney—Believe the best picture these people ever made. It's good entertainmnt. Played Apr. 13-14.—D. E. Fitton, Lyric Theatre, Harrison, Ark. Small town patronage.

COHENS AND KELLYS IN TROUBLE: Charles Murray, George Sidney—This is the best picture these two boys have made. In this one they have been given a good supporting cast, which puts the picture over to where it will please the few who stray into the theatre to see it.—Gerald Stettmund, H. & S. Theatre, Chandler, Okla.. Small town patronage.

THE MUMMY: Boris Karloff—A great picture and acting by the entire cast. Women screamed a little but it's different. People, I find, like a thrill.—Ned Pedigo, DeLuxe Theatre, Garber, Okla. General patronage.

MY PAL THE KING: Tom Mix—Fair business. Pleased the kids especially. Played Mar. 28-29.—Roy W. Adams, Mason Theatre, Mason, Mich. Small town patronage.

MY PAL THE KING: Tom Mix—Must differ with my friend from the north. We thought it the best audience picture Mix has mixed in yet. Kids simply went nutty over it and all the old folks ate it up.—Ned Pedigo, DeLuxe Theatre, Garber, Okla. General patronage.

NAGANA: As good an African wild animal picture as anyone has made. There are plenty of black men, plenty of animals who stage some of the best fights filmed so far, but our people are sick and tired of looking at wild animal pictures, so this one did not do any business. If you can sell it, it will please most of those who see it. It's a thriller. Played Apr. 19-20. Running time, 74 minutes.—Steve Farrar, Orpheum Theatre, Harrisburg, Ill. Small city patronage.

NAGANA: Melvyn Douglas, Tala Birell—Personally I thought there was no excuse for making such a picture, but our Friday and Saturday audiences liked it and we did 120%. Played Apr. 7-8. Running time, 70 minutes.—D. B. White, Ritz Theatre, Fernandina, Fla. General patronage.

NAGANA: Tala Birell, Melvyn Douglas—"Nagana" turned out to be no gooda. We little fellows get some mighty sour contraptions at times, not being able to screen before buying and showing. This should be shown always in the opposition house, and mighty soon there would be no opposition, and why should this woman be in any picture, for she fails to flicker. —New Pedigo, DeLuxe Theatre, Garber, Okla. General patronage.

OKAY AMERICA: Lew Ayres—On account of this being a newspaper columnist picture and being late in playing it, we did little exploitation. Our first day's audience liked Ayres, the story, and constant action and they sold it to their friends. It was a good Friday and Saturday picture that did 120 per cent. Played April 14-15. Running time, 80 minutes—D. B. White, Ritz Theatre, Fernandina, Fla. General patronage.

OKAY AMERICA: Lew Ayres, Maureen O'Sullivan —This title fits the picture. It is certainly okay. Had more people rave about this show than on any for a long time. Played March 16-17-18. Running time, 78 minutes.—G. A. Troyer, New Lyric Theatre, Rugby, N. D. Small town patronage.

PRIVATE JONES: Lee Tracy—Extra good. Tracy has a style all his own. Although he had a rather unsympathetic role, made a lot out of it. Played April 5-6.—Horn and Morgan, Star Theatre, Hay Springs, Neb. Small town patronage.

Warner

THE KEYHOLE: Kay Francis, George Brent—I knew a guy once who peeped through a keyhole and got his left eye put out. This, however, is not that kind of a picture. It's clean, entertaining and well acted by entire cast. Played it on Good Friday and all the matinees worked hard all day planting potatoes and must have been too tired to come out. Played April 14. Running time, 72 minutes.—B. W. Hickman, Lyric Theatre, Greenville, Ill.—General patronage.

THE KEYHOLE: Kay Francis—Played this during the University Easter dances. Ordinarily this is a bad time for shows, but the girls evidently wanted to see it and made the boys bring them in. A neat little program picture and one which should click in towns with the fair sex trade. Played April 18-19.—H. A. Griswold, Sewanee Union Theatre, Sewanee, Tenn. University town patronage.

LADIES THEY TALK ABOUT: Barbara Stanwyck, Lillian Roth—A fair picture. Ladies in the "big house." Fine acting. The few that came out to see it were well pleased. Played March 29-30-31. Running time, 70 minutes.—L. F. Bonaventura, Browns' Grand Theatre, Nashwauk, Minn. Small town patronage.

LAWYER MAN: William Powell, Joan Blondell—Regardless of what the rest of the country thinks, the people of Harrisburg, Ill., think this the best picture Powell ever made, and I must agree with them, for Powell and Blondell certainly turn in a nice performance in this one. It drew less than average business owing to the fact that Powell is not a very popular star here. If you have a town where he is popular, get behind this one with everything you have. Played April 23-24. Running time, 70 minutes.—Steve Farrar, Orpheum Theatre, Harrisburg, Ill. Small city patronage.

THE MYSTERY OF THE WAX MUSEUM: Lionel Atwill, Glenda Farrell—A very good natural color picture. It has plenty of thrills and Glenda's wisecracking is excellent. An excellent picture from every standpoint, comedy suspense, thrills and love interest. —Gerald Stettmund, H. & S. Theatre, Chandler, Okla. Small town patronage.

World Wide

FIGHTING THROUGH: Ken Maynard—A little better story than some they have given him. I see in a recent Mtion Picture Herald that westerns are going out forever (again), but they're still the staff of life for me. Played April 14-15.—Roy W. Adams, Mason Theatre, Mason, Mich. Small town patronage.

UPTOWN NEW YORK: Jack Oakie—The best picture Oakie has made in many a day. A program picture, but an extra good one. Drew better than average business and pleased. Many good comments from patrons on this one. Its' a clean picture good for any night in week and will stand extra advertising. Played April 21. Running time, 80 minutes.—Steve Farrar, Orpheum Theatre, Harrisburg, Ill. Small city patronage.

Short Features

Columbia

THE BIRD STORE: Silly Symphony—Good comedy cartoon.—Roy W. Adams, Mason Theatre, Mason, Mich. Small town patronage.

MICKEY'S REVUE: Mickey Mouse—One of Mickey's best. "Mad Dog" is good, too.—Roy W. Adams, Mason Theatre, Mason, Mich. Small town patronage.

Fox

BELLS OF BALI: Magic Carpet—This series does not go over so good with our people. This one about the same as the others.—D. E. Fitton, Lyric Theatre, Harrison, Ark. Small town patronage.

HERE COMES THE CIRCUS: Magic Carpet travelogue—Here is a good single reel filler where you like a subject with music and no talking. If you haven't played "Here Comes the Circus" then do so. Book it on a Saturday as it will be a hit with kids from six to sixty.—W. L. Stratton, Challis Theatre, Challis, Idaho. Small town patronage.

ANOTHER RIDES THE BAND WAGON

From Warren L. Weber, manager of the Ellinwood theatre, Ellinwood, Kan., comes a word of approbation for the exhibitors' own department, and a request for additional blanks. The word accompanied a two-year HERALD subscription. Mr. Weber says:

"Permit me to congratulate you on reinstating 'What the Picture Did for Me'. This department is much more valuable than any reviewer's opinion and is the main reason I am sending you my subscription. I have been waiting patiently for some blanks. Kindly send out a bunch of them. I used to be a regular contributor and I want to get back on the band wagon. Kindest regards and wishes."

The blanks, of course, are already on Mr. Weber's desk.

MGM

FLIP'S LUNCH ROOM: Flip the Frog—Just another Flip. Running time, 8 minutes.—J. E. Tunstall, Nottawa Theatre, Blackstone, Va. Small town patronage.

GIRL GRIEF: Charlie Chase—Hardly up to Chase's standard. But very funny in spots and judge it better than average comedy.—Horn and Morgan, Star Theatre, Hay Springs, Neb. Small town patronage.

THE GOLF CHUMP: Edgar Kennedy—Fair. Golf players will like it better than others.—D. E. Fitton, Lyric Theatre, Harrison, Ark. Small town patronage.

HOT SHOT: Taxi Boys—Good comedy of the slapstick variety.—Robert K. Yancey, Paradise Theatre, Cotter, Ark. Railroad and general patronage.

MR. BRIDE. Charley Chase—Not up to his standard. Just fairly entertaining.—D. E. Fitton, Lyric Theatre, Harrison, Ark. Small town patronage.

NURSE MAID: Flip the Frog—Not much.—D. E. Fitton, Lyric Theatre, Harrison, Ark. Small town patronage.

NURSE MAID: Flip the Frog—Good.—Robert K. Yancey, Paradise Theatre, Cotter, Ark. Railroad and general patronage.

OLD SPANISH CUSTOM: Sport Champion—Good sport reel of bull fighting.—Robert K. Yancey, Paradise Theatre, Cotter, Ark. Railroad and general patronage.

OVER THE COUNTER: One of the most beautiful color shorts we ever played. Thought the photography was excellent. As a rule these colored shorts are quite blurred at times.—Horn and Morgan, Star Theatre, Hay Springs, Neb. Small town patronage.

OVER THE COUNTER: Musical Revue—Fine entertainment. A relief from two-reel comedies. Let's have more.—Robert K. Yancey, Paradise Theatre, Cotter, Ark. Railroad and general patronage.

PHONEY EXPRESS: Flip the Frog—Good cartoon. —Robert K. Yancey, Paradise Theatre, Cotter, Ark. Railroad and general patronage.

PIGSKIN: Sport Champion—Shows how football players are made. Instructing and interesting.—D. E. Fitton, Lyric Theatre, Harrison, Ark. Small town patronage.

PIGSKIN: Very fine and especially pleasing to any one who likes football. Very timely at this time of the year when colleges are having their spring football practice.—B. A. McConnell, Emerson Theatre, Hartford, Ark. General patronage.

ROMANTIC ARGENTINA: A very good travelogue, but my audience doesn't care for this type of shorts. However, we've got to get them off our check—so just pass them on to the dear public.—B. A. McConnell, Emerson Theatre, Hartford, Ark. General patronage.

SCRAM: Laurel and Hardy—A very good comedy. Lots of laughs. Terrible photography and bum recording. Some fellow didn't know his business.—Ned Pedigo, DeLuxe, Garber, Okla. General patronage.

TAXI BARON: Taxi Boys—This is only fair. Maybe a couple of laughs in the two reels. Running time, 18 minutes.—J. E. Tunstall, Nottawa Theatre, Blackstone, Va. Small town patronage.

Paramount

BETTY BOOP AND BIMBO: Betty Boop Cartoon —I run all of these cartoons and find them very good. Some are better than others, however.—W. L. Stratton, Challis Theatre, Challis, Idaho. Small town patronage.

COURTING TROULE: Charlie Murray—A few comedy situations, but just another too long drawn out affair of the same nothingness. Running time, 20 minutes.—G. A. Troyer, New Lyric Theatre, Rugby, N. D. Small town patronage.

EASY STREET: Charlie Chaplin—This was an old silent set to sound and music and got more laughs than a dozen of the new talkies. Action is what they want, not so many words. Running time, 17 minutes. —R. D. Carter, Fairfax Theatre, Kilmarnock, Va. Town and country patronage.

HAPPY HOBOS: Tom and Jerry cartoon—Up to their standard which is an addition to any program.— D. E. Fitton, Lyric Theatre, Harrison, Ark. Small town patronage.

PARAMOUNT ACTS: Some of these subjects are very good, while others are not so hot. When making bookings one should be careful as to the stars. Burns & Allen are good, Howard rather weak, Lopez very good.—W. L. Stratton, Challis Theatre, Challis, Idaho. Small town patronage.

SO THIS IS HARRIS: Phil Harris and band—Boys, this will save a real poor program. It's the type of short they want to see and they tell you so.—C. H. McCroskey, Allied Theatre, Dermott, Ark. Small town patronage.

TWO LIPS AND JULEPS: Masquer—Very clever burlesque comedy. A little too clever, in fact, because some of the crowd didn't get it at all.—Roy W. Adams, Mason Theatre, Mason, Mich. Small town patronage.

Warner Vitaphone

BROADWAY BREVITIES: Musical revues—Boys, here are the finest things you could possibly put on any program. Every one of them is a wow and will please every one better than anything else you might run. The Technicolor subjects especially are a treat. —W. L. Stratton, Challis Theatre, Challis, Idaho. Small town patronage.

HEY, POP: Fatty Arbuckle—Same old Fatty able to make 'em laugh yet in his comeback. Drew many old-timers to see him spread his stuff. The kids liked him, although a brand new one to them.— Ned Pedigo, DeLuxe Theatre, Garber, Okla. General patronage.

LOONEY TUNES: All have been good. Pleased the kids. One reel.—G. A. Hart, Roxy Theatre, Stratford, Tex. Small town patronage.

THE MEAL TICKET: Jack Pearl—This is an old re-issue that Vitaphone has pulled out of the junk somewhere, and my opinion is that it is right down rotten. The sound is bad, and Pearl is a lobster. As a usual thing you can bank on a Vitaphone short. But this one is a lemon, and should be pulled from the market before the star is killed.—S. H. Rich, Rich Theatre, Montpelier, Idaho. Small city patronage.

MELDOY MASTERS: Band acts—The finest one-reel short I have ever run. I have dated in these musicals as fast as they are released and my patrons eat them up. Every one good.—W. L. Stratton, Challis Theatre, Challis, Idaho. Small town patronage.

MELODY MASTERS: Good musical number. One reel—G. A. Hart, Roxy Theatre, Stratford, Tex. Small town patronage.

MERRY MELODIES: We have requests for more. One reel.—G. A. Hart, Roxy Theatre, Stratford, Tex. Small town patronage.

MUSIC TO MY EARS: Great entertainment. Most of my patrons stayed to see this short run the second time.—Gladys E. McArdle, Owl Theatre, Lebanon, Kan. Small town and country patronage.

PASSING THE BUCK: One of the best. As interesting as a feature. Running time, 18 minutes.— Gladys E. McArdle, Owl Theatre, Lebanon, Kan. Small town and country patronage.

PLEASURE ISLAND: Brevities—These color musical shorts are making a big hit with our people. Cannot have too many of these. Running time, 18 minutes.—Horn and Morgan, Star Theatre, Hay Springs, Neb. Small town patronage.

PLEASURE ISLAND: Brevities—This is the best color short we have run in many moons. Should please anywhere. Running time, 18 minutes.—J. E. Tunstall, Nottawa Theatre, Blackstone, Va. Small town patronage.

SHANTY WHERE SANTA CLAUS LIVES: Great for kids, and the grownups enjoyed it, too.—Gladys E. McArdle, Owl Theatre, Lebanon, Kan. Small town and country patronage.

SHERLOCK HOLMES: We tried to figure why they called this a comedy. Two reels.—G. A. Hart, Roxy Theatre, Stratford, Tex. Small town patronage.

MANAGERS' ROUND TABLE CLUB

An international association of showmen meeting weekly in MOTION PICTURE HERALD for mutual aid and progress

TALK RECOVERY!

By WALTER S. CALDWELL

Manager, Loew's Valentine Theatre, Toledo, Ohio

The Club's Guest Editor this week, Wally Caldwell, needs no introduction to the majority of members of the Round Table Club. As manager of Loew's Valentine Theatre, Toledo, Ohio, over a considerable period, he has been a most consistent contributor to this organization. His message radiates a note of good cheer and we too agree that "Recovery" should be TALKED. The door to this department remains open to all who wish to avail themselves of the opportunity to set forth their opinions. This week we add to the ever-increasing list of names: MICKEY GROSS, Sioux City, Ia.; M. G. KELLER, Oakland, Calif.; TOM OLSEN, Spokane, Wash.; BERNARD SEAMAN, Wilmington, Del.; DAVID "SKIP" WESHNER, New York City, and GABE S. YORKE, New York City.

Talk recovery!

Do it yourself; have your staff do it; have your theatre reflect it. Recovery will come!

This financial earthquake that jolted our industry and put some of our largest units down for the count of nine, is passing. Every day sees more rays of blessed sunshine seeping into the gloom of the past pessimistic period.

Pretty words? They can be made to come true!

Just as these good old United States are emerging from that "Debil Depresh" so will this gigantic industry of ours rear its shaggy head, give it a few shakes to scatter the grogginess still remaining into space, and rise once more to the high pinnacle it occupied.

But it cannot be done alone, unaided. Each of us, the tiniest cogs in the huge organization, can help. TALK RECOVERY!

Talk it with and to everyone with whom you come in contact. To the milkman (if you're up that early), to the man on the street car (if you've laid up your auto), to the boy on the corner from whom you buy your gazettes . . . it's mob psychology.

Talk it to your staff in the theatre; to your patrons . . . it will become an endless chain of optimism.

But you must believe in it YOURSELF.

That was a great gag about Prosperity being just around the corner. But F. D. R. turned those corners into straight lines and each is heading straight for R-E-C-O-V-E-R-Y!

With our country quite damp again, thanks to a far-sighted and God-gifted leader, we can BREW A NEW CLIENTELE.

I don't have to remind you that the greatest periods of national prosperity were those when people had money to spend. It's logical . . . the A-B-C of show business . . . not the I.O.U.

Hence, with breweries again functioning, and the fifty-four big allied industries connected with them making their wheels hum 24 hours a day, a heap of heretofore slacker money is starting to percolate.

And it's a portion of this money, the nickels, dimes and quarters that were either hoarded or went elsewhere, that we must attract back to our tills.

But can we do it by still preaching and practicing pessimism? You KNOW we can't!

TALK RECOVERY . . . talk it, sing it, whistle it, hum it!

Recovery is no further away than you want it.

The poets tell us to keep our heads in the clouds . . . common sense tells us to keep our feet on the ground . . . but a happy blending of these two physical, but mythical, factors cannot help but accomplish tangible results.

DICK KIRSCHBAUM'S LOBBY LAFFS!

After witnessing two good feature films, three acts of vaudeville, several shorts, etc., and winning a basket of food plentiful enough to feed a family of ten, the good lady can scarcely be blamed for demanding the missing can of milk. No, we don't blame her at all; in fact, we see no reason why the management didn't see that she and her groceries were taken home by taxi. . . .

JOE FELDMAN GOES AFTER PUBLICITY IN BIG WAY IN PHILLY

With Carroll's "Vanities" booked into the Earle Theatre, Philadelphia, Joseph Feldman, managing director of the house, decided there was too much at stake to take any chances and went after business in a big way. He arranged to have the entire company met at the railroad station by newspaper cameramen and then paraded them through the downtown section of the city in taxicabs which were appropriately bannered for the occasion. Cost of banners and cabs was entirely absorbed by the taxi concern in lieu of advertising.

Joseph Feldman

As soon as the company finished rehearsal at the theatre Feldman rushed the members around to the studio of the most popular radio broadcasting station in the city, where, in addition to hitting the air waves with a corking program on opening day, he got in an effective plug for the entire week.

While on the subject of radio, let us mention that Feldman has arranged a fine tie-up with a chain drug store concern and the broadcasting concern that is producing excellent results at the box office. A full half hour of choice time on the best station in the city is paid for by the drug concern, which also advertises the Earle's attractions in all store windows and in back of luncheon soda bars and distributes 50,000 heralds with six-inch space for a plug for theatre and radio. Distribution of special tickets is made through the medium of a Radio Program Club at the station to all writers of fan mail and allows members to participate in the theatre's weekly award of ten pairs of guest tickets. Names of those awarded the tickets are posted each week.

Joe Feldman is a newly elected member of this organization and why this live-wire showman wasn't one of the gang before is all Greek to us. At any rate he's with us now and we'll predict that this department has gained a Class A contributor of show-selling ideas.

NEWSPAPER AIDED HAIRDRESSERS STYLE SHOW SOUTTAR SOLD

Newspaper co-operation is a great thing for a showman and that given F. C. Souttar, manager of the Fox Lincoln Theatre in Belleville, Ill., by Parres of the "Advocate" was no exception to the successful rule, when a "Hairdresser's Style Show" was engineered.

The lead in the paper's review of the extravaganza told the whole story. It read: "Packed to the very doors, the Fox Lincoln Theatre last evening was the scene of one of the finest Style Shows ever presented locally."

It was a great show, and no small part of the campaign's success was due to a double truck co-operative ad in which every participating beauty parlor took space. A gag of gags, the stunt might be termed. One that you, too, can use to good advantage and at little or no cost to your theatre. Why not try it? You can use local girls as models, or the hairdressers will probably supply them.

HAROLD BARNES PUT OVER "LITTLE" FAIR THAT WAS KNOCKOUT

In connection with "State Fair," Harold D. Barnes, manager of the Palace Theatre, Burlington, Iowa, staged a "Little State Fair" in the lobby of his house that was not only the talk of the town at the time but instrumental in the promotion of five pages of cooperative advertising among local merchants.

The "Little State Fair" angle included a big parade of youngsters and their pets, floats, trucks and other vehicles entered by the merchants and an extensive exhibition of products in the theatre lobby in regulation State Fair style. All the trimmings, such as hot dogs, peanuts, popcorn, etc., and even a "Hog-calling Contest," of which we aren't any too familiar except that it must have been held to determine the best hog-caller in Burlington, were brought into play to provide the proper atmosphere.

Club members will certainly have to give full credit to Barnes for putting over a fine campaign, to say nothing of going out and promoting five pages of cooperative ads. Anyone who can sell that much space these days is in line for one of the mythical medals this department hands out from time to time. More about his work later.

JULIUS LAMM MADE A NOVEL DISPLAY AT VERY LOW COST

The accompanying illustration of a display for "Employees' Entrance" by Julius Lamm, manager of the Uptown Theatre, Cleveland, Ohio, practically speaks for itself. This false entrance was placed at the entrance of the theatre one week in advance and created a lot of comment.

As Lamm states, a display of this kind is both simple and economical to construct and, at the same time, most effective. While details are lacking it is reasonably safe to assume that the brick effect was painted on compoboard. A time clock can always be promoted, providing you haven't one handy yourself, and the making of an attractive cut-out and display of stills is entirely up to the man himself. Thanks to Julius for his contribution. More about him and his Uptown soon.

"Simple and economical," says Lamm.

Deal With Church

Clarence W. Laws, manager of the United Artists Theatre, Berkeley, Calif., is cooperating with church interests in his community. Each Tuesday noon, from 11:45 to 12:30, the house is opened for the "Noon Day Pause," when a minister speaks and there is a musical program by choir and organist. The plate is not passed.

LARRY CARKEY NOW IN GLENS FALLS; IS BUSY AS EVER

A Club S.O.S. recently broadcast in search of Larry Carkey, erstwhile consistent and valuable contributor to this department, produced the desired results and we are happy to announce that he is skippering the Rialto Theatre up in Glens Falls, N. Y., and still very much on the job of selling shows.

As a means of combating depressed business conditions and to dislodge people from bridge tables and other diversion not particularly profitable to theatres, Larry organized a Merchants' Club that is steaming ahead full speed. There are 70 merchants in the group and each one of them, starting Feb. 22nd, came in on a deal to have the theatre supply weekly lots of 100 tickets for the off-night. Although the tickets are sold to the merchants at a discount the night has become equal with Saturday or Sunday trade or about three times as much as on an average day. The deal was scheduled over a four-week period.

Thus, through Carkey's plan, an off-day became one of the best days in the week, to say nothing of building up a lot of good will among merchants, patrons and theatre. We might easily have guessed that he was in the midst of some good merchandising stunt when we listed him with the Club's Missing Persons Bureau. However, now that he's again on the active list all is Jake. Don't forget to run into Club headquarters when you're in town, Larry. Meanwhile, keep up the good work and let's hear more.

EXCELLENT RESULTS OBTAINED BY FRISE ON O'NEILL PICTURE

Following is a brief resume on the campaign made on "Strange Interlude" by William Frise, manager of the Rivoli Theatre, La Crosse, Wis.:

Advance work included distribution of 4,000 Broadside heralds; 300 special tack cards; special display of mounted stills and 20x40 of Shearer in red gown in best window of large store; planting of star identification gag in paper; preparation of special advance broadcast for radio station and broadcast of show from stage during engagement; tie-up with book store on book; lobby display of Shearer and Gable cutouts, and a Max Factor tie-up for display in beauty department of large store.

We believe the above is the first report the Club has received on campaigns waged by Frise and now that we have him on the active list we'll be looking for further news of what's going on at the Rivoli.

KEEP AN EYE ON LOCAL EVENTS!

At this time of the year many street and outdoor events are being planned by schools and local organizations, and live-wire showmen will arrange to "shoot" as many of these events as possible.

Most members are aware that they can take regulation standard film themseles and thus save the expense of a cameraman, especially if they happen to be located where it is difficult to obtain the services of a good man.

So watch out for events, such as Decoration Day parades, etc., and don't overlook the spectators. Get slow panorama shots of them; they'll surely want to see what they look like in a motion picture. All representative groups attending outdoor rallies should also be taken separately. Don't forget to order some titles.

Another good slant is to keep in close touch with the promoters of outdoor events in order to help them out in case of rain. It is possible to hold some of them in the theatre and a move of this sort breeds additional good will. Also, don't forget to banner your car with appropriate copy to let the crowds know when and where they can see the local shots.

LOUIE CHARNINSKY MANAGING THEATRE AT INDEPENDENCE, KAS.

The many friends of Louie Charninsky recently at the Wareham Theatre, Manhattan, Kas., will be interested to hear that this well known exploiter of the middle west is stepping along at his usual pace on his new assignment at the Booth, Independence, Kas.

For instance, take a look at the accompanying photo. The gadget is known as a Wasp auto, operates just like its grown-up brothers and can do 20 miles per hour when the foot is heavy. Louie used it on the streets of Manhattan to exploit "Strangers in Town" and it attracted plenty of attention. Soon it will be closely identified with Wareham advertising.

Other stunts recently used by Charninsky included a street bally of a donkey half-blanketed to exploit "Half Naked Truth"; a kiddies' morning show for 684 boys and girls in connection with "Little Orphan Annie," and parade after the show, and a number of other ballyhoos.

Although Louie was in Manhattan but a couple of months we hear he knows everyone in town, which is further testimonial to his good showmanship. We'll be telling you all more about his work at Independence in forthcoming issues.

LONDON SHOWMAN IS EXPLOITATION ARTIST AND ALWAYS ON GO!

Exploitation abroad has become as fevered and high-powered as in movie-conscious America, and that is nowhere better evidenced than in the case of the show-selling of Harry B. Harris of the Exchange Kinema in Lincoln, England.

Just a paragraph will have to suffice for Harry's doing, but you can bet the angles would capture a lot of space if we had it to spare, in view of that "Once in a Lifetime" campaign he put on by making up some excellent posters, in screaming colors, and tying up a local automobile agency and the picture; a window display was created in the car store and arranged by Harry; special booklets supplied by the "U" exchange were distributed; advance teaser ads crept through the newspapers; and the lobby and front of theatre were extremely well decorated. Keep that work up, Harry, it's great, and something more than a once in a lifetime thrill.

GIVE-AWAY PROVED GOOD BOX OFFICE FOR JOE DE ROSA

Give-away of an auto and a stage show proved a most profitable trade boosting stunt for J. De Rosa, manager of Loew's Paradise Theatre, Bronx, New York City.

Wally Allen, who handles publicity for de luxe Loew houses in the Metropolitan district, worked with De Rosa and the net result of the night was $1,000 above normal. It was arranged to have the girls in the stage show appear at one of the large stores in the neighborhood and this gag alone produced a five-column cost-free ad. The auto was displayed in the lobby for 12 days in advance, with give-away handled in the usual fashion.

WOODEN STANDARDS HELPED JOE HEWITT EXPLOIT KATE SMITH

As an advance teaser for the appearance of an auto rigged with loud speaker to advertise "Hello Everybody," Joe Hewitt, manager of the Lincoln Theatre, Robinson, Ill., placed 15 wooden standards in flagpole holes in sidewalk pavement in the business section, each topped with a circular card imitation of a "mike" and carrying title of picture.

Joe advises his Club that the standards only cost 45 cents each, exclusive of the painting and lettering, which he did himself.

DO IT NOW!

Showmen who contemplate changes or repairs in their theatre's ventilating equipment are reminded that now is the time to take care of such matters. Those who feel their apparatus is O.K. for the coming summer are also reminded that a test of the cooling plant is essential at this time so as to be certain that everything is in good condition and ready to function.

Particular attention should be given to the lubrication of the motors, bearings on fans, etc., as this is one of the major causes for expensive breakdowns. Regular inspections, even during the winter months, necessary to avoid dried up oil floats or grease cups.

Before starting any electric motor that has been idle for any length of time, the commutator should be thoroughly cleaned; clean off the brushes and check over all connections. Fuses and switches, too, must be gone over. You will find that all of the above suggestions can be handled on a single morning in company with your projectionist, assistant and janitor. To delay is to risk finding yourself without ventilating or cooling when you need it a little later on.

"BEER WITH ME" SAID BINSTOCK, BUT AMBER BREW WAS MISSING

Lobby displays are more or less duck soup to Paul Binstock, manager of the Republic Theatre, Brooklyn, New York, and one would think that since Paul has been turning them out year after year he would more than hit his peak.

But that isn't so. He seems to figure out new angles with each one he presents, and so we offer in evidence his work on "What, No Beer?" The photo will give you an idea of how the display looked. It was complete in every detail, even to the angle of the beer keg, and headlines from the daily newspapers announcing that the house had voted beer.

However, Paul pulled a funny slant on this that we think will give you a chuckle, as it did a lot of his patrons. He advertised that free beer and pretzels would be given away in the lobby during the showing of the picture but, unfortunately, through the first day's rush of the amber brew around Greater New York, Binstock was unable to go through with his plan.

"Beer with us, friends," invited Paul Binstock.

There he was, with plenty of patrons and plenty of pretzels—but no beer. The patrons would file up to the "speakeasy," get their pretzels, then look around and say: "What, No Beer?"

Binstock answered by pointing to the display.

Maybe Columbus, Not B'way!

During the recent "Bank Holiday" J. Real Neth's Grand Theatre, Columbus, Ohio, inserted a newspaper ad which carried an I. O. U. coupon and head reading, "See the Show. . . . We'll Let You Owe." It was further stated that payment be made on or before a certain date and space was reserved for name and address. This would be a great gag to try out along our own New York City's main stem. Oh, yeah!

Showman's Calendar

MAY

19th	Mexican-U. S. Peace—1849
20th	Mecklenberg Declaration of Independence (North Car.)
21st	Lindbergh's Non-Stop Flight, New York to Paris—1927 Robert Montgomery's Birthday
22nd	Martha Washington Died—1802 Richard Wagner's Birthday
23rd to 30th	Buddy Poppy Week (Sponsored by Veterans of Foreign Wars) South Carolina Admitted to Union—1788 Douglas Fairbank's Birthday Dorothy Lee's Birthday Captain Kidd (Famous Pirate) Executed in London—1701
24th	First Telegraph Message Sent—1844 Brooklyn Bridge Opened—1883 Empire Day (Canada; Bermuda)
25th	Ascension Day
26th	Paul Lucas' Birthday Norma Talmadge's Birthday Walter Huston's Birthday
27th	Nathanial Green Born—1742
28th to June 4th	Poetry Week (Sponsored by General Federation of Women's Clubs) Yanks' First Victory at Cantigny—1918
29th	Wisconsin Admitted to Union—1848
30th	Memorial Day
31st	Walt Whitman Born—1819 Pentacost (Jewish Holiday)

"TIN CAN PARADE" A BEVEL STUNT AND ONE HELPING HOUSE

There have been "Sweethearts on Parade"; "Soviets on Parade" and many other military processional forms, but now L. W. Bevel is glorifying the tin can by placing that humble goat fruit on parade.

He calls it "Tin Can Parade," and as the originator of the idea passes it along to Club members and associate showmen in the event they, too, would care to use it.

Having secured his tin cans, Bevel advertises that a valuable premium will be found in each container. Patrons are told that when they enter the theatre they will be allowed to pick from a huge rack constructed in the lobby, a tin can, each containing a useful article." Some of these articles are cash, others tickets to the theatre, then nails, clothes pins, stockings, etc.

The stunt proved effective for Bevel, and if you think you have a spot for "Tin Can Parade," then let it break loose. Incidentally, Bevel used a street ballyhoo of beaverboard upon which cans were mounted and copy placed in center of the card. The board was fastened to the back of a car touring the town.

FINN'S TOM THUMB WEDDING SCORED A BIG HIT WITH FANS

Most all Round Tablers are familiar with the staging of a Tom Thumb Wedding and will agree, we believe, that an affair of this sort provides a pleasing break in theatre routine when properly timed. Dan Finn, Warner chieftain in the New Haven district, likes them so well that he's been staging the stunt all along the line; and we also have the word of Johnny Scanlon, manager of the Warner Theatre at Torrington, Conn., that his show caught on like a house afire with his patrons.

You can see from the photo that Scanlon's gang in the wedding group ranged from about three to five years in age. The "bride and groom" were, of course, married on stage in regular fashion and the cast was recruited from talent in a local dancing school.

Johnny advises the Club that he's been engaged in the promotion of a new stunt called a Magic Show. Briefly, he has a tie-up with the local dealer in a popular priced auto (in this case the "Magic Chevvie") whereby it costs the dealer about $25 to engage the services of Magician Schwartz to stage his act of pulling rabbits, pigeons, etc., from within one of the new cars, proving beyond a doubt the magic qualities of the auto. Catch on? In return the auto dealer gets a week on the screen, one car displayed on stage during act, a lobby card, and program and newspaper mention. The kiddies get the rabbits and plenty of candy to boot and the theatre a cost-free stunt.

Here's a shot of the ensemble

As usual, Johnny Scanlon's activities are interesting. We've got just one kick to make, however, and that is Johnny's inclination to go into hiding at intervals. Now that he's out in the open again, we'll hope to let his brother showmen know more about his work.

DANNENBERG USED GIRL ON STREET TO SELL "FRISCO JENNY"

When exploiting "Frisco Jenny" out at the Lake Theatre, Cleveland, Sid Dannenberg, head of the Warner theatre force in that city, had a girl dress up in a costume worn during "Jenny's" time and then sent her out "on the street" and into department stores. She carried a large supply of "Frisco Jenny" calling cards, with address and telephone number of the Lake Theatre. These she handed out on the streets and then made a complete tour of every store, stopping at various counters to ask for some article at the counter. She then gave the girl one of her cards and requested a 'phone call when the article came in.

• personalities

CLARENCE PETERSON
former manager of the Orpheum Theatre, Sioux City, Iowa, has been placed in charge of the Princess, same city.

▽

HARRY LANKHORST
has been appointed manager of the Trivoli Theatre, Hawarden, Iowa.

▽

JERRY SHEA
pioneer showman, has reopened Shea's Theatre, Toronto, Canada, on a dual feature policy.

▽

OTTO LOCHBAUM
will reopen the President Theatre, San Francisco, Calif., the latter part of April with a policy of two features and five acts of vaudeville at a 25-cent top nights.

▽

J. C. STROCK manager of the Granada Theatre, Minneapolis, Minn., was recently elected president of the Uptown Business Men's Association.

▽

HARRY SMITH
former manager of Warner's Capitol Theatre, Springfield, Mass., is now holding down the job of assistant to Nathan Goldstein.

▽

W. E. SHIPLEY
manager of the Gem and Empire Theatres, Salt Lake City, and his assistant, P. C. Patterson, were in Pasadena, Calif., during the recent earthquake.

▽

ROLLIN STONEBROOK
manager of the Alabama Theatre, Birmingham, Ala., is back in harness again after ten days' illness. George Nealans, assistant, pinch-hit during Stonebrook's absence.

▽

NATE SANDLER
former branch manager for Pathe at Des Moines, has reopened the Valley Theatre, Missouri Valley, Iowa, a house recently closed by Publix.

▽

T. J. SALMON
who formerly operated a theatre at Decirah, Iowa, has reopened the Ponca, Ponca, Neb.

▽

L. M. GARMAN
veteran Orpheum Circuit manager and recently with Fox in K. C., is now at the helm of the Iowa Theatre, a 2,000-seater at Cedar Rapids.

▽

JACK LEVIN
has reopened the Auditorium Theatre, Baltimore, with a policy of vaudeville and short films at 25 cents top evenings.

▽

WARREN BARTLETT
is the new manager of the RKO Orpheum Theatre, Brooklyn, N. Y., replacing Fred Cuneo, resigned.

▽

GEORGE DELIS
manager of the Palace Theatre, Canton, Ohio, has announced that his house will change from straight pictures to vaudeville or musical shows after Lent.

▽

WILLIAM J. TUBBERT
will have charge of the Strand Theatre, Syracuse, N. Y., when that house reopens, as well as supervision of Keith's Henry Earle continues as assistant. Leonard Sanq, former manager of the Strand, has been transferred to Buffalo to look after RKO real estate.

▽

W. C. SEARS
formerly of Nyack, N. Y., has been appointed manager of the Orpheum, first run house at Davenport, Iowa. I. H. Grossman has been named assistant.

ALVIN HABLES
will take over management of the Reel Joy Theatre, King City, Calif., succeeding Leslie Hables.

▽

VERNE A. WOOD
has been named manager of the Minor Theatre, Arcata, Calif., reopened after being dark for some time.

▽

C. A. MESHKLE
has reopened the Lyric Theatre at Belfield, N. D.

▽

FORREST WHITE
has acquired the Augus Theatre, San Augustine, Tex., from W. M. Wade. White has worked hard and put the house on a profitable basis. Good pictures and advertising has done it, he says.

▽

A. R. PENA
is the new skipper of the Alamo Theatre at Alamo, Tex.

▽

R. H. OUELETTE
has been appointed manager of the Dixie Theatre at Brookville, Miss.

▽

CHELLE JANIS
one of our good members, has been appointed manager, or should we say manageress, of the Ziegfeld Theatre, New York City, recently taken over by Loew's. Good luck to you Miss Janis.

▽

BERNARD RADFORD
formerly manager at the Towers in Louisville, Ky., has been appointed manager of the Princess in Henderson. This is the newly remodeled Grand Opera House which burned down a month ago.

▽

GEORGE ALLISON
former manager of the Ritz Theatre in Jersey City, has been transferred and is now holding the reins of the Roosevelt in Union City.

▽

ROBERT G. WOOD
for the past three years manager of Universal's Rivoli and Granada Theatres, Indianapolis, has taken over management of the Paramount, Hammond, Ind., now being operated by its owners.

▽

ARNOLD STOLTZ
formerly production manager of the Earle Theatre in Philly, has sold a nautical musical comedy which will be produced in the fall. The title is "Knots To You!"

▽

EDWARD J. BURKE
formerly assistant manager of the Fox Theatre, Brooklyn, N. Y., has been appointed manager of the Old Roxy Theatre, New York City.

AD MAT SERVICE

COMPLETE NEWSPAPER CAMPAIGNS (10 Ads) on all nationally released feature pictures sent from one source.

Also

A MONTHLY GENERAL SERVICE of seasonal and attention-getting borders, ads, miscellaneous slugs, etc.

Centralized Service insures Economy.. and Efficiency. . . New low service charge to meet reduced budgets.

Write to

UNITED THEATRE ADVERTISERS, Inc.
330 WEST 42nd STREET, NEW YORK CITY

MAC KRIM
has just taken over the Granada Theatre in Detroit and, according to him, it's one of the most beautiful 2,000-seat houses in the neighborhood. Good luck to you, Mac.

▽

DAVID BECKER
formerly of Bloomfield, N. J., has just joined WALLY NEITHOLD and is managing his Palace Theatre in Morristown, N. J. Both of these boys are old members and we hope to hear more from this team.

▽

NAT HOLT
RKO divisional director at Cincinnati, was host to managers and executives of his division at a pep meeting. The meeting was essentially a get-together affair and when Nat stages one of them, you can depend on its success.

▽

CRESS SMITH
formerly managing the Harris Theatre in Donora, Pa., is now at the helm of the Ritz in Pittsburgh.

▽

R. F. WYNNE and LOUIS F. BACH have leased the property at 728 N. Highland Avenue, Atlanta, Ga., and will reconstruct it into a motion picture house. They plan to spend $10,000 on altering the building.

▽

L. H. KILLINGSWORTH
has reopened the Liberty Theatre at St. Helena, Cal. This theatre operator has long been associated with amusement enterprises in the North Bay district.

▽

F. W. SIEGEL
has taken a lease on the National Theatre, Stockton, Cal., from the Midland Theatres Corp., Trustee.

▽

C. G. VARN and A. T. HAYES have opened their new theatre, the Bay, at Panama City, Fla. House is meeting with marked success since its opening.

▽

J. M. COOKE
has opened the new Wayne Theatre at Mount Olive, N. C.

▽

HARRY BOTT
is at the helm of the St. Cloud Theatre, Kissimmee, Fla. New projectors and RCA sound system have been installed

▽

ARTHUR J. MENARD
formerly assistant manager of the Allyn, Hartford, Conn., has been appointed manager of the Rialto at New Britain, Conn.

▽

WALTER MARION
has acquired the Holyoke Theatre at Holyoke, Mass., from Dwight Gilmore.

▽

JAMES WIEST
has been named manager of the Regal Theatre at Hartford, Conn. This makes his fourth year with Warner Bros.

▽

BOB BROWNING
has reopened the Criterion Theatre, Enid, Okla., again with first-run pictures at 25-cent top. House is doing fair business with the new policy.

▽

W. G. HULL
has been appointed manager of the Fallon Theatre in Fallon, Neb., succeeding C. L. EVANS.

▽

DAVID GLAZER
is the new manager of the Roxie Theatre, Oakland, Cal., reopened under the direction of CHARLES CARROLL and JOSEPH BLUMENFELD, operators of the American Theatre.

SIX MONTHS CLUB INDEX!

FROM NOV. 5TH TO APRIL 29TH

The following articles appeared in one or two pages as feature stories and can be used as complete manuals for the subjects they cover. Reprints of some are available upon request of accredited members.

	Date	Page
Various Forms of Advertising	Nov. 5th	61
Added Selling Slants—Garey Carr	Nov. 19th	32
Defeat December Slump—Jack Jackson	Nov. 26th	52
About Printers' Ink—Dan Krendel	Dec. 10th	69
Avoiding Liability—M. M. Berger	Dec. 10th	76
Across the City Desk	Dec. 17th	57
The Theatre Front—Irving Sinclair	Dec. 17th	60
Start New Year Right—Hugh Borland	Dec. 24th	49
Do People Read Your Ads?—E. S. C. Coppock	Dec. 31st	66
Study Sales Angles—H. C. Browne	Jan. 7th	51
Small Town Theatre Operation—Mr. & Mrs. Tom Edwards	Jan. 7th	50
Radio Tieups	Jan. 21st	53
Chamber of Commerce Activity—Jack Jackson	Jan. 28th	53
Theatre Economies	Feb. 4th	65
Ad Make-Up—Joe Feldman and Ken Long	Feb. 11th	51
Ammunition for Lenten Slump	Feb. 18th	51
Manager's File	Mar. 4th	71
Easter Egg Hunt	Mar. 25th	43
No Cost Style Shows	Apr. 8th	43
Parking Tieup Ideas	Apr. 22nd	59
Showman's Bag of Tricks—Bunny Bryan	Apr. 29th	43

Item	Issue	Page
Admission Reductions	Nov. 12th	56
Aeroplane Tie-up	Dec. 24th	53
Anniversaries	Nov. 5th	62
	Dec. 3rd	46
	10th	71
	17th	62
	31st	71
	Jan. 21st	51
Atmospheric Fronts	Nov. 12th	64
	Jan. 21st	57
	Feb. 4th	62
	Feb. 25th	75
	Mar. 18th	46
Auditions	Jan. 28th	50
Baby Contests	Nov. 19th	51
Banners	Nov. 12th	57
Benefits	Dec. 31st	60
	Jan. 7th	49
	7th	52
	14th	51
	14th	52
	21st	57
	28th	51
	Feb. 4th	56
Birthday Clubs	Jan. 14th	50
	14th	60
Buy American Stunt	Mar. 4th	66
	18th	46
Calendars	Nov. 19th	50
Christmas Stunts	Dec. 17th	58
	31st	68
	Jan. 28th	50
College Tieups	Dec. 31st	62
Contests	Dec. 17th	54
	Jan. 7th	52
Cooperative Ads	Nov. 12th	58
	Dec. 17th	62
	17th	63
	24th	47
	31st	77
	Jan. 14th	53
	14th	60
	28th	56
	Feb. 4th	63
	11th	53
Displays	Nov. 12th	58
	12th	59
	19th	56
	Dec. 10th	64
	24th	44
	24th	47
	31st	76
	Jan. 7th	52
	14th	50
	14th	53
	14th	57
	21st	52
	21st	58
	28th	50
	28th	52
	28th	58
	Feb. 4th	67
	11th	48
	11th	49
	25th	68
	Mar. 11th	40
	11th	43
	11th	44
	18th	48
	Apr. 1st	39
	15th	53
Easter Gags	Apr. 8th	42
Election Stunts	Dec. 17th	63
	Feb. 25th	77
Exchange Mats	Mar. 4th	68
	11th	42
Fashion Show	Feb. 25th	75
	Apr. 8th	43
Feature Campaigns	Nov. 5th	54
	5th	55
	5th	63
	5th	65
	12th	55
	12th	58
	12th	60
	12th	62
	12th	64
	19th	48
	26th	48
	Dec. 3rd	50
	3rd	54
	10th	64
	10th	66
	10th	68
	17th	55
	17th	57
	17th	59
	24th	46
	31st	60
	31st	64
	31st	68
	31st	70
	Jan. 7th	49
	7th	50
	7th	57
	14th	52
	14th	58
	21st	51
	21st	58
	28th	54
	28th	57
	Feb. 4th	63
	11th	54
Feature Camp. (Cont'd)	Feb. 11th	56
	25th	76
	25th	78
	Mar. 4th	66
	4th	70
	11th	44
	11th	45
	18th	50
	25th	46
	Apr. 1st	38
	1st	40
	8th	46
	15th	52
	22nd	58
	22nd	60
	22nd	61
	29th	44
Fire Dept. Tie-Up	Dec. 3rd	53
	31st	60
Football Gags	Nov. 5th	64
	19th	48
	Jan. 1st	52
Fronts	Jan. 7th	48
	14th	51
	14th	56
	14th	60
	28th	51
	Feb. 11th	53
	18th	50
	Mar. 18th	50
	Apr. 22nd	61
	Nov. 5th	56
	5th	65
	Dec. 10th	64
	10th	71
	17th	56
	17th	62
	24th	52
	31st	71
	31st	77
Giveaways	Nov. 19th	55
	Dec. 3rd	45
	Feb. 25th	73
Heralds	Dec. 3rd	48
	Jan. 21st	48
	Apr. 15th	55
House Organs	Mar. 18th	47
Institutional Plugs	Dec. 17th	59
Jig Saw Puzzle Gags	Mar. 18th	47
	Apr. 22nd	60
Jig Saw Gags (Cont'd)	Apr. 29th	42
Kiddie Biz	Nov. 12th	64
	Dec. 10th	70
	31st	64
	Jan. 21st	48
	Feb. 4th	56
	11th	50
	11th	55
	Apr. 15th	55
Lobbies	Nov. 19th	54
	26th	46
	Dec. 3rd	44
	3rd	52
	10th	70
	31st	70
	31st	71
	Feb. 25th	72
	25th	77
	Apr. 1st	41
Merchant Tie-Ups	Nov. 5th	60
	5th	62
	12th	55
	12th	57
	19th	56
	Dec. 17th	54
	17th	59
	24th	53
	Jan. 7th	50
	21st	57
	Feb. 18th	48
	18th	50
	Mar. 11th	43
	11th	45
	Apr. 1st	41
	8th	42
	29th	42
	29th	44
Newspaper Ads	Nov. 12th	65
	19th	50
	Dec. 3rd	48
	3rd	49
	3rd	52
	3rd	54
	10th	65
	17th	64
	31st	78
	Jan. 14th	53
	14th	54
	14th	55
	21st	55
Newspaper Ads (Cont'd)	Jan. 28th	57
	Feb. 25th	77
	Apr. 1st	40
Newspaper Tieups	Nov. 26th	50
	Jan. 7th	54
	7th	57
	21st	57
	28th	52
	Feb. 25th	73
	25th	74
Novelty Gags	Nov. 19th	46
	19th	47
	19th	55
	Dec. 3rd	49
	10th	65
	10th	67
	17th	58
	24th	46
	24th	48
	Jan. 7th	56
	14th	57
	14th	58
	14th	60
	28th	50
	Feb. 4th	62
	11th	48
	11th	50
	Mar. 18th	46
	18th	47
	25th	42
	Apr. 1st	39
	15th	50
Openings	Jan. 7th	56
	14th	52
Political Tieup	Nov. 12th	54
	12th	59
Post Office Tieup	Dec. 3rd	44
Poster Work	Nov. 5th	63
	26th	44
	26th	57
	Dec. 10th	67
	10th	72
	17th	60
	24th	52
	31st	71
	Feb. 4th	62
	11th	54
	25th	77
	Mar. 18th	50
	Apr. 15th	55
Premieres	Dec. 24th	48
	Feb. 18th	49
	Mar. 11th	46
	18th	48
Programs	Feb. 11th	55
	Apr. 15th	53
Radio Broadcasts	Nov. 5th	64
Revues	Nov. 5th	52
	Mar. 25th	44
Robot Man	Jan. 28th	52
School Tieups	Jan. 7th	50
Special Nites	Nov. 5th	60
	Dec. 3rd	45
	Jan. 14th	57
	21st	50
	Feb. 4th	58
	11th	55
	18th	50
Special Weeks	Nov. 5th	54
	Jan. 14th	56
	21st	48
	Apr. 15th	50
Stage Weddings	Dec. 31st	74
Street Ballys	Nov. 5th	56
	5th	57
	12th	60
	19th	46
	19th	52
	19th	56
	26th	48
	Dec. 3rd	52
	10th	69
	17th	63
	24th	50
	31st	62
	31st	74
	Jan. 7th	54
	14th	51
	14th	54
	21st	50
	Feb. 18th	33
	18th	54
	Mar. 4th	70
	11th	40
	25th	42
	25th	46
	Apr. 1st	41
	15th	55
	22nd	60
Thanksgiving Gags	Nov. 19th	55
Thrift Book Gag	Nov. 19th	52
	Jan. 7th	48
Tin Can Gag	Nov. 5th	59
Trade Review Gag	Dec. 17th	54
Window Displays	Nov. 26th	46
	Dec. 3rd	45
	10th	65
	24th	52
	Feb. 18th	50
	Mar. 4th	67
	18th	47
	25th	46

Please Take Note!

Beginning May 20 the SHOWMAN'S CALENDAR, which has been appearing piecemeal for the month in each issue, will make its appearance in complete form for one month in advance. Thereafter it will continue to appear approximately the middle of each month in the same form. It is also planned to publish the Club Monthly Index in the same issue and thus combine these two ready references in a single copy.

THE RELEASE CHART

Productions are listed according to the names of distributors in order that the exhibitor may have a short-cut towards such information as he may need, as well as information on pictures that are coming. Features which are finshed or are in work, but to which release dates have not been assigned, are listed in "Coming Attractions." Running times are those supplied by the distributors. Where they vary, the change is probably due to local censorship deletions. Dates are 1932, unless otherwise specified.

ALLIED PICTURES

Features

Title	Star	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
Cowboy Counsellor	Hoot Gibson-Sheila Manners	Oct. 15	63	Oct. 8
Dude Bandit, The	Hoot Gibson-Gloria Shea	May 1,'33	67
Eleventh Commandment	Marian Marsh-Theo. Von Eltz	Mar. 15,'33	64	Mar. 18,'33
Intruder, The	Monte Blue-Lila Lee	Dec. 26	69	Jan. 14,'33
Iron Master, The	Lila Lee-Reginald Denny	Nov. 1	69	Dec. 10
Officer 13	Monte Blue-Lila Lee	Nov. 26	67	Dec. 3
Parisian Romance, A	Lew Cody-Marian Shilling	Oct. 1	77	Sept. 17
Shriek in the Night, A	Ginger Rogers-Lyle Talbot	Apr. 15,'33	70	Mar. 25,'33

Coming Feature Attractions

Anna Karenina
Beyond the Law
Boots of Destiny — Hoot Gibson
Cheaters
Davy Jones' Locker
Fighting Parson, The — Hoot Gibson-Marceline Day
Midnight Alarm
Nesters, The — Monte Blue
Open for Inspection
Pullman Car
Red Kisses
Scarlet Virgin, The Silk Trimmed
Slightly Used
Three Castles
Valley of Adventure, The — Monte Blue
Without Children

CHESTERFIELD

Features

Title	Star	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
Forgotten	June Clyde-Lee Kohlmar	Feb. 15,'33	65
Love Is Like That	Rochelle Hudson-John Warburton	Mar. 15,'33	65
Secrets of Wu Sin	Lois Wilson-Grant Withers	Dec. 15	65
Slightly Married	Evalyn Knapp-Walter Byron	Oct. 15	65	Dec. 3
Strange People	Hale Hamilton-Gloria Shea-John Darrow	Jan. 15,'33	65
Women Won't Tell	Sarah Padden-Gloria Shea	Nov. 15	67

COLUMBIA

Features

Title	Star	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
Air Hostess	Evalyn Knapp-James Murray-Thelma Todd	Jan. 15,'33	67	Jan. 28,'33
As the Devil Commands	Alan Dinehart-Neil Hamilton-Mae Clarke	Dec. 24
Below the Sea	Ralph Bellamy-Fay Wray	Apr. 25,'33
Bitter Tea of General Yen	B. Stanwyck-Nils Asther	Jan. 6,'33	89	Nov. 26
California Trail, The	Buck Jones-Helen Mack	Mar. 24,'33
Child of Manhattan	John Boles-Nancy Carroll	Feb. 4,'33	71	Jan. 21,'33
Circus Queen Murder, The	Adolphe Menjou-Greta Nissen-Donald Cook	Apr. 10,'33
Deception	Leo Carrillo-Barbara Weeks-Nat Pendleton	Nov. 4	67	Jan. 14,'33
End of the Trail, The	Tim McCoy-Luana Walters	Dec. 19	59½
Fighting for Justice	Tim McCoy-Joyce Compton	Dec. 28	60½
Forbidden Trail	Buck Jones-Barbara Weeks	Nov. 18	71
Man Against Woman	Jack Holt-Lillian Miles	Nov. 15	68	Dec. 10
Man of Action	Tim McCoy-Caryl Lincoln	Jan. 20,'33	57
Mussolini Speaks		Mar. 10,'33	76	Mar. 18,'33
Night of Terror	Bela Lugosi-Sally Blane	Apr. 24,'33
No More Orchids	Carole Lombard-Lyle Talbot
Obey the Law	Leo Carrillo-Lois Wilson-Dickie Moore	Jan. 20,'33	69	Mar. 18,'33
Parole Girl	Mae Clarke-Ralph Bellamy	Mar. 4,'33	67	Apr. 15,'33
Silent Man	Tim McCoy-Florence Britton	Mar. 3,'33	68
So This Is Africa	Bert Wheeler-Robt. Woolsey-Raquel Torres	Feb. 24,'33	70	Jan. 28,'33
Soldiers of the Storm	Regis Toomey-Anita Page	Apr. 4,'33
Speed Demon	Wm. Collier, Jr.-Joan Marsh	Nov. 5	65	Nov. 26
State Trooper	Regis Toomey-Evalyn Knapp	Feb. 10,'33	68	Apr. 1,'33
Sundown Rider, The	Buck Jones-Barbara Weeks	Dec. 30	69
Unknown Valley	Buck Jones-Cecilia Parker	May 5,'33
Treason	Buck Jones-Shirley Grey	Feb. 10,'33	61½
Virtue	Carole Lombard-Pat O'Brien	Oct. 25	69	Nov. 5
When Strangers Marry	Jack Holt-Lillian Bond	Mar. 20,'33	68
Whirlwind, The	Tim McCoy-Alice Dahl	Apr. 14,'33
Woman I Stole, The	Jack Holt-Raquel Torres-Fay Wray	May 1,'33

Coming Feature Attractions

Ann Carver's Profession — Fay Wray-Gene Raymond
Biddy — Richard Cromwell
Cocktail Hour — Bebe Daniels-Sidney Blackmer-Randolph Scott
Fighting Code, The — Buck Jones-Diane Sinclair
Fighting Ranger, The — Buck Jones-Dorothy Revier
Full Speed Ahead — Chic Sale-Diane Sinclair
Kaleidoscope in K
King of the Wild Horses — Wm. Janney-Dorothy Appleby
Madame La Guimp — Warren William-Guy Kibbee
Man's Castle
Open Road, The — Buck Jones-Cecilia Parker
Party's Over, The
Rusty Rides Alone — Tim McCoy-Barbara Weeks
Thrill Hunter, The — Buck Jones-Dorothy Revier
Twentieth Century
Wrecker, The — Jack Holt

EQUITABLE PICTURES
[Distributed through Majestic]

Features

Title	Star	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
Cheating Blondes	Thelma Todd-Rolfe Haroldе	Apr. 1,'33	66
Gigolettes of Paris	Madge Bellamy-Gilbert Roland	Mar. 15,'33	65
What Price Decency?	Dorothy Burgess-Alan Hale-Walter Byron	Mar. 1,'33	60	Mar. 11,'33

FIRST DIVISION

Features

Title	Star	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
Big Drive, The		Jan. 19,'33	91	Jan. 28,'33
Condemned to Death	Arthur Wontner	Oct. 10	78½	July 23
Goona Goona		Nov. 28	66	Aug. 27
Ringer, The	Franklyn Dyall	Oct. 30	60	June 11

FIRST NATIONAL

Features

Title	Star	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
Blondie Johnson	Joan Blondell-Chester Morris	Feb. 25,'33	69	Feb. 4,'33
Central Airport	Richard Barthelmess	Apr. 15,'33	75	Apr. 1,'33
Central Park	Joan Blondell	Dec. 10	55	Nov. 19
Elmer the Great	Joe E. Brown	Apr. 22,'33	74	Apr. 1,'33
Employees Entrance	W. William-Loretta Young	Feb. 11,'33	75	Dec. 24
Frisco Jenny	Ruth Chatterton	Jan. 14,'33	76	Dec. 17
Grand Slam	Paul Lukas-Loretta Young	Mar. 18,'33	65	Jan. 14,'33
Match King, The	Warren William-Lili Damita	Dec. 31	79	Dec. 17
Mind Reader, The	Warren William	Apr. 1,'33	68	Feb. 25,'33
Silver Dollar	Edward G. Robinson	Dec. 24	78	Nov. 5
They Call It Sin	Loretta Young-Geo. Brent	Nov. 5	74	Sept. 3
20,000 Years in Sing Sing	Bette Davis-Spencer Tracy	Feb. 1,'33	81	Nov. 5
You Said a Mouthful	Joe E. Brown	Nov. 26	72	Nov. 19

Coming Feature Attractions

Breadline — Richard Barthelmess-Loretta Young
Captured! — Leslie Howard-Doug. Fairbanks, Jr.-Paul Lukas
Goodbye Again — W. William-Joan Blondell
Lilly Turner — Ruth Chatterton-Geo. Brent
Little Giant, The — Edward G. Robinson
She Had to Say Yes — Loretta Young-Lyle Talbot

Breadline	Richard Barthelmess-Loretta Young	June 17,'33
Captured!	Leslie Howard-Doug. Fairbanks, Jr.-Paul Lukas
Goodbye Again	W. William-Joan Blondell
Lilly Turner	Ruth Chatterton-Geo. Brent	May 13,'33	64	Apr. 29,'33
Little Giant, The	Edward G. Robinson	May 20,'33	74	Apr. 15,'33
She Had to Say Yes	Loretta Young-Lyle Talbot

FOX FILMS

Features

Title	Star	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
After the Ball	Esther Ralston-Basil Rathbone	Mar. 17,'33	69	Mar. 25,'33
Bondage	Dorothy Jordan-Alex. Kirkland	Mar. 31,'33	65	Apr. 15,'33
Broadway Bad	Joan Blondell-Ginger Rogers-Ricardo Cortez	Feb. 24,'33	59	Mar. 11,'33
Call Her Savage	Bow-Owsley-Todd-Roland	Nov. 27	88	Dec. 3
Cavalcade	Clive Brook-Diana Wynyard	Apr. 15,'33	110	Jan. 14,'33
Dangerously Yours	Miriam Jordan-Warner Baxter	Feb. 3,'33	73	Feb. 4,'33
Face in the Sky	Spencer Tracy-Marian Nixon-Stuart Erwin	Jan. 22,'33	77	Feb. 4,'33
Golden West, The	Geo. O'Brien-Janet Chandler-Marion Burns	Oct. 30	74	Oct. 15
Handle with Care	James Dunn-Boots Mallory	Dec. 25	75	Dec. 24
Hello, Sister	James Dunn-Boots Mallory	Apr. 14,'33
Hot Pepper	Victor McLaglen-Edmund Lowe-Lupe Velez-El Brendel	Jan. 22,'33	76	Jan. 28,'33
Humanity	Boots Mallory-A. Kirkland	Mar. 3,'33	70	Apr. 29,'33
Infernal Machine	Genevieve Tobin-Chester Morris	Feb. 10,'33	65	Apr. 15,'33
Me and My Gal	Joan Bennett-Spencer Tracy	Dec. 4	78	Dec. 17
Pleasure Cruise	Genevieve Tobin-Roland Young	Mar. 24,'33	72	Apr. 1,'33
Rackety Rax	Victor McLaglen-Greta Nissen-Nell O'Day	Oct. 23	75	Oct. 29
Robbers Roost	George O'Brien-Maureen O'Sullivan	Jan. 1,'33	64	Apr. 1,'33
Sailor's Luck	James Dunn-Sally Eilers	Mar. 10,'33	78	Mar. 25,'33
Second Hand Wife	Sally Eilers-Ralph Bellamy	Jan. 1,'33	64	Jan. 21,'33
Sherlock Holmes	Clive Brook-Miriam Jordan	Nov. 6	69	Nov. 26
Smoke Lightning	George O'Brien-Nell O'Day	Feb. 17,'33
State Fair	Janet Gaynor-Will Rogers-Lew Ayres-Sally Eilers-Norman Foster-Frank Craven	Feb. 10,'33	100	Feb. 4,'33
Tess of the Storm Country	Janet Gaynor-Chas. Farrell	Nov. 20	75	Nov. 26
Too Busy to Work	Will Rogers-Marian Nixon	Nov. 13	70	Nov. 12
Trick for Trick	Ralph Morgan-Victor Jory	Apr. 21,'33
Warrior's Husband, The	Elissa Landi-Ernest Truex-David Manners	May 12,'33
Zoo in Budapest	Gene Raymond-Loretta Young	Apr. 28,'33	85	Apr. 22,'33

Coming Feature Attractions

Adorable	Janet Gaynor-Henry Garat	May 19,'33
American, The
Berkeley Square	Leslie Howard-Heather Angel
Devil's in Love, The	Victor Jory-Loretta Young
Five Cents a Glass	Marian Nixon-"Buddy" Rogers	May 26,'33
Hold Me Tight	James Dunn-Sally Eilers	June 2,'33
I Loved You Wednesday	Warner Baxter-Elissa Landi	June 16,'33
It's Great to Be Alive	Edna May Oliver-Raul Roulien	June 9,'33
Man-Eater	Marion Burns-Kane Richmond
My Lips Betray	Lilian Harvey-John Boles
Pilgrimage	Marian Nixon-Norman Foster
Power and the Glory, The	Colleen Moore-Spencer Tracy

FREULER FILM ASSOCIATES

Features

Title	Star	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
Deadwod Pass	Tom Tyler	May 1,'33
Fighting Gentleman, The	Wm. Collier, Jr. - Josephine Dunn-N. Moorhead	Oct. 7	65	Oct. 15
Forty-Niners, The	Tom Tyler	Oct. 28	59
Gambling Sex	Ruth Hall-Grant Withers	Nov. 21	65
Kiss of Araby	Maria Alba-Walter Byron	Apr. 17,'33
Penal Code, The	Regis Toomey-Helen Cohan	Dec. 23
Savage Girl, The	Rochelle Hudson-Walter Byron	Dec. 5
When a Man Rides Alone	Tom Tyler	Jan. 15,'33

Coming Feature Attractions

Black Cat, The
Bulldog Edition

(THE RELEASE CHART--CONT'D)

Title	Star	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
East of Sudan
Easy Millions	Skeets Gallagher-Dorothy Burgess-Merna Kennedy	May 15,'33
Green Paradise
My Wandering Boy
Red Man's Country
Silent Army, The Sisters of the Follies

MAJESTIC

Features

Title	Star	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
Crusader, The	Evelyn Brent-H. B. Warner	Oct. 1	72	Oct. 8
Gun Law	Jack Hoxie-Betty Boyd	Apr. 15,'33
Law and Lawless	Jack Hoxie-Hilda Moreno	Nov. 30	62
Outlaw Justice	Jack Hoxie-Dorothy Gulliver	Oct. 1	61
Unwritten Law, The	Greta Nissen-Skeets Gallagher	Nov. 15	70	Jan. 4,'33
Vampire Bat, The	Lionel Atwill-Fay Wray	Jan. 21,'33	67	Jan. 28,'33
Via Pony Express	Jack Hoxie-Marceline Day	Feb. 6,'33	62
World Gone Mad, The	Pat O'Brien-Evelyn Brent	Apr. 1,'33	80	Apr. 22,'33

Coming Feature Attractions

Buried Alive		July	1,'33
Curtain at Eight		June	1,'33
Sing, Sinner, Sing	Paul Lukas-Leila Hyams	May	15,'33
Trouble Busters	Jack Hoxie-Lane Chandler	May	15,'33
Woman in the Chair, The		June	15,'33

MAYFAIR PICTURES

Features

Title	Star	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
Alimony Madness	Helen Chandler-Leon Waycoff	Apr. 1,'33
Behind Jury Doors	Helen Chandler-Wm. Collier, Jr.	Dec. 1	67
Heart Punch	Marion Shilling-L. Hughes	Oct. 15	64	Oct. 29
Her Mad Night	Irene Rich-Conway Tearle	Oct. 1	67	Oct. 29
Her Resale Value	June Clyde-George Lewis	Apr. 15,'33
Justice Takes a Holiday	Patricia O'Brien-Lloyd Whitlock	Feb. '33
Malay Nights	John Mack Brown-D. Burgess-Ralph Ince	Nov. 1
Midnight Warning	William Boyd-Claudia Dell	Nov. 15
Revenge at Monte Carlo	June Collyer-Jose Crespo-Lloyd Whitlock	Feb. '33
Sister to Judas	Claire Windsor-John Harron	Jan. 1,'33	75	Feb. 18,'33

METRO-GOLDWYN-MAYER

Features

Title	Star	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
Barbarian, The	Ramon Novarro-Myrna Loy	May 12,'33	88	Apr. 15,'33
Clear All Wires	Lee Tracy-Benita Hume	Feb. 24,'33		Feb. 18,'33
Devil's Brother, The	Laurel and Hardy-Dennis King-Thelma Todd	May 5,'33	92	Apr. 8,'33
Faithless	T. Bankhead-R. Montgomery	Oct. 15	74	Oct. 15
Fast Life	William Haines-Madge Evans	Dec. 16	75	Dec. 10
Fast Workers	John Gilbert-Mae Clarke	Mar. 10,'33	66	Mar. 25,'33
Flesh	Wallace Beery-Karen Morley-Ricardo Cortez	Dec. 9	75	Dec. 17
Gabriel Over the White House	Walter Huston-Karen Morley	Mar. 31,'33	87	Apr. 8,'33
Looking Forward	Lewis Stone-Benita Hume-Lionel Barrymore	Apr. 28,'33	83	Apr. 1,'33
(Reviewed under the title "The New Deal")
Mask of Fu Manchu, The	Boris Karloff	Nov. 5	67	Dec. 10
Men Must Fight	Phillips Holmes-Diana Wynyard	Feb. 17,'33	72	Mar. 18,'33
Outsider, The	Harold Huth-Joan Barry	Jan. 28,'33	90	May 2,'31
Prosperity	Dressler-Moran	Nov. 18	76	Nov. 12
Rasputin and the Empress	Ethel, John and Lionel Barrymore	Mar. 24,'33	127	Dec. 31
Secret of Madame Blanche, The	Irene Dunne-Phillips Holmes	Feb. 3,'33	78	Jan. 21,'33
Son Daughter	Helen Hayes-Ramon Novarro	Dec. 23	79	Jan. 7,'33
Strange Interlude	Norma Shearer-Clarke Gable	Dec. 30	112	Sept. 3
Today We Live	Joan Crawford-Gary Cooper	Apr. 21,'33	115	Apr. 22,'33
What! No Beer?	Buster Keaton-Jimmy Durante	Feb. 10,'33	78	Feb. 11,'33
Whistling in the Dark	Ernest Truex-Una Merkel	Jan. 21,'33	78	Feb. 4,'33
White Sister, The	Helen Hayes-Clark Gable	Apr. 14,'33	101	Mar. 25,'33

Coming Feature Attractions

Black Orange Blossoms	Jean Harlow-Clark Gable
Dinner at Eight	Marie Dressler-Wallace Beery-Lionel Barrymore-Jean Harlow-Madge Evans-Karen Morley-Edmund Lowe-Lee Tracy-Jean Hersholt
Eskimo
Hell Below	Robt. Montgomery-Jimmy Durante-Robt. Young-Walter Huston-Madge Evans		105	Apr. 15,'33
Lady of the Night	Loretta Young-Ricardo Cortez
Made on Broadway	R. Montgomery-Sally Eilers	May 19,'33	70	Apr. 8,'33
Never Give a Sucker a Break	Lee Tracy-Madge Evans	June 2,'33
Night Flight	H. Hayes - J. Barrymore - L. Barrymore-C. Gable
Peg O' My Heart	Marion Davies-Onslow Stevens	May 26,'33
Reunion in Vienna	John Barrymore-Diana Wynyard-Frank Morgan		97
Strange Rhapsody	Nils Asther-Kay Francis
Stranger's Return	Lionel Barrymore-Clark Gable-Miriam Hopkins
Tarzan and His Mate	J. Weissmuller-M. O'Sullivan
Tugboat Annie	Marie Dressler-Wallace Beery-Robt. Young-M. O'Sullivan
When Ladies Meet	Ann Harding-Alice Brady-Robt. Montgomery	June 9,'33

MONOGRAM PICTURES CORPORATION

Features

Title	Star	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
Black Beauty	Alex. Kirkland-Esther Ralston	Apr. 1,'33	70	Apr. 29,'33
Breed of the Border	Bob Steele	Mar. 1,'33
Casey Jones	All Star	Apr. 30,'33
Crashin' Broadway	Rex Bell	Dec. 30
Diamond Trail, The	Rex Bell	Dec. 30
Fighting Champ	Bob Steele	Dec. 15
Fighting Texans, The	Rex Bell	Apr. 30,'33
Gallant Fool	Bob Steele	May 10,'33
Guilty or Not Guilty	Betty Compson-Tom Douglas	Nov. 15	7 reels
Hidden Valley	Bob Steele	Oct. 10	6 reels
Jungle Bride	Anita Page-Charles Starrett	Feb. 15,'33	63	Feb. 25,'33
Lucky Larrigan	Rex Bell-Helen Foster	Dec. 1
Man from Arizona, The	Rex Bell	Oct. 1	6 reels
Oliver Twist	Dickie Moore-Irving Pichel-Jackie Searle	Feb. 28,'33	80	Mar. 4,'33
Phantom Broadcast	Ralph Forbes-Vivienne Osborne	Mar. 15,'33	68	Apr. 8,'33
Self-Defense	Pauline Frederick	Dec. 15	68	Dec. 10
Strange Adventure	Regis Toomey-June Clyde	Nov. 20	7 reels
West of Singapore	Betty Compson	Jan. 31,'33	68	Apr. 15,'33
Young Blood	Bob Steele	Nov. 5

Coming Feature Attractions

Sphinx, The	Lionel Atwill-Sheila Terry	June 1,'33

PARAMOUNT PUBLIX

Features

Title	Star	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
A Bedtime Story	Maurice Chevalier-Helen Twelvetrees	Apr. 21,'33	87	Apr. 29,'33
Big Broadcast, The	Stuart Erwin-Bing Crosby-Kate Smith - Leila Hyams - Mills Bros. - Boswell Sisters - Cab Calloway - Vincent Lopez - Arthur Tracy - Sharon Lynn	Oct. 28	80	Oct. 8
Billion Dollar Scandal	Carole Lombard-Robt. Armstrong	Jan. 6,'33	78	Dec. 31
Crime of the Century	Stuart Erwin-Wynne Gibson	Feb. 24,'33	75	Mar. 4,'33
Devil Is Driving, The	Edmund Lowe-Wynne Gibson	Dec. 9	70	Dec. 10
Evenings for Sale	Herb Marshall-Sari Maritza	Nov. 11	65	Nov. 5
Farewell to Arms, A	Helen Hayes-Gary Cooper	Jan. 6,'33	78	Dec. 10
From Hell to Heaven	Carole Lombard-Jack Oakie	Feb. 24,'33	70	Feb. 18,'33
He Learned About Women	Stuart Erwin-A. Skipworth	Nov. 4	68
Hello, Everybody	Kate Smith	Feb. 17,'33	70	Jan. 14,'33
Hot Saturday	Nancy Carroll-Cary Grant	Oct. 28	73	Oct. 22
If I Had a Million	Gary Cooper - Wynne Gibson - Geo. Raft - Richard Bennett - Mary Robson	Nov.	95	Nov. 12
Island of Lost Souls	Chas. Laughton-Richard Arlen-Leila Hyams	Dec.	70	Dec. 10
King of the Jungle	Frances Dee-Buster Crabbe	Mar. 10,'33	74	Mar. 4,'33
Lady's Profession, A	Alison Skipworth-Roland Young	Mar. 3,'33	72	Feb. 25,'33
Luxury Liner	Geo. Brent-Zita Johann-Frank Morgan	Feb. 3,'33	70	Jan. 28,'33
M	Peter Lorre		96	Apr. 8,'33
Madame Butterfly	Sylvia Sidney-Cary Grant	Dec. 30	88	Dec. 31
Murders in the Zoo	Charlie Ruggles-Lionel Atwill	Mar. 31,'33	55	Mar. 11,'33
Mysterious Rider, The	Kent Taylor-Lona André	Jan. 20,'33	59
Night After Night	Geo. Raft-C. Cummings	Oct. 14	70	Oct. 8
No Man of Her Own	Clark Gable-Carole Lombard	Dec.	76	Dec. 24
Pick Up	Sylvia Sidney-George Raft	Mar. 24,'33	75	Mar. 25,'33
She Done Him Wrong	Mae West-Owen Moore	Jan. 27,'33	66	Feb. 18,'33
Sign of the Cross	Fredric March-Elissa Landi-Claudette Colbert	Feb. 10,'33	123	Dec. 10
Song of the Eagle	Chas. Bickford - Mary Brian - Richard Arlen	Apr. 28,'33	83	Apr. 29,'33
Story of Temple Drake, The	Miriam Hopkins-Jack LaRue	May 12,'33
Strictly Personal	Marjorie Rambeau-Eddie Quillan-D. Jordan	Mar. 17,'33	70	Mar. 4,'33
Supernatural	C. Lombard - Randolph Scott - V. Osborne	May 5,'33	64½	Apr. 29,'33
Terror Aboard	Neil Hamilton - Chas. Ruggles - Verree Teasdale	Apr. 14,'33	65½
Tonight Is Ours	C. Colbert-Fredric March-Paul Cavanagh	Jan. 13,'33	76	Jan. 7,'33
Trouble in Paradise	Miriam Hopkins-H. Marshall-Kay Francis	Oct. 21	73	Oct. 29
Under Cover Man	Geo. Raft-Nancy Carroll	Dec. 2	74	Dec. 10
Under the Tonto Rim	Stuart Erwin-Verna Hillie	Apr. 7,'33	59
Wild Horse Mesa	Randolph Scott-Sally Blane	Nov. 25	72½
Woman Accused, The	Cary Grant-Nancy Carroll-John Halliday-Lona André	Feb. 17,'33	73	Feb. 4,'33

Coming Feature Attractions

College Humor	Bing Crosby-Jack Oakie	June 30,'33
Disgraced	Helen Twelvetrees-Wm. Harrigan
Eagle and the Hawk, The	F. March-C. Grant-J. Oakie	May 19,'33	72
Gambling Ship	Cary Grant-Benita Hume
Girl in 419, The	James Dunn-Gloria Stuart	May 26,'33
Her Bodyguard	Wynne Gibson-Edmund Lowe
I Love That Man	Nancy Carroll-Edmund Lowe	June 9,'33
International House	Peggy Hopkins Joyce	June 2,'33
Jennie Gerhardt	Sylvia Sidney-Donald Cook	June 16,'33
Song of Songs	Marlene Dietrich-Brian Aherne
Sunset Pass	Randolph Scott-Tom Keene	May 26,'33

RKO RADIO PICTURES

Features

Title	Star	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
Animal Kingdom	Leslie Howard-Ann Harding	Dec. 23	78	Dec. 10
Cheyenne Kid	Tom Keene	Jan. 20,'33	54½
Christopher Strong	K. Hepburn-Colin Clive-Billie Burke	Mar. 31,'33	72	Mar. 18,'33
Conquerors, The	Ann Harding-Richard Dix	Nov. 18	80	Nov. 19
Goldie Gets Along	Lili Damita-Chas. Morton	Jan. 27,'33	68
Great Jasper, The	Richard Dix	Mar. 3,'33	76	Feb. 11,'33
Half-Naked Truth, The	Lee Tracy-Lupe Velez	Dec. 16	77	Jan. 7,'33
India Speaks	Richard Halliburton	Apr. 28,'33
King Kong	Fay Wray-Bruce Cabot	Apr. 7,'33	100	Feb. 25,'33
Little Orphan Annie	Mitzi Green-Buster Phelps	Nov. 4	70	Oct. 29
Lucky Devils	Bill Boyd-Bruce Cabot-William Gargan-D. Wilson	Feb. 3,'33	60	Dec. 31
Man Hunt	Junior Durkin - Mrs. Wallace Reid	Mar. 24,'33	68	Feb. 4,'33
(Reviewed under the title "A Successful Bunder")
Men Are Such Fools	Lee Carrillo-V. Osborne	Nov. 18	66
Men of America	Bill Boyd	Dec. 9	75	Nov. 12
Monkey's Paw, The	Ivan Simpson-Louise Carter	Jan. 13,'33	52	Oct. 1
No Other Woman	Irene Dunne-Chas. Bickford	Jan. 6,'33	58	Jan. 21,'33
Our Betters	Constance Bennett	Mar. 17,'33	72	Mar. 4,'33
Past of Mary Holmes, The	Helen MacKellar-Eric Linden	Jan. 20,'33	62
Penguin Pool Murder	Edna May Oliver-Jas. Gleason	Dec. 30	75	Nov. 12
Renegades of the West	Tom Keene	Nov. 25	55
Rockabye	Constance Bennett-Joel McCrae	Nov. 25	75	Nov. 26
Sailor Be Good	Jack Oakie-Vivienne Osborne	Feb. 10,'33	68	Mar. 4,'33
Scarlet River	Tom Keene-D. Wilson	Mar. 10,'33	57	Jan. 21,'33
Secrets of the French Police	Gwill Andre-Frank Morgan	Dec. 2	58	Dec. 17
Son of the Border	Tom Keene-Julie Hayden	May 5,'33	55
Snort Parade, The	Joel McCrae-Marian Marsh	Nov. 11	65	Dec. 24
Sweepings	Lionel Barrymore	Apr. 14,'33	80	Mar. 18,'33
Tomorrow at Seven	Chester Morris-Vivienne Osborne	May 12,'33
Topaze	John Barrymore-Myrna Loy	Feb. 24,'33	78	Feb. 11,'33

Coming Feature Attractions

Bed of Roses	Constance Bennett-Joel McCrea
Careless	Ginger Rogers-Norman Foster
Cross Fire	Tom Keene-Betty Furness	June 30,'33	55	Apr. 8,'33
Diplomaniacs	Bert Wheeler-Robt. Woolsey		63	Apr. 15,'33
Emergency Call	Bill Boyd-Betty Furness
Flying Circus	Arline Judge-Bruce Cabot-Ralph Bellamy-Eric Linden
Jamboree	Robt. Armstrong-Helen Mack
Melody Cruise	Phil Harris-Helen Mack	May 26,'33
Morning Glory, The	K. Hepburn-D. Fairbanks, Jr.
Public Be Sold, The	Richard Dix-Doris Kenyon
Rafter Romance	Joel McCrea-Dorothy Jordan
Silver Cord, The	Irene Dunne-Joel McCrea
Three Came Unarmed	Joel McCrea-Dorothy Jordan

(THE RELEASE CHART--CONT'D)

STATE RIGHTS

Features

Title	Star	Dist'r.	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
Bachelor Mother	Evalyn Knapp-James Murray	Goldsmith	Jan. 5,'33	71	Jan. 21,'33
Bal, Le	Andre Lefaur	Protex		80	Oct. 8
Blame the Woman	Adolphe Menjou-Benita Huma	Principal	Oct. 15	74	Nov. 5
Charlotte Lowenskold	Birgit Sergellius-Eric Barclay	Scandinavian
Contraband	Don Alvarado-Dorothy Sebastian	Hoffberg	Apr. 1,'33
Devil's Playground, The		Principal	Jan. 1,'33	54
Eternal Jew, The	M. B. Samuylow	Jewish Talking Pictures
Face on the Barroom Floor, The	B. Fletcher	Invincible		66	Oct. 22
Forgotten Men		Jewel Productions	Feb. '33
Fourteenth of July, The	Annabella - Georges Rigaud	Tobis-Rene Clair		85	Jan. 28,'33
High Gear	James Murray - Joan Marsh	Hollywood	Apr. 14,'33	67	Apr. 22,'33
Hotel Variety	Hal Skelly - Olive Borden	Screencraft		68
In the Days of the Crusaders	Alberto Pasquali	Monopole	Oct. 1	75	Oct. 15
Italy Speaks		Enrico Cutall			Feb. 25,'33
Jungle Gigolo		Principal	Feb. 15,'33	55
Jungle Killer	Carveth Wells	Century Productions	Dec.
Lady of the Night	Francesca Bertini	Portale Picts.	Mar. 9,'33
Love and Passion		Yugoslavian Picts.
Manhattan Tower	Mary Brian - Irene Rich-James Hall	Remington	Dec. 1	67	Nov. 19
Men and Jobs		Amkino	Jan. 1,'33	70	Jan. 14,'33
Moon Over Morocco	Rene Lefebvre-Rosine Derean	Protex	Jan. 21,'33	80	Feb. 25,'33
November Night (Polish)	S.Jaracz-J.Wegrzyn-J.Smosarska	Capital	Apr. 27,'33	97
Out of Singapore	Noah Beery	Goldsmith Picts.		61	Sept. 24
Piri Knows All	Margit Dayka	Arkay Film
Potemkin		Kinematrade	Mar. 31,'33	54	Apr. 15,'33
Pride of the Legion	Sally Blane-B. Kent	Mascot	Oct. 10	70	Oct. 29
Return of Nathan Becker	David Gutman	Worldkino	Apr. 13,'33	71	Apr. 29,'33
Shadow Laughs, The	Hal Skelly-Rose Hobart	Invincible		67
Shame	Vladimir Gardin	Amkino	Oct. 15	65	Dec. 3
Socko		Hoffberg		30
Soviets on Parade		Kinematrade	Mar. 31,'31	60
Sucker Money	Mischa Auer	Hollywood	Apr. 5,'33	70	Apr. 15,'33
Truth About Africa, The		Wm. Alexander		47
Virgins of Bali		Principal	Dec. 8	46	Dec. 17
With Williamson Beneath the Sea		Principal	Nov. 24	59	Dec. 3
Wives Beware!	Adolphe Menjou	Regent Picts.
Woman in Chains	Owen Nares	Invincible		69	Aug. 13

(Reviewed under title "The Impassive Footman" — Assoc. Radio British)

TOWER PRODUCTIONS

Features

Title	Star	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
Daring Daughters	Marian Marsh-Joan Marsh	Feb. '33	60	Apr. 15,'33
Red Haired Alibi	Merna Kennedy-Theodore Von Eltz-Grant Withers	Oct. 15	72	Oct. 29
Reform Girl	Noel Francis-Dorothy Peterson-Skeets Gallagher	Mar. '33	70

UNITED ARTISTS

Features

Title	Star	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
Cynara	Ronald Colman-Kay Francis	Dec. 24	80	Nov. 5
Hallelujah, I'm a Bum	Al Jolson	Feb. 3,'33	82	Feb. 18,'33
Kid from Spain, The	Eddie Cantor	Nov. 17	90	Nov. 5
Magic Night	Jack Buchanan	Nov. 5	76	Nov. 12
Rain	Joan Crawford	Oct. 22	85	Sept. 17
Perfect Understanding	Gloria Swanson	Mar. 11,'33	84	Mar. 4,'33
Secrets	Mary Pickford-Leslie Howard	Apr. 16,'33	90	Feb. 18,'33

Coming Feature Attractions

I Cover the Waterfront	Claudette Colbert - Ben Lyon - Ernest Torrence		75	Apr. 29,'33
Joe Palooka	Jimmy Durante-Stuart Erwin
Masquerader, The	Ronald Colman-Elissa Landi		75	Feb. 25,'33
Yes, Mr. Brown	Jack Buchanan			Mar. 18,'33

UNIVERSAL

Features

Title	Star	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
Afraid to Talk	Eric Linden-Sidney Fox	Nov. 17	76	Sept. 24
(Reviewed under title "Merry Go Round")
Air Mail	Pat O'Brien-Ralph Bellamy	Nov. 3	83	Oct. 8
Be Mine Tonight	Jan Kiepura-Magda Schneider	Mar. 23,'33	78	Feb. 18,'33
Big Cage, The	Anita Page-Clyde Beatty	Mar. 3,'33	75	Mar. 4,'33
Cohens and Kellys in Trouble	Chas. Murray-Geo. Sidney	Mar. 23,'33	69	Apr. 22,'33
Destination Unknown	Pat. O'Brien-Ralph Bellamy	Mar. 16,'33	67	Jan. 28,'33
Fighting President, The		Apr. 14,'33	50	Apr. 15,'33
Flaming Guns	Tom Mix-Ruth Hall	Dec. 22	57
Hidden Gold	Tom Mix	Nov. 3	56
Kiss Before the Mirror	Nancy Carroll-Paul Lukas	May 4,'33	67	Mar. 11,'33
Laughter in Hell	Pat O'Brien-Gloria Stuart	Jan. 12,'33	68	Jan. 7,'33
Lucky Dog	Charles "Chic" Sale	Apr. 20,'33
Mummy, The	Boris Karloff-Zita Johann	Dec. 22	78	Dec. 3
Nagana	Tala Birell-Melvyn Douglas	Jan. 26,'33	74	Jan. 7,'33
Old Dark House, The	Boris Karloff-L. Bond	Oct. 20	74	July 16
Out All Night	Summerville-Pitts	Apr. 13,'33	72	Mar. 11,'33
Private Jones	Lee Tracy-Gloria Stuart	Feb. 16,'33	89	Apr. 1,'33
Rome Express	Esther Ralston-Conrad Veidt	Feb. 16,'33	87	Jan. 21,'33
Rustler's Roundup	Tom Mix—Diane Sinclair	Mar. 16,'33
Terror Trail, The	Tom Mix	Feb. 2,'33	57	Feb. 18,'33
They Just Had to Get Married	Summerville-Pitts	Jan. 5,'33	75	Feb. 11,'33

Coming Feature Attractions

Black Pearl	Tala Birell
King of Jazz	Paul Whiteman-John Boles-Bing Crosby	May	18,'33
King of the Arena	Ken Maynard
Rebel, The	Vilma Banky-Luis Trenker	June	1,'33
S. O. S. Iceberg	Rod La Roque-Gibson Gowland
When the Time Comes	Spencer Tracy

WARNER BROS.

Features

Title	Star	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
Baby Face	Barbara Stanwyck	Apr. 22,'33	74	Apr. 1,'33
Ex-Lady	Bette Davis	Apr. 8,'33	62	Feb. 18,'33
Forty-Second Street	Warner Baxter - Bebe Daniels - Geo. Brent	Mar. 11,'33	89	Mar. 18,'33
Girl Missing	Ben Lyon - Mary Brian - Peggy Shannon	Mar. 4,'33	69	Apr. 8,'33
Hard to Handle	James Cagney	Jan. 28,'33	76	Jan. 7,'33
Haunted Gold	John Wayne	Dec. 17	58
I Am a Fugitive from a Chain Gang	Paul Muni	Nov. 19	90	Oct. 22
Keyhole, The	Kay Francis-George Brent	Mar. 25,'33	69	Apr. 8,'33
King's Vacation, The	George Arliss	Feb. 25,'33	60	Jan. 28,'33
Ladies They Talk About	Barbara Stanwyck	Feb. 4,'33	64	Jan. 7,'33
Lawyer Man	Wm. Powell-Joan Blondell	Jan. 7,'33	72	Dec. 3
Parachute Jumper	Douglas Fairbanks, Jr.	Jan. 28,'33	72	Dec. 31
Picture Snatcher	James Cagney	Apr. 29,'33	75	Apr. 1,'33
Scarlet Dawn	D. Fairbanks, Jr. - Nancy Carroll	Nov. 12	58	Nov. 12
Telegraph Trail, The	John Wayne	Mar. 18,'33	55
Untamed Africa		Apr. 8,'33
Wax Museum, Mystery of the	Lionel Atwill-Fay Wray	Feb. 18,'33	72	Jan. 7,'33
Working Man, The	George Arliss-Bette Davis	May 6,'33	73	Apr. 8,'33

(Reviewed under the title "The Adopted Father")

Coming Feature Attractions

Gold Diggers of Broadway	Warren William-Joan Blondell-Aline MacMahon-Ruby Keeler-Dick Powell	May	27,'33
Life of Jimmy Dolan, The	D. Fairbanks, Jr.-Loretta Young	June	3,'33	70
Man from Monterey, The	John Wayne-Ruth Hall
Mary Stevens, M.D.	Kay Francis
Mayor of Hell, The	James Cagney	June	24,'33
Narrow Corner, The	Douglas Fairbanks, Jr.
Private Detective 62	William Powell	June	10,'33
Silk Express	Neil Hamilton-Sheila Terry	June	10,'33
Somewhere in Sonora	John Wayne	May	20,'33
Voltaire	George Arliss-Doris Kenyon

WORLD WIDE

[Distributed through Fox Films]

Features

Title	Star	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
Between Fighting Men	Ken Maynard	Oct. 16	62
Breach of Promise	Chester Morris-Mae Clarke	Oct. 23	67
Constant Woman, The	Conrad Nagel-Leila Hyams	Apr. 23,'33	75	Mar. 3,'33
(Reviewed under the title "Auction in Souls")
Death Kiss, The	Adrienne Ames-David Manners-John Wray	Jan. 8,'33	75	Dec. 24
Drum Taps	Ken Maynard	Jan. 29,'33	61
False Faces	Lowell Sherman-Lila Lee	Oct. 13	83	Dec. 3
Fargo Express	Ken Maynard	Nov. 20	62
Hypnotized	Moran and Mack	Dec. 25	70	Dec. 24
Phantom Thunderbolt	Ken Maynard	Mar. 5,'33	62
Racetrack	Leo Carrillo-Kay Hammond	Feb. 25,'33	78	Mar. 11,'33
Tombstone Canyon	Ken Maynard	Dec. 25	62
Trailing the Killer	(Special)	Dec. 4	68	Oct. 15
Uptown New York	Jack Oakie-Shirley Grey	Nov. 20	80	Nov. 19

Coming Feature Attractions

Lone Avenger, The	Ken Maynard	May	14,'33	61
Study in Scarlet, A	Reginald Owen-June Clyde	May	14,'33
Tarnished Youth	Jetta Goudal-Gilbert Roland

GERMAN

Features

Title	Star	Dist'r.	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
A Door Opens	Lily Rodien-Curt Lucas	Protex	Feb. 4,'33	70
A Night in Paradise	Anny Ondra-Herman Thimig	Kinematrade
Barberina, The King's Dancer	Lil Dagover	Capital	Oct. 25	87	Nov. 12
Beautiful Maneuver Time	Ida Wuest	World's Trade
Cadet, The	Frans Fiedler	Film Exchange		80	Apr. 8,'33
Captain of Koepenick, The	Max Adalbert	Kinematrade	Jan. 16,'33	93	Feb. 18,'33
Comradeship		Assoc. Cinema	Nov. 8	78	Dec. 10
David Golder	Harry Baur	Protex		80	Oct. 29
Don't Tell Me Who You Are	Liane Haid-Gustav Froehlich	Interworld	Feb. 15,'33	91	Feb. 25,'33
Enchanted Escapade	Kaethe von Nagy	Protex	Dec. 7	83	Jan. 28,'33
Friederike	Mady Christians	Kinematrade	Feb. 25,'33	80	Mar. 18,'33
Gitta Discovers Her Heart	Gitta Alpar	Canital		91	Oct. 15
Gloria	Gustav Froehlich	Tobis	Oct. 27	87	Nov. 12
Hertha's Awakening	Toni Van Eyck	Protex	Mar. 10,'33	82	Mar. 25,'33
Herzblut	Renate Mueller	Cines-Pittaluga	Sept. 30	77	Oct. 15
His Majesty, King Ballyhoo	Hans Meser - Heinz Ruehmann	Capital	Nov. 15	86	Feb. 11,'33
Kuhle Wampe: Whither Germany?	Hertha Thiele-Ernest Busch	Kinematrade	Apr. 22,'33
Louise, Queen of Prussia	Henny Porten	Assoc. Cinemas	Oct. 4	92	Oct. 15
M	Peter Lorre	Paramount	Mar. 31,'33	96	Apr. 8,'33
Maedchen in Uniform	Hertha Thiele	John Krimsky - Gifford Cochran		110	Oct. 1
Man Without a Name, The	Werner Krauss	Protex	Nov. 5	90	Dec. 17
Party Does Not Answer, The	Dorothy Wieck	Capital	Nov. 29	76	Dec. 31
Ronny	Willy Fritsch-Kaethe von Nagy	Protex
Song of Life	Albert Mog - Margot Ferra	Tobis	Mar. 24,'33	66	Apr. 15,'33
Spell of Tatra, The		Protex	Feb. 17,'33	65	Feb. 25,'33
Upright Sinner, The	Max Pallenberg-Dolly Haas	European Films	Mar. 28,'33	78	Apr. 15,'33
Victoria and Her Hussar	Michael Bohnen-Friedel Schuster	Kinematrade	Apr. 8,'33	90	Apr. 22,'33
Yorck	Werner Krauss	Protex	Nov. 23	99	Dec. 10

OTHER PRODUCT

Features

Title	Star	Dist'r.	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
Counsel's Opinion	Henry Kendall	London Film		71	Apr. 22,'33
Fires of Fate	Lester Matthews	British Int'l		72	Oct. 15
Flag Lieutenant, The	Henry Edwards-Anna Neagle	British and Dominions		85	Dec. 31
Ghost Train, The	Jack Hulbert	Gaumont-British		68	Feb. 25,'33
Good Companions, The	Jessie Matthews	Gaumont-British		96	Apr. 29,'33
Green Spot Mystery, The	Jack Lloyd	Mutual, London		66	Sept. 3
Here's George	George Clarke	P.D.C.-British		64	Nov. 5
Josser on the River	Ernest Lotinga	British Int'l		71	Sept. 17
Leap Year	Tom Walls - Anne Grey	British and Dominions		89	Dec. 17
Lodger, The	Ivor Novello	Twickenham		84	Oct. 15
Looking on the Bright Side	Gracie Fields	Assoc. Radio - British		82	Oct. 15
Love in Morocco	Rex Ingram	Gaumont-British	Mar. 18,'33	67	Oct. 15
(Reviewed under the title "Baroud")
Maid of the Mountains, The	Harry Welchman - Nancy Brown	British Int'l		80	Apr. 22,'33
Man They Couldn't Arrest	Hugh Wakefield - Renee Clama	Gaumont-British	Mar. 11,'33	70	Mar. 25,'33
Marry Me	Renate Mueller-Geo. Robey	Gaumont-British		85	Apr. 22,'33
Men of Tomorrow	Maurice Braddell	Paramount-London Film		80	Apr. 15,'33
Private Wives	Claude Allister-Betty Astell	British Lion
Sally Bishop	Harold Huth - Joan Barry	British Lion		82	Dec. 10
There Goes the Bride	Jessie Matthews - Owen Nares	Gaumont-British		79	Mar. 11,'33
Wedding Rehearsal	Roland Young	London Film

(THE RELEASE CHART--CONT'D)

SHORT FILMS

[All dates are 1932 unless otherwise stated]

COLUMBIA

Title	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
CURIOSITIES
C 237	Sept.	1	Sept. 24
KRAZY KAT KARTOONS
Broadway Malady	Apr.	18,'33
Bunnies and Bennets	Mar.	29,'33
Crystal Gazabo	Nov.	7
Medicine Show	Feb.	7,'33
Minstrel Show, The	Nov.	21
Prosperity Blues	Oct.	8
Russian Dressing
Seeing Stars	Sept.	12	Dec. 17
Snow Time	Nov.	30
Wedding Bells	Jan.	10,'33
Wooden Shoes	Feb.	25,'33
LAMBS GAMBOLS
Hear 'Em and Weep
Ladies Not Allowed	Sept.	8
Lambs All-Star Gambol	Dec.	20
Mutual Man, The	Mar.	20.'33
Poor Fish, The	Apr.	27,'33
Shave It with Music	Sept.	30
MEDBURY SERIES
Laughing with Medbury in India
Laughing with Medbury in Philippines	Nov.	11
Laughing with Medbury Among the Wide Open Faces	Oct.	11
Laughing with Medbury Among Dancing Nations	Dec.	23
Laughing with Medbury in Wonders of the World	Dec.	13
SCRAPPY CARTOONS
Bad Genius, The	Dec.	1
Beer Parade, The	Mar.	4,'33
False Alarm
Flop House	Nov.	9
Great Bird Mystery	Oct.	20
Match Kid, The
Sassy Cats	Jan.	25,'33
Scrappy's Party	Feb.	13,'33
Wolf at the Door, The	Dec.	29
SILLY SYMPHONIES
China Plate		7	Dec. 3
SUNRISE COMEDIES
Campus Codes	Jan.	19,'33
College Gigolos	Jan.	3,'33
His Vacation	Sept.	8
I'm a Fugitive from a Chain Store	Feb.	11,'33
Mind Doesn't Matter	Nov.	21
Partners Two	Jan.	19,'33
The Curse of a Broken Heart	Feb.	4,'33
The Strange Case of Poison Ivy	Mar.	23,'33
WORLD OF SPORT
All's Wet That Ends Wet
Good Old Winter Time
Rough Sport	Dec.	29
Throwing the Bull	Jan.	14,'33

EDUCATIONAL

[Distributed through Fox Films]

Title	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
ANDY CLYDE COMEDIES
A Fool About Women	Nov.	27
Artist's Muddles	Jan.	29,'33
Boy, Oh Boy!	Dec.	25
Feeling Rosy	Apr.	30,'33
Giddy Age, The	Sept.	25	June 4
Loose Relations	Apr.	9,'33
She Dunked Him Wrong
Sunkissed Sweeties	Oct.	30
BABY BURLESKS
Glad Rags to Riches	Feb.	5,'33	Dec. 31
Kid' in' Hollywood	May	14,'33
Kid's Last Fight, The	Apr.	23,'33	Dec. 3
Pie-Covered Wagon	Oct.	30	Dec. 31
Polly Tix in Washington	June	4,'33
War Babies	Sept.	18	Aug. 6
BATTLE FOR LIFE
Battle of the Centuries	Oct.	2
Desert Demons	Nov.	27
Killers	Oct.	30	Apr. 29,'33
The Sea	May	7,'33
BRAY'S NATURGRAPHS
An Oregon Camera Hunt	Sept.	11
Giants of the North	June	4,'33
Our Bird Citizens	Oct.	9	Dec. 10
Our Noble Ancestors	Dec.	4
Pirates of the Deep	May	7,'33
Stable Manners	Nov.	6
Wild Company	Jan.	1,'33
Woodland Pals	Jan.	29,'33
BROADWAY GOSSIP
No. 1	Sept.	25
No. 2	Dec.	11	Dec. 31
No. 3	Feb.	5,'33
No. 4	Mar.	5,'33
No. 5	Apr.	30,'33
CAMERA ADVENTURES
Cougar's Mistake, The	May	28,'33
Taming the Wildcat	Jan.	15,'33
The Forgotten Island	Sept.	4
The Iceless Arctic	Nov.	6
Two Hundred Fathoms Deep	Mar.	19,'33
DO YOU REMEMBER
Gaslit Nineties, The	Nov.	27	Jan. 7,'33
Highlights of the Past	Apr.	9,'33
Old New York	Sept.	11	Jan. 14,'33
Puffs and Bustles	Mar.	12,'33
When Dad Was a Boy	Jan.	22,'33
GLEASON'S SPORT FEATURETTES
A Hockey Hick	Dec.	11
Always Kickin'	Oct.	9
Off His Base	Sept.	18
GREAT HOKUM MYSTERY
Burned at the Steak	Oct.	16
Evil Eye Conquers, The	Jan.	8,'33
In the Clutches of Death	Nov.	13
On the Brink of Disaster	Feb.	19,'33
HODGE-PODGE
Across America in Ten Minutes	Jan.	1,'33
Animal Fair, The	Jan.	15,'33
Bubble Blowers	Sept.	11
Down on the Farm	Dec.	18
Little Thrills	Oct.	23
Skipping About the Universe	Feb.	12,'33
Traffic	Nov.	6
Women of Many Lands	Mar.	12,'33
Women's Work	Sept.	25	Mar. 11,'33
Wonder City, The	Nov.	20	Feb. 25,'33
MERMAID COMEDIES
All Aboard Harry Langdon
Big Flash, The Harry Langdon	Nov.	6	Oct. 15
Hitch Hiker, The Harry Langdon	Feb.	12,'33
Knight Duty Harry Langdon	May	7,'33
Tired Feet Harry Langdon	Jan.	1,'33
Vest with a Tale, The Tom Howard	Dec.	4
MORAN AND MACK COMEDIES
A Pair of Socks	May	14,'33
As the Crows Fly	Feb.	5,'33
Hot Hoofs	Apr.	16,'33
Two Black Crows in Africa	Mar.	5,'33
OPERALOGUES
Brahmin's Daughter, A	Jan.	8,'33
Canteen Girl, The
Walpurgis Night	Oct.	30
SPIRIT OF THE CAMPUS (Reinald Werrenrath)
California	Mar.	5,'33
Cornell	Dec.	18	Dec. 17
Georgia Tech	May	7,'33
McGill	May	28,'33
Michigan	Dec.	4
Yale	Oct.	9
TERRY-TOONS
Burlesque	Sept.	4
College Spirit	Oct.	16
Down on the Levee	Mar.	5,'33
Farmer Al Falfa's Birthday Party	Oct.	2	Dec. 3
Forty Thieves, The	Nov.	13
Hansel Und Gretel	Feb.	5,'33
Hollywood Diet	Dec.	11
Hook and Ladder No. 1	Oct.	30	Nov. 5
Ireland or Bust	Dec.	25
Jealous Lover	Jan.	8,'33
Oh! Susanna	Apr.	2,'33
Pirate Ship	Apr.	30,'33
Robin Hood	Jan.	22,'33
Romeo and Juliet	Apr.	16,'33
Southern Rhythm	Sept.	18
Tale of a Shirt, The	Feb.	19,'33
Toyland	Nov.	27	Dec. 17
Who Killed Cock Robin?	Mar.	19,'33
THREE-REEL SPECIAL
Krakatoa	Apr.	2,'33	26
TOM HOWARD COMEDIES
A Drug on the Market	Jan.	22,'33
The Acid Test	Nov.	27
The Mouse Trapper	Sept.	11
TORCHY COMEDIES (Ray Cooke)
Torchy's Big Lead (Tent.)
Torchy's Busy Day	Oct.	2
Torchy's Kitty Coup	Jan.	22,'33
Torchy's Loud Spooker	Apr.	23,'33
Torchy Rolls His Own	Nov.	20
Torchy Turns Turtle	Apr.	23,'33
VANITY COMEDIES
Hollywood Run-Around Monty Collins	Dec.	18	Mar. 25,'33
Honeymoon Beach Billy Bevan-Glenn Tryon	Oct.	23
Keyhole Katie Gale Seabrook-John T. Murray	Jan.	15,'33
Techno-crazy Monty Collins-Billy Bevan	Apr.	23,'33

FOX FILMS

Title	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
MAGIC CARPET SERIES
1 Alpine Echoes	Aug.	14
2 Incredible India	Aug.	21
3 Big Game of the Sea	Aug.	28
4 The Tom-Tom Trail	Sept.	4
5 By-Ways of France	Sept.	11	Dec. 17
6 Manhattan Medley	Sept.	18
7 Rhineland Memories	Sept.	25
8 Fisherman's Fortune	Oct.	2
9 Zanzibar	Oct.	9
10 Belles of Bali	Oct.	16	Jan. 7,'33
11 Sailing a Square-Rigger	Oct.	23	Dec. 10
12 Venetian Holiday	Oct.	30	Nov. 12
13 Havana Ho!	Nov.	6
14 Paths in Palestine	Nov.	13
15 Riksha Rhythm	Nov.	20
16 Pirate Isles	Nov.	27
17 From Kashmir to the Khyber	Dec.	4	Nov. 19
18 Silver Springs	Dec.	11
19 Desert Tripoli	Dec.	18
20 In the Guianas	Dec.	25
21 Mediterranean Memories	Jan.	1,'33
22 The Lure of the Orient	Jan.	8,'33
23 Here Comes the Circus	Jan.	15,'33
24 Sicilian Sunshine	Jan.	22,'33	Mar. 25,'33
25 Gorges of the Giants	Jan.	29,'33	Dec. 31
26 When In Rome	Feb.	5,'33
27 Berlin Medley	Feb.	12,'33	Nov. 26
28 Rhapsody of the Rails	Feb.	19,'33
29 Taking the Cure	Feb.	26,'33
30 Down from Vesuvius	Mar.	5,'33
31 Paris on Parade	Mar.	12,'33
32 Broadway by Day	Mar.	19,'33
33 The Iceberg Patrol
34 Mississippi Showboats
35 Sampans and Shadows
36 Boardwalks of New York
37 A Gondola Journey
38 Isles of the East Indies
39 Pagodas of Peiping

METRO-GOLDWYN-MAYER

Title	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
CHARLEY CHASE
Arabian Tights	June	3,'33
Fallen Arches	Feb.	4,'33
Girl Grief	Oct.	8
Mr. Bride	Dec.	24
Now We'll Tell One	Nov.	19	Oct. 22
Tarzan in the Wrong
Young Ironsides	Sept.	3
COLORTONE MUSICAL REVUES
Hollywood Premiere	Jan.	7,'33
Menu
Over the Counter			Feb. 25,'33
Wild People	Feb.	4,'33
FITZPATRICK TRAVELTALKS
Barbados and Trinidad	Sept.	24
Big Ditch of Panama, The
Come Back to Erin			June 4
Cuba, Land of the Rhumba	Feb.	25,'33
Daughters of the Sea
Iceland	Jan.	14,'33	Feb. 11,'33
Leningrad	Dec.	17	Mar. 11,'33
Norway	Feb.	4,'33
Over the Seas to Borneo
Rio the Magnificent
World Dances, The
FLIP, THE FROG
Cuckoo the Magician	Jan.	21,'33
Funny Face	Dec.	24
Lunchroom, The
Music Lesson, The	Oct.	29
Nursemaid, The	Nov.	26
LAUREL & HARDY
Me An' My Pal
Scram	Sept.	16	Oct. 15
Their First Mistake
Towed In a Hole	Dec.	31
Twice Two	Feb.	25,'33
ODDITIES
Chili and Chills	Sept.	10
Duck Hunter's Paradise	Dec.	31	Dec. 31
Microscopic Mysteries	Oct.	18	Apr. 8,'33
Toy Parade, The	Dec	3	Dec. 17
Whispering Bill	Dec.	31
OUR GANG
A Lad an' a Lamp	Dec.	17
Birthday Blues	Nov.	12
Fish Hooky	Jan.	28,'33
Forgotten Babies	Mar.	11,'33
Free Wheeling	Oct.	1
Kid from Borneo, The	Apr.	15,'33
Mush and Milk	May	27,'33
PITTS-TODD
Alum and Eve	Sept.	24	Aug. 13
Asleep in the Feet	Jan.	21,'33
Bargain of the Century
Maids a la Mode
One Track Minds
Sneak Easily	Dec.	10
Soilers, The	Oct.	29
SPECIAL
Roosevelt, the Man of the Hour			Apr. 15,'33
SPORT CHAMPIONS
Allez Oop	Mar.	11,'33
Auto Racing	Apr.	1,'33
Blocks and Tackles	Nov.	5	Mar. 11,'33
Bone Crushers	Feb.	8,'33
Chalk Up	Dec.	10	Jan. 7,'33
Desert Regatta	Sept.	17
Football Footwork
Motorcycle Mania	Jan.	28,'33
Old Spanish Custom	Oct.	15	Mar. 11,'33
Pigskin	Oct.	22	Dec. 10
Swing High	Dec.	10	Dec. 17
Throttle Pushers
TAXI BOYS
Bring 'Em Back a Wife	Jan.	14,'33
Call Her Sausage
Farewell to Legs
Hot Spot	Oct.	22	Oct. 1
Rummy, The
Strange Innertube	Sept.	22
Taxi Barons
Taxi for Two	Dec.	3
Thundering Taxis	June	24,'33
Wreckety Wrecks	Feb.	18,'33	Mar. 25,'33

PARAMOUNT PUBLIX

Title	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
HOLLWOOD ON PARADE
No. 1	Aug.	26	Aug. 13
No. 2	Sept.	23
No. 3	Oct.	21

(THE RELEASE CHART--CONT'D)

Title	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
No. 4	Nov. 18	1 reel
No. 5	Dec. 16	1 reel
No. 6	Jan. 13,'33	1 reel
No. 7	Feb. 10,'33	1 reel
No. 8	Mar. 10,'33	1 reel
No. 9	Apr. 7,'33	1 reel
No. 10	May 5,'33	1 reel
No. 11	June 2,'33	1 reel
No. 12	June 30,'33	1 reel
ONE REEL ACTS
Be Like Me — Ethel Merman	Feb. 18,'33	1 reel
Breaking Even — Tom Howard	Sept. 30
Detective Tom Howard of the Suicide Squad — Tom Toward	June 9,'33	1 reel
Hawaiian Fantasy — Vincent Lopez	Jan. 20,'33	1 reel
Let's Dance — Burns and Allen	Mar. 17,'33	1 reel
Moonlight Fantasy — Vincent Lopez	Apr. 14,'33	1 reel
Musical Doctor — Rudy Vallee	Oct. 28	10	Oct.
Rhapsody in Black and Blue — Louis Armstrong	Sept. 2
Rookie, The — Tom Howard	Dec. 23	1 reel
Walking the Baby — Burns and Allen	May 12,'33	1 reel
Your Hat — Burns and Allen	Nov. 25
PARAMOUNT PICTORIAL—NEW SERIES
No. 1—Mists of the Morning—Temple Bells of Indo-China—Famous Radio Personalities	Aug. 12	1 reel
No. 2—Just Mentioning the Unmentionable — New England Sunsets—Famous Radio Personalities	Sept. 9	1 reel
No. 3—Making Friends in the Desert—The Fall of the Year — Radio Star-Maker	Oct. 7	1 reel
No. 4—Distinctive Hair for Distinctive Heads — The Blooming Desert — The Camels Are Coming	Nov. 4	1 reel
No. 5—John Mongol Comes to Town—Have a Little Ski—Meet Your Favorite Radio Personalities	Dec. 4	1 reel
No. 6—Land of Sun and Shine — La Rumba de Cuba—Big Shots of U.S. Navy	Dec. 30	1 reel
No. 7—This is Ducky — Music from the Ancients —Bringing You the News	Jan. 27,'33	1 reel
No. 8—Glass Making at the Corning Glass Works — "Going Back Home" — Costuming the Earl Carroll Vanities	Feb. 24,'33	1 reel
No. 9—A Drama of the Northland — Paramount Pictorial Presents Amelia Earhart	Mar. 17,'33	1 reel
No. 10—Birth of the Year — Laboratory Sleuth — Three X Sisters	Apr. 21,'33	10	Apr. 22,'33
No. 11—	May 19,'33	1 reel
No. 12—	June 16,'33	1 reel
SCREEN SONGS
Ain't She Sweet — Lillian Roth	Feb. 3,'33
Aloha Oe — Royal Samoans	Mar. 17,'33	1 reel
Dinah — Mills Bros.	Jan. 13,'33	1 reel
Down by the Old Mill Stream — Eton Boys	June 30,'33	1 reel
Just a Gigolo — Irene Bordoni	Sept. 9
Peanut Vender, The — Armida	Apr. 28,'33
Popular Melodies — Arthur Jarrett	Apr. 7,'33	1 reel
Reaching for the Moon	Feb. 24,'33	1 reel
Romantic Melodies — The Street Singer	Oct. 21	1 reel
School Days — Gus Edwards	Sept. 30
Sing a Song — James Melton	Dec. 2
Time on My Hands — Ethel Merman	Dec. 23	7	Jan. 7,'33
When It's Sleepy Time Down South — Boswell Sisters	Nov. 11	1 reel
SCREEN SOUVENIRS — NEW SERIES
No. 1	Aug. 5	1 reel
No. 2	Sept. 2	1 reel
No. 3	Sept. 30	10	Oct. 15
No. 4	Oct. 28	1 reel
No. 5	Nov. 25	1 reel
No. 6	Dec. 23	1 reel
No. 7	Jan. 20,'33	1 reel
No. 8	Feb. 17,'33	1 reel
No. 9	Mar. 17,'33	1 reel
No. 10	Apr. 14,'33	1 reel
No. 11	May 12,'33
No. 12	June 9,'33	1 reel
PARAMOUNT SOUND NEWS
Two Editions Weekly
SPORTS EYE VIEW
Aggravatin' Bear, The	Apr. 28,'33	1 reel
Balance	June 23,'33	1 reel
Canine Thirlls	Feb. 3,'33	1 reel
Catch 'Em Young	Dec. 9	1 reel
Fighting Fins	Oct. 14	10	Oct. 15
Hot and Cold Thrills	Mar. 31,'33	1 reel
Jabs and Jolts	May 26,'33	1 reel
Over the Jumps	Jan. 6,'33	1 reel
Stuff on the Ball	Nov. 11	1 reel
Water Jamboree	Sept. 16	1 reel
Wonder Girl, The — Babe Didrickson	Mar. 3,'33	1 reel

Title	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
TALKARTOONS
Betty Boop's Bamboo Isle	Sept. 23
Betty Boop's Big Boss	June 2,'33	1 reel
Betty Boop's Birthday Party	Apr. 21,'33	1 reel
Betty Boop's Crazy Inventions	Jan. 27,'33	1 reel
Betty Boop for President	Nov. 4	7	Oct. 1
Betty Boop's Ker-Choo	Jan. 6,'33	7	Dec. 10
Betty Boop, M.D.	Sept. 2	7	Dec. 10
Betty Boop's May Party	May 12,'33	1 reel
Betty Boop's Museum	Dec. 16	1 reel
Betty Boop's Ups & Downs	Oct. 14	1 reel
Betty Boop's Penthouse	Mar. 10,'33	6	Feb. 25,'33
Is My Palm Read	Feb. 17,'33	1 reel
Minding the Baby	Sept. 26	1 reel
Mother Goose Land	June 23,'33	1 reel
Snow-White	Mar. 31,'33	1 reel
TWO REEL COMEDIES
Blue of the Night — Bing Crosby	Jan. 6,'33	20	Sept. 10
Bring 'Em Back Sober — Sennett Star	Nov. 18	2 reels
Caliente Love — Sennett Star	Mar. 10,'33	2 reels
Cook's Day Off, The — Sennett Star
Courting Trouble — Charles Murray	Oct. 28	19	Dec. 17
Dentist, The — Sennett Star	Dec. 9	20	Dec. 3
Don't Play Bridge With Your Wife — Sennett Star	Jan. 13,'33	2 reels
Doubling in the Quickies — Sennett Star	Dec. 16	2 reels
Dream Stuff — Sennett Star	May 12,'33	2 reels
Druggist, The — Sennett Star	Apr. 21,'33
Easy On the Eyes — Sennett Star	Feb. 17,'33	2 reels
False Impressions — Sennett Star	Nov. 4	2 reels
Fatal Glass of Beer — W. C. Fields	Mar. 3,'33	2 reels
His Perfect Day — Sennett Star
Hollywood Double, A — Sennett Star	Nov. 25	2 reels
Honeymoon Bridge — Sennett Star
Hubby's Vacation — Sennett Star
Human Fish — Sennett Star	Dec. 30	2 reels
In the Bag — Sennett Star
Lion and the House, The — Sennett Star	Dec. 23	18
Ma's Pride and Joy — Donald Novis	Oct. 14	18	Aug. 27
Morning After, The — Sennett Star
Pharmacist, The — Sennett Star	Apr. 21,'33	2 reels
Plumber and the Lady, The — Sennett Star	Mar. 31,'33	2 reels
Prosperity Pays — Tom Howard	Nov. 4
Shot for Love — Sennett Star
Sing, Bing, Sing — Bing Crosby	Mar. 24,'33	2 reels
Singing Boxer, The	Jan. 27,'33
Singing Plumber — Donald Novis	Sept. 23
Sweet Cookie — Sennett Star	Apr. 14,'33	2 reels
Temporary Butler — Sennett Star
Too Many Highballs — Sennett Star	Feb. 10,'33	2 reels
Uncle Jake — Sennett Star	May 5,'33	2 reels
Wrestlers, The — Sennett Star	Jan. 20,'33

RKO-RADIO PICTURES

Title	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
CHARLIE CHAPLIN SERIES (Re-Issues)
Easy Street	Sept. 30	19½	Dec. 17
The Floorwalker	Dec. 23	20½
The Pawnshop	Mar. 17,'33
The Rink	Nov. 11	20
The Vagabond	Feb. 3,'33	21
CLARK & McCULLOUGH SERIES
Druggist's Dilemma, The	May 5,'33	17
Hocus Focus	Mar. 3,'33	20
Jitters, The Butler	Dec. 30	20½	Aug. 20
Millionaire Cat, The	Oct. 21	21
HARRY SWEET COMEDIES
Firehouse Honeymoon	Oct. 28	18	Jan. 14,'33
Heave Two	Mar. 10,'33	20½
Loops, My Dear	Jan. 6,'33	17
Shakespeare With Tin Ears	June 30,'33	18½
Thrown Out of Joint	May 12,'33	21
HEADLINER SERIES
No. 1—Shampoo, the Magician — Roscoe Ates-Hugh Herbert	Nov. 25	17
No. 2—Private Wives — Skeets Gallagher W. Catlett	Jan. 27,'33	21
No. 3—Hip, Zip, Hooray — Nat Carr	Mar. 31,'33	18½
MASQUERS COMEDIES
Abroad In Old Kentucky
Bride's Bereavement, The	Nov. 18	19
Lost In the Limehouse	Apr. 7,'33	20½

Title	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
Through Thin and Thicket	Jan. 20,'33	17½
Two Lips and Juleps	Sept. 9	20
MICKEY McGUIRE SERIES
Mickey's Ape Man	Feb. 10,'33	18
Mickey's Big Broadcast
Mickey's Busy Day	Sept. 2	18	Aug. 6
Mickey's Charity	Dec. 2	18
Mickey's Disguise
Mickey's Race	Apr. 14,'33	18
MR. AVERAGE MAN COMEDIES (EDGAR KENNEDY)
Art in the Raw	Feb. 24,'33	19
Fish Feathers	Dec. 16	18
Inferior Decorations
Merchant of Menace, The	Apr. 21,'33	19½
Parlor, Bedroom and Wrath	Oct. 14	20½
PATHE NEWS
Released twice a week
PATHE REVIEW
Released once a month
SPECIALS
So This Is Harris	26		Mar. 11,'33
TOM AND JERRY SERIES
Barnyard Bunk	Sept. 16	6
Happy Hoboes	Mar. 31,'33
Magic Mummy	Feb. 7,'33	7
Panicky Pup	Feb. 24,'33	7
Pencil Mania	Dec. 9	7
Piano Tooners	Nov. 11	7½
Puzzled Pals		7	Apr. 22,'33
Spanish Twist, A	Oct. 14	6
Tight Rope Tricks	Jan. 6,'33	7

STATE RIGHTS

Title	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
ATLANTIC FILM
Playgrounds in the Sky	10		Nov. 5
Sportsmen's Paradise	10		July 30
CAESAR FILMS
Veneziana		1 reel
CENTRAL FILM
A Pilgrimage Through Palestine	10		Dec. 3
Boston Common—and Proper	10		Jan. 7,'33
Hula		3 reels
In Old New Orleans			May 28
Syria			May 21
F. M. S. CORP.
Newslaughs		7	Jan. 28,'33
IDEAL
Evolution	28		Sept. 3
INDUSTRIAL
The Silent Enemy	30
MARY WARNER
Berlin: Its Sports and Recreation		8
Berlin: Rhythm of a Metropolis		8	Apr. 8,'33
Glimpses of Germany		8
Green Heart of Germany, The		20
Springtime on the Rhine		7
The Mosel		8	Oct. 15
Trier, Oldest City in Germany		6
Vintagers' Festival in the Palatinate		10	Mar. 11,'33
Winter in the Bavarian Alps		1 reel
Young Germany Goes Ski-ing		1 reel
MASCOT
Technocracy	10		Jan. 7,'33
MASTER ART PRODUCTS
Melody Makers Series:
Sammy Fain	10		Dec. 24
Benny Davis		9
Gus Edwards
Cliff Friend		9
Night of Romance		7
PRINCIPAL
Beer Is Here
Get That Lion	29		Aug. 27
Isle of Desire		3 reels
Isle of Peril	32		July 16
Isles of Love		1 reel
Killing the Killer	11		July 30
Matto Grosso	24
New Western Front	25
Primitive		1 reel
Tiger Hunt, The	20		Dec. 31
Voodoo	36
WARD PRODUCTIONS
Your Technocracy and Mine		9½	Feb. 11,'33

UNITED ARTISTS

Title	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
MICKEY MOUSE
1. Mickey's Nightmare	Aug. 8	7½	Oct. 8
2. Trader Mickey	Aug. 26	7
3. The Whoopee Party	Sept. 16	7	Nov. 12
4. Touchdown Mickey	Oct. 7	6½
5. The Wayward Canary	Oct. 28	7¼
6. The Klondike Kid	Nov. 18
7. Mickey's Good Deed	Dec. 9	8
8. Building a Building	Dec. 20	7
9. The Mad Doctor	Jan. 20,'33	6
10. Mickey's Pal Pluto	Feb. 10,'33	7
11. The Mellerdrammer	Mar. 3,'33
12. Ye Olden Days	Mar. 24,'33
13. The Mail Pilot
SILLY SYMPHONIES
1. Bears and Bees	July 15	6½
2. Just Dogs	Aug. 12	7
3. Flowers and Trees	Sept. 9	8	Oct. 15
4. Bugs In Love	Sept. 21	7
5. King Neptune	Oct. 7	7	Oct. 29
6. Babes in the Wood	Dec. 2	8	Apr. 1,'33
7. Santa's Workshop	Dec. 30	7	Dec. 24
8. Birds in the Spring	Dec. 30
9. Father Noah's Ark	Jan. 27,'33

(THE RELEASE CHART--CONT'D)

UNIVERSAL

Title	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
OSWALD CARTOONS
Beau Best	May 22,'33	1 reel
Busy Barber	Sept. 12	1 reel
Carnival Capers	Oct. 10	1 reel
Going to Blazes	Apr. 10,'33	1 reel
Ham and Eggs	June 19,'33	1 reel
New Deal, A	July 17,'33	1 reel
Ocean Hop (Reissue)	Apr. 24,'33	1 reel
Plumber, The	Jan. 30,'33	7
Shriek, The	Feb. 27,'33	7	Mar. 25,'33
Teacher's Pest	Dec. 19	7
Wild and Wooly	Nov. 21	1 reel
POOCH CARTOONS
Butcher Boy, The	Sept. 26	7	Sept. 17
Cat and Dogs	Dec. 5	1 reel
Crowd Snores, The	Oct. 24	1 reel
Fine Feathers	July 3,'33	1 reel
Hot and Cold	May 8,'33	1 reel
King Klunk	July 31,'33	1 reel
Lumber Champ, The	Mar. 13,'33	7	Apr. 8,'33
Merry Dog, The	Jan. 2,'33	1 reel
Nature's Workshop	June 5,'33	1 reel
Terrible Troubador, The	Feb. 13,'33	1 reel
Underdog, The	Nov. 7	1 reel
RADIO STAR REELS
Morton Downey—No. 1 With Vincent Lopez	Oct. 31	2 reels
The Street Singer Nick Kenny—No. 1	Nov. 14	2 reels
Morton Downey—No. 2 With Brown and Henderson	Nov. 28	2 reels
Art Jarrett Nick Kenny—No. 2	Dec. 12	2 reels
Down Memory Lane Louis Sobol—No. 1 With Texas Guinan	Dec. 26	1 reel
Married or Single Nick Kenny—No. 3 With Little Jack Little	Jan. 16,'33	21
I Know Everybody and Everybody's Racket Walter Winchell—No. 1 With Paul Whiteman	Jan. 30,'33	21	Feb. 11,'33
Morton Downey—No. 3 The Holdup With Joe Young	Feb. 14,'33	2 reels
Radio Murder Mystery Louis Sobol—No. 2	Mar. 6,'33	2 reels
Morton Downey—No. 4 My Pal the Prince	Apr. 17,'33	2 reels
Beauty on Broadway Walter Winchell—No. 2	May 15,'33	2 reels
SPECIALS
Voice of the Vatican	Mar. 13,'33	10	Mar. 11,'33
Your Technocracy and Mine	Apr. 15,'33	1 reel
STRANGE AS IT SEEMS SERIES
No. 21—Novelty	Aug. 22	1 reel
No. 22—Novelty	Sept. 19	1 reel
No. 23—Novelty	Oct. 17	1 reel
No. 24—Novelty	Nov. 14	1 reel
No. 25—Novelty	Dec. 12	1 reel
No. 26—Novelty	Jan. 23,'33	1 reel
No. 27—Novelty	Mar. 20,'33	1 reel
No. 28—Novelty	Apr. 17,'33	1 reel
No. 29—Novelty	May 15,'33	1 reel
No. 30—Novelty	June 12,'33	1 reel
No. 31—Novelty	July 10,'33	1 reel
UNIVERSAL BREVITIES
Boo!	Dec. 26	1 reel
Dr. Jekyll's Hide	Sept. 26	9	Oct. 1
Good Old Days, The	Nov. 21	1 reel
Greeks Had No Word for Them, The	Oct. 24	1 reel
Lizzie Stratta	Jan. 23,'33	10
UNIVERSAL COMEDIES (1932-33 SEASON)
A Quiet Night Bert Roach	May 31,'33	21
Alias the Professor James Gleason	Mar. 8,'33	2 reels
Boys Will Be Boys Frank Albertson	Nov. 30	2 reels
Family Troubles Henry Armetta	Jan. 11,'33	21
Finishing Touch Skeets Gallagher June Clyde	Oct. 19	2 reels
Hesitating Love L. Fazenda-M. Prevost	Nov. 16	2 reels
Hunting Trouble Louise Fazenda	Feb. 8,'33	20	Mar. 11,'33
Kid Glove Kisses Slim Summerville	Sept. 21	2 reels
Lights Out James Gleason	Dec. 24	2 reels
Mister Mugg James Gleason	May 10,'33	21
My Operation Vince Barnett-June Clyde	Dec. 28	2 reels
Officer, Save My Child Slim Summerville	Nov. 2	2 reels
Pick Me Up Marie Prevost	Apr. 5,'33	19
Rockabye Cowboy James Gleason	Jan. 25,'33	2 reels
Room Mates Frank Albertson	Apr. 19,'33	20
Should Crooners Marry? Frank Albertson	Feb. 22,'33	2 reels
Trial of Vince Barnett Vince Barnett	Mar. 22,'33
Who, Me Frank Albertson	Sept. 7	2 reels
Yoo Hoo! James Gleason	Oct. 5	21	Sept. 3

VITAPHONE SHORTS

Title	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
BIG V COMEDIES
No. 1—Sherlock's Home Jack Haley
No. 2—Here, Prince Joe Penner
No. 3—You Call It Madness Richy Craig, Jr.
No. 4—Hey, Pop Roscoe (Fatty) Arbuckle
No. 5—Then Came the Yawn Jack Haley
No. 6—The Run Around William Demarest
No. 7—Trouble Indemnity Codee and Orth
No. 8—The Build-Up Jack Haley
No. 9—Buzzin' Around Roscoe (Fatty) Arbuckle
No. 10—Wrongorilla Jack Haley
No. 11—How've You Bean? "Fatty" Arbuckle
No. 12—An Idle Roomer Jack Haley
BROADWAY BREVITIES (NEW SERIES)
No. 1—C'est Paris Technicolor Musical	Sept. 3	17
No. 2—Passing the Buck Alexander Gray	Sept. 24	18
No. 3—Tee for Two Technicolor Musical	Oct. 8	17	Nov. 12
No. 4—Tip-Tap-Toe Hal Leroy-Mitzi Mayfair	Oct. 22	19
No. 5—A Modern Cinderella Ruth Etting	Nov. 5	18
No. 6—Picking a Winner Technicolor Musical	Nov. 19	16	Nov. 19
No. 7—The Red Shadow Al Gray-Bernice Claire	Dec. 3	18
No. 8—Sky Symphony Stoopnagle & Budd	June 3,'33
No. 9—Poor Little Rich Boy Phil Baker	Dec. 24	18
No. 10—Hey, Hey, Westerner Technicolor Musical	Dec. 31	17	Oct. 15
No. 11—That Goes Double Russ Columbo	June 17,'33
No. 12—Bygones Ruth Etting	Jan. 14,'33	18
No. 13—Pleasure Island Technicolor Musical	Feb. 25,'33	18
No. 14—Yours Sincerely Lanny Ross	Mar. 11,'33	19
No. 15—Speaking of Operations Pick & Pat	Jan. 28,'33	18
No. 16—Northern Exposure Technicolor Musical	Apr. 8,'33	16
No. 17—Nothing Ever Happens Musical	Mar. 25,'33
No. 18—World's Champ Jack Dempsey	July 11,'33
No. 19—The Way of All Freshmen Hal Leroy-Mitzi Mayfair	Apr. 22,'33
No. 20—Along Came Ruth Ruth Etting	May 6,'33
No. 21—Fifi V. Segal-Chas. Judels	May 20,'33
HOW TO BREAK 90 BOBBY JONES
No. 1—The Grip	May 15,'33
No. 2—Position and Back Swing
No. 3—Hip Action
No. 4—Down Swing
No. 5—Impact
No. 6—Fine Points
LOONEY TUNES SERIES
No. 9—Bosko and Bruno	7	Dec. 10
No. 10—Bosko's Dog Race	8	July 8
No. 11—Bosko at the Beach	7	Nov. 5
No. 12—Bosko's Store	7
No. 13—Bosko the Lumberjack
LOONEY TUNES (NEW SERIES)
No. 1—Ride Him, Bosko
No. 2—Bosko the Drawback
No. 3—Bosko's Dizzy Date
No. 4—Bosko's Woodland Daze
No. 5—Bosko in Dutch
No. 6—Bosko in Person
No. 7—Bosko the Speed King
No. 8—Bosko's Knight Mare
MELODY MASTERS (NEW SERIES)
No. 1—Music to My Ears Jack Denny and Band
No. 2—Municipal Band Wagon
No. 3—Smash Your Baggage Small's Paradise Band
No. 4—The Lease Breakers Aunt Jemima	9	Dec. 3
No. 5—The Yacht Party Roger Wolfe Kahn's Band
No. 6—Hot Competition The Continentals-Barris-Whiteman-Ted Husing
No. 7—Abe Lyman and Band	10	Apr. 1,'33
No. 8—"How's Tricks?" Jean Sargent-George Owen and Gang
No. 9—That's the Spirit Noble Sissle and Band
No. 10—The Alma Martyr Fred Waring and His Pennsylvanians
MERRY MELODIES (New Series)
No. 1—You're Too Careless With Your Kisses	8	Dec. 17
No. 2—I Wish I Had Wings
No. 3—A Great Big Bunch of You
No. 4—Three's a Crowd
No. 5—Shanty Where Santa Claus Lives
No. 6—One Step Ahead of My Shadow
No. 7—Young and Healthy
No. 8—The Organ Grinder
No. 9—Wake Up the Gypsy in Me
NOVELTIES
Bigger They Are, The Primo Carnera	2 reels
Gypsy Caravan Martinelli	1 reel
Handy Guy, The Earl Sande	2 reels
Rhythms of a Big City	1 reel
Season's Greetings, The Christmas Special	5
Trip to Tibet, A	1 reel
Washington, The Man and the Capitol Clarence Whitehill	18
ONE-REEL COMEDIES
Baby Face Victor Moore
Military Post, The Robert Guzman
No-Account, The Hardie-Hutchison
No Questions Asked Little Billy
Strong Arm, The Harrington-O'Neill
ORGAN SONG-NATAS
For You Organ-Vocal	1 reel
Say a Little Prayer for Me Organ-Vocal	1 reel
When Your Lover Has Gone Organ-Vocal	1 reel
JOE PENNER COMEDIES
Moving In	2 reels
Rough Sailing	16
Stutterless Romance, A	1 reel
Where Men Are Men	2 reels
PEPPER POT (NEW SERIES)
No. 1—Rambling Round Radio Row No. 1
No. 2—Nickelette
No. 3—Contact
No. 4—If I'm Elected
No. 5—King Salmon
No. 6—Rambling Round Radio Row No. 2
No. 7—Babe O' Mine
No. 8—Dangerous Occupations
No. 9—Out of the Past
No. 10—Love Thy Neighbor
No. 11—Rambling Round Radio Row No. 3
No. 12—A Whale of a Yarn
No. 13—Africa Speaks—English
No. 14—Rambling Round Radio Row No. 4	10	Apr. 29,'33
No. 15—Sea Devils
No. 16—Parades of Yesterday
No. 17—Breakwater
No. 18—Little White Lies
No. 19—Rambling Round Radio Row No. 5
No. 20—You're Killing Me
No. 21—Inklings
No. 22—Rambling Round Radio Row No. 6
No. 23—Around the World in 8 Minutes	8	Aug. 20
No. 24—Fishermen's Holiday
No. 25—Stuck, Stuck, Stucco
No. 26—Seeing Samoa
SPORT THRILLS SERIES TED HUSING
No. 1—
No. 2—
No. 3—
No. 4—Old Time Sport Thrills
No. 5—
No. 6—
S. S. VAN DINE MYSTERY SERIES (Donald Meek-John Hamilton)
No. 10—Campus Mystery, The
No. 11—Crane Poison Case, The
No. 12—Transatlantic Mystery, The	22	Sept. 19
TWO-REEL COMEDIES
Dandy and the Belle, The Frank McGlynn, Jr.-Mary Murray
Freshman Love Ruth Etting
Old Lace Ruth Etting
WORLD TRAVEL TALKS— E. M. NEWMAN
No. 1—Little Journeys to Great Masters	1 reel
No. 2—Southern India	9
No. 3—Road to Mandalay	1 reel
No. 4—Mediterranean By-ways	9
No. 5—Javanese Journeys	9
No. 6—Northern India	1 reel
No. 7—Oberammergau	1 reel
No. 8—South American Journeys	9	June 25
No. 9—Soviet Russia	1 reel
No. 10—Paris Glimpses	9	July 30
No. 11—Dear Old London	1 reel
No. 12—When in Rome	9	June 18
No. 13—Berlin Today	9	Oct. 29
WORLD ADVENTURES E. M. NEWMAN (New Series)
No. 1—Dancing Around the World	1 reel
No. 2—Transportations of the World	1 reel
No. 3—An Original Cocktail	10	Oct. 8
No. 4—Curious Customs of the World	1 reel
No. 5—From Bethlehem to Jerusalem	10	Apr. 1,'33
No. 6—High Spots of the Far East	10	Sept. 10
No. 7—Main Streets	1 reel
No. 8—Beauty Spots of the World	1 reel
No. 9—Workers of the World	1 reel
No. 10—Wonder Spots of the World	1 reel
No. 11—Costumes of the World	1 reel
No. 12—Strange Ceremonies	1 reel
No. 13—Top of the World	1 reel

SERIALS

UNIVERSAL

(EACH SERIAL 12 EPISODES OF TWO REELS)

Title	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
Clancy of the Mounted Tom Tyler-Jacqueline Wells	Feb. 27,'33	20 (each)	Feb. 4,'33
Lost Special Frank Albertson	Dec. 5
Jungle Mystery Tom Tyler	Sept. 12	20 (each)
Phantom of the Air Tom Tyler-Gloria Shea	May 22,'33

MEETINGS

A calendar of events and meeting dates of exhibitor and production associations and other non-commercial organizations in the industry.

EAST

MAY

4—Associated Motion Picture Advertisers: Weekly luncheon and open forum, at Sardi's, West 44th Street, New York. President, Hal Horne; Secretary, Al Sherman.

Allied Theatres of Illinois: General meeting, at Congress Hotel, Chicago. President, Aaron A. Saperstein; Secretary, Harry H. Lasker.

5—MPTO of Western Pennsylvania: Directors' meeting, at 425 Van Braam Street, Pittsburgh. President, William R. Wheat; Secretary, Fred J. Herrington.

8—Associated Assistant Directors' Association: General and executive board meetings, at 251 West 42nd Street, New York. President, Joseph H. Nadle; Secretary and Business Representative, Saul E. Harrison.

10—Allied Theatres of Illinois: Directors' meeting, at 910 South Michigan Avenue, Chicago. President, Aaron A. Saperstein; Secretary, Harry H. Lasker.

11—Associated Motion Picture Advertisers: Weekly luncheon and open forum, at Sardi's, West 44th Street, New York. President, Hal Horne; Secretary, Al Sherman.

16mm. Film Board of Trade: Semi-monthly luncheon and open forum, at Hotel Victoria, New York. President, G. P. Foute; Secretary, A. D. V. Storey.

14—Film Forum, Inc.: Regular meeting, at 66 West 12th Street, New York. President, Sidney Howard; Secretary, Margaret Larkin.

16—Allied Theatres of Michigan: Directors' meeting, at 607 Fox Building, Detroit. President, Glenn A. Cross; General Manager, H. M. Richey.

17—Allied Theatres of Illinois: Weekly directors' meeting, at 910 South Michigan Avenue, Chicago. President, Aaron A. Saperstein. Secretary, Harry H. Lasker.

18—Associated Motion Picture Advertisers: Weekly luncheon and open forum, at Sardi's, West 44th Street, New York. President, Hal Horne; Secretary, Al Sherman.

The Lambs: Monthly meeting of the council, at 130 West 44th Street, New York. Shepherd, Frank Crumit.

23-24—MPTA of Kansas and Missouri: Annual convention, at Kansas City, Mo. President, E. Van Hyning.

24—Allied Theatres of Illinois: Weekly directors' meeting, at 910 South Michigan Avenue, Chicago. President, Aaron A. Saperstein; Secretary, Harry H. Lasker.

25—Associated Motion Picture Advertisers: Weekly luncheon and open forum, at Sardi's, West 44th Street, New York. President, Hal Horne; Secretary, Al Sherman.

16 mm. Film Board of Trade: Semi-monthly luncheon and open forum, at Hotel Victoria, 51st Street and 7th Avenue, New York. President, G. P. Foute; Secretary, A. D. V. Storey.

31—Allied Theatres of Illinois: Weekly directors' meeting, at 910 South Michigan Avenue, Chicago. President, Aaron A. Saperstein; Secretary, Harry H. Lasker.

JUNE

5—Motion Picture Projectionists Local of Chicago: Annual reception and ball, at Trianon Ballroom, Chicago. Business manager, Tom Maloy.

8—Eastern Motion Picture Golf Tournament: Semi-annual tournament, at Rye Country Club, Westchester. Chairman, John Wilde Alicoate; Committee members, Maurice D. Kann, Don M. Mersereau, et al.

14—Motion Picture Producers and Distributors of America: Quarterly meeting, at 28 West 44th Street, New York. President, Will H. Hays; Secretary, Carl Milliken.

19—American Federation of Musicians: Annual convention, at Chicago. President, Joseph Weber.

WEST

MAY

1—International Alliance of Theatre Stage Employees: Monthly meeting, at 6472 Santa Monica Boulevard, Hollywood. Lew C. G. Blix, business representative.

Motion Picture Make-up Artists Association: Weekly meeting of membership, at 1666 North Highland Avenue, Hollywood. President, Perc Westmore; Secretary, Jack Lloyd.

Assistant Directors and Script Clerks Association: Semi-monthly meeting of membership, at 1605 North Cahuenga Boulevard, Hollywood. Richard L'Estrange, executive.

2—Federated Motion Picture Studio Crafts: Weekly meeting, at 2560 North Beachwood Drive, Hollywood. President, Charles E. Lessing; Secretary, Richard L'Estrange.

The Wampas: Weekly meeting, at 6700 Sunset Boulevard, Hollywood. President, George Landy; Secretary, Sam W. B. Cohen.

Troupers, Inc.: Semi-monthly meeting, at 1642 El Centro Avenue, Hollywood. President, James Gordon; Secretary, Adabelle Driver.

Assistance League: Monthly meeting of executive committee, at 5604 DeLongpre Avenue, Hollywood. Managing director, Mrs. Lee Wray Turner.

International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers: Weekly meeting, at 5402 Hollywood Boulevard, Hollywood. President, H. D. Martin; Secretary, A. P. Speede.

Motion Picture Relief Fund: Monthly meeting, at 5481 Santa Monica Boulevard, Hollywood. Executive Secretary, F. X. Baur.

3—Breakfast Club: Weekly meeting, at 3213 Riverside Drive, Los Angeles. President, Carl Laemmle; Manager, Harold B. Link.

233 Club: Semi-monthly meeting, at 6735 Yucca Street, Hollywood. President, Otto K. Oleson; Secretary, Henry Otto.

Brotherhood of Studio Carpenters: Weekly meeting, at 6474 Santa Monica Boulevard, Hollywood. Business Representative, J. F. Kearns; Secretary, W. E. Sparks.

4—Independent Motion Picture Producers Association: Monthly meeting, at 6001 Santa Monica Boulevard, Hollywood. President, M. H. Hoffman; Secretary, Nat Levine.

8—Motion Picture Make-up Artists Association: Weekly meeting, at 1666 North Highland Avenue, Hollywood. President, Perc Westmore; Secretary, Jack Lloyd.

Masquers' Club: Semi-monthly meeting, at 1765 North Sycamore Avenue, Hollywood. President, Sam Hardy.

9—Federated Motion Picture Studio Crafts: Weekly meeting, at 2560 North Beachwood Drive, Hollywood. President, Charles E. Lessing; Secretary, Richard L'Estrange.

The Wampas: Weekly meeting, at 6700 Sunset Boulevard, Hollywood. President, George Landy; Secretary, Sam W. B. Cohen.

Independent Theatre Owners of Southern California: Semi-monthly meeting, at 1584 West Washington Boulevard, Los Angeles. President, G. A. Metzger.

Assistance League: Board of directors' meeting at 5604 DeLongpre Avenue, Hollywood. President, Hancock Banning.

9—International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers: Weekly meeting, at 5402 Hollywood Boulevard, Hollywood. President, H. D. Martin; Secretary, A. P. Speede.

10—Breakfast Club: Weekly meeting, at 3213 Riverside Drive, Los Angeles. President, Carl Laemmle; Manager, Harold B. Link.

Brotherhood of Studio Carpenters, Local 946: Weekly meeting, at 6474 Santa Monica Boulevard, Hollywood. Business Representative, J. F. Kearns; Secretary, W. E. Sparks.

15—Troupers, Inc.: Semi-monthly meeting, at 1642 El Centro Avenue, Hollywood. President, James Gordon; Secretary, Adabelle Driver.

Motion Picture Make-up Artists Association: Weekly meeting, at 1666 North Highland Avenue Hollywood. President, Perc Westmore; Secretary, Jack Lloyd.

17—Assistant Directors and Script Clerks' Association: Semi-monthly meeting at 1605 North Cahuenga Boulevard, Hollywood. Richard L'Estrange, executive.

Breakfast Club: Weekly meeting, at 3213 Riverside Drive, Los Angeles. President, Carl Laemmle; Manager, Harold B. Link.

16—Federated Motion Picture Studio Crafts: Weekly meeting, at 2560 North Beachwood Drive, Hollywood. President, Charles E. Lessing; Secretary, Richard L'Estrange.

The Wampas: Weekly meeting, at 6700 Sunset Boulevard, Hollywood. President, George Landy; Secretary, Sam W. B. Cohen.

Assistance League: Board of directors' meeting, at 5604 DeLongpre Avenue, Hollywood. Managing director, Mrs. Lee Wray Turner.

International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers: Weekly meeting, at 5402 Hollywood Boulevard, Hollywood. President, H. D. Martin; Secretary, A. P. Speede.

18—United Scenic Artists of America, Local 235: Monthly meeting, at 2560 North Beachwood Drive, Hollywood. President, Charles E. Lessing; Vice-president, William B. Cullen.

22—Motion Picture Make-up Artists Association: Weekly meeting, at 1666 North Highland Avenue, Hollywood. President, Perc Westmore; Secretary, Jack Lloyd.

23—Federated Motion Picture Studio Crafts: Weekly meeting, at 2560 North Beachwood Drive, Hollywood. President, Charles E. Lessing; Secretary, Richard L'Estrange.

The Wampas: Weekly meeting, at 6700 Sunset Boulevard, Hollywood. President, George Landy; Secretary, Sam W. B. Cohen.

Independent Theatre Owners of Southern California: Semi-monthly meeting, at 1584 West Washington Boulevard, Los Angeles. President, G. A. Metzger.

Assistance League: Board of directors' meeting, at 5604 DeLongpre Avenue, Hollywood. Managing director, Mrs. Lee Wray Turner.

International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers: Weekly meeting, at 5402 Hollywood Boulevard, Hollywood. President, H. D. Martin; Secretary, A. P. Speede.

CLASSIFIED ADVERTISING

the great national medium for showmen

Ten cents per word, money-order or check with copy. Count initials, box number and address. Minimum insertion, $1. Four insertions for the price of three. Contract rates on application. No borders or cuts. Forms close Mondays at 5 P.M. Publisher reserves right to reject any copy. Address correspondence, copy and checks to MOTION PICTURE HERALD, Classified Dept., 1790 Broadway, New York City

REPAIR SERVICE

BEST GRADE REPAIR WORK. PRICES RIGHT. Free relief heads. Prompt service. GUERCIO AND BARTHEL, 1018 South Wabash Avenue, Chicago, Ill.

PROJECTORS, TICKET MACHINES AND OTHER theatre and sound equipment requiring parts and repairs can now be given prompt attention at reasonable cost. BOX 121A, MOTION PICTURE HERALD.

USED EQUIPMENT

UNUSUAL BARGAINS IN USED OPERA Chairs, Sound Equipment, Moving Picture Machines, Screens, Spotlights, Stereopticons, etc. Projection Machines Repaired. Send for catalogue H. MOVIE SUPPLY COMPANY, 844 So. Wabash Ave., Chicago.

BARGAINS RECONDITIONED ARTIC-NU-AIR blowers noiseless drives. Write for prices. SOUTHERN FAN CO., Box 440, Atlanta, Ga.

PRINTING SERVICE

1,000 BUSINESS CARDS, 50c. KROY PRESS, 326 N. Queen, York, Pa.

NEW EQUIPMENT

VENTILATING, AIR WASHING, REFRIGERATing systems now within reach. Fit present blowers. Details ready. S. O. S. CORP., 1600 Broadway, New York City.

CARBONS 60% DISCOUNT GENUINE NATIONAL AC types, reflector 8/12, 9/13. S. O. S. CORP., 1600 Broadway, New York.

NEW A.C. LOW INTENSITY LAMP TO MAKE its debut. Write and learn all about this wonderful new lamp. No generator required. CROWN MOTION PICTURE SUPPLIES, 311 West 44th St., New York.

WANTED TO BUY

WILL PAY $10.00 CASH EACH FOR SIMPLEX pedestals, complete. BOX 292, MOTION PICTURE HERALD, 407 S. Dearborn St., Chicago, Ill.

THEATRES

HAVE SEVERAL THEATRES FOR SALE OR lease, but not on rental, to reliable showmen. If interested will gladly supply details. BOX 134-A, MOTION PICTURE HERALD.

PROJECTIONISTS UNIONS

THE NEW NATIONAL PROJECTIONISTS' Union—Independent Motion Picture Operators' Union, National Executive Offices, 3546 Vincent North, Minneapolis, Minn.

GENERAL EQUIPMENT

DEBRIE SLOW MOTION CAMERA, TURRET front and three other styles. Universal Cameras, Tripods, Lenses, Gelb-Wohl Lamps, Developing Racks. MRS. CLARENCE E. RUNEY, Palace Hotel, Cincinnati.

NEW & USED SCENERY DRAPES, TRACKS, etc. KINGSLEY STUDIO, Alton, Ill.

RCA-VICTOR LOUDSPEAKERS, RCA PHOTOphone Professional Projectors. Soundheads, Parts. Never lower. S. O. S. CORP., 1600 Broadway, New York.

REFLECTORS RESILVERED, ALL MAKES, $5.00. Hi-Low, $7.50. Work guaranteed. New reflectors at bargain prices. CROWN MOTION PICTURE SUPPLIES, 311 West 44th St., New York.

FILM EXCHANGES

INDEPENDENT EXCHANGES ALL OVER THE country wanted to act as local representative for independent productions handled on state right basis. State number of theatres servicing in territory together with list of producers you are now representing. BOX 134-A, MOTION PICTURE HERALD.

EQUIPMENT EXCHANGE

IF YOU WANT TO REPLACE ANY TYPE OF equipment with brand new material we will be glad to make an allowance on your old equipment and a better price on new equipment. Let us know what you need and what you want to exchange and we will send complete details on our proposition. EQUIPMENT EXCHANGE, c/o MOTION PICTURE HERALD, 1790 Broadway, New York City.

BUSINESS STIMULATORS

IT PACKS THEM IN. IT HANGS THEM ON the paint. A new novelty. Costs practically nothing. Write for samples. ONEIDA NOVELTY COMPANY, Box 103, Oneida, N. Y.

POSITIONS WANTED

OPERATOR—ELECTRICIAN WANTS JOB. WALTER INGALLS, Ionia, Iowa.

AT LIBERTY—AGGRESSIVE LIVE-WIRE MOtion picture theatre manager, expert exploitation, publicity director. Married—age 38. Small salary or percentage. Go anywhere. BOX 127A, MOTION PICTURE HERALD.

TECHNICAL BOOKS

"RICHARDSON'S HAND BOOKS OF PROJECtion" in three volumes. Universally accredited as the best and most practical. Aaron Nadell's "Projection Sound Pictures." Complete information on sound equipment. Both text books complete for $12.80. QUIGLEY BOOKSHOP, 1790 Broadway, New York.

TRAINING SCHOOLS

LEARN MODERN THEATRE MANAGEMENT. Approved home-study training. Free Catalog. THEATRE MANAGERS INSTITUTE, 315 Washington St., Elmira, New York.

POSTERS

GOOD, CLEAN, USED ADVERTISING CHEAP. Liberal credits. Highest cash prices paid for paper on current releases. We pay transportation charges. ALABAMA POSTER EXCHANGE, 528 North 18th St., Birmingham, Ala.

HELP WANTED

FILM SALESMEN AND REPRESENTATIVES TO contact exhibitors and secure contracts and bookings for independent productions on a state right basis. State in first letter experience, etc. Those with car and interested in percentage basis preferred. BOX 133-A, MOTION PICTURE HERALD.

BRANCH MANAGERS WANTED IN EVERY State. Knowledge of projection helpful but not necessary. Business consists of theatre supplies. BOX 280, MOTION PICTURE HERALD.

AGENTS IN EVERY CITY IN AMERICA TO represent reliable concern furnishing necessary service to theatres. Those experienced as film or premium salesmen preferred. Must have car and willing to work on commission basis only. State all requirements in first letter. Box 136-A, MOTION PICTURE HERALD.

FILMS FOR SALE

FIFTY SILENT PROGRAMS $5.00 EACH. EQUIPment. CRYSTAL SUPPLY, Stowell, Texas.

THEATRICAL BROKER

LICENSED SPECIALIST IN AMUSEMENT AND theatrical transactions of all kinds. Will represent theatre sales and purchases. RUDOLPH EISENBERG, 551 5th Avenue, New York City.

THEATRES WANTED

WANTED LEASE ON THEATRE. MIDDLEWest town. 4,000 up. JONES BROS., Beatrice, Nebr.

THE FOUNDATION

of the finest pictures you are showing this year is Eastman Supersensitive Panchromatic Negative. Introduced two years ago, this film is recognized by producers and cameramen as the most trustworthy base on which to build the splendid motion picture of today. Eastman Kodak Company, Rochester, N. Y. (J. E. Brulatour, Inc., Distributors, New York, Chicago, Hollywood.)

EASTMAN

SUPER-SENSITIVE

PANCHROMATIC NEGATIVE

It's good business to let Paramount bring

——into your theatre.

Alert showmen have already booked this international film success in these key runs:—

NEW YORK
Mayfair Theatre
Cameo Theatre

BOSTON
Paramount Theatre
Fenway Theatre

CHICAGO
McVickers Theatre

DETROIT
State Theatre

Two versions available—Spoken English or German with English titles

"M" is distributed by Paramount Pictures Distributing Corp.

MOTION PICTURE
HERALD
©GB 188805

Better Theatres

WITH WHICH IS COMBINED "THE SHOWMAN"

MAY 6, 1933

- THE EXCESSIVE COST OF THEATRE INSURANCE: A SURVEY
- PROPER OPERATION OF COOLING EQUIPMENT FOR COMFORT
- THE APPLICATION OF COLOR TO LIGHTING IN THE THEATRE

2 Sections—Section 2

THE WORLD'S FINEST TELEPHONE

The EMPIRE PHONE

the aristocrat of all telephones

INDIVIDUAL AND DISTINCTIVE

Especially designed and created for the ultra modern Home and Office. For those of wealth and refinement . . .

THE EMPIRE PHONE . . . .

can be obtained in pastel shades to match all color schemes of any room. Also in Gold and Silver Plate. It is easily installed in your home or office.

BOOKLET AND PRICE UPON REQUEST

NOMAD ELECTRICAL ENGINEERS INC.

239 WEST 30TH STREET, NEW YORK, N. Y.

DESIGNERS & MANUFACTURERS OF TELEPHONE & TELEGRAPHIC EQUIPMENT

U. S. Army Specifications are RIGID

We met them to the tune of THOUSANDS of Seats!

YOU know how the U. S. Army does its buying. Every nut and bolt must be just so and so, every yard of cloth must have so many threads, finish must be just so thick. The thing must last just so long and so on, and so on.

Well, we've always been accustomed to being fussy and doing things just right. That's one reason the Army picked Heywood-Wakefield to supply several thousand of the seat shown here for Army post auditoriums all over the country.

The other reason is that Heywood-Wakefield prices fit right in with the Government's economy budget without taking so much as one bolt or one thread out of quality. That's something to consider while you're considering reseating.

RESEAT with COMFORT and Stop Talking "Hard Times"

HEYWOOD-WAKEFIELD
Theatre Seating

SALES OFFICES: Baltimore, Md.; Buffalo, N. Y.; Chicago, Ill.; Dallas, Texas; Houston, Texas; Los Angeles, Calif.; New York, N. Y.; Oklahoma City, Okla.; Philadelphia, Pa. Pittsburgh, Pa.; Portland, Ore.; San Antonio, Texas; San Francisco, Calif.; Seattle, Wash.; Cleveland, Ohio; Richmond, Va.; Spokane, Wash.; Raleigh, N.C.; Savannah, Ga.; Tampa, Fla.; Minneapolis, Minn.; St. Louis, Mo.; Ashland, Ky.; New Orleans, La.; Mt. Vernon, Ind.; Birmingham, Ala.; Kansas City, Mo.

Better Theatres

May 6, 1933
Vol. 111, No. 6

A section of Motion Picture Herald devoted to the designing, construction, equipping and operation of the motion picture theatre

GEORGE SCHUTZ, Editor
C. B. O'NEILL, Advertising Manager
RAY GALLO, Eastern Advertising Manager

GENERAL FEATURES

15 Millions Too Much for Insurance: By C. H. Gray 6
A 1,000-Seat Theatre in a City of 8,000 8
Cooling the Theatre for Comfort: By Harry Leid 9
Color in the Lighting of Theatres: By Francis M. Falge 10
Sound Equipment Leases: By Leo T. Parker 12

DEPARTMENTS

Modern Projection (14)
Sound Equipment Today—and Its Market: By Aaron Nadell 14
F. H. Richardson's Comment 16
Projection Mart: Equipment News and Comment 23
Planning the Theatre (29)
New Theatre Projects (30)

MISCELLANEOUS

Editorials 5
Liability for Performers' Acts: By M. Marvin Berger 13
Recent Decisions of the Courts in Theatre Cases: By Leo T. Parker 26
Index to Advertisers 31
Where to Buy It 32
Better Theatres Catalog Bureau 33
New Inventions 34

QUIGLEY PUBLISHING COMPANY, 1790 BROADWAY, NEW YORK

MARTIN QUIGLEY, Publisher and Editor-in-Chief
COLVIN W. BROWN, Vice-Pres. and Gen. Mgr.

CHICAGO: 407 South Dearborn Street
HOLLYWOOD: Pacific States Life Bldg.
LONDON: 41 Redhill Drive, Edgware

CABLE ADDRESS: Quigpubco
NEW YORK TEL.: Circle 7-3100

Better Theatres (with which is incorporated The Showman) is published every fourth week as Section Two of Motion Picture Herald: Terry Ramsaye, editor. Member of Audit Bureau of Circulations. All editorial and general business correspondence should be addressed to the New York office. All contents copyrighted 1933 by Quigley Publishing Company and except for properly accredited quotations, nothing appearing herein may be reproduced without written permission. Every precaution is taken to ensure the safety of unsolicited manuscripts and photographs submitted, but the publishers herewith deny all responsibility for them in case of mutilation or loss. Branch office managers: E. S. Clifford, Chicago; Wid Gunning, Hollywood. London representative: W. H. Mooring. Other Quigley Publications: Motion Picture Daily, Hollywood Herald, The Motion Picture Almanac (published annually) and The Chicagoan.

MAY -5 1933

Better Theatres

May 6, 1933

Observations

¶ For the summer of 1933 the air in theatres will not be frigid. It will be merely cool. Or better still, conditioned.

Several of the larger theatre operators have already issued instructions that the ice must be taken out of advertising copy, lobby displays and other exploitation material. In the words of one official, "The summer cooling of theatres has been over-sold." Probably he didn't mean just that. The truth of the matter is that when cooling equipment was less common, theatre managements, over-anxious to create competitive advantages, had their usual recourse to superlatives. Cool became cold, language that should have been temperate became positively arctic.

Of course the polar-bear and icicle method of exploiting cooling facilities was not at first so very much at variance from the actual air conditions inside the theatres. Early equipment took little cognizance of any factor except temperature, and the public, quitting a blistering sidewalk for the promised relief beyond the lobby, soon found that it had in truth been suddenly plunged into an igloo, and mayhap a drafty one at that. People began to blame their summer colds on the last visit to the cinema, and those polar bear cutouts and marquees fringed with icicles lost their friendliness.

Today summertime air conditions in the theatre can be quite different. The technique of cooling has been changed in the most modern of equipments. Today cooling at its best is a seasonal application of equipment which has for its all-year purpose the maintenance of the most beneficial atmospheric conditions. Of these conditions, temperature is but a single factor.

Temperature, relative humidity and pressure—these are the inseparable triumvirate that determines breathing conditions for the patron. None of them alone, but all of them together make for the effective temperature that is management's only guide to the healthful comfort of its customers.

¶ And how many managements can actually control the effective temperature of their auditoriums?

Relatively few, even today. Most of them haven't the necessary equipment at their disposal. The reason is two-fold: The manufacturer has not yet found the demand for complete air conditioning equipment sufficiently great to permit a price low enough for it to compete with simpler equipment which superficially serves the immediate purpose; and the public does not create a greater demand because it thinks of summer comfort in the theatre only in terms of temperature.

The new viewpoint to be expressed by many leading theatres this summer, although intended only to remove the public's suspicions of those facilities which have so often created only chills and colds, may also serve to suggest to the public the difference between true air conditioning and mere cooling. RKO, for example, has adopted the slogan, "Conditioned air, carefully cooled." In general the trend this summer will be toward emphasis on comfort and health provided for scientifically with apparatus capable of producing all the conditions necessary to comfort and health. And the public may learn to choose its summertime theatres accordingly, resulting ultimately in a demand for a more general distribution of complete air conditioning equipment in our theatres.

In the meantime we should wish the manufacturer to look more interestedly upon such possibilities in the theatre field and seek the development of fully effective equipment in models better adapted to it in price.

¶ Some interesting comparisons suggest themselves in the "Motion Picture Dollar" graph published in the April 29th issue of MOTION PICTURE HERALD. For one, the Theatre's payroll with the entire cost of Production. Even the fabulously high-priced prima donnas and the yes-men of Hollywood could not give Production a better percentage of the whole Motion Picture Dollar than 18.2, while theatre employees take 24.7%.

Depreciation and maintenance (refurnishing, re-equipping, supplies, etc.) costs the theatre branch of the industry as much as electricity and heat—5.1% of all the money expended in the making, distributing and retailing of film entertainment! That is 75% of the total spent by the theatre in advertising and exploitation. And one-third of Exhibition's charges in rent, real estate and taxes. It is 65% of the entire amount spent for prints, the operation of exchanges, the advertising of product, and the maintenance of the distributors' home offices. Depreciation and maintenance of the theatre property costs nearly one-fifth the amount paid by the theatre for merchandise to sell.

The motion picture theatre, as a physical property alone, is a pretty important part of this business.—G. S.

15 MILLIONS TOO MUCH FOR INSURANCE

By C. H. GRAY

Thirty millions a year for fire indemnity, 90% of it covering theatres—and the survey disclosed this huge burden on the industry could be halved

FIRE INSURANCE costs the motion picture industry in the neighborhood of thirty million dollars a year. The true amount is probably more, rather than less, but because of accounting conditions and the lack of proper records, only an estimate is possible.

Of this thirty millions, at least 90% is paid for fire insurance on theatre properties.

And this annual burden of thirty millions of dollars in premiums should be cut in half—could be reduced to approximately that extent if proper steps were taken.

A survey which I have supervised of the motion picture industry's fire hazards and resources of fire defense furnishes the basis for these statements.

Disregarding the huge sums spent for fire extinguishing agencies which are supplied by taxation and do not register directly in the consciousness of the average person, it is obvious that in the last analysis the amounts paid for indemnity through fire insurance must have a fundamental relation to the losses which fire prevention or extinguishing agencies do not prevent. In other words there must be paid in premiums enough to cover the insured losses plus the profits and operating expenses of the insurance companies underwriting the risks. The act of drawing a check in payment of insurance premiums forcefully registers this item in the mind and gives it an importance greater than that commonly given to the other economic elements of the fire waste. In fact, to many people, fire loss and fire insurance appear to be the same thing. The result is their indifference to fire prevention; they are ordinarily willing to leave to the insurance companies what appears to be the latters' affair.

The indifference with which the motion picture industry has treated fire prevention work, and particularly the cost assessed on it for fire insurance indemnity, has meant an annual expenditure running into millions of dollars. It is true that the loss record of the industry has improved materially in the past few years, due, principally, to improved construction of buildings, better understanding of hazards and the sound establishment of the business. Due to this advancement in physical and moral resources, the industry merits drastic reduction in its fire insurance costs, and with further application of modern fire prevention methods, there is every reason to expect that the industry as a whole could be one of the lowest rated classes from an insurance standpoint. Such results are not only to be desired because of the financial saving, but any business so charged with public interest is under a peculiar public obligation to make its properties as safe from hazards as possible.

THERE IS no source within or without the industry that can furnish complete, or even approximate, statistical information on the industry's fire losses and fire insurance costs. This is somewhat surprising when it is considered that probably in no other department of the business would there be such a lack of information as to what costs actually are. Apparently, no one having anything to do with the industry's insurance matters has been interested in knowing what its indemnity should cost. Insurance is no different from any other commodity used in business, its cost is easily ascertainable—as a matter of fact, its cost is controlled by the industry itself! By properly safeguarding the hazards of the business, losses can be reduced to a minimum, so that the insurance premium cost will amount to the actual expense of conducting the insurance business, plus a reasonable profit.

In stock company fire insurance, the expense ratio to premiums has constantly risen, and now, although much too high, is generally 50%; this, plus 5% for profit, which is the customary allowance, leaves 45% of the premiums paid to defray the cost of losses. Is it not reasonable to suppose that if fire losses are eliminated or reduced to the vanishing point, that 45% would represent a saving in reduced rates? There is no question at all about that. Loss prevention pays, not only in dollars and cents, but in social improvement as well. American industries are not yet awakened to the serious economic significance of the fire waste, and until active forces of fire prevention education are successful in registering their objectives, our industries will continue to be drained of their resources by an easily preventable waste. Fire departments should evolve out of mere water-throwing agencies into fire prevention organizations whose successes are registered before the fire occurs. The modern fireman should not be kept continuously inactive in the firehouse only to go out and endanger life and limb in fires which should not be permitted to occur. A much more intelligent disposition of energy and knowledge should be made in inspection work and investigations of hazard conditions in the light of such investigations. This leads at once to the subject of fire insurance premium rates whenever the matter of fire prevention is projected.

There can be no intelligent rate-making without complete classified loss experience as a basis upon which to work. This is the crux of the whole rating subject. The lack of such classified experience is the reason the fire underwriting fraternity is woefully open to criticism. It is the reason the motion picture industry is paying millions of dollars per annum excessively in insurance premiums. No one can defend the present method of levying rates on the industry, yet no one has done anything about it. To be charitable, perhaps we might say that the fire insurance rating boards attempt fairly to apportion the aggregate premiums among the various classes, but lack the necessary experience data to provide complete equity in this distribution.

As our purpose is to determine the basis of fire insurance rates applying to the industry, a brief statement of the fundamentals of fire insurance rating is necessary for a clear understanding of the problem.

IN THE EARLY days of the fire insurance business, buildings only were accepted as a fire risk. The fire hazards of occupancy were little apparent to the insurer, and he concerned himself only with that class of construction. Buildings were either brick, stone or frame, and for evident reasons the risk to the insurance company varied according to construction. Rates on wooden buildings were about double those applying to brick ones, and all buildings in each class were written at one rate.

Gradually commercial and industrial activity increased, new hazards of occupancy came into the field, power hazards were introduced, and insurance coverage was extended to contents as well as to buildings. As a result, a more complicated method for the selection of fire risks came into use, known as the "group system."

Buildings were divided into three classes according to the occupancy. Such classes were designated as "non-hazardous," "hazardous" and "extra-hazardous." This was the beginning of the complicated rating system of today, whereby selection of risks and the corresponding rates applying are governed by details of construction, hazards of occupancy, exposure, protection and many other factors.

Insurance has been and always is the dispersion of the effect of destruction; the distribution of loss over a wide area and among many people, and, consequently, a distribution of the cost of insurance among a great many people. The budget which the insurance companies must necessarily raise consists of the value of property destroyed by fire, plus the expense of doing business, plus a reasonable profit. The cost of doing business is relatively fixed; it may vary during periods and in different territories, but such variance can be determined readily.

The value of insured property destroyed by fire is more variable. The fire loss is influenced by certain known factors, and likewise by intangible factors, such as characteristics of people and business conditions. In addition, weight must be given to unpredictable circumstances, such as earthquakes and conflagrations, which can be determined only by averaging experience over many years. It is apparent that the problem of determining rates is one of great complexity and is to be understood only by a consideration of the detailed factors which compose the rating technique.

Complex as the problem is, there is no mystery surrounding its solution. It is the result of evolution; a problem with which many generations of brilliant minds have labored, and during all these years, experience has been, and still is, the only sound foundation for rate structures. This evolution may not be complete; in fact, it is generally felt that the so-called "scientific" rating falls short of meriting such a description. The general foundations have been built, but it is realized that further refinement can be obtained. The insurance companies themselves are in a position to do this if they compile their experience and apply it to making specific rates measure more equitably the hazards of the property and its loss-cost. The insurance companies have been slow to move in such direction, consequently rates today are still made on a judgment basis rather than on an experience basis. The only relief in sight for a particular class or industry is to compile its own loss experience and determine beyond a doubt what its loss cost actually is and what it should pay for indemnity.

MEASUREMENT of fire hazard is the prime function of insurance rating. The problem then resolves itself into what are fire hazards of any property. Broadly speaking, they are:

(1) Element of the risk, itself.
(2) Element of place.
(3) Element of time.

Element of the Risk Itself—The basis for the classification of various properties under this heading are: construction, occupancy, exposure and protection. Modern rating has produced detailed methods for the differentiation of each of these factors.

Under construction, such matters are considered as material and design: brick, fire-resistive or frame, the stairway and elevator arrangements, the type of roof sheathing construction, height of buildings, skylights and numerous other features that either retard fire, or help to spread it.

Under fire hazards of occupancy, heat, power, light, labor, number of tenants, special fire hazards and their arrangement, and other similar details are considered.

The exposure factor to be considered in any property depends on the likelihood of a fire in an adjacent structure entering through windows or other wall openings, as well as by direct ignition of the building itself.

Under protection, such matters as the efficiency and size of the fire department, fire alarm systems, water supplies, automatic sprinklers, watch service, inside fire protection, are taken into account.

Element of Place—This division of rate making is probably the least understood. As fire insurance business grew, it became apparent that the fire hazard did not depend solely upon the individual character of the property itself. The ratio of the fire loss to the amount at risk in different parts of the country varies materially. Fire companies generally use the experience of a given state in fixing premium income, though the fire loss record of the larger cities is also taken into account.

To illustrate: From 1880 to 1915, inclusive, the amount of loss in cents for each $100 of risk varied in different states as indicated by the following:

State	Losses per $100 of risk
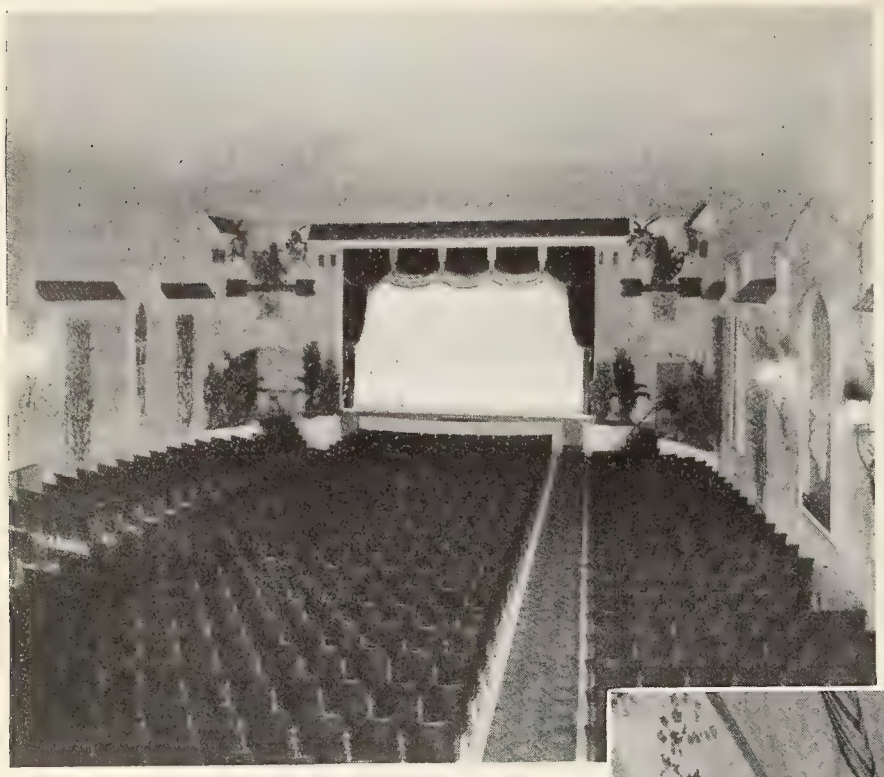
Conn.	$0.44
N. J.	.44
Penn.	.53
Mass.	.60
N. Y.	.38

There follows a very important conclusion. The fundamental basis of stock company insurance is that, as far as possible, the ratio of premium income to the amount of loss must be constant for sound operation.

With the above variation in loss cost, it is apparent that a constant loss ratio can be maintained only by variation of rates in different sections. It is clear, therefore, that a comparison of the rates on similar buildings in two cities, or even in two states, can be, at best, only a very rough comparison. The comparison may mean nothing at all as to the justness of either rate.



ALL THIS means is that the general level of rates in any territory depends on the fire loss experience of that territory. This fire loss experience, on which the general level of rates depends, is indicated by construction and occupancy hazards, the general intangible factor of fire department morale and efficiency, climatic conditions, characteristics of peoples, commercial and economic factors and many

(Continued on page 24)

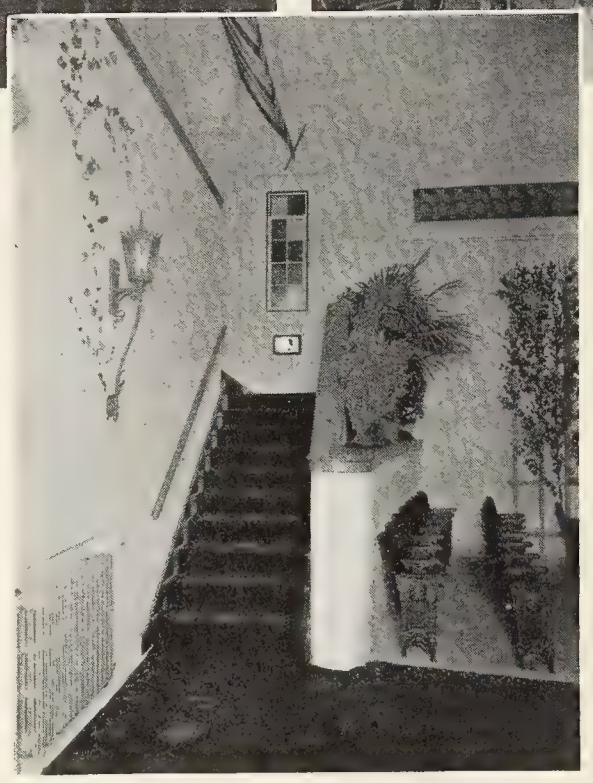
GLOSSARY

Risk—Insurance term for property insured.
Loss Cost—The ratio of fire loss to amount at risk.
Loss Ratio—The ratio of fire loss to premiums received.
Average Rate—Total premiums received divided by the total amount of insurance at risk.
Base Rate—An arbitrary charge used as starting point in schedule rating.
Key Rate—A city or town charge varying according to efficiency of fire department, water supply, etc.



"UNDER the present system, the industry is paying dearly for poor underwriting judgment of the fire companies that write poor grade business which keeps the general level of rates up. It is a well-known fact that the profit-producing risk is rated higher than it should be, while the unprofitable risk is rated too low. This discrimination can be overcome largely by insisting on class experience rating."

The view above shows the treatment at the forward part of the auditorium, with its proscenium arch surmounted by a red tile eave and flanked by passageways to backstage and exterior. The ceiling functions as a screen for star and moving cloud effects.

Besides showing the auditorium wall treatment in general, the view above indicates the double-mezzanine arrangement with the projection room in the middle, while pictured at left is one side of this foyer area leading to mezzanine lounges and toilets.

A 1,000-SEAT THEATRE IN A CITY OF 8,000

SMALLEY'S NORWICH theatre represents a recent design for a motion picture theatre in a town of 8,000—the city of Norwich, seat of Chenango County in New York State. It is a one-floor house of the atmospheric type (which, here and there, still persists), with a decorative treatment of Spanish pattern. Victor A. Rigaumont was the architect.

The theatre was erected for operation by the Smalley circuit of theatres prominent in this section, with headquarters in Cooperstown, N. Y. The seating capacity is 1,000, with chairs (by American Seating Seating Company) arranged in the arc-form now conventional but still not always employed in the smaller houses.

The building is of steel construction, with facing of white brick and terra cotta. It is 60 feet wide and 155 feet deep, and adjoining it is a parking space with a drive leading thereto. The marquee is finished in colors to match the terra cotta trim.

The theatre is entered through an entrance lobby and a foyer, the latter just to the rear of the auditorium, supplying a standee area and passage to stairs leading to a small mezzanine on either side of the projection room. This mezzanine arrangement represents an ingenious solution of the space problem in that each of the two levels provides a lounge, one for men and one for women, with toilet facilities adjoining. These lounge areas are practically a part of the auditorium, and they permit a full view of the screen.

The lobby has a slightly sloped floor of red tile. Poster frames and the side walls are done in silver and blue. The ceiling is stepped to realize better proportions between the depth and the height, and from it are suspended chandeliers of rusty-finished wrought iron.

The shallow foyer area is divided from the auditorium by a shoulder-high partition of stucco finish and done in tan. Woodwork is of natural finish. On either side is a staircase leading to the mezzanine levels referred to above. Off the men's mezzanine is the manager's office. The foyer is fully carpeted in Wilton velvet.

Following a Spanish atmospheric treatment, the auditorium has a vaulted ceiling of plaster tinted in blue, sky-fashion, and walls with plaster motifs in a relief pattern employing Spanish windows of colored glass, red tiled eaves and vine-covered lattices. The walls have a color ground of tan. Upon the ceiling is produced the usual atmospheric star-and-cloud effect. Lighting is by wrought iron fixtures, augmented by concealed lights of decorative function. At the rear the tan stucco wall surface is ornamented with foliage and awnings, the latter roofing the lounges.

Adjoining the proscenium arch are wide, iron-railed carpeted steps leading to the stage and exterior through Spanish doorways, over which are ports of natural wood, which in turn are surmounted by Spanish urns containing foliage. The stage is 60 feet wide and 25 feet deep, with a 40-foot climb to the gridiron.

Projection equipment includes Simplex projectors, Western Electric sound system and Brenkert lamps, spots and effect machines.

Air conditioning is of blower-ventilator type, with equipment located just below the projection room. Heating is by radiation.

As the accompanying photographic reproductions indicate, this design provides excellent viewing conditions. The throw and lateral range of vision are rather long, but the angles of both vision and projection approach the ideal. When the fundamental purposes of the theatre are thus served, its decorative treatment perhaps may be waived as a matter of taste, until the time comes when decoration more generally ceases to serve mere decoration, but beautifies the theatre in serving the screen.

COOLING THE THEATRE FOR COMFORT

By HARRY LEID

Some common-sense advice from a ventilation engineer on Harry Moskowitz's staff in charge of Loew's Theatres maintenance

THERE HAS been severe criticism of theatres in which the air is cooled during the summer months. The criticism has emanated from the public, from engineers, from newspaper critics and others. It has even become a standard joke on the vaudeville stage. This is because, as it has been pointed out, the theatre has been primarily chilled instead of being air-conditioned, which is to say the air inside the theatre has not merely been adapted to conditions of normal atmospheric comfort irrespective of the weather outside.

When cooling plants were first installed in theatres, very little thought was given to the proper temperatures, the relative humidity and other factors active in forming the conditions most comfortable and healthful to patrons. It was considered only necessary to get the theatre cold. In recent years, however, engineers have studied air conditioning as a science, and as a result modern equipment can cool a theatre and keep it cool, evenly and in constant adjustment to the weather, without sacrificing elements necessary to comfort.

In order to appreciate better the true function of theatre cooling, let us examine the process by which it is today, with complete air conditioning equipment, achieved.

Part of the same equipment used for refrigeration is also used for ventilation and heating. In other words, the air is circulated in the auditorium and other parts of the theatre in much the same way all the year around. It is drawn in from the outside, circulated, washed, part of it recirculated (from 50% to 67% being recirculated) in a continuous cycle. In winter it is heated prior to circulation, while in summer it is cooled.

The refrigerating means is known as the compressor, and the refrigerant is nearly always carbon dioxide, this being usually preferred because of the minimum of danger in its use. Cooling plants of large capacities require about 2½ tons of refrigeration per 1,000 cubic feet in the temperate zones (in New York, for example).

The air is cooled in the main washing chamber, which contains a spray of chilled water issuing from nozzles especially designed for the purpose. The pressure at the nozzle is usually from 15 to 25 pounds. The temperature of the water is always from 40° to 50° in temperature. The air is delivered to the theatre through a series of ducts (plenum system) and in the new systems is passed downward into the theatres, where it circulates to the breathing zone. The outlets are distributed throughout the auditorium, foyer and lobby ceilings and the balcony soffit.

Under the auditorium chairs are located so-called "mushrooms," or intake openings through which the air is returned to ducts carrying part of it back to the air washer for cleansing and mixing with fresh air from the outside prior to recirculation.

IT SHOULD always be remembered that the primary function of cooling is merely analagous to that of heating—that is, to create a temperature which with proper control of the humidity, the pressure and the purity of the air, represents normal atmospheric conditions for comfort and health. There are two classes of people to be considered: the patrons who enter the theatre for only a short time, and the employees who spend the entire day in this air-conditioned environment. If the contrast between conditions in the theatre and those outside is too great, patrons are subject to two definite reactions. Upon entering they feel mildly chilled; upon leaving the theatre for the hot street, they experience a severe shock. The causes of such reactions on the part of patrons should be avoided. Upon entering the theatre their reaction should always be one of distinct pleasantness.

Now the shock upon leaving the theatre that is haphazardly cooled, and cooled without proper provision for all the factors, is not alone due to the difference in the temperatures of theatre and street. That difference is extremely important, but the shock may also be due to the saturation of the patron's clothing, effected by excessive amount of moisture in the air of the conditioned area.

Those in charge of a theatre and its equipment should always remember that the contrast between outside and inside conditions is a majority factor in deciding what temperatures and humidities should be maintained in the theatre.

These considerations point to the desirability of an outside dry-bulb temperature differing from that of the outside air in the order of about 15° under maximum outside conditions, and approaching more nearly to the outside temperature as the latter approaches 80° Fahrenheit.

The temperature of the cooled air can be 80° when the outside air is 90°; 75° when the outside air is 85°; and 72° when the outside air is 80°; while the relative humidity should not be greater than 60% when the temperature in the theatre is 80°, nor greater than 65% when the air is 72°.

Prior to putting the equipment in operation the most thorough inspection of every part of it should be made in order to insure continuous operation during the summer months. During the winter 75% of it has been closed down.

Throughout operation of the equipment constant attention should be paid to the water used in connection with the washing of the air. This water should be changed daily, since the air, if circulating through impure water, would soon take on a disagreeable odor. The water picks up a surprising amount of dirt. This water should never be allowed to rise much above 50° in temperature.

The manager should be on the alert to see that the atmospheric conditions, not only with respect to temperature but with respect to the humidity and circulation, are proper for normal comfort. He should take hourly reading of his thermometers, which should be placed throughout the theatre. If he finds that the temperature and humidity are at too great a variance, he should communicate at once with the engineer, or with whomever is in charge of the equipment, so that the latter can make an immediate adjustment.

MAKE THE THEATRE LOOK COOL, TOO!

Besides being cool, the theatre should look cool. The devices vary according to theatre and means at hand. But always they should follow certain basic principles. (1) Keep the vestibule and lobby slick-looking. Congestion suggests stuffiness. (2) Use cool colors in decoration, posters, lighting. Greens, blues, pastel shades. Beware of red. (3) In floral displays avoid over-dressing. Vines and shrubbery can be used freely, flowers sparingly. (4) Poster patterns should not suggest frigidity. Use country scenes, clouds, birds in flight, etc. (5) Eliminate unnecessary rugs and draperies. If draperies are necessary, substitute, where feasible, light cretonnes.

COLOR IN THE LIGHTING OF THEATRES

By FRANCIS M. FALGE

Giving the principles of a technique which can be so valuable today in making older theatres appear new and attractive again

THE LIGHTING of theatres is of special importance today because many attractions such as stage presentations, orchestral and organ music, have perforce been dropped under the necessity of reduced expenditures. In some instances managers have appreciated the value of lighting as a simple and inexpensive means of embellishing their program and creating in the minds of the public a desire to come to their theatre rather than to some other. More theatres should find this course profitable.

For some years the accepted principles in the lighting of theatres have been expounded and have found their way into our newer theatres with gratifying results. The Radio City theatres are examples of the highest development of this art. Their lighting will continue to be a most valuable asset to the box-office. Today, however, the older theatres, once attractive and progressive leaders in their community, but whose novelty has worn off, can regain a large measure of new interest by renovating their lighting. In many cases no major changes are necessary; rather, a better understanding and more liberal application of the well established principles of light and color.

Table I—The Effect of Colored Light on the Appearance of Colored Objects

Natural Color of Object	Color of Light Illuminating the Objects: Red	Orange	Yellow	Green	Blue	Violet
Black	Red black	Orange black	Yellow black	Green black	Blue black	Violet black
White	Red	Orange	Yellow	Green	Blue	Violet
Gray	Red shade	Orange shade	Yellow shade	Green shade	Blue shade	Violet shade
Red	Red	Scarlet	Orange	Brown	Purplish black	Reddish purple
Orange	Red	Orange	Yellow orange	Greenish yellow	Black	Black
Yellow	Orange red	Yellow orange	Yellow	Yellowish green	Greenish black	Black
Light green	Red shade	Yellow green	Greenish yellow	Green	Blue green	Buish shade
Deep green	Black	Greenish black	Yellowish green	Green	Greenish blue	Blue black
Light blue	Violet	Dark gray	Yellowish shade	Blue green	Blue	Violet
Deep blue	Purple	Blue gray	Gray	Blue green	Blue	Blue violet
Violet	Reddish black	Red purple	Gray	Blue	Violet blue	Violet
Purple	Red shade	Red shade	Red shade	Black	Blue	Violet
Rose	Red tint	Red tint	Red tint	Greenish black	Blue shade	Violet shade

From "Light and Color in Advertising and Merchandising," by M. Luckiesh. (D. Van Nostrand Co., New York.)

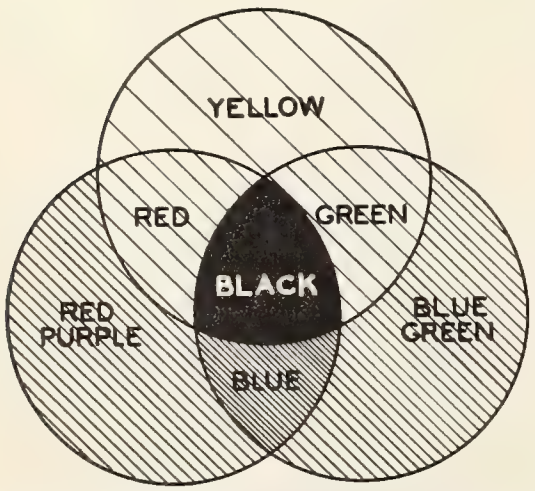


Fig. 1.—The subtractive method of mixing colors. These apply in the mixing of pigments.

There is a very general popular misconception of the characteristics of colored light which has had a marked influence on theatre lighting and has resulted in the general belief that colored light is governed by purely "cut-and-try" methods. There is, to be sure, a factor of experience and skill, as well as one of discrimination, in relating the color or colors of light to a given scene to create the appropriate atmosphere and to produce the most effective nuances. But the production of colors in all their myriad shadings and relative values is a matter of applying definite and well known physical laws. The facts of the matter give us a new concept of color and its use. Much of it is dependent on an understanding of the simple diagrams which follow and which should be thoroughly mastered.

Figure 1, which illustrates the mixture of the three primary colors of pigments, is radically different from Figure 2, which is the mixture of light. Although two primaries of pigment, blue-green and red-purple, are not greatly different from those of light which are blue and red, the third primary varies radically. With pigment it is yellow, and with light it is green. Furthermore, the mixture of the three primary pigments produces black, whereas three beams of light projected so as to lap produce white.

White light is made up of all the colors of the spectrum or "rainbow"—essentially consisting in red, orange, yellow, green and blue. The light from incandescent sources similarly has a continuous spectrum. All colors occur but in relative amounts determined by the temperature of the source. Thus in light from a gas-filled lamp there is relatively more blue and green than in the "warmer" light from a vacuum lamp.

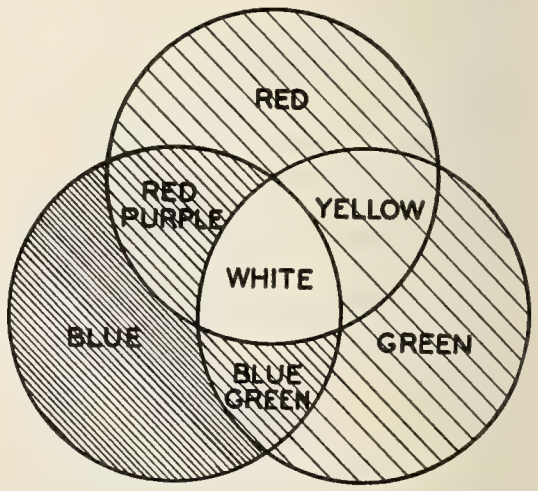

Fig. 2.—The additive method of mixing colors. These apply in the mixing of light.

COLORED LIGHT may be produced from white light by placing a color filter in the rays of light or by allowing light to be reflected from a colored object. This is illustrated in Figure 3.

From this it is apparent that in either case light of colors other than those desired is absorbed. As already indicated, there is only a certain amount of light of a particular color in the white light from a given source. In the case of 40-watt natural-colored gas-filled lamps, for instance, the percentage of really red light is 4% to 8% of the white. Pure blue is less than 1%, and green 5% to 10%. The amber, yellow and tinted lamps, such as old rose, flame-tint, and ivory, have much higher transmission values, ranging from 40% to 70%. It should be plain, therefore, that colored light in this case is not produced as such, but is obtained by a process of elimination—by absorbing light with filters, which is called selective transmission, or by absorbing light by the use of a colored opaque material, which is called selective absorption.

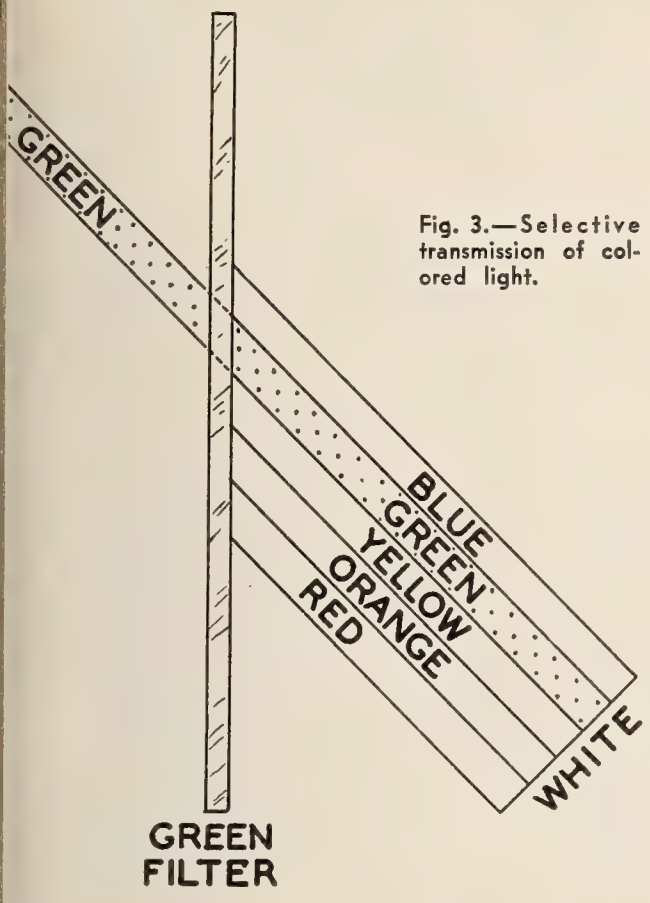

Fig. 3.—Selective transmission of colored light.

With other light sources, however, a narrower range of colors is produced. Neon tubes, for instance, produce orange-red light; mercury, blue-green; and sodium, yellow. In these cases the light is deficient in the other colors which make up white, and naturally the other colors could not be obtained by placing filters over the tubes.

Effect of Intensity and Area

THE RELATIVELY small percentage of light of each of the colors in white light explains the lack of brightness of these colors. Theoretically this would seem to mean that if blue and red were to be closely associated, about five to ten times as much blue wattage would be required. This is not true in practice, however, because the pure colors have a colorfulness which to a great extent compensates for their lower intensity. Then, too, the effectiveness of a color depends on the colors around it. It should be remembered, however, that a relatively small percentage of white light falling on the purer colors will tend to desaturate them, and in the case of blue, wash out the color almost completely.

The effect of various colors is greatly affected also by the area of color in question. With small areas, for instance, our preferences for colors may extend to the purer ones, but in the case of large areas the tints are generally preferred. It is hard to improve on nature, for instance, and you will rarely find anything but tints and shades in nature where space is boundless. Our homes also indicate a preference for the conservatism of tints. In the case of a theatre lighted all in a single color, one is likely to be so immersed in that color that the eyes become fatigued and the color no longer appears as upon first exposure, but is washed out and disappointing.

LIGHT ITSELF is invisible, but objects become visible only when light falls upon them. For instance, rays of light are seen only because of impurities in the atmosphere. In the case of color this is carried a step further—the object appears to be colored because of the nature of its surface, which absorbs light of some colors and reflects the light of others. The object therefore appears to be a certain color because the light of that particular color is reflected. This is illustrated in Figure 4. As an example, if red light falls on an object which has the ability to reflect red, the object appears to be red. If instead the object is capable of reflecting only a little red light but is a good reflector of green the object will appear a dark brown or black. If an object is composed of elements which allow a number of colors to be reflected, white light falling on the object will cause the reflection of each of these colors. Similarly, if a colored light falls on an object which transmits that color as well as a number of others, the object then appears the color of the light.

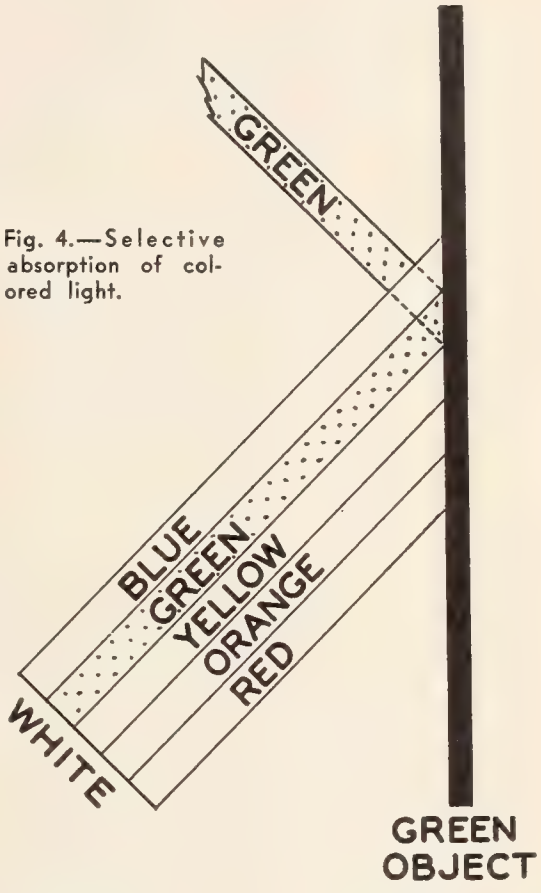

Fig. 4.—Selective absorption of colored light.

These fundamental facts allow an estimate (See Table 1) to be readily made of the color of various objects under different colors of light. As indicated in Table 1, an object capable of reflecting a certain color would theoretically appear to be that color if light of the same color were to fall on it. However, as previously mentioned, the object actually appears gray unless contrasted with another color.

Effect of Environment

What appears to be a surface of one color as viewed in one set of surroundings may give a quite different impression when the color or intensity of the surroundings is changed. For instance, a gray square surrounded by green will seem to be pink, and in the case of colors which are placed close together each color appears more satu-

(Continued on page 23)

Table II—Mean Order of Preference of Eighteen Colors

(T and S mean tint and shade respectively)

Rank	Mean of 115 Males	Mean of 121 Females	Mean of 236 Subjects
1	Blue	Red	Red
2	Red	Blue	Blue
3	Violet	Violet T	Violet
4	Green	Violet	Blue T
5	Blue T	Violet S	Green
6	Orange	Blue T	Violet S
7	Blue S	Blue S	Blue S
8	Violet S	Green	Orange
9	Red T	Orange	Violet T
10	Red S	Green S	Red S
11	Violet T	Red S	Green S
12	Yellow	Yellow T	Yellow
13	Green S	Green T	Red T
14	Orange S	Yellow	Yellow T
15	Green T	Orange T	Green T
16	Yellow T	Red T	Orange T
17	Orange T	Orange S	Orange S
18	Yellow S	Yellow S	Yellow S

From "Light and Color in Advertising and Merchandising," by M. Luckiesh. (D. Van Nostrand Co., New York.)

SOUND EQUIPMENT LEASES

2.—Lease and Sale Contracts

By LEO T. PARKER

Concluding an analysis begun in the April 8th issue of law involved in the leasing of reproduction apparatus

VARIOUS PLANS have been devised by patentees to avoid the Sherman and Clayton Acts. However, the courts do not hesitate to look through these obscurities. For instance, in a leading case, Straus v. Victor Talking Machine Company (243 U. S. 469), it was disclosed that a manufacturer of machines required each purchaser to sign a contract that a license plate was to be attached to each machine after the user had paid $200 royalty. The license plate contained a notice that users of the machines were privileged to use the machines without payment of further royalties, provided they purchased accessories from the patentee.

In holding the license notice void and of no effect, it is interesting to observe that the Supreme Court of the United States said:

"It thus becomes clear that this license notice is not intended as a security for any further payment upon the machine, for the full price, called a royalty was paid before the plaintiff (patentee) parted with the possession of it."

Distinguishing Lease and Sale

HOWEVER, READERS should not confuse the legal right of a patentee to restrict the uses of patented devices distributed under a valid license agreement. In other words, a licensed user of patented equipment is bound to abide by the reasonable terms of a license contract by which the patentee agrees for a stipulated sum to permit the theatre owner to use a particular invention for specified purposes in a limited territory.

Under these circumstances the patentee receives remuneration in accordance with the rights granted the theatre owner or licensee, and the latter is bound to abide by the agreement.

However, as previously explained, a license contract may be invalid for many reasons. Generally speaking, a license agreement is invalid by which a patentee seeks to eliminate competition. In a recent case a license contract contained a stipulation obliging the licensee user of the machine not to use machines made and sold by competing manufacturers. The court held this contract invalid in view of the provisions of the Clayton Act.

It is also important to know that disguised lease contracts which legally are contracts of sale do not enable patentees to restrict the uses of the invention.

It has been held that a contract by which a purchaser agrees to pay the seller certain amounts in installments, with the privilege of purchasing the machine upon completion of the installment payments, for an insignificant amount such as $1, is legally a sale contract and not a lease contract.

Therefore, users of patented machines purchased under this or similar forms of contracts are not bound by clauses which restrict the uses or resale prices of the patented product.

For example, in a late case (113 So. 454) a higher court held that a valid straight contract of sale may not be changed to a conditional contract of sale simply because the contract is intended to accomplish this purpose.

The facts are that a buyer and seller signed a contract which purported on its face to be a lease. By its terms the buyer agreed to lease from the seller for the term of 12 months a certain machine. The buyer was to pay a total rental of $4,500, the first payment of $450 at once and the balance was to be paid in equal installments for 12 months. It was also agreed that at the expiration of the 12-months period, the buyer should return the machine to the seller in good condition, or should have the option of purchasing it for $1, instead of returning it, provided he had complied with all the provisions of the lease. The court held this form of contract to be an outright sale, instead of a lease, and made the following remarks:

"The first question to be considered is the nature of the contract out of which this litigation grows. The contract, though couched in the phraseology of a lease, is in fact a sale. It contains the essentials of a sale; to wit, a fixed price, which was the rental to be paid, a thing to be conveyed, and the consent of the parties to the conveyance at the price fixed. The contract, we think, clearly shows that what is designated as the rental to be paid for the use of the machine, for the period of one year, is, in fact, the purchase price to be paid for it, and represents the full value of the machine."

Conditional Contract Breach

ORDINARILY, by means of a contract properly conditioned, a seller of theatre equipment may retain legal title to it until the purchaser fully performs the assumed obligations. On the other hand, it is important to know that under certain circumstances the courts will look through apparent obscurities for the purpose of determining whether or not the true intent of the seller actually is to retain legal title to the equipment, or merely uses this form of contract as a means to avoid responsibility for performance of an illegal act. Under the latter condition the contract itself is illegal and void.

First, it is important to know that both the buyer and the seller are bound to strictly comply with the terms of a conditional contract of sale. If either party fails to do so, the other party may sue and recover damages for a breach of the contract.

For instance, in Stimpson Company v. Gawell (158 N. E. 777), the record shows that a manufacturer and a purchaser entered into a written contract of sale which provided that the buyer should not have title to the equipment until it was paid for in full and, if he defaulted payment, the manufacturer could repossess his product without legal process. The mechanism was duly delivered and the buyer made the agreed initial payment. The balance was to be paid in 12 monthly installments.

The contract of sale further specified that the manufacturer guaranteed to repair the machine free of charge, if it proved defective within two years. The buyer refused to make future monthly payments on the contention that the manufacturer failed to repair apparent defects. When the seller demanded the purchaser to return the machine he refused to do so until the manufacturer should return the initial payment. The seller sued to recover the balance due on the account. The lower court held the buyer not liable, but the higher court reversed this verdict, saying:

"By the terms of the contract, upon default in any payment or other condition, the vendor (seller) was given the right to remove the property. . . . As the defendant (buyer) refused to deliver unless a condition which he had no right to impose was complied with, he was guilty of conversion."

It is quite apparent that had the buyer returned the machine when the seller demanded it, the buyer may have entered suit against the seller and recovered the initial payment plus all damages which he incurred. However, since in the contract of sale the buyer had agreed to return the machine to the seller in default of payment, the buyer automatically breached the contract by failure to return it and could not legally refuse delivery of the machine, to the seller, while demanding repayment of the first payment.

Conditional Sale and Mortgage

THE DISTINCTION between a conditional sale and a mortgage is that a straight sale is an absolute transfer of the title to goods, whereas a mortgage is security for the payment of a debt owed by the owner of the merchandise. Notwithstanding this established law, in many instances it is difficult to distinguish between a conditional sale contract and a mortgage.

However, various courts have held that although a contract purports to be a conditional sale if, when the purchaser defaults in fulfilling the terms of the agreement, the relation of debtor and creditor still remains, then the contract actually is a chattel mortgage. Moreover, a sale contract which legally is a mortgage is void with respect to all parties excepting the buyer and the seller.

For illustration, in Raymond Brothers Company v. Thomas (294 Pac. 219), it was disclosed that a seller sold certain equipment under a contract by the terms of which he could retake the merchandise, sell it, charge all costs and attorney's fees to the purchaser, who should be liable for any deficiency, "if the purchaser breached the contract requiring specified monthly payments." The contract, also, provided that should the purchaser fail to make prompt payments he must pay the balance due on the goods. In holding this agreement to be a chattel mortgage, the court said:

"The principal question is whether the contract, which purports to be one of conditional sale, was, by reason of its provisions, in fact, a chattel mortgage. . . . A contract which purports to be a conditional sale, but which in fact, by reason of its language, is a chattel mortgage, is invalid as to third parties."

Therefore, any contract which apparently is intended to retain title to goods in the seller but which by its terms makes the purchaser liable, although he breaches his obligations to make installment payments, is a chattel mortgage and void with respect to third parties.

Priority of Lien

It is well established that either a properly recorded chattel mortgage or a conditional contract of sale is superior to any other lien, as for money borrowed on the equipment after the contract or mortgage was properly recorded. So held a higher court in the late case of Bloomingdale Brothers v. Cook (152 Atl. 666).

The facts of this case are that a purchaser bought equipment on the installment payment plan. Ten days later the seller recorded the conditional contract of sale which stated that the title to the equipment remained with the seller until it was fully paid for by the purchaser. Soon afterward the purchaser placed another lien on the equipment. In holding the lien of the seller superior to all other liens, the court said:

"It seems clear, therefore, that under Conditional Sales Act no one could acquire title to or a lien upon the chattel in question superior to the title and property right of the plaintiff (seller) where the title or lien of such third party accrued subsequent to the filing of such conditional sales contract."

Delay in Recording Mortgage or Contract

IT IS IMPORTANT to know that delay on the part of the holder of a mortgage or a conditional contract of sale in recording it may result in forfeiture of his rights to other persons who may have a lien on the equipment.

For instance, in Seger & Gross Company v. Maclaire (165 N. Y. S. 423), it was disclosed that a conditional bill of sale was given February 1st. The equipment was not then in existence and had to be manufactured. By March 20 all the equipment had been delivered, except a few odds and ends of no importance. The conditional bill of sale was recorded March 23 at 10:30 a.m. The purchaser gave a mortgage to another person March 23

Litigation developed and the question presented was whether the mortgage was prior to the conditional contract of sale.

"It seems clear that the lien of the chattel mortgage is prior to that of the conditional bill of sale, for the reason that the delay in filing the conditional bill of sale was unreasonable. . . . As to all of the chattels there was a delay from the 20th until the 23rd, and no excuse is offered for this delay."

THE END

LIABILITY FOR PERFORMERS' ACTS

By M. MARVIN BERGER
Member New York Bar

NEWSPAPERS a short time ago carried the story of a middle aged matron who sued a motion picture theatre owner for injury to her health and feelings caused by the act of a performer. The performer, dressed to represent a Spanish caballero, stepped down from the stage and stood next to the woman, singing a song directed to her, while a spotlight was focused on her. The woman claimed that she had been so deeply humiliated and embarrassed by the words of the song, the manner in which it had been sung and the spotlight, that she fainted and thereafter lost weight and became extremely nervous. The case was dismissed after it had been shown that the lady, despite her allegedly disturbed state of mind, visited her attorney as soon as she left the theatre.

While in that case the woman's story as to the extent of the injuries caused by her humiliation, was apparently disbelieved, it is easy to picture a sympathetic jury giving the plaintiff a verdict under similar circumstances. The case raises the question of the relation of the theatre owner to the public with regard to performers.

As a general rule, the proprietor of a theatre owes his patrons the duty of using reasonable care in safeguarding them from an injury likely to be suffered at the hands of performers. Nor does this duty stop short of protecting the audience from actual physical injury. A patron lawfully in a theatre and acting in an orderly manner is equally entitled to freedom from insult or humiliation.

This responsibility of the owner or manager rests on the fact that he procures the act and invites the public to see it. And while the court will sometimes place liability for injury to patrons on the act alone, they usually view an act as the joint production of the act and the theatre. In the words of a leading case, "It appears unreasonable that the injured party should be relegated to a claim against some traveling theatrical troupe, brought to the theatre by the owner or manager, and who may depart overnight to places unknown, or vanish into the empty air."

Especially where the act is dangerous will the courts readily place responsibility on the theatre operator. "Patrons of theatres," said the court in a prominent case, "are frequently invited upon the stage to be used as foils for actors. Sleight-of-hand performers and acrobats avail themselves of the services of spectators as accessory to their tricks and feats. The management is bound to know whether the character of the act is dangerous. Patrons are entitled to protection against acts which by their nature might cause a menace to safety."

When the courts say "the management is bound to know whether the character of the act is dangerous" they place responsibility squarely on the actor or manager. The law thus makes it the duty of the owner or manager to preview the act and to eliminate from it anything that might conceivably physically injure or directly humiliate a patron.

MODERN PROJECTION

PROJECTION • SOUND REPRODUCTION • ACOUSTICS

SOUND EQUIPMENT TODAY— AND ITS MARKET

By AARON NADELL

The third and concluding article of a series begun in the March 11th issue describing recent developments in sound

THE COST of new, modern sound equipment is not nearly as large as it may seem at first glance—especially when the expenditure involved is spread over installments covering a period of time, and when the possibilities of maintenance economy are balanced against it.

A number of showmen have found that the more recent terms for sale and rental of high quality equipment make the total net cost of a new installation in their own theatres extremely small. One exhibitor recently told this writer that changing his old systems for new ones actually paid him a weekly profit. This is without doubt a highly exceptional case, but other cases not very dissimilar to it may perhaps be found if all the pertinent figures—including depreciation and maintenance detail—are closely analyzed.

Service Policies and Modern Equipment

It has been pointed out in the preceding articles that the advisability of installing new equipment, or of modernizing that already installed, sometimes exerts a very important influence upon decisions of service policy. Because of this, the desirability of new or modernized equipment for its own sake—as apart from maintenance matters—is a factor that under present day conditions may have a marked bearing upon maintenance decisions. Conversely, maintenance factors may have an important and even a deciding voice in the question of whether or not to buy new equipment, regardless of its desirability for its own sake. All this has already been gone over in some detail. The intrinsic desirability of modern equipment, independently of its influence upon service or other maintenance costs, remains to be considered.

Improvements in quality offered by the models of sound equipment most recently made available, as well as by recent modernization programs, fall into two general categories: one, improvements unknown to the audience but important from the point of view of maintenance costs; the other, improvements that directly affect patronage satisfaction.

Improvements in Sound Quality

THE AUDIBLE improvement of greatest importance involves what is known commercially as wide or extended range of reproduction. For its full effect to be apparent corresponding changes must be made in the recording studies, and in the more important studios these changes have been made. But even without any alteration in recording practice, with an ordinary film in the projector, the installation of wide range (or extended range) in a theatre improves the sound quality to a degree quite striking to the average ear. When both recording and reproduction are of this newer type the difference is altogether comparable to that between a modern radio and the tinny, horn-loudspeaker model of 1923.

Wide or extended range is built into most of the latest sound equipment, and can be added to the majority of existing installations. In the writer's opinion every showman, whatever his final decision as to installing this improvement in his theatre may be, owes it to himself at least to hear a demonstration of it.

Although no description of it in printed words can convey the impression it makes upon the ear, an account of what this thing is, and why it impresses the ear as it does, may be in order at this point.

SOUND IS a trembling of the string of a violin, of a human vocal cord, or of some other source of sound; it is the coresponding trembling imparted to the air around such a source, and, lastly by means of the air, to the drum of the listener's ear. The G-string of the violin trembles slowly; the E-string rapidly. The number of vibrations per second imparted to the air is greater in the case of the E-string; the frequency per second of the E-string vibration is greater, or, as we say, higher.

The greater the frequency of vibration per second, the higher the pitch will be. The musician creates higher frequencies still by placing his fingers upon the string, so that only a shorter portion of it is free to vibrate under the bow.

Sound systems have commonly been capable of reproducing with reasonable fidelity every note of every instrument, and every tone of the human voice, for the past several years. But many of the overtones which are necessary to naturalness have been lost.

When the violin string vibrates as a whole, shorter portions of the string, although they take part in the general motion, at the same time possess an independent, still more rapid vibration of their own. These shorter, higher sounds are known as the overtones, or harmonics. The resonant chamber behind the strings of the violin also produces harmonics when the air within it is set into vibration by the impact of the air surrounding the strings. These auxiliary vibrations are important factors in distinguishing an instrument, in giving the sound it produces its special beauty.

Harmonics, left largely unreproduced by the older type of sound systems, are what distinguish one instrument, or one voice, from another. The same note can be struck on the piano, played on the violin, sounded by a trumpet. In each case the note itself, "the fundamental frequency of vibration," is exactly the same. In each case it is only the harmonics, which differ for every type of instrument, that enable the listener to recognize what he is hearing. In the same way, harmonics based on the size, shape, construction and condition of mouth and nasal cavities, distinguish and individualize human voices.

Wide or extended range, by reproducing frequencies as low as 35, and above 6,000 per second, adds richness and brilliance to music, and individuality and naturalness to the human voice. This is an advance in technics that even an audience uncritical and uninterested in the mechanics of the entertainment, will unmistakably notice and comment upon. Even the people with "tin ears" will notice it! In fact, when the new development is present in the recording only, but not in the theatre, or in the theatre only, but not in the recording, it still is (although far less impressive) amply able to call attention to itself in the case of a great many average listeners.

Whether or not addition of this improvement (either through installation of new equipment or modernization of old) will prove profitable by creating greater patronage satisfaction is a matter each exhibitor must decide for himself in the light of his local conditions. In the case of a circuit it is quite possible that a separate decision on this matter for each individual theatre in the group will prove necessary.

Other Modern Improvements

There are, as has been said, other improvements than extended range in the quality of the latest models of equipment. Most of these, however, are primarily of interest from the viewpoint of the service problem, and may be listed briefly.

For one thing, most late models are all-a.c.-operated, using neither storage batteries nor motor-generators. In place of those devices they may employ either rectifier tubes or "dry chemical" stacks, with a net result of economy as well as of convenience and simplicity in operation.

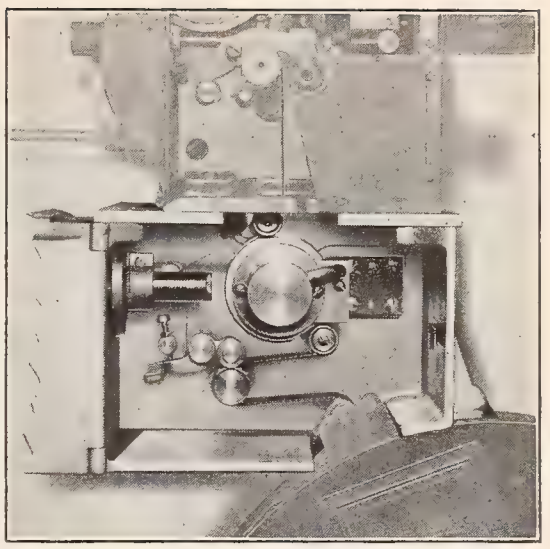
COMMONLY, the new systems are much more compact than older models, cost far less to install, and are easier and simpler to operate. The intention of their designers has been to build into them immunity from many of the maintenance problems of the earlier types.

For example, flutter, which would make extended range impossible and which still costs a great deal of overtime in the servicing of older apparatus—or else a great deal of annoyance to the audience—has been substantially made impossible in much of the latest equipment. Again, the addition of ball-bearing parts greatly reduces the possibility of wear and expensive replacements. The use of modern-type drive motors, with sealed, permanent lubrication, performs the double function of easing the responsibility on the projectionist and prolonging the trouble-free life of the motor. It is not the purpose of this brief review to list all the improvements and alleged improvements incorporated into the newer systems, but only to indicate that sound equipment engineering has developed improvements that should minimize the need for servicing, reduce the possibility of breakdown, and cost the theatre less to maintain, as well as improvements that patrons are definitely aware of.

Cost of New Equipment

Cost, naturally, is not price. The price of new equipment of any make can be ascertained by inquiring of its manufacturers. The real cost of such equipment to any theatre is a different matter altogether, and one that is, indeed, very much more difficult to figure.

In the first place, theatres already have sound equipment, either purchased outright or leased for a long term of years. This equipment, in most cases, is in working order, and the value of the useful life that still can be obtained from it must be added to the price of any new equipment with which it may be replaced. On the other side, it has already been seen that it is necessary to figure the comparative costs of maintenance, including both service and purchasing methods, as well as the possibility that the instrument in use may have reached, or may be rapidly approaching, the point where expensive repairs will be necessary.



Again, there is the question of modernization. Audience demands may, in the near future, compel the addition of wide or extended range to any existing system. Mere considerations of ultimate economy may dictate such modernization, as changing the existing gears for others of longer life, converting equipment for the use of less expensive tubes, eliminating storage batteries, and so on. Such expenses, naturally, are to be subtracted from the price of any new equipment that may be under consideration.

A thoroughly considered decision in the matter of new equipment cannot be reached until all the additions and subtractions indicated in any individual case—including especially the possible desirability of changing service arrangements—have been carefully and accurately made. The results, so far as experience to date seems to indicate, is not likely to be the same for any two theatres, even two that may be located next door to each other.

The problem presented by these latest developments is complicated, but it holds out the chance of large rewards for a correct solution, and threatens equally heavy penalties for possible opportunities neglected. No theatre can long afford to lag behind in the general advancement of the mechanisms of screen entertainment.

THE END

IN THE JUNE 3rd ISSUE . . . Further inquiry into the relationship of production technique and the theatre, with an analysis of the image-vision values of ten celebrated productions of recent years.

You Can Get Your Money Back— But You Won't Try!

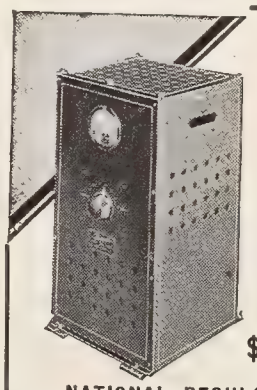
There are no strings to our money-back guaranty. You must be satisfied, or we take back the machine and you get all you paid us for it. Every Syncrofilm has been sold on those terms, yet not one has been returned for refund!

In hundreds of theatres all over the world (Syncrofilm is the leader in many countries) satisfied audiences are repeatedly paying satisfied exhibitors to see Syncrofilm shows. Night after night for years these machines have earned good profits and will for a long time to come.

We dare to prophesy long service. Syncrofilm is ahead of the times in design. Machines sold five years ago have features that are becoming common today. The Syncrofilm awaiting your order has features that will be common five years from now. It is so strongly, scientifically built that you probably will have no repairs until then.

That is why Syncrofilm owners don't ask for their money back. Do you want that kind of satisfaction? Write for details.

$SYNCROFILM



WEBER MACHINE CORP.

59 RUTTER STREET, ROCHESTER, N. Y.

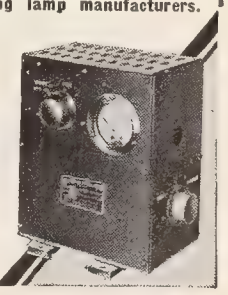
Export Office: 15 Laight Street, New York City

Cable Address: Romos, New York

Distributors in Principal Cities

2 ESSENTIALS in every booth

GARVER KURRENT CHANGER



Banishes Change-Over Troubles

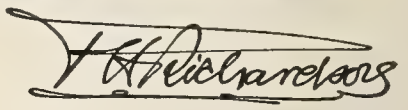
Changes A.C. to D.C. saving 20-30%. Delivers 15 to 30 Amps of constant, pure, white light quietly, dependably, without sound interference. Recommended by leading lamp manufacturers.

$150

NATIONAL REGULATOR

For the utmost in brilliant mazda projection. Small, sturdy, simple, dependable, quiet. Ideal for highly concentrated spot or flood lighting. 110 or 220 volts. $80 complete.

Garver Electric Co.



UNION CITY, INDIANA

Representatives in all Principal Cities

F. H. RICHARDSON'S COMMENT

• • AND ANSWERS TO INQUIRIES •

AVOIDANCE OF EYE FATIGUE FROM MOTION PICTURES

[The following paper was read before the Society of Motion Picture Engineers by Mr. Richardson, at the 1933 spring convention in New York, April 24-28. It will appear in the May issue of the Journal of the Society, together with a synopsis of the discussion it invoked.—The Editor.]

MUCH HAS BEEN written concerning the alleged straining of eyes incident to the viewing of motion pictures. Many who had little knowledge of the real facts of the matter have declared such strain to be severe; they have succumbed to the common fallacy of basing their conclusions upon inadequate data, and have failed to differentiate between the effects of viewing motion pictures that have been properly assembled and properly projected, and of viewing pictures that have been marred by avoidable and entirely unnecessary defects, which shall here be described.

A properly assembled picture, properly projected in a properly illuminated auditorium, places upon the eyes a burden that is little if any greater than that of reading ordinary book or newspaper print for an equal length of time.

However, it must be remembered that in the modern motion picture theatre the viewing time is quite long. The eyes of the patrons are used continuously for the entire length of the show; and on that account every possible effort should be made to make the work that the eyes have to do as easy as possible. If all unnecessary abuses and eye shocks were eliminated, then little or no ocular fatigue would occur.

However, it must be admitted that the matter of avoiding eye strain has been very lamentably and inexcusably neglected. It is the purpose of this paper to point out the nature of the various defects that lead to ocular fatigue and to suggest remedies for them.

IN THEATRES, the chief cause of eye strain that lies wholly under the control of the projectionist and the theatre manager is lack of definition in the screen image, due to the failure of the projectionist to focus the projection lens properly. This occurs particularly in theatres in which the projection distance is quite great, as it is then impossible for the projectionist to determine with the naked eye whether the sharpness of focus is optimum or not. The projectionist should always be able to examine the screen image through a high-power double glass, held rigidly in a fixed position so as to be always available for instant use.

This is an accessory essential to good work. It is important even in theatres in which the projection distance is short; but it is rarely, if ever, found in theatres. Common sense should tell us that the projectionist should be able to examine the screen critically and frequently. He can not examine it critically with the naked eye; and he is further handicapped by the fact that in modern theatres the observation port is invariably covered with glass, usually set at an angle to the surface of the screen.

It is quite true that a few theatre managers provide an opera glass of greater or less power. However, a glass that is not fixed in position is quite inadequate; usually it is deposited at the most convenient point by the man who used it last, and when wanted must be sought for. As a consequence, it is not used as often as it ought to be. Moreover, the screen usually is examined through the glass cover of the port. But in any event, a glass capable of being moved is of little value because the projectionist can not hold it steadily enough in his hands to permit him to examine critically the lines on a distant screen.

Two other causes of poor definition, which are within the control of theatres, are the presence of oil on the film, which is a matter for theatre managers to take up with exchanges, as well as to make sure that oil is kept from the films while in the theatre; and the presence of dirt on the projection lenses. It should be the duty of the projectionist to keep the lenses perfectly clean.

THE NEXT CAUSE of fatigue of the eyes to be considered is travel ghost, either in sufficient amount to be obvious, or in so small an amount as to be visible only by observers near the screen; or, even then, visible only through an opera glass. Travel ghost is seen in a surprisingly large number of theatres, for the simple reason that the projectionist neglects to go down front, at least once a week, to examine the screen image critically. A point approximately 25 feet from the screen is the best position from which to examine the image when using an opera glass.

Many persons, including some able projectionists, contend that when travel ghost is so faint as just to admit of detection, it can cause no harm. This is a wrong conclusion. Travel ghost in any amount tends to blur the horizontal lines of the screen image, producing upon the eyes an effect similar to that produced by a slightly blurred carbon copy of typewritten matter: even the best carbon copy is never as easy to read as the original.

ANOTHER CAUSE of eye strain, and a very important one, may be attributed to glare spots, the evil effects of which are, or should be, too obvious to require much discussion. The theatre manager who permits a glare spot to exist within view of his audience, or any portion of the audience, is evidently inconsiderate of his own interests, and is ignorant of the seriousness of such a procedure. By way of definition; a glare spot is any spot of white light of greater brilliancy than the general illumination of the auditorium (other than the screen, of course), in the field of view of the patrons looking at the screen. A white frosted electric light bulb, white frosted light bowl, or an indirect lighting fixture located within the field of vision as one views the screen is a glare spot, and may be highly objectionable. A spot of colored light may, if of sufficient brilliancy, be a glare spot, even though perhaps, a less serious one.

It is idle to assume that glare spots do not operate to decrease box office income. If after the show the patrons' eyes feel uncomfortable, or if the patrons are troubled with a slight headache superinduced by eye strain, they are not as likely to visit the theatre again as soon as they otherwise might. Although the patron is seldom able to place the blame where it belongs, he attributes his fatigue to the picture, not knowing or realizing that it was not the screen image but a spot of light—a glare spot—that caused his discomfort.

The remedy is obvious: eliminate glare spots. Illuminating the auditorium exactly as for a show, let the manager view the screen from various parts of the auditorium. If from any seat a white light is visible, let it be removed, or made less conspicuous. If, for any reason it is impracticable to eliminate it wholly, by extinguishing the light, let the portion that is visible to the audience be heavily inted, preferably amber.

Too intense illumination of the screen may cause eye strain for one portion of the audience; or, with insufficient illumination, another portion of the audience may suffer the strain—a condition that occurs in theatres in which the viewing distance from the rear is very great. In such auditoriums, if a picture of reasonable size, which can be viewed comfortably from the front seats, be projected, intense illumination of the screen will be necessary to enable those seated at the rear to see the details of the picture with comfort, or even to distinguish them. However, if the brilliancy be sufficient for those seated at the rear, it will be too intense for those seated at the front, and may cause them to strain their eyes, particularly if other difficulties, which will now be discussed, are present.

None of us is yet able to say with confidence just what the intensity of light reflected from motion picture screens should be. That is a question that involves rather grave difficulties and many investigators have been trying to answer it for a long time. The Projection Practice Committee now is working on the problem, with hope of at least some degree of success.

THE CHIEF possible causes of eye strain involved in viewing motion pictures that are more or less under the control of the theatre manager and the projectionist have been discussed. Attention will now be directed to perhaps the worst cause of all, over which neither projectionist nor manager has any control whatsoever. That it exists is indisputable; and that it occurs to a greater or less extent in every picture produced must be admitted. The remedy is in the hands of the producers, directors, cinematographers and film editors.

It is well known that in the human eye the quantity of light admitted to the retina is, within limits, automatically controlled; and that the adaptation of the eye to changing levels of illumination often requires an appreciable length of time. Sudden changes of intensity of illumination, occurring faster than adaptation proceeds, place a burden on the seeing process that may lead to considerable ocular fatigue. The greater the change of intensity, the longer the time required for complete adaptation.

It is evident, therefore, that so far as

You can depend upon

STRONG

High Intensity
Automatic Reflector
Arc Lamps

to deliver an abundance of light . . . silently . . . automatically . . . without trouble. Full, even screen brilliance . . . depth and definition . . . are assured.

For Sale by Independent Supply Dealers

The Strong Electric Corporation
2501 Lagrange St. Toledo, O.
Export Office: 44 Whitehall St., New York, N. Y.

Buy National 9 X 20 "HIGH-LOW"
PROJECTOR CARBONS

IN a competitive test conducted by one of the largest theatre circuits, in the presence of representatives of carbon and lamp manufacturers, National 9 x 20 "High-Low" White Flame Projector Carbons gave the most even screen illumination and the most lumens per ampere.

RESULTS OF THE TEST
Average Lumens per Ampere at 75, 80 and 85 amperes

First Place -	NATIONAL	90.7
Second Place		89.3
Third Place		80.4

NATIONAL
PROJECTOR CARBONS
NATIONAL CARBON COMPANY, INC.
Carbon Sales Division . Cleveland, Ohio
Unit of Union Carbide UCC and Carbon Corporation Branch Sales Offices: New York - Pittsburgh - Chicago - San Francisco

— Common Sense —

- YOU CAN'T afford to make your house an experimental station for some untried and partly developed sound outfit.
- YOU CAN'T expect to pull in the crowds to see the best picture on earth, if they can't hear it, too.
- YOU CAN'T keep paying exhorbitant "service" charges and endless excessive weekly payments—and then not own it.
- BUT YOU CAN buy outright and own care-free, perfected equipment that will fill your theatre with all the sound that's on the film. Then you'll make money.

CONSIDER THESE FEATURES — EXCLUSIVELY LE ROY
Front Edge Film Guide—Easily adjustable to 100 positions for wear.
Film Drum and Sound Gate—Smooth as fine glass—chrome plated—12 times harder than tool steel.
Film Rollers and Rear Edge Guides—High grade ball bearings—silent—permanent.
Optical Unit—Highly corrected slit reproduces the new Wide Range recordings with full perfection.

NOTHING TO ADJUST NOTHING TO TINKER WITH NOTHING TO FAIL
COUNTLESS EXHIBITORS ATTEST THESE FACTS
—think it over— —reason it out— —investigate!—

LE ROY SOUND EQUIPMENT CORP.
421 LYELL AVENUE Affiliated with Octo Engineering Association, Inc. ROCHESTER, NEW YORK

The Full Range Model—Built exclusively for FULL RANGE LABORATORIES to meet the present economic situation. It has many of the features of our own Master Model, yet is priced below the inferior grades of other manufacturers.
For information address
P.O. BOX 112 FULL RANGE LABORATORIES ROCHESTER, N. Y.

is possible, sudden changes of screen illumination should be avoided; but although the intensity of the projector light scource and the optical system of the projector remain unchanged, the quantity of light that reaches the screen varies constantly, often instantaneously and in extreme amounts.

Although this fact is very apparent, even to laymen, it has been almost utterly disregarded by those who make and assemble our motion picture productions; who seem to ignore the fact that instantaneous transitions from the dim lighting of a dense scene to the full glare of an almost white screen is objectionable. Every production provides one or several examples of such a transition.

ASSUME a dense interior scene, in which appear two persons, one of whom hands to the other a letter to read: instantly the illumination of the screen changes from a very low intensity to that of practically the blank screen. It needs no argument to prove that such a sudden change causes a "shock" to the eyes of all those viewing the screen. It also is plain that if the screen be illuminated intensely as is usually the case, especially in de luxe theatres, the "shock" may be rather severe, especially to those seated in the front of the auditorium. In order to avoid such a state of affairs, the letter or message could be shown as in white letters on a dark gray background, or as black letters on a lighter shade of gray. The shock would thus be very materially reduced, and the message be made not only as legible, but more so, because until the eye recovers from the shock and adjusts itself to the new level of illumination, its ability to read the message without straining itself to do so, will be much less than normal.

"But," the producer will protest, "it would be unnatural to show a letter on other than white paper, written with other than black ink."

Quite true; however, producers often do incorporate things not exactly natural in their productions. For example, how often have we seen the feminine "star" made up and beautifully attired, emerge from the water into which the plot had driven her, with her attire in perfect order —an effect that is admittedly unnatural. In order to conform to the nature of things, the "star" would have to emerge from the water in a damp and bedraggled condition.

Such letters and written messages constitute only one, though usually the worst cause of abuse of the eyes of theatre patrons. How often do we see dense scenes followed by scenes that are much less dense. For example, an interior, or a scene in the woods, followed by a marine view shown brilliantly on the screen. The change from a brilliant scene to a dense one causes little if any harm; but a change in the opposite sense does. The difficulty could be avoided with relatively little additional trouble on the part of the directors and cinematographers. The instructions are: "At the beginning of a brilliant scene which is to follow a dense one, let the scene be underexposed and gradually brought up to normal." Certainly such a procedure would provide an interval of time during which the eye could adjust itself to the change of illumination without noticeable strain.

In closing, it may be well to repeat: if, in projecting motion pictures, sudden changes of the level of illumination be avoided, and the pictures be projected as they should be, no straining of eyes will occur to any extent greater than that involved in reading ordinary print for a like length of time.

DEGREES OF HEAT AT PROJECTOR APERTURE

OUT IN British Columbia they have government officials who do something besides sit around and look wise. The people there really expect something from the men they hire to look after their affairs—something besides feather their own individual nests. New York's Department of Water Supply, Gas and Electricity, for example, might well be astounded at the way British Columbia deals with theatres, and the things they do to make them safe and to enable the projectionist to give citizens full value for their money.

Here our officials wonder what the degree of heat at the projector aperture is. Up there the government officials don't wonder. They measure it. Here is the tabulated results of certain measurements of heat at projector apertures made by them not long ago.

Colonial theatre, Vancouver.—Using a Powerlite reflector type lamp with an Elflex mirror; 25 amp., 720 degrees; 27 amp., 800 degrees.

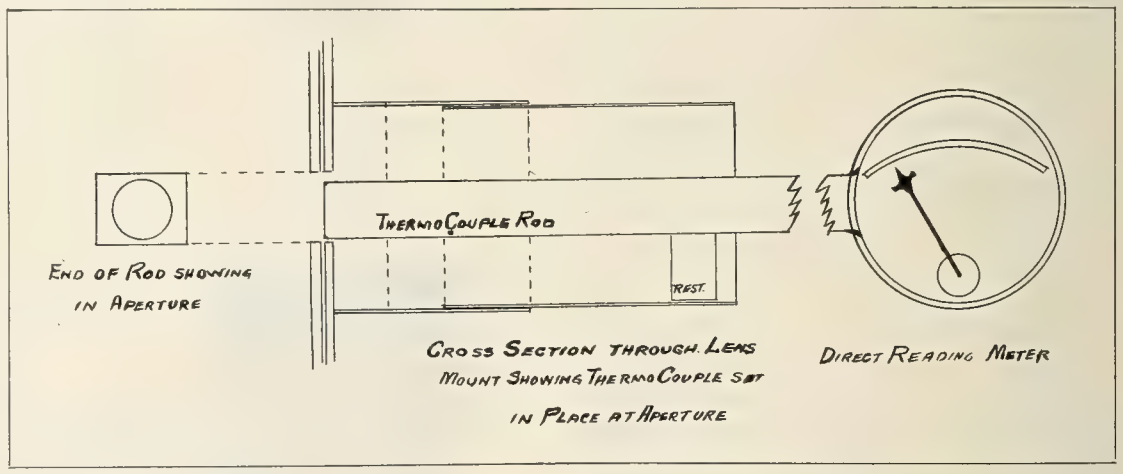
National theatre, Vancouver.—Using a Sunbeam reflector with Spherical mirror: 15 amperes, 510 degrees; 17½ amperes, 600 degrees.

Pantages theatre, Vancouver.—Using Peerless parabolic mirror reflector type: 25 amperes, 810 degrees.

Strand theatre, Vancouver.—Using a General Electric high intensity lamp: 82 amperes, 580 degrees.

New Orpheum theatre, Vancouver.—Using Preflex high intensity reflector: 50 amperes, 800 degrees.

Capitol theatre, Vancouver.—Using a Peerless high intensity reflector lamp: 50 amperes, 1,100 degrees; 72 amperes, 1,600 degrees.



Where mirror type lamps were used the diameter of the mirror was 6 inches.

I communicated with W. O. Oswald, assistant fire marshal of Vancouver, whom I know to be a most efficient, able official, asking just how the measurements were made. He replies as follows:

"Dear Richardson: With reference to the temperatures and how they were taken, I certainly will describe the method used by this office in making the readings. A small sketch attached will illustrate how it was done.

"In order to get a record of high temperatures a thermo-couple or thermopyre thermometer is used. The action of this, you know, is that if two substances such as platinum and rhodium, or platinum and iridium, are brought together and subjected to a rise in temperature, they will generate an e. m. f. which will be read on a mille voltmeter, which can be calibrated to read either in degrees Centrigrade or degrees Fahrenheit.

"By inserting a thermo-couple rod through the lens holder and bringing the end of the couple to the aperture just where the film would be, propping up the automatic shutter and allowing the light rays, properly focused to the aperture, to play on the end of the rod, the needle of the instrument starts rising and keeps on doing so till the maximum is reached. This reading is the heat at the spot. Varying amperages give varying temperatures. These readings were made by two government officials and double checked. The advance in equipment may have made some difference, but basically I believe the readings will stand.

"The thermo-couple is used quite a good deal by this office in testing temperatures of ignition of various substances, rise in temperatures of substances affected by spontaneous ignition, etc."

We certainly are obliged to Fire Marshall Oswald for this detailed explanation.

FIRST PROJECTIONIST: WHO WAS HE?

GEORGE L. MANNING of Buena Vista, Colo., asks, "Will you be good enough to settle an argument as to who projected the first motion picture.

Also when and where was the first motion picture projected?"

That, Friend Manning, depends upon just what you mean by motion pictures. In the year 1853 one Baron Franz von Uchatius projected hand-drawn pictures representing successive stages of motion on a screen by means of a stereopticon, then called a "magic lantern." In 1870 pictures consisting in poses made under time exposures representing successive stages of motion were projected. That was the first projection of pictures made by photography.

It was in October 1889 that the late Thomas A. Edison perfected his "peep hole" device, in which one person at a time might view motion, but it was not until 1895 that what we call motion pictures finally arrived.

From 1889 to 1895 there were various experimental projections at the Edison laboratories, none very satisfactory. Major Woodville Latham projected pictures from the press in April of 1895 in New York, using a machine he called the Pantopticon, built much after the manner of Edison mechanisms. The Pantopticon was unsatisfactory and gave way to the Latham Eidoloscope, which was also ineffective. Louis and Auguste Lumiere achieved authentic projection in Lyon, France, in January of 1895, with a machine which had a fifty-fifty shutter, giving equal periods of darkness and illumination covering the movement from frame to frame. The Lumiere device was derived from the Edison peep-show Kinetoscope, which had been shown in Paris.

Thomas Armat of Washington, D. C., produced the Vitascope, the first really successful projector, a machine which is properly the ancestor of the modern projection machine. Armat was not quite the first to project, but he made a big contribution in recognizing the principle of giving the film a period of rest and illumination greater than the period of darkness covering the movement from frame to frame.

THE KNOWLEDGE FOR PROJECTION SKILL

THAT up-and-coming, progressive projectionists' local union, No. 348 IATSE & MPMO, in Vancouver, British Columbia (in which I hold honorary membership) has supplied the National Research Council with the following summary of the knowledge which the modern projectionist should possess if he is to work safely and efficiently. Read it and consider your own case. The outline submitted follows:

ELECTRICAL—Specific working knowledge of theatre and projection room wiring; sizes and carrying capacity of wires and cables; insulation and its installation.

Theoretical and working knowledge of the various types of generators, rotary converters, rectifiers, transformers and rheostats including knowledge of methods of making temporary repairs to keep show running.

SUN ARC

THE WORLD'S LARGEST THEATRES
RKO-RADIO CITY ROXY
AND
RKO-MUSIC HALL
Are Using EXCLUSIVELY
SUN-ARC CARBONS
FOR PERFECT PROJECTION
"Best by Test"
BIG SAVING—COMPLETE SATISFACTION
BETTER LIGHT—SLOWER BURNING
CARBON SAVERS (patent pending) free of charge (2 Savers for each Theatre)
Burn Hilow and High Intensity down to 2 inches and less.
CARBONS FURNISHED READY FOR USE WITH THE SAVER. No inconvenience whatsoever for the operator.
HIGH INTENSITY CARBONS 13.6 are furnished 22 inches long.
They burn 8 minutes to one inch as compared with 4¾ and 5¼ minutes respectively, of other brands.
Hilow Carbons (for 60-85 amps) are precratered.
They deliver 56 Lumens per Ampere, as compared with 51 and 49 Lumens respectively, of other brands.
SAMPLES ON REQUEST
CARBON PRODUCTS, INC. 324 WEST 42nd STREET NEW YORK CITY

Your BEST PROTECTION

THE YORK ROUND DOOR CHEST does more than reduce your insurance costs. It actually discourages attempts at burglary. For this sturdy chest has a reputation in the underworld as an extra tough customer. Even the most experienced cracksmen have never been able to open one. Anchored in a block of solid concrete, it cannot be moved or attacked at any point except the heavy, burglar-resisting door. Equipped with "hold-up" partition to discourage hold-up.

Write for illustrated, descriptive folder.

YORK SAFE & LOCK CO.
YORK, PENNSYLVANIA
Manufacturers of the World's Greatest Vaults
BRANCHES AND AGENCIES IN ALL PRINCIPAL CITIES

IF your sound system is NOT equipped with PROJEX SOUND LENSES find out WHY
You are entitled to receive the quality made possible by this new formula
SLIT IMAGE PERFECTLY CORRECTED
—no distortion
DUST AND FOOLPROOF CASING
—permanence insured
NARROW SLIT
—reproduces high frequencies
Projection Optics Co., Inc., Rochester, N. Y.

LINCROPHONE
SOUND-ON-FILM
Built for Those Who Demand the Best
Costs Less in the Long Run
Enthusiastically endorsed by hundreds of leading exhibitors, proven through months of hardest usage LINCROPHONE offers to-day what is probably the simplest and finest sound on film equipment on the market, especially made for those who want a better product than they can buy outright at a price only a little more than the cheapest.
Send for Complete Description
LINCROPHONE COMPANY, Inc.
W. H. Linton, Pres.
127 Pleasant St. Utica, New York
Dealers Invited to Correspond

Type
HC-10

A DIFFERENT SYSTEM
OF PROJECTION LIGHTING

STABILIZED ARC

THERMAL ARC CONTROL

For Better and More Reliable Projection Results

Write for Illustrated Booklet
HALL & CONNOLLY, Inc.
24 Van Dam Street New York City

Projecting Sound Pictures

By AARON NADELL

Film Reproduction
Sound-on-disc
Sound-on-film
Amplifiers & Rectifiers
Vacuum Tubes
Acoustics
The Loud Speaker
Motors & Generators
Tracing Trouble
Recording

PRICE (including postage): $2.60

Motion Picture Herald
Bookshop
1790 Broadway, NEW YORK, N. Y.

Testing and tracing circuits for phase relationship, voltage, opens, shorts, grounds and other things. Complete work of making connections from source of supply through generator, rectifier, and other equipment to lamp house and other equipment requiring same.

Specific working knowledge of all types of arc and incandescent lamps used for projection purposes.

MECHANICAL — Thorough working knowledge of the accepted types of projection mechanisms, their uses, care adjustment and renewal of parts.

Various types of intermittent movements, their adjustments, care and qualities. Safety devices on mechanisms, action, care and adjustment.

Revolving shutter, principle, design and adjustment.

OPTICAL—Working and theoretical knowledge of condensing lenses, types, mountings, adjustments, focussings and care and matching same.

Knowledge of mirrors, principles, types, mountings, adjustments, focussing, faults and care.

Knowledge of projection lenses, construction, selection, matching, adjustments, use and care.

Ability to obtain clear field on the screen. Ability to secure correct definition and maintain same and to secure best results on screen at minimum of expense.

SAFETY—Specific working knowledge of safety appliances connected with projection apparatus, auxiliary safety appliances, their use and care.

Knowledge of projection room, its construction, equipment, ventilation and general layout of room.

SOUND REQUIREMENTS

TUBES—Thorough knowledge of standard makes of tubes, ability to select, match and test for and measure electron emission, mutual conductance, plate impedance and amplification factor.

LIGHT SENSITIVITY CELLS—To give detailed description of its action and duties, be able to properly install and test for efficiency and properly apply the current.

ELECTRICAL—A thorough knowledge of the principles of amplifier and of both high- and low-frequency of filter circuits, and the ability to test and measure condensers, choke coils, resistance and audio-frequency transformers and to measure the voltage and currents used in the different circuits also to test and trace the various circuits for faults.

AMPLIFIERS—Thorough knowledge of methods of amplification and rectification used in the reproduction of sound, ability to trace circuits, connect transformers, and apply a proper voltage to filaments and plates of all tubes. Testing sound amplifiers in case of trouble.

OPTICAL SYSTEM—Properly focus and adjust exciting lamps and maintain proper image of optical slit on sound track.

MOTOR CONTROL CABINET — General knowledge, care and operation of synchronous motors and controls for Western Electric or RCA systems.

BATTERIES—To properly care for and maintain in good condition dry or wet batteries and be able to test for voltage, gravity of electrolyte and proper charging rate. To know all the dangers connected with same.

ELECTRIC PICKUPS—A thorough understanding of the different types, their principles, faults, uses and how to test them.

HORN UNITS—Types, principles, attention and care.

TROUBLE SHOOTING—It is essential in the production of sound that the projectionist be qualified in detecting trouble that arises, such as: Faulty and weak tubes, blown condensers, burnt out choke coils, loose connections, loss of volume, flutter, hum, motor boating, periodic sound coming from speakers, change in pitch of sound, out of synchronization, speech distorted, etc.

MAINTAINING HIGH PROJECTION STANDARDS

ONE GOES from one theatre circuit organization to another only to find that they have either almost totally disrupted their projection organization, or at least have cut into it heavily. I am glad to note one exception; namely, Loew's. The organization under Lester B. Isaac, director of projection for Loew's Theatres, has been, so far as I am able to ascertain, in no degree reduced. It is functioning just as it did in other days. May I compliment President Schenck and Mr. Charles C. Moskowitz upon their wisdom in taking this course.

The temptation to reduce expenses is just now almost overmastering, but after all, as I have often said, there are very few, if any, expenses that are better justified than those incident to the maintenance of the very thing upon which the excellence of what the audience sees and hears depends. There are places and times when a dollar may only be "saved" at an ultimate expense which makes the presumed economy an actual loss.

Lester Isaac took over the Loew projection department at a time when it was badly disorganized. Then chief projectionist in one of Loew's Washington, D. C., theatres, he was brought to New York and placed in charge. He has built the wreck into a really splendid department.

Much credit is due Charles C. Moskowitz in this matter. He is a practical official, not one of the swivel chair variety. He knows his theatres and the necessity for organizing the work of projection to the end that waste be avoided and excellence in screen results be attained and maintained.

POSSIBLE FAULTS IN PRINTERS

RECENTLY QUESTIONS were asked about the possibility of airplane and motorboating noises having their seat in faults in the studio printing room. Not being well posted in printing room practice, and knowing but little, save in the most general way, about printing and printers, I applied to E. I. Sponable, whom I regard as one of the best sound engineers in this industry, for information. Mr. Sponable very graciously made answer as follows:

"Dear Mr. Richardson: You asked me if anything can happen in the printing of sound pictures that may cause a foreign noise in the sound-track. The answer is, unfortunately, yes, although it is naturally the exception rather than the rule.

"In continuous printers, if the printer gates are not properly adjusted there is the possibility of frame lines causing an exposure into the edge of the sound-track, producing in the reproduced sound a sort of an aeroplane effect. Likewise it is possible to obtain reflections from the sprocket teeth or sprocket holes that cause slight exposures into the sound-track as evidenced by 96-cycle noise or flutter.

"In the case of double-head printers, where the sound is printed at one aperture and the picture at another, it is possible for a slight amount of sound to be reprinted in the picture aperture, causing a distinct echo in the final print.

"The processing laboratories are constantly on the watch to prevent these troubles. They always appreciate advice from the theatre when such trouble manifests itself.

"If the projectionist finds this sort of trouble and cares to report it he will also assist the laboratory manager if he will note on the edge of the film the printer identification, which usually is placed in the small margin outside the sprocket holes and may consist of numbers or symbols such as dot-space-three dots, or dots and dashes."

SCRATCHES ON FILM AND OTHER FAULTS

FRANKLIN THOMAS, projectionist of the Delmar theatre in Morrill, Neb., writes, "Recently I made note of a letter dealing with horizontal scratches on film. Your opinion was that such scratch marks could not be the result of any fault in the projectors, in which view I agree-with you. However, I attach a cut-out from trailer film received. It was a talking trailer on 'Private Jones.' The scratches you observe were continuous through every frame of the entire trailer. Would appre-your opinion as to how these were made.

"Next there is the subject of 'dirty' frame lines. I attach two frames taken from consecutive scenes of 'Air Mail.' With the naked eye one may see the ragged edges of both bottom and top lines; also note the hair-line extending across the upper left hand corner of each frame. I have noticed Universal to be especially bad in the matter of ragged frame lines. An outstanding example of this appeared in practically all air scenes of 'Air Mail Mystery,' their recent serial. In that production both top and bottom frame lines were so sloppy that even with the new sized aperture plates I was not able to keep a clean picture edge except by framing a-plenty, and that is, as you very well know, not so good.

"And now for a question: Do projectionists handling W. E. or RCA have much trouble with airplane or motor-boating noises caused by the sound track not being precisely centered over the slit, or by poor printing? I have had two years experience with DeForest equipment and some with Western Electric and am unable to recall any time when such a trouble developed. With the present apparatus I have charge of I find it necessary to change my optical line-up too frequently. The equipment has a revolving slit or sound block. It is impossible for it to get out of line, but the optical system and exciting lamp may be moved horizontally so that the light beam will overlap the slit on either side. The motor-boating may be eliminated by moving the light beam one way or the other. My problem is to find out whether it is present day printing or my equipment that is at fault.

"This letter is already long, but I must add this: The standard release print is the one greatest improvement tending toward advancement in projection since I have been in the profession. The next step should be larger reels and an inspection service at exchanges upon which we may really rely, with eventual education of the projectionist to have porper respect for the film they handle. This last will come only through an efficient exchange inspection and check-up on damage. So long as the machine operator type can get away with film mutilation he will in all human probability continue to do so."

That last is exactly true. When exchanges attach a tag to each reel reading, "This reel has been inspected and an exact record of existing faults therein contained recorded; any unnecessary damage inflicted thereon at the theatre receiving it will be charged against the theatre, with recommendation that it be assessed against the man in charge of projection," and if the plan is religiously carried out, unnecessary damage will cease.

I have referred the matter of dirty frame lines to Universal headquarters in New York City. Having occasion to call at Fox headquarters that same day, I got into touch with an official of the company, who promptly agreed to have the matter of possible carelessness about frame line investigated, and to call the attention of Fox studio men to the fact that the new picture size and projector aperture dimensions do not make ragged film photograph frame lines less undesirable than formerly. Not all theatres yet have the new projector apertures installed. Even if they did, it still would be highly essential to have the film photograph frame lines smooth and clean. May I suggest that all other producers follow the same procedure. Some cameramen or printer operators (probably the latter) may have the idea that clean frame lines are no longer important, which view is wholly and completely in error.

The hair-line spoken of was a hair-line, all right. I only found it after examination under a strong glass. It doesn't seem to be a scratch. It looks more like a hair or something of the sort that had adhered to the lens of the camera.

As to motor-boating and airplane noises, competent, working projectionists advise me

SUPERIOR
PROJECTOR
NEW MODEL 'U'
—AT 1933 PRICES—

The OUTSTANDING PROJECTOR for Durability, Low Cost of Maintenance, Operating Performance, Screen and Sound Results.

Universally adapted to all types of Sound Reproducer equipment, and without special adapters.

Rear Shutter, Double Bearing Movement, Improved Framing Device, and other refinements.

The Most Practical, Economical and Efficient Projector on the market today.

We invite correspondence from Reliable Dealers who are interested in a Proposition.

SPECIALISTS IN PROJECTION EQUIPMENT FOR OVER 12 YEARS

COXSACKIE HOLDING CORP.
Coxsackie Send for Details New York

lenses

from the finest theatres come to us for resurfacing: condensers, lenses and reflectors of all kinds. Among our customers are the most particular and critical managers and projectionists. We can give 24-hour service. The cost is less than one-third the price of a new condenser or one-sixth the price of a new reflector. All work like new. Write for particulars.

G. O. Hansen & Brothers
Optical Company
4021 ARMITAGE AVENUE
CHICAGO

SOUND EQUIPMENT
Rebuilt and New

Projectors, Screens, Booths, Opera Chairs, Spotlights, Stereopticons, Film Cabinets, Portable Projectors, Arc Lamps, M. P. Cameras, Carbons, Mazda Lamps, Tickets and Machines. . . .

Projection machines repaired and overhauled. Repair parts for all makes of opera chairs. Equipment bought at highest prices.

S. O. S. CORP.
1600 Broadway, New York City

there is but little of that sort of thing now, provided of course the projector sound head is in proper condition, and adjustment. However, I have consulted with the highest authorities we have in such matters, who say that printers may and occasionally do get out of adjustment in such manner that these noises result.

AS TO SWITCHING PHOTOCELL CIRCUITS

MARTIN TEKER of the Martin Opera House in Leith, No. Dak., presumably its manager, writes, "I have a problem in sound to which I have been unable to find an answer. Perhaps you can help me.

"Am using one of the battery operated sound equipments which uses two head amplifiers. Since it is out of the question during present business conditions to get one of the a.c. equipments, I would like to make some improvement in the one I have.

"When switching from one head amplifier to the other there is no sound for several seconds, or until the 112-tube heats up. This fault I would very much like to eliminate. One way is to install a switch that would keep all head amplifier tubes lit up continually during projection, but that of course would not only waste current, but also to some extent would shorten the tube life. I therefore would like to eliminate one head amplifier and use the present switch to change over the exciter current and the p.e. cells at the same time. What I want to know is, would a single pole, double-throw switch do a good job of changing over the sound portion, and if the anode of each cell can be directed direct to one side of the switch (the head amplifier to the center of the switch, of course)? Would like to know about this before we do any rewiring. The manufacturers of the system are unable to give me information as they do not build a set having only one head amplifier."

First of all, I don't think highly of a sound system manufacturer who is unable to answer such a question merely because he does not make a one-amplifier system. I referred this matter to the engineering department of Electrical Research Products for analysis. Here is their reply.

"This will acknowledge your letter of March 12, to which was attached a letter from Mr. Martin Teker, of Leith Opera House, Leith, North Dakota. Our answer is as follows: Except as a temporary measure to restore sound in an emergency, it is not good practice to switch photoelectric cell circuits as Mr. Teker suggests. There are several reasons why it is not, the most important of which are the following:

"1.—The photoelectric cell circuit is essentially a 'low-energy' circuit. It therefore would be quite likely to pick up extraneous noises.

"2.—Depending somewhat upon the impedance relations, if the capacity to ground of this circuit is appreciable, a loss in the higher frequencies would result. Under some conditions this loss may be as high as 8 to 10 decibels; even under some circumstances higher than that.

"3.—Such an arrangement would be very likely to result in noise at the time the circuits are switched from one projector to the other.

"4.—Unless the wiring is made mechanically secure, vibrations will be likely to result in flutter, due to small, rapid changes in the capacity to ground which would occur as the wiring vibrates.

"It would seem to us there are only two practicable methods by means of which the difficulty Mr. Teker reports as resulting from the interval required for the vacuum tubes to heat up, can be overcome. One is to keep the heater current on all the tubes in both amplifiers continuously. This is open to the objection, as he points out, that it both wastes power and shortens the life of the tubes. An alternative method, which would require the expenditure of less power and would not appreciably shorten the tube life, would be to keep the tubes of the idle amplifier partially heated while not in use. This would of course very materially shorten the time required for the tubes to reach operating temperature at the time of changeover. The method of accomplishing this would require nothing more than a series resistance in the vacuum tube circuits, which could be short-circuited when the amplifier is put into action. The exact amount of resistance required would probably be best determined by actual trial.

"The only other practicable solution would be an arrangement whereby the filament circuit of the amplifier on the incoming projector could be turned on a few minutes before the sound is switched. This, however, is open to the objection that unless it be in some manner made automatic, its success would depend upon ability, or perhaps it might better be said, close attention, on the part of the projectionist to do the switching correctly."

WHAT PROJECTIONISTS REALLY SHOULD KNOW

FROM Pennsylvania comes this letter: "I am an apprentice projectionist and have but a short while to serve before I take examination for projectionist license. I understand projectionists' unions in various sections require an entry examination. Would you help me out to the extent of submitting some sort of authentic list of subjects upon which I might concentrate, so that I may grasp the essentials of what a first-class projectionist should know?

"The theatre in which I am apprenticed has three 6B Powers projectors and a W.E. sound system; low intensity Peerless light source equipment. I have been studying Audel's electric series and principles of sound system, as well as your Bluebook School series, but it all seems rather hazy."

The Audel books are excellent, but not in my judgment quite what the beginner needs first. You should have studied the Bluebook itself, which is written not only for projectionists, but for apprentices as well. Nadell's sound book is excellent, too, but the Bluebook should be read first for the reason that it covers projection more generally. To tell you what to concentrate upon would be impossible because I cannot possible know what any individual examiner's idea of a competent examination might be. Some union examinations have been, and still are, rather unique.

To tell you what a projectionist should know, and what a really competent projectionist must know, might discourage you. However, there is no reason to be discouraged. One cannot possibly become highly competent all in a minute, a week, a month or a year. Keep studying and you will get there bye and bye. Things will lose their hazy look when you concentrate upon fundamentals. The projector intermittent, for example. Learn exactly what it is, exactly what increased or decreased speed of intermittent stands for, what the speed limitations are and why, what are the relations of speed of intermittent movement to screen illumination with any given power or light source, what are the relations of shutter blade width to flicker, how to proceed intelligently to reduce shutter blade width.

Take the light source as another example. Study fundamentals, to the end that you may know the why and wherefore of the electric arc, its light giving powers, and how to direct the light efficiently and intelligently after it has left the crater floor. Learn what the temperature of crater floors is and why it cannot be appreciably higher. Learn that it is, save in a small way, not change in brilliancy of the crater floor, which is approximately constant (volatilization temperature of carbon) in any except high intensity arcs, that determines the amount of light available, but the area in square millimeters of the crater floor, that it is the adjustment of the crater floor with relation to the mirror or the condenser that determines the percentage of available light sent forward to the projector aperture, that it is the diameter of the spot, within certain limits, that determines the percentage of light sent forward by the mirror or condenser which will pass through the aperture; that the spread of the light beam (in some measure controllable) and the projection lens diameter determine what percentage of light passing through the aperture that will go forward to the rotating shutter; and finally, that the percentage of shutter blade and shutter opening width will determine the percentage of light reaching the shutter which will pass through and thus be available for screen illumination.

My advice to you is to keep right on studying, keeping your ears and eyes wide open while working as an apprentice. Don't be afraid to ask questions. Many a projectionist lacks fundamental knowledge for no other reason than that he has feared to ask.

ALL COMMUNICATIONS TO F. H. RICHARDSON SHOULD BE ADDRESSED AS FOLLOWS:

F. H. Richardson,
No. 3 Tudor Lane,
Scarsdale, N. Y.

PROJECTION MART

Equipment News and Comment

NEW GENERATOR MODEL

● A smaller model of motor-generator designed for theatres of the lower seating capacities, as well as for schools and other auditoriums using low intensity arcs for projection, has been developed by Automatic Devices Company of Allentown, Pa. It is marketed under the name of Stabilarc, Jr., and is described in general as a counterpart of the regular motor-generator produced by this manufacturer, with such changes as are indicated for a rectification medium capable of supplying up to 30 amperes per arc.

AUTOMATIC CHANGEOVER

● A changeover device which has some of the aspects of a safety control has been brought out by the United States Electrical Tool Company. In case the film is jammed or otherwise halted, the motor is cut off and the douser dropped.

In the changeover operation, the arc is struck and regulated, and the motor is started on the second projector, the fade-out sound switch is thrown from the first to the second projector, the douser is opened on No. 2 and closed on No. 1, with the operation completed five frames from the end of the current reel.

BY WAY OF NEWS

● The foreign market remains a live field for American sound equipment. Electrical Research Products, for example, reports considerable activity in its export business. There is now a total of 800 Western Electric equipments in Continental Europe, the Near East and India. France alone has 188. Germany, of course, is Klangfilm's private hunting ground. The 199th W. E. installation in London recently was completed in the Adelphi.

Messrs. Heddaeus and Blumenthal of the Ditmas Electric Company of Brooklyn, have taken over the Macy Engineering Company, at one time well known in the theatre equipment field for its speakers and other sound and address equipment.

RCA Victor wide range equipment has been ordered for the former Publix and RKO theatres in Texas taken over by Interstate Amusements, Inc., headed by Karl Hoblitzell. The four largest among them are the Majestic in Houston, the Capitol and Majestic in Dallas, and the Majestic in San Antonio.

L. V. Kuttnauer has established the Midwest Theatre Equipment Company at 208 N. Wells Street, Chicago, to deal in sound and projection equipment and general theatre supplies.

Color in the Lighting of Theatres

(Continued from page 11)

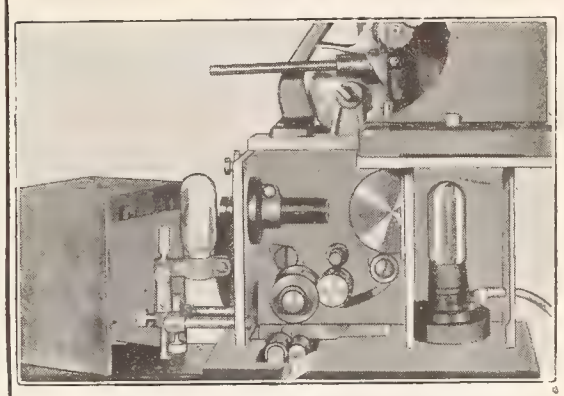
rated and purer. This effect is at its height when colors are in juxtaposition. When they are moved apart the colors appear to be less saturated and have more of the characteristics of a color which is viewed by itself.

Psychology of Color

The above discussion pertained to the physical make-up of colored light and its effect on the eye. There is a wealth of experience, particularly in the theatre, to attest to the psychological effect of color also. It principally affects our moods and reactions. This color sensibility has been developed through long association with color in life and nature, and our reactions to color are even indicated in our speech.

Some colors are stimulating, others tranquilizing, and still others subduing. The rich oranges and yellows, which are usually considered the brighter colors, are stimulating and are symbolic of laughter, life, and energy. The greens and blue-greens are tranquilizing or neutral. They are present all around us in nature. Blues and violets are subduing and symbolic of sadness or gloom. Similarly, associations have given "warmth" to the reds, oranges and yellows; and to the greens, blues and violets, "coldness."

In nature, one finds in looking into the distance that the lighter colors—oranges and reds—are near, and as the distance grows a haziness falls over everything and we see the greens more distant, with the blues and violets farthest away. The lighter colors are therefore known as "advancing," and the green-blues and violets as "receding," colors.



Through these long associations, symbolic usage has grown up for each color. Just a few of the more common connotations of the various colors are as follows:

Red—Fire, tragedy, war, cruelty, anger, hatred, valor, passions, danger, Satan and anarchy.

Orange—Approaches the effects of red or yellow, depending on its color. The usual oranges symbolize contentment, fruition, laughter and warmth.

Yellow—Gaiety, luster, wealth, enlivenment. Gold symbolizes glory, power, wealth, splendor and divinity; greenish-yellow, distrust, deceit, decay, cowardice, jealousy, inconstancy, sickness.

MELLAPHONE SOUND-ON-FILM

A SMALL WEEKLY PAYMENT

Buys Mellaphone Sound Equipment outright. Let us solve your Sound Equipment problems, as to the right Equipment and the best way to Pay.

Write or wire for full Information

MELLAPHONE CORP.
ROCHESTER NEW YORK

Speed Accuracy Silence Efficiency

CASH CONTROL GRC SYSTEMS TRADE MARK

A "GENERAL" Leads Again!

There must be a reason why RADIO CITY-ROXY THEATRES and the Chicago's WORLD'S FAIR are equipped 100% with the latest AUTOMATIC GOLD SEAL TICKET REGISTER.

GENERAL REGISTER CORP.
81 Prospect St. Brooklyn, N. Y.
1018 S. Wabash Ave., Chicago
1726 S. Vermont Ave., Los Angeles
113 Albany St., Boston
112 North 12th St., Philadelphia

RICHARDSON'S HANDBOOKS OF PROJECTION

Vols. 1 and 2.....$6.20

Vol. 3 (on Sound only)..$5.10

The Three Volumes....$10.20

MOTION PICTURE HERALD BOOKSHOP

1790 Broadway, New York

Green—Freshness, youth, vigor, resurrection, faith, hope, cheerfulness.

Blue—Dignity, cold, sadness, hope serenity, truth, wisdom.

Purple—Royalty, pomp, richness, power.

White—Light, purity, truth, innocence, peace, modesty.

Black—Woe, gloom, death, mourning, serenity.

Gray—Penance, humility, sobriety, sadness, mature judgment.

Color Preferences

MANY TESTS have proved a scale of color preferences which may to some extent have influenced the standard theatre practices in vogue today. However, it should be recalled that these preferences in general refer to small amounts of color and are preferences for color's sake alone. They are an especially excellent guide for the use of color in advertising. Table II is the result of a comprehensive survey of color preferences as often shown.

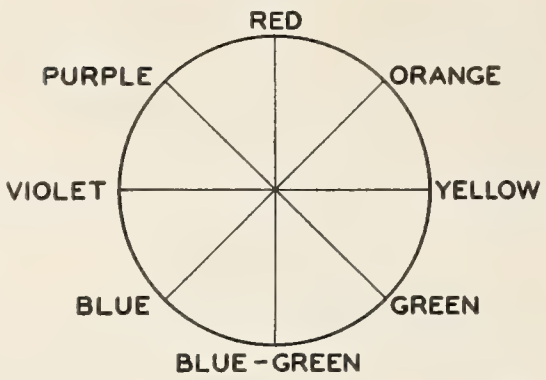

Fig. 5.—The color circle in which complementary or contrasting colors lie diametrically opposite each other. Complementary colors are those which, when mixed, produce white light.

Color Harmonies

COLOR HARMONIES are so widely influenced by the amount of color, the closeness of the colors and the environment that it is quite impossible to predict reactions to color groups. We do know, however, that contrasting complementary colors (Figure 5) when close together, are generally liked. A group of closely associated colors is also favored to a lesser extent.

The theatre has an exceptional opportunity to use the symbolism of color, to offset the psychological influence of the weather, to heighten the effect of music, to embellish the pictures, and to create the atmosphere for special occasions and to stimulate the desired audience mood.

[In another article Mr. Falge will follow this exposition of the theory of color in lighting with a demonstration of the practical application of color to theatre illumination, especially as it finds timely use in the refurbishing of houses which have come to appear old.] other human elements. Even if universal base rates were used as a starting point for various rate schedules, the general level of rates—an average rate for any given territory—might be widely different, yet both be justified. For example, all other factors being equal, if any state, or city, had five times as many fire-resistive buildings as another state or city, the average rate in the former would be the lower. They would not be comparable, yet both average rates over the whole territory might be justified.

15 Millions Too Much for Insurance

(Continued from page 7)

Element of Time—Experience has shown that loss-cost varies from year to year as well as from place to place. The fire loss is not constant from year to year; some years more insurance is written than in others, so this variance is to be expected. To attempt to adjust rates in accord with the constantly changing ratio of losses to premiums, would impose additional expense which would ultimately mean increased premiums from the assured. Rates are therefore based on the average experience of a number of years. It is generally conceded that a period of less than five years is of little value as a basis.

From the foregoing general theory of rating, it is at once evident how the theatre class is discriminated against.

Instead of having its rates based on the class record, it is obliged to bear the penalty of having its rates based on a general average of all classes of risks. That is, instead of basing rates on the class experience, the rating schedules are made up to produce a rate that is adequate in the opinion of the rating board, which means that the general insurance cost is distributed over all classes as judgment dictates. There are some classes that are practically immune—from this method of rating—that is, their class record is kept separately so the rates more accurately measure the class experience. This is what the motion picture industry merits—a separate classification on which its rates will be predicated.

UNDER THE present system, the industry is paying dearly for poor underwriting judgment of the fire companies that write poor grade business which keeps the general level of rates up. It is a well-known fact that the profit-producing risk is rated higher than it should be, while the unprofitable risk is rated too low. This discrimination can be overcome largely by insisting on class experience rating.

Prejudice, no doubt, is responsible in a considerable part for the high theatre rates existing today. As an illustration of this, up to the time of the fire at the Iroquois theatre in Chicago, where so many lives were lost, the theatre almost from the beginning had been regarded as a risk that naturally carried a heavy loss record. The rates were high and the losses, when they occurred, generally were severe. The Iroquois theatre was a fireproof theatre and the property loss was insignificant compared with the loss of life. But because of the loss of life, an intensive study was made of theatre construction for the purpose of developing standards which would be as safe as possible for life and property.

The result was, and is, that the theatre today represents a risk in planning, construction, and maintenance wholly unknown twenty years ago. Yet the word "theatre" is apt to bring up in the mind of the underwriters a picture of the older type, the "opera house" which, of course, has not wholly passed away. It has taken some years to change the picture which the word "theatre" brings up and to develop a picture which the modern theatre, from the standpoint of fire insurance, ought to show. Along this same line, a prejudice exists in case of the motion picture house due to the use of nitrocellulose film, which underwriters in the early days of picture film regarded as very dangerous to handle and exacted high rates wherever film was used. As a result of such prejudices, theatre rates have remained much higher than the class record has justified in late years.

NOW THIS question of rates brings us to the consideration of the rating schedules used for rating theatre properties. For the sake of clarity, it should be explained that a rating schedule is a yard-stick by which all risks of a given class are measured so that equity may prevail. In the schedule itself the only vary factor is the key rate which usually is different for each city or town, according to fire department efficiency, water supply and other local factors. The base rate in some schedules is produced from the key rate but usually the base rate is an arbitrary figure or judgment rate used as a starting point from which to compute the schedule of charges and credits and arrive at the final net charge or rate. Then a standard building of the class is taken and charges made for any sub-standard features, while credits are allowed for any improvements to standard. This, briefly, with certain arbitrary charges for faults of management, completes the modern rating schedule. The schedule is a long step in the right direction, but so far, the improvement is practically confined to this, it gives equality of rates to a class when the same schedule is used, but there it stops. Its outstanding defect is that the charges in the schedule are based on judgment rather than on class experience. And the further objection that many rating boards use entirely different schedules and rules for the same class, thus producing different rates for property of the same grade. This means that in the theatre class, for instance, those theatres located under the same rating board have the same schedules applied to them, but as the rating boards are so great in number in nearly every state, and sometimes in the same state, different schedules and rules are applied for rating theatre property.

The remedy for the present rating situation is most obviously the adoption of uniform schedules for rating properties of the industry. Such schedules carefully made and based on the class experience record for the past five or ten years would doubtless bring a reduction of at least fifty per cent of the present scale of rates, and would be fair to the underwriters as well as to the industry because the schedules would be based on fact and not guess work. Moreover, any additional improvement in the industry's loss record would be reflected in further rate concessions. The loss experience record together with uniform schedules that would apply the same measurement to property throughout the country, and the unification of rating rules will eliminate such outstanding variation in rates as the following tables show. The theatres taken for this illustration are of the same type but are located in different rating territories, therefore, rated under different schedules.

Brick Constructed Theatres Occupied for Motion Pictures Only

City	Base Rate	Building Rate	Contents Rate
Cleveland, O.	.184	.90	1.326
Albany, N. Y.	.10	1.17	1.72
Sheboygan, Wis. ..	.171	.315	.552
Manchester, Conn. .	.238	.89	1.53
Camden, N. J.	.5075	1.942	2.13

Fire-Resistive Constructed Theatres Occupied for Motion Pictures Only

City	Base Rate	Building Rate	Contents Rate
Hackensack, N. J...	.5075	.379	.971
Albany, N. Y.	.10	.25	.82
New York, N. Y...	.35	.273	.523
Massillon, O.	.194	.46	.914

Fire-Resistive Constructed Sprinklered Theatres Occupied for Motion Pictures Only

City	Base Rate	Building Rate	Contents Rate
New York, N. Y...	.35	.368	.668
Milwaukee, Wis. ..	.123	.092	.239
New Haven, Conn..	Judgment	.20	.45

Brick Constructed Sprinklered Theatres Occupied for Motion Pictures and Vaudeville

City	Base Rate	Building Rate	Contents Rate
Ansonia, Conn. ...	Judgment	.55	.80
Dover, N. J.	.5075	1.766	1.953

Fire-Resistive Constructed Sprinklered Theatres Occupied for Motion Pictures and Vaudeville

City	Base Rate	Building Rate	Contents Rate
Jersey City, N. J...	1.25	.57	1.176
Philadelphia, Pa. ..	.20	.32	.61

Fire-Resistive Constructed Theatres Occupied for Motion Pictures Only

City	Base Rate	Building Rate	Contents Rate
Middletown, Conn..	.10	.67	1.21
Newark, N. J.	1.25	.92	1.806
Milwaukee, Wis. ..	.109	.30	.637

The wide variation in the rates illustrated above are not due to community differentials or differences in territorial loss experience, but can be attributed clearly to difference in schedules used and peculiarities in local rules under which schedules are applied. That present schedules leave much to judgment of the rater which makes for wide variation under the same schedule is illustrated by the following typical theatres in the same territory.

Brick Constructed Theatres Occupied for Motion Pictures Only

City	Base Rate	Building Rate	Contents Rate
Cleveland, O.	.184	.90	1.326
Elyria, O.	.184	.713	1.003
Albany N. Y.	.10	1.17	1.72
Batavia, N. Y.	.30	2.74	3.24

Fire-Resistive Constructed Theatres Occupied for Motion Pictures Only

City	Base Rate	Building Rate	Contents Rate
Hackensack, N. J...	.5075	.379	.971
Paterson, N. J. ...	.5075	.752	1.755
Albany, N. Y.	.10	.25	.82
Albany, N. Y.	.10	.39	1.00

Fire-Resistive Constructed Sprinklered Theatres Occupied for Motion Pictures Only

City	Base Rate	Building Rate	Contents Rate
New York, N. Y...	.35	.175	.427
New York, N. Y...	.35	.368	.668

The popular conception is that rating schedules, such as used in rating theatre properties, produce actual measurements of the fire risk involved. They are believed to measure the fire cost of a property, which is the expected loss, plus expenses, plus a reasonable profit to the insurance company. This is far from the fact. It is true, however, that rates produced by schedule rating places one risk relatively on a fair basis with other risks in its own class, but no proof can be brought forward that will establish the accuracy of the rates which the schedules produce on a given risk in a class as compared to any risk in another class.

For instance, church property rates are a great deal lower than rates on theatre property, church schedules, where used, are much simpler than theatre schedules. Yet the loss ratio on churches has been extremely high and cannot be compared in a favorable light at all with the theatre class. This also can be said in the case of public school property. At their best, rates are estimated; the general level for the class is decided upon and a schedule devised to produce the predetermined rate. That the predetermined rate for the class is correct, cannot be proven by the actual loss-cost experience, because the rating bodies do not know themselves. The basis for these predetermined rates are insurance company estimates, but figures are not available to verify them. In other words, it is comparatively easy to prove that in the aggregate and over a long period, insurance companies do not receive exorbitant prices for the indemnity they sell, but the companies collectively, have not established the equity of class rates.

FOR ANY practical use in rating work and fire prevention work, it is necessary to compile complete loss records of the various types of theatres to learn just what the loss experience of each is,

VORTKAMP
AND COMPANY
AMUSEMENT SUPPLY SPECIALISTS

Now serving hundreds of theatres throughout the country. Can save you more than $500 per year on your operating overhead. Write us today for details and be convinced like scores of other exhibitors have been.

VORTKAMP & COMPANY
1600 Broadway New York City

Motion Picture Patents My Specialty
PATENTS
William N. Moore
Patent Attorney
Loan and Trust Building
Washington, D. C.

The first important step is to learn whether you can obtain a patent. Please send sketch of your invention with $10, and I will examine the pertinent U. S. patents and inform you whether you are entitled to a patent, the cost and manner of procedure. Personal attention. Established 35 years.

Copyright your play $5.00
Trade-Mark your goods or titles $30.00

ANNOUNCEMENT
I have changed my business address to 452 Lexington Avenue, New York City, Room 3409. (Former address 101 Park Avenue.)
BEN SCHLANGER
Architect

NEW THEATRE CHAIRS USED
GENERAL SEATING CO.
2035-49 Charleston Street
Chicago, Illinois
ACCESSORIES PARTS FIRMASTONE

and furthermore, what is the particular cause of fires, internal or external hazards, and when they occur. Without such information, the industry never will get very far in correcting its excessive insurance cost or intelligently combating its fire waste. At present there is no systematic study made of fires as they occur, so that the lessons that may be drawn from them may be applied to preventing the start of other fires or of lessening fire damage from those that start in spite of fire prevention work.

It is in the insurance field that practically all of the best present day fire protection and fire prevention technique has been developed, and it is high time that agencies like fire departments and industrial classes put this available knowledge to use.

Fire inspection work today is largely confined to fire underwriters boards for the purpose of fire insurance rating and inspections of installations of automatic sprinklers. In some cases there are underwriters inspection bureaus which inspect and make reports for underwriting purposes for the insurance companies in the bureau. Fire prevention engineers of insurance agents and brokers, and also special agents of insurance companies, make inspections of particular properties. In some cities uniformed firemen make monthly inspections of theatres. This inspection work is sometimes helpful and again it is practically worthless. When efficient, it provides information concerning any defects in properties and does much to educate the property owner in fire prevention.

Such recommendations as fire insurance organizations make are necessarily advisory as they have no legal authority to require improvements. Their suggestions are accepted for obtaining a particular rate or as a condition stipulated for the acceptance of the property as a risk. There is nothing an insurance company can do which will prevent an owner from maintaining a fire hazard if he is willing to pay for it in his rate. High rates for hazardous occupancies are not always sufficient incentive for the correction of fire breeding conditions causing them.

Special mention should be made of automatic sprinklers and automatic fire alarms as necessary equipment for theatres for the safety of life and property and the reduction of insurance cost. The purpose of any fire detecting or extinguishing device is to catch a fire in its incipient stage before it gets beyond control. There is no question that the improved automatic fire alarm system accomplishes this, and if the system were installed in all theatres a marked reduction in the number of fire losses could be expected. The cost of the automatic fire alarm is nominal, much less in fact than the cost of automatic sprinkler installation, so that the saving in rate reduction should in a few years more than pay for the cost, not to mention the added protection to life and property.

There is a limit to what can be accomplished by municipal action. Such ordinances as may be enacted for fire safety are necessarily minimum requirements made under the general authority of the "police power" which enable communities to provide for the safety of the public in general. While living up to legal requirements will help, this cannot alone reduce to a minimum the general burden of the fire loss. The provision of further requirements for the fire protection of individual properties is dependent upon the individual owner's initiative. On them rest the responsibility for keeping their property in order, for eliminating defects in construction and for providing adequate fire protection. The fulfillment of such a program with a systematic method of compiling the industry's loss experience record will secure to theatre owners the lowest possible insurance cost.

Recent Decisions of the Courts in Theatre Cases

By LEO T. PARKER

[Because of the length of Mr. Parker's discussion of sound equipment leases, requiring space in this issue, in which it is concluded, as well as in that of April 8, his regular review of the late court decisions in cases pertinent to theatre operation, is presented below lest further postponement lessen its value.—The Editor.]

IT IS WELL established that a valid contract may exist between a theatre owner and seller of equipment or supplies although the contract is not written in accordance with hearsay legal knowledge.

For instance, a valid contract may be made orally or in writing, and it is not necessary that the signature of either the buyer or seller appears at any particular location on the contract, if the evidence shows that the two parties intended that the written agreement should be binding. This point of the law was discussed in the recent case of Tynan Company v. W. A. Hammond Company (12 P. [2d] 45).

In this case it was shown that a buyer and a seller entered into a contract by the terms of which the purchaser agreed to buy a stipulated quantity of supplies. After the purchaser had signed the contract he observed that beneath his signature were certain written stipulations.

Later litigation developed over the validity of the contract and it was contended by the purchaser that the written notations which appeared after his signature were not binding. However, the court held otherwise, and said:

"The point that respondent (purchaser) is not bound by the stipulation in the order contract excluding other agreements because respondent's signature appears above that portion of the contract is not sound. The order was plainly printed on a single sheet of paper; the clause at the end was not hidden or disguised in any manner."

Incorrect Initials Not Fatal

CONTRARY to the belief of the majority of persons the fact that a suit is filed against a person whose name is incorrectly spelled in papers presented to the court does not entitle the other party to a favorable verdict.

For illustration, in International Projector Corporation v. Maricella (144 So. 278), it was disclosed that a person named R. J. Maricella purchased an Acme motion picture projector, with equipment, for the price of $411.85, on which $102.96 was paid in cash and the balance of $308.88 was evidenced by the promissory notes of the buyer. Litigation developed over the payment for the equipment and the seller filed suit against A. J. Maricella. It was contended by the counsel for the purchaser that the fact that suit was filed against A. J. Maricella instead of R. J. Maricella resulted in the suit being invalid. However, the higher court held otherwise, and said:

"In this case, not only has plaintiff (seller) alleged that he erroneously stated the initials of the defendant (buyer), but it is clear that the defendant (buyer) has not been prejudiced by virtue of plaintiff's allegations incorrectly stating his initials. Unless these allegations as to the improper initials of defendants gave rise to, or formed the basis of, some advantage to plaintiff, to the prejudice of A. J. Maricella, then such erroneous allegations cannot give rise to an estoppel preventing a change to meet the facts in that respect upon an allegation of error."

Receipts and Contracts

GENERALLY SPEAKING, it has been consistently held by higher courts that a contract is an agreement between two or more parties by the terms of which both parties agree to perform some definite act. On the other hand, a receipt is a written acknowledgment by a seller who has received from a purchaser a specified sum of money made in payment for a stipulated article. In some instances a written document may be a legal and valid combination contract and receipt.

For instance, in Citizens v. Arrowhead (14 P. [2d] 821), it was disclosed that a person named Stimson purchased a certain amount of stock in a company. When the stock was delivered the purchaser received a document in the following formation: "Received of Annie W. Stimson.....152 shares.....for which I agree to deliver to her 3,040 shares of the preferred stock and 700 shares of the common stock..... or I agree to return the stock received."

Litigation arose subsequently over the validity of the receipt. The same contained a notation by which the seller of the stock agreed either to deliver the stock purchased or return the money made in payment thereof. Therefore, the court held the agreement to be a combination receipt and contract, and said:

"The document is both a receipt and a contract because, in addition to acknowledging receipt of the stock, the agent agrees to deliver specified stock therefor or to return the stock so received."

Unsatisfactory Merchandise

THE LAW is well settled that a theatre owner who purchases merchandise or equipment is entitled to rescind the contract and refuse payment, where it is shown that the seller has in any manner breached the contract of sale, practiced fraud or misrepresentation to induce the theatre owner to sign the contract, or failed to fulfill the terms of the contract, or if the contract is illegal and in violation to state laws or city ordinances.

Moreover, it is interesting to observe that the courts have held that where a theatre owner purchases an article and makes a down payment, he may retain the article as security to recover the down payment from the seller, where it is proved that the seller breached the contract.

For example, in Mallow v. Hall (245 N. W. 90), it was disclosed that a purchaser entered into a contract with a seller for the purchase of certain oil burning equipment. The purchaser was not satisfied with the equipment and notified the seller that he intended to rescind the contract because the seller had not furnished the kind of equipment specified in the contract of sale. The purchaser refused to redeliver the equipment to the seller until the down payment was refunded. Litigation arose over this point of the law. This court said:

"If there had been a rescission, the defendant (purchaser) would have had the right to retain the property as security for the repayment to him of the down payment. That, however, does not confer upon him the right to use the property in the meantime as his own."

Paintings Not Real Property

AN IMPORTANT point of the law is that a theatre building contract of sale does not include valuable accessories within the theatre building, unless the contract clearly specifies this to be the intentions of the parties. This point of the law was decided in the recent case of Rodenbour v. Quaschnick (245 N. W. 255).

The facts of this case are that a buyer and a seller entered into a contract of sale for the purchase of a building. No bill of sale or any other writing was signed containing any description of the personal property or accessories which was being sold. It was shown that the parties went together to the office of a lawyer and there entered into a contract which described the lots upon which the building was located. The contract provided that the purchaser was to pay "as the purchase price of said real estate above described (and certain personal property contained therein and about said premises) which has this day been sold and transferred to said second party" the sum of $23,000. Later the seller, to secure a balance due from the purchaser, had the latter sign a chattel mortgage whereby the purchaser mortgaged to the seller all the furniture, fixtures and equipment and supplies.

Afterwards controversy arose between the buyer and seller whether or not the paintings which were hanging on the walls were included in the sale. The seller contended that it was not intended that the paintings should be included, whereas the purchaser pointed to the mortgage which indicated that if the seller had not intended to include all of the accessories, paintings, and the like, he would not have required the purchaser to give a mortgage thereon to secure a balance due on the purchase price.

Notwithstanding these arguments, since the contract of sale did not specifically stipulate that the paintings on the walls were included in the contract price, the higher court held the ownership to the paintings remained in the seller of the building, and said:

"Concededly, in the only writing signed by respondent, being the bilateral contract above mentioned, there was no statement or necessary implication that these paintings were being sold or transferred to appellant. As a matter of fact, that contract did not purport to transfer or pass title to any personalty whatsoever, but merely recited that the consideration for the $23,000 to be paid by appellant was the real estate therein described 'and certain personal property contained therein and about said premises,' which is about as indefinite a statement concerning the personalty as could well be made."

Duty to Keep Aisles Clear

MANY COURTS have held that when a theatre owner invites or induces, expressly or by implication, another to come upon his premises, whether for business or for any other purpose, it is his duty to be reasonably sure that he is not inviting him into danger, and he must use ordinary care and prudence to render the premises reasonably safe.

Therefore, irrespective of the nature or purpose of a visit by any person who is lawfully in the theatre building, the theatre owner is bound to exercise ordinary care to prevent injury.

For illustration, in the late case of Champlin v. Clevinger (12 P. [2d] 683), it was shown that a patron was seriously injured as a result of an accident which occurred while walking down an aisle. He filed suit to recover damages. The court held the injured patron entitled to a recovery, and stated the following important law:

"You are further instructed that the owner or occupant in charge of property owes a duty to an invitee to the exercise of reasonable and ordinary care for his safety, and such owner or occupant is liable for injury resulting to another from a breach of his legal duty; and in this connection, you are instructed that it was the Words pilfered from Harold B. Franklin because they're True!

" . . . There never was a time when show business wasn't loaded to the brim with trouble. There never was a time when show business didn't present perplexing problems of many natures, but the present time is the most acute of all and those who are swimming against the tide have and are revealing a great strength and skill. It is no trick to float, for people who can't swim can do that. But it is a trick to buffet adverse currents and reach the opposite shore safely."

—from an editorial by Mr. Franklin, addressed to RKO managers in the circuit's house organ, Now.

and Better Theatres takes this occasion to add that what is true for Mr. Franklin's managers is true for all showmen everywhere—and for those who serve showmen—including

BETTER THEATRES

FREE SAMPLE

ROSCO FILM CEMENT

Used by all leading film exchanges and laboratories. Recognized by experts as the best film cement on the market. Recommended by theatres all over the country. Works under all atmospheric conditions. Send for a free sample.

ROSCO LABORATORIES

367 Hudson Avenue, Brooklyn, N. Y.

duty of the defendant, Champlin, to use reasonable and ordinary care to protect the plaintiff, George Clevinger (patron), from any injury while he was in the building occupied by the defendant on business in said building, and to use ordinary care and prudence to protect the said plaintiff from injury, and it was the duty of said defendant to use reasonable and ordinary care and prudence to keep the aisles and passageways of the premises, in and through which persons were accustomed to pass, in a reasonably safe condition, so as not unnecessarily to expose the plaintiff to danger or accident."

Violation of Ordinance Does Not Result in Liability

CONSIDERABLE discussion has arisen from time to time whether or not a theatre owner is liable in damages for an injury sustained by a pedestrian as a result of failure of the theatre owner to conform with city ordinances with respect to repairs made to sidewalks, cleaning streets, cutting weeds, and the like.

Generally speaking, the fact that a theatre owner fails to abide by the terms of an ordinance of this nature does not result in his liability for an injury to a pedestrian or other person, if it is shown that the injury was not a proximate result of failure of the theatre owner to conform with the ordinance.

For instance, in Vuckis v. Terry (183 N. E. 104), it was shown that a city ordinance provided: "It shall be the duty of every owner of real estate, within the corporate limits of said city . . . to cut and haul away all weeds or other rank vegetation growing upon his premises, or to cause same to be done."

A property owner failed to cut the weeds between the sidewalk and the curb in front of his property and a pedestrian stumbled over a water pipe and was seriously injured. He sued the property owner to recover damages contending that violation of the ordinance resulted in the liability of the property owner. However, the higher court held the property owner not liable, and said:

"We believe the ordinance clearly shows that it was passed for the protection of public health, decency, and for aesthetic purposes. We therefore hold that the injury suffered by appellant was not proximately within the purpose or protection of the ordinance, and neither did the injury complained of fall within the category of those injuries against which the ordinance sought to guard."

Employe Injured Returning from Work

THE GENERAL rule followed by the courts in construing the Workmen's Compensation Act is that an employee is not "in employment" until he reaches the theatre where he is to work. Moreover, the employment does not continue after he has left the theatre.

On the other hand, various courts have held that if a theatre employe is injured while going to or from his special work, by means of a vehicle furnished by his employer, or if the employment contract contemplates utilization of a special means of transportation, the injury arises "out of and in the course of the employment" within the meaning of the Workmen's Compensation Act and the employe, or his beneficiary in the event of his death, is entitled to compensation for the injury.

For instance, in the late case of Schafer v. Industrial Commission (175 N. E. 789), it was shown that an employe was injured when an automobile in which he was riding was struck by a train when he was returning from his work. The dependents of the employe filed suit to recover compensation under the Workmen's Compensation Law. It was contended by the employer that the dependents were not entitled to recover compensation because the accident occurred while the employe was returning from work.

However, since testimony was introduced proving that at the time of the employment it was known by the employer that the employe necessarily would utilize no transportation but an automobile to come and go from his work, the higher court held the employe entitled to receive payment of compensation, and said:

"The controlling factor in determining whether the accidental injury arose out of and in the course of the employment is whether the employe was in the orbit, area, or sphere of his duty when the accident occurred. . . . There must be present a causal relation between the work or what is done incidental to it and the injury which occurs."

Murder in Arson Case

GENERALLY SPEAKING, a person who commits a crime is liable for all consequences resulting therefrom. Therefore, a person who sets fire to a building, or is implicated therein, may be guilty of murder if a person is burned to death.

For example, in the recent case of State v. Meadows (51 S. W. [2d] 1033), it was shown that a person named Meadows was arrested and convicted of setting fire to a theatre and hotel. The building was completely burned down and a person in the building was burned to death. A charge of murder in the first degree was filed against Meadows who attempted to avoid conviction by testifying that he did not intend to injure any one and that his only reason for setting the fire was because he was paid $5,000 to do so by another person.

However, notwithstanding this plea, the lower court held Meadows guilty of murder in the fire degree and the higher court upheld the verdict, saying:

"Neither did the proof show that defendant or his co-indictees intended to destroy human life in burning the building. It was not necessary so to charge or to prove. There need not be a design to take human life in order to make a homicide committed in the perpetration of arson murder in the first degree."

Picketing Held Lawful

WHEN DECIDING whether picketing a theatre is lawful or unlawful the court considers all facts and circumstances of the case. Generally speaking, where it is shown that the purpose of picketing is to benefit the members of the union then such picketing is lawful.

For illustration, in Blumauer v. Portland Moving Picture Machine Operators' Protective Union Local (17 P. [2d] 1115), it was disclosed that trouble arose between a theatre operator and a union as a result of the motion picture operators having had their wages reduced below the scale fixed by the union. The regular union operators refused to work for the reduced salary and their jobs were filled by non-union employes. Members of the union picketed the theatre with the usual signs and the theatre operator, as a direct result thereof, got into financial difficulties and was unable to pay the rent to the owner of the building who finally was obliged to take over the theatre. He continued to employ non-union employes.

The owner of the building filed suit to enjoin members of the union from picketing the theatre. Said the court:

"This court, as well as the public policy of the state, recognizes the right of employes to organize for the purpose of improving the conditions of their employment in respect to hours of labor, amount of pay, the sanitary conditions under which the work is performed, or for any lawful purpose. . . . This right would be of little value if they were deprived of the means of making the purpose of their organization effective. Therefore, organized labor has a right to lawfully use all lawful means to bring about reasonably desirable terms and conditions in the way of hours, pay, or other conditions of employment. Organized labor has the right to present its side of a controversy to the public by all lawful means if such means may be, and are, used in a lawful manner without violence, or threats, or intimidation of the employer, his employes, or the patrons of the employer's business."

Seller Liable on Expressed Warranty

GENERALLY SPEAKING, a theatre owner may rescind a contract of sale and refuse to pay the purchase price, if the seller fails to fulfill either an expressed or implied guarantee. This point of the law was decided in the recent case of Sales Company v. Mitchell (142 So. 700).

The facts of this case are that a purchaser consulted a seller's representatives and relied upon their superior skill and knowledge to supply equipment for his purpose. After making the purchase the buyer discovered that the subject of the sale would not function as it was guaranteed to do and he requested the seller to return the cash paid on account. The seller refused to return the cash paid on the account and filed suit against the purchaser to recover the balance due. However, the higher court held the seller not entitled to a recovery, and said:

"The record satisfies us that the equipment sold and installed by plaintiff (seller) failed at all times to do its work."

PLANNING THE THEATRE

A SERVICE CONDUCTED BY PETER M. HULSKEN, A. I. A.

The Question:

WE ARE designing a motion picture theatre to be erected at Fort Clayton, Canal Zone, in the near future. Would you kindly give me some assistance in the design of a stage for this theatre?

The theatre will be primarily for motion pictures, but at the same time we wish to provide some facilities for putting on vaudeville or stage productions.

The size of the stage will probably be 40 feet by 25 feet. What I really would like to have are some suggestions as to the general arrangements of the dressing rooms, exits, storage space, etc., for a stage of this size.

I have been a reader of your magazine, BETTER THEATRES, for some time and have picked up many valuable ideas from it, but I have been unable to find exactly the information I am now requesting. Thanking you in advance for any suggestions you may be able to give me.—J. E. S.

NOTE:

IN THIS department Better Theatres will be glad to answer questions pertaining to the preliminary consideration involved in the planning of a new theatre or in the remodeling of an existing one. Only requests for ideas will be answered, since this department cannot assume the practical functions of an architect. All communications intended for this department should be addressed to "Better Theatres," 1790 Broadway, New York. They will be answered in this department. None will be answered by mail. Although only initials will be used in signing the questions published, it is a requirement that all letters bear the signature and address of their writers. The replies will be prepared personally by Mr. Hulsken, who is a practical architect and a member of the American Institute of Architects.

The Answer:

ACCORDING to your inquiry I presume that the stage is 40 feet wide and 25 feet deep, but do not know whether this dimension is inside the proscenium arch or between the walls. If it is between the walls the stage will be rather small, and therefore I suggest that the dressing rooms should be placed under the stage.

The arrangement of the dressing rooms should be so that there are at least two distinct and separate means of egress connecting directly with the outside.

I think four small dressing rooms about 7 x 10 feet, and two larger ones of about 10 x 15 will suffice. The usual practice would be to place the dressing rooms along the rear and side walls with a 5-foot corridor separating them from the orchestra room, on each side of this corridor provide a stairway leading to stage and outside. You also will have to provide space for property room, lamp room, music closet, separate toilet rooms for men and women and if possible provide a shower in each toilet room, as the actors certainly will appreciate this accomodation.

All walls separating the dressing rooms from stage or other parts of the building should be fire division walls, and all floors, ceilings and partitions should be of fireproof construction. The above rooms should be separated from the other parts of the building by standard self-closing fire doors. All dressing rooms should be well ventilated by windows opening into areaways, street, alleys or open courts.

At your right facing auditorium you must provide for pinrail or rigging device, also space for switchboard. The height of the proscenium wall, over the proscenium opening should not be less than twice the greatest height of the proscenium opening, plus 6 feet.

The curtain wall under the proscenium opening should be located under the center of the fire curtain and should be a fire division wall.

If you do not care to go into the expenses of building a rigging loft you can place the iron beams required for forming slots for rigging just the same as if you would build the loft, but place them directly under the roof construction and use them also for support. By using underslung pulleys you will be able to take care of the rigging.

The stage should be provided with an automatic ventilator of an area equal to not less than one-eighth the area of the stage floor, such ventilator to be located near the center and above the highest point of the stage roof. The openings in such ventilator should be closed by valves, louvers or dampers, so counterbalanced as to open automatically. All valves, louvers or dampers should be held closed by hemp or cotton cords, connecting with the stage floor close to each stage exit door. Fusible links should be inserted in these cords.

The Question:

SINCE BEER has been legalized, and as I own a theatre in a town having a large majority of people of German and foreign descent who always have been very strongly against the prohibition laws and as I have been assured of a license to dispense the good old beer under the classification of beer garden, I am thinking of remodeling the front of my house for such purposes.

My theatre has a frontage of 70 feet with one store room on each side of the lobby. These stores extend about 70 feet. The rentals of these stores do not amount to very much, and I can easily sacrifice this revenue. I may use this space just as well for a beer garden.—H. E. L.

The Answer:

I ALWAYS thought this was a department of information for theatre building and remodeling, but since you are sincere enough to state the purposes of your remodeling and want to go European I will gladly give you the information required. However, I am still a theatre architect, not a designer of beer gardens.

By all means remove the store rooms. This will give you a space of 60 x 70 feet to use for your purpose. I presume that you still have a foyer between the back of the stores and the auditorium. I advise that you build a front lobby about 10 feet deep, leave the remainder of the floor space open for tables, but provide at least a center space of 15 feet between the tables for means of ingress and egress. This space should be governed by the amount of seats in the auditorium. You can take from each side of the front lobby enough space for service bar and storage. A small sandwich counter may add considerably to your revenues.

Have the interior of this room designed as attractively as possible. An atmospheric treatment such as a garden effect, with statuary, fountains and evergreens, would be very appropriate. A slate, terrazzo or tile floor would answer the purpose. Be sure to provide for plenty of ventilation, and I deem an air conditioning plant necessary. There should be doors between this refreshment room and foyer and between foyer and auditorium to keep out noises should you operate the beer garden independently of the theatre.

The shows in most of the European theatres are run with a half-hour intermission to enable the audience to partake of refreshments.

NEW THEATRE PROJECTS

Following is a list of theatre projects involving new construction, remodeling and re-equipping. This list has been compiled from the latest reports available on May 2. The listing is arranged alphabetically by states.

California

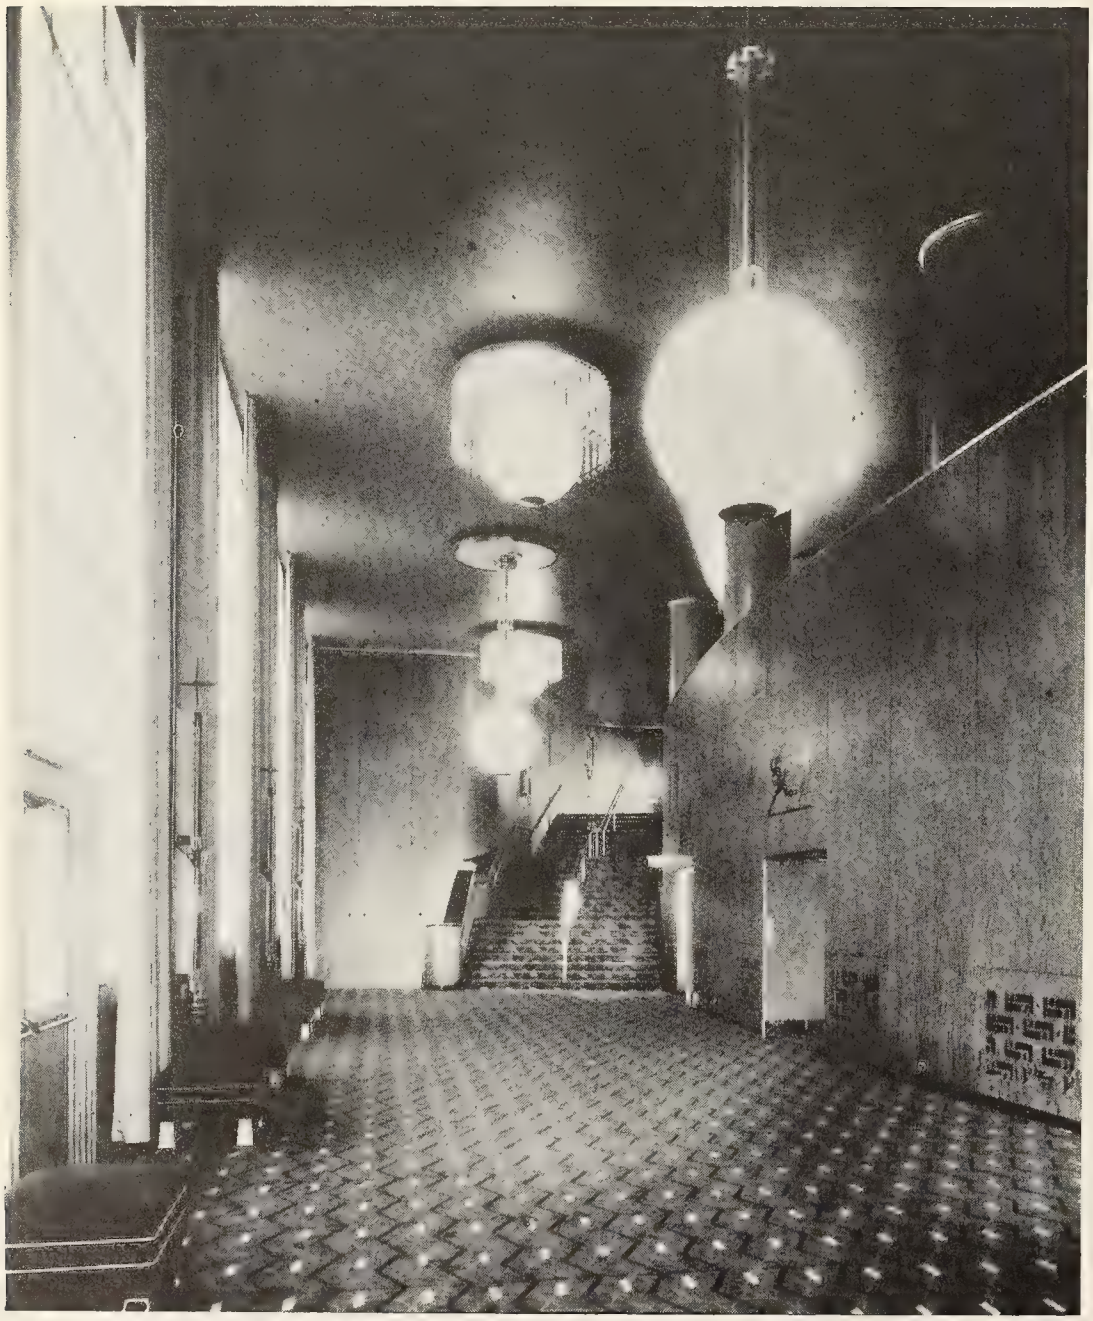
LONG BEACH—Mrs. Geo. M. LaShell, c/o George E. Bartlett, general contractor, 2132 Chestnut Avenue. Will repair theatre at 5384 Long Beach Boulevard.

LONG BEACH—West Coast Theatre Company, 333 E. Ocean Boulevard. Will make repairs to cost $4,950. Agent, J. W. Forderer, 253 S. Broadway, Los Angeles.

LONG BEACH—Long Beach Building & Loan Company Corporation, 2nd and Locust Streets. Repairing. Plans by Edwin F. Rudolph, 6239 Newell Street, Huntington Park. Cost $2,800.

OXNARD—Strand Theatre, C. A. Spaeth, Manager. Contemplate remodeling, providing 750 seating capacity, new entrances, electric signs, etc. Cost $10,000.

Illinois



CHICAGO—Playhouse Theatre, 412 S. Michigan Avenue. Remodeling. Syndicate owners, c/o general contractor, R. Levine & Co., 6951 S. Green Street.

CHICAGO—State Amusement Corporation, Howard M. Lubliner, president, 11 N. Clark Street. Adelphi Theatre being remodelled.

Iowa

MARSHALLTOWN—Casino Theatre. Owners, Horwitz & Roskopf. Population 17,000. Improvements.

MELOHER—Casino Theatre. Owner, Peter Cerretti. Population 1,600. Will remodel theatre building, including cooling system, sound equipment and upholstered seats.

A view of the main foyer of the RKO Roxy, from the lobby.

Georgia

ATLANTA—R. F. Wynne & Louis F. Back, 782 Highland Avenue, N. E. Leased stores and will remodel for a theatre building. Cost $10,000. Louis F. Back is operator of Buckhead Theatre at 28 Roswell Road.

Louisiana

NEW ORLEANS—Eugene J. Gilbert, 4031 Delgado Avenue. Will remodel and erect addition to motion picture theatre.

Minnesota

MINNEAPOLIS — Nathan Fisher, 1308 4th Street, South. Will make alterations to cost $8,000. Architect, Perry Crosier, 1017 Phoenix Building.

SPRING GROVE—Henry O. Ellingson. Will rebuild the Opera House. Population 900.

New Jersey

CAMDEN—Parkside Theatre, Lewis Rovner, 1189 Haddon Avenue. Remodeling. Architect, David Supowitz, 246 S. 15th Street, Philadelphia, Pa.

CAMDEN—Parkin Theatre, R. M. Hollingshead, Jr. 413 Cooper Street. Erection of open air theatre. Architect, Howard E. Hall, 544 Federal St., Camden, N. J.

OCEAN CITY—Doughty's Theatre, c/o Architect, Lilly Wenge Studios, McClatchy Building, 69th and Market Streets, Upper Darby, Pa. Alterations to theatre at 8th and Boardwalk, Ocean City. Population, 5,500.

New York

NEW YORK—Haring & Blumenthal Realty Corporation, 1440 Broadway. Erecting theatre building on Mott Avenue, Far Rockaway.

WESTHAMPTON BEACH—Heelbarp Corporation constructing theatre building. Architect, Meyer & Mathieu, 316 Flatbush Avenue, Brooklyn, N. Y. Contractors, Roberts Nash & Co., Inc., 39-15 Main Street, Flushing, N. Y. Population, 400. Cost, $30,000.

Ohio

COLUMBUS—Empress Theatre Company, J. A. Jackson, Manager, 768 E. Long Street. Will remodel front of theatre. Cost, $6,000.

MARTINSVILLE—Hamilton Theatre, Church Street. M. R. Schottiland remodeling theatre. Population 7,700.

Washington

SEATTLE—Fifth Avenue Theatre, 1308 Fifth Street. Manager, Jim Leman, Alterations to building, new carpets, seats and stage changes.

YAKIMA—First National Theatre Corporation will install new sound equipment and new seats. Population 22,000.

ALPHABETICAL LIST OF ADVERTISERS

C

Carbon Products, Inc. 19
Coxsackie Holding Corporation 21

E

Enterprise Optical Mfg. Co. . . . . Fourth Cover

G

Garver Electric Company 15
General Register Corporation 23
General Seating Company 25

H

Hall & Connolly 20
Hansen & Brothers Optical Co., G. O. 21
Heywood-Wakefield Company 3

I

International Projector Corporation . . . Third Cover

L

LeRoy Sound Equipment Corporation 17
Lincrophone Company, Inc. 19

M

Mellaphone Corporation 23
Moore, William N. 25

N

National Carbon Company, Inc. 17
Nomad Electrical Engineers, Inc. . . . Second Cover

P

Projection Optics Company, Inc. 19

R

Rosco Laboratories 27

S

Schlanger, Ben 25
Strong Electric Corporation 17
S. O. S. Corporation 21

V

Vortkamp & Company 25

W

Weber Machine Corporation 15

Y

York Safe and Lock Company 19

Among Contributors to This Issue:

¶ C. H. Gray (15 Millions Too Much for Insurance) recently completed a comprehensive survey of the insurance practices and costs prevailing in the motion picture industry, an investigation prompted by industry interests and indications that insurance rating methods had not kept pace with the industry's own efforts to eradicate fire hazards, nor with the conditions created by modern codes, which call for a theatre in which one could build a bonfire without incurring much damage. Mr. Gray first made an elaborate survey of his investigations, and from this he has prepared his article for Better Theatres. He is associated with the New York insurance brokerage organization of Robert F. Coleman, Inc.

¶ Harry Leid (Cooling the Theatre for Comfort) is a heating and ventilation engineer on the technical staff of Loew's Theatres, Inc., a circuit which operates theatres of greatly diverse sizes and types, and with air conditioning systems ranging from the most elaborate plenum variety to those of simple direct ventilation. He has been associated with theatre heating and ventilating engineering during the development of cooling methods into the present scientific air conditioning technique.

¶ Francis M. Falge (Color in the Lighting of Theatres) is an illumination engineer whom readers will recognize as having contributed several times previously to Better Theatres on theatre lighting. He has made a special study of illumination of motion picture theatres, and is now planning extensive experiments in this field. Mr. Falge is on the staff of the engineering department of the General Electric Company in Nela Park, Cleveland.

¶ Leo T. Parker (Sound Equipment Leases) is a regular contributor to Better Theatres on legal aspects of theatre operation. He is an attorney-at-law in Cincinnati.

¶ Aaron Nadell (Sound Equipment Today—and Its Market) is a sound engineer, the author of numerous articles in Better Theatres and elsewhere, and of a book on sound. He has been connected with each of the several activities in the field of sound—with the reproducer and recorder manufacturer, with the maker of supplies, and with the theatre.

WHERE TO BUY IT

ACCOUNTING SYSTEMS
Easy Method Ledger System
ACOUSTICAL PRODUCTS
The Celotex Company
The Insulite Company
United States Gypsum Company
Western Felt Works
ADVERTISING NOVELTIES
Brasel Novelty Manufacturing Co.
Edward I. Plottle & Co.
Pyroloid Sales Company
Slack Manufacturing Company
AIR CONDITIONING EQUIPMENT
Auditorium Conditioning Corporation
Carrier Engineering Corporation
Robert A. Kroeschell
Kooler-Aire Engineering Corporation
Supreme Heater & Ventilating Company
Typhoon Air Conditioning Co.
Wittenmeier Machinery Company
AMPLIFIERS
A-C Masterpack Company
Full Range Laboratories
LeRoy Sound Equipment Corp.
Mellaphone Corporation
Operadio Manufacturing Company
S. O. S. Corporation
The Radiart Corporation
Webster Company
AUTOMATIC CURTAIN CONTROL
Automatic Devices Company
Bruckner-Mitchell, Inc.
Econoquipment Manufacturing Company
Tiffin Scenic Studios
Vallen Electrical Company, Inc.
BANNERS, SIGNS
H. Dryfhout Company
CAMERAS AND PROJECTORS
Bell and Howell Company
Andre DeBrie, Inc.
International Projector Corporation
CARBONS
Carbon Products, Inc.
National Carbon Company
Noris Carbon Company, Inc.
CARBON ADAPTERS
Best Devices Company
CARPETS
Bigelow-Sanford Carpet Company, Inc.
Decorative Arts Company
Mohawk Carpet Mills
Wm. Slater, Jr.
W. & J. Sloane
CARPET CUSHIONING
The Celotex Company
Clinton Carpet Company
National Rug Mills, Inc.
Western Felt Works
CEMENT FOR FASTENING CHAIRS
General Seating Company
CHAIR ANCHOR BOLTS
Chicago Expansion Bolt Company
CHANGEABLE LETTERS
Friedley-Voshardt Company
Metal Products, Inc.
CHANGEOVERS
Apasco System
Basson & Stern
Essannay Electric Manufacturing Co.
GoldE Manufacturing Company
Guercio and Barthel
CLEANING COMPOUND
J. B. Ford Company
COLOR HOODS
Reynolds Electric Company
CUTOUT MACHINES
International Register Corporation
DATE STRIPS
M. A. Block Company
DIMMERS
Cutler-Hammer, Inc.
Reynolds Electric Company
DOUBLE BEARING ASSEMBLY
International Projector Corporation
Lavezzie Machine Works
DOUBLE BEARING MOVEMENTS
Guercio and Barthel
International Projector Corporation
S. O. S. Corporation
DRAPERIES
Decorative Arts Company
Tiffin Scenic Studios
EARPHONES
Hearing Devices Corporation
Western Electric Company
EFFECT MACHINES
Brenkert Light Projection Company
Chicago Cinema Equipment Company
Kliegl Brothers
ELECTRIC FLASHERS, COLOR HOODS
Eagle Sign Company
Reynolds Electric Company
Time-O-Stat Controls Company
EMERGENCY LIGHTING SYSTEMS
Electric Storage Battery Co.
Century Electric Company
ENGINEERING SERVICE
Kendell & Dasseville, Inc.
S. S. Sugar
EQUIPMENT SUPPLIES
E. E. Fulton Company
Guercio and Barthel
Monarch Theatre Supply Company
Movie Supply Company
National Theatre Supply Company
S. O. S. Corporation
Vortkamp & Company
FANS, VENTILATING
Century Electric Company
J. A. Tannenbaum, Inc.
Vallen Electrical Company, Inc.
FILM CEMENT
F. B. Griffin
Roscoe Laboratories
FILM PROCESSING MACHINES
Andre DeBrie, Inc.
FILM SCALES
Film Scale Company
FILM STOCK
Agfa Raw Film Corporation
DuPont Film Mfg. Corporation
Eastman Kodak Company
FIRE PREVENTION
Film Fire Prevention Company
Sentry Safety Control Corporation
FRAMING LIGHT SHIELDS
GoldE Manufacturing Company
Guercio and Barthel
GENERATORS
Automatic Devices Company
Century Electric Company
General Electric Company
Hertner Electric Company
Marble-Card Electric Company
Westinghouse Elec. & Mfg. Company HORNS AND SPEAKERS
Full Range Laboratories
LeRoy Sound Equipment Corporation
Operadio Manufacturing Company
Racon Electric Company, Inc.
Wright-DeCoster, Inc.
INTERIOR DECORATIONS
Armstrong Studios, Inc.
Decorative Arts Company
J. A. Torstenson & Company
Novelty Scenic Studios
B. F. Shearer Company
LAMPS, HIGH INTENSITY
Brenkert Light Projection Company
Hall & Connolly, Inc.
International Projector Corporation
LAMPS, REFLECTING ARC
Brenkert Light Projection Company
The J. E. McAuley Manufacturing Company
Strong Electric Corporation
LENS MOUNTS
GoldE Manufacturing Company
International Projector Corporation
LENSES
Bausch & Lomb Optical Company
General Scientific Corporation
Ilex Optical Company
Projection Optics Corporation
Simpson Instrument and Lens Corporation
LENS AND REFLECTOR RECONDITIONING
G. O. Hansen & Brothers Optical Co.
MATS AND RUNNERS
St. Clair Rubber Company
MAZDA REGULATORS
Garver Electric Company
ORGANS
George Kilgen & Sons, Inc.
The Page Organ Company
Rudolph Wurlitzer Company
ORGAN HEATERS
Prometheus Electric Co.
Time-O-Stat Controls Corporation
PATENT ATTORNEYS
William N. Moore
PHOTO ELECTRIC CELLS
Continental Electrical Company
Herman A. DeVry Company
Duovac Radio Tube Company
General Scientific Corporation
G-M Laboratories, Inc.
Telephoto and Television Corporation
POSTER PROJECTORS
Bausch & Lomb Optical Co.
A. & B. Smith Company
F. D. Kees Mfg. Company
PROJECTION MACHINE PARTS
International Projector Corporation
Lavezzie Machine Works
Motion Picture Machine Company
S. O. S. Corporation
PROJECTORS
Andre Debrie, Inc.
Enterprise Optical Mfg. Co.
E. E. Fulton Company
Holmes Projector Company
International Projector Corporation
PUBLIC ADDRESS SYSTEMS
Associated Engineering Laboratories
Full Range Laboratories
LeRoy Sound Equipment Corp.
Operadio Manufacturing Company
Racon Electric Co., Inc.
RAILINGS, GRILLES
Zero Valve and Brass Corporation
RECTIFIERS
Forest Electric Corporation
Garver Electric Company
Interstate Electric Company
REELS
E. E. Fulton Company
Universal Electric Welding Co.
REEL END SIGNALS
E. W. Hulett Manufacturing Company
REWINDERS
Film Processing Machine Corporation
E. E. Fulton Company
GoldE Manufacturing Company
RHEOSTATS
Hoffman & Soons
SAFES, THEATRE
York Safe & Lock Company
SAFETY LADDERS
Dayton Safety Ladder Company
Patent Scaffolding Company
SCHOOLS
New York Institute of Photography
RCA Institutes, Inc.
Theatre Managers Institute
SCREENS
Da-Lite Screen Company
Ortho-Krome Screen Company
Raven Screen Corporation
Walker-American Corporation
SCREEN RESURFACING
The Motion Picture Screen Resurfacing Co.
Raytex Screen Process Company
SEATS
American Seating Company
The A. H. Andrews Company
Decorative Arts Company
General Seating Company
Heywood-Wakefield Company
Ideal Seating Company
The Irwin Seating Company
Standard Manufacturing Company
Wisconsin Chair Company
SIGNS—ELECTRIC
General Scientific Corporation
Metal Products, Inc.
SLIDES
National Studios, Inc.
Quality Slide Company
RadiO-Mat Slide Company
Standard Studios
SPEED INDICATORS
Essannay Electric Manufacturing Co.
International Projector Corporation
Mellaphone Corporation
SOUND REPRODUCING SYSTEMS
Bestone, Incorporated
Enterprise Optical Manufacturing Co.
Full Range Laboratories
General Talking Pictures Corporation
Gates Radio & Supply Company
Good-All Electric Mfg. Company
Holmes Projector Company
International Projector Corporation
The Kolograph Company
LeRoy Sound Equipment Corporation
Lincrophone Co., Inc.
Mellaphone Corporation
Platter Sound Products Co.
RCA Victor Company, Inc.
Scott-Ballantyne Company
S. O. S. Corporation
Powers Cinephone Equipment Co.
Universal Sound System, Inc.
Weber Machine Corporation
Western Electric Company
SOUND EQUIPMENT ACCESSORIES
A-C Masterpack Company
Essannay Electric Manufacturing Company
Full Range Laboratories
G-M Laboratories, Inc.
LeRoy Sound Equipment Corporation
Operadio Manufacturing Company
Radiart Corporation
S. O. S. Corporation
The Sonolux Company
Telephoto and Television Corporation
STAGE AND ORCHESTRA LIFTS
Brenkert Light Projection Company
Bruckner-Mitchell, Inc.
Peter Clark, Inc.
STAGE LIGHTING EQUIPMENT
Frank Adam Electric Company
Belson Mfg. Company
Chicago Cinema Equipment Company
Hub Electric Company
Kliegl Brothers
Major Equipment Company
Reynolds Electric Company
STAGE RIGGING HARDWARE
J. H. Channon Corporation
Peter Clark, Inc.
Klemm Manufacturing Corporation
Vallen Electrical Co., Inc.
STAGE SCENERY
Armstrong Studios, Inc.
Novelty Scenic Studios
Tiffin Scenic Studios
THEATRE PRINTING, PROGRAMS
Exhibitors Printing Service
National Program & Printing Company
The Showman's Press
The Vitaprint Company
THEATRE SEAT REPLACEMENTS
General Seating Company
TICKETS
The Standard Ticket Register Corp.
TICKET MACHINES
General Register Corporation
The Standard Ticket Register Corp.
UNIFORMS
Chicago Uniform and Cap Company
Gemsco
Maier-Lavaty Company
UPHOLSTERY PRODUCTS
L. C. Chase & Company
Ideal Seating Company
VARIABLE SPEED PULLEYS
Horton Manufacturing Company
VENTILATING EQUIPMENT
Arctic Nu-Air Corporation
Auditorium Conditioning Corporation
Blizzard Sales Company
Kooler-Aire Engineering Corporation
Robert A. Kroeschell
Lakeside Company
Scott-Ballantyne Company
Supreme Heater & Ventilating Company
Tiltz Air Conditioning Corporation, Ltd.
Typhoon Air Conditioning Company, Inc
Wittenmeier Machinery Company

BETTER THEATRES CATALOG BUREAU

"Better Theatres" offers on this page an individual service to its readers. Detailed information and catalogs concerning any product listed herewith will be sent to any theatre owner, manager, architect or projectionist. Just fill in the coupon below and mail to "Better Theatres" Division of Motion Picture Herald. Readers will find that many of the products listed by this Bureau are advertised in this issue.

A

1 Accounting systems.
2 Acoustical Installations.
3 Adapters, mazda.
4 Adding, calculating machines.
5 Admission signs.
6 Addressing machines.
7 Advertising novelties.
8 Advertising projectors.
9 Air conditioning euipment.
10 Aisle lights.
11 Aisle rope.
12 Amplifiers.
13 Arc lamps, reflecting.
14 Arc regulators.
15 Artificial plants, flowers.
16 Automatic curtain control.
17 Automatic projection cutouts.
18 Automatic sprinklers.

B

19 Balloons, advertising.
20 Banners.
21 Baskets, decorative.
22 Batteries.
23 Bell-buzzer signal systems.
24 Blocks, pulleys, stage-rigging.
25 Bolts, chair anchor.
26 Booths, projection (portable).
27 Booths, ticket (portable).
28 Box office safes.
29 Brass grills.
30 Brass rails.
31 Bulletin boards, changeable.

C

32 Cable.
33 Cabinets.
34 Cameras.
35 Canopies for fronts.
36 Carbons.
37 Carbon sharpeners and wrenches.
38 Carpets.
39 Carpet cushion.
40 Carpet cleaning compound.
41 Carpet covering.
42 Cases, film shipping.
43 Cement, film.
44 Cement for fastening chairs.
45 Chair covers.
46 Chairs, wicker.
47 Chairs, theatre.
48 Change makers.
49 Changeable letters.
50 Change overs.
51 Cleaning compounds.
52 Color hoods.
53 Condensers.
54 Controls, volume.
55 Cutout machines, display.

D

56 Date strips.
57 Dimmers.
58 Disinfectants—perfumed.
59 Display cutout machines.
60 Doors, fireproof.
61 Draperies.
62 Drinking fountains.
63 Duplicating machines.
64 Dynamic speakers.

E

65 Earphones.
66 Effect machines.
67 Electric measuring instruments.
68 Electric fans.
69 Electrical flowers.
70 Electric pickups.
71 Electric power generating plant.
72 Electric signs.
73 Electric Signal and control systems.
74 Emergency lighting plants.
75 Exit light signs.

F

76 Film cleaning machines.
77 Film processing machines.
78 Film rewinders.
79 Film splicing machines.
80 Film tools.
81 Fire extinguishers.
82 Fireproof curtains.
83 Fireproof doors.
84 Fireproofing materials.
85 Fixtures, lighting.
86 Flashers, electric sign.
87 Flood lighting.
88 Floorlights.
89 Floor covering.
90 Floor runners.
91 Flowers, artificial.
92 Footlights.
93 Fountains, decorative.
94 Fountains, drinking.
95 Frames-poster, lobby display.
96 Furnaces.
97 Fuses.

G

98 Gelatine sheets.
99 Generators.
100 Grilles, brass.
101 Gummed labels.
102 Gypsum products.

H

103 Hand driers.
104 Hardware, stage.
105 Hearing devices.
106 Heating systems.
107 Horns.
108 Horn lifts and towers.

I

109 Ink, pencils for slides.
110 Insurance.
111 Interior decorating service.
112 Interior illuminated signs.

J

113 Janitors' supplies.

L

114 Ladders, safety.
115 Lamps, decorative.
116 Lamp dip coloring.
117 Lamps, general lighting.
118 Lamps, incandescent projection.
119 Lamps, high intensity.
120 Lamps, reflecting arc.
121 Lavatory equipment, furnishings.
122 Ledgers, theatre.
123 Lenses.
124 Letters, changeable.
125 Lights, exit.
126 Lights, spot.
127 Lighting fixtures.
128 Lighting systems, complete.
129 Linoleum.
130 Liquid soap.
131 Liquid soap containers.
132 Lobby display frames.
133 Lobby gazing balls.
134 Lobby furniture and decoration.
135 Lockers.
136 Luminous numbers.
137 Luminous signs, interior, exterior.

M

138 Machines, display cutout.
139 Machines, ticket.
140 Machines, pop corn.
141 Machines, vending.
142 Marble.
143 Marquee.
144 Mats and runners.
145 Mazda projection adapters.
146 Mazda regulators.
147 Metal polish.
148 Motors, electric.
149 Motor generators.
150 Motion picture cable.
151 Music stands.

N

152 Novelties, advertising.
153 Nursery furnishings and equipment.

O

154 Oil burners.
155 Orchestra pit fittings, furnishings.
156 Organs.
157 Organ novelty slides.
158 Organ lifts.
159 Organ heaters.
160 Ornamental fountains.
161 Ornamental metal work.

P

162 Paper drinking cups.
163 Paper towels.
164 Perfumers.
165 Phonograph motors.
166 Phonograph needles.
167 Phonograph turntables.
168 Photo-electric cells.
169 Photo frames.
170 Pianos.
171 Plastic fixtures and decorations.
172 Plumbing fixtures.
173 Pop-corn machines.
174 Posters.
175 Poster frames.
176 Poster lights.
177 Poster paste.
178 Portable projectors.
179 Pottery, decorative.
180 Portable sound equipment.
181 Power generating plants.
182 Printing, theatre.
183 Programs.
184 Program covers.
185 Projection lamps.
186 Projection machines.
187 Projection machine parts.
188 Projection room equipment.
189 Public address systems.

R

190 Rails, brass.
191 Rails, rope.
192 Rectifiers.
193 Records.
194 Record cabinets.
195 Recording equipment.
196 Redecorating service.
197 Reflectors.
198 Regulators, Mazda.
199 Reels.
200 Reel signals.
201 Reel packing, carrying cases.
202 Resonant orchestra platform.
203 Reseating service.
204 Rewinders, film.
205 Rheostats.
206 Rigging, stage.

S

207 Safes, box office.
208 Safes, film.
209 Safety ladders.
210 Scales.
211 Scenery, stage.
212 Scenic artists' service.
213 Schools.
214 Screen masks and modifiers.
215 Screen paint.
216 Screen Resurfacing Service.
217 Seat covers.
218 Seat indicators, vacant.
219 Signs, directional.
220 Signs, marquee.
221 Screens.
222 Seats, theatre.
223 Signals, reel end.
224 Sign flashers.
225 Sign lettering service.
226 Slides.
227 Slide ink, pencils.
228 Slide, lanterns.
229 Slide making outfits.
230 Slide mats.
231 Shutters, metal fire.
232 Soap containers, liquid.
233 Sound equipment, complete.
234 Sound heads.
235 Sound-proof installation.
236 Speakers, dynamic.
237 Speed indicators.
238 Spotlights.
239 Spring seats, interchangeable.
240 Stage lighting equipment.
241 Stage lighting systems.
242 Stage rigging-blocks, pulleys.
243 Stage scenery.
244 Stair treads.
245 Statuary.
246 Stereopticons.
247 Sweeping compounds.
248 Switchboards.
249 Switches, automatic.

T

250 Tapestries.
251 Telephone, inter-communicating.
252 Temperature control apparatus.
253 Terra cotta.
254 Theatre accounting systems.
255 Theatre dimmers.
256 Theatre seats.
257 Tickets.
258 Ticket booths.
259 Ticket choppers.
260 Ticket holders.
261 Ticket selling machines.
262 Tile.
263 Tool cases, operators'.
264 Towels, paper.
265 Trailers.
266 Transformers.
267 Transparencies.
268 Turnstiles.

U

269 Uniforms.
270 Upholstery material.

V

271 Vacuum cleaning equipment.
272 Valances.
273 Vases, stone.
274 Ventilating fans.
275 Ventilating systems.
276 Vending machines.
277 Vitrolite.
278 Volume controls.

W

279 Wall coverings.
280 Water coolers.

"BETTER THEATRES" DIVISION, Motion Picture Herald, [4-8-33]
1790 Broadway, New York

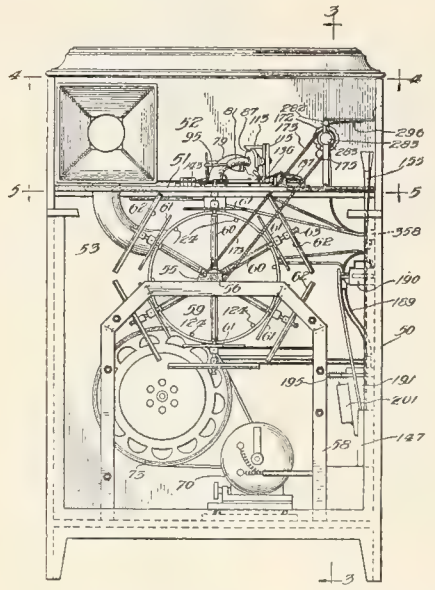
GENTLEMEN: I should like to receive reliable information on the following items:

(Refer to Items by Number)

....

....

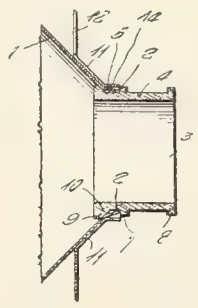
Remarks: .....



.....

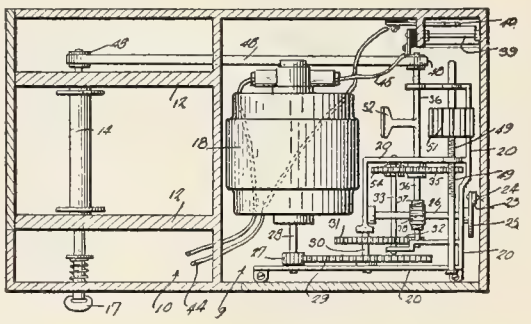
Name ..... Theatre ..... City .....

State .....Seating Capacity .....



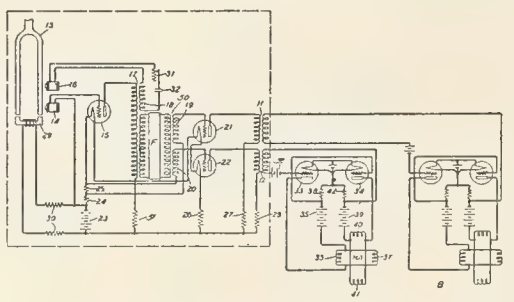
New Inventions . . . illustrated descriptions of devices related to motion pictures and allied crafts, recently published by the U. S. government and selected for Better Theatres by William N. Moore, patent specialist of Washington, D. C.

1,873,432. TALKING MACHINE. Axel F. Larson and Charlie W. Anderson, Chicago, Ill., assignors to Western Electric Piano Company, Chicago, Ill., a Corporation of Illinois. Filed Aug. 19, 1927. Serial No. 214,066. 36 Claims. (Cl. 274—10.)



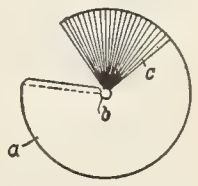
1. In a talking-machine, the combination of a plurality of record-supporting means, reproducer-means for cooperation with the records, and means for presenting different records in position to cooperate with said second-named means and comprising a drive member and a pneumatically controlled clutch controlling the driving of said first-named means by said drive member.

1,873,062. SOUND REPRODUCER. Sigurd A. Sollie, Palo Alto, Calif., assignor to Federal Telegraph Company, San Francisco, Calif., a Corporation of California. Filed Jan. 21, 1928, Serial No. 248,403. Renewed Aug. 2, 1929. 10 Claims. (Cl. 179—115.5.)



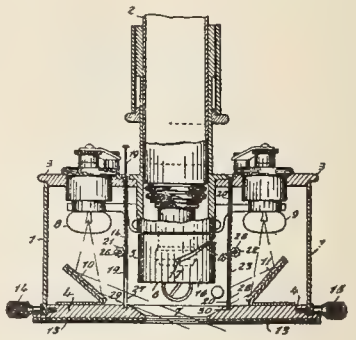
1. In a sound reproducer, a conical shaped sound reproducing diaphragm, a cylindrical supporting member carrying a winding, said cylindrical supporting member having an annular groove formed therein, and a resilient suspension member conforming to the contour of said conical shaped sound reproducing diaphragm and providing an anchoring means for locking said conical shaped sound reproducing diaphragm within said groove and said cylindrical support.

1,873,654. AUTOMATIC CAMERA. Andrew M. Mannick, Hazleton, Pa. Filed Nov. 24, 1931. Serial No. 577,133. 7 Claims. (Cl. 95—31.)



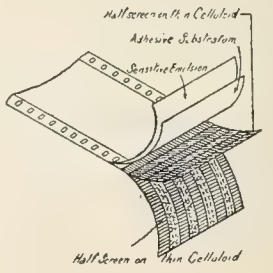
1. In an automatic camera of the character described, a casing, a lens and shutter mechanism, an electric motor in the casing, a gear train operated by the motor, operative connections between the gear train and shutter mechanism, a pair of contacts in circuit with the motor normally engaged with each other, and means operated by the gear train for separating the contacts to render the motor inoperative.

1,873,609. SYNCHRONOUS SIGNALING SYSTEM. George A. Locke, Glenwood, N. Y., assignor to Bell Telephone Laboratories, Incorporated, New York, N. Y., a Corporation of New York. Filed Sept. 23, 1930. Serial No. 483,796. 8 Claims. (Cl. 172—293.)



2. A synchronous driving system comprising a source of alternating current waves of a certain frequency, a motor and a pair of unidirectionally conducting devices interconnecting said source and said motor, characterized in this that a plurality of magnetic fields of said motor are successively energized by the output of aid devices respectively to drive said motor.

1,873,335. DIAPHRAGM FOR SOUND RECEIVING, REPRODUCING, AMPLIFYING, AND TRANSMITTING INSTRUMENTS. Hans Schmidt, Jena, Germany. Filed Sept. 10, 1930, Serial No. 481,031, and in Germany Oct. 15, 1929. 5 Claims. (Cl. 181—32.)



1. An acoustic diaphragm consisting of a thin sheet and flattened straw-stalks stuck side by side to said sheet, the fibres of the stalks extending substantially in the direction in which the vibration is to be transmitted.

1,873,149. MICROSCOPE FOR EXAMINING PICTURES WITH RASANT LATERAL LIGHTING. Fernando Perez, Rome, Italy. Filed Jan. 9, 1931. Serial No. 507,683, and in Italy Apr. 19, 1930. 1 Claim. (Cl. 88—39.)

A microscope comprising a lens tube having an objective end, a casing surrounding the objective end of the tube and provided with an opening towards the object, sources of light located in said casing illuminating an object from different sides by oblique incident light, slide-like shutters between the individual source of light and the surface of the object to be illuminated, said slide-like shutters being separately adjustable whereby the passage available for each oblique illuminating beam of light may be regulated or entirely closed independently of the other beams of light.

1,873,673. MULTICOLOR SCREEN FILM. John Edward Thornton, West Hampstead, London, England, assignor to John Owden O'Brien, Manchester, England. Filed Feb. 16, 1927, Serial No. 168,765, and in Great Britain Mar. 16, 1926. 4 Claims. (Cl. 95—81.5.)

1. A multi-color screen and support comprising a transparent support a plurality of lines in insoluble colored colloid printed upon one side of said support, a plurality of differently colored dyed lines alternating with the printed lines on said support, a second transparent support, a plurality of lines in insoluble colored colloid printed upon one side of the second support, a plurality of differ with the printed lines on one crossing the printed lines in the second supports, the printed and dyed lines on the second support being differently colored from those on the first support, the two supports being assembled with the printed lines on one crossing the printed lines on the other to form the complete color screen.

FROM REPORT OF

PROJECTION PRACTICE COMMITTEE
SOCIETY OF MOTION PICTURE ENGINEERS

Projection provides the industry's closest contact with the public whose continued patronage is dependent largely upon the quality of the projected picture and reproduced sound—the finished product which embodies the work of all other branches of the industry.

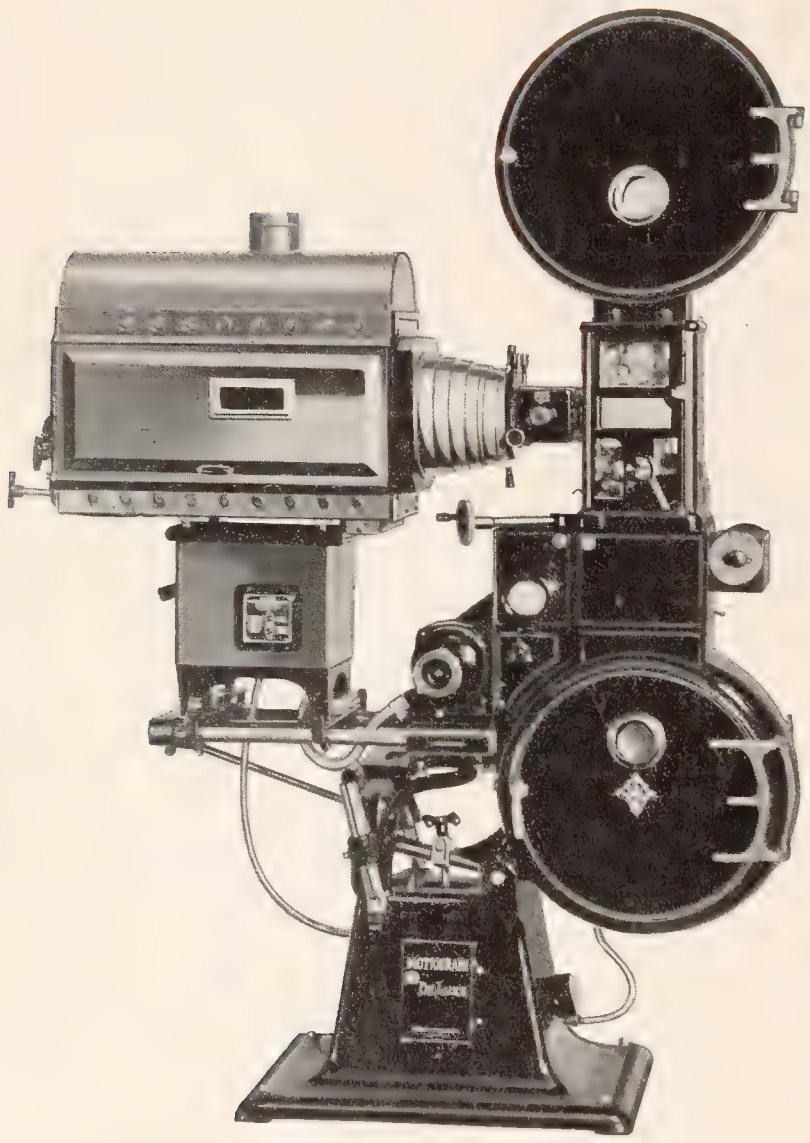
Acceptance of the foregoing leads naturally to consideration of the means available for maintaining at all times a high standard of quality.

The committee feels that every facility which even remotely aids in maintaining a high standard of projection work should willingly be provided.

HARRY RUBIN, Chairman

T. C. Barrows	C. Greene	J. J. Hopkins	F. H. Richardson
J. O. Baker	H. Griffin	W. C. Kunzmann	P. A. McGuire
C. Flanagan	J. J. Finn	R. H. McCullough	L. M. Townsend
G. C. Edwards	S. Glauber	Rudolph Miehling	V. Welman

Simplex
TRADE MARK REG'D.



THE INTERNATIONAL PROJECTOR

HAS CREATED AND MAINTAINED PROJECTION STANDARDS FOR OVER A QUARTER OF A CENTURY

INTERNATIONAL PROJECTOR CORPORATION

90-96 GOLD STREET NEW YORK

WHY KEEP ON DOING IT THE OLD COSTLY WAY?

DO YOU KNOW THAT YOU CAN BUY DIRECT FROM THE FACTORY

— MOTIOGRAPH DE LUXE MECHANISMS — — MOTIOGRAPH REFLECTING ARC LAMPS — — MOTIOGRAPH DE LUXE AMPLIFIERS — — MOTIOGRAPH DE LUXE FILM PICK-UPS — — MOTIOGRAPH DE LUXE SPEAKERS —

MOTIOGRAPH DE LUXE SOUND PROJECTOR EQUIPMENT

which includes
Two Motion Picture Projectors
With Sound Units Built In can be purchased

ON TIME PAYMENTS WITH NOT ONE CENT FOR WEEKLY SERVICE CHARGES!

●

Just Think of It!

YOU GET COMPLETE SOUND EQUIPMENT OF HIGHEST QUALITY AND WIDE RANGE—WITH TWO OF THE FINEST PROJECTORS THROWN IN—AT A COST OF NO MORE THAN SOME OTHER SOUND ATTACHMENTS!

●

Hundreds of Our Users Have Made this Saving—Why Not You?

MOTIOGRAPH DE LUXE SOUND PROJECTOR EQUIPMENT

IS SOLD DIRECT FROM FACTORY TO USER—AT FACTORY PRICES

WRITE US FOR THE "BLUE BOOK" AND BLANK SURVEY SHEET FOR LOWEST QUOTATIONS

THE ENTERPRISE OPTICAL MANUFACTURING Co.

4431-41 West Lake Street — Chicago, Ill.

MOTION PICTURE HERALD

A CONSOLIDATION OF EXHIBITORS HERALD-WORLD AND MOTION PICTURE NEWS

INDUSTRY SPEEDS UP AS BUSINESS IMPROVES

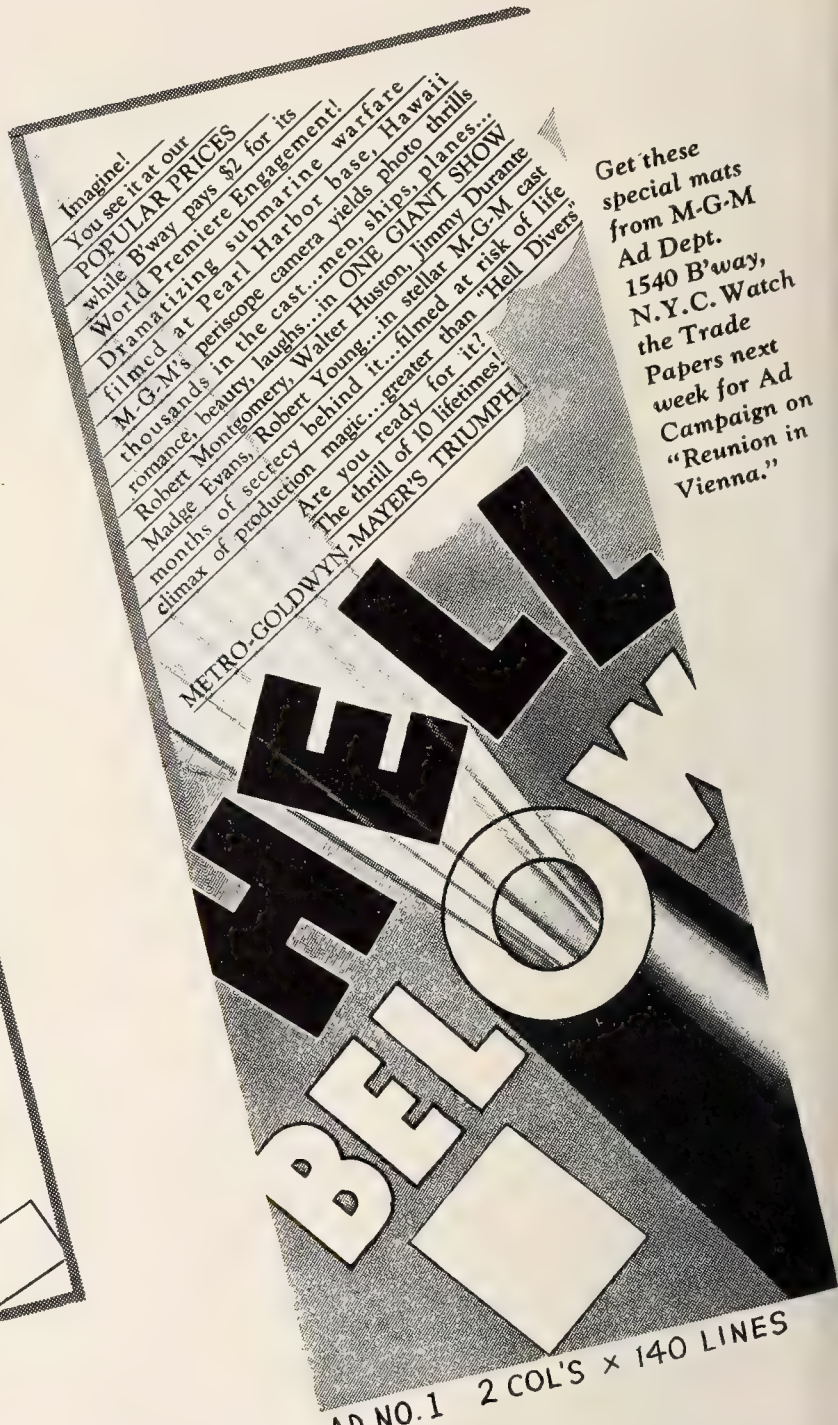
Growing confidence inspired by Washington's program is reflected by a quickened gait in industry

HALF MILLION SAVING FOR SMALL THEATRES

Reduction of 50 per cent in express rates on all return shipments of film becomes effective on June 15

STORY PURCHASES SET A NEW RECORD

Fifty-four books and plays purchased for 1933-34 release schedules; 150 bought since beginning of the year



THIS WEEK: SPECIAL SHORT FEATURE SECTION

Vol. III No. 7 Entered as second-class matter, January 12, 1931, at the Post Office, at New York, N. Y., under the act of March May 13, 1933

GIVE THEM "HELL BELOW" in smashing showmanship ads!

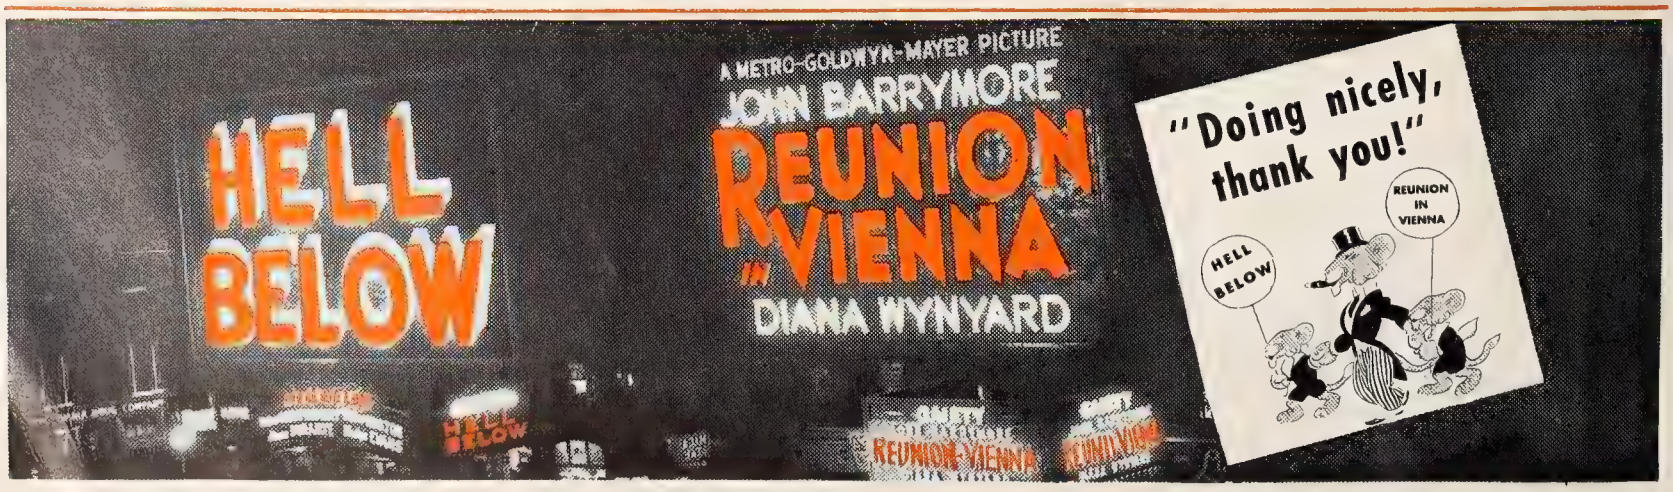
AD NO 2 3 COL'S × 135 LINES



Get these special mats from M-G-M Ad Dept. 1540 B'way, N.Y.C. Watch the Trade Papers next week for Ad Campaign on "Reunion in Vienna."

AD NO.1 2 COL'S × 140 LINES

AD NO.3 5 COL'S × 110 LINES

M-G-M ABLAZE ON BROADWAY WITH TWO $2 HITS!

HE'S GOT THEM LAUGHING FROM EAR TO EAR

JOE E. BROWN

in

"ELMER THE GREAT"

A batty comedy of baseball and blondes. With Frank McHugh, Patricia Ellis, Claire Dodd. From the famous play by Ring Lardner and George M. Cohan. Directed by Mervyn Le Roy. A First National Picture

IN KANSAS CITY
"Getting away to a great start at the Uptown."—Variety

IN CINCINNATI
"Top money at Keith's."—Variety

IN LINCOLN, NEB.
"A wow in this spot."—Variety

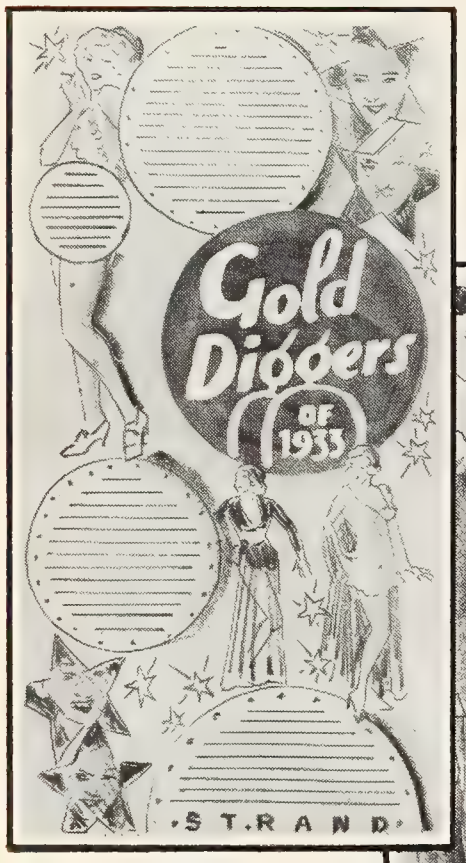
AT RADIO CITY MUSIC HALL
(Soon)

"FILM DAILY" SUGGESTS:

"Films are getting too serious . . . . the demand for wholesome comedy never was so great. Theatres need a few good orders of laughter to lighten up the over-serious content of the current cinema bill-of-fare."

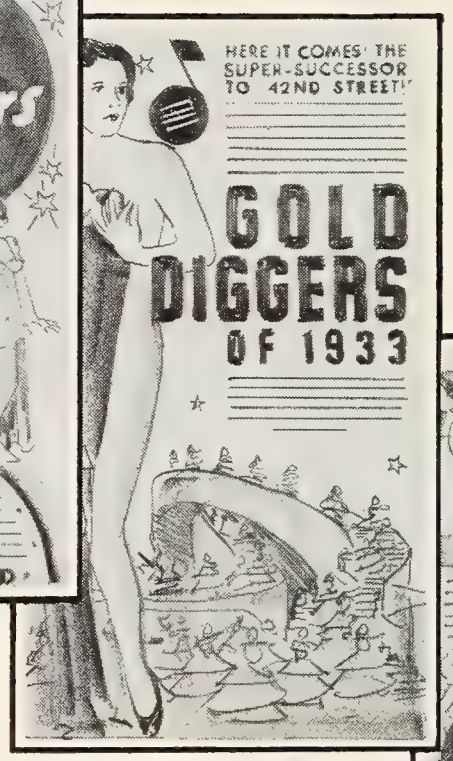
GET 5 BIG-STAR COMEDIES NOW FROM

WARNER BROS.



VITAGRAPH INC., DISTRIBUTORS

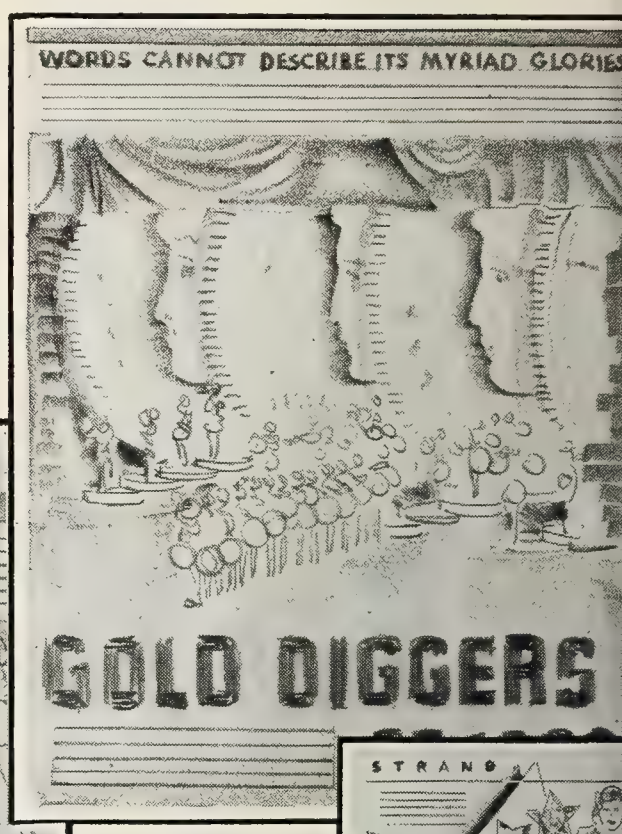
VOTE TODAY ON



"'GOLD DIGGERS' IS GREA

Come on, you trade Ad-Visers! Here's one more big job to do and we'll be all set for the Campaign of the Century on the Show of the Century!

Hundreds of you have rushed to help us decide on Girls and Songs and Star Billing in these national "Gold Diggers" campaign conferences we've been holding every week. Now this fourth session gives you a chance to tell us the kind of ADS you want.



No. 1
480 lines

No. 2
420 lines

No. 3
354 lines

No. 4
560 lines

No. 5
264 lines

GOLD DIGGERS OF

THE SHOW OF THE CENTURY! WARNER BROS.' FIRST 193

ADS THAT SAY—

TER THAN '42ND STREET'"

Look over the varied layout styles submitted here. Decide whether you prefer those that feature the Spectacle, the Girls, or the Stars — or those that sell the whole show. Do you want "sock" or class ads—large or small—simple or tricky layouts?

Tell us on the coupon below*—and we'll follow the wishes of the majority. But hurry please—because "Gold Diggers" prints will soon be on the way to the 1217 houses which have already signed for it!

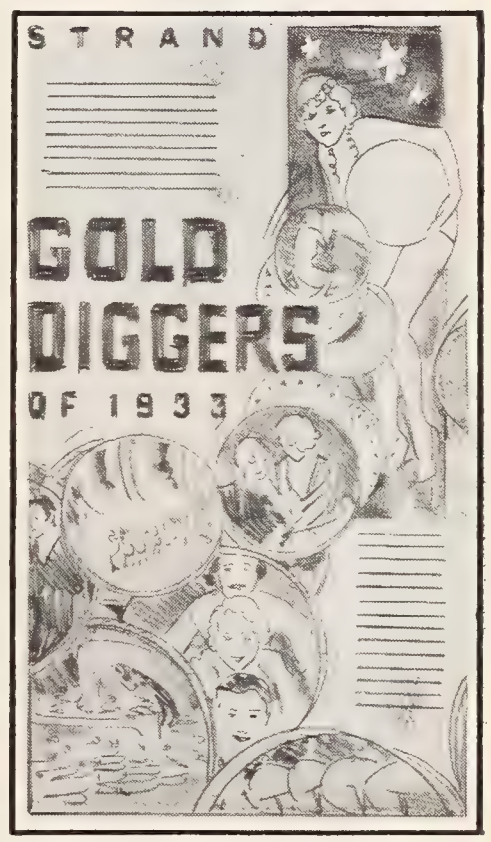
No. 6
244 lines



No. 7
162 lines

No. 8
300 lines

No. 9
320 lines

No. 10
444 lines

USE THIS COUPON TO GET MADE-TO-ORDER ADS
—the kind you think will get you the most dough from "Gold Diggers of 1933."

Warner Bros., Advertising Dept.
321 W. 44th St., N. Y. C.

I think ads like the following will pull best in my town. (Vote for 4 of the above layout styles, by number).

No._____ No._____

No._____ No._____

*Remarks*_____

_____

*Name*_____

*Theatre*_____

*City*_____ *State*_____

--M.P.H.

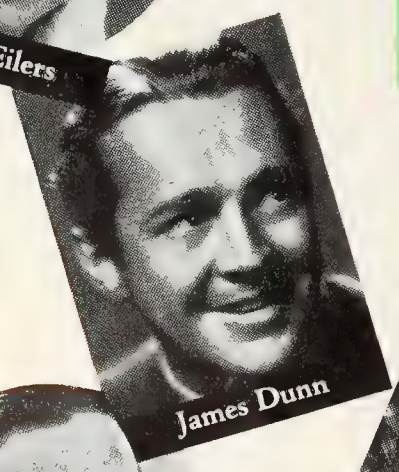
933

4 PRODUCTION

WARNING!

To the hundreds of opposition houses which used art and copy from the "42nd Street" press book to advertise other attractions, we make the urgent request not to use "Gold Diggers" art until after the picture has completed its local runs!

VITAGRAPH, INC., DISTRIBUTORS



You get them ALL in the

FOX May FESTIVAL

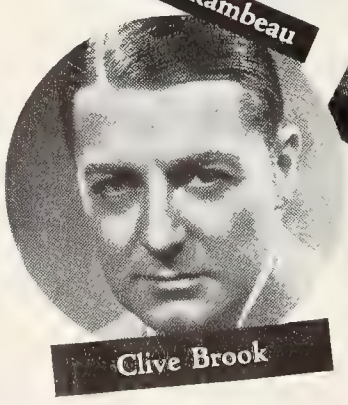
Janet Gaynor

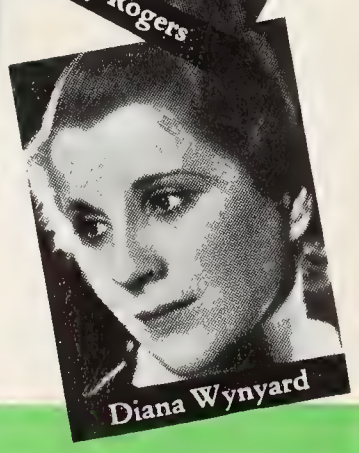
Henry Garat



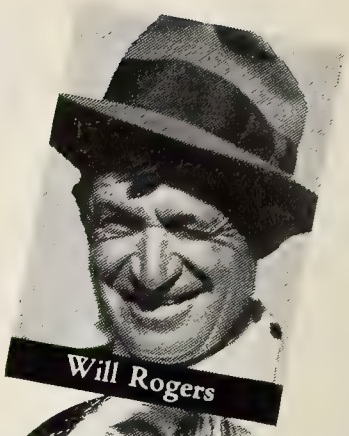
Sally Eilers

James Dunn

Victor Jory



Norman Foster



Marjorie Rambeau

Clive Brook

Loretta Young

Buddy Rogers

Diana Wynyard

Will Rogers

Marian Nixon

Elissa Landi

Gene Raymond

FOX provides a veritable torrent of talent for this box office celebration... every name with a definite draw. Something to sing about ... to shout about. Worth a special photographic lobby display! They'll make May your biggest month in years.

In these pictures:

Zoo in Budapest with Loretta Young. Jesse L. Lasky hit that reviewer Jimmy Starr nominates: "THE picture of the year!"

Janet Gaynor and Henry Garat in Adorable. With the happy, tuneful romance of "Sunny Side Up."

James Dunn and Sally Eilers in Hold Me Tight. It will boost them to a new popularity high.

Jesse L. Lasky's The Warrior's Husband with Elissa Landi. Booked into Radio City Music Hall . . . just watch it.

5c a Glass with Buddy Rogers, Marian Nixon. A picture and a title showmen dream about.

State Fair. Biggest repeat-booking clean-up in industry history.

Cavalcade. Nationwide mop-up at popular prices.

MAY 12 1933
©CIB 190110

MOTION PICTURE HERALD

Vol. III, No. 7 May 13, 1933

WRITERS AND RE-WRITERS

IT has long been a commonplace to read in West Coast tidings that such-and-such a studio has fifty-one writers engaged, another has thirty or another a mere dozen and a half. Writers, it would appear, are had and handled by job lots. One might expect to see them quoted on a Hollywood market at a daily price per hundred weight, like butter on the Elgin board, wheat in Duluth and beef in Chicago. There might be futures and writing crop forecasts by the government. The truth is that Hollywood often has and still does buy futures on the writing market, and rarely is the delivery up to the anticipations. It would be better if there were a market in which to sell fiction and scripts short.

All of this just picturesquely bears on another of the whimsies of a forest of strange growths that has been created in that remote sunshine land, sheltered from the rigors of commercial necessity, and irrigated these many years by a river of box office gold.

When words and sounds came to the motion picture, Hollywood with that curious naivete so characteristic of the region, gathered in haste makers of sounds and jugglers of words. The sound makers, the song writers and composers have long since flown, hungry, from the land of fickle promise, but the writers linger on, not to write, but to re-write. The effective writers of Hollywood, and they have them, are not writers in the broadly accepted sense of the word. Rather, these Hollywood writers take the material of writers and recast it into the pabulum that makes a motion picture. They are constructors and re-constructors, not creators; carpenters and builders, not architects.

This is not at all without appreciation of the very important work of these Hollywood re-writers, constructors of screen drama, but rather a definition of their labors, which someway their employers do not seem to have been able to make. The extreme folly of the frequent employment as a Hollywood "writer" of novelists and other creative writers of note, merely because they are of note, has been more than obvious. The reason that so many able writers have emerged from Hollywood cursing and making faces and telling ironic tales of dumbbell confusion is because the creative writer is not often a very facile re-writer. Good writers of fiction, whether of page or stage, are of a great deal more value to the motion picture industry at home or wherever they best produce. The Hollywood activity is fabrication, assembly, rather than creation. The creative processes of no art are ever tied to any office, any locale or any special environment whatsoever. In addition, there is evidence that the worst place to try to write anything would be that region of the United States south of Santa Barbara and west of the Sierras. That soil is great for citrus fruits, but the rock-bound coast of New England, the sands of Cape Cod, the canyons of New York and the prairies of Indiana are, as proven by their crops, more productive of good copy.

Now, despite the great rosters of writers in Hollywood, it is the usual observation that in every studio the real work resulting in pictures on the screen is done by an inner guild of a half a dozen hardworking re-writers of special fitness for the work. The rest are decorations for the kudos of the boss, like the King's Guards, and as valuable to screen drama as two little Evas and three Uncle Toms to Uncle Tom's Cabin.

△ △ △

THE NATURE FAKERS

ONCE again it seems that the motion picture industry has factors that can be aligned with the purposes of common honesty and decency of purpose only by a bust in the nose. After a variously pockmarked career on the map of the screen, "Ingagi", production of some seasons past, had been made the subject of a "cease misrepresentation" order from the Federal Trade Commission.

The Commission has found, as most motion picture men knew, and as any intelligent layman could tell by looking at the screen, that the expedition on which the picture was alleged to be taken was never made and that the "natives" were employed in Hollywood and variously bedecked with feathers, scales and skins to produce animals "new to science". The ugly truth of the story is that the picture took its major punch from a sequence implying the ravishing of a girl by a gorilla.

"Ingagi" with its flashes of prurient success has brought in sequel sundry imitative if less daring endeavours and the screen is these days being accursed with a bastard technique covering productions which range from expeditionary pictures with Hollywood inserts to Hollywood pictures with expeditionary inserts, all offered with the implication or the hope that they will claim the public's attention as records of fact.

There is no reasonable objection to devices of make-believe in the avowed drama. There is every objection to be made to motion pictures which purport to present fact and which resort to misrepresentation in word and picture to achieve their appeal. The whole important and valuable field of the expeditionary picture is being invaded and impaired by the ridiculous, studio-assembled, makeshift productions concocted out of film libraries and threaded together on a re-write man's nightmare of a narrative. With lecherous eyes on the dramatic screen, the makers of most of these pictures make their climax and big moment some form of rape in some far wild place, with the assistance of property trees, spanish moss and half lights.

If only the producer of such pictures reaped the consequences, it would not matter. But it so chances that the repute of the whole motion picture industry and its theatre is still in some degree at stake in every picture.

MOTION PICTURE HERALD MARTIN QUIGLEY, Editor-in-Chief and Publisher

Incorporating Exhibitor's Herald, founded 1915; Motion Picture News, founded 1913; Moving Picture World, founded 1907; Motography, founded 1909; The Film Index, founded 1906. Published every Thursday by Quigley Publishing Company, 1790 Broadway, New York City. Telephone CIrcle 7-3100. Martin Quigley, Editor-in-Chief and Publisher; Colvin Brown, Vice-President and General Manager; Terry Ramsaye, Editor; Ernest A. Rovelstad, Managing Editor; Chicago office, 407 South Dearborn street, Edwin S. Clifford, manager; Hollywood office, Pacific States Life Building, Wid Gunning, manager; London office, 41 Redhill Drive, Edgware, London, England, W. H. Mooring, representative; Berlin office, Katharinstrasse 3, Berlin-Halinsee, Germany, Hans Tintner, representative; Paris office, 19, Rue de la Cour-des-Noues, Paris 20e, France, Pierre Autré, representative; Sydney office, 102 Sussex street, Sydney, Australia, Cliff Holt, representative; Mexico City office, James Lockhart, Apartado 269, Mexico City, Mexico. Member Audit Bureau of Circulations. All contents copyright 1933 by Quigley Publishing Company. All correspondence should be addressed to the New York Office. Better Theatres, devoted to the construction, equipment and operation of theatres, is published every fourth week as section 2 of Motion Picture Herald. Other Quigley Publications: Motion Picture Daily, The Hollywood Herald, The Motion Picture Almanac, published annually, and the Chicagoan.

THIS WEEK - - - -

ISLAND TONIC

Pep medicine for the world of today is being pilled in the Philippine Islands, if the assertion of L. DePrida, Fox Film manager there, be any criterion. In San Francisco last week for a six months' holiday, from manager DePrida came the cheery statement that in his bailiwick all theatres are doing excellent business, especially in Manila, with the lately much-abused Western leading the field, "Tom Mix and George O'Brien being the favorite stars." To American exhibitors the secret of Philippine success would doubtless be welcome. . . .

TALENT-SPLITTING

"Liable to raise Hell in this town" (Hollywood) is Columbia's Harry Cohn's plan for gross-splitting on three features planned with Lewis Milestone directing. 50-50 occurs to President Cohn as the most equitable splitting basis, though, he indicates, results may alter that proportion. On "Twentieth Century" he will also experiment with the new talent remuneration. The Hell he sees possibly popping will develop from a smart thought: to keep separate books on talent borrowed from other lots, paying them regular salaries but checking to see whether they might have made more on percentage. If they would, Experimenter Cohn visions refusals to sign "old-style" salary contracts. Frankly an experiment, Mr. Cohn wisely says, "We'll all know more after we make and release the first one." . . .

MOTOR MURDER

For an hour's motoring pleasure Monday night Floyd M. Brockell, head of important Midwest Theatre Corporation, left his Chicago suburban home, at Winnetka, Ill., accompanied by his wife. On the outskirts of Chicago, heedlessly rushing from a side street, came another car, crashing into Mr. Brockell's. From the former leaped its driver, dashed away, abandoning his machine, to be later sought by police. The 44-year-old film pioneer paid in full for the other's carelessness; Mrs. Brockell was severely bruised. Twenty-five years of films, including head of First National distribution during its days as a national circuit, led Mr. Brockell through various companies, to his own booking organization serving 50 theatres, and leadership in exhibitor circles. . . .

PRODUCTION ARM

Hitting the mark where the ammunition is nearest at hand, MGM plans establishment of a studio at Barcelona, Spain, there to handle dubbing of Hollywood product to meet Spanish requirements. With similar plants in Paris, Rome, will the Barcelona studio take its place, being yet another finger on the hand of the outstretched foreign arm of Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer. Another finger, planned for Berlin, must still remain an "if and when" while Hitler holds his oppressive sway. . . .

INGENIOUS CENSOR

Ingenious is Kansas Censor Secretary Hallie Tucker in her money-saving device for designating approved films. Displacing the "sunflower" tag, which appeared on the screen, and for which the inspector watched carefully, Miss Tucker's method stamps the celluloid itself with a mark invisible to the audience and requiring the inspector to see for himself, in the projection booth. Not displeased are major distributors by the shift, seeing better identification, less "bootlegging". From filmly-active Kansas Attorney-General Roland Boynton has come approval to delight Miss Tucker. . . .

VERSATILE MAESTRO

Versatile, unusually scientifically-minded is famed Leopold Stokowski, often-publicized, able conductor of the Philadelphia Orchestra. To Europe Conductor Stokowski last week sailed, during his three-month stay planning participation in French research designed to improve motion picture photographic technique. In mind are third dimensional vision, use of the full range of color, full range of sound. The maestro occupies his spare time with many an avocation. . . .

In This Issue

Industry speeds up as business improves	Page 9
Exhibitors will save half million by reduction of express rates	Page 10
The Paramount Case—by Martin Quigley	Page 11
Fifty-four stories and plays purchased in April set new record	Page 15
Short Feature Section	Page 33

FEATURES

Editorial	Page 7
The Camera Reports	Page 19
J. C. Jenkins—His Colyum	Page 48
Asides and Interludes	Page 31

DEPARTMENTS

What the Picture Did for Me	Page 53
Showmen's Reviews	Page 22
Managers Round Table	Page 61
Technological	Page 30
Voice of the Industry	Page 40
The Release Chart	Page 68
Box Office Receipts	Page 58
Classified Advertising	Page 74

SHARK BAIT

Idle Havana vacationers last week were Ann Harding, Alexander Kirkland and Marie Lombard, Miss Harding's secretary, when, of a bright afternoon, they boarded the small sail boat of one Magin Alvarez Piedra. A sudden squall, an overturned boat and the four were clinging to the upturned keel, far from shore. Tired of waiting, seeking aid, boatman Piedra set out, swimming easily, until a fin clipped the surface, Piedra threw up his hands, disappeared to be shark bait. Nearly four hours passed before George Andrews, assistant secretary of the American Embassy, glimpsed the weary mariners, hauled them to safety. Said Miss Harding: "It was a terrible experience." . . .

GUM CHEWING CHARITY

No practitioner is Will Rogers, drawling, onetime cowboy and humorist extraordinary, of the old saw: "The more one has, the more one wants." Recently the gum-chewing (for effect) film star turned to the air under sponsorship of Gulf Refining for seven Sunday monologues. To Salvation Army and Red Cross he last week addressed identical wires, indicating the NBC broadcast remuneration is to be divided equally between the two organizations. Sez he: "I got nothin' to lose in the transaction but my voice and I never lost it yet." . . .

AIRMEN'S CLOCK

Not alone motion picture equipment occupies the attention of research engineers of Western Electric's subsidiary, Electrical Research Products. Proudly last week Erpi engineers learned their Precision Timer had been approved by the Federation Aeronautics International, world governing body of airmen's neck-risking speed attempts. Photographing both finish and time of finish in incomprehensible fractions of one-hundredth of one second, the device won its spurs at last year's Cleveland air meet, sold itself to air officials with indisputable proficiency. . . .

BONE CONDUCTION

Faces brightened, lips moved, crude vocalizations issued forth one day last week in a schoolroom on New York's upper Riverside Drive. There, for the first time in their short lives a group of children, pupils of the New York school for the Deaf, heard a radio program, by grace of a new electro-mechanical instrument which transmits sound vibrations through the head bones. The invention's principle is "bone conduction," and is the work of Dr. Hugo Lieber of New York. At least possible is future motion picture application of the device. . . .

GAIT OF INDUSTRY IS QUICKENED BY IMPROVEMENT OF BUSINESS

Motion Picture Trade Stands To Share in Definite Upturn Now Marked in Business Activity and in Prices

"In the present spirit of mutual confidence and mutual encouragement we go forward."—President Roosevelt.

The pulse of the nation's industries quickened immediately early in the week upon learning from President Roosevelt that the Administration is encouraged to believe that "a wise and sensible beginning has been made" to put American business on the road to rehabilitation. Any improvement must react favorably on motion picture box-office receipts.

The President's promise of a "partnership" of the United States Government and industry in national economic planning was heartening. Tangible evidence of the revitalized sentiment was translated into actual business improvement. Reports of a decided upturn streamed into Capitol Hill from both coasts. Headlines of the nation's press told of the gratifying reaction. Both business and Administrative leaders feel that the inference reasonably to be drawn is that the industry has seen the worst of the reactionary movement.

Reassuring Headway Noted

Even though but a few days have passed since President Roosevelt outlined over a radio hookup his plans for recovery, and gave to the people an accounting of the first eight weeks of his Administration's stewardship, there can be no dispute that the turn for the better in trade and prices already has gained reassuring headway.

The events at Washington during the week were replete with interest, and of vital concern to the motion picture industry. With rehabilitation of the American worker definitely on the way, and the passage of inflation, farm relief and mortgage reduction measures, the film business, along with other industries of the nation, stands to gain a strong foothold in the development of its own program of reconstruction.

President Roosevelt gave assurance in his radio message last Sunday night that no dictatorship and no unbridled inflation is contemplated in his emergency legislative program, explaining that all the measures asked of Congress are for the purpose of putting the government into partnership with industry, agriculture and the railroads, with all profits to go, as in the past, to the private owners. The Chief Executive said the powers about to be given him by Congress for this "will be used when, as and if it may be necessary" to accomplish the end.

Providing Amusement Funds

The financial legislation under which inflation would be possible, said Mr. Roosevelt, would have "the definite objective of raising commodity prices to such an extent that those who have borrowed money will, on the average, be able to repay that money in the same kind of dollar which they borrowed."

From the standpoint of the motion picture theatre, this means that the exhibitor could raise his admission prices in line with the raised prices of commodities, without antagonizing most classes. In general, however, the effect of higher commodity prices (even without increases in admission prices) is expected to provide a greater number of people with that surplus income necessary for the regular purchase of amusement.

There is every indication that Mr. Roosevelt will employ promptly the provision in the inflation bill providing for government purchase of outstanding government bonds as a means of making millions, now invested by banks in these obligations, free for industry's use.

Typical of the general approval among industrial leaders of President Roosevelt's proposed partnership of government and business in economic planning, was the statement made Tuesday by Henry Ford, in which he gave full credit to Mr. Roosevelt for having "turned the Ship of State around." Mr. Ford's remarks were particularly significant because of his staunch pro-Hoover stand during the campaign last fall.

Employment To Help

Both circuit and independent theatre operators were expecting an additional upturn in grosses as a result of the drafting in Washington of a gigantic plan designed to put at least 3,000,000 men back to work in private industry on a specified date. The proposition was reported to have the backing of 25 chosen representatives of 56,000 manufacturers throughout the country.

The position of the exhibitors will be aided, too, by a new-born movement raising salaries in industry. A national checkup showed that the rapid return of confidence and activity already had resulted in raising wages and salaries affecting thousands of workers. Exhibitors had new reasons for optimism.

As if to place the fact of the starting of emphatic recovery beyond dispute, Dun's index of commodity prices listed the rise in the average during April at 4½ per cent, which was said to be the largest monthly average in a dozen years. Wheat has risen 30½ cents a bushel from the year's low, and cotton about $43 a bale.

Stock "Averages" Up 26 Points

The New York Times' stock market "averages" have advanced 26 points from the low figure of March 2, and are now one-third higher than last year. Steel reached not only the highest monthly total in a year, but, for the first time since the depression began, exceeded the output of a year ago.

Freight loadings showed an advance in April of 11 per cent over the previous month. Gasoline stock was up 27,000 barrels. Refineries were operating at 61.7 per cent of capacity. Richmond cigaret factories recalled several hundred workers. Newspaper headlines telling of the upturn appeared everywhere. Typical was: "Trade and Wages Rise as Industry Gains Confidence."

The announcement by the National Grain and Feed Dealers Association that values of wheat, corn and oats held by farmers suddenly had jumped $419,000,000, brought further prospects of better times for theatres in the hard-hit farming sections.

Heavy re-employment was reported in many territories. Box offices were expected to react accordingly. Plants which had been working part-time resumed full operations. New York state employment increased 2.7 per cent in volume, and wage payments increased 4.4 per cent.

Tariff Solution Awaited

Impending enactment of a Congressional measure giving President Roosevelt authority over import-duty rates, to be used in making reciprocal tariff agreements with foreign powers, may strengthen considerably the position of corporations which export films to Europe. Excessive tariff regulations and troublesome trade restrictions have been for many years as burdensome to motion pictures as to other commodities of American manufacturers. American films have been singled out the world over as the target of almost unsurmountable quota barriers.

The Administration's attempts to obtain a tariff truce abroad, pending the discussion of plans for new international agreements at the forthcoming World Economic Conference in June, at London, began to materialize this week. Upon the outcome of the tariff truce, and upon the results of the London conference will depend treaties under which barriers to the free movement of films may be eliminated. Such a situation would give Hollywood's producers some competition in merchandising their films to the American theatre owner, but the flood

(Continued on following page)

BALLYHOOS AND MOTION PICTURES

President Roosevelt's inspiring message of reassurance to the nation last Sunday evening gave light to the fact that—officially—things are looking up.

However, he pointed out, "I do not want the people of this country to take the foolish course of letting this improvement come back on another speculative wave. . . . We cannot ballyhoo ourselves back to prosperity."

The President, of course, was not referring to the motion picture industry when he warned against ballyhooing. Exhibitors know how important that is to their box offices.

Rehabilitation of Worker and Comprehensive Reconstruction Program at Washington Point Way to Box Office Gains

SMALL HOUSES TO SAVE $450,000 ANNUALLY BY LOWER EXPRESS RATE

Reduction by Railway Express Agency Will Approximate 26.6 Cents on Each of 12,000,000 Film Shipments a Year

The expense burden of many motion picture theatre owners will be alleviated to some extent beginning June 15, when Railway Express Agency, Inc., will make effective an order decreasing by 50 per cent the cost in express rates on all return shipments of film from theatres to exchanges.

Savings to exhibitors will approximate $450,000 yearly, or about 26.6 cents on each of the 12,000,000 film shipments made annually through the Railway Agency, which holds a virtual monopoly in railway express transportation throughout the country. The savings will principally affect exhibitors in the rural sections. Operators within the proximity of exchange centers receive prints to a major extent by daily motor truck service, or, to a lesser degree, by United States Mail. Daily motor deliveries usually are made to houses within a radius of 25 to 150 miles of the exchange.

Negotiations for the reduction had been conducted over a long period by special representatives of the Motion Picture Producers and Distributors of America, and early in 1932 Mr. M. A. Lightman, as president of the MPTOA, in conjunction with state leaders of exhibitors in some territories, launched an active campaign. Mr. George S. Lee, vice-president of the Railway Express Agency, represented that corporation in a comprehensive survey to ascertain justification of the exhibitors' claims. On Oct. 8, 1932, MOTION PICTURE HERALD first reported details of the negotiations.

Reduction Authorized

Originally, the negotiators were considering two plans: A reduction of slightly more than 25 per cent each way on express film shipments, or a reduction of 50 per cent only on return shipments. The REA could not arbitrarily lower its rates, and permission of the Interstate Commerce Commission was sought. Authorization for the reduction is contained in Supplement No. 22 to I. C. C. No. 150, a special order.

Most express shipments of motion picture film are charged both ways to exhibitors, likewise parcel post. However, costs of the motor dory deliveries are applicable only one way, and it was this competition that influenced the Railway Agency to adopt the reduction.

The reduction in express rates on lot shipments will continue in effect. In addition, the reduction of 50 per cent will apply to lot shipments as well as to single case shipments when the entire lot is returned to the point of origin as a round-trip shipment.

One of Largest Users

Because of the obligations assumed by the exhibitor in the standard exhibition contracts—also in individual company agreements—for loss or damage to prints in transit, Mr. Lightman's association holds that the REA's responsibility in handling prints, "and the ease with which shipments can be traced in emergencies," is an important item "in selecting a carrier for motion picture films, frequently overlooked until a settlement is demanded by a distributor for a lost print." "Lost prints," incidentally, are usually those stolen by "film pirates," who later make duplicates for foreign countries, although attempts to market such films in this country are on record.

The 12,000,000 shipments made annually through the REA express service in the United States do not include thousands of shipments of advertising accessories, trailers and the like. The motion picture industry is one of the largest users of transportation facilities, both passenger and freight.

The reduction in tariff for return film shipments was made in line with other REA cuts demanded by different industries.

Private investigation reveals that shipments by motor delivery service amounted to approximately 60 per cent; express shipments totaled 25 per cent, and parcel post 15 per cent. Air mail service frequently is used in dispatching "rushes," or first prints, from studios in Hollywood to home offices in New York, and from location in the field to the studio in Hollywood.

New York, followed by Chicago, leads in express poundage. Los Angeles is third and San Francisco fourth.

Industry Quickens As Business Rises

(Continued from preceding page)

gates to hitherto restricted markets abroad would be correspondingly opened to the product of American distributors.

President Roosevelt's proposal for obtaining authority to decrease or increase tariffs in "bargaining" with the foreign governments was completed Tuesday. It will be sent to Congress as soon as the tariff truce is assured. Duty imposts on motion pictures and film equipment and cameras may be changed by the signatories to the pact.

The President also outlined the Administration's plans for the control of industry, including an amendment of the anti-trust laws.

Amendment of the anti-trust laws will not be in the line of permitting any steps toward monopolies. It will be directed toward eliminating "cut-throat" competition.

The draft of the industry recovery program was completed last Sunday. It was reviewed by Senator Robert Wagner and taken to the White House Wednesday. It provides for a national board, consisting of the secretaries of commerce, labor, agriculture and the interior, and one to be named by the President, to act on codes of trade practices for the various industries of the United States, covering competition, labor standards, selling, purchasing and credit. It will permit independently competing persons or groups to make agreements tending toward improvement of the industry. It also is contemplated that loans be made to employers by the Reconstruction Finance Corporation.

The industry-control measure is described by its Congressional supporters as embodying a long stride from selfish individualism to cooperative effort on the part of industry.

A concerted movement would be provided against unemployment, concessions being granted to industry in return for the employment of additional working forces.

The program for calling upon industry voluntarily to put at least 3,000,000 persons back to work, while not an integral part of this legislation, is intended as a supplementary attack on present economic conditions. The plan has received approbation of a steering committee representing the Association of National Manufacturers.

The effect of the bill upon the film industry cannot yet be gauged. However, trade association agreements of far-reaching effect upon the film industry, as well as all other important industries, may be authorized. A three-year suspension of the anti-trust laws so that trade groups will be able to fix prices and enter into other compacts considered necessary for the stimulation of trade, might have an important influence on film operations.

If made effective, possible legal barriers to physical distribution mergers in the picture business would be removed, with the possible opening for other inter-company economies. During the recent conferences on the coast, Will H. Hays indicated that industry-wide action was being hampered by fear for possible anti-trust law violations and the Clayton Act.

The industry-control bill also contains a broad program for reviving business through a $3,000,000,000 public building program by the federal government, states, municipalities and private interests. A Public Works Administrator would have power to supervise the entire construction program. The Treasury would provide $1,000,000,000 and the Reconstruction Finance Corporation the remainder.

Aid for Rural Box Offices

Box offices in the rural districts are expected to benefit directly from the agricultural relief legislation, now in its final stages, which will improve the position of the farmer and, through higher prices for his products, make him again an important factor in the country's business.

With this, there will be legislation to ease the mortgage distress among the farmers and also among the home owners, measures for the provision of a half-billion dollars to help the states, counties and municipalities in their relief work, and a plan for development work in the Tennessee Valley, including operation of the long-idle Muscle Shoals plant.

Of outstanding importance was the passage by the Senate Monday of the securities-control bill, previously passed by the House, under which all new issues of stocks and bonds will have to obtain the approval of the Federal Trade Commission before being offered for public sale. This, of course, will apply to the stocks of film companies and theatre organizations, as well as to concerns in other business.

Six Maynards Raise U's Feature Schedule to 42

Adding six Ken Maynard westerns brings the Universal feature schedule up to 42 for next season in addition to the short product.

"Zest," by Charles Norris and "The Behavior of Mrs. Crane" are definitely set for 1933-34 production. "S. O. S. Iceberg," if not completed in time, will go over to next season's release. The company may also have "The Ghoul," made in England by British Gaumont with Boris Karloff.

'Anti' Legislators Lose More Ground

Activities during the week in legislative matters concerning the film business considerably widened the extent of the industry's victory in the battle which it has been waging against unfair legislation, and on behalf of helpful measures.

Anti-industry legislators in Congress—principally Representative Sirovich (D.), New York—made no further progress in their attempts to investigate the business, and, although the Sirovich bill is on the House calendar, there is little likelihood of it being brought to the floor before adjournment next month. Allied continued to urge members to request support of local legislators for the measure.

In the state legislative situation, the industry was nearing the end of a record-breaking fight against adverse measures. By the end of May, the law-making season will be over except in a half dozen states, including California, Massachusetts, Michigan, North Carolina, Ohio and West Virginia. California and Ohio still offer some trouble for exhibitors.

Maryland's new censor, Bernard B. Gough, took office, and, completely reversing the policy of his predecessor, declared that there will be no definite rules on censoring under his administration. Obviously, this was pleasant news for Maryland exhibitors. On June 1 a new state law will take from the board jurisdiction over home projectors and portable machines which use non-inflammable film non-professionally.

Missouri legislators finally adjourned without taking action on any of the many bills affecting motion pictures. A "privilege" tax of 5 per cent, a levy of 2 per cent and a proposal to tax newspaper advertising were killed. Exhibitor associations from St. Louis and Kansas City are chiefly given credit for preventing final votes on the following measures: Authorizing towns and villages to tax theatres and advertising; taxing rentals one-tenth of a mill per foot of film, to be paid by exhibitors; a bill prohibiting standing room.

New York's sales tax of one per cent became effective. Theatre equipment is taxable when sold outright. Motion picture film will be taxed only when it is sold by the manufacturer to the producer, unless the completed picture is sold later. There will be no tax on film or any other commodity when it is sold in interstate commerce.

Ohio's ten per cent admission tax proposal was killed when P. J. Wood, of Ohio's exhibitor organization, agreed to support Governor White's 2 per cent sales tax program, which will include admissions at the same rate as tangible articles. The agreement was made at a conference with Chairman Goodwin of the state joint taxation committee.

Wisconsin exhibitors would be protected against vandalism by a proposal to penalize stench bombing. Fines and jail terms are provided for.

Warner Theatres Zone Managers Convene

Eight Warner Theatre zone managers participated in a birthday party Sunday night for Joseph Bernhard, general manager of Warner Theatres, while attending conferences on operation. The zone leaders are James Coston, Chicago; Sol Hankin, Milwaukee; B. E. Hoffman, New Haven; Don Jacocks, New Jersey; Harry Kalmine, Pittsburgh; Lou Lazar, Albany; John Payette, Washington, and Nat Wolf, Cleveland. Sixty others, from the home office, attended.

The Paramount Case

The Paramount case is hindering the return of the motion picture industry to a sound and healthy operating condition.

Instead of fair and constructive procedure there has appeared an orgy of legalistic maneuver and scheming delay which is rolling up a huge cost not only to the Paramount company but also to the whole industry, because the Paramount company is, in the business of motion pictures, such an important unit that the adverse conditions now confronting it cannot but similarly affect the whole business.

In any accounting of the assets of the motion picture business the Paramount enterprises represent a substantial part of the total. This company, operating virtually throughout the whole lifetime of the industry as now constituted, has had a distinguished record. It has brought to the screen many of its finest productions. Its trade-mark and its reputation are respected throughout the civilized world. It is a great and vital institution of the motion picture industry.

▲ ▲ ▲

It is true that almost overwhelming financial difficulties crowded into its pathway during the deflationary period through which business generally has passed. But even this—if there is to be any fair play and justice accorded to it and to the industry of which it is an important part—should not permit or make possible any seemingly studied course calculated to drain its life-blood through red-tape, delay, attack and counter attack, leaving it in the long run a dissipated estate having contributed no profit or return to anyone except those who control the System of dragging a corporation through the courts.

While a capable and industrious organization has been straining at the straitjacket into which it has been thrust, this corporation since January 26th, on which date it consented to a receivership, has been kicked, like a football in a punting match, from one end of the field to the other. On March 15th came the petition in bankruptcy which offered promise of being able to whittle away the red-tape and get down to business. But still there has been little or no progress. The hawks, seeking to prey on the remains of the estate, continue to hover about menacingly at all times and, as occasions present themselves, dash in to disrupt anything that looks like a constructive development.

Of course, there is nothing unique in this record. Such an experience traditionally has been the penalty for a business which gets into the courts. But the motion picture industry stands at a critical crossroads. Business generally stands at a critical crossroads—and this is one time at least when it should be possible to get something constructive done and done in time.

▲ ▲ ▲

A great business institution which was once a big profit-maker—and may again be a big profit-maker—is being permitted to linger haphazardly at a time when it should be encouraged to drive ahead with all of the energy and resourcefulness at its command. The harm being done to the Paramount estate in itself is bad enough; but multiplied many times over is the harm which is being done to the industry at large in keeping this great institution bogged in a morass of legalistic maneuver.

Those persons who are in a position to influence the course of the Paramount case should realize that present times are not normal times. A great industry of which the Paramount company is an important part is fighting a desperate battle looking toward reconstruction. Of course, the struggle will eventually succeed. But not one moment of needless delay should be permitted—to the end that the motion picture industry will be able at the earliest possible moment to contribute its proportionate share to the return of prosperity to American business.

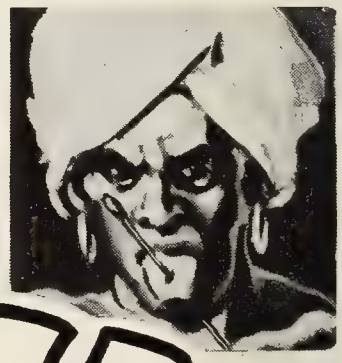
—MARTIN QUIGLEY

"INDIA SPEAKS" IS RARE FILM

OF HALLIBURTON'S ADVENTURES

"...A fascinating film record of the eternal Mother India and her multitudes of children provides unusual entertainment on the screen of the Radio City Roxy.

Indeed to catalogue all the fascinating happenings would take volumes . . . but rest assured that you'll applaud the offering as did the first audiences."



N. Y. American

"INDIA SPEAKS" is packed with hair raising jungle scenes, majestic settings —"The picture holds your interest and is thrilling." Daily News

"Exciting, interesting and thrilling adventure film with unusually fine narrative." Film Daily

"He has been truly and almost terrifyingly industrious in tracking down whatever romance is to be found in this depression-ridden universe." N. Y. Evening Post

INDIA SPEAKS

WITH

RICHARD HALLIBURTON

AUTHOR OF

"THE ROYAL ROAD TO ROMANCE"

"THE GLORIOUS ADVENTURE"

"THE FLYING CARPET"

PRODUCED BY WALTER FUTTER

MAKER OF
"AFRICA SPEAKS"

DISTRIBUTED BY
RKO-RADIO PICTURES

There hasn't been a picture in months that has hit the woman angle like "The SILVER CORD" . . . they're eating it up this week at Radio City Music Hall

Irene Dunne in

"THE SILVER CORD"

with JOEL McCREA
FRANCES DEE · ERIC LINDEN
LAURA HOPE CREWS

Based upon the play by SIDNEY HOWARD as produced by The Theatre Guild, Inc. Directed by John Cromwell. A Pandro Berman Production. Merian C. Cooper, executive producer

RKO Radio PICTURES

"It's a woman's picture, a picture for mothers who hate their daughters-in-law, and wives who hate their mothers-in-law, for it dramatizes the possessive mother-love problem with violence."
Bland Johaneson, Daily Mirror

"... one of the best films of the season . .RKO is to be commended for doing the film . . . and doubly commended for doing it so well. What with that company's production of the equally lasting "Our Betters" and now this Sidney Howard work, it deserves to win a few Pulitzer prizes itself. . . . as close to a first-rate play, or a "great" play as the modern theatre ever shoves forward."
John S. Cohen, Jr., N. Y. Sun

"Silver Cord" is marvelously done . . . a picture worthy to take its place alongside of RKO-Radio's "The Great Jasper" and "Topaze" . . . it is something that deserves your immediate attention. Brilliantly directed and marvelously acted . . ."
William Boehnel, World-Telegram

"...an interesting and absorbing story . . . the conflict is dramatic and extremely interesting."
Kate Cameron, Daily News

"Silver Cord is impressive drama . . . the film is alive with drama and offers excellent entertainment . . ."
Regina Crewe, N. Y. American

OFFICIALLY 'FAKE' NOW

Federal Trade Commission Finally Gets Around to Ruling on "Ingagi" of Several Years Ago

by FRANCIS L. BURT
Washington Correspondent

The old adage that great bodies move slowly was again demonstrated to be true when the Federal Trade Commission on Friday announced it finally had got around to the point where it had issued a "cease and desist" order against Congo Pictures, Ltd., of Los Angeles, producers of "Ingagi," which several years ago challenged the credulity of scientists.

Charges of "nature faking," particularly with respect to scenes showing animals which never had been classified by zoologists, were but one phase of the complaint against the picture, in which, it is said by the commission, an expedition which never took place is portrayed, headed by men who never existed. Pygmies who were merely Los Angeles Negroes made up for Halloween, gorillas with the amorous instincts of human beings, and sacrificial rites of mythical tribes, were among the ingenious devices resorted to in the making of a rather interesting if not entirely authentic picture.

Even the title of the film was "faked," the commission asserted, and the best scenes were taken in a Los Angeles zoo.

The commission's orders call upon Congo Producers to cease representation of the film as a true and authentic record of an expedition in Africa, "or any other country," unless all the scenes of the film were actually made in Africa or such other country, or that the film is a true representation of habits and customs of races, tribes or communities of human beings, when in fact such picture is entirely fictitious.

Some of the high spots of the film are touched upon by the commission in its order, in which it declared:

"The commission found that 'Sir Hubert Winstead, F.A.S., F.R.G.S.,' who was represented in advertising as having led the expedition into Africa, and 'Capt. Daniel Swayne,' billed as an American hunter and collector of museum specimens, who accompanied Winstead, were both fictitious persons not existing in fact. No expedition headed by such persons on which pictures were made ever took place.

"Among other representations ordered discontinued are: That pictures of gorillas are shown in a motion picture film when this is not true; that human beings dressed in animal skins are the actual animals they are made to portray; that a fictitious animal is an animal of a new species never before discovered.

"An animal proclaimed to be 'new to science' and designated in the film as 'Tortadillo,' because of its resemblance to a tortoise and an armadillo, was a turtle with wings, scales and a long tail glued on to it, while the socalled 'pygmies' said to be shown in their native environment were not pygmies at all, but colored children of from five to ten years of age, living in Los Angeles.

"The native woman represented as being sacrificed by her tribe to the gorillas was a Los Angeles colored woman, while the people represented as 'strange creatures apparently half-human and half-ape' were actually colored people living in Los Angeles and made up for the purpose of the picture.

"A lion shown in the film as attacking a cameraman and being killed was a trained lion in Hollywood, often used in moving pictures. Many jungle scenes of the film were taken in a Los Angeles zoo.

"While the word 'Ingagi' was represented as meaning gorilla in the African language, it was found that there was no such word in any written dictionary of any African language, the word for 'gorilla' as given in such dictionary being entirely different from the word 'Ingagi.'"

Which closes the incident.

AMPA Awards For Ads, Publicity

The Associated Motion Picture Advertisers, New York, is planning five annual awards along the lines of the Pulitzer prizes. The plan, with details to be made known by the board of directors in a month or so, tentatively provides for trophies or cash awards for the following:

The theatre man turning out the best advertisement;

Best trade paper advertisement on a picture;

Best exploitation of a picture;

Best United Press or Associated Press story;

Best publicity story.

New Nick Carter Series

Nick Carter, ace detective of thrillers and created by the late Colonel Frederick Van Rensselaer Dey, is returning to the screen in six-reel features adapted from the Street and Smith stories. Theodore Charlton, who in 1920 through Broadwell Productions produced 12 Nick Carter silent pictures in the Fellsway Studio, Medford, Mass., is preparing for the new series, in which the detective will talk.

S.O.S. Corporation Opens Branch

S. O. S. Corporation is opening a branch office and sales room at 358 West 44th street, New York. The second floor will be occupied by S. O. S. in conjunction with Allied Seating Company. The used equipment clearing house established some months ago by I. T. A. Corporation will be placed in operation. Main offices and sales rooms remain at 1600 Broadway.

Lee Ochs To Open Airdomes

Lee Ochs, New York circuit operator, is to open on May 13 six airdomes he recently took over from the New York Projectionists' Local 306. The theatres are in the Bronx.

IN THE NEWS...

GLEN W. DICKINSON is reopening the following theatres in the circuit of which he is chief executive: Wareham, Manhattan, Kan.; Empire, Chillicothe, Mo.; and the Dickinson theatres in Hiawatha, Osage and Paola, Kan. He has also taken over the Best theatre in Independence, Kan., and renamed it the Dickinson. . . .

R. FAWN MITCHELL, who represented the Chicago Section of the SMPE at the Spring Meeting in New York, will summarize the papers at the Chicago Section's dinner meeting Friday night. . . .

B. F. ZEIDMAN will produce two independent pictures for release by Universal next season, the first, "Undine," starting soon. . . .

LEON HAMBURGER, who came to New York in 1914 and formed Trio Amusement Company in association with JOHN W. SPRINGER, died last week. Six uptown Manhattan motion picture theatres were in the circuit. . . .

D. HOLT, of San Jose, Cal., is opening a new 1,100 seat theatre, the Padre, in the heart of the city, on May 27, with FRANK VESLEY as manager. . . .

AUBREY KENNEDY has assigned MARSHALL NEILAN to make the picture, "Chloe" at the Kennedy City studio, St. Petersburg, Fla. This is to be a PAT POWERS release in the new season, for which 36 pictures are to be made, 24 to be released by Powers and 12 through the EAGLE company. . . . "Plaything of Desire" and "Wild Women" are to follow "Chloe." . . .

MICHAEL ABEL died at Columbus, Ohio, after 20 years' association with the KEITH-ALBEE interests. . . .

FRED KEELER, JR., of Mason City, Iowa, will be president of a new circuit named Midwest Theatres, with C. E. MOSHER, fromerly manager of the Palace at Mason City, as general manager. The company has taken over the Hildreth in Charles City, owned by Mrs. J. C. NORMAN, who also owns the Gem theatre there. . . .

PHIL MEYER, who recently formed Helber Productions, will be guest at a testimonial luncheon at the Astor hotel, New York, on May 22. . . .

MARTHA MATTOX, veteran motion picture actress, died Thursday at her home at Sidney, N. Y. She is survived by two sons, O. A. and A. J. Snead. . . .

New Stay in Fox Midland Bankruptcy Action Waited

An order from the federal district court staying the Fox Midland bankruptcy proceedings is awaited at Kansas City by counsel for M. B. Shanberg and Herbert M. Woolf. The attorneys will file a motion for such ruling should the court fail to stay the proceedings in accordance with the temporary stay granted by the U. S. circuit court of appeals at St. Paul, Minn. Creditors were to meet Wednesday to elect a trustee.

Creditors of Fox Rocky Mountain Theatres also were to meet at the same time to elect a trustee.

Two Open Buffalo Exchanges

Tom Brady, once Fox exchange manager in Buffalo, has opened a branch of the American Film Exchange Company there to handle old Pathe films and RKO reissues. Howard F. Brink, manager of the Buffalo Educational exchange prior to absorption by Fox, has organized Independent Films exchange which will handle independent features and shorts.

54 STORIES AND PLAYS PURCHASED DURING APRIL FOR 1933-34 RELEASE

Sets Record in Story Acquisitions for One Month and Increases to 150 the Total Purchased Since January 1

Motion picture producers added further strength to the foundation for 1933-34 release schedules by purchasing 54 stories and plays in April. This is a record in story acquisitions for any one month, and raises the total since January 1 to 150. Numerous successful vehicles are included.

In line with the decision of industry leaders to effect production economies by refraining from purchasing highly expensive plays, activities during April were concentrated chiefly on published and unpublished stories, of which 46 were purchased, as against only eight plays.

Charles Furthman, Paramount's pioneer scenario writer, and Trem Carr, Monogram's production executive, voiced the opinion both of large producer and independent when they emphasized the superior value of originals or published stories to stage plays for motion pictures.

"Originals are the backbone of the industry," said Mr. Carr, who predicted that more than 75 per cent of Monogram's releases next season would be made from original stories.

Mr. Furthman said if Hollywood would forget there is such a place as Broadway, the film industry would benefit greatly. He attributes the success of most film stars to the fact that they infrequently have appeared in noted Broadway plays. "Why have Chaplin, Fairbanks or Lloyd never bought a stage play?" Furthman asks. "Because they have appeared on the screen not in film-adapted stage plays, but in original stories conceived, planned and designed for motion picture technique.

"Certainly some plays have been filmed, and very successfully, but without exception the play script was completely forgotten, the dialogue was discarded and a complete new screen play was built around the title and the central situation. Film producers who have attempted to film stage plays without great change invariably have met with disappointment."

To build a screen play around a successful stage character is a different matter, Mr. Furthman pointed out. He cited Mae West's "She Done Him Wrong," as an example. This vehicle, he said, was written for the screen around the personality in which Miss West won stage fame, but without retaining a single line of the play itself.

Lasky Talks About Plays, Too

That there is a temptation in the screening of successful plays to adhere too closely to the technique of the theatre with the result that the finished product is neither play nor picture, but a poor imitation of each, was pointed out by Jesse L. Lasky, who now is producing for Fox Film.

"This tendency to copy," said Mr. Lasky, "tends to increase in ratio to the importance of the stage production, evidently on the theory that it is best to leave alone a property that has proved its worth" on the stage. "However sound that principle may appear, its application is more often disastrous than beneficial, as so many of our film makers have discovered. What producers have failed to realize," he continued, "in this almost slavish copying of and adapting to the stage is that the motion picture is a medium dependent upon fluidity, changing tableaux and a minimum of dialogue."

Mr. Lasky said that there has been much speculation of late concerning the outcome of the John Balderson play, "Berkeley Square," which he is producing as his next for Fox. Mr. Lasky and director Frank Lloyd, however, have changed many of the play's speeches into direct action in order to revolutionize the treatment in keeping with the wider appeal of films. Act one of the stage presentation contained 549 speeches; Act two, 373, and Act three, 260 speeches—a total of 1,182. The film version contains 305 speeches up to the end of Act one in the play; 186 speeches up to the end of Act two, and 153 to the fadeout—a total of 644 speeches, in the film story, or a reduction of almost one-half from the play.

Radio Leads in Story Purchases

RKO was the largest purchaser of new stories and plays during April, acquiring 18, with Metro in second place, buying ten. Fox bought six; Paramount and Universal, five each; Columbia and Warners, four each, and Allied and Monogram, each acquired one. A recapitulation of properties acquired since January 1, follows:

COMPANY	JAN.	FEB.	MAR.	APR.	TOTAL
ALLIED	..	..	..	1	1
COLUMBIA	1	2	..	4	7
FILM CHOICE	..	1	..	..	1
FOX	4	3	4	6	17
FREULER	..	..	1	..	1
KBS	1	..	..	..	1
LEFF PROD.	4	..	..	..	4
MGM	12	9	5	10	36
MONOGRAM	7	1	..	1	9
PARAMOUNT	9	3	4	5	21
RKO	..	3	5	18	26
UNIVERSAL	..	3	3	5	11
WARNERS	2	3	4	4	13
WORLD WIDE	1	..	..	..	1
ZEIDMAN	..	..	1	..	1
GRAND TOTAL	41	28	27	54	150

Books and Plays Purchased

A detailed record of books and plays purchased by the producing companies during April follows. It embraces titles of properties acquired, together with names of authors and other information. Most of the acquisitions are scheduled for release in the 1933-34 season, although a few will be marketed late this season. Stage plays are so indicated:

ALLIED PICTURES

ORIGINAL story, by Kurt Kempler; for last of Hoot Gibson western series.

COLUMBIA

BIDDY, by Travis Ingham; assigned to Jules Furthman, scenarist.
KALEIDOSCOPE IN K, by A. J. Cronin.
PARTY'S OVER, stage play by Daniel Kusell.
TWENTIETH CENTURY, stage comedy by Ben Hecht and Charles MacArthur, based on a play by Charles Bruce Millholland.

FOX

DRESSMAKER, adapted from play, "Dressmaker from Luneville," by French dramatist, Alfred Savoir; for Elissa Landi; director, Wilhelm Dieterle.
GREEN DICE, by Anne Cameron; for Will Rogers; scenarists, Sonya Lexien and Ralph Spence.
LET'S GO, AMERICA, by Lamar Trotti; producer, Sol M. Wurtzel.
MY WEAKNESS, by Buddy DeSylva; for Lilian Harvey; music and lyrics by Richard Whiting and Leo Robbin; director, David Butler.
PEONIES, by Walter Reisch; director, Walter Reisch.
TOUGH GUY, by Mauri Grashin and James Seymour; for James Dunn; scenarists, Marguerite Roberts and Charlotte Miller.

Originals and Published Stories Excel Stage Plays as Screen Material, Declare Trem Carr and Furthman; Writers Busy

METRO-GOLDWYN-MAYER

BIOGRAPHY, play by S. N. Behrman.
FIVE DAYS, by Eric Hatch.
GABY DESLYS, by Melville Baker and John Kirkland.
LA BELLE PERKINS, by Howard Emmett Rogers and Edgar Allan Woolf.
QUEEN CHRISTINA, based on a story by Berthold Viertel, adapted by Robert E. Sherwood; for Greta Garbo; continuity and dialogue by Ernest Vajda, Claudine West and H. M. Harwood.
RAIN GIRL, by Edward Doherty.
STAGE MOTHER, by Brandford Ropes.
TRANSGRESSOR, by Anthony Richardson.
TUGBOAT ANNIE, by Norman Reilly Raine; for Marie Dressler and Wallace Beery; director, Mervyn Le Roy.
ORIGINAL story, by Gene Fowler.

MONOGRAM

FIGHTING TEXANS, by Wellyn Totman; for Rex Bell; director, Armand Schaeffer.

PARAMOUNT

DISGRACED, by Alice D. G. Miller; for Helen Twelvetrees.
EVERY MAN FOR HIMSELF, by Al Jackson and Joseph L. Mankiewicz; for Jack Oakie, Sari Maritza, Harry Green and Skeets Gallagher.
HANGMAN'S WHIP, by Barton MacLane.
MAN WHO MADE A FORTUNE (under option), by Lou Goldberg.
THREE CORNERED MOON, stage play, by Gertrude Tonkonogy; producer, B. P. Schulberg; director, Elliott Nugent.

RADIO

BALLOON BUSTER, by Norman S. Hall.
CHANCE AT HEAVEN, by Vina Delmar.
DEATH WATCH, by the late Edgar Wallace; director, Irving Pichel; scenarist, Marian Dix.
DOUBLE HARNESS, London stage play, by Edward Pool Montgomery; for Ann Harding.
DOUBTFUL LADY, by Kenyon Nicholson; for Constance Bennett; producer, William Goetz.
FIRE EATER, by Houston Branch; scenarist, Carroll Graham; for Bill Boyd.
FUGITIVE FROM GLORY, scenarists, Philip MacDonald and Ruth Rose; for John Barrymore; producers, Merian C. Cooper and Ernest B. Schoedsack.
HIDE IN THE DARK, by Frances Noyes Hart; for Bruce Cabot and Dorothy Jordan; producer, William Goetz.
JAMBOREE, by Ruth Rose, who adapted; sequel to "King Kong," featuring Robert Armstrong, Helen Mack and Frank Reicher; director, Ernest B. Schoedsack.
JUST OFF FIFTH AVENUE, by Louis Weitzenkorn and David Hempstead; scenarists, Wanda Tuchock and Ralph Block; for Dorothy Wilson and Betty Furness; producer, Kenneth MacGowan.
LITTLE WOMEN, by Louisa May Alcott; scenarist, G. B. Stern; director, George Cukor; dialogue by Salisbury Field; for Katharine Hepburn.
MEN OF TWO WORLDS, by Answorth Morgan; producer, Pandro Berman; to be filmed in Alaska.
MODESTA, by G. B. Stern; for Dolores Del Rio and Joel McCrea.
PRELUDE TO LOVE, by Ralph Block; for Ann Harding; producer, Kenneth MacGowan; director, Irving Pichel.
RAFTER ROMANCE, by Garret Fort; scenarist, Alexander McKaig.
SPEED KING, by Agnes Christine Johnston; for Dorothy Wilson.
THREE CAME UNARMED, by E. Arnot Robinson; for Dorothy Jordan and Joel McCrea.
ORIGINAL story, by Zoe Akins.

UNIVERSAL

KIDDLIN' BUCKAROO, by Nate Gatzert; for Ken Maynard; scenarist, Nate Gatzert.
KING OF THE ARENA, by Hal Berger and Ray Bouk; for Ken Maynard; director, Alan James.
LEFT BANK, stage play by Elmer Rice; scenarist, Tom Reed; director, Robert Wyler.
MY OLD LADY, by Jack Cunningham.
RIGADOON, stage play by Charles Knox Robinson.

WARNER BROTHERS

AMERICA KNEELS, by Sheridan Gibney.
FOOTLIGHT PARADE, by Mary Canfield; adaptor, Sheridan Gibney.
PROLOGUE, musical, by Melville Crossman.
ORIGINAL story by David Karsner.

While the managements of practically all important producing companies were engaged in the business of acquiring story properties, scenario staffs at the studios in Hollywood were the lion's share of

(Continued on page 18, column 1)

. . . . will go to

maurice chevalier

in "A Bedtime Story" with Helen Twelvetrees, Adrienne Ames, Edward Everett Horton and Monsieur Baby Le Roy... directed by Norman Taurog

"i love that man"

with Edmund Lowe, Nancy Carroll, Robert Armstrong and Lew Cody ...directed by Harry Joe Brown a Charles R. Rogers production

★ climb on the bandwagon

30 motion picture contracts for as many perfect men and women to be selected from all the English-speaking countries of the world (16 from the United States alone) to appear in the forthcoming Paramount production

"the search for beauty"

International in scope — local in box office opportunity.

Wire Paramount's Hollywood Studio to learn how you can cash in.

Theatre registrations close May 19

★

Sylvia Sidney in

"jennie gerhardt"

by Theodore Dreiser with Donald Cook, Mary Astor, H. B. Warner and Edward Arnold...directed by Marion Gering a B. P. Schulberg production.

if it's a Paramount picture

the business

these nine Paramount Pictures

"song of the eagle"

("the passing of the beer baron")

with Charles Bickford, Richard Arlen, Mary Brian, Jean Hersholt, Louise Dresser, Andy Devine and George E. Stone . . . directed by Ralph Murphy a Charles R. Rogers production

"the story of temple drake"

with Miriam Hopkins, Jack La Rue, Wm. Gargan and Wm. Collier, jr. . . . directed by Stephen Roberts from William Faulkner's famous novel.

"the eagle and the hawk"

with Fredric March, Cary Grant, Carole Lombard and Jack Oakie. Story by the author of "Wings" directed by Stuart Walker

"international house"

with Peggy Hopkins Joyce, W. C. Fields, Rudy Vallee, Stuart Erwin, George Burns & Gracie Allen, Sari Maritza, Col. Stoopnagle & Budd, Cab Calloway and his Orchestra, Baby Rose Marie and the Girls in Cellophane...directed by Edward Sutherland.

"the girl in 419"

with James Dunn, Gloria Stuart, David Manners and Jack La Rue...directed by George Somnes and Alexander Hall a B. P. Schulberg production

"college humor"

with Bing Crosby, Richard Arlen, Mary Carlisle, Jack Oakie, George Burns and Gracie Allen and the "ox-road" co-eds . . . directed by Wesley Ruggles

it's the best show in town!

RCA LINKS TELEVISION AND FILMS; HOLLYWOOD PLAYERS WILL BE USED

54 Stories and Plays Purchased

(Continued from page 15)

busy on new assignments for immediate production.

At Columbia, Irving Briskin, supervisor of the Tim McCoy westerns, signed Robert Quigley, Horace McCoy and Lambert Hillyer to write originals. Ben Orkow and Lee Freeman, noted playwrights, were added to the regular studio staff.

Du Bose Heyward, author, arrived in New York to start work on the scenario of "The Emperor Jones," which will be produced in the East by Film Choice, under direction of Dudley Murphy.

Realignment of duties in the story department at Fox Movietone City was completed. Executive responsibilities will henceforth be divided between Julian Johnson and Philip Klein, who will become story editor in charge of preparation of screen plays, while Mr. Johnson will take charge of the purchase of all new material.

Metro signed Oliver H. P. Garrett on a one-year writing contract.

With the signing of Tristram Tupper to prepare four original stories on the Monogram program for 1933-34, company officials decided to continue the "triple play" unit system instituted this year by W. T. Lackey, associate producer. Mr. Lackey believed that the basis essential to a successful picture was closer harmony between the writer, director and producer, and with this in mind, signed Mr. Tupper and Phil Rosen to work with him on his first three Monogram features, which are "Klondike," "Self-Defense" and "Phantom Broadcast."

Paramount's writing organization was quite active. Signed were Barton MacLane, young Broadway stage star and playwright; Ralph Spence, who will collaborate with Francis Martin and Frank Partos on "Her Bodyguard;" Laurence Stallings, who will adapt an untitled story which Bayard Veiller will produce; and Ruth Ridenous, New York magazine and newspaper feature writer, who will first adapt "All of Me."

Principal activity at Radio's studio was the elevation of Alexander McKaig, former story editor, to the staff of associate producers. Radio signed Eugene Thackerey, formerly a technical advisor, to the writing staff, also Byron Morgan and John Monk Saunders, who will do the script of his original story, "Birds of Prey." David Hempstead was assigned to "Just Off Fifth Avenue."

Howard Smith resigned as scenario head at Warners, which post he held for five years, to join Darryl Zanuck, who will produce for United Artists. Mr. Smith immediately left Hollywood for New York in search of story material for the new company, 20th Century Pictures.

Al Woods was signed to work on shorts at Warner's Vitaphone studio in Brooklyn.

Warners Reopening Studio in Early June

The Warner studio reopening in Hollywood has been set ahead until early in June. Max Arnow, casting director, was summoned back to the Coast from New York by Jack L. Warner, production executive, two days before his intended departure. Mr. Arnow had been lining up new material.

Merian Cooper to Be Placed in Charge of New Television Laboratory; Radio Players to Be Heard But Not Seen

The Radio Corporation of America has now officially joined together television and the motion picture. Radio will play a secondary part in the triumvirate.

Merlin Hall Aylesworth, president of RCA's various motion picture subsidiaries, and of its National Broadcasting Company, has outlined to RKO studio executives preliminary details of immediate television plans.

Mr. Aylesworth, before departing from the studio, announced that the world's largest radio broadcasting studio is to be erected within three months on the RKO lot at Hollywood, and, in connection with the broadcasting station, there will be a laboratory built for experiments toward perfection of television.

The NBC studios in New York will be moved to their new quarters in Radio City in four months, but Hollywood will be the home of all future television chain broadcasts to the entire country. The corporation has so decided because Hollywood is the talent center of the country, and its executives believe this artistic seat should be given fuller expression by the use of radio.

The picture business and radio must be coordinated, Mr. Aylesworth said, with radio utilitized as a means to exploit motion pictures—not only the screen product of RKO studios, but of other producing organizations as well. Experimental broadcasts along these lines already have been conducted successfully over NBC's nation-wide red and blue networks.

Merian C. Cooper, vice-president in charge of Radio production, was assigned by Mr. Aylesworth to be in charge of all television experimentation at the new Hollywood laboratory.

Facilities for Other Companies

"Television, in its present stage of development," said the RKO president, "can cover a radius of only between 15 and 30 miles. The wires are not capable of carrying any chain television broadcasts at this time. Television will be fully developed when there is a public demand for it"—when the public's purse is ready for it. "The first development of television will be to carry motion pictures into the homes.

"Television artists," he continued, "will be motion picture players rather than radio artists. The public would rather hear radio entertainers than see them."

Facilities of the new radio broadcasting organization at the Radio studio will be available to other companies. This is a "broad gesture to help the industry, and I hope it will be taken advantage of," declared Mr. Aylesworth, adding: "We will go ahead anyway, and it is up to Hollywood to develop programs of sufficient entertainment value to make it useful." Programs will be keyed to the slogan, "Go to the Theatre." This automatically raises the old question of radio as a competitor of motion pictures.

Franklin's RKO Contract Is Set

Official assurance of the continuance of Harold B. Franklin as president of the RKO circuit subsidiaries came this week with the drawing of a new contract for one year. Mr. Franklin said that the agreement was in the hands of the corporation's legal department, "which is just a formality." At the expiration of Mr. Franklin's contract in mid-April, Merlin Hall Aylesworth, president of the parent corporation, indicated that Mr. Franklin would continue in charge of the theatres. The status of Herschel Stuart, who is executive assistant to Mr. Franklin, likewise remains unchanged.

RKO theatre and home office executives in New York were formulating plans for another drive to effect economies in operation. The circuit will attempt to save $250,000 during 16 weeks of the summer. Weekly savings will approximate $18,000, to which all houses will contribute something in the line of reduced expenditures.

Economies in home office administration expense have also been ordered for the summer, with this division contributing about $4,000 weekly. Walter L. Brown is chairman of a committee consisting of Herschel Stuart, Phil Stern, Paul Shucker and O. R. McMahon, which will follow through on the home office economy program.

RKO operatives say that $10,000,000 in economies were effected last year, and that more than $1,000,000 has been saved so far this year.

Means Quits Board of Kansas-Missouri MPTA

Jay Means, president of the Independent Theatre Owners of Greater Kansas City, has resigned from the board of directors of the Motion Pictures Theatres Association of Kansas and Missouri, following frequent clashes of the two organizations over policy. Mr. Means said that as a result Allied States now has a "good chance" of entering the Kansas City territory. Reconciliation a year ago when Mr. Means was elected to the MPTA board was short-lived, when the independents conducted an active campaign for the bill of Smith Wildman Brookhart for federal regulation of the industry.

Grainger and Fox Film Amicably Settle Contract

James R. Grainger and Fox Film officials have amicably settled his contract, which is understood to have been a five-year agreement to run until Dec. 1, 1935. Mr. Grainger was for several years general sales manager. During the five months he has been on general leave of absence, John D. Clark has been in charge of Fox sales, but Mr. Grainger's title as vice-president in charge of domestic distribution had remained with him by virtue of his contract. He now has severed all relations with the company.

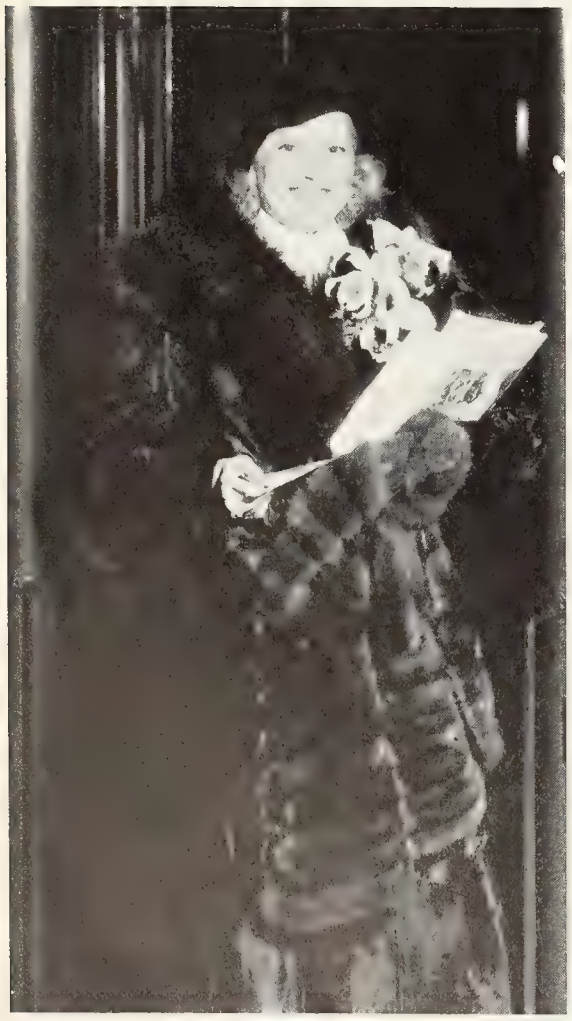
THE CAMERA REPORTS

CLIMAX. To Monogram's convention in Atlantic City — a banquet for officials, franchise holders and their guests. On the dais is shown the executive committee, consisting of Irving Mandel, Herman Rifkin, Ralph Poucher, W. Ray Johnston (president), Louis Nizer (toastmaster), Trem Carr (producer), Harry Thomas, Floyd St. John, Eddie Golden (sales chief).

TWO WEEKS OFF. Irene Dunne, RKO Radio star, arriving in New York for a vacation prior to her next production wherein she'll contribute a song or two. Her latest, "The Silver Cord," is at Radio City this week.

BUSY. Hilda Moreno, who has added to stage and radio activities the starring role in the Fox Spanish release, "The Last Man on Earth."

FOR OPENING. Charles R. Rogers, independent producer for Paramount, arriving in New York from Hollywood for the opening of his latest production, "Song of the Eagle," at the Paramount theatre on Broadway.



PLANNING NEW ONE. Maurice Chevalier, Paramount star, greeting Norman Taurog, director, and Benjamin Glazer, producer of his next picture, as they arrived in New York from California, by boat. Also shown is Mrs. Taurog.

INSPECTION TRIP. (Below) Robert W. Horn and Bert Sanford, Jr., of the Erpi home office, on the new U. S. Lines ship Washington, on which latest type Western Electric sound equipment was installed.

ENGLAND BOUND. Thelma Todd, Hal Roach-MGM comedy star, as she reached New York from Hollywood to sail for Britain, where she is to appear in a production at the Elstree studio of British International Pictures.

FLEX APPEAL. (Left) A new study of Marian Shockley suggesting she goes well armed for the defense of her position as one of the screen's most fetching comediennes. She has the feminine leads in Educational's Torchy series.

AID THEATRE'S EXPLOITATION. As Carl Laemmle added his name to a scroll intended for President Roosevelt in exploitation of Universal's "The Fighting President" by the Hillstreet theatre in Los Angeles. Besides Mr. Laemmle are shown Carl Laemmle, Jr., production chief; L. J. Schaefer, general sales manager; Mannie Lowenstein, Dr. Edwin Piness, Maurice Fleckles, Jack Ross, Harry H. Zehner, Alfred A. Cohen, William Heineman, Harry Ford, Sam Behrendt, Tom Brown, C. W. Cadman and M. Freedman.

MORE FLAT RENTAL SALES FOR NEW SEASON IS PARAMOUNT PLAN

Distribution Leaders Agree to Policy to Safeguard Producer and Exhibitor Product; Aim To Function from Receipts

A policy of more flat rentals and fewer percentage deals on 1933-34 contracts was agreed upon by Paramount sales leaders at a three-day convention of district and divisional managers at Atlantic City which ended Monday. This policy will be adhered to during the forthcoming season because, it is understood, the company's sales executives believe that exhibitors must safeguard the producer in order to insure his continuance in business and at the same time assure the theatre owner of a steady flow of film.

George J. Schaefer, general sales manager, announced at the end of the first day's session, Friday, that Paramount anticipates carrying through its 1933-34 program without resorting to banks for new financing. Through expected ability to function from receipts, the company would thus be self-contained and free from financial obligations and loans for the first time in many years, provided plans work out.

Test of Machinery

The Paramount sales head discussed new season sales policies during the convention with district and divisional managers. The branch managers will convene at a series of territorial conferences during the summer. Mr. Schaefer told the field executives that elimination of automatic selling and booking, prevalent until now under circuit operation, plus consequent renewed opportunity for individualism in selling endeavor, will prove the test of all distribution machinery in the field.

In addition to the features, which will number between 60 and 65 in 1933-34, Paramount will have 125 short subjects, 101 single reelers, 24 two-reelers, and in addition 104 issues of Paramount news. It is further understood that B. P. Schulberg may make an additional eight features for Paramount release.

22 Managers Attend

Among the highlights of the new season's product are a series of features starring Burns and Allen, radio headliners. One of these is "Cloudy With Showers." The titles for the others are not yet set. Mae West is tentatively set for three, the first two being "I'm No Angel" and "It Ain't No Sin"; Maurice Chevalier will do "The Way to Love," with two more planned; "Funny Face," for which Paramount bought the comedy strips sold through King Features Syndicate, and "White Woman," Dorothea Wieck's first American picture.

A production of "Alice in Wonderland" is also contemplated, with Charlie Ruggles and Alison Skipworth starring.

There were 22 divisional and district managers attending the convention, in addition to Robert Gillham, advertising director of the company, Stanley Waite, J. J. Unger and Neil F. Agnew, divisional managers. District managers in attendance were:

Milton Kusell, in charge of New York, Buffalo, Albany, Brooklyn and Jersey; P. A. Bloch, who handles Philadelphia and Washington; J. E. Fontaine, Cleveland, Cincinnati, Pittsburgh and Columbus; William Erbb, Boston, New Haven and Maine; Oscar Morgan, Atlanta, Memphis, Charlotte, Jacksonville and New Orleans; Jack Dugger, Dallas, San Antonio and Oklahoma City; Charles Reagan, Chicago, Detroit, Milwaukee and Indianapolis; R. C. Libeau, Kansas City, St. Louis, Omaha and Des Moines; Hugh Braly, Denver, Salt Lake and Butte; M. H. Lewis, San Francisco, Portland, Seattle and Los Angeles, and Ben Blotcky, Minneapolis and Sioux Falls.

According to Motion Picture Daily, Paramount will not guarantee stars, titles, or stories in next season's contracts. Tentative plans which were announced in Atlantic City will not be made known to salesmen, branch managers or the trade until late in June or early July, when regional conventions are to be held. Mr. Schaefer will attend the regional meetings with divisional and district managers. All branch managers, salesmen and bookers will be on hand for all individual territorial sessions.

It is understood that the schedule for the first six months of the new season is set, with release dates, and while tentative attractions for the closing six months are also decided upon in many cases, the company is holding space open for changes in market demands which may develop early in 1934.

William Goetz, Ray. Griffith Join Schenck-Zanuck Company

William Goetz, now an RKO producer, will be executive assistant to Darryl Zanuck, vice president in charge of production of the newly-formed Twentieth Century Pictures, Inc., of which Joseph M. Schenck is president. Raymond Griffith, former Warner production official, will be production supervisor. The company has just been incorporated under the laws of New York State.

Howard Smith, scenario editor, and William Dover, personnel manager, are now installed in the Howard Hughes offices on the United Artists lot in Hollywood, taken over by Twentieth Century.

Mr. Zanuck is on a month's hunting expedition in the Canadian Rockies of British Columbia, accompanied by Lloyd Bacon, Ray Griffith, Michael Curtiz, Ray Enright, John Adolfi and Sam Engel.

New Independent Exchange

Russell C. Borg is president and manager of Associated Film Distributors, Inc., new independent exchange formed at Kansas City. Offices are in the former quarters of Educational-World Wide at 130 West 18th street. Deals for Tiffany and Pathe reissues have been closed, as well as several First Division pictures.

Protests Forced Shorts Dating

Allied Theatres of New Jersey voted Tuesday to appeal to the Department of Justice, if necessary, to terminate socalled forced dating of short subjects in order to get features.

Fineman to Make Independent Films

B. P. Fineman has resigned from Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer and will produce pictures independently in New York. Mr. Fineman for the last three years has been a producer at the MGM studios on the Coast and before that was executive assistant to B. P. Schulberg at Paramount's studio.

Three pictures a year are planned. For the first he has purchased screen rights to J. B. Priestly's stage play, "Dangerous Corners," which ran seven months on Broadway and is opening soon in Chicago.

"Concentration on a few pictures a year is most essential at this time," Mr. Fineman said. "It makes possible reduced production costs, so necessary today, and guarantees a product that has individual attention, free from the complicating factors of a large quantity-production studio."

At MGM Mr. Fineman made Greta Garbo's "Mata Hari," and at Paramount "Sweetie" as well as a number of George Bancroft pictures.

Radio Board's Powers Upheld

The United States supreme court, in a decision by Chief Justice Hughes, has upheld the authority of the Federal Radio Commission, under the Davis amendment, to rearrange broadcasting facilities by canceling the license of a station in an overcrowded area and granting the frequencies there used to another station in an under-quota state.

The test case was based upon the action of the commission in 1921 in granting radio station WJKS, owned by Johnson-Kennedy Radio Corporation at Gary, Ind., additional facilities shared by stations WIBO, owned by the Nelson Brothers Bond and Mortgage Company, and WPCC, owned by the North Shore Church. WIBO and WPCC filed appeals from the decision which deprived them of frequencies formerly employed.

Several Changes Made in Columbia Publicity Offices

Columbia's publicity, advertising and exploitation department, of which George Brown is in general charge, has seen several changes in the last week, as follows:

Gregory Dickson, formerly with Paramount and Fox, has succeeded P. A. Parsons, resigned, in the advertising department. Lou Goldberg, who has been with Paramount, Warner and Fox, succeeds Ralph Gervers, resigned, as head of the exploitation division. Maurice Harris, of the Fox Brooklyn and the Seventh Avenue Roxy, has been added to the exploitation department, and G. Michelson, formerly with Hearst Service and Pathe, has joined the art department.

SHOWMEN'S REVIEWS

This department deals with new product from the point of view of the exhibitor who is to purvey it to his own public

The Story of Temple Drake

(Paramount)

Drama

Paramount, with grave courage, undertook to translate into terms of the motion picture, and designed for the general public which attends, the much discussed, often malodorous novel by William Faulkner, "Sanctuary," which treated of Southern depravity, bootlegging and the difficulties into which an aristocratic but extremely flighty young girl was thrown when she accidentally came into contact with "poor white trash" and an unscrupulous gunman.

Paramount has done remarkably well by the material at hand, contriving, with care and intelligence, to disregard the numerous inherently objectionable features of the Faulkner novel, to avoid the motion picture pitfalls with which the original was crowded, and at the same time to turn out a motion picture of definitely strong dramatic power, containing much which should be found popularly appealing. The resulting "Story of Temple Drake" is entertainment of the highly dramatic type, relieved by but little comedy, yet it is entertainment.

The motion picture is in a sense depressing, yet it engages and holds the attention extremely well, maintains its high peak of interest throughout, and has been constructed in such fashion that it moves rapidly, concentratedly, pushing forward to its conclusion with definite force. The depressing aspects are in a measure relieved by a conclusion at once happy and satisfactory.

The cast is extremely capable, featuring Miriam Hopkins, as Temple Drake; William Gargan, Jack La Rue, William Collier, Jr., Irving Pichel, all fairly good box office names. Miss Hopkins is sincere and convincing in the title role.

Temple, wealthy daughter of the South, refuses to marry the urgent and upstanding young attorney, Gargan, because she fears her "second self," which cannot stay hitched, is apt to make her do undignified things. A wild night motor ride with Collier ends in a crash and practical incarceration in the ruined house where dwell Pichel, La Rue, bootlegging gunman, assorted bad characters, and a feeble minded boy played well by James Eagles.

La Rue forces himself upon Miss Hopkins after Collier is taken out of the way, and Miss Hopkins goes with him to the city. Gargan finds them, and she, after claiming she is there of her own will, kills La Rue. La Rue had killed Eagles, trying to protect Temple at the old house. Pichel is tried for the murder, and in a dramatic court scene, Gargan, against his will, persuades Miss Hopkins to do the right thing, tell her story, and save Pichel from the gallows.

If there is danger of the original Faulkner novel being in ill-repute in the community, too much should not be made of it in the selling. Concentrate, in that case, rather on the story itself, its dramatic elements, and the performances of Miss Hopkins, particularly La Rue and Gargan. The story is often moving, always active and makes reasonably strong entertainment, of course only for adults.—AARONSON, New York.

Produced and distributed by Paramount. Directed by Stephen Roberts. From a novel by William Faulkner. Screen play by Oliver H. P. Garrett. Photographed by Karl Strauss. Release date, May 12, 1933. Running time, 72 minutes.

CAST

Temple Drake	Miriam Drake
Trigger	Jack LaRue
Stephen Benbow	William Gargan
Tody Gowan	William Collier, Jr.
Lee Goodwin	Irving Pichel
Judge Drake	Sir Guy Standing
Aunt Jennie	Elizabeth Patterson
Ruby	Florence Eldridge
Tommy, The Feeb	James Eagles
Pap	Harlan E. Knight
Van	James Mason
Miss Reba	Jobyna Howland
First Judge	Henry Hall
Lunch Wagon Proprietor	Clarence Sherwood
District Attorney	Oscar Apfel
First Jellybean	Kent Taylor
Second Jellybean	Clem Beauchamp
Wharton	Arthur Belasco
Bob	Grady Sutton
Doctor	George Pearce
Minnie	Hattie McDaniels

The Silver Cord

(Radio)

Melodrama

"The Silver Cord" is a powerful domestic melodrama which, under skillful showmanship, may be developed into an attraction that will reach into the hearts of both sexes. Essentially, however, it is a woman's picture. Always emotionally dramatic, it takes for its theme a delicate and much discussed subject, the age-old question: to whom does a man's life and love belong—his wife or his mother? Dialogue dominates, action is almost entirely absent. Naturally there is romance, but it serves only to develop the dramatic situations. Its occasional comedy is only of that type which dramatic reactions precipitate. Frankly it is that kind of show that will interest mainly the class which appreciates thought-stimulating screen fare. It is apt to be a bit boring for all but the more mature adolescents and certainly is too deep for juveniles.

Establishing Christina and David as happy newlyweds, the story moves into the Phelps' homestead. David has been absent for some years. His bride is a stranger to his mother. David's reception is heart-warming, but it is evident that Mrs. Phelps is jealous, living only for David and Robert. Mrs. Phelps plays upon the youthful Robert until he breaks his engagement with Hester. Following Hester's hysterically dramatic accusal of Mrs. Phelps, Christina realizes that she is sitting on a keg of dynamite. The situation becomes more absorbing as Chris announces that she is to have a baby. Vainly she pleads with her husband to put his mother aside, but David feels he owes a duty to his mother, who works every angle.

Breaking under her tragedy, Hester runs away only to fall through a hole in an ice-covered pond from where she is rescued by David and Robert. Despite the unhappiness that she can see growing every minute, the mother is adament. Finally, Chris prepares to leave with Hester. But she gives David one more chance. Graphically she analyzes the mother-wife question, but David sits unmoved as Mrs. Phelps presents her side of the story. Chris leaves. David follows her. In the widow seat, Robert sees him catching up with her, going away with her as the picture fades.

Where the title is so irrelevant the story is the big selling point. With the idea that the picture is dramatic, human and strikes deep, prepare copy that will be dignified and in the best taste, and still carry the suggestion of dramatic punch. Hint at the theme, but don't try to tell everything. Remember women probably will be your great audience for this picture and they like to use their imagination. In making tieups with women's clubs, etc., treat the show with the same class and delicacy that has been used by the producers. This is the kind of show that calls for a personally written letter to your women patrons. Tell them the kind of story it is; that it is finely acted; well-mounted and interesting. Don't attempt any weird exploitation. Sell the show as a prestige builder, one that no one should miss. —MCCARTHY, Hollywood.

Produced and distributed by RKO Radio. Directed by John Cromwell. Screen play by Jane Murfin. Based on play by Sidney Howard. Photographer, Charles Rosher. Film editor, George Nicholls, Jr. Sound, Clem Portman. Release date, May 26, 1933. Running time, 74 minutes.

CAST

Christina Phelps	Irene Dunne
David Phelps	Joel McCrea
Robert Phelps	Eric Linden
Mrs. Phelps	Laura Hope Crews
Hester	Frances Dee

Hello, Sister

(Fox)

Drama

Taken from a play by Dawn Powell, which fact, incidentally, will probably mean comparatively little in the selling, this slight dramatic effort becomes fairly presentable mine-run program material, adaptable chiefly for the smaller situation in the smaller community. It is a big city story of boys and girls, meeting, loving, with complications entering, running their course and smoothing the way eventually for the expected and happy conclusion. The picture is of major quality neither in its specific aspects nor taken as a whole, but it is slightly entertaining of its kind.

In general, the picture reminds of Fox's "Me and My Gal," though without that film's snappy dialogue and sparkling lively performance. The names here are good, and salable, headed by those of James Dunn, who has achieved for himself a rapid, but rather dependable popularity, and Boots Mallory, the comparative newcomer, who is highly attractive physically, and who possesses a definite appeal, though it is a trifle sacharine, heavily sentimental. The few players in support contribute a bit of liveliness, handle themselves well, and include Minna Gombell, Zasu Pitts, Will Stanton and Terrance Ray.

Dunn and Ray "pick up" Miss Mallory and Miss Pitts, boarding house roommates, though the method of acquaintance is foreign to the sensibilities of Dunn and Miss Mallory, neither habitual city dwellers. The two fall in love, while the pathetic Miss Pitts sheds secret tears, burns the dress on the ironing board, when she hears the two plan to be married. Ray, seeking Dunn's hard-earned money for some scheme of his own, by implication indicates that Miss Mallory is not all that she might be. When Miss Mallory is kept waiting at the license bureau and an argument follows, Dunn walks out on her. Suddenly he learns the truth, at the moment when an explosion occurs in the boarding house in which is Miss Mallory. Dashing through fire and smoke, he rescues her to conclude the picture.

The material is not new, but there is a certain amount of program appeal to the picture. A note of comedy is added by Stanton, as the boarding house inebriate, in addition to that of Miss Pitts. In selling the leads, and Zazu Pitts, also indicate the connection of the title with the story, it being the salutation of the "pick-up," and imply certain of the results of that first experience in the gentle art on the part of the leading players, a boy and girl who met on New York's streets and learned to trust each other. The younger set should derive a greater amount of enjoyment from the picture than the elders.—AARONSON, New York.

Produced and distributed by Fox. From the play by Dawn Powell. Screen play by Leonard Spigelgass. Photographed by James Howe. Art director, William Darling. Sound recorder, Alfred Bruzlin. Release date, April 14, 1933. Running time, 56 minutes.

CAST

Jimmy	James Dunn
Peggy	Boots Mallory
Mona	Minna Gombell
Millie	Zasu Pitts
Mac	Terrance Ray
Man	Will Stanton

Tomorrow at Seven

(Radio)

Comedy Mystery

Effectively combining hokum mystery, melodrama and comedy, abetted by a catchy romance, "Tomorrow at Seven" looks to have all the elements that make for unusual audience entertainment. Basically it is a cleverly constructed detective mystery story. Yet the farcical antics of the two ultra-dumb "dicks" so completely dominate everything else that it really is hilarious comedy. While the mystery, drama and romance intrigued the preview audience, it was the foolish McHugh-Jenkins comedy that stirred it to the greatest enthusiasm. Well acted, the yarn has the rare quality of being continually interesting and exciting. Probably its most intriguing feature is that the audience never knows what kind of mystery show it is. They know that people are killed. They know there is a killer. But, as menacing characters and conditions are paraded in ad lib they never know who that killer is. Even then they never find out just why he killed.

Opening novelly, the story puts a comic twist on the introduction of Broderick, writer of mystery novels, and Martha Winters. She pans his books until he tells her who he is. Lots of laughs here. Then Broderick meets Drake, sworn enemy of "The Black Ace," identifying mark of the killer. With Drake's life threatened by the receipt of a black ace of spades and the two dicks, Clancy and Dugan, brought in to start their careers of kicking everything logical to pieces, the whole moves down to a Louisiana plantation via airplanes. En route, Winters is killed and the Clancy Dugan duo get hot. After much foolishness they lock all the principals in separate rooms only to have the plane pilot killed and another ace found. A mysterious, menacing character, Simons, who introduces himself as the coroner, enters and activity of the speechless Mrs. Quincy and the very black Pompey further complicate the situation.

After much side-splitting hodge podge, during which the two cops are frightened half to death several times, the story moves to a quick conclusion with Drake revealed as the Black Ace, Broderick a secret service man and Simons his aide and, of course, Dugan and Clancy still a couple of dumb cops. The conclusion is of the exciting kind that will have audiences on pins and needles, and is a good touch to complete the story.

Give this picture the benefit of a real campaign. It is the kind of show that will build. Make use of all the old mystery stimulating gags you can recall and through smart use of the title concoct some new ones. What happened "tomorrow at seven" can be gagged in a thousand ways, and when you top your teaser copy off with the promise that they will be mystified as never before, that they will laugh, that they will be thrilled, frightened and surprised, you should have a campaign that should catch their interest. The picture is all right for both adults and juveniles because it is all in fun.—MCCARTHY, Hollywood.

Produced and distributed by RKO Radio. Directed by Ray Enright. Screen play and dialogue by Ralph Spence. Photographed by Charles Schoenbaum. Produced by Joseph I. Schnitzer and Samuel Zierler. Release date, June 9, 1933. Running time, 64 minutes.

CAST

Neil Broderick	Chester Morris
Martha Winters	Vivienne Osborne
Clancy	Frank McHugh
Dugan	Allen Jenkins
Drake	Henry Stephenson
Winters	Grant Mitchell
Simons	Charles Middleton
Marsden	Oscar Apfel
Mrs. Quincy	Virginia Howell
Coroner	Edward Le Saint
Pompey	Gus Robinson

The Circus Queen Murder

(Columbia)

Detective Story

It would be rather stretching the point too widely to designate this a mystery of murder and detection. Rather it has to do with a method of apprehension of a dangerous criminal than the unraveling of a deep mystery. There should be good selling value in the origin of the picture, the fact that it is the screen adaptation of one of the rather well known Anthony Abbot murder mysteries, featuring Thatcher Colt, debonnair and highly efficient New York police commissioner. There can be no question but that those books have had many readers, followers of Anthony Abbot and his Thatcher Colt, and these readers should be definite potential patrons. There is, of course, the excellent opportunity also for tieups with book stores in the community.

There is an interesting background in this particular story, that of a circus, though it is true that there is little or no mystery, as such. The audience, almost as soon as the breath of danger appears, is aware of the murderer, and his identity, and that awareness finally is proved accurate. There is almost a sense of slight disappointment when the murderer actually proves to be the original suspect.

The sartorially flawless Mr. Colt is ably personified by Adolphe Menjou, who seeks a vacation in a small town, accompanied by his secretary, an attractive and capable girl, Ruthelma Stevens. Trying to get away from trouble, Colt finds trouble comes to him, in the form of the circus. The manager appeals to Colt when various of the star high trapeze performers receive warning notes promising death if they attempt their acts. The principal recipients of these notes are Greta Nissen, star and "queen of the air," and her fellow performer, Donald Cook. It develops, as a result of Colt's ferreting, that Miss Nissen is in love with Cook and that Dwight Frye, her husband, and also a trapeze artist, is insanely jealous. Thatcher Colt's method of apprehension turns out to be different from what one might suspect. He fails to save Miss Nissen from a dart shot from a blowpipe by Frye high at the top of the big tent, which is for the moment blamed on a group of savages with the show. Also he permits Frye to kill himself as a substitute for arrest.

Certain liberties have been taken with the original story, but not to the point of distortion, and the result is an active, rather fast-paced and lively motion picture, fairly good entertainment. Juveniles should enjoy it, since it has much circus atmosphere and the settings are authentic in appearance. The exhibitor has one of a group of popular detective yarns to sell, with a time-honored name in the role of the fictional detective. There is good action copy inherent in the sequence which has the lovely circus queen plunging from her high trepeze, dead, with a poisoned dart in her back. Thatcher Colt cannot prevent it, but he causes the murderer to destroy himself.—AARONSON, New York.

Produced and distributed by Columbia. From the story by Anthony Abbot. Screen play by Jo Swerling. Directed by Roy William Neill. Assistant director, C. C. Coleman. Cameraman, Joseph August. Sound engineer, Edward Bernds. Film editor, Richard Cahoon. Release date, April 10, 1933. Running time, 65 minutes.

CAST

Thatcher Colt	Alophe Menjou
Josie La Tour	Greta Nissen
Kelly	Ruthelma Stevens
Flandrin	Dwight Frye
Sebastian	Donald Cook
Dugan	Harold Holman
Rainey	George Rosener

Radio Parade

(British International)

Revue of British Heroes of "the Air"

Although British International acts on the axiom that "one swallow doesn't make a summer," they still have in this one a film in which one star (of the many) will make all the money likely to be contributed by American picture fans.

Nearly 20 of the most popular British Broadcasting artists currently using the air on this side, throw their radio turns into this collection of vaudeville items. Some one has used a good deal of imagination here and there in the collation and direction, but as far as the U. S. market goes, the whole would have benefited immensely from a drastic pruning of gags, many of which are of that naivety which misses fire on full-blooded Americans.

The one glowing item of interest on Uncle Sam's side of the herring pond is contributed by Florence Desmond, now recognized and purloined by Hollywood. She gives some most amazing impersonations of Hollywood film stars, and her brilliant rendition of a party given by Janet Gaynor, and "patronized" by Greta Garbo and Tallulah Bankhead, will help young Americans to laugh off the depression. The Houston Sisters in a fake ventriloquism item also make amends for the faint humor of those other artists who should be comical.

On the English side the selling value of the film is unquestionable: it should be a riot in many places, and I believe as a plotless collection of bright nonsense (assuming the rest is cut by some one knowing America) it has points for successful exploitation throughout the United States.—W. H. MOORING, London.

Produced and distributed by British International. Directed by Achibald De Bear and Richard Belville. Scenario by Paul England, Claude Hulbert and Frank Miller Running time, 70 minutes.

CAST

Mabel Constanduras	Mario Lorenzi
Michael Hogan	Clapham and Dwyer
Tex McLeod	The Carlisle Cousins
Florence Desmond	Harry Pepper, Doris Arnold
Keith Wilbur	Jeanne de Casalis
Elsie Carlisle	Stanelli and Edgar
Flotsam and Jetsam	The Houston Sisters
Stainless Stephen	Leonard Henry
Claude Hulburt	Gus McNaughton

Alimony Madness

(Mayfair)

Drama

With but little to recommend it, this independently produced picture gives every appearance of a high school amateur theatrical. Helen Chandler battles bravely, but trite situations, dialogue and support are of such a character that her efforts are useless. The picture still remains entertainment of the weakest sort.

Outside of that of Miss Chandler there are not even names with which to entice a patronage to the theatre with this. Leon Waycoff, tall and reasonably attractive in a masculine fashion, is amateurish in the extreme, while little more can be said of the others.

We have a young architect, Waycoff, played for a good thing by his wife, who acquires a divorce, frames a considerable alimony and proceeds to "bleed" the former husband for all he can possibly earn. Miss Chandler, out-of-work stenographer who participates in the acquisition of legal evidence for the wife's

Something different IN

Something new in theatre advertising . . . to catch the uproarious spirit of this Jesse L. Lasky Production. Ads that will stand out on your newspaper page like a sunflower in a bed of pansies . . . with the dash and originality that will enable you to get the most out of this sure-fire comedy.* And they'll make swell blow-ups for lobby display.

The drawings on this page are illustrations from the FOX Press Book ads. Ask your exchange for a copy.*

HIT NO. 4 IN THE FOX May

NEWSPAPER ADS

THE WARRIOR'S HUSBAND

with

ELISSA LANDI

MARJORIE RAMBEAU
ERNEST TRUEX
DAVID MANNERS

From the play by Julian Thompson
Directed by Walter Lang
JESSE L. LASKY Production

FESTIVAL

divorce, develops a distinct fondness for the man she has tricked and aids him through an attorney friend. They marry, have a child and live in a small apartment, and considerable financial difficulty, as Waycoff's wealthy patroness and best client turns him down when she learns of the divorce through the ex-wife.

The infant dies, Waycoff having been apprehended and taken to court with his last $20 before he could purchase the necessary medicine for the ailing child. During the course of his early payments to the former wife, he is delinquent on numerous occasions and spends considerable time in the alimony jail in consequence, which lends the only satisfactory light touch to the film, even though it was probably not meant so to be. The wife kills the ex-wife, but the weeping jury acquits her nobly.

The exhibitor playing this must necessarily have a difficult time in the selling. With comparatively little with which to work, he will have to concentrate on the story involved, and under no circumstances should he permit himself to promise too much, since the picture will not stand up under it. It is not for juveniles, since they will completely fail to understand it, though there is nothing particularly objectionable.—AARONSON, New York.

A Fanchon Royer Production. Distributed by Mayfair Pictures. Directed by Breezy Eason. Assistant director, David Hitchcock. Story and dialogue by John Thomas Neville. Photographed by Ernest Miller. Recording engineer, Earl N. Crain. Film editor, Jeanne Spencer. Release date, April 1, 1933. Running time, 65 minutes.

CAST

Joan Armstrong .....Helen Chandler
John Thurman .....Leon Waycoff
Joel Mason .....Edward Earle
Eloise Thurman .....Charlotte Merriam
Mrs. Van .....Blanche Friderici
Mary .....Alberta Vaughn

India Speaks
(RKO Radio)
Travelogue

Despite the fact that the extremely well known author-adventurer-lecturer Richard Halliburton participates to the extent of rendering the accompanying explanatory dialogue as this picture progresses, and despite the fact that there is an earnest effort to inject drama and construct continuity, the film still remains merely a travelogue, in full feature length, and must necessarily be handled as such.

Mr. Halliburton, according to his own admission in a personal appearance on the stage of the Radio City Roxy in New York, was hired by Walter Futter, producer of the picture, to render the dialogue, appear to be the central figure in the series of newsreel-type clips, although, he says, he was not concerned in the editing of the picture or the script, and was not actually in India during the filming of any of the scenes in "India Speaks." Mr. Futter, in a screen foreword, also is at great pains to make clear the origin of the feature.

However, if Mr. Halliburton is at all well known to the community, and he should be, since thousands have read and heard his adventures, his name in its connection with the picture should be a selling point not to be overlooked. At the same time it would not be advisable to promise more than the feature contains. There is a certain amount of drama inherent in numerous of the scenes, much in the manner that drama may be found in newsreels. Also, the material is interesting and appealing in the fashion of the travelogue which dwells at length on the customs, habits, ceremonies of a foreign people. Seen are the "untouchables," lowest of all the innumerable Indian castes. The self-deprivation of Mahatma Gandhi, practiced in an effort to free the "untouchables," is at the moment in the daily press, and offers a possible selling point.

The camera wanders from one section to another over the whole of India and Tibet, the mountainous, cold plateau of Asia, where dwell the Lamas, priests who wield an oppressive power over the people of the land. Woven into the feature is the supposed attempt of Halliburton to rescue a half-caste white girl, about to be sacrificed by the Lamas as the mother of the new "living god," the monastary's self-constructed diety. The attempt at drama is only mildly successful, the whole appearing rather obviously staged. A fight between a trapped lion and a tiger provides a moment of excitement, while the shot of thousands of Mohammedans worshipping in a great court, bending their heads to the ground, is impressive. Those scenes which have Halliburton escaping with his life after some adventure were avowedly made in Hollywood.

The camera work, completed in India over rather a lengthy period, actually was handled by three men, Peverell Marley, Robert Connell and H. T. Cowling, and is undoubtedly often highly effective.

There would appear to be little intelligence in trying to force the picture to be what it is not. Sell it as a feature-length travelogue, telling much that is well known, some things not so well known about the tremendous land which is India, using the name of Richard Halliburton for what it would seem to be worth.—AARONSON, New York.

Produced by Walter A. Futter. Distributed by RKO Radio. Technical director, David Miller. Musical director, Samuel Wineland. Cameramen, Peverell Marley, Robert Connell, H. T. Cowling. Narrator and director of the majority of sequences, Richard Halliburton. Release date, April 28, 1933. Running time, 75 minutes.

Lucky Dog
(Universal)
Dog Drama

This is a novel dog drama. Buster is the hero. The humans are the background against which his story is told. It runs the gamut of emotions from comedy to tragedy. For its point it stresses the affection that exists between man and his most faithful friend. It should have an appeal for all dog lovers, and is a natural for a juvenile show. Still, it is novel and entertaining enough to hold the attention of the everyday theatre-goer.

In the story Buster is the happy pal of lovable "Chic" Sale. Everything is rosy, with Buster making friends with a little mutt, until Sale is jailed for embezzling his firm's funds. Wondering what has become of his master, Buster waits days for him to return. Falling into the hands of a vivisectionist, he escapes as he sees Sale in the distance. But the detective is taking him away. Buster never catches up and then he becomes a wandering stray. Poverty replaces comfort. In the slums, he meets his little mutt friend again. For stealing sausages to feed the hungry Buster, the mutt is beaten. Buster is with him as he dies. The sequence is heavy with pathos.

Meanwhile Sale, out on parole, searches all the pounds for Buster. Jobless, he, too, descends to the slums. Stealing something to eat, he is chased by the restaurant owner. Buster, picking up the old scent, follows to where the proprietor has Sale cornered. As the man breaks in the door Buster rushes in only to be struck by Sale with a heavy wrench. Too late he realizes who Buster is. Picking him up he rushes him to a dog hospital, where Buster is fixed up. Finale is Sale and Buster out in the country, the old comradeship renewed.

To stimulate adult attention capitalize on the intriguing power of the words "new" and "different." Tell them exactly the kind of story it is. Concentrate on the established affection existing between man and dog. For the youngsters, circus it. Do everything from the old pet parade and dog show up. In all cases play up the dog angle, his drama and tragedy, over the human elements.—MCCARTHY, Hollywood.

Produced and distributed by Universal. A Zion Myer production. Story, screen play and direction by Zion Myers. Dialogue by Roland Asher. Photographed by Jerry Ash. Release date, April 20, 1933. Running time, 55 minutes.

CAST

The Man .....Chic Sale
The Dog .....Buster
The Business Man.....Harry Holman
The Doctor .....Clarence Geldaft
The Detective .....Tom O'Brien

SHORTS

Thrown Out of Joint
(RKO Radio)
Has Its Moments

Harry Sweet, Harry Gribbon and Tom Kennedy succeed in delivering several portions of fun though it is sporadic and comes essentially out of the non-essentials, bits of byplay such as balancing stunts that lead into comedy situations, and the effective mixture of Fifth Avenue and Bowery in the dialogue It's about two slickers who sail a goodly share of the seven seas to dodge their victim, only to wind up in his drinking establishment in the Fiji Islands.—Running time, 21 minutes.

Fifi
(Vitaphone)
Fine Musical

Expertly woven for the maximum effectiveness, this subject contrives to combine real story interest and musical melodiousness to a marked degree. At the wrecking of an old theatre a musical comedy star of former days retrieves a bust of Victor Herbert, recounts for his niece the story of the famed "Mlle. Modiste," which is reproduced briefly in flashback. Ably it is done with certain of the famed numbers from the operetta rendered with ability. If exhibitors are looking for musical flavor in their short subjects, here is one which should fill any bill.—Running time, 21 minutes.

Mister Mugg
(Universal)
Good Comedy

Chiefly is Jimmy Gleason, of the ready tongue and ready fists, responsible for bringing this number above the average comedy standard. As a professional "protector," he accidentally gets the job of protecting Dorothy Christy, who is angry with her lover. In a rough dive, the fighting starts, and a grand and general brawl is interrupted by the police, during which Jimmy saves the girl—for himself, apparently. It is good lively comedy stuff.—Running time, 21 minutes.

Bosko in Person
(Vitaphone)
Amusing

The animated youngster, Bosko, and his sweetheart Honey, equally animated, perform on the vaudeville stage, and via the cartoonist's pen, give rather amusing, apt impersonations of several of the more noted stars of the screen. Chevalier, Durante and others come in for a bit of the play, done in amusing fashion.—Running time, 7 minutes.

The Plumber
(Universal)
Amusing

Lightly amusing in rather the accepted cartoon style, this animated number finds Oswald the Rabbit and his best girl in plenty of water when the small animated brother gets into mischief with the water supply. Sardines go swimming and a sword fish on the wall joins the fray. Lively and has a bit of originality.—Running time, 7 minutes.

Knight Duty
(Educational)
Comic

A lot of clowning in a wax museum. Langdon, fleeing from a fat park cop, finds refuge among the dummies. A man and woman, crooks, seek to steal a fabulously priced jewel. Laugh-exciting scenes as police and owner scout through the museum jabbing pins and weilding nightsticks trying to ascertain which are wax and which has feelings. Langdon finally gums things up so that the crooks are caught and as a reward he wins the owner's daughter. Absence of much dialogue and plenty of "sock-'em" action combine to make this short plenty comic. Running time, 18 minutes.—McCarthy, Hollywood.

Family Troubles
(Universal)
Fair Comedy

Henry Armetta, whose Italian comedy bits have occasionally added a good bit of amusement to features, here appeared in a short comedy as the husband who has trouble with his formerly married wife, her too-smart son and the latter's fresh friend. Armetta overhears a murder plot on the part of the boys, and not realizing it is part of a play, goes with a detective to the lonely house. Slapstick, pursuits and the like have their active moments on the screen with fairly effective comedic results.—Running time, 21 minutes.

Speaking of Operations
(Vitaphone)
Sparkling

There is light and lively entertainment with a laugh, a song and a dance herein, and in addition a group of radio entertainers whose names make for attention and may well make for some additional patronage. The excuse for it all is the theatrical producer who, suddenly stricken with appendicitis, is rushed to the hospital, and etherized, imagines the hospital staff composed of entertainers. The minstrel show goes on at a lively pace. This is enjoyable, and highly salable short subject material.—Running time, 18 minutes.

Alias the Professor
(Universal)
Amusing

Jimmy Gleason is chiefly responsible for the amusement to be found in this comedy, concerning Gleason's posing as a professor in the home of the grandmother of his penitentiary pal, who has just graduated from "school." Bank bonds are stolen, Gleason and his pal are suspected, but through the use of their clever pocket-picking fingers, the real thief is caught, the final laugh is on the detective who came to investigate.—Running time, 21 minutes.

Techno-Crazy
(Educational)
Fair

A nitwit technocracy addict gets himself mixed up with a lot of burlesque Communists. Trying to make good with his girl's dad, who is the town's mayor and thus the reds' foe, he presents him with a clock in which a time bomb has been concealed. Tossing the bomb around, with everybody trying to get rid of it, with subsequent falls, bumps, chases, provides the laugh action. Continual repetition of the same gags robs the picture of some interest. Running time, 16 minutes.—McCarthy, Hollywood.

People vs. Vince Barnett
(Universal)
Fair Comedy

With Henry Armetta, Italian comedian, on the bench as judge, and Vincent Barnett of the vacant physiognomy as the defendant, this comedic trial for apartment houses disorder and assorted black eyes affords some little amusement in situation and performance. As witnesses take the stand, the flashback carries the sometimes humorous action. After emphatically criticizing the owner of the apartment house, Armetta suddenly discovers he himself owns it. Armetta on the bench and Barnett's marital woes are chiefly responsible for the laughs.—Running time, 21 minutes.

A Pair of Socks
(Educational)
Good Comedy

Moran, blackface cook in a colored folks' boarding house, boasts to the little boy, Security, what a great fighter he is. Shooting the flying flapjacks is first laugh provoker. Colored heavyweight champion comes to boarding house and tries to steal Moran's girl. Mack can't see why they should waste a natural bout in the kitchen, so he stages a regular ring battle. Fight is a ridiculous burlesque as rival warrior neglects to change from street clothes in his hurry to get at Moran. Plenty of laughs ensue before the exhausted Moran causes his foe to collapse. Little colored boy adds zip to the picture, which is a far better than average short. Running time, 20 minutes.—McCarthy, Hollywood.

Rockaby Cowboy
(Universal)
Funny

Jimmy Gleason, Vince Barnett and Raymond Hatton as three cowboys who "inherit" a baby girl, have their troubles until they decide that one of them must marry to give the baby a mother. Gleason loses and the three set out to find him a wife. His approach to several girls causes near riots but he finds a wife—and so, incidentally, do Barnett and Hatton. Their efforts with the baby are extremely funny, especially to the feminine audience, and the wife-hunting portions are equally good for laughs.—Running time, 21 minutes.

Nothing Ever Happens
(Vitaphone)
Clever Burlesque

Rather cleverly, with extremely capable performances, "Grand Hotel" is here smartly burlesqued, the object of fun-poking. The dialogue, the character names of the players, the manner of their work, all combine to make this amusing, entertaining. Charles Judels, Jeraldine Dvorak, Jack Bohn, Curtis Karpe all do unusually good work. Song numbers and dancing bits by the page girls in chorus order add a bit of additional liveliness to the picture which serves to increase its effectiveness.—Running time, 18 minutes.

A Quiet Night
(Universal)
Fair

There is a fair portion of comedy in this number for those who have a fondness for noise, general excitement, pistol shots and hectic rushing to and fro. Bert Roach, district attorney, just escapes a raid on a crap game, only to get home and into a row with his wife and brother-in-law. Matters are made worse when he learns a convict he convicted has escaped and is on his way to pay off the debt. Mistaken identity adds to the furore.—Running time, 21 minutes.

Matto Grosso
(Principal)
Travel

Much in the nature of a travel picture, this subject films an expedition to Matto Grosso in Brazil. The early footage pictures, in close-up, various species of small animals common to the country, all of which is interesting material, though not striking. The accompanying descriptive dialogue is rather haltingly rendered, serving to slow the movement of the piece. For the rest, natives in ceremonial convolutions have their moment before the camera, while the concluding, and by far the most interesting portion of the footage, pictures a hunt, with dogs and on horseback, for a marauding jaguar, during which an unwary large cat is treed and roped expeditiously. The subject is on the whole of general interest, without succeeding in being in any sense unusual.—Running time, 24 minutes.

Strange As It Seems
(Universal)
Good

One of the usually interesting John Hix series of oddities the world over, filmed most effectively in Magnacolor, this number is highlighted by the pictures of Captain William Banning, son of the founder of California's first stage coach line, who still runs the stage daily for the fun of it, though the line has not carried a paying passenger for 40 years. Scenes in Morocco, salmon leaping to their spawning ground and other subjects provide additional interesting material in a series always entertaining.—Running time, 9 minutes.

Voodoo
(Principal)
Travel Subject

The general excellence of the lengthy travel-adventure short subjects of Principal Pictures is hardly maintained to the same degree in this instance. The attempted inclusion of elements of drama rather reacts against the complete effectiveness of the subject as a whole. It deals basically with a highly interesting condition of civilization, the voodooism which is so prominent a part of the daily life and the religious activity of the natives of Haiti, the black West Indian republic. Something of the daily life, the mode of worship of the inhabitants of the island of La Ganave, small island off Haiti, is recounted by Faustin Wirkus, U. S. Marine stationed there, and sometimes called the white king of La Gonave. Interesting is the pictorial record of the frenzied ritual of the blacks, but when the planned sacrifice of a girl is frustrated by the efforts of Wirkus, the picture smacks too much of the posed melodramatic to be highly effective.—Running time, 36 minutes.

Towed in a Hole
(MGM)
Not Standard

This number falls somewhat below the standard of short comedy previously set by the usually highly amusing team of Laurel and Hardy. In this instance the pair are fishmongers, and apparently successful, until Laurel conceives an idea. That idea, involving the catching by the two of their own fish, brings considerable, and occasionally amusing trouble in its execution. The business, of course, goes the way of most Laurel and Hardy enterprises.—Running time, 21 minutes.

Let's Dance
(Paramount)
Amusing

The comedy of Burns and Allen, the comics of the air whose forte is the absurd, and who have attained a wide radio popularity, is reasonably amusing. The lines of the feminine member of the team are rendered in the usual style with a cheap dance hall thronged with sailors and hostesses as the background. The etherized success of the pair makes the subject worthy of billing.—Running time, 10 minutes.

The Hold Up
(Universal)
Musically Fair

One of the series produced by Rowland-Brice for Universal release, this subject presents various of the popular radio voices of the day, including Morton Downey, John Young, Joe Young, composer; the Do-Re-Mi Trio and Freddie Martin and his Orchestra. An inconsequential yarn is the excuse for the appearance of the vocalists. Entertaining for those who like their radio singers.—Running time, 21 minutes.

NEW ACADEMY PLAN UP FOR VOTE IN WEEK

Program Would Bring Employees' Branches to Even Strength with Producers; Membership Already Increased by Campaigns

The Academy's socalled "new deal" for governing the studio workers of Hollywood will be voted upon within a week. The new program, if adopted, will set up a more democratic form of government for the creative branches of the studio colony, bringing the employee classes up to even strength with the producers. As the workers greatly outnumber the employers, the inauguration of the program is deemed a certainty in Hollywood.

The situation is a direct outgrowth of the producers' recent activities concerning deep salary reductions and also proposes "reforms" in production, including a centralized bureau for all talent.

Reorganization under a new and liberalized constitution has been for three weeks the subject of discussion by a special committee of ten, which has been writing a new basic law to govern all branches of the Academy, membership of which is as follows: actors, 272; directors, 101; assistant directors, 52; writers, 120; special classes, 27; producers, 246.

Individual section campaigns have already resulted in raising the membership of several branches. Dozens of players who have taken no interest in Academy affairs heretofore have filed applications. The addition of nine new members in the art directors' section was announced late last week, including James Basevi, Carroll Clark, Bud Gillespie, Jack Holden, Fred Hope, Chick Kirk, Leo Kuter, Hugh Retiker and A. Toluboff. New members enrolled in the assistant directors' division during the week included Al Alborn, William Cannon, Charles Hansen, Louis J. Marlowe, Richard Blaydon and Ansel Friedberger.

There had been threats of producers withdrawing from membership in the Academy, but this has not materialized, nor is it expected to. In any event, the Academy membership under the new constitution, hopes to circumvent such action by building up a $1,000,000 "war chest," thereby making the Academy independent and the socalled "champion" of contract talent.

Under the new constitution, election would be vested in the directorate, comprising 15 members, and seven representatives each from the actors', technicians', directors, producers' and writers' branches.

Specifically, the new financial reorganization would provide for the setting up of a reserve fund for each branch, to accrue through dues amounting to 1 per cent of each member's earnings. Three-fourths of the fund would be put in trust for the branch, with lending and insurance permitted. Also, branches of the Academy would be self-governing and would serve as units of an Academy Federation.

A producers' branch would be reorganized as a fifth talent branch, with no executive empowered to sign contracts eligible to office in the Academy. Corporations would be admitted to only associate membership, with no vote.

Negotiations with producers to have a compulsory arbitration clause in all contracts, with disputes to be umpired by the Academy, also was suggested, likewise a special class to be created for agents. Agents already have had several conversations with Academy representatives. They would be eligible only after signing a proposed artist-agent code of practice.

Meanwhile, the development of proposed centralized Artists Service Bureau for the clearing of most contract talent (writers, players and directors) appeared to be at a standstill. A committee of the producers' are supposed to be working out the details.

Horowitz Resigns As a Trustee in Paramount Case

The resignation of Louis J. Horowitz as one of the three recently elected trustees in bankruptcy of Paramount Publix was received Monday by Referee Henry K. Davis at a meeting of Paramount creditors in New York. A successor to Mr. Horowitz will be appointed at a creditors' meeting May 19. Mr. Horowitz' resignation is said to have come as a result of attacks against his connections with Prudence Co. and the Commercial National Bank and Trust Co., both of which have been closely associated with Paramount financing.

At the same meeting, Ralph Kohn, treasurer and a director of the company, told the creditors that a 15 per cent fluctuation in theatre attendance last summer left Paramount Publix in such a precarious position financially that the National City Bank of New York refused to renew a three-months loan of $1,000,000 for an additional three months. This, Mr. Kohn said, precipitated the company's receivership and ultimate bankruptcy; the bank's refusal placed the company's credit in jeopardy because it had to be reported to all banks with whom Paramount had established lines of credit when negotiations for new loans or renewals were made. A temporary respite for this crisis was provided by Sir William Wiseman, a Paramount director and member of Kuhn, Loeb & Co., who arranged for National City to take a demand note when the $1,000,000 obligation came due. With this temporary relief, Paramount made its last attempt to put its financial house in order. John Hertz, then chairman of the finance committee, was summoned to New York and met with Mr. Kohn and Sir William, along with several other bankers and financiers. Although Mr. Kohn, in reciting these events to the creditors and trustees on Monday, intimated that aid had been promised Paramount at the meeting of financiers, the results of this session had not been described at the close of Monday's meeting.

Describes Loan Procedure

Testifying earlier, Mr. Kohn described processes by which the company's loans, aggregating $9,600,000 in 1932, were made; all of these were unsecured except by promissory notes of the company. He also described the establishment of company credit lines which placed $16,900,000 at the company's disposal, and which would have been used to meet all obligations which had been renewed for the second three months period, had the receivership not been precipitated.

A further examination of Mr. Kohn will be made by Ethan Alyea, of the firm of Root, Clark & Buckner, attorneys for Paramount trustees, next Monday.

An action seeking new financing for Paramount is now in preparation. The action will call for a $13,875,000 transaction with 12 banks to be set aside and will ask for title to 23 film negatives, pledged as security, to be returned to Paramount. The action may be completed and filed within the next week. It is based on the assumption that the transaction between the banks and Film Productions Corp., Paramount subsidiary, resulted in giving the 12 banks involved a preference over the other Paramount creditors. Under the plan, if Paramount regains title to the negatives, they will be pledged as security for new financing. Additional security may be given by pledging anticipated distribution receipts. Action is being prepared by Root, Clark & Buckner.

Sam Dembow Testifies

Other developments in the Paramount Publix bankruptcy situation include the testimony of Sam Dembow, Jr., at a meeting of Publix Enterprises creditors before Referee Davis Tuesday. Mr. Denbow claimed that Southern Enterprises became Publix Enterprises, Inc., by a change of name and that its principal function was "keeping books." Mr. Dembow is president of the bankrupt Publix subsidiary. He testified further that Publix Theatres Corp. had never paid a dividend and, so far as he could remember, made no profits. He said that Publix was organized only to manage theatres and not as a profit-making organization.

Publix Theatres Corp. will oppose the application for a receiver brought by Charles M. Fox, a former employee, at a hearing scheduled late this week before Supreme Court Justice Gavegan. Fox's application came as a result of an unsatisfied judgment of $47,722 obtained early in April.

Basing its decision on a technicality, the circuit court of appeals on Monday denied a motion vacating the Paramount Publix voluntary bankruptcy. Louis Boehn, attorney for three Paramount stockholders, brought the application charging that the voluntary petition was obtained by fraud and that an involuntary action, filed earlier, should be substituted.

Samuel Zirn, counsel for several Paramount Publix bondholders, is understood to be building a case for the U. S. supreme court in making a number of efforts to stop the voluntary bankruptcy action.

Topliff Seeking Reorganization

George Topliff, of the Irving Trust Co., as trustee for Publix Enterprises, is making his headquarters in the Publix offices, trying to effect general reorganization of Publix Enterprises and its 76 subsidiary companies, totaling approximately 350 theatres. Many of these are in the process of being turned back to their original owners, but it is impossible to determine at the present time just what progress is being made, Mr. Topliff's office said on Wednesday. "Many of the subsidiaries are in bankruptcy themselves and it would be out of the question to say how many have reverted to their original owners," a member of the staff said.

Five Publix houses in Boston have been turned back to George A. Giles. Pittsburgh headquarters of the Publix-Skouras Theatres have been closed and only three towns, Johnstown, Ambridge and Butler, are left.

Eastern Theatres, Ltd., a subsidiary of Famous Players Canadian Corp., showed a net profit of $97,194 for the calendar year 1932 for its group of theatres in Ontario, it was learned this week. Earnings equaled $19.44 per share on the 5,000 shares of the company for the past calendar year and dividends were paid. Current assets increased for the year from $198,556 to $237,647.

Publix-Ohio Corp. this week filed a petition for a discharge from bankruptcy. The petition has been assigned for a hearing before Judge George P. Hahn in Toledo district court on June 24.

Rockefellers Oust Rivera, Muralist

Diego Rivera, noted Mexican artist, was halted at work Tuesday night on his scaffold in the Great Hall of the 70-story RCA Building in New York's Rockefeller Center and informed that the fresco on which he was working was not acceptable to the Rockefeller family. He had previously refused the request of Nelson A. Rockefeller, son of John D., Jr., to remove a head of Lenin from one of the panels. Mr. Rivera, whose Communistic leanings have frequently drawn him into controversy, was handed a check for $14,000, completing payment on his $21,000 contract for the work. The Lenin panel had been completed a week ago. A letter, included with the check, expressed regret that the artist had been unable to compromise with Mr. Rockefeller in the matter and said that the check was to be regarded as terminating his employment, although none of the three murals for which Rivera had been engaged had been finished.

The large fresco mural occupied the place of honor in the front hall of the building and was the first interior detail to meet the eye on entering. Mr. Rivera said Tuesday he had been told that Mr. Rockefeller and his advisers did not find the mural as "highly imaginative" as they had expected, and that its effect was unpleasant. Mr. Rivera's attorney, Philip Wittenberg, said Wednesday, no action is planned unless the mural is to be destroyed, in which case an injunction will be sought.

New Processing For Photography

A new system of composite or process photography, announced by Dr. L. M. Dieterich, Hollywood optical engineer, is described by Hollywood Herald as follows:

"Dr. Dieterich says that no new optical equipment beyond that now used in present process systems is required. In the Dieterich method the camera is threaded with three films. In front is an orthochromatic film with red backing, the so-called "redortho" (Dupont) with the emulsion to the rear. Behind this is a positive print of background scene, with emulsion to rear. Back of this is a standard panchromatic film with emulsion to the front. All three films are in contact with each other.

"A standard Mitchell shuttle will pass these three films, Dr. Dieterich claims, without adjustment in proper contact and tension. The finder ground glass adjustments are the same as for by-pack color photography. In a Bell & Howell camera the same finder ground glass adjustment is made, and the shuttle adjusted to the combined thickness of the three films.

"As far as stage setup is concerned, the foreground is illuminated with a blue light which is absorbed by the red backing of the orthochromatic film. The background can be a plain drop, illuminated with a red light, containing no blue or green."

Hal Roach Forms Company

Hal Roach Productions, Ltd., has been formed in London with a nominal capital of $5,000, which is to cover production in England in the event Mr. Roach, now in England, decides to produce there, according to Henry Ginsberg, Roach general manager, in New York.

Loew's Earned $2,186,531 in 28 Weeks; $478,163 RCA Deficit in First Quarter

Net profit $2,186,531 was earned by the Loew-Metro companies during the 28 weeks ended March 16, 1933, and net loss of $478,163 for the first quarter of 1933, was reported by RCA, according to reports to stockholders which were issued early this week. Comparative earning statement of Loew's, Inc., follows:

	28 Weeks Ended Mar. 16, 1933	28 Weeks Ended Mar. 11, 1932
Operating Profit	$4,602,494	$7,965,424
Depreciation and Taxes	2,415,963	2,700,695
NET PROFIT	$2,186,531*	$5,264,729

(*Equivalent for the period to $1.04 per share on the common stock as compared with $3.13 for the corresponding period in 1932.)

David Sarnoff, president of the Radio Corporation, made public the RCA statement of income and surplus for the first quarter of 1933. The net loss of $478,164, after all charges, compared with a net income of $503,223, for the corresponding period of 1932.

Gross income from operations was $12,981,059, against $20,322,408 in the first quarter of 1932, and total income was $13,222,054, compared with $20,585,222. Net earnings after costs and expenses were $556,747, against $2,250,318.

Surplus at the end of March was $9,373,020, against $9,851,184 at the close of 1932. In the first quarter last year there was a surplus of $160,204 after $343,019 Class A preferred dividends. No dividends were paid in the first quarter this year:

The income account in detail follows:

Gross Income:
From Operations	$12,981,058.63
Other Income	240,995.04
Total Gross Income from all sources		$13,222,053.67
Less:
Cost of Sales, General Operating, Development, Selling and Administrative Expenses		12,665,306.78
Net Income for the Period (Before Interest, Depreciation and Amortization of Patents)		$556,746.89
Deduct:
Interest	$57,819.67
Depreciation	827,091.07
Amortization of Patents	150,000.00
Total Deductions		1,034,910.74
Net Loss for the Period Transferred to Surplus		*$478,163.85
Surplus at December 31, 1932		9,851,184.18
Surplus at March 31, 1933		$9,373,020.33

*Deficit.

Principal subsidiaries of RCA, are National Broadcasting, RCA Communications, RCA-Victor and the RKO motion picture companies.

Shearer Forms Theatre Circuit in Alaska

B. F. Shearer, head of B. F. Shearer Theatre Equipment Company of Seattle, has formed a new independent theatre organization named Alaska Greater Theatres, Inc. The two first houses are the Coliseum and Redilla in Ketchikan, with others in Juneau and other southwestern Alaska cities to follow.

Worldkino To Expand

Worldkino Corporation, of 1501 Broadway, New York, sponsor of "The Return of Nathan Becker," Yiddish talking picture from Russia, which now is in its fourth week at the Europa theatre, is planning additional releases. Joseph Burstyn is president and general manager.

Warner Adds Branches In Three Countries

Warner Brothers has opened new branches in Italy, Uruguay and Java. Mario Zamo is manager for Italy, with offices at Via Palestro 68, Rome. N. E. Bertolini has charge in Uruguay, with the branch in Montevideo. Nat Liebeskind has opened an office in Batavia, Java, and will operate that as well as the exchange in Singapore.

Rialto Books "Forgotten Men"

Arthur L. Mayer, managing director of the Rialto theatre, New York, booked "Forgotten Men," official war picture, from Samuel Cummins of Jewel Productions, Inc. Joe Lee was engaged to handle the exploitation and advertising of the premiere Friday.

TECHNOLOGICAL

The BLUEBOOK School

By F. H. RICHARDSON

BLUEBOOK SCHOOL QUESTION NO. 172.—(A) To what should authorities pay close attention in the matter of removing possibility of fright in the event of fire? (B) Does limiting size of projection room ports, protected with properly fused fire shutters, serve any good purpose? (Note: The words "limiting size" are expected to be construed along reasonable lines. No object in making ports larger than is necessary to expedite the work of projection.) (C) Give us your own idea of effectively fusing port shutters, remembering that to insure prevention of fright, shutters must fall within a period not to exceed two seconds of the start of an aperture fire.

Answer to Question No. 165

Bluebook School Question No. 165 was: "(A) Give us your views as to just what the theatre projectionist should do in the matter of film inspection. [Section B duplicated in Question 160.] (C) Just what may be the various effects of receiving film in bad mechanical condition? (D) What do you do when film is received in poor mechanical condition?

The following answered acceptably: J. Wentworth, C. Rau and S. Evans, G. E. Doe, Lester Borst, T. Van Vaulkenburg, Dale Danielson, Wilbur Ostrum, H. Edwards, Kenneth Dowling, E. Parkinson, Bill Doe, T. McGruder, G. Tinlin, T. Davis and T. Lambert, D. R. Peters and D. Holler, D. U. Granger, S. D. Love and W. Love, D. Emmerson, D. K. Ormie and T. M. Vinson, P. Jackson and B. Diglah, J. Cermak, O. L. and J. F. Evans, D. L. Sinklow, B. I. Fanchann, G. Farmann, L. M. Croft, R. Suler and R. Wheeler, B. T. Miller and T. L. Raymond and D. Neills, P. T. Zann and L. Grant, M. D. Oleson and J. B. Malley, J. Williams, O. Allbright, R. D. Oberleigh, T. Kelly and C. Cummings, P. L. Daniels and P. L. Day, E. L. Gibbs and L. Lorient, M. H. Lonberger, D. Anderson, G. K. Berger and H. R. Baldwin, E. Harlor and H. Harrison, M. Dickson, H. True, P. L. Danby and R. Geddings, F. and J. L. Hanson, D. L. Howard, L. Hendershot and B. Runin, D. L. Daniels and H. Pilson, D. V. Peterson, L. Hutch and D. Goldberg, D. T. Arlen and M. Spencer and L. G. Howe, T. N. Danby and D. M. Banks and L. Summers, L. F. Thomas, M. Simms and O. L. Daris, D. L. Tapley, D. Michelson, M. Spencer and D. T. Arlen, L. S. Zaren, R. S. Allen and T. N. Williams, H. B. Coates, T. Davis and T. Lambert, E. W. Warner, J. C. Peters, R. L. Mitchel, D. D. Davis and L. Thomas, R. D. Konley and S. Maybe, J. T. Ballinger and D. L. Mason, T. R. Bancroft, B. Sappert, B. L. Banning and L. Jones, D. Singleton and J. B. Buckley, H. Rogers, C. Ray and T. Taylor, L. H. Simmons, B. L. Blinkendorfer, R. Singleton and M. L. George, E. Rymer and B. L. Tanner, M. R. Davis, A. Bailey, A. Ilks and P. L. Jensen, N. Truman, D. Haber and A. Breaston.

I believe, taking everything into consideration, G. E. Doe has made the answer to Section A most suitable for publication. He says, "As a matter of safety it is essential that the projectionist at least make such personal examination of films after receipt from an exchange, or from another theatre, as will satisfy him they may be projected with safety. What more should be done it is not easy to say, since there is more than one perfectly legitimate way of regarding the matter.

"It cannot possibly be disputed that it is not the business of projectionists to do work free of charge which the exchange is paid to do, and very naturally exhibitors object to any extra charge on the part of the projectionist for film inspection. On the other hand, the average exhibitor or manager just will not make the fight necessary to compel some exchanges to inspect and repair prints thoroughly. So there you are. My own view is that, answering the question as asked, it is up to the projectionist to see to it that all films are in safe condition to project, and to make every possible effort to force the exchange to inspect and repair all prints sent to the theatre for use thoroughly, including removal of any oil thereon."

On the whole, after rereading some of the answers I have concluded to print that of our old friends Rau and Evans. They say, "It is the duty of the projectionist to inspect the film before projecting it. If there are any badly damaged portions, such as badly strained sprocket-holes, scratches, sprocket-teeth indentations, etc., he should report this to the manager of the theatre and have the manager personally view the damage before the film is run, so that the theatre will not be held liable for the damage. If the projectionist deems the film unsafe for projection, he should notify the manager to that effect and request him to endeavor to get another print. Also, if there is a government department in charge of theatres, this department should be immediately notified, in which case the responsibility will be taken off the projectionist's shoulders."

(C) Arlen, Spencer and Howe say, "There should be none, except to the projectionist, the manager and the exchange, for the projectionist should refuse to stand responsible for any trouble caused by the condition the prints were received in. The projectionist should look them over, make careful note of all damage found, particularly such as will make their use unsafe. He should make detailed report to the manager immediately, asking that the matter be at once taken up with the exchange and proper protest made."

Dale Danielson answers Section C thus: "Do you want the effects upon the film and projector mechanism and the resultant effect on reproduced sound and screen image, or the effects upon the audience, manager, projectionist and box office? I'll attempt to include some of each. Mechanical defects might be further increased. The screen image might be streaked with rain, jumpy, larger lateral and vertical movements interspersed with flashes of white or black, a regular Fourth of July as the cues start to run through; the image blurred from oil or buckled film; sound cracky; frequent pops; motor-boating; noisy. We all know or should know the effect on the projectionist. If not, try and run a perfect show with film mechanically bad. The manager, perhaps, can hide from the audience. The audience, disgruntled, restless, dissatisfied with the entertainment, tired, with strained eyes, vows never to return. The box office suffers greatly. Customers don't come back. There is a bad whispering campaign against the theatre. The result—intake lower, expenses must be reduced, cheaper projectionists, poorer state of equipment repair, projection poorer, box office further hit, further economies, with probable failure in the end."

(D) Kenneth Dowling says, "When film is received in bad condition I at once call the manager and show them to him. If it is very bad we try to secure another print before show time. If the condition be not too bad I make the necessary repairs, leaving it to the manager to deal with the exchange. When packing the reels for shipment I slip a note under the band of reel No. 1, describing the condition in which the films were received, enquiring, not too politely, as to what the large idea may happen to be."

ASIDES & INTERLUDES

By JAMES CUNNINGHAM

DISCOVERED: A flaw in an otherwise technically flawless motion picture, Fox's "Cavalcade." A closeup of the Titanic shows a life preserver on which appears the inscription: "S. S. Titanic—Southampton." The steamer, which went down in the North Atlantic on April 14, 1912, was out of Liverpool, not Southampton. The person who discovered the error is a well known New York attorney who handled many of the cases against the White Star company, filed by survivors of the 1,517 persons who died in the collision with an iceberg.

▽

Omigosh! Someone in Hollywood said "no" to Mr. DeMille. Paramount makes formal announcement of the bombshell, as follows: "Charles Bickford was the first man to say 'No!' to Cecil Blount DeMille and live." It seems that C. B. asked Bickford what he thought of "Dynamite."

"Speak right up," urged DeMille.

"I think it's lousy," Bickford finally exploded.

Another illusion shattered; another Hollywood precedent established.

▽

Aside to B. B. Kahane, Radio Studio, Hollywood: Charlie Ruggles, temporarily working for your company, sends over to the Paramount commissary every noon for his lunch.

▽

The publicity and promotional department of the combined RKO companies spends $4,000,000 a year. Film rentals for the corporation's circuits costs $6,000,000. The bill for union labor at its theatres totals millions; overtime alone costing nearly a million annually. Not a nickel should be wasted, Herschel Stuart of the home office recently told house managers in another economy message.

If each manager made only a $5 mistake a day, or wasted $5 a day, "that wouldn't be a $5 mistake, but a $200,000-per-annum mistake," he said. "To make a single comparison for all of us," continued Stuart, "a thousand-dollar bill wasted would buy the services for one week of 10 stenographers, twenty ushers, one cashier, 25 cleaners, one telephone operator, two first-class house managers, in addition to a tank of fuel oil, a hundred cartons of paper towels and two cases of toilet tissue."

▽

Aaron Saperstein's Allied Theatres organization in Chicago asks why the censors there permit a complete picture to be shown in Loop theatres and later apply their scissors and do some fancy carving so that the same pictures cannot be recognized when they reach houses half a mile from the Loop.

▽

Cowboy Rex Bell doesn't even hope to become as famous in motion pictures as his wife, Clara Bow. But he will be immortalized in sculpture, which Clara isn't. Alex Romano is now modeling a half life-size statue of Ray Johnston's western star. Other Hollywood luminaries probably would insist upon full life-size or nothing. Mr. Bell is no snob.

▽

N. Ek, manager of RKO's Cameo, near Times Square, in New York, has the shortest name in the business.

▽

The Atlanta Journal said that "more than anything else right now the country needs the services of optimists." We suggest that the government officials at Washington draft some motion picture press agents, ad writers and film salesmen.

▽

And from 'Frisco comes the report that "One-eyed" Connolly was almost drowned the other day trying to crash the Golden Gate.

He shot news hokum in the air.
It fell to earth he knew not where.

But when the guys on whom it fell
Shot it back; he yelled like hell!

(With apologies to Cinema Digest)

MR. WALTER WINCHELL published the following in his Daily Mirror column last Friday morning:

> "An actual talkie of 'Lady Chatterley's Lover' (no blue-pencilling) is being privately shown in Hollywood these nights. Made in Czecho-Slovakia under the name of 'Ekstasz' (Ecstasy?). . . . And the climax of the flicker is the same as the book's . . . none of the details being omitted! Paramount owns it! The leading lady of it will soon be starred in H'wood. . . ."

Evidently Mr. Winchell's confidential advisor in Hollywood was mistaken.

First—"An actual talkie of 'Lady Chatterley's Lover' (no blue-pencilling) is being privately shown in Hollywood these nights." The film "Ekstasz" was sent to Hollywood by the Paris agent of Paramount in order that the studio's casting director might see an actress who was in it. This is not unusual in the search for new talent.

Second—"The climax of the flicker is the same as the book." The photoplay "Ekstasz" bears no resemblance to Lawrence's book, "Lady Chatterley's Lover." It is not the same story. "Ekstasz" was shown throughout Europe and has not been criticized on account of being salacious.

Third—"Paramount owns it!" Paramount does not own the picture, nor did it ever own it. The film was merely sent to Hollywood for reasons stated above. It was returned to Paris last February after having been shown privately but once in the studio projection room.

Fourth—"The leading lady of it will soon be starred in Hollywood." If the leading lady of this picture will be starred in Hollywood, it will not be in a Paramount picture. Paramount quickly decided when the picture was screened in the private projection room that the young lady was not desired by that company.

▽

Apropos of George Bernard Shaw's recent visit to New York and Hollywood. David Wark Griffith told us of the time when Shaw and the noted writer, Sir James Barrie, used to live in the same building in London's Adelphi Terrace. Barrie's rooms were diagonally across the court from the Shaw apartment, and Sir James spent the greater portion of his time, while writing, looking out of his windows across the court, beyond Shaw's abode and onto the Thames. One day Shaw moved elsewhere. A few months later the two authors met at a tea. Sir James looked pale and wan, Shaw was feeling quite facetious. Finally, he turned to a companion, and, half addressing him, half speaking to Barrie, said: "Poor Jamie. Ever since I moved he hasn't been able to see anything of life. He used to watch my every move, but now that I've gone, there's no more human interest around the place for story material. Poor Jamie."

▽

Imagine the embarrassment of Metro salesmen when they call on exhibitors to sell the company's latest feature, "Never Give a Sucker a Break."

▽

Paramount has a squeak tester at the coast studio. Henry Barton, a 250-pounder, walks systematically over sets looking for floor squeaks. If Henry was a squawk tester he might get some place.

NOT even Seattle's fishing boats are safe from the influence of Hollywood. Metro sent north the cast and crew of "Tugboat Annie" to film a number of scenes in which three small vessels of the northern Pacific waters were used. The names of the trawlers were not pleasing and they were changed. "Wallawa" was changed to "Narcissus"; the mighty "Sea King" became a subdued "Firefly" and strong "General Gorgas" was born anew as "Glacier Queen."

United States Custom inspectors, however, took exception to the changes because they had not been consulted. Someone hurried off in the direction of Washington and fixed things up.

▽

How to remain heavily veiled and still view motion pictures is a problem which has long bothered the women of Trebizond, who still shroud their faces in public. When the theatre is darkened, they now push aside their veils slightly, just enough to bare one eye. When that eye gets tired, they switch to the other.

▽

Bette Davis, blonde, petite and pretty Warner star, recently told us a few of her experiences during the transcontinental trip with the "42d Street Special." One of the many personal appearances made by the stars was at an elaborate and quite proper supper place, noted for its dance floor, in Pittsburgh. Tom Mix led his horse, King, onto the floor. "And I just couldn't help hoping," Miss Davis said, "that he would perform. I mentioned this to Mrs. Mix, who fixed me with a glassy stare and frigidly said, 'That's not possible, young lady, King knows how to behave in public.'"

▽

Henry Warren, who wrote "42nd Street" music, says that Sam Goldwyn has asked him to write a snappy tune similar to "42nd Street," for the new Eddie Cantor picture. The fact that Cantor's next picture is based on Androcles and the Lion makes no difference.

▽

Grace Empey is the executive secretary in the important office of Tammany's Mayor O'Brien, who, on account of the depression, has only two cars to Jimmy Walker's and Joe McKee's one. Both cars have 12 cylinders, and each displays egotistical license plates marked "OB—1." All of which is beside the point. Mrs. Empey is the former wife of Arthur Guy Empey, who was quite well known in motion picture circles many years ago. Besides others, he authored and appeared in "Over the Top" for Vitagraph, back in '18, after having been discharged honorably from the British Army with wounds received in battle.

▽

The Internal Revenue Bureau has returned $40,000 to John Gilbert, a credit from his 1930 payment. Which is another reason why John is not worried about continuing his career in Hollywood.

▽

Philip Duffield Stong, young son of pioneer Iowa farmers, used the $15,000 which Fox paid him for writing "State Fair," to buy back the old family homestead, known as Duffield Place, in Van Buren County. Mrs. Io Sloan Therme, operating the Wampas theatre, at Keosauqua, Iowa, writes about Phil and his forebears in the Van Buren Record. She said his great grandfather was the first white settler west of the Des Moines River in Iowa. His grandfather, George Crawford Duffield, bought the Duffield place with money earned as a "forty niner." Old George knew Black Hawk, Keokuk and other famous Indian chiefs personally.

Best Sellers And Renters

The following listing of Best Sellers is based upon actual count of The Baker & Taylor Company's sales throughout the country, as noted in "The Retail Bookseller," organ of the company. The Best Renters ranking is founded upon reports of the distributors of "The Fiction Guide."

Best Sellers

February 20 to March 20

1. The Eyes of Love. By Warwick Deeping.
2. Walls of Gold. By Kathleen Norris.
3. Ann Vickers. By Sinclair Lewis.
4. Hardy Perennial. By Helen Hull.
5. An American Girl. By Tiffany Thayer.
6. Adventures of the Black Girl in Her Search for God. By George Bernard Shaw.
7. Unfinished Symphony. By Sylvia Thompson.
8. Female. By Donald Henderson Clarke.
9. Other Women. By Katharine Brush.
10. Mulliner Nights. By P. G. Wodehouse.

Best Renters

February 10 to March 10

1. Ann Vickers. By Sinclair Lewis.
2. The Last Adam. By James G. Cozzens.
3. Imitation of Life. By Fannie Hurst.
4. Forgive Us Our Trespasses. By Lloyd C. Douglas.
5. Beauty. By Faith Baldwin.
6. Flowering Wilderness. By John Galsworthy.
7. The Kennel Murder Case. By S. S. Van Dine.
8. The Narrow Corner. By Somerset Maugham.
9. Magnificent Obsession. By Lloyd C. Douglas.
10. Never Ask the End. By Isabel Paterson.

Australia Raises Tariff To 17 Cents a Linear Foot

The Federal government at Sydney, N. S. W., Australia, has increased the import duty on foreign negatives and positives from 68 cents a reel to 17 cents a linear foot. Educationals and socalled "home films" are exempted, as are British productions. Since the last tariff increase foreign distributors have been importing only one print, the copies being made at Sydney, with a consequent decline of 66 per cent in government income from this source.

General Electric Net $2,838,810 for Quarter

General Electric Company reports a net profit of $2,838,810 for the quarter ended March 31, 1933, compared with $5,152,423 in 1932. Surplus was $2,195,049 for the period this year as against $4,508,667 in 1932.

Labor Negotiates New Studio Pacts

Negotiations for a new basic studio agreement covering union craft labor in Hollywood will get under way in New York late this week. Meetings, proposed to effect such negotiations, have been deferred many times during the past two months.

The current basic agreement expired as the time the 25-50 per cent salary cut went into effect. At that time heads of the socalled "Big Four" union group agreed to go along, pending the striking of a new solution for labor problems which this week's conferences will attempt to solve.

The "Big Four" groups will be represented by their four presidents: William C. Elliott, president of the IATSE; Edward Berritz, president of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers; Joseph N. Weber, president of the American Federation of Musicians, and Abe Muir, president of the Brotherhood of Carpenters. Pat Casey, labor contact man for the producers, will represent the industry. Executives of several major organizations may attend the meetings.

Owen D. Young Resigns From Board of RCA

Owen D. Young has resigned as member of the board and chairman of the executive committeee of Radio Corporation of America, in compliance with the federal court consent decree of Nov. 21, 1932, requiring complete separation of the interests of RCA and General Electric Company, of which Mr. Young is chairman.

On Friday the board of RCA accepted Mr. Young's resignation as chairman and director, also as director of RCA subsidiaries, and re-elected the following officers:

James G. Harbord, chairman of the board of directors; David Sarnoff, president; J. R. McDonough, executive vice-president; Manton Davis, vice-president and general attorney; Otto S. Schairer, vice-president in charge of the patent department; George S. DeSousa, treasurer; Henry A. Sullivan, comptroller; Lewis MacConnach, secretary; Robert C. Proppe, assistant secretary.

First Division To Open Five New Film Exchanges

First Division will open four new exchanges in West Coast and New England key cities, and a fifth elsewhere, to handle distribution of the four pictures a year which First Division will itself produce. The new exchanges will supplement the present nine of the company.

Production on the first feature will begin on the Coast in about two months, with Al Friedlander, sales manager, and Dario L. Faralla, former Educational treasurer, supervising. They will leave for the Coast about June 15. Production details will be announced later.

Columbia Declares Dividend

The Board of Directors of Columbia Pictures Corporation this week declared a quarterly dividend of seventy-five cents per share on the company's preferred stock, payable June 1 to holders of record at the close of business May 17.

Best Sellers During 1932

Here is a list of the best selling books of 1932, as compiled by the Retail Bookseller, organ of The Baker & Taylor Company, New York. Best seller sales were off about 25 per cent since 1931, because of the times, but were ahead of 1930 sales. "The Fountain," which was purchased for screen purposes by MGM, heads the 1932 list. Number nine is "Peking Picnic," a future Fox release, and bought for production by Jesse Lasky. "The Magnificent Obsession" was reported to be the year's record-maker; after three years on the market it has outsold its newer rival. The best sellers of 1932:

Fiction

1. The Fountain. By Charles Morgan, June 1 (Knopf).
2. Sons. By Pearl S. Buck. Sept. 26 (Day).
3. The Good Earth. By Pearl S. Buck. Mar. 2, '31 (Day).
4. A Sheltered Life. By Ellen Glasgow. Aug. 24 (D. D.)
5. Obscure Destinies. By Willa Cather. Aug. 1 (Knopf).
6. Magnificent Obsession. By Lloyd C. Douglas. Oct. 22, '29 (W. C.)
7. Magnolia Street. By Louis Golding. Mar. 10 (F. & R.)
8. Flowering Wilderness. By John Galsworthy. Nov. 11 (Scrib.)
9. Peking Picnic. By Ann Bridge. Sept. 9 (L. B.)
10. Head Tide. By Joseph C. Lincoln. July 29 (App.)

General

1. Only Yesterday. By Frederick L. Allen. Dec. 1, '31 (Harp.)
2. The Epic of America. By James T. Adams. Sept. 30, '31 (L. B.)
3. Van Loon's Geography. By Hendrik W. Van Loon. Sept. 8 (S. & S.)
4. A Fortune to Share. By Vash Young. Sept. 9, '31 (B. M.)
5. More Merry-Go-Round. Anonymous. Aug. 22 (Liv.)

Ask Ontario's Education Department Do Censoring

Transfer of the censorship of motion pictures from the provincial treasurer's department to the Ontario department of Education was asked at a conference of educational authorities and provincial government officials. The argument was advanced by school officials that those in charge of the training of children have a more intimate knowledge of what is good for juveniles. A protest also was registered against approval of "horror pictures."

Universal Theatres Sued

Suit against Universal Chain Theatrical Enterprises, Inc., and Universal Chain Theatres Corporation, claiming $35,703.47 is due on a stock transaction since May 24, 1926, has been filed in Maryland by Isidor Friedman.

SHORTS ARE IN SEASON

by TERRY RAMSAYE

THIS IS THE SEASON for asparagus and shorts. Nature is responsible for the asparagus, but it is the habit of sales managers which makes this the custom established time for the buying and selling of shorts.

¶ This is the period when Hollywood and the sales management are trying to make up their minds about the titles of the product which is to be announced for the coming season. While the sales managers are thinking about that, they think up a job for the sales force, which always consists in seeing what can be done about the shorts. It is not entirely complimentary to where shorts stand in the sales manager's mind, but it has, all in all, worked out in a rather practical way for the industry as a whole, including that newly discovered person, the exhibitor. For, by reason of the fact that he is not being high-pressured on the subject of "longs", which is to say features, super-features and near-features, he does have time to give some attention to that very important component of his show, the "short".

¶ A vast service could be done to the art of the motion picture, the industry and the public, if shorts could be taken more seriously. The preponderating concern about the dramatic feature is warranted enough but to the great majority of exhibitors who depend on the process of making their theatre a neighborhood institution with repeat business the short element of the program can do a deal more toward building the repute of the house than is appreciated in practice.

¶ Generally speaking, the better shorts contain more intelligence and more production enthusiasm per foot than a large proportion of the dramatic offerings. No producer in Hollywood ever was able to buy more white-heat devotion to doing a good job by a three-thousand-dollar-a-week director than a newsreel editor can get by the mere beckoning to a good average $125-a-week news cameraman ($125 if he gets it). And a large fraction of the shorts, the good ones, are really by-products of newsreel organizations.

¶ Despite the development of the expeditionary pictures that has been observable in the last two years, the short has also the special merit of being the principal avenue of fact to the screen. Features are 99 per cent fiction. The exhibitor's only real opportunity to deal with the vast field of interesting fact on his screen is among intelligently selected shorts, novelty reels, travelogues, scenic and adventure pictures, newsreel and newsreel specials. Non-fiction is a great component of the public interest as served by the printed page of book, newspaper and magazine. The screen, it seems, has always been devoted much more to make-believe than the older forms of publication. Yet there is no showman of the screen in America of note who has not been a conspicuously careful buyer of shorts.

¶ It is a fair assertion that not less than half of the whole status and repute of the motion picture is based on what an intelligent public thinks of newsreels and topical shorts. It is clear enough that an intelligent, careful short buy can go at least half way in making the good name of the average theatre.

¶ And generally speaking, the human race being what it is, the film salesman who thinks of shorts mostly once a year when the short selling season is on, seldom knows the whole story and is more likely to undersell than oversell the product. The careful exhibitor will screen the samples and make up his mind on what he sees. What he needs to know will never be told by any typical sales formula. Buying by the bushel does not serve a market sold a seat at a time.

1,000 SHORTS ASSURED EXHIBITORS TO MEET DIVERSIFICATION DEMAND

Total of 954 Already Planned for 1933-34 Compares with 818 During Current Season; Serials Are Gaining Ground

[Timely exploitation material on short subjects appears in Managers' Round Table, page 63]

With increased demand from patrons, as well as with the collapse of double featuring in many sections of the country, producers and distributors see a greatly increased market for short subjects during the 1933-34 season. General increase in short product schedules, both by major producers and independents, is planned for next season. Already there has been a tentatively announced total from both which is considerably in excess of the total promised for the present season. To date, a total of 954 shorts has been announced for next season —760 from major companies and 194 from independents—as against 818 currently. Many producers have not yet definitely decided upon the number of short subjects for 1933-34. Basing an estimate of their output on previous performances, the exhibitor may expect upward of 1,000 shorts in the new season.

The motion picture-going public of the nation is, on the whole, opposed to double featuring, investigation has shown. Producers have taken the stand that such a practice cheapens the output of product and for many months it has been suggested that more short subjects on a program would be the logical means toward the elimination of double billing. In the March 25 issue of Motion Picture Herald this question was discussed in detail. A questionnaire was sent out to between 5,000,000 and 6,000,000 theatre patrons by the Motion Picture Producers and Distributors of America, asking whether or not they were in favor of double features and if not, what might be done to correct the situation; whether patrons preferred more diversified programs than they had been getting and what specific objections they had to the double featuring practice. Ninety per cent of all replies were against twin billings and were equally as strong in favor of a single attraction and a diversified program of short subjects. (Excerpts of replies on page 50.)

Serials Gaining Ground

Serials are seen to be gaining ground as a means to bring patrons back to theatres. Universal, Mascot, Principal, are among those contemplating heavy concentration on this form of short subject entertainment. They believe that the public not only enjoys serials but that they serve to keep stars and players continuously in the public eye and stimulate interest.

The increase in production of short subjects is seen not only as a result of the retreat of the double bill but more particularly because of a marked increase in demand from picture patrons. This has been definitely shown in exhibitor reports. Producers are realizing the widening scope of the short picture and are contemplating their production on a more elaborate scale than heretofore. In line with the desire expressed by exhibitors there will be many musical shorts and much effort will be concentrated upon the more effective use of color in short productions.

April 27 marked the passing of double feature billings in theatres on the West Coast and at the present time practically every theatre there is back on a single feature and short subject basis. The results were apparent immediately. Short bookings spurted 100 per cent overnight. Theatres there are staging campaigns in the newspapers emphasizing single feature and short subject programs. Fox West Coast houses have a series of trailers explaining the advantages of the combination novelty program over the double bill. Some of the points advanced are:

Greater diversification of shows.

More opportunity to select the best features.

Allowing more exact scheduling of running time, so patrons can figure accordingly.

Giving patrons greater opportunity to select shows they like without having to take a chance of seeing in one house a picture they have seen in another.

Opportunity to build up well balanced unit shows, properly divided as to comedy, drama, travel, education.

The response is said to have been gratifying to most theatres, business in a great majority of cases having shown material increase in patronage and unanimous approval of the new policy.

Norman H. Moray, Vitaphone sales manager, said last week that next year's production of Vitaphone shorts will emphasize technicolor musicals and a new series of Broadway Brevities, which the current season has proved highly successful.

Approximately 120 from Vitaphone

"The new season will offer the greatest opportunity to short subject producers they have ever known," Mr. Moray said. "With double featuring virtually ended in many parts of the country, the market for shorts is increasing in leaps and bounds, not because they act as fillers for a program but because the public is demanding them as never before."

"Nobody here knows definitely how many we will produce, but it is safe to say that it will be somewhere in the neighborhood of 120," he said. Previous report had it that Vitaphone would release 112 shorts.

Independent producers, including Leon Schlesinger, Bryan Foy, Joe Rock, Robert Bruce, Elmer Clifton, Larry Darmour, Walter Futter, Jack Hays, Sol Lesser, Jack Nelson and others have increased their schedules for major or independent distribution. Mack Sennett, who is now winding up his current Paramount release contract, is completing negotiations for a new distribution set-up and is planning to make 40 two-reel comedies for the next season.

A further impetus to the market for shorts is seen in the wide decentralization of theatres throughout the country. Distribution company sales heads will tell salesmen in conventions this summer that last year's booking of shorts must be doubled at least for the coming season.

New Crop to Include Musicals in Color; Dual Bill Collapse Helps; Air Stars Featured; Newsreels Holding Standard

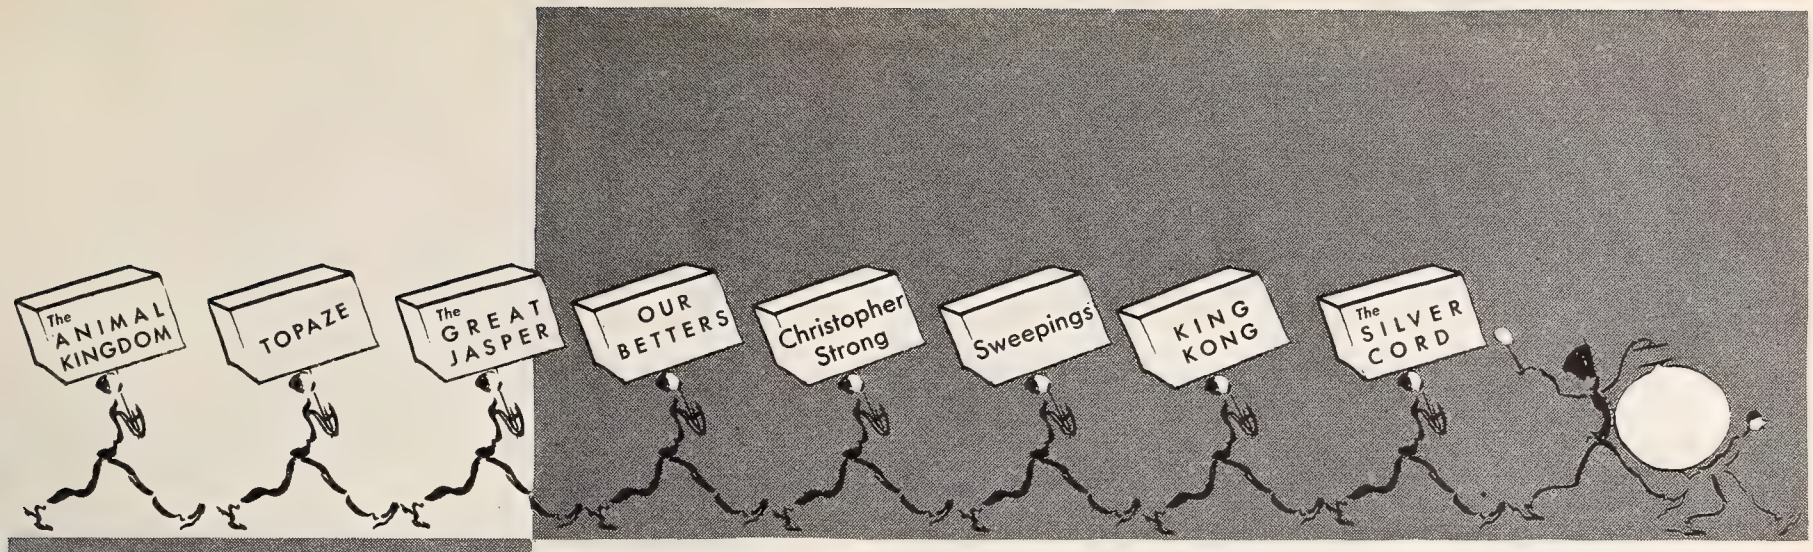
A large increase in the sales of newsreels is also looked for. Circuit houses which heretofore have been supplied with newsreels each week are now classed as definite possibilities for individual sales. The same situation prevails with all short subjects.

Educational is planning to have for next season 156 short subjects, of which a minimum of 38 will be musical. Of these, at least two series will be 100 per cent musical, with a group of six two-reelers which will be screen adaptations of some of the more popular musical comedies. These will be elaborately produced, with large casts, dances and specially written music to supplement the theme songs of the original musical comedies. A one-reel musical series planned by Educational will be screen dramatizations of current popular song hits.

Universal is reported, in a current issue of the Hollywood Herald, to be considering the adoption of a policy to increase audiences with serials. This is said to be the prime motive behind the signing of Buck Jones recently for the highest salary ever paid a serial star.

Universal Turns to Serials



"We are doing this," Carl Laemmle said, "because we believe audiences can be brought back to the theatre with serials. This goes for all houses. Universal and Pathe made most of their money in serials and, now that double features are out, there is no reason why we should not do it again. We intend to make serials with feature casts and feature production value. Therefore, if any of those beautiful, big houses are not getting the people with their features and stage shows, our serials will be available to them and will be of such a quality as to take their place in the most respectable feature program they can set up."

Universal has just completed "Phantom of the Air," featuring Tom Tyler, Gloria Shea and Bill Desmond. Henry MacRea was in charge of production. Mr. MacRea, long a master of serial making, thinks the picture business is ready to go back to first principles.

"In the old days serials made stars and they graduated from the 'continueds' into features," he says. "Now we hope to turn the thing around and have stars make serials. Serials keep personalities almost continually before the public."

Columbia, with 104 shorts on its current program, has not yet set its plans for short subject production in 1933-34. It is considered hardly likely, however, that the number will be smaller. The current season's program of shorts rapidly is nearing completion with a score of new subjects now in active production and a number of others completed and awaiting release. The complete short subject program comprises a

(Continued on page 50)

...And we make the best Shorts too

RKO Radio Pictures

CHARLIE CHAPLIN

The screen's best loved funny man in his 6 best yellers . . . Funnier now with music and sound.

Reissued by RKO-VAN BEUREN Corporation

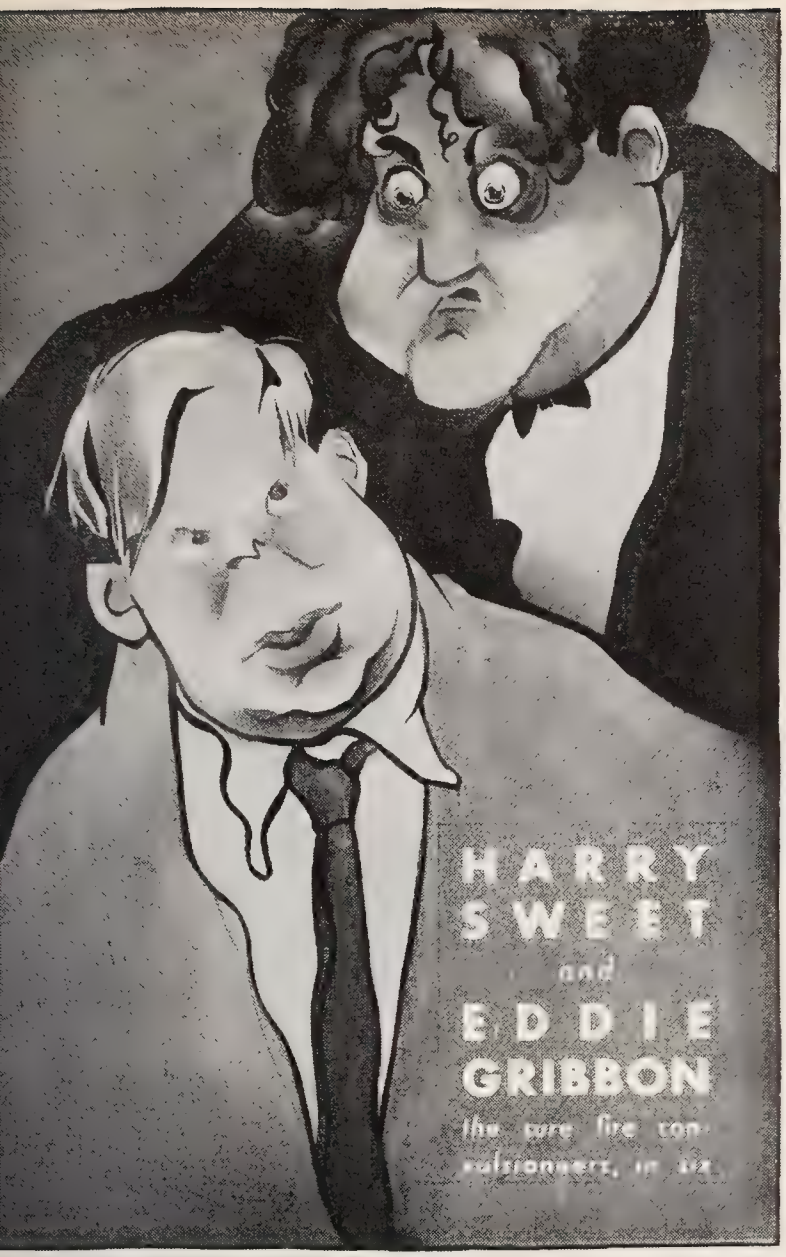
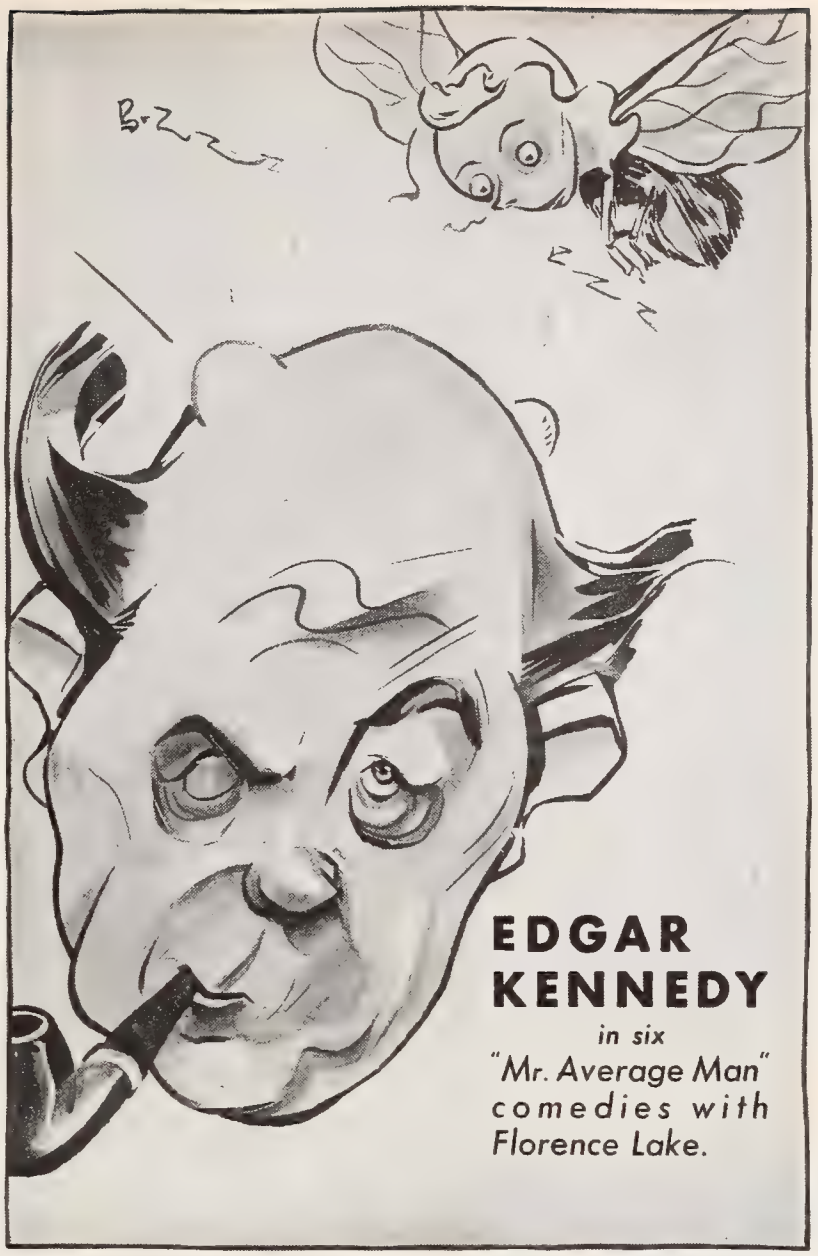
RKO Radio PICTURES

TWO REEL

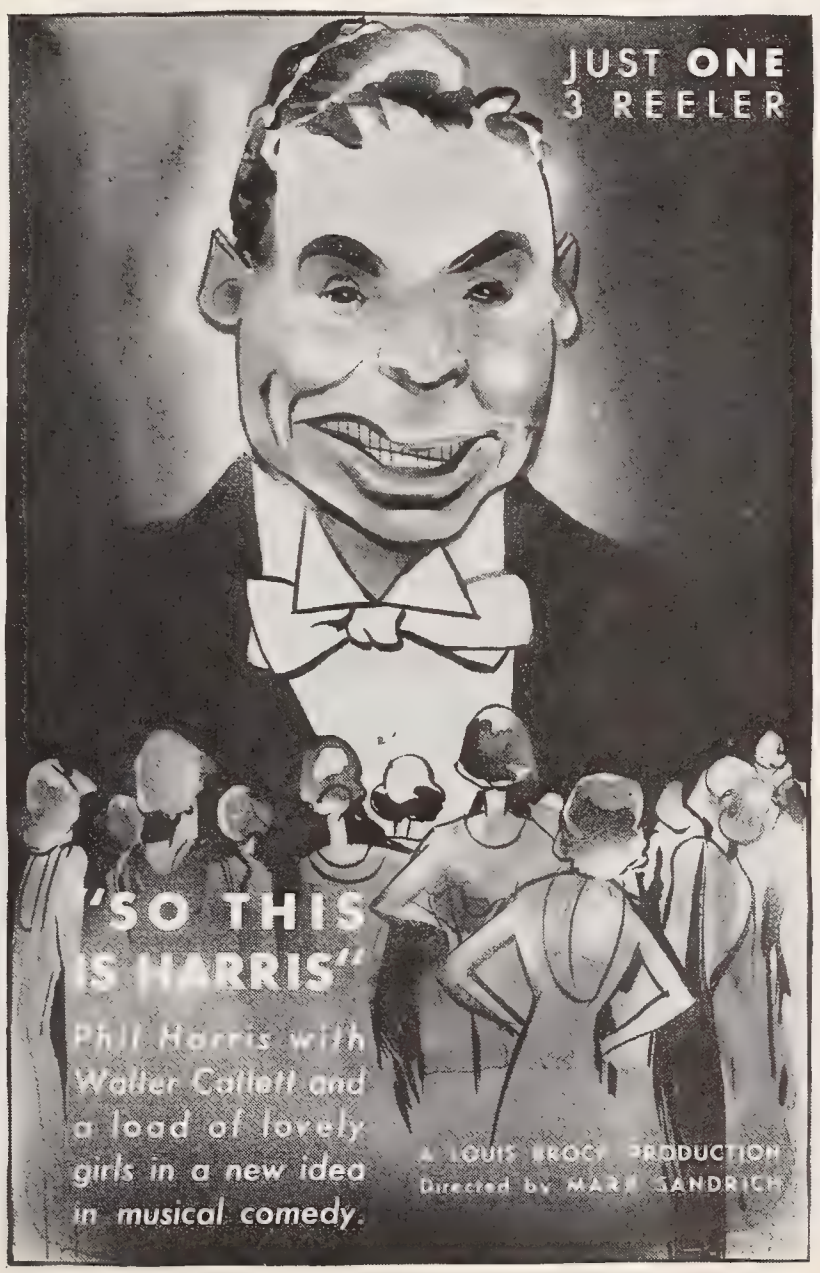


MICKEY McGUIRE



6 kid comedies with the original Mickey of the screen. Based on the funny page cartoons by Fontaine Fox. Larry Darmour Productions

The MASQUERS



Big time . . Big name casts in six whooping mellerdramas

HARRY SWEET
and EDDIE GRIBBON

EDGAR KENNEDY in six
"Mr. Average Man" comedies with Florence Lake.

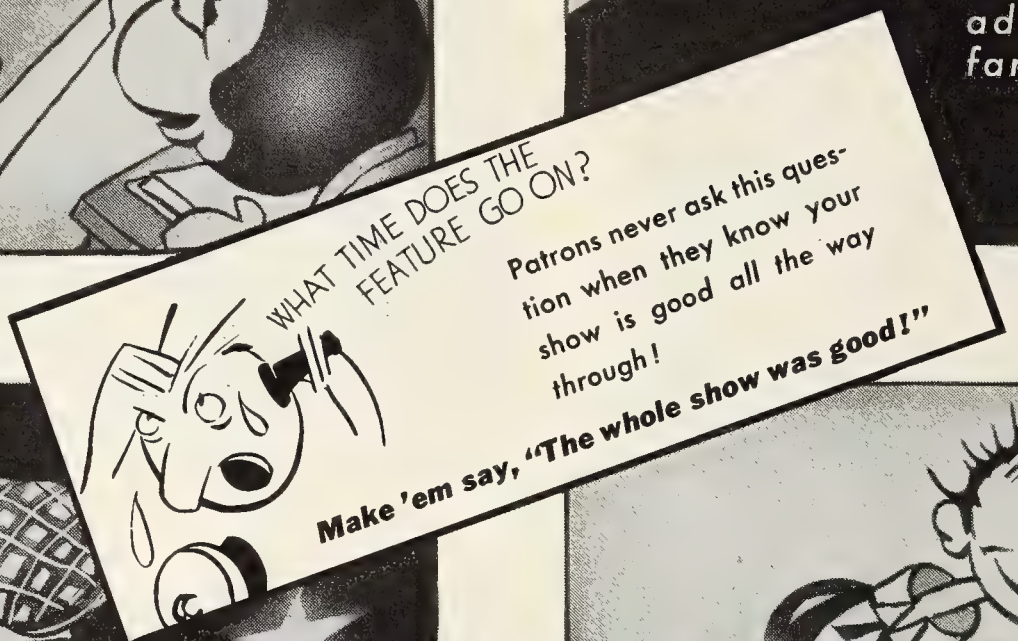
COMEDIES



6
HEADLINERS
Personalities in the spotlight of the world in six rousing little shows.

JUST ONE
3 REELER
"SO THIS IS HARRIS"
Phil Harris with Walter Catlett and a load of lovely girls in a new idea
in musical comedy.
A LOUIS BROCK PRODUCTION
Directed by MARK SANDRICH

ONE REEL PRODUCTIONS

NOW YOU CAN RUN THE WORLD'S BEST NEWSREEL . . FIRST IN THE FIELD

SHORT PRODUCT FOR THE SHOWMAN

Allied Exchanges

Six short subjects planned for release this season. Three will actually be delivered. Arrangements not completed for 1933-34.

Amkino

Six shorts were planned for current season release. Five will be delivered. Twelve short subjects have been set for 1933-34, including a series of colored cartoons.

Auten

Capt. Harold Auten will release six shorts in 1933-34 as against two currently.

Beverly

Beverly Hills Pictures, a newly formed company, is planning 13 three-reelers for next season, with the same number currently. Release through the Stanley Hatch organization.

Borden

Ramon Nazzaro has been signed by Borden Pictures Corp. to write and direct 12 shorts.

Bray

Thirty-six shorts will be released by Bray through Educational next season, as against 26 currently.

Brock

Lou Brock, RKO Radio associate producer in charge of short subjects, will produce from 25 to 36 subjects personally for release through Radio next season, it was stated at the home office this week. He probably will produce a series of musical comedies of either two or three reels each, on the same lines as "So This Is Harris."

Columbia

With 104 short subjects currently, Columbia's 1933-34 short program is not yet set. Eight series of single features and cartoon subjects and two groups of two-reelers comprise the current line-up which includes, for one-reelers, "Screen Snapshots," Walter Futter's "Curiosities" and "Travelaughs," "World of Sport," "Krazy Kat," and "Scrappy."

The two-reel series are "Lambs Gambols" and "Sunrise Comedies."

In production are "Fifty Million Dollars Can't Be Wrong," a two-reel comedy featuring Smith and Dale; the "Scrappy" cartoons, "Technoracket," "The Match Kid" and "The World's Affair"; the "Krazy Kat" subjects, "Antique Antics" and "House Cleaning"; "Good Old Winter Time," a new "World of Sport" issue, "Screen Snapshots," No. 10, and a new production in the "Sunrise Comedies" series. On the release schedule are the following new shorts: "Poor Fish," latest of the "Lambs Gambols," featuring Leon Errol, with Luella Gear, Lynn Overman, Harry Tyler, Harry Short and Harry Shannon; "Broadway Malady" and "Russian Dressing," which were produced for the "Krazy Kat" series; a new "Scrappy" called "False Alarm"; "All's Wet That Ends Wet," an aquatic sports reel in the "World of Sport" series, and a number of new releases of "Screen Snapshots," "Travelaughs" and "Curiosities."

Educational

Educational planned 145 short subjects for the current season and is increasing its quota for 1933-34 to 156. All subjects will be distributed by Fox. Andy Clyde has just been resigned for a new series of starring comedies, according to an announcement made this week. This makes Clyde's fourth consecutive year under the Educational banner and the third in which he is to make a starring series released under the brand name of "Andy Clyde Comedies."

With six two-reel comedies in various stages of production, Educational's current program is nearing completion, and initial studio plans are being made for next year's schedule. The Harry Langdon comedy, "All Aboard," is now in the final stages of cutting and editing, while camera work on the last Langdon comedy in the Mermaid series has just been completed. "She Dunked Him Wrong," the seventh Clyde comedy, is now shooting, while the final subject in the series, "The Big Squeal," is ready for immediate production. Stories have been finished on the two concluding subjects in the Moran and Mack series. The first to go into production will be "Farewell to Farms," and the second will be "Strange Birds." Stacey Woodard, producer of Educational's "Battle for Life" series, is assembling the fifth release in this series, titled "The World Beneath Our Feet." No titles for the new season have been announced. "Krakatoa," Educational's three-reel special, has been bought by the Harry Arthur circuit for its first-run situations in Connecticut. Unusual sales activity is reported on this picture since last week's eruption of the volcano, Krakatoa, so that, in addition to the unique and spectacular nature of the subject, it now boasts a newsreel timeliness.

Film Exchange

Fourteen short subjects have been tentatively set by this company for 1933-34. The same number was planned for the current season.

Fox

Fox plans 52 short subjects for the new season, exclusive of newsreels. There are two new series of 13 each and 26 "Magic Carpet of Movietone" series. Fifty-two shorts were announced for the current season. There will be 104 newsreel issues as currently.

Imperial

Twenty-six short subjects were planned for release this season and 31 have been tentatively set for 1933-34.

Kinematrade

Kinematrade may release a few foreign shorts next season, although nothing definite has been decided upon. None was planned for the current season.

Mascot

Mascot planned four serials for its 1932-33 schedule and sets the same number for 1933-34. The four current serials, "The Last of the Mohicans," "Hurricane Express," "The Devil Horse" and "The Whispering Shadow," have been delivered.

Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer

Eighty-nine short subjects, exclusive of newsreels, were set for 1932-33 and the same number will be released in 1933-34. Laurel and Hardy, hitherto chiefly concerned with shorts, will make only features next season. Hal Roach will contribute 40 shorts, but will eliminate the Taxi Boys series. Eight Charley Chase and eight Our Gang comedies have already been set for 1933-34 by Mr. Roach. The remainder has not yet been decided. Ub Iwerks, who arrived in New York from the coast this week, plans to produce an additional series of animated cartoons for the coming season. Iwerks is the creator of the "Flip the Frog" cartoons, now being released by Metro. There will be 104 issues of Hearst Metrotone News.

Paramount

Approximately 125 shorts will be produced by Paramount next season, a slight decrease from the 131 set currently. There will be from 24 two-reel comedies, and 13 Paramount Pictorials, 13 Screen Souvenirs, 18 Paramount Screen Songs, 12 Betty Boop cartoons, Bimbo and Koko series, 13 Hollywood on Parade, 13 Grantland Rice Sportlights and 13 Paramount Headliners. Twelve two-reelers, six with Bing Crosby and six with Harry Langdon, will be produced by Arvid E. Gillstrom. Phil L. Ryan will make six with Eugene Pallette and Walter Catlett, and six single reelers under the direction of Del Lord. As usual, there will be 104 issues of Paramount newsreel.

Principal

Principal Pictures will produce a serial in 12 episodes during the 1933-34 season. It is a sequel to the old Tarzan series, entitled "Tarzan the Fearless." Basil Dickey, who wrote "The Perils of Pauline," will handle the script. James "Jumbo" Pierce, son-in-law of Edgar Rice Burroughs, creator of Tarzan, will play the lead.

RKO Radio

Ninety-four short subjects, including 52 single reels and 42 comedies, have been set by Radio for 1933-34. The same number, plus three serials, was planned for current release. Radio has signed three new comedy units with contracts for the coming year. A deal has been closed with Clark & McCullough for another series of eight two-reelers. Harry Gribbon and Harry Sweet will co-star in another series of six, and Edgar Kennedy will make a series of six. George Stevens, director, has been signed to direct the next "Average Man" comedy, featuring Kennedy and Florence Lake. Lou Brock, who produced "So This Is Harris," and several other shorts, is expected to contribute personally from 24-36 two-reelers. There will be 104 Pathe newsreels.

Regent

Regent planned 12 short subjects for the present season and probably will set the same number for 1933-34.

Standard

Standard Motion Pictures Corp. has completed its first two short subjects and is getting production of two more under way. The two completed are "Nearly Naked," a nudism subject, and "Beer Is Here," with Weber and Fields.

Synchro-Art

Six short subjects will be released by Synchro-Art Pictures during 1933-34. None was set for the current season.

United Artists

Eighteen Mickey Mouse shorts and 11 Silly Symphonies were planned currently and the same number will be delivered in 1933-34.

Universal

Universal's short subject release in 1933-34, while not definitely set, will probably present the same number as for the current season, 99, including five serials, 26 two-reel comedies, 22 Radio reels, 13 Oswald cartoons, 13 Pooch cartoons, 13 Strange As It Seems and 7 Brevities. The same number of shorts and serials was on the present schedule. Universal's newspaper newsreel will be issued twice a week.

Wafilms

Twenty-six short subjects are on Wafilms' 1933-34 schedule. The same number was set currently.

Warner

Warner planned 120 shorts for this season and will make as many and possibly more in 1933-34. Leon Schlesinger recently signed contracts for release of the new series of "Looney Tunes" and "Merrie Melodies," animated cartoons, for 1933-34 release. Stories definitely set so far include eight shorts, starring Fatty Arbuckle, and six with Jack Haley. Twenty-six musicals will be made in black and white and several will be made in Technicolor. Orchestras engaged for short musicals are Paul Whiteman, Eddie Duchin, Ted Weems, Abe Lyman and others. Stars appearing in short product will include Jans and Whalen, Everett Marshall, Tom Patricola and Gus Shy.

World International

Twelve short subjects have been announced by L. A. Carson, president of World International Distributing Corp.

WANTS STORY OF THE FARM BELT

GLORIFYING THE FARMER

To the Editor of the Herald:

Why is it that the setting for about 98 out of every 100 shows is laid either in the Far East (U. S.) or in the West. Mighty few pictures represent the great mid-section of our nation. Why not produce a lot of shows laid in the great hog-cattle-grain belt? Pictures glorifying the American farmer would be a welcome change. I am sure that there are a lot of exhibitors that could write the synopsis for a mighty entertaining picture dealing with the life and problems of our hard pressed agriculturist. A contest of this kind would undoubtedly create a lot of interest and cause the producers to wake up to the unlimited possibilities in story material that could be found in this hitherto almost untouched field. Wouldn't an experiment of this kind be worth trying?—L. V. Bergtold, Manager, Opera House, Kasson, Minn.

DESTROYING ILLUSIONS

To the Editor of the Herald:

What, if anything, do they use for brains in Hollywood? This is not a new thought, and I'm not voicing an original complaint, but I would like herewith to register a protest against a current repetition of an old, old offense.

In a recent Saturday Evening Post issue is an apparently authoritative article exposing "The Voice of the Film," and explaining in detail the technique of the production of sound effects used with motion pictures.

In Modern Mechanics and Inventions, for April, there appeared a two-page spread telling all the secrets of the sound effects in "King Kong," and exposing the mechanics of the illusion of the big ape who scales skyscrapers, battles airplanes, carries Fay Wray in one hand.

If Thurston the magician, before playing an engagement, came out in the papers with a detailed explanation of all his marvelous illusions, he'd be elected to the crazy house by a unanimous vote. Yet the gentlemen who control the sources of publicity in Hollywood persist in cheapening their art by stripping it of its chief charm—the veil of illusion.

"I go to the theatre," said one of my patrons recently, "to be entertained, to forget my troubles, to project myself for a time into someone else's life story. Of course just now I can't see anything on the screen but a horror story or a sordid tale of illicit love with a tragic ending, but even that, if it's well done, will take me out of myself while I watch it.

"I see a man and woman scaling the rocks, in flight from a crazed manhunter. I might be with them in fancy, trying to outwit the brute and win to safety, but no—I have read that this was a studio shot, that the great waterfall which bars their way was photographed hundreds of miles away and superimposed on the film—I should fret about their troubles, they're just a couple of movie actors doing a day's work, and I'm going home and add up my debts awhile to pass the time away."

Hollywood is in the business of creating canned illusion, and we suffering souls at the other end of the rainbow have got to peddle that illusion to the populace at a profit or lose our jobs. How in the name of the great god Hokum can we do it when this illusion is exposed in the funny papers before it is released to us?—Roy W. Adams, Mason Theatre, Mason, Mich.

NO CREDIT EXTENDED HIM

To the Editor of the Herald:

In your issue of March 11 we note a heading, "Credit Helps Theatres Operate," and subhead says, "Distributors Aiding Exhibitors." Now I wonder who handed out this hooey.

I have been a small town exhibitor for about twenty years. You know and I know that in the old days an exhibitor was sent an invoice for a week's service after he had used it. But the last ten years an exhibitor could not get even a one-sheet unless he sent the 15 cents for same, or it would be sent C. O. D. During the bank holiday, so far as I am concerned, no exchange has helped in any way. I, like hundreds of other exhibitors, sent checks for service, and the checks were returned and my service sent C. O. D. I am not a rich man, but my credit is good. I am listed with Bradstreet and Dun. I do not owe anyone, and still no exchange would trust me or any other exhibitor so far as I know of, the price of one program. Only yesterday the Chicago office of RKO returned my check and requested a money order sent in its stead, but this morning (before I had time to remit with a money order) the films arrived C. O. D.

Yes, it is a lot of bunk about the distributors extending credit to the exhibitors.—A. B. Wooley, Princess Theatre, Saybook, Ill.

AS TO THE ADMISSION PRICE

To the Editor of the Herald:

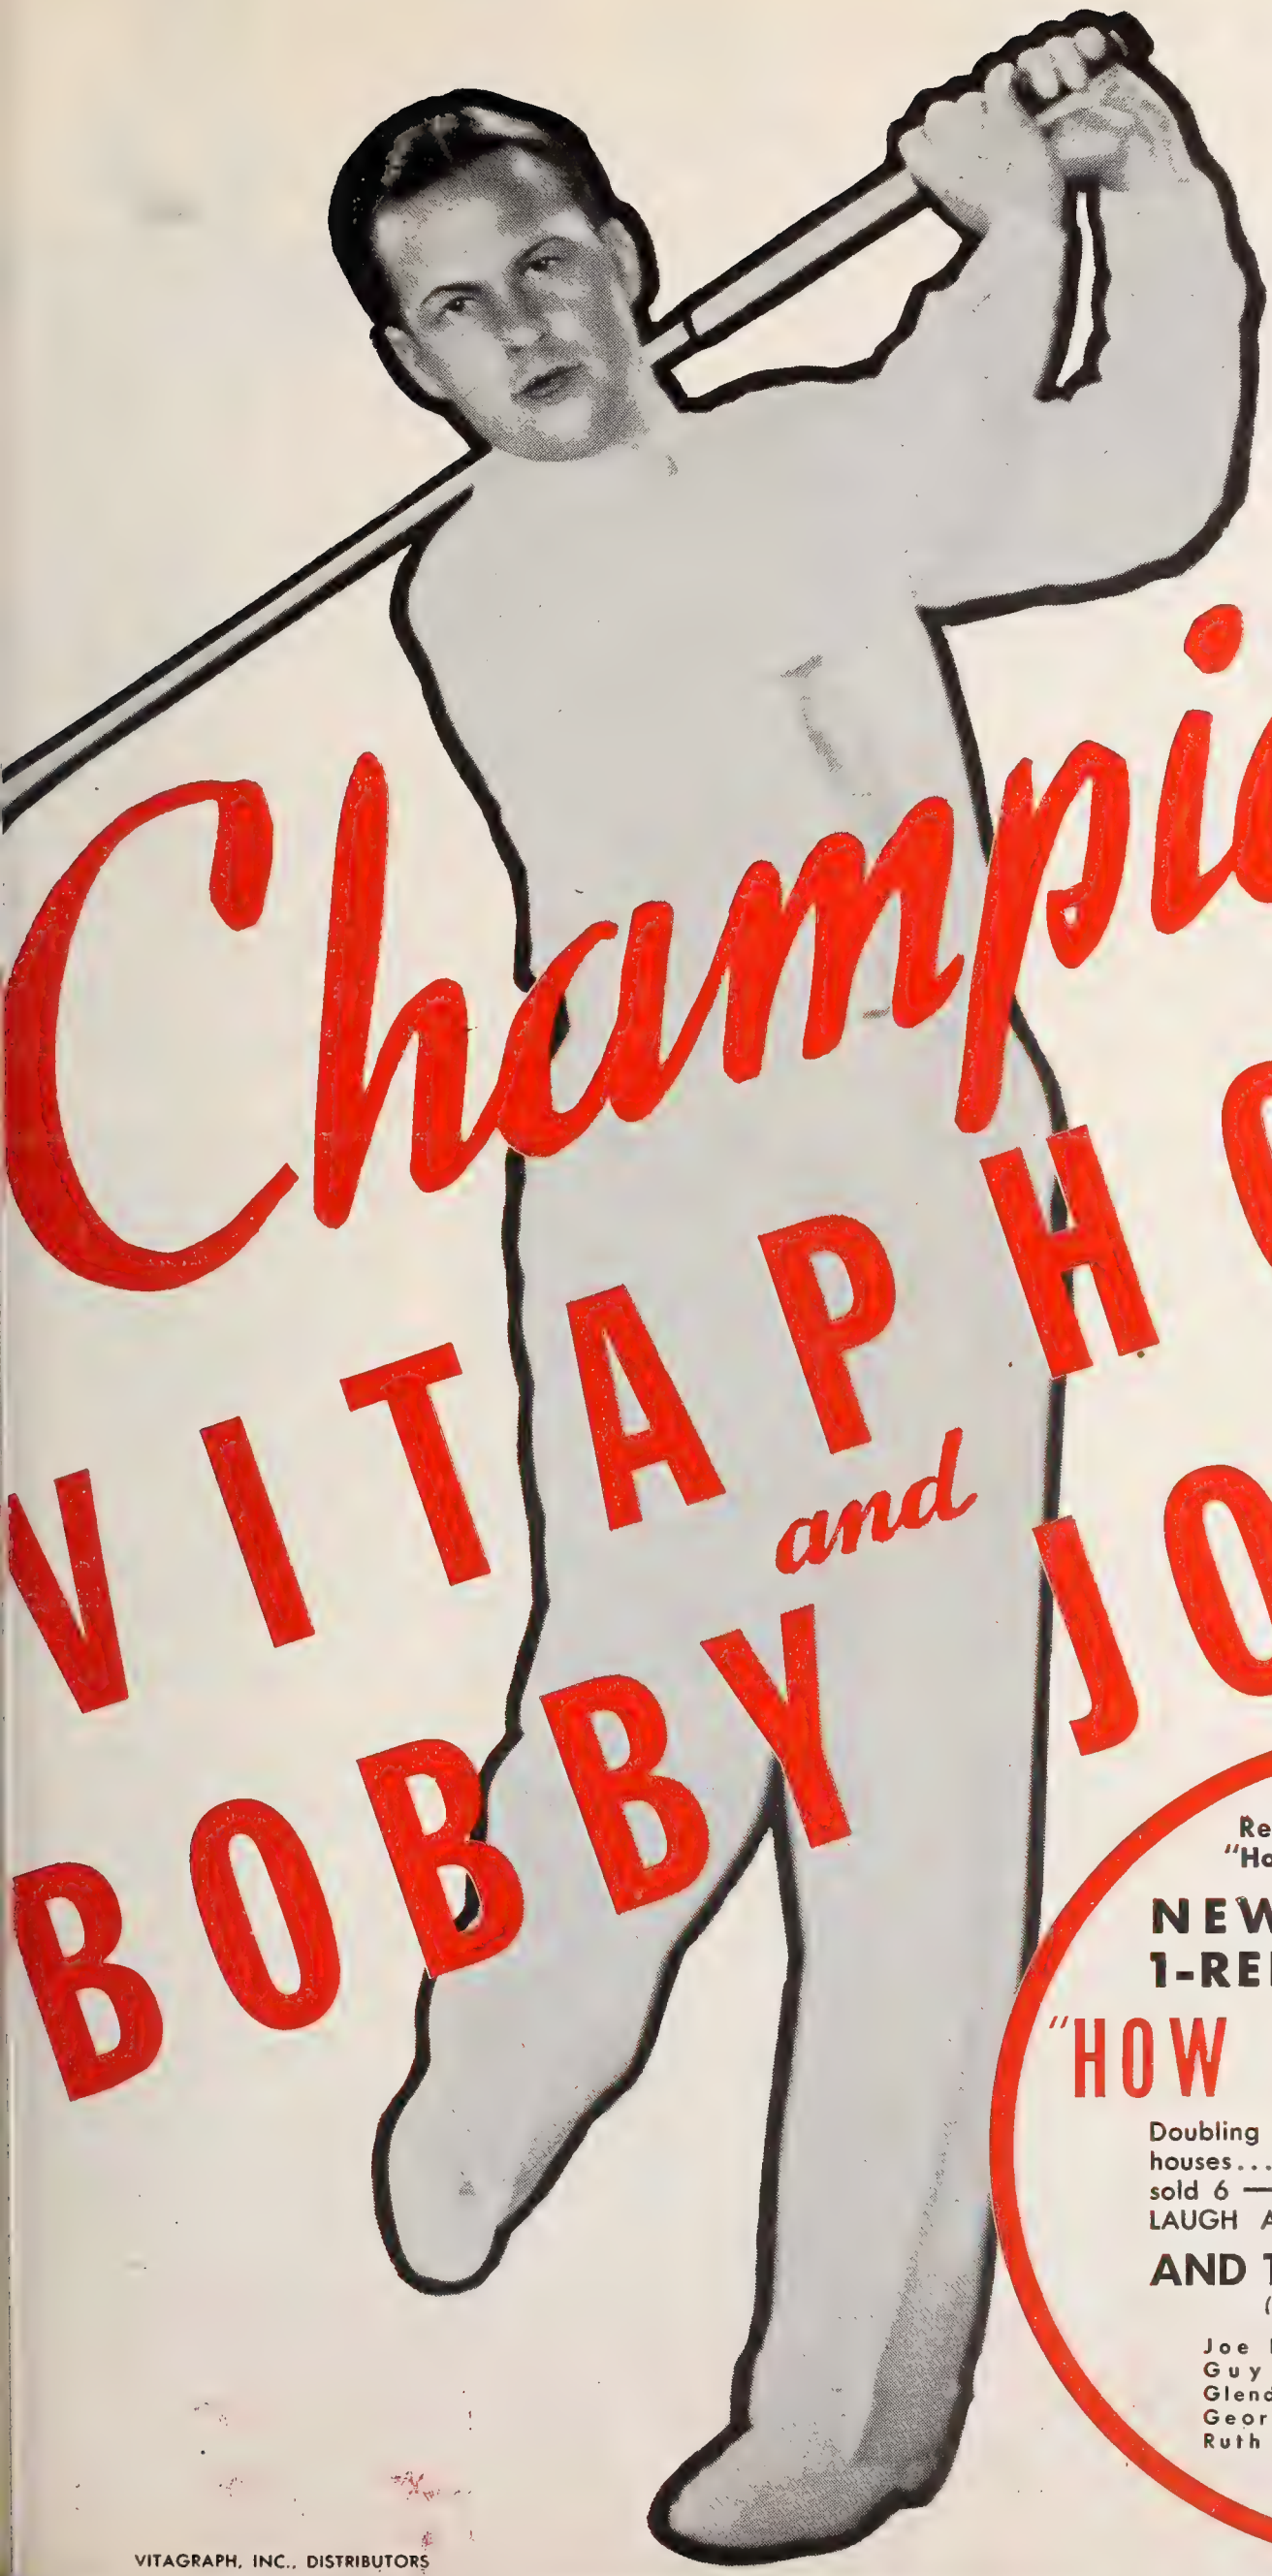
Who's going to fill those first few front row seats?

Today as never before comes the great question of all theatre men and managers, as to age limit for the children. As long as the child is in high school or of that age, I believe that an admission price of half way to that of an adult price is fair to both the child and the children's parents. When a man has a wife and two children to take to a theatre for an evening it is quite an item for him to pay four adult admissions when we know that the children are along about 16 to 18 years of age. And then there is the little fellow not as far advanced in age who is always pleased to sit down in the front row, where adults always put up a kick as being too near the screen with such a large picture. In these days of tough business for the theatre trying to keep out of the red, I think that if a manager just makes up his mind to go after this kiddie business it can be done in this way:

We will say that a house has an admission scale as follows: matinee, adults 35c, children 10c; evenings, adults 50c, children 15c. Why not change this in this way and never mind about the grown boy being too old to be allowed a child's ticket: matinee, adult 35c, children 15c; evenings, adult 50c, children 35c. In other words the manager will know that a large size child or a small size child, regardless of his or her real age, will be paying at least the matinee adult price in the evening and still the child will be more contented and without the fear that the doorman is going to stop them and send them back to the box office for another ticket.

After all, a boy is a boy and a girl is a girl, and they both are children, and what is the difference whether they are four feet three inches or six feet one inch and whether they are 13 years old or 18 years old. They all in the end help fill up the front row seats and help keep the box office from going too far in the red. The show must go on the screen whether there are 50 people in the house or the house is loaded to capacity. The more a manager forgets and stops worrying about that kid who is so big he looks like 20 years but is really only 14 years, the sooner all theatres are coming to their own. This boy of today is our adult in the very near future, so why make him sore over a few dimes when you are really bidding now for his future business and the business of his future family.

According to the above example, if followed out, you have raised the child's matinee price 5c and you have raised the child's evening price 20c. You are now getting a 25c increase. You have done only one thing. You have forgotten the age limit and yet you're ahead all the way round, no matter how you or your boss looks at it. And when your boss looks at the books they will carry the real story of the real results (more paid admissions) and that's what he wants to see.—Myron Van Buren, Gloversville, N. Y.



WOMEN AND ATTENDANCE

How women in civic and educational organizations could be of definite service to the industry in promoting pictures which have won their approval is the tenor of a newspaper clipping forwarded to the Herald by S. H. Stern, of Capitol Theatres Corporation at Omaha, Neb.

Writing in the column "The Woman's Side of It" in the World-Herald of Omaha, one "E. M." said:

"One hears much about motion picture censorship. The only effective censorship weapon is already in the hands of sincere critics—members of women's clubs, parent-teacher associations and educational organizations. They can inform themselves about motion pictures and promote such films as 'Explorers of the World.'

"The local theatre manager distributed 10 thousand tickets admitting children to this film for 10 cents. He had 34 returns."

Champions!

VITAPHONE

and BOBBY JONES

Repeating the sensation of
"How I Play Golf" with his

NEW VITAPHONE 1-REEL SERIES OF 6

"HOW TO BREAK 90"

Doubling the feature draw in hundreds of houses... When you sell one ticket you've sold 6 — because they all come back to LAUGH AND LEARN from Bobby Jones

AND THESE GREAT STARS

(Two or more in every episode)

Joe E. Brown	Sheila Terry
Guy Kibbee	W. C. Fields
Glenda Farrell	Warner Oland
George Olsen	Otis Harlan
Ruth Donnelly	Regis Toomey

VITAGRAPH, INC., DISTRIBUTORS

THESE WARNER BROS. PICTURES AND VITAPHONE SHORTS MAKE

Perfect COMBIN

FOR WELL-R

Solve your booking problem now fo the next 10 weeks! Balance you budget with these balanced pro grams! Only Vitaphone has enoug talent resources to build up ever bill with big star names and mee

James Cagney
in "Picture Snatcher"*
(77 Min.)
AND Hal LeRoy and Mitzi Mayfair in "The Way of All Freshmen"
(2 Reels)

●

"Parades of Yesterday" with John Bunny and Flora Finch
(1 Reel)

Ruth Chatterton
in "Lilly Turner"†
(65 Min.)
AND Jack Haley
in "An Idle Roomer"
(2 Reels)

●

Waring's Pennsylvanians
Famous Radio Band
(1 Reel)

●

A Merrie Melodie
"Wake up the Gypsy in Me"
(1 Reel)

George Arliss
in "The Working Man"*
(77 Min.)
AND
"Rambling 'Round Radio Row"—No. 5
With Buddy Rogers—Uncle Don—Harry Rose—The 3 Keys
(1 Reel)

●

Ruth Etting
in "Along Came Ruth"
(2 Reels)

Edward G. Robinson in "The Little Giant"†
(75 Min.)
AND
Bobby Jones and Joe E. Brown in "How to Break 90"
Episode No. 1 (1 Reel)

●

"Fifi"—Condensed Version of "Mlle. Modiste"
With Bernice Claire and Charles Judels
(2 Reels)

FIRST IN STARS « « FIRST IN MUSIC

VITA

ATIONS

NDED SHOWS

today's tremendous demand for Music! . . . . You can't top these 10 ready-made shows, specially planned by experts for variety and sustained audience interest . . . . File them in your date book!

"The Silk Express"*
With 6-Star Cast
(Approx. 60 Min.)
AND

Fatty Arbuckle
in "How've You Bean"
(2 Reels)

●

"Sky Symphony"
With Col. Stoopnagle & Budd
Lanny Ross—Abbott Girls—
Loomis Twins
(2 Reels)

William Powell
in "Private Detective 62"*
(Approx. 75 Min.)
AND

"The Double-Crossing of Columbus"
With Charles Judels
and The Rollickers
(2 Reels)

●

Leon Belasco's Band
Famous Columbia Network
Feature
(1 Reel)

"Gold Diggers of 1933"
(Approx. 90 Min.)
AND

E. M. Newman's
World Adventures
"Workers of the World"
(1 Reel)

●

A Looney Tune
"Bosko's Knight Mare"
(1 Reel)

Richard Barthelmess in "Heroes for Sale"†
(Approx. 75 Min.)
AND

"20,000 Cheers For a Chain Gang"
Sumptuous Musical Burlesque
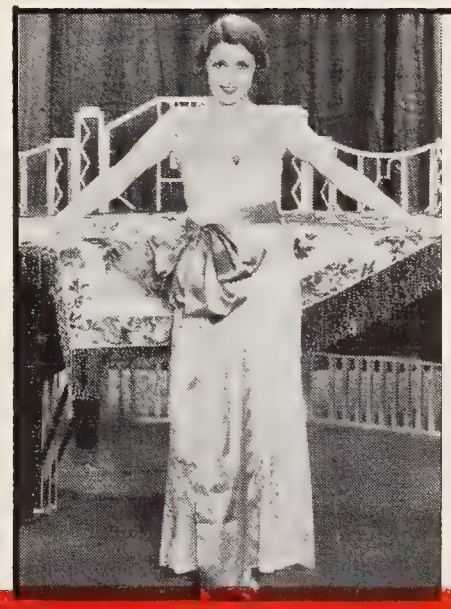
(2 Reels)



●

"Fisherman's Holiday"
Corking Novelty Deep-Sea
Thriller, with Dialogue by Frank McHugh
(1 Reel)

Doug. Fairbanks, Jr. and Loretta Young in "The Life of Jimmy Dolan"*
(89 Min.)
AND

"Rambling 'Round
Radio Row"—No. 6
With Pickens Sisters—
Paul Whiteman's
Rhythm Boys
Ann Leaf—Tito Guizar—
Frank Hazard
(1 Reel)

James Cagney
in "The Mayor of Hell"*
(Approx. 75 Min.)
AND

Ruth Etting
in "Crashing The Gate"
With Roy Atwell
(2 Reels)

●

Phil Emerton's Band
With Hannah Williams
(1 Reel)

MEETINGS

A calendar of events and meeting dates of exhibitor and production associations and other non-commercial organizations in the industry.

EAST

MAY

11—Associated Motion Picture Advertisers: Weekly luncheon and open forum, at Sardi's, West 44th Street, New York. President, Hal Horne; Secretary, Al Sherman.

Motion Picture Club and Associated Motion Picture Advertisers: Annual bridge tournament, at Motion Picture Club, 1560 Broadway, New York. AMPA President, Hal Horne; M. P. Club President, Lee A. Ochs.

14—Film Forum, Inc.: Regular meeting, at 66 West 12th Street, New York. President, Sidney Howard; Secretary, Margaret Larkin.

16—Allied Theatres of Michigan: Directors' meeting, at 607 Fox Building, Detroit. President, Glenn A. Cross; General Manager, H. M. Richey.

17—Allied Theatres of Illinois: Weekly directors' meeting, at 910 South Michigan Avenue, Chicago. President, Aaron A. Saperstein. Secretary, Harry H. Lasker.

18—Associated Motion Picture Advertisers: Weekly luncheon and open forum, at Sardi's, West 44th Street, New York. President, Hal Horne; Secretary, Al Sherman.

The Lambs: Monthly meeting of the council, at 130 West 44th Street, New York. Shepherd, Frank Crumit.

24—Allied Theatres of Illinois: Weekly directors' meeting, at 910 South Michigan Avenue, Chicago. President, Aaron A. Saperstein; Secretary, Harry H. Lasker.

25—Associated Motion Picture Advertisers: Weekly luncheon and open forum, at Sardi's, West 44th Street, New York. President, Hal Horne; Secretary, Al Sherman.

31—Allied Theatres of Illinois: Weekly directors' meeting, at 910 South Michigan Avenue, Chicago. President, Aaron A. Saperstein; Secretary, Harry H. Lasker.

JUNE

2—Actors' Equity Association: Annual meeting, two p.m., at Hotel Astor, New York.

3—Cincinnati Film Board of Trade: Annual Outing for relief fund, at Striker's Grove, Cincinnati

5—Motion Picture Projectionists Local of Chicago: Annual reception and ball, at Trianon Ballroom, Chicago. Business manager, Tom Maloy.

6-7—MPTA of Kansas and Missouri: Annual convention, at Kansas City, Mo. President, E. Van Hyning.

14—Motion Picture Producers and Distributors of America: Quarterly meeting, at 28 West 44th Street, New York. President, Will H. Hays; Secretary, Carl Milliken.

19—American Federation of Musicians: Annual convention, at Chicago. President, Joseph Weber.

20—Eastern Motion Picture Golf Tournament: Semi-annual tournament, at Rye Country Club, Westchester. Chairman, John Wilde Alicoate; Committee members, Maurice D. Kann, Don M. Mersereau, et al.

WEST

MAY

1—International Alliance of Theatre Stage Employees: Monthly meeting, at 6472 Santa Monica Boulevard, Hollywood. Lew C. G. Blix, business representative.

Motion Picture Make-up Artists Association: Weekly meeting of membership, at 1666 North Highland Avenue, Hollywood. President, Perc Westmore; Secretary, Jack Lloyd.

Assistant Directors and Script Clerks Association: Semi-monthly meeting of membership, at 1605 North Cahuenga Boulevard, Hollywood. Richard L'Estrange, executive.

2—Federated Motion Picture Studio Crafts: Weekly meeting, at 2560 North Beachwood Drive, Hollywood. President, Charles E. Lessing; Secretary, Richard L'Estrange.

The Wampas: Weekly meeting, at 6700 Sunset Boulevard, Hollywood. President, George Landy; Secretary, Sam W. B. Cohen.

Troupers, Inc.: Semi-monthly meeting, at 1642 El Centro Avenue, Hollywood. President, James Gordon; Secretary, Adabelle Driver.

Assistance League: Monthly meeting of executive committee, at 5604 DeLongpre Avenue, Hollywood. Managing director, Mrs. Lee Wray Turner.

International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers: Weekly meeting, at 5402 Hollywood Boulevard, Hollywood. President, H. D. Martin; Secretary, A. P. Speede.

Motion Picture Relief Fund: Monthly meeting, at 5481 Santa Monica Boulevard, Hollywood. Executive Secretary, F. X. Baur.

3—Breakfast Club: Weekly meeting, at 3213 Riverside Drive, Los Angeles. President, Carl Laemmle; Manager, Harold B. Link.

233 Club: Semi-monthly meeting, at 6735 Yucca Street, Hollywood. President, Otto K. Oleson; Secretary, Henry Otto.

Brotherhood of Studio Carpenters: Weekly meeting, at 6474 Santa Monica Boulevard, Hollywood. Business Representative, J. F. Kearns; Secretary, W. E. Sparks.

4—Independent Motion Picture Producers Association: Monthly meeting, at 6001 Santa Monica Boulevard, Hollywood. President, M. H. Hoffman; Secretary, Nat Levine.

8—Motion Picture Make-up Artists Association: Weekly meeting, at 1666 North Highland Avenue, Hollywood. President, Perc Westmore; Secretary, Jack Lloyd.

Masquers' Club: Semi-monthly meeting, at 1765 North Sycamore Avenue, Hollywood. President, Sam Hardy.

9—Federated Motion Picture Studio Crafts: Weekly meeting, at 2560 North Beachwood Drive, Hollywood. President, Charles E. Lessing; Secretary, Richard L'Estrange.

The Wampas: Weekly meeting, at 6700 Sunset Boulevard, Hollywood. President, George Landy; Secretary, Sam W. B. Cohen.

Independent Theatre Owners of Southern California: Semi-monthly meeting, at 1584 West Washington Boulevard, Los Angeles. President, G. A. Metzger.

Assistance League: Board of directors' meeting at 5604 DeLongpre Avenue, Hollywood. President, Hancock Banning.

9—International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers: Weekly meeting, at 5402 Hollywood Boulevard, Hollywood. President, H. D. Martin; Secretary, A. P. Speede.

10—Breakfast Club: Weekly meeting, at 3213 Riverside Drive, Los Angeles. President, Carl Laemmle; Manager, Harold B. Link.

Brotherhood of Studio Carpenters, Local 946: Weekly meeting, at 6474 Santa Monica Boulevard, Hollywood. Business Representative, J. F. Kearns; Secretary, W. E. Sparks.

15—Troupers, Inc.: Semi-monthly meeting, at 1642 El Centro Avenue, Hollywood. President, James Gordon; Secretary, Adabelle Driver.

Motion Picture Make-up Artists Association: Weekly meeting, at 1666 North Highland Avenue, Hollywood. President, Perc Westmore; Secretary, Jack Lloyd.

17—Assistant Directors and Script Clerks' Association: Semi-monthly meeting at 1605 North Cahuenga Boulevard, Hollywood. Richard L'Estrange, executive.

Breakfast Club: Weekly meeting, at 3213 Riverside Drive, Los Angeles. President, Carl Laemmle; Manager, Harold B. Link.

16—Federated Motion Picture Studio Crafts: Weekly meeting, at 2560 North Beachwood Drive, Hollywood. President, Charles E. Lessing; Secretary, Richard L'Estrange.

The Wampas: Weekly meeting, at 6700 Sunset Boulevard, Hollywood. President, George Landy; Secretary, Sam W. B. Cohen.

Assistance League: Board of directors' meeting, at 5604 DeLongpre Avenue, Hollywood. Managing director, Mrs. Lee Wray Turner.

International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers: Weekly meeting, at 5402 Hollywood Boulevard, Hollywood. President, H. D. Martin; Secretary, A. P. Speede.

18—United Scenic Artists of America, Local 235: Monthly meeting, at 2560 North Beachwood Drive, Hollywood. President, Charles E. Lessing; Vice-president, William B. Cullen.

22—Motion Picture Make-up Artists Association: Weekly meeting, at 1666 North Highland Avenue, Hollywood. President, Perc Westmore; Secretary, Jack Lloyd.

23—Federated Motion Picture Studio Crafts: Weekly meeting, at 2560 North Beachwood Drive, Hollywood. President, Charles E. Lessing; Secretary, Richard L'Estrange.

The Wampas: Weekly meeting, at 6700 Sunset Boulevard, Hollywood. President, George Landy; Secretary, Sam W. B. Cohen.

Independent Theatre Owners of Southern California: Semi-monthly meeting, at 1584 West Washington Boulevard, Los Angeles. President, G. A. Metzger.

Assistance League: Board of directors' meeting, at 5604 DeLongpre Avenue, Hollywood. Managing director, Mrs. Lee Wray Turner.

International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers: Weekly meeting, at 5402 Hollywood Boulevard, Hollywood. President, H. D. Martin; Secretary, A. P. Speede.

24—Breakfast Club: Weekly meeting, at 3213 Riverside Drive, Los Angeles. President, Carl Laemmle; Manager, Harold B. Link.

Brother of Studio Carpenters: Weekly meeting, at 6474 Santa Monica Boulevard, Hollywood. Business Representative, J. F. Kearns; Secretary, W. E. Sparks.

233 Club: Semi-monthly meeting, at 6735 Yucca Street, Hollywood. President H. D. Martin; Secretary, A. P. Speede.

Brotherhood of Studio Carpenters, Local 946: Weekly meeting, at 6474 Santa Monica Boulevard, Hollywood. Business Representative, J. F. Kearns; Secretary, W. E. Sparks.

PRODUCTIONS IN WORK

TITLE	WRITER AND DIRECTOR	CAST	STAGE OF PRODUCTION
FOX
"Man-Eater"	Story by James O. Spearing. Director: Clyde E. Elliott.	Marion Burns, Harry Woods, Kane Richmond.	Shooting
"I Loved You Wednesday"	Play by William DuBois. Director: Henry King.	Warner Baxter, Elissa Landi, Miriam Jordan, Laura Hope Crews, Victory Jory.	Shooting
"The Power and the Glory"	Story by Preston Sturges. Director: William K. Howard.	Spencer Tracy, Colleen Moore, Ralph Morgan, Helen Vinson, J. Farrell MacDonald.	Shooting
"Berkeley Square"	From the play by John Balderston. Director: Frank Lloyd.	Leslie Howard, Heather Angel, Irene Browne, Valerie Taylor, Juliette Compton, David Torrence.	Shooting
MASCOT
"I'll Be Hanged If I Do"	Screen play by Ford Beebe, Spencer Chaplin and Tom Dugan. Director: Ford Beebe.	Victor McLaglen, Regis Toomey, Conchita Montenegro, Ruth Hall, Ivan Lebedeff, Henry B. Walthall.	Shooting
METRO-GOLDWYN-MAYER
"Eskimo"	Original story by Peter Freuchen. Director: W. S. Van Dyke.	Native Cast.	Shooting
"Night Flight"	Story by Antoine de Saint Euxpery. Director: Clarence Brown.	John Barrymore, Clark Gable, Lionel Barrymore, Helen Hayes, Robert Montgomery, Mryna Loy, C. Henry Gordon, William Gargan.	Shooting
"He Was Her Man"	Story by Anita Loos and Howard Emmett Rogers. Director: Sam Wood.	Clark Gable, Jean Harlow, Dorothy Burgess, Stuart Erwin.	Shooting
"Lady of the Night"	Story by Anita Loos and John Emerson. Director: William Wellman.	Loretta Young, Ricardo Cortez, Franchot Tone, Warren Hymer, John Miljan, Una Merkel, Harold Huber, Robert Greig, Ivan Simpson, Sandy Roth, Martha Sleeper, Andy Devine.	Shooting
"Tugboat Annie"	Original stories by Norman Reilly Raine. Director: Mervyn LeRoy.	Marie Dressler, Wallace Beery, Robert Young, Maureen O'Sullivan.	Shooting
"Strange Rhapsody"	Story by Alexander Hunyady. Director: Richard Boleslavsky.	Nils Asther, Kay Francis, Walter Huston, Eugene Pallette, C. Henry Gordon, Phillips Holmes, Jean Parker, Louise Closser Hale.	Shooting
"Stranger's Return"	Story by Phil Strong. Director: King Vidor.	Lionel Barrymore, Miriam Hopkins, Stuart Erwin, Franchot Tone, Tad Alexander.	Shooting
MONOGRAM
"Fighting Texans"	Director: Armand Schafer.	Rex Bell, Betty Mack, Luana Walters.	Shooting
PARAMOUNT
"College Humor"	Story by Dean Fela's. Director: Wesley Ruggles.	Bing Crosby, Jack Oakie, Mary Carlisle, Burns & Allen.	Shooting
"Jennie Gerhardt"	Story by Theodore Dreiser. Director: Marion Gering.	Sylvia Sidney, Donald Cook, H. B. Warner, Cora Sue Collins, Edwin Arnold.	Shooting
"Gambling Ship"	Story by Peter Ruric. Directors: Louis Gasnier and Max Marcin.	Cary Grant, Benita Hume, Jack LaRue, Roscoe Karns, Arthur Vinton.	Shooting
"Disgraced"	Story by Alice D. G. Miller.	Helen Twelvetrees, Adrienne Ames, Bruce Cabot, Ken Murray.	Shooting
RKO-RADIO
"Bed of Roses"	Story by Wanda Tuchock. Director: Gregory LaCava.	Constance Bennett, John Halliday, Joel McCrea.	Shooting
"Purity Girl" (Tent.)	Story by Maurine Watkins. Director: William Seiter.	Norman Foster, Ginger Rogers, Gregory Ratoff, Zasu Pitts, Lucien Littlefield.	Shooting
"Flying Circus" (Tent.)	Story by Byron Morgan. Director: Russell Birdwell.	Arline Judge, Bruce Cabot, Eric Linden, Ralph Bellamy, Cliff Edwards, Mary Carr, Eddie Borden.	Shooting
"Jamboree"	Story by Ruth Rose. Director: Ernest Schoedsack.	Robert Armstrong, Helen Mack, Frank Reicher, John Marsden.	Shooting
"Morning Glory"	Screen play by Howard Green.	Katharine Hepburn, Douglas Fairbanks, Jr., Adolphe Menjou, Mary Duncan, C. Aubrey Smith.	Shooting
"The Public Be Sold"	Original story by Charles Curran and Rich Gaffney.	Richard Dix, Doris Kenyon, Allan Dinehart, Elizabeth Allen.	Shooting
WARNER BROS.
"Mary Stevens, M.D."	Story by Virginia Kellogg. Director: Lloyd Bacon.	Kay Francis, George Brent.	Shooting

UNIVERSAL'S SER

P

With GLORIA SHEA, William Desmond, Hugh Enfield, Col. Roscoe Turner, Le Roy Mason, Sidney Bracey. Story by Ella O'Neill. Directed by Ray Taylor. AN ADVENTURE SERIAL released by Universal.

12 SMASHING EPISODES

KULZ

IAL SUPREME!

Roaring planes plunging through the skies . . . A fearless 'flying fool' marked for death by the mystery men of the clouds . . . Thrill piled upon thrill as a baffling drama unfolds . . . Excitement every minute, with a SUPER SHIVER at the end of every episode, in this worthy successor to that other smash air serial given you by Universal — "The Airmail Mystery."

TOM TYLER in

HANTOM OF THE AIR

JENKINS' COLYUM

La Crosse, Wis.

DEAR HERALD:

Since traveling Wisconsin we learn that Uncle Carl Laemmle was right when he said that the return of beer would have its effect on the box offices. In fact, we find that Uncle Carl is pretty generally right on questions of importance.

When you are traveling Wisconsin and you feel the need of a little "prosperity" just stop at any place where you see the sign "Tavern" and go in and lay your ailments on the bar and the bartender will prescribe for you (he's never failed us yet). The law has banned the word "Saloon" and "Tavern" is substituted as a camouflage.

They get three and two per cent each day
Up here in old Wisconsin.
It makes the boys and girls feel gay
Up here in old Wisconsin.
When they hoist a schooner and blow the foam
It is then they get a yen to roam
And some don't want to ever go home
Up here in old Wisconsin.

▽

An open letter to Mrs. G. C. Moore of the American theatre at Harlowton, Mont.:

Dear Mrs. Moore:

In a recent issue of the HERALD you were quoted as saying "Jaysee was right." In quoting you Ernie didn't state just what you had reference to—he's so tight that way—and we are wondering just what you had in mind. It is so seldom we are right, that when we happen to be, and our attention is called to it publicly, it makes us swell up like a poisoned pup. We thank you for your good opinion of us and we wish there were more ladies who held to that same view. Pardon us for inviting ourself to call on you should we ever visit your state, but should your husband not approve of our action please advise us in advance, for we know those Montana guys and how quick they are on the trigger.

▽

R. S. Guiterman of the Capitol at Manitowoc was playing "The White Sister" at a matinee when we called. The theatre seats 1,450 people and it was jammed full 20 minutes before the time to start the show, the lobby was filled and they were backed clear down the street. This was due to two things, the popularity of the picture and the popularity of Mr. Guiterman. You combine two elements like that and it makes a monkey out of this depression. GOOD pictures and GOOD management is the answer.

C. L. Roser, manager of the Al Ringling theatre at Baraboo, confirms what thousands of theatremen have already told us, viz., that good pictures draw good business, but poor ones draw red ink.

R. W. Brose, manager of the Oshkosh at Oshkosh, is a hard working boy, but says it has been a long time since he has seen a rainbow in the sky, although he has been watching for it for some time. Hang on, R. W.; it is just over the hill.

I. J. Craite is still purveying entertainment at his Fort theatre for the customers of Ft. Atkinson. He says he has kicked so much for good pictures that he has developed corns on both feet.

▽

Oscar Bauman of the Classic theatre at Watertown was working like a beaver getting his stage ready for some home talent show when we called. Oscar took us over to a "tavern" (he always knows where there are taverns) and told us, on the quiet, that poor, insipid, salacious and sex pictures were responsible for poor business in his house. Oscar ought to know: he checks up the receipts.

W. M. Roob of the Grand at Port Washington has a cinch of it. He dispenses ice cream, pop, candy, lunches, cigarettes, chewing gum, "prosperity" and amusements under the same roof. You can't beat that combination, and it's pretty hard to beat W. M. Roob. We like that guy.

John Steenport of the Chilton theatre at Chilton and E. L. Berth of the Pastime theatre at Kiel put in seven days a week working at the theatre business. Both have very fine theatres and both stand 100 per cent in their communities, and that means success, if there is such a word in the dictionary.

Our old college chum, Louis Hassberg of the Majestic at Algoma, said he was glad we called, that he had overlooked sending in his renewal to the HERALD. We were glad we called, too. Mrs. Hassberg said we looked 10 years younger than when we were there before. Now isn't that just like these ladies?

▽

Frank Borchert still runs the Door theatre at Surgeon Bay. Frank had also overlooked his renewal. Sturgeon Bay is about as far north as one can go without getting his feet wet, for Lake Michigan is on one side and Green Bay on the other. This is the world's greatest cherry country. "Cherry Blossom Day" is an annual event and thousands of people go there to see the cherry blossoms.

The Columbus Community Club has opened the Columbus Club theatre at Green Bay and it is under the management of two of the Fathers of the Catholic church. We had a very delightful visit with them and they very readily saw the need of the HERALD to guide them in the selection and exploitation of pictures.

We were sorry to miss seeing our old friend, W. F. Copeland, of the Allen Amusement Company of Jefferson. Mr. Copeland had gone to Ft. Atkinson for treatment for some ailment when we called, but he mailed us a check for a renewal of his subscription to the HERALD, which indicates that he doesn't want to miss a single copy. Thanks, Mr. Copeland, we hope to see you next time.

H. J. Altschwager is the postmaster and manager of the Rudalt theatre at Columbus. It's a question which gets the most of his attention, but since the people of Columbus are not kicking on their postal service we take it for granted that he doesn't slight his post-office duties. We know the theatre is run all right, and we'll betcha the post office is, too.

▽

R. D. Hutchings manages the Home and Portage theatres at Portage for Mr. McWilliams of Madison. R. D. is a hustler and a hound for advertising, Portage always knowing when there is a show and what it is. That's what has put Portage on the map for amusements.

O. V. Kelley (No, he's not a Frenchman) operates the Badger theatre at Reedsburg. Reedsburg can be proud of her theatre and O. V. Kelley. We think she is.

August Burkholz is managing both theatres at West Bend. He also has two theatres at Two Rivers which are managed locally by O. V. Lloyd (no relation to Harold). August is a busy man, so is O. V., and business at both places show it.

A. A. Suszycki of the Gail theatre at Mauston tried to butt a street car off the track in Milwaukee recently with the result that they took Mrs. Suszycki to the hospital where they sewed up a pretty large gash in her forehead. No damage was reported to Mr. Suszycki nor the street car. They are both all right, and the Mrs. is now up and around. They are delightful folks. Mr. and Mrs. Frazie of the Rivoli here in La Crosse have just come to the hotel to have dinner with us. This will have to be all for now. We hope Ernie won't cut it.

COLONEL J. C. JENKINS,
The HERALD's Vagabond Colyumnist

WABASH AVENUE

CHICAGO

Two events last week kept many exhibitors and film folk from getting to bed early. One was the preview at Al Steffes' new World playhouse and the other was the party staged by Ludwig Sussman at the Adelphi on the occasion of his having installed the new Western Electric wide range sound system. After the demonstration and a showing of Mickey Mouse in "Noah's Ark" and Joe E. Brown in "Elmer the Great" Mr. Sussman regaled his 500 or more guests with 3.2 beer and hot dog sandwiches.

▽

Joseph Jensen, who is president of the Ambassador theatre, has taken over the Vicks at Belmont & Sheffield. Jensen has done a fine job of putting the house in first class shape and has started out nicely under a policy of 10 cents weekdays and 15 cents Sunday.

▽

Jack Thoma, divisional publicity director for Columbia, is off on an extensive exploitation trip through the Middlewest.

▽

Tom Chamales and Thomas Valos have run their theatre holdings in Illinois and Indiana up to eight, the latest acquisition being the 1,800-seat Fond du Lac theatre formerly operated by Fox Midwesco. The house was leased through Albert Goldman. S. J. Gregory will manage it.

▽

Jim Collins, who is well known along the row as an old time exhibitor, has opened the Shamrock Inn at Roosevelt road and 13th street, Maywood.

▽

Burton W. Depue, secretary of the Chicago section of the Society of Motion Picture Engineers, announces that the final meeting of the season was to be held at the Electric Association May 11.

▽

With Ed Lowry conducting stage shows at the Avalon for Warners, the B. & K. Marbro has also gone back to the stage show policy, Mark Fisher being at the helm.

▽

Some fifty exhibitors and distributors inaugurated the first of a series of golf tournaments at Medinah Country Club May 10. The affair is to be held regularly twice each month during the summer. Jack Miller started the ball rolling.

▽

Aaron Jones inaugurates pictures at Orchestra Hall beginning June 1 and extending to October 1, during which time films only will occupy the music house.

▽

The move of Aaron Saperstein in protesting against the present high power rates has been acknowledged by the Illinois Commerce Commission with the information that the commission has issued citations against 27 public utilities in the state and that the theatre owners' representation will be given careful consideration.

HOLQUIST

Flick Leaves Screenart

John Michael Flick is forming a new association following resignation as treasurer of Screenart Pictures, Inc., after bringing up to date the picture "The Silent Enemy" with narrative and re-editing.

Gets W. E. Equipment

Western Electric wide range recording equipment has been installed in Eastern Sound Studios, New York.

Educational Pictures

Consistently, year after year, Educational Pictures have delivered the cream of the short subjects crop. Through long experience, thousands of exhibitors are relying on Educational for the best entertainment—now, and for the next season, too.

NOW, MORE THAN EVER, THE SPICE OF THE PROGRAM

ANDY CLYDE COMEDIES

•

MERMAID COMEDIES

•

MORAN & MACK COMEDIES

•

TORCHY COMEDIES

•

VANITY COMEDIES

TERRY-TOONS

•

BABY BURLESKS

•

TOM HOWARD COMEDIES

•

SPIRIT OF THE CAMPUS
with Reinald Werrenrath

•

BATTLE FOR LIFE

•

CAMERA ADVENTURES

•

BRAY'S NATURGRAPHS

•

Lyman H. Howe's HODGE-PODGE

•

Kendall-deVally OPERALOGUES

•

DO YOU REMEMBER?

•

KRAKATOA
3-reel special

•

BROADWAY GOSSIP

DISTRIBUTED IN U. S. A. BY FOX FILM CORPORATION

How Public Leaders View Double Feature Showings

Here are nineteen typical replies from leaders of the public to the Motion Picture Producers and Distributors of America questionnaire on single bills versus doubles. They were selected at random from replies forwarded from thirty states and Canada, and indicate how widespread the public opinion is against double bills.

I favor one good feature supplemented by news reels, scientific reels, exploration, etc. High school students would vote "yes" on this. —J. W. Hanson, Principal, Roseville Union High School, Roseville, Cal.

▽

With a double feature, it is tiring.—Mrs. H. R. Zurck, Red Wing, Minn.

▽

Double features are exhausting. Both pictures seldom please the same person.—Mrs. Blake D. Mills, Seattle, Wash.

▽

With two pictures the mind is not refreshed, it is cluttered.—Elizabeth Watson, Columbus, Ohio.

▽

It is not wise to see two major productions at once. It leaves a confused impression.—Harry S. Myers, New York.

▽

I would rather see one or two good pictures a week than three to five program pictures.—H. E. Rehfield, Bloomfield, Iowa.

▽

Seeing two is like trying to read two books at once, you fail to enjoy either one.—Beatrice Swallow, Cambridge City, Ind.

▽

Double features are objectionable to families who try to pick a "family picture."—Robt. M. Mount, Portland, Ore., Chairman, Portland Censor Board.

▽

I do not like to sit through a picture that bores me in order to see one I want to see.—E. Jennie McNeal, City Librarian, Lansing, Mich.

▽

A double bill is too much of a strain and most undesirable.—J. W. Gerretson, Green Bay, Wis.

It is very hard to find two double features where you have not seen one picture already. —Mrs. Chas. Elson, Rogers Park, Ill.

▽

I have spoken to several club women and each one has said double features are not relaxing.—Mrs. Joseph Friend, ex-Pres., National Council of Jewish Women, New Orleans, La.

▽

One good feature picture, a short comedy, a short travel or educational film and the newsreel gives to my way of thinking a properly balanced program.—Grace Morrison Poole, president, General Federation of Women's Clubs, Washington, D. C.

▽

The policy of one feature picture would eliminate those pictures which never should have been made in the first place.—Mrs. Howard S. Shepard, Chairman, Better Films Council, Worcester, Mass.

▽

Too long a performance spoils the object for which it was intended.—M. Dalema Draper, Milford, Del.

▽

It is too great a strain on the spectator to enter fully into two pictures.—M. Edwards, Kingston, Canada.

▽

One feature picture with clean short fillers is all they want at one time.—Mrs. Meade A. Love, Quincy, Florida.

▽

A program not over two hours in length is what our people want.—Mrs. Carl Judge, state chairman for Better Films, Denver, Colorado.

▽

One good feature with newsreel and a good short is the program generally preferred here. —Mrs. W. H. Richardson, Brattleboro, Vermont.

LOU BROCK

ASSOCIATE PRODUCER

RKO-RADIO PICTURES

●

PRODUCED

"So This Is Harris" and Other

Class Shorts and Features

NEWS PICTURES

FOX MOVIETONE NEWS—No. 65—New York welcomes sea queen—Auto daredevils risk necks at Reading, Pa.—Mrs. Roosevelt marks Child Health Day—Roosevelt praised by foreign envoys—Howe, Roosevelt secretary, reveals president's aims.

FOX MOVIETONE NEWS—No. 66—Storm again hits South — Apple blossoms bloom in Dixie — Woman directs money making—More nations send envoys to White House—Joan of Arc in Chinese war—King George honors regiment.

HEARST METROTONE NEWS—No. 264—Roosevelt parley brings new envoys—82 perish as storm sweeps South — Woman boss for U. S. mint — Japanese youngsters cheer wounded—Turf fans at Pimlico opening—Cuban troops on guard.

HEARST METROTONE NEWS—No. 265—Roosevelt addresses nation on economy—Yale beats Penn at Derby regatta by split second—Desert riders give Riviera a thrill—Kidnapers caught; child and $60,000 ransom recovered—Broker's Tip wins Kentucky Derby.

PARAMOUNT NEWS—No. 79—King George honors ancient regiment—Attorney general warns racketeers menacing 3.2 beer—U. S. May Day quiet—Moscow exiles hailed in London—Flashes from everywhere.

PARAMOUNT NEWS—No. 80—Three thousand tons of beef on the hoof in Texas—Roosevelt addresses the nation—Broker's Tip wins Kentucky Derby—Kidnapers of McMath child face 25 years—Young English singer cheers aged London artists.

PATHE NEWS—No. 80—Troops act in Midwest farm revolt—New sea queen welcomed to New York—Herriot bids U. S. good-bye—New device permits motors to burn fuel oil—Track stars shine at Penn Relays—News flashes.

PATHE NEWS—No. 81—Demonstrates how to escape from sunken submarine at New London, Conn.—Tornado strikes at Sheveport, La.—Greta Garbo arrives at San Diego, Cal.—New speed boat tested at Portland, Ore.—Youngster prints own newspaper at Homeville, Pa.—College crews in practice on Lake Waban, Mass.

UNIVERSAL NEWSPAPER NEWSREEL—No. 142—Many killed in Southern tornado—Throngs see queer pageant in Switzerland—Models for cities made for World's Fair—Royalty watches English soccer final—Washington state sheep yield record wool.

UNIVERSAL NEWSPAPER NEWSREEL—No. 143 President speaks to nation—Eli crew victors in Derby, Conn., regatta—Lindy forced down by storm —McMath kidnaping solved by police—Wingless plane amazes experts in London—Outsider wins Kentucky Derby.

1,000 Shorts for The New Season

(Continued from page 34)

diversified lineup of eight series of single features and cartoon subjects and two groups of two-reel productions.

Paramount will produce approximately 125 short subjects in 1933-34, exclusive of newsreels.

Fox plans 52 shorts: two new series of 13 each and 26 "Magic Carpet of Movietone."

Eighteen Mickey Mouses and 11 Silly Symphonies were planned by United Artists for current release and probably the same number will prevail in 1933-34.

Universal is delivering 99 shorts currently and plans the same number for the new season, exclusive of newsreels. This number is said to include the serial program, not yet definitely set.

RKO Radio planned 94 shorts, including 42 comedies and 52 single reels, currently, plus three serials, and will produce the same number, with the exception of the serials, in 1933-34. This is exclusive of newsreels.

Warner planned 120 for this season and probably will produce as many, if not more, next year.

Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer planned 89 short subjects for 1932-33 and will release the same number in the new season, in addition to release of Hearst Metrotone News.

An alphabetical listing of all distributors of short subjects, on page 39, shows in specific detail, as far as possible, the exact status of short subject productions and distribution, currently and for 1933-34.

"TREMENDOUS SENSATION"

The big short subject hit of the year!

KRAKATOA

World Telegram (New York)

Sleeping Volcano Stirs

Picture at the Translux Thrills with Interest in Great Natural Phenomenon..

By WILLIAM BOEHNEL.

IF you are in search of a really thrilling and fascinating little picture, then I advise you to hasten over to the Translux Theatre, on Broadway, between 49th and 50th Sts., where a short subject called "Krakatoa" is now on display.

Every now and then one of these little pictures steals quietly and unobtrusively into town—mostly into smaller theatres, where you would never expect to see it—and where it goes entertainingly on its way with little or no ballyhoo except some word-of-mouth praise—and which, in the long run, is the only real praise—to give it the credit it deserves, while countless so-called features are publicized to the sky.

A Terrific Spasm of Nature.

Fortunately, in these rare cases the word-of-mouth praise is so persistent and so effective that sooner or later you get around to seeing these films and then you begin to wonder why in the world you didn't have the sense to catch them sooner.

Just such a picture is this "Krakatoa," which takes its name from a famous volcano situated on a little island—the island is one of four which at one time were one—in Sunda Strait, between Sumatra and Java.

Away back in 1883, during the month of August, Krakatoa, one of the volcanoes on this island, began to growl threateningly, and before the day had ended had erupted four times, making out of one small island four smaller ones.

So terrific were the explosions that they were heard as far away as Ceylon and the Philippine Islands. Not only that, but for months to come the atmospheric conditions around the world were affected by the eruptions. Late that day, when the eruptions had subsided, Krakatoa had disappeared below the surface.

Packs Minutes with Interest.

The government of Holland sent skilled scientists to observe conditions on the islands recently, and they were fortunate in getting the pictures of this substerranean crater, which once again began to growl, in action, and which make up the fascinating scenes in this picture, called "Krakatoa."

The picture does not run at very great length, lasting not more than twenty minutes, but it is packed from beginning to end with interesting material, interestingly presented.

"KRAKATOA was a tremendous sensation at the Trans-Lux; it did 25 per cent over average business."

Berner Rybak, Manager Trans-Lux Theatre, N.Y.

An Amazing Picture
Los Angeles Record

Magnificent, awe-inspiring and spectacular
Film Daily

It's first page news NOW. Second eruption this year again blazons name KRAKATOA across the world.

True to Type
—By GILBERT SELDES—

"Krakatoa."

The smart and sophisticated people may still be running to obscure night clubs, or even more obscure theatres, for their entertainment, but word is getting around that one of the grandest shows in the world is to be seen in the neighborhood movie houses. It is called "Krakatoa," and the wise exhibitors are putting its name in electric lights, no matter what feature film they are showing.

N. Y. Eve. Journal, Chicago American, Nation-Wide Syndicate

Distributed in U.S.A. by FOX FILM CORPORATION

Educational Pictures
"THE SPICE OF THE PROGRAM"

TRAVELERS . . .

Members of the Goldwyn-United Artists staff who returned during the week to Hollywood included: Sam Goldwyn; Edwin Justus Mayer, scenarist; Leo Birensky, writer, Arthur Hornblow, Jr., executive; Frank Tuttle, who will direct Cantor's next, and Eddie Cantor. They did not travel together on the return trip.

Victor McLaglen sailed for London to appear in a feature.

Sophie Tucker is in Chicago appearing at a night club.

Milton Blumberg is vacationing at Atlantic City.

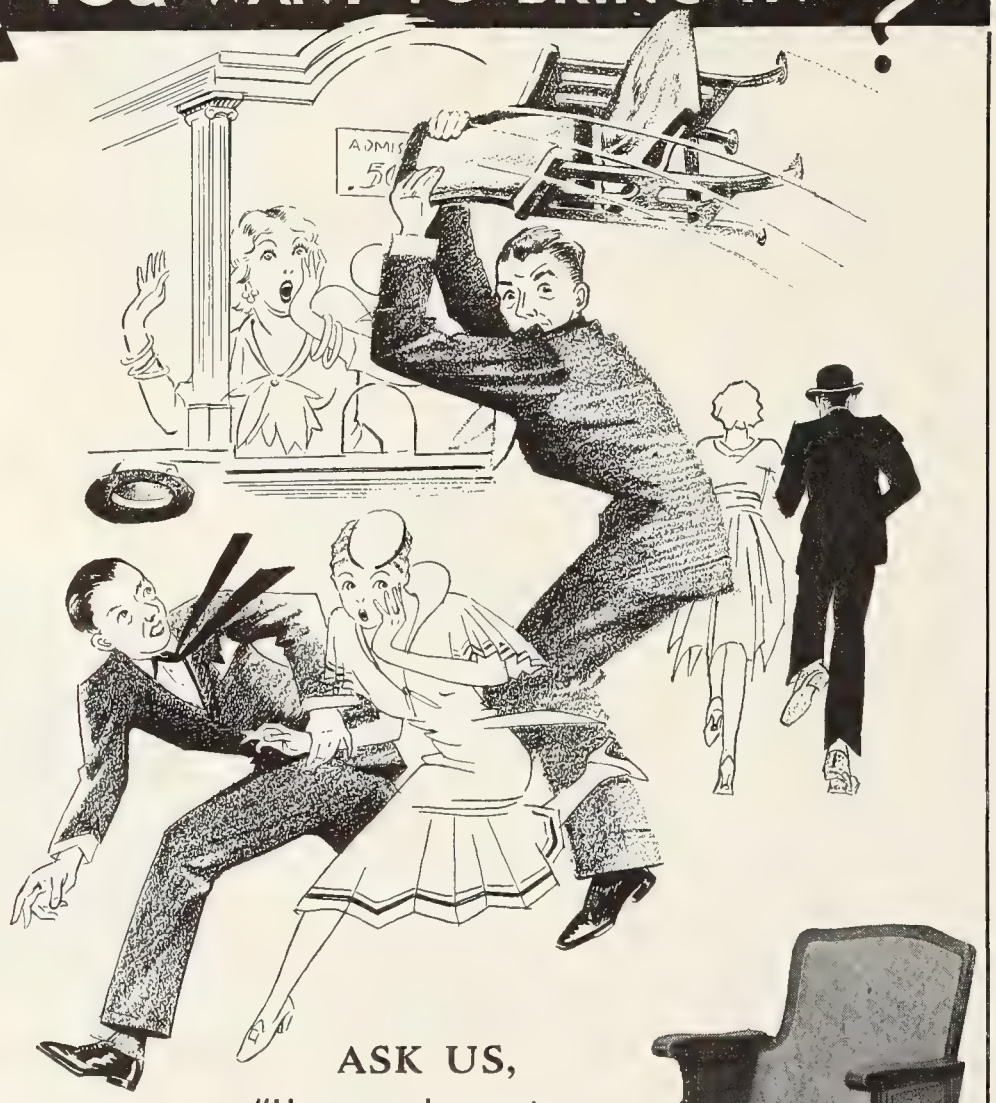
Pat Garyn is due in New York from Florida and Washington.

Margaret Sullivan, stage player, left New York for Universal City to appear in "Only Yesterday."

Martin Beck, RKO vaudeville head, was due in New York from Europe.

Henriette Crosman, Fox player, arrived in New York from Movietone City.

Dudley Murphy, director, arrived in Georgia to discuss treatment of "Emperor Jones" with Eugene O'Neill.



Albertina Rasch left New York for Hollywood to stage dances for MGM's "Hollywood Revue."

Tom Bailey, Hollywood publicity director for Paramount, is expected in New York.

George Bilson was due in New York from Warner studio.

Howard Hughes returned to Hollywood from New York.

ARE YOU DRIVING AWAY THE TRADE YOU WANT TO BRING IN ?

ASK US,
"How can I reseat my theatre economically?"

● Community patronage can be regained and retained by many theatres if owners will provide comfort and ease for audiences while seated.

American Seating Company

Makers of Dependable Seating for Theatres and Auditoriums

General Offices: Grand Rapids, Michigan

BRANCHES IN ALL PRINCIPAL CITIES

Howard Dietz, Metro's advertising director, left New York for Culver City.

Will Rogers returned to Hollywood from New York.

Claire Dodd, Warner player, was due in New York, en route to Europe.

Thomas A. Branon, of Eltabran Film, Atlanta; Jerry Abrams, of Abrams Exchange, Chicago; Nat Lefton, Monogram Exchange, Cleveland, returned from New York after conferences with John Freuler, who later left New York for Hollywood.

William D. Shapiro, Herman Gluckman and Arthur Lee returned to New York from Maine.

Edward G. Robinson, Warners' star, returned to Hollywood from New York.

Sidney Franklin, MGM director, arrived in New York from Culver City.

John Hamrick, Seattle theatre owner, returned from New York.

Sally Blane arrived in New York from the coast and left immediately for Europe.

Maurice Chevalier and Leo Berenshi traveled to Hollywood from New York.

George Thomas, studio publicity chief for Warners, and Max Arnow, casting director, left New York for coast.

Peter Milne, scenarist, left New York to join Warner staff in Hollywood.

Dick Powell arrived in New York from coast and left for New Orleans for personal appearances.

Marc Connelly left New York to join Paramount writing staff on coast.

Howard Smith, scenario editor for 20th Century Pictures, arrived in New York from coast to buy material.

Stan Laurel, Metro star, left for Vancouver for fishing.

Bill Scully, Metro sales executive, returned to New York from southern exchange tour.

Bob Wolff, RKO salesmanager in New York, returned from Bermuda.

James R. Grainger sailed for Europe after settling his contract as Fox distribution official.

Al Lewis, Paramount producer, left Hollywood for Honolulu.

Douglas Fairbanks left New York for Hollywood.

Jack Curtis, of Curtis and Allen, returned to New York from coast.

Bette Davis, Warner star, returned to New York from Massachusetts.

Joan Blondell arrived in Washington from Hollywood for stage appearance.

Roy Del Ruth arrived in Hollywood from New York to direct for Columbia.

Charles R. Rogers, Paramount producer, returned to Hollywood from New York.

Benjamin Glazer, associate producer for Paramount, arrived in New York by plane from Havana and leaves for Coast Sunday.

Gene Fowler, Paramount writer, and Norman Taurog, director, arrived in New York from Los Angeles. Mr. Taurog returns Sunday.

J. H. Skirball, Educational sales manager, was on a tour of key cities.

Charles Delac, French producer, returned to France after conferences with Will H. Hays.

Edmund Goulding returned to coast from New York.

Richard Barthelmess and his wife will arrive in New York May 16 from California, aboard the Santa Elena of the Grace Line.

Jack Conway, director, arrived in Hollywood from New York.

Handling Jewish Film Series

William Goldberg, onetime exhibitor and producer of "Yiskor," Jewish feature picture, has organized William Goldberg Productions for the making of a series of features on Jewish stories for state rights releases. Offices will be in the Film Center Building, 630 Ninth avenue, New York. The first picture, with dialogue in English, is "Victims of Persecution," with Mitchell Harris, Betty Hamilton, Shirling Oliver, John Willard.

WHAT THE PICTURE DID FOR ME

IN this, the exhibitor's own department, the theatremen of the nation serve one another with information on the box office performance of product for their mutual benefit. It is a service of the exhibitor for the exhibitor. Address all communications to—

What the Picture Did for Me
MOTION PICTURE HERALD
1790 Broadway, New York

Allied

COWBOY COUNSELLOR: Hoot Gibson—A yarn of a cowboy traveling salesman with Hoot Gibson behind the books trying his hand at the familiar game, and coming through in grand style. Forced to act as a counsellor for an unfortunate girl's brother, knowing nothing about law but what the book he is selling contains, Hoot wins the case after some tense comedy situations and everything is hunky dory with the girl, books and baggage. Picture is a trifle slow compared with the general run of westerns due to excessive use of dialogue at the expense of action. Situations produce a number of laughs which in turn brings up the picture value lost by lack of action back to standard level. Hoot has a strong personal following and fans will not complain. "Nuff sed" on this one . Played Apr. 21-22, running time, 62 minutes.—William Dabb, Lyric Theatre, Shennandoah, Pa. General and small town patronage.

BOILING POINT: Hoot Gibson—About an average western. This has some kind of trick recording with a sound track about 1/32nd inch wide. Sound is not natural and volume is not uniform.—Gerald Stettmund, H. & S. Theatre, Chandler, Okla. Small town patronage.

Chesterfield

FORBIDDEN COMPANY: Sally Blane, John Darrow—Although the theme is a familiar occurrence, the picture emanates as a pleasing and entertaining drama. The first scenes are laid in a receiving hospital, through the medium of an accident, with Sally Blane as the one concerned, John Darrow as the responsibility, and is the starting of the infatuation. John St. Polis as the determined father interrupting the procedure, not wishing to have a notorious model in a well-to-do family, with Myrtle Stedman as the sympathetic mother intervening. Climaxed by a fatal accident to mother, which required an immediate blood transfusion, Sally gives the necessary requirement, lovers are reunited where they started, and all is well that ends well. Josephine Dunn, with her wisecracking antics, supplies much merriment which brightens up things considerably. Darrow and Blane do remarkable work together and predict that in the future releases this couple will attain considerably more success as their screen work progresses. Richard Thorp renders his best direction to date. Picture is an adult affair. Played Apr. 24-25. Running time, 64 minutes.—William Dabb, Lyric Theatre, Shenandoah, Pa. General and small town patronage.

Columbia

AS THE DEVIL COMMANDS: Neil Hamilton, Mae Clarke—Good program picture for Saturday. Played Apr. 8.—Mrs. Edith M. Fordyce, Princess Theatre, Selma, La. General patronage.

BITTER TEA OF GENERAL YEN: Nils Asther, Barbara Stanwyck—I advertised this to the sky, and was rewarded with a nice Sunday and Monday crowd, the first I have had since before the bank holiday. I can't say that the picture pleased 100%. Few pictures do. But it was well liked by the majority. In my estimation it is the finest picture we have played this 1932-33 season. It is produced on an elaborate scale, and every foot of film is real entertainment. Play it on your best days. If you raise your admission price, this is the one to do it on. Columbia certainly has the pictures this year, and they have helped the exhibitor by furnishing free trailer and one-sheets on some of the specials. I am for Columbia. Played Mar. 26-27.—Edith M. Fordyce, Princess Theatre, Selma, La. General patronage.

CHILD OF MANHATTAN: Nancy Carroll, John Boles—I was astonished at the drawing power of this picture. Personally, I was disappointed in the picture, but everybody seemed to like it, and it certainly rang the bell at the box office. I used the trailer. Played Apr. 18-19.—Mrs. Edith M. Fordyce, Princess Theatre, Selma, La. General patronage.

MAN AGAINST WOMAN: Jack Holt—Good Saturday night picture. Played Mar. 23-24.—Edith M. Fordyce, Princess Theatre, Selma, La. General patronage.

NO MORE ORCHIDS: Carole Lombard—A fine picture for any theatre. The men patrons will not fall for it as the women do, but they all will like it. Played Apr. 15-16.—L. F. Bonaventura, Brown's Grand Theatre, Nashwauk, Minn. Small town patronage.

NO MORE ORCHIDS: Carole Lombard—Business very poor. In fact, the lowest that we have done in weeks. Personally would only consider it just a fair program picture. Played Apr. 8-9.—M. F. Bodwell, Paramount Theatre, Wyoming, Ill. Rural patronage.

PAROLE GIRL: Mae Clarke, Ralph Bellamy—Splendid program picture that pleased. Columbia has certainly delivered the goods this year. I have not played a poor one yet. Played Apr. 13-14.—(Mrs.) Edith M. Fordyce, Princess Theatre, Selma, La. General patronage.

PAROLE GIRL: Mae Clark, Ralph Bellamy—Good program picture.—R. V. Fletcher, Lyric Theatre, Hartington, Neb. General patronage.

SOLDIERS OF THE STORM: Regis Toomey, Anita Page—Good program picture.—R. V. Fletcher, Lyric Theatre, Hartington, Neb. General patronage.

SO THIS IS AFRICA: Wheeler and Woolsey—If you can get by the "blue-noses," grab this one. One of the best nights we have had in a long time. The public has already "smelled" this one, and it will get you plenty biz. Go after it.—L. A. Mercier, Electric Theatre, Perryville, Mo. Small town patronage.

SO THIS IS AFRICA: Wheeler and Woolsey—If your patrons like them smutty they will like this one. I'm not a prude, but this was just too raw. I didn't let my own children see it.—C. M. Hartman, Liberty Theatre, Carnegie, Okla. Small town patronage.

SO THIS IS AFRICA: Wheeler and Woolsey—Too raw.—R. V. Fletcher, Lyric Theatre, Hartington, Neb. General patronage.

SO THIS IS AFRICA: Wheeler and Woolsey—Very funny and rather hot. It gets the crowd, but it should never have been made.—E. N. Collins, Star Theatre, Humble, Texas. General patronage.

STATE TROOPER: Regis Toomey, Evalyn Knapp—Good program picture.—R. V. Fletcher, Lyric Theatre, Hartington, Neb. General patronage.

First National

CABIN IN THE COTTON: Richard Barthelmess—Very good. It drew well and pleased. Rather long, but I heard no complaint about that. Played Apr. 9-10.—Mrs. Edith M. Fordyce, Princess Theatre, Selma, La. General patronage.

CENTRAL AIRPORT: Richard Barthelmess, Sally Eilers, Tom Brown—Another dandy from First National. You have two good stars in this one. Played in middle of week to better than average biz. Good airplane stuff, and a good story. Tom Brown seems to be miscast, but it is still a good picture.—L. A. Mercier, Electric Theatre, Perryville, Mo. Small town patronage.

ELMER THE GREAT: Joe E. Brown, Patricia Ellis—A sparkling and hilariously funny baseball yarn with that sensitive, wide open mouth of Joe E. Brown amidst the battery delivering home run entertainment and handing out laughs that literally knocked the audience in the aisles with his funny antics. Some observers laughed so hard that most of the gags were blotted out. Brown was all over the place getting laughs at every turn and guaranteed to bring down the house. All he had to do was to step into the picture, make a face and the audience went into hysterics. Meanwhile the film contains nonsensical comedy at which even a sophisticated audience will giggle, and as for the kids, it's right down their alley. Patricia Ellis, a new recruit to the talking screen, vivacious and as pretty as they pattern them, does a remarkable piece of work for her initial screen appearance and is slated for bigger and better doings in the future. Claire Dodd again proves that she is one of the foremost feminine performers of her type despite the small role she portrays. Frank McHugh and an exceptionally fine supporting cast including 35 big league stars, emphasize the production. Expert attention of the director, Mervyn Le Roy, makes laugh follow laugh. Adequate photography under the capable direction of Arthur Todd. With Brown's name plus sparkling comedy this picture is plenty attraction for exhibitors. First National has made a picture that just can't help clicking and if kept at this pace will leave all opposition behind. Play it and see Joe E. Brown's mouth swallow the grinning face of old man depression from view. Business good. Played Apr. 30-May 1-2-3. Running time, 73 minutes.—William Dabb, Lyric Theatre, Shenandoah, Pa. General and small town patronage.

EMPLOYEES' ENTRANCE: Warren William, Loretta Young—A good program picture, which I did not like very well, but my patrons seemed to like it, which is all I care about. Warren William does some fine acting in an unpopular role and Loretta Young is always good. Played Apr. 22-23, Gladys E. McArdle, Owl Theatre, Lebanon, Kan. Small town patronage.

THE MATCH KING: Warren William, Lili Damita—This is another mistake. Well produced, well acted, but has no appeal and I guess it should have been run immediately on release date and caught the newsreel appeal of the Match King's death. At least, people didn't come to see it and weren't particularly entertained when they did, so I am "agin" it.—Charles Lee Hyde, Grand Theatre, Pierre, S. D. Small town patronage.

THEY CALL IT SIN: Loretta Young—Excellent picture. It drew well, due to the trailer advertising, and pleased almost 100%. Played Apr. 4-5.—Mrs. Edith M. Fordyce, Princess Theatre, Selma, La. General patronage.

20,000 YEARS IN SING SING: Bette Davis, Spencer Tracy—This is a good picture, but has nothing like the draw nor entertaining power that "I Am a Fugitive From a Chain Gang" has. Fact that the author was a real character does not add interest nor heart appeal to the picture as in the former case.—Charles Lee Hyde, Grand Theatre, Pierre, S. D. General patronage.

YOU SAID A MOUTHFUL: Joe E. Brown—Very good, and it drew well. Be sure to use the trailer on this one. Played Apr. 6-7.—Mrs. Edith M. Fordyce, Princess Theatre, Selma, La. General patronage.

Fox

BROADWAY BAD: Joan Blondell, Ricardo Cortez—Just another picture. Not bad, not good. Blondell is O. K. in small parts, but when she stars it is just too bad. However, she does do better than she did in "Blondie Johnson."—L. A. Mercier, Electric Theatre, Perryville, Mo. Small town patronage.

BROADWAY BAD: Joan Blondell, Ricardo Cortez—Another fair little picture that didn't bring them out. Played Apr. 23-24.—Elaine S. Furlong, Star Theatre, Heppner, Ore. Small town patronage.

CALL HER SAVAGE: Clara Bow—Seemed to please. Drew average business. Good entertainment. Played Apr. 16-17-18. Running time, 88 minutes.—Mrs. P. J. Zorn, Hippodrome Theatre, Julesburg, Colo. General patronage.

CAVALCADE: Clive Brook, Diana Wynward—In spite of what Harrison and the other critics say, this picture has no box office. Like "Journey's End," it deals with Englishmen and England and has not the slightest interest to the ordinary American. The English accent makes it very difficult to understand and the recording seems extremely poor. We paid a big price for this and advertised it heavily, but I can say it did not please a single person and business was way off. If your patrons like lots of English talk that they can't understand and a story that has absolutely no plot, simply the life of a family and not a very happy one, buy it. If they like red-blooded, everyday romances this will be poison to you.—E. N. Collins, Star Theatre, Humble, Texas. General patronage.

CHANDU, THE MAGICIAN: Edmund Lowe—Picture drew well and gave general satisfaction. Radio broadcast helped. Played Feb. 27-28. Running time, 78 minutes.—C. A. Jordan, Opera House, Cogswell, N. D. Small town patronage.

CONGORILLA: (Taken by Mr. and Mrs. Martin Johnson)—Best picture of its kind we have run. School helped business. Played Mar. 6-7. Running time, 70 minutes.—C. A. Jordan, Opera House, Cogswell, N. D. Small town patronage.

THE FACE IN THE SKY: Spencer Tracy, Marion Nixon, Stuart Erwin—This turned out to be a better picture than we expected. Many good comments on this one. Played Apr. 13-14-15. Running time, 77 minutes.—Mrs. P. J. Zorn, Hippodrome Theatre, Julesburg, Colo. General patronage.

HOT PEPPER: Victor McLaglen, Edmund Lowe, Lupe Velez—Too hot for small towns. We got by with it, but there is no excuse for parts of this picture. A certain class like it, but it is not the class that will keep you in business. Played Apr. 10.—Thomas E. Orr, Liberty Theatre, Attalla, Ala. Small town patronage.

HUMANITY: All star—This is a great entertainment. Star and cast fine. Story extra good. Will please any audience.—Bert Silver, Silver Family Theatre, Greenville, Mich. Town and country patronage.

HUMANITY: Boots Mallory, Alexander Kirkland, Ralph Morgan—A fair program picture. Ralph Morgan steals the show in this one. Might stress the fact that it is the story of a doctor and his son.—L. A. Mercier, Electric Theatre, Perryville, Mo. Small town patronage.

HUMANITY: Boots Mallory, Alexander Kirkland—Just fair. Can't give it much although it will get by. —E. N. Collins, Star Theatre, Humble, Texas. General patronage.

INFERNAL MACHINE: Chester Morris, Genevieve Tobin—Here is a fine example of what's keeping the small town theatre in the "red." If the Fox people think that theatre patrons will continue paying admission to theatres after seeing this mess, they don't know show business. When they pick the worst picture ever made, they will certainly have to consider the masterpiece made by the mighty Fox studio. If you must run it, put it on when you know you will not have any business. Played Apr. 25. Running time, 66 minutes.—Steve Farrer, Orpheum Theatre, Harrisburg, Ill. Small city patronage.

INFERNAL MACHINE: Chester Morris, Genevieve Tobin—While it had merits, "Infernal Machine" failed to draw. It was liked by the few who saw it. Played Apr. 18-19-20.—Elaine S. Furlong, Star Theatre, Heppner, Ore. Small town patronage.

ME AND MY GAL: Spencer Tracy, Joan Bennett —Splendid program picture that is different. Did not draw well but it pleased. Contains some off-screen dialogue a la "Strange Interlude" which was brought in very cleverly. Played Mar. 28-29.—Mrs. Edith M. Fordyce, Princess Theatre, Selma, La. General patronage.

RACKETY RAX: Victor McLaglen—Called a special, but far from it. Second night business fell off. Women not interested and stayed at home. Played Apr. 7-8. Running time, 75 minutes.—C. A. Jordan, Opera House, Cogswell, N. D. Small town patronage.

ROBBERS ROOST: George O'Brien—Good western. Zane Grey's stories and O'Brien always make good westerns. If you want a good western, this is it. Played Apr. 22.—Thomas E. Orr, Liberty Theatre, Attalla, Ala. Small town patronage.

SAILOR'S LUCK: James Dunn, Sally Eilers—A good picture, with some fine comedy that will get plenty of laughs. Would suggest this for either "family night" or Sunday night. Do not overlook the comedy angle in this one.—L. A. Mercier, Electric Theatre, Perryville, Mo. Small town patronage.

SAILOR'S LUCK: Sally Eilers, James Dunn—Fast moving comedy. Sammy Cohen almost steals the show. It will please all who like sailor pictures. I think the picture would have been much improved if the drunk had been left entirely out of it. I could not appreciate him at all. Nobody seemed to think that he was funny but several remarked that his joke in this picture was the vilest they had ever heard and that they were shocked that such things are permitted in pictures. Played Apr. 2-3.—Mrs. Edith M. Fordyce, Princess Theatre, Selma, La. General patronage.

SECOND HAND WIFE: Sally Eilers, Ralph Bellamy—Somewhat second hand satisfaction. Just a long drawn out lot of dialogue. No comedy relief. Very slow and dragged. Had plenty walkouts. Played Apr. 24.—Thomas E. Orr, Liberty Theatre, Attalla, Ala. Small town patronage.

SIX HOURS TO LIVE: Warner Baxter, Miriam Jordan—We are disappointed in Fox this year. Last year Fox released a fine group, but so far this year they have not been so good. Played Jan. 9-10. Running time, 80 minutes.—C. A. Jordan, Opera House, Cogswell, N. D. Small town patronage.

STATE FAIR: Will Rogers, Janet Gaynor, Sally Eilers, Norman Foster, Lew Ayres—A very fine picture that will do extra business. Played Apr. 9-10-11. Running time, 100 minutes.—Mrs. P. J. Zorn, Hippodrome Theatre, Julesburg, Colo. General patronage.

STATE FAIR: Janet Gaynor, Will Rogers, Lew Ayres—Good picture, but not worth any more than other Will Rogers pictures and did not do any more business although heavily advertised.—E. N. Collins, Star Theatre, Humble, Texas. General patronage.

STATE FAIR: Janet Gaynor, Will Rogers—A picture fit for the gods. It has everything for the small town. Just a downright good old hokum plain-folk picture, and how the old folks did enjoy it. Business above average, and it should be. One heck of a swell picture. Played Apr. 11-12-13.—Jack Green, Geneseo Theatre, Geneseo, Ill. Small town patronage.

STATE FAIR: Will Rogers and all star—One of the best pictures we ever played. Did the best business, and gave the best satisfaction of any picture we have played in the past year. Just the kind for towns of this size. I can't understand why they put in one little dirty scene in such a clean picture, unless they are waiting censure. Good pictures that please the general public now are mighty scarce. The public is asking for good, clean entertainment. They have got sick of rotten stuff and even the roughnecks comment and walk out on them. The only comment we had on this picture was, why did they put this little spot in so good a picture? The picture gave 100% satisfaction. Played Apr. 16-17.—Bert Silver, Silver Family Theatre, Greenville, Mich. Town and country patronage.

STATE FAIR: Will Rogers, Janet Gaynor—One of the finest pictures Rogers ever made and did nice business compared with usual business. It's a real picture and only one scene, where Sally Eilers takes her country sweetie in her bedroom and gets in something "comfy," a beautiful negligee, and then they cuddle up on the divan for a few moments. Next scene the negligee is hanging across the foot of the bed post and you can hear Sally and her boy friend making sweet love to each other in the most endearing tones. You can't see them, but the whole scene suggests that they are behind the negligee on the bed together. I am not very much old fashioned. I like a little spice of life as most normal people do. But I cannot understand why producers and directors want to almost ruin a beautiful high class picture like this with a scene that appeals to the baser instincts of humanity. It shows the trend of mind and thought of those who are responsible for making the pictures we have to show to our patrons. Played Apr. 24.—Thomas E. Orr, Liberty Theatre, Attalla, Ala. Small town patronage.

TOO BUSY TO WORK: Will Rogers—Rogers' fans will enjoy this picture and it will draw in some that do not attend regularly. Played Mar. 13-14. Running time, 74 minutes.—C. A. Jordan, Opera House, Cogswell, N. D. Small town patronage.

TOO BUSY TO WORK: Will Rogers—Very good. Some of our patrons seemed to think it as good as "State Fair." Played Apr. 2-3-4. Running time, 70 minutes.—Mrs. P. J. Zorn, Hippodrome Theatre, Julesburg, Colo. General patronage.

MGM

FAST LIFE: William Haines—A very good action type picture with enough comedy and wisecracks to make it very entertaining. Far from being a special. Played Apr. 1-2.—M. F. Bodwell, Paramount Theatre, Wyoming, Ill. Rural patronage.

FAST LIFE: William Haines—Here is a picture that ought to please everybody. It has action and comedy, with a good old belly laugh here and there that is refreshing. Cliff Edwards was very good, too, but can't see that he stole the picture, as I've seen in other reports. The verdict of our patrons on this was, "great!" "Hard to beat!" Played Apr. 2-3.—Jack Greene, Geneseo Theatre, Geneseo, Ill. Small town patronage.

THE MASK OF FU MANCHU: Boris Karloff—If you like snakes in wholesale lots, play this. But for those that do not, it's terrible. Why?—J. J. Hoffman, Plainview Theatre, Plainview, Neb. General patronage.

PACK UP YOUR TROUBLES: Laurel and Hardy—Here's a real comedy, and has a lot of drawing power. Best Friday and Saturday business in months, and everyone liked it even though we were late in showing it.—J. J. Hoffman, Plainview Theatre, Plainview, Neb. General patronage.

RASPUTIN AND THE EMPRESS: Ethel, John, Lionel Barrymore—A good picture to poorest business in months. Not small town film.—C. M. Hartman, Liberty Theatre, Carnegie, Okla. Small town patronage.

RASPUTIN AND THE EMPRESS: Ethel, John, Lionel Barrymore—A great picture that failed to do average business. It is very hard to sell a picture of this type in a small town. The patrons that appreciate the Barrymores and what they stand for in the theatre will enjoy this immensely. Outside of this select bunch, it failed to please 50%. I suggest you screen it before you play it so you will know what you are getting and what you have to sell. I believe it is about three reels too long, as it contains a great many scenes that can be eliminated with ease. The performance of Lionel as Rasputin, the mad monk, stands out well above the others. Running time, 123 minutes.—H. B. Schuessler, LaFayette Theatre, LaFayette, Ala. Small town patronage.

THE SECRET OF MADAME BLANCHE: Irene Dunne—A very good picture. Great acting by the star. I call it a good program picture.—Bert Silver, Silver Family Theatre, Greenville, Mich. Town and country.

THE SECRET OF MADAME BLANCHE: Irene Dunne—Splendid. If Dunne is popular in your locality you can't miss on this one. It is one of the few Metro picture that have made money for me this year. Played Apr. 16-17.—Edith M. Fordyce, Princess Theatre, Selma, La.

SON DAUGHTER: Ramon Novarro, Helen Hayes —This is for high class patronage only. It is a costume picture, and will not be liked in small towns. Helen Hayes' acting in this one is the finest I have ever seen. It did not draw at all, and I lost plenty on it. The few who came to see it praised it highly. I have stopped pushing pictures that I know will not be liked, for the few who want to see that type of picture will come anyway. I would rather the others would save their money for another night and be pleased. After all, we have to keep them pleased to keep them coming. Played Apr. 11-12.—Edith M. Fordyce, Princess Theatre, Selma, La. General patronage.

SON DAUGHTER: Ramon Novarro, Helen Hayes —No business, and no wonder. All right for a Chinatown theatre where they like Chinese goings-on, but for entertainment for the masses it isn't there. Very tiresome and irksome. Work of the stars very good. Story okay, but it lacked something very much. Played Apr. 9-10—Jack Green, Geneseo Theatre, Geneseo, Ill. Small town patronage.

THE SON DAUGHTER: Ramon Novarro, Helen Hayes—Wonderful acting wasted on a picture that does not appeal to one in twenty. Chinese shows are on the spot here. Just took in enough to pay the help the last night. Helen Hayes is great and Novarro is a favorite here but they just do not like that type of show. Played Apr. 12-13.—Gladys E. McArdle, Owl Theatre, Lebanon, Kan. Small town patronage.

STRANGE INTERLUDE: Norma Shearer, Clark Gable—Pleased about 50%. The acting great, but story not for small town. Norma and Clark age too fast in the end. Look like 75 years old, and should be about 50.—J. J. Hoffman, Plainview Theatre, Plainview, Neb. General patronage.

STRANGE INTERLUDE: Norma Shearer, Clark Gable—We did as much business as expected on "Strange Interlude" in view of our situation out here, and it was more generally praised than we hoped for after all the small town rumors about it. It wasn't just what our customers liked best, but was passable. Played Apr. 11-12-13.—Elaine S. Furlong, Star Theatre, Heppner, Ore. Small town patronage.

THE WHITE SISTER: Helen Hayes, Clark Gable —Excellent picture. Extra drawing power.—R. V. Fletcher, Lyric Theatre, Hartington, Neb. General patronage.

Monogram

JUNGLE BRIDE: Anita Page, Charles Starrett—This is really a splendid picture if you play it away from anything else resembling jungle. Sound above the average. Our patrons are "fed up" on jungle stuff, but they came to see this one.—Amuzu Theatre, Inman, S. C. General patronage.

LUCKY LARRIGAN: Rex Bell, Helen Foster—Fairly good western production. This time society's favorite son goes west. This feature is in a way identical to the previous release starring Rex Bell. Unconvincing action mars considerable length of the picture, but situations and dialogue produce a few laughs to balance and uphold the production. John McCarthy wrote, directed and adapted the story; too much work for one man to do perfectly, but this picture is a panic compared with the last one he directed. This western will pass unnoticed as to its class standing as far as observations of western fans are concerned. Played Apr. 15. Running time, 55 minutes.—William Dabb, Lyric Theatre, Shenandoah, Pa. General and small town patronage.

SELF DEFENSE: Pauline Frederick—Screen version of Peter B. Kyne's immortal novel, "The Just Judge," has found its way to the talking screen with apparently as great a success as the famous novel itself. The foundation for the film is laid in a little town in the backwoods of British Columbia. Pauline Frederick, a favorite personality of the silent days, in the stellar role, renders an excellent performance which proves that she still possesses fine dramatic ability that will outshine some of our present stars. Barbara Kent stands out prominently from the rest with a striking impression of her characteristic role and her beauty and personality register with deftness seldom found in other feminine players on the screen. Claire Windsor comes next and shows a marked improvement in her screen work which predicts a brighter future with more extensive roles. A commendable supporting cast consisting of Robert Elliott, Theodore Von Eltz. A host of others all deliver acceptable work. Phil Rosen's capability in directing and injecting humor into selected parts makes the film both an entertaining and amusing program. This is one of the finest productions of its type released by an independent concern. Played Apr. 26-27.—William Dabb, Lyric Theatre, Shenandoah, Pa. General and small town patronage.

WEST OF SINGAPORE: Betty Compson—A very good rough picture. Well acted. General satisfaction. —Bert Silver, Silver Family Theatre, Greenville, Mich. Town and country patronage.

Paramount

BLONDE VENUS: Marlene Dietrich—Drew well and pleased. Business increased the second night. Played Apr. 21-22. Running time, 93 minutes.—C. A. Jordan, Opera House, Cogswell, N. D. Small town patronage.

CRIME OF THE CENTURY: Stuart Erwin—A good murder picture that failed to draw.—C. M. Hartman, Liberty Theatre, Carnegie, Okla. Small town patronage.

THE CRIME OF THE CENTURY: Stuart Erwin, Wynne Gibson—This was a good mystery story, though we have had plenty of them the last few months.—Charles Lee Hyde, Grand Theatre, Pierre, S. D. General patronage.

A FAREWELL TO ARMS: Gary Cooper, Helen Hayes—I have delayed reporting on this picture for two months that I might have a chance to cool off. I thought it was a lovely thing made into a liability through the immorality of Hollywood. Perhaps my "hinterland" standards are too old fashioned, but I know that this picture was seriously hurt by the loose moral tone. The depression may put some brains into Hollywood and I hope it carries some moral sense along with it. One could not pick a flaw in the acting nor in the production, but any one of the 50 exhibitors I can name could have taken a pair of shears and made a beautiful picture out of this, while the big boys in Hollywood made a vulgar thing of it and I had plenty tell me so. There is a difference between love and lust and my screen cannot sell lust and prosper.—Charles Lee Hyde, Grand Theatre, Pierre, S. D. General patronage.

FROM HELL TO HEAVEN: Carole Lombard—On the "Grand Hotel" idea, but pleased my patrons better than "Grand Hotel." Good, pleasing picture.—C. M. Hartman, Liberty Theatre, Carnegie, Okla. Small town patronage.

FROM HELL TO HEAVEN: Jack Oakie—Good all around show on the "Grand Hotel" style. It will appeal to all classes of fans. Played Apr. 23. Running time, 70 minutes.—I. W. Rawley, Ward Theatre, Pismo Beach, Cal. General patronage.

GUILTY AS HELL: Edmund Lowe, Victor McLaglen—Here is a picture much better than the average with a title that hurt business. Too bad to label a first class picture with an impossible title. Played Apr. 14-15. Running time, 78 minutes.—C. A. Jordan, Opera House, Cogswell, N. D. Small town patronage.

HELLO, EVERYBODY: Kate Smith—Swell little program picture that did about average business on a one day run. Kate's singing should be billed heavily as well as Fannie Hurst's name. Very mediocre story. Running time, 65 minutes.—H. B. Schuessler, La Fayette Theatre, LaFayette, Ala. Small town patronage.

HELLO, EVERYBODY: Kate Smith—This is a better picture than I anticipated. Kate Smith is a pain in the eyes and they kept forcing her down our throats through the center of the screen so I didn't think much of the direction, but Kate can sing and they let her do it a little and the story is interesting and people like it.—Charles Lee Hyde, Grand Theatre, Pierre, S. D. Small town patronage.

HORSE FEATHERS: Four Marx Brothers—Very good. If you have not yet shown this one, by all means do. It is hard to find anything any funnier. Played Apr. 23-24-25. Running time, 68 minutes.—Mrs. P. J. Zorn, Hippodrome Theatre, Julesburg, Colo. General patronage.

IF I HAD A MILLION: All star—Quite a lot of extraordinary acting and it is sort of episodic. The part that deals with the old ladies' home comes mighty near being the high spot in all pictures this year. It may be that it is late to show this one. While it is a very fine production, business was poor. Played Apr. 23-24-25-26.—W. H. Brenner, Cozy Theatre, Winchester, Ind. General patronage.

ISLAND OF LOST SOULS: Charles Laughton—Three cheers for the foreign countries who have banned this picture, and shame on us for allowing this to be shown anywhere. Words fail me. Maybe by combining Esperanto, Volopuk, Zahlensproche and a few others as per the Motion Picture Herald it would describe it, and if that won't do it, putrid will. It actually sickened some of our patrons.—J. J. Hoffman, Plainview Theatre, Plainview, Neb. General patronage.

KING OF THE JUNGLE: Buster Crabbe, Frances Dee—Played this in the middle of the week and it held up to little better than average biz. Plenty of excitement and thrills. It pleased our customers. Play this one up as something a little different in the way of animal pictures.—L. A. Mercier, Electric Theatre, Perryville, Mo. Small town patronage.

A LADY'S PROFESSION: Alison Skipworth—Nothing big or pretentious, but sent them out satisfied. It's comedy minus hokum and gags. Played Apr. 25-26. Running time, 70 minutes.—I. W. Rawley, Ward Theatre, Pismo Beach, Cal. General patronage.

LOVE ME TONIGHT: Maurice Chevalier—A very entertaining picture, especially liked by the ladies. Chevalier's dialect a little hard to understand. Jeanette MacDonald excellent. Played Mar. 30-Apr. 1. Running time, 86 minutes.—C. A. Cogswell, Opera House, Cogswell, N. D. Small town patronage.

LUXURY LINER: George Brent—This is just another picture, and will fill in a hot summer date. It pleased those who came to see it, and you won't be ashamed of it unless you have sold so many sex stories that you blush to try to feed a stuffed crowd more.—Charles Lee Hyde, Grand Theatre, Pierre, S.D. General patronage.

MADISON SQUARE GARDEN: Jack Oakie—It is good. The fight is staged to look as real as the real thing. I believe most folks like a picture like this one with lots of good, clean comedy and action. Played to good business. Played Apr. 27-28-29.—W. H. Brenner, Cozy Theatre, Winchester, Ind. General patronage.

NO MAN OF HER OWN: Clark Gable, Carole Lombard—This is a clever picture and I believe most people liked it. It has a good story and entertains After all, the story is the thing; you can't sell it, but in spite of Clark Gable's ears and drowsy acting, that is what people enjoy, cast to get them in and story to make them like it. Charles Lee Hyde, Grand Theatre, Pierre, S. D. Small town patronage.

RESERVED FOR LADIES: Leslie Howard—About once a year I read too much and run a picture that I know is foreign made, just because some sap who is fed up on real entertainment writes a criticism and says this punk foreign stuff will please them. It is undoubtedly a fine English picture, but my last for 1933 and I am glad I made a mistake so early in the year. Americans do not like foreign imitations.—Charles Lee Hyde, Grand Theatre, Pierre, S. D. General patronage.

THE SIGN OF THE CROSS: Fredric March, Elissa Landi, Claudette Colbert—This is a wonderful picture, hurt badly by the fact that my people have a different moral standard than Hollywood, and this appeals through name and advertising to the more religious. I am sure, however, that this is a better picture today than when first shown in New York, and it isn't raw to the average movie fan. Catches lots who go so seldom that they are not up to the standard—and pardon me for using the "up."—Charles Lee Hyde, Grand Theatre, Pierre, S. D. General patronage.

"POP" DIBBLE CALLS IT A DAY

"Pop" Dibble—John Pierce Dibble to no one—who gave his first motion picture show in 1896 in Connecticut, 20 years after he had gone on the road with stereopticons, is the subject of a recent article in the Evening Press at Muncie, Ind., where at 517 West Adams street, he has made his home since last winter when he moved from Branford, Conn.

Silver mounted harness adorned the horses that hauled "Pop's" wagon about the countryside, from Richmond to northern Maine and southeastern Canada. He purchased his Kinetoscope from the late Thomas A. Edison for $110, also a copy of each film he could get from Edison. The films cost approximately $15 a reel and were 50 feet long, but he cranked them over and over as long as the applause continued. After the use of captions began, and the elderly ladies asked him to stop the film so that they could read them, Mr. Dibble had to explain that if he did that the film would catch fire.

"Pop" Dibble, now 79, retired recently after many years of theatre operation.

SIGN OF THE CROSS: Fredric March, Elissa Landi, Claudette Colbert—A high class picture, an epic, in fact, lavishly expensive in spectacular effect and would have been a sensation if this had been the only one of that kind. Parts well sustained by all stars. First night a well filled house, but seats to spare. Second night large falling off, and third night hardly half a house. The inherent weakness in drawing power lay in the fact that many had seen Cecil DeMille pictures of this class, and having seen one, much of the rest becomes a bore. There is no inherent weakness in the picture as a picture. The director possesses superior directing ability. The picture is strong, virile and monumental. As an exponent of screen expression we can hardly blame Cecil DeMille for bringing out so much that was brutal, abnormal, lascivious and vile in the later days of the Roman Empire, for that is what the mass of the people want today as in the days of Nero. Neither can we blame the church people for being so sophisticated as to decline to be lured into supporting those "inspired" pictures where about two per cent is religious and 98 per cent vice. "The Sign of the Cross" has about as much relation to the picture as an average title is an index of the contents of the average picture. It is his "Sign of the Cross," or an obscure incident in the history of the early martyrs. "In hoc signo vinces" was of a much later date. In either case it is misleading. Played March 29-30-31.—A. J. Gibbons, Illinois Theatre, Metropolis, Ill. General patronage.

WOMAN ACCUSED: Nancy Carroll—Double bill fare. Played April 17-18. Running time, 70 minutes.—I. W. Rawley, Ward Theatre, Pismo Beach, Cal. General patronage.

THE WOMAN ACCUSED: Cary Grant, Nancy Carroll—Good publicity makes this box office, but it proves a mediocre picture. Cast is O. K., but you can't take 12 leads and make a good one. The story doesn't fit.—Charles Lee Hyde, Grand Theatre, Pierre, S. D. General patronage.

RKO

THE CONQUERORS: Richard Dix—One of the very best. Pleased 100 per cent. Fine acting. Good story. Plenty of action and everything to make a good picture. Played March 29.—Thomas E. Orr, Albertville, Ala. Small town patronage.

THE CONQUERORS: Richard Dix, Ann Harding—Good picture. But their map of the United States had Colorado's east boundary with a jab in it which put us in Nebraska. Guy Kibbee and Edna May Oliver are very good.—Mrs. P. J. Zorn, Hippodrome Theatre, Julesburg, Colo. General patronage.

THE CONQUERORS: Richard Dix, Ann Harding—One of the most pleasing pictures that we have shown for some time. We had a little extra business because of it being Easter Sunday. Had many favorable comments from our patrons. Consider it far above the average program picture. Played April 15-16.—M. F. Bodwell, Paramount Theatre, Wyoming, Ill. Rural patronage.

THE GREAT JASPER: Richard Dix, Edna May Oliver—This is one sweet entertainment. It is a little snappy, but the name and advertising indicates such and therefore it draws that type of customer and pleases them. "Sign of the Cross" drew the ministers and then put on a hootch dance for them. This draws the flappers and tells them snappy stories. It's good.—Charles Lee Hyde, Grand Theatre, Pierre, S. D. General patronage.

THE HALF NAKED TRUTH: Lee Tracy, Lupe Velez—This is a good entertaining picture. Story good, cast fair and both stars great. General satisfaction. Played April 23-24.—Bert Silver, Silver Family Theatre, Greenville, Mich. Town and country patronage.

HOLD 'EM JAIL: Wheeler and Woolsey—Business somewhat above average. Patrons seemed to enjoy the picture very much. Personally thought this one only fair. The voice of Edna May Oliver does not record well. Played April 22-23.—M. F. Bodwell, Paramount Theatre, Wyoming, Ill. Rural patronage.

LITTLE ORPHAN ANNIE: Mitzie Green—Fine for the kids. They all liked it. Fair business. Played April 10.—Thomas E. Orr, Princess Theatre, Albertville, Ala. Small town patronage.

LUCKY DEVILS: Bill Boyd, Dorothy Wilson—This is a good "expose" of Hollywood and, though the picture will entertain, I believe the small town theatres will do better business for the next few years if they don't show it. I don't think it helps one sell illusion and make it entertain to expose it. If I was in control I would shelve this and keep it there.—Charles Lee Hyde, Grand Theatre, Pierre, S. D. General patronage.

LUCKY DEVILS: Bill Boyd, Dorothy Wilson—Used this on Saturday to take place of a western, but it did not click. Our Saturday trade just won't go in when we don't have a western. Consider this a good action picture, and should have done more than it did. Played April 8.—Thomas E. Orr, Liberty Theatre, Attalla, Ala. Small town patronage.

MAN HUNT: Junior Durkin, Mrs. Wallace Reid—Not good.—R. V. Fletcher, Lyric Theatre, Hartington, Neb. General patronage.

NO OTHER WOMAN: Irene Dunne, Charles Bickford—This is another program picture, and one that you need not be ashamed of. Irene does her stuff and is very good. She is going to wear well and makes friends with every picture.—Charles Lee Hyde, Grand Theatre, Pierre, S. D. General patronage.

PENGUIN POOL MURDER: Edna May Oliver—A good comedy feature. Gave good satisfaction.—Bert Silver, Silver Family Theatre, Greenville, Mich. Town and country patronage.

ROCKABYE: Constance Bennett—Very disappointing. Not a good one from this star since "Common Law." She is just about finished here. Played March 27.—Thomas E. Orr, Princess Theatre, Albertville, Ala. Small town patronage.

SAILOR BE GOOD: Jack Oakie, Vivienne Osborne—A good program picture. Fine for Saturday showing. Running time, 66 minutes.—Mrs. P. J. Zorn, Hippodrome Theatre, Julesburg, Colo. General patronage.

SCARLET RIVER: Tom Keene—About the best westerner anybody could run. Played April 21-22. Running time, 57 minutes.—I. W. Rawley, Ward Theatre, Pismo Beach, Cal. General patronage.

THE SPORT PARADE: Joel McCrea—Just a fair programmer which will get by on a Saturday with a good bunch of shorts. The background and setting is the whole show. Running time, 65 minutes.—I. W. Rawley, Ward Theatre, Pismo Beach, Cal. General patronage.

SWEEPINGS: Lionel Barrymore—This is a dandy show, rather heavy, but beautifully directed and acted and the crowd enjoyed it. I am sure that twice as many people liked this as actually enjoyed "Rasputin" and yet of course it didn't show to half as many people.—Charles Lee Hyde, Grand Theatre, Pierre, S. D. Small town patronage.

TOPAZE: John Barrymore, Myrna Loy—Very fine picture.—R. V. Fletcher, Lyric Theatre, Hartington, Neb. General patronage.

State Rights

THE BIG TOWER: All star—A fair picture. Action, gangster and all around picture. Played it on double bill and came out alive.—Bert Silver, Silver Family Theatre, Greenville, Mich. Town and country patronage.

Tiffany

THOSE WE LOVE: Lilian Tashman, Mary Astor—This is a very good picture, but it did not draw due to the poor title. If you can get them in to see it, you can rest assured it will give satisfaction. Played March 21-22.—Edith M. Fordyce, Princess Theatre, Selma, La. General patronage.

Tower

DRIFTING SOULS: Lois Wilson—A splendid, entertaining picture. Star fine, cast good, story entertaining and clean.—Bert Silver, Silver Family Theatre, Greenville, Mich. Town and country patronage.

RED HAIRED ALIBI: Merna Kennedy, Grant Withers—A fairly produced gangster melodrama with the accustomed underworld methods and developments repeated once again. Theodore Von Eltz portraying the racketeer, with that red haired personality Merna Kennedy as the unsuspcting alibi, both turning in fine performances. Handsome Grant Withers, Purnell Pratt and others bring up the under bill. Withers has good acting powers. He has proven time and time again in his releases shortly before his absence that he is capable of a wider range of characterization if given an opportunity. Nothing outstanding in the settings and story, the film moves at a snail's pace throughout the entire performance. Dialogue and direction expose the inferiority found in practically all independent productions with a possible few exceptions. Better results could be obtained with less patterning and more originality. Played April 20. Running time, 72 minutes.—William Dabb, Lyric Theatre, Shenandoah, Pa. General and small town patronage.

United Artists

HALLELUJAH I'M A BUM: Al Jolson—Very ordinary entertainment, sez I. If Al would open his mouth, and pronounce his words so all could understand him, perhaps it might be a fairly good picture. His colored running mate is almost understandable. There are times when one can catch a word or two of what he is talking about. "A Bum" picture would be a fitting title for it. No business, and I don't wonder. Played April 25-27.—Jack Greene, Geneseo Theatre, Geneseo, Ill. Small town patronage.

KID FROM SPAIN: Eddie Cantor—While it was a good picture, with a beautiful chorus, and a fair comedian, still it lack action, except in the last reel where the bullfight takes place. That last reel is worth a dozen of the ones before it. Folks expected more chorus work. Was rather draggy in spots. Fair business. Shots of chorus at opening of picture were great, and they were really beautiful. Played April 4-6.—Jack Greene, Geneseo Theatre, Geneseo, Ill. Small town patronage.

Universal

AFRAID TO TALK: Eric Linden, Sidney Fox—Oh, it was all right, but this kind of a picture was old after they made the first half dozen of gangster flickers. No business, and no wonder. Played April 23-24.—Jack Greene, Geneseo Theatre, Geneseo, Ill. Small town patronage.

ALL QUIET ON THE WESTERN FRONT: Lew Ayres and all star—One of the most interesting pictures that I have ever shown. We had never shown this picture before, and really was surprised at the results. Business was a trifle better than usual and every one was more than satisfied. If you have never played this picture, do so at once. It is good for any time or any day of the week. They all know about the picture, and all you have to do is let them know when you are having it. Played March 11-12.—M. F. Bodwell, Paramount Theatre, Wyoming, Ill. Rural patronage.

THE COHENS AND KELLYS IN TROUBLE: Charlie Murray, George Sidney—Best this pair has ever made.—J. J. Hoffman, Plainview Theatre, Plainview, Neb. General patronage.

DOOMED BATTALION: All star—A great long war story that was tiresome. Fine scenery. Would have been great in the silent days. Acting bad, what could be seen of it.—Bert Silver, Silver Family Theatre, Greenville, Mich. Town and country patronage.

FLAMING GUNS: Tom Mix—One of the west westerns we ever played with Tom Mix, Ruth Hall and William Farnum. Could not help but be a good one. —Bert Silver, Silver Family Theatre, Greenville, Mich. Town and country patronage.

THE FOURTH HORSEMAN: Tom Mix—Showed this as my first bargain show at 10 cents and 15 cents. All children with coupons were admitted for a nickel. Had just as many kids as we had adults. Showed to more kids than we have had in the last two years. Every one was pleased with the picture. Mix has always been popular here. Had good attendance the first day, but the second day was a complete flop. Played April 19-20.—M. F. Bodwell, Paramount Theatre, Wyoming, Ill. Rural patronage.

HIDDEN GOLD: Tom Mix—Very good Saturday picture. Played April 1.—Mrs. Edith M. Fordyce, Princess Theatre, Selma, La. General patronage.

LAUGHTER IN HELL: Pat O'Brien, Gloria Stuart —Attendance very poor. Patrons very disappointed, especially the women patrons. They all complained about this one. Played March 25-26.—M. F. Bodwell, Paramount Theatre, Wyoming, Ill. Rural patronage.

THE MUMMY: Boris Karloff—One of the poorest pictures that I have ever shown. No plot and no entertainment whatever. Imagine bringing a mummy back to life that has been dead for thousands of years. It was ridiculous. They certainly did pan this one, and I for one don't blame them. Played March 18-19.—M. F. Bodwell, Paramount Theatre, Wyoming, Ill. Rural patronage.

MY PAL THE KING: Tom Mix—If you can't get them in with this one, better shut up and quit. It is decidedly the best western we ever put on our screen, and made us money. Little Mickey Rooney outshone Tom Mix.—Amuzu Theatre, Inman, S. C. General patronage.

NAGANA: Tala Birell, Melvyn Douglas—Pretty good. The animal fights were as good as anything in "Bring 'Em Back Alive."—E. N. Collins, Star Theatre, Humble, Texas. General patronage.

OUT ALL NIGHT: Zasu Pitts, Slim Summerville—Very interesting. This pair is always good for a laugh, but Laura Hope Crews, as the mother of Slim, steals the picture. Played April 23-24.—J. J. Hoffman, Plainview Theatre, Plainview, Neb. General patronage.

PRIVATE JONES: Lee Tracy—A good comedy picture. If your public is not fed up on war pictures, play it. Very good cast, and the small part Frank McHugh has, helps a lot. Did very good biz with it on a Sunday night.—L. A. Mercier, Electric Theatre, Perryville, Mo. Small town patronage.

PRIVATE JONES: Lee Tracy—A good picture and one that most people will like. Unlike "Cavalcade," it holds the interest throughout and has many laughs, although it is mostly a character study.—E. N. Collins, Star Theatre, Humble, Texas. General patronage.

PRIVATE JONES: Lee Tracy—The most human role Tracy has appeared it. While some parts are illogical, this film was well received. Universal isn't making many, but they are all good. Running time, 84 minutes.—I. W. Rowey, Ward Theatre, Pismo Beach, Cal. General patronage.

ROME EXPRESS: Esther Ralston—Every one expected this to be good. A nice crowd came and then, much to our distress, about a dozen walked out on it. Out here, when one walks out, we notice it, but when such a number leaves, it is something. Played April 16-17.—Elaine S. Furlong, Star Theatre, Heppner, Ore. Small town patronage.

THEY JUST HAD TO GET MARRIED: Slim Summerville, Zasu Pitts—If we get more pictures like this and "Fast Life" it won't be long until we will be back on our feet again. We will wonder what that depression animal looks like; in fact, forget that there ever was hard times. Played April 16-17.—Jack Greene, Geneseo Theatre, Geneseo, Ill. Small town patronage.

Warner

FORTY-SECOND STREET: Warner Baxter, George Brent, Bebe Daniels—Did the best third night's business my house has ever done, so I can give it no higher praise. I also had the fun of writing the biggest average check I have written in my new theatre, so that should cinch the argument. It has everything, and people know it. The tunes put it over, and believe it will repeat every year as long as the Warners want to keep the print in shape. It is real musical comedy entertainment with a little plot and a lot of fun and music.—Charles Lee Hyde, Grand Theatre, Pierre, S. D. General patronage.

FORTY-SECOND STREET: Warner Baxter, Bebe Daniels—Disappointed both in picture and box office results. No outstanding stars, no beautiful sets, no singing of any account and dancing numbers far short of being wonderful. Story? Well, I wonder. Some raved over it, and some said it wasn't so hot. Maybe I am wrong. Who knows? Played April 18-19-20.—Jack Greene, Geneseo heatre, Geneseo, Ill. Small town patronage.

THE KING'S VACATION: George Arliss at his worst and at that he is better than 90 per cent of the actors who strut across the screen. I liked it, but being below the entertaining value of his preceding pictures, it is a disappointment to his admrers.—Charles Lee Hyde, Grand Theatre, Perre, S. D. General patronage.

LADIES THEY TALK ABOUT: Barbara Stanwyck —The best thing in this one is the nice performance given by Stanwyck. It is indeed a pleasure to watch this girl work, for her acting stands out like a pimple on your nose. This type of "Big House" picture has been done, but this one pleased here and drew average business. Played April 30. Running time, 68 minutes.—Steve Farrar, Orpheum Theatre, Harrisburg, Ill. Small town patronage.

LADIES THEY TALK ABOUT: Barbara Stanwyck —This is another picture in which Barbara has slipped a lot and this picture doesn't build her up. Warners bought a lot of burned-out stars as they and we know and their success this year has been in spite of these stars, or perhaps they have depended on the well known stars to carry weak stories and have given their good stories to less known names.—Charles Lee Hyde, Grand Theatre, Pierre, S. D. Small town patronage.

LADIES THEY TALK ABOUT: Barbara Stanwyck —A great picture for the small town exhibitor. Barbara Stanwyck fine with very able support from Preston Foster. Maude Eburne gave them a lot of laughs, which is what they want these days. Warners are giving us some good pictures. Played April 15-16.—Gladys E. McArdle, Owl Theatre, Lebanon, Kan. Small town patronage.

MYSTERY OF THE WAX MUSEUM: Boris Karloff—A beautifully photographed picture, made all in color. Some of the shots in this one stand out big. This is perhaps one of the best horror and thrill pictures we have ever had, but it comes at a time when the public has declared thumbs down on this type of screen play and we did no business with this. If you can sell it, it will please. Played April 26-27. Running time, 70 minutes.—Steve Farrar, Orpheum Theatre, Harrisburg, Ill. Small town patronage.

MYSTERY OF THE WAX MUSEUM: Lionel Atwill, Fay Wray—This the best picture that did the poorest business. I don't know why people didn't want to see it, but believe it is the last of the horror pictures. It was not terrible. It was well directed and wonderfully photographed, but people feared it would be just another evening of horror, and they don't pay for that more than about once a year in this country.—Charles Lee Hyde, Grand Theatre, Pierre, S. D. General patronage.

ONE WAY PASSAGE: William Powell, Kay Francis—A very good program picture. Satisfaction about 50 per cent.—Bert Silver, Silver Family Theatre, Greenville, Mich. Town and country patronage.

PICTURE SNATCHER: James Cagney—Here is a natural for Cagney fans. We have never been able to do much with Cagney. But if you have patrons who like him, by all means play it. He is up to his old tricks; in fact, he smacks two girls in the "kisser." —L. A. Mercier, Electric Theatre, Perryville, Mo. Small town patronage.

THE TELEGRAPH TRAIL: John Wayne—An extra good, entertaining picture. Better than the average westerns.—Bert Silver, Silver Family Theatre, Greenville, Mich. Town and country patronage.

World Wide

BREACH OF PROMISE: Chester Morris, Mae Clarke—Just another picture to run on a night when the admission is low or you are using double features. It's not a bad picture, but has no drawing power and never gets above the fair program class. We ran it for 15 cents and it seemed to please that crowd. Played April 28. Running time, 65 minutes.—Steve Farrar, Orpheum Theatre, Harrisburg, Ill. Small town patronage.

RACETRACK: Leo Carillo, Kay Hammond—Just so much footage. Carrillo tries hard, but he cannot do it all by himself. With better supporting players this would have been an average picture.—L. A. Mercier, Electric Theatre, Perryville, Mo. Small town patronage.

Short Features

Capital

TRAGEDY OF MT. EVERETT: A great and entertaining three-reel subject.—Bert Silver, Silver Family Theatre, Greenville, Mich. Town and country patronage.

Educational

BOY, OH BOY: Andy Clyde—A funny two-reel comedy.—Bert Silver, Silver Family Theatre, Greenville, Mich. Town and country patronage.

TORCHY'S KITTY COUP: Ray Cooke—Very good. —Mrs. P. J. Zorn, Hippodrome Theatre, Julesburg, Col. General patronage.

MGM

ALLEZ OOP: A wonder one-reel subject by a great troupe of acrobats. More of this type of short subjects would help any program.—Bert Silver, Silver Family Theatre, Greenville, Mich. Town and country patronage.

BIRTHDAY BLUES: Our Gang—Good Gang comedy. Two reels—J. J. Hoffman, Plainview Theatre, Plainview, Neb. General patronage.

NOW WE'LL TELL ONE: Charley Chase—Average Chase comedy.—Mrs. Edith M. Fordyce, Princess Theatre, Selma, La. General patronage.

ROOSEVELT, MAN OF THE HOUR: Very interesting. Two reels.—J. J. Hoffman, Plainview Theatre, Plainview, Neb. General patronage.

TWICE TWO: Laurel and Hardy—A very funny two-reel comedy.—Bert Silver, Silver Family Theatre, Greenville, Mich. Town and country patronage.

Paramount

THE DENTIST: W. C. Fields—Good slapstick comedy.—Mrs. P. J. Zorn, Hippodrome Theatre, Julesburg, Col. General patronage.

IS MY PALM READ: Betty Boop—Poorest cartoon we've ever had from Paramount, and just last week reported that Paramount had the best one-reelers. We book cartoons especially for the children, and lately the horror craze has crept in. One reel.—J. J. Hoffman, Plainview Theatre, Plainview, Neb. General patronage.

SCHOOL DAYS: Screen Song—Best Screen Song made, and one that the entire family will enjoy. Singing very good. One reel.—J. J. Hoffman, Plainview Theatre, Plainview, Neb. General patronage.

SCREEN SONGS: These cartoons with the bouncing ball are excellent and get better with each issue.—W. L. Stratton, Challis Theatre, Challis, Idaho. Small town patronage.

TIME ON MY HANDS: Ethel Merman—Fair. Cartoon part good. Miss Merman good, but the song not much. She is entitled to a song that has some melody. This was lacking in "Time On My Hands."—D. E.

Fitton, Lyric Theatre, Harrison, Ark. Small town patronage.

THE SINGING PLUMBER: Donald Novis—Singing by Novis very good.—Mrs. P. J. Zorn, Hippodrome Theatre, Julesburg, Col. General patronage.

TRIAL OF VINCE BARNETT: Quite a thrilling and funny short with something happening most of the time. Dandy cast for a short.—Horn and Morgan, Star Theatre, Hay Springs, Neb. Small town patronage.

RKO Radio

THE CURE: Charles Chaplin—These reissues of Charles Chaplin prove very funny to most every one. They are synchronized very good and add a touch of something different to the program. Running time, 18 minutes.—W. L. Stratton, Challis Theatre, Challis, Idaho. Small town patronage.

JITTERS THE BUTLER: Clarke and McCullough —Good.—Mrs. P. J. Zorn, Hippodrome Theatre, Julesburg, Co. General patronage.

LOOPS, MY DEAR: Harry Sweet—This is a funny two-reel comedy. Better than average.—Bert Silver, Silver Family Theatre, Greenville, Mich. Town and country patronage.

MICKEY'S APE MAN: Mickey McGuire—A very funny kid comedy.—Bert Silver, Silver Family Theatre, Greenville, Mich. Town and country patronage.

PENCIL MANIA: Tom and Jerry—Good. One reel. —J. J. Hoffman, Plainview Theatre, Plainview, Neb. General patronage.

PIANO TOONERS: Tom and Jerry—Vulgar. Nothing funny. Showing the curves of fat women.—J. J. Hoffman, Plainview Theatre, Plainview, Neb. General patronage.

Universal

RADIO STAR NO. 2: Morton Downey, Lew Brown, Ray Henderson—A splendid two-reel subject. Great singing, but poor recording (the print we received).—Bert Silver, Silver Family Theatre, Greenville, Mich. Town and country patronage.

Warner

WHAT AN IDEA: Broadway Brevities—The best Brevity I have played.—Mrs. Edith M. Fordyce, Princess Theatre, Selma, La. General patronage.

San Salvador Exhibitor Sends in New Reports

The alert Mr. O. Beer, manager of the Meardi-Hermanos circuit in distant San Salvador, El Salvador, Central America, continues his able comment on pictures that come his way:

GUILTY HANDS: MGM, with Lionel Barrymore, Kay Francis and Polly Moran—Fine picture. Business above average.

ALWAYS GOODBYE: Fox, with Lewis Stone and Elissa Landi—Stone is always a draw, but the picture is so slow and title without any interest, so they let us alone after the release.

NIGHT WORLD: Universal, with Mae Clarke, Boris Karloff and Lew Ayres—Clarke is cute. Karloff, since "Frankenstein," a good drawer. Ayres is fine. This picture will be a hit anywhere, as it has everything any patron could ask for. Good music, romance, action, fighting, drama and some humorous touch.

MARIDO Y MUJER: Fox, all-Spanish talking, with Conchita Montenegro and George Lewis—Conchita has a good drawing power. Story appeals more to the cheaper seats. Business above average.

GET RICH QUICK WALLINGFORD: MGM, with William Haines, Leila Hyams and Jimmy Durante—Cast has a good draw at this end. Release did not make much money, since we were releasing on the same day a Spanish talkie, which of course did harm to the other shows, but afterwards good business with this one.

MAID TO ORDER: Artclass, with Julian Eltinge—Spanish titles. Did please. Story new, not used in other pictures. Gangster fights with some fun. Eltinge plays part of a detective as a girl dancer.

THE SPIDER: Fox, with Edmund Lowe and Lois Moran—Good picture. Fair business.

FRANKENSTEIN: Universal, with Boris Karloff, Mae Clarke and Colin Clive—The hit of hits. Since the world depression we never made a business like that. Did show it on our most expensive gala night and sold every seat we had. Needed police force to keep them away. After the last ticket was sold they wanted to crash the gates. In the second exhibition a few days later we made a higher gross than in the average gala night release. This is the report of our chief theatre. In the other theatres of our circuit the hit was even more evident than at the head theatre. After that we booked every Karloff picture we could get hold of.

AS YOU DESIRE ME: MGM, with Greta Garbo and Eric Von Stroheim—A fine picture. Greta is great. But did only average business. They are always afraid to get into another "Grand Hotel."

KIKI: United Artists, with Mary Pickford and Reginald Denny—Picture is funny enough. Mary isn't any more the draw she was 10 years ago, so only ordinary business.

THE UNEXPECTED FATHER: Universal, with Slim Summerville and Zasu Pitts—The only failure we got among a lot of hits from Universal. The censors prohibited it, as they said that it is even too silly for kids. It was the best thing censors did in the last century.

LASCA OF THE RIO GRANDE: Universal, with Dorothy Burgess, Leo Carrillo and Slim Summerville—An outstanding picture among westerns. It has fine songs appealing to the classes. Made good business.

STRANGERS IN LOVE: Paramount, with Fredric March, Kay Francis, Stuart Erwin, Juliette Compton—A good picture. Every one liked it, but no draw.

THE MIRACLE MAN: Paramount, with Chester Morris and Sylvia Sidney—Thought it a fine picture, but just average business, as Paramount sent us the last six months' pictures below average and patrons don't have any confidence any more in Paramount pictures. For this reason we want to make a smaller contract than so far possible with them.

SOUS LES TOITS DE PARIS: Paramount, with Albert Prejean and Pola Illery—All French talking. They went out by the dozen. Story impossible and dull. Didn't please even the whole French-speaking community. No action; just dull and dumb.

HELL DIVERS: MGM, with Wallace Beery, Clark Gable, Conrad Nagel and Dorothy Jordan—The second best picture dear old Leo sent us the last three months. A fine draw. Plenty came to see it again. Good business on release and repetitions.

ARSENE LUPIN: MGM, with John and Lionel Barrymore and Karen Morley—One of those pictures which makes every showman happy to have a contract with MGM. Good business in every show.

THE SKY BRIDE: Paramount, with Richard Arlen, Jack Oakie and Virginia Bruce—One of the two only good pictures we got from Paramount the last six months among 30 dull ones. Made good business with that.

EL PAYASO: Paramount, with Meg Leomier and Roberto Rey—All dubbed Spanish talking. Dialogue fairly good. Did please.

THE CUBAN LOVE SONG: MGM, with Lawrence Tibbett, Jimmy Durante, Ernest Torrence, Lupe Velez and Karen Morley—The best picture we got from dear old Leo the last six months. Good drawing power at release and repetitions.

THE PASSIONATE PLUMBER: MGM, with Jimmy Durante and Buster Keaton—A fine picture. They liked it.

IL EST CHARMANT: Paramount, with Henry Garat, Meg Lemonier and Dranem—All French talking. A fine musical comedy. I thought it a big hit, but somehow it failed to draw. Pleased every one who saw it. Discounting the money paid by the French speaking community, business was not even average. It seems to me they do not like any more musical comedies.

EMMA: MGM, with Marie Dressler—Marie Dressler is great. She has a great drawing power.

MURDER BY THE CLOCK: Paramount, with William Boyd and Lilyan Tashman—Good drawing on release, but patrons were disappointed. Not enough horror, later on, nose dive.

THE WET PARADE: MGM, with Dorothy Jordan and Lewis Stone—A good picture, but no drawing, as there is no interest for the U. S. A. prohibition question at this end.

THIS IS THE NIGHT: Paramount, with Roland Young, Charles Ruggles and Lili Damita—We were under obligations to release this on our gala night; every one disappointed. This class of picture has no drawing power any more at this end.

VIENNESE NIGHTS: Warner. Has a few fine waltzer melodies and songs, that's all. Story impossible. Gay life of Vienna of the early seventies (which was a time of awful depression after a lost war) as they think in Hollywood it was; uniforms of the World War period, music and places which didn't exist at that time. May I make a suggestion to Warner for a new picture about a story like this one, but with an American background: Title: Nights in Washington, D. C. Time: Civil War. Place: Madison Square Garden in Danville. A few girls of good Puritan breeding after a lot of beer drinking, start singing tango melodies and are joined by several Confederate officers clad in the smart uniforms of West Point 1933 cadets. After a little singing each girl goes with an officer in the nightly woods, which is highly enjoyed by their Puritan Parents, who at the beginning had not even allowed their daughters to go near the young men to whom they were engaged. Then the only thing which is still needed is a fine old Southern lady saying when she gets excited: "G'd damn," or "Me big chief Itzi Horowitz." But the worst of all is that there is no interest any more for waltzer melodies and even less for musical comedies.

LA INCORRIGIBLE: Paramount, with Enriqueta Serrano and Tony d'Algy—All-Spanish talking. Didn't show it—picture too bad.

SHIPMATES: MGM, with Robert Montgomery, Dorothy Jordan and Hobart Bosworth—Fine picture. This cast has a good draw. Good business.

UN CABALLERO DE FRAC: Paramount, with Roberto Rey, Gloria Guzman and Rosita Diaz—All Spanish talking. Story has neither head nor tail. Average business due to cast, as Rey and Guzman draw. They liked it, I don't know why.

OUR BLUSHING BRIDES: MGM, with Joan Crawford, Robert Montgomery and Anita Page—Good business, had a good draw, especially with women, due to fashion review in this picture.

ON BROADWAY

Week of May 6

CAPITOL
- Their First Mistake..... MGM

MAYFAIR
- Screen Snapshots..... Columbia
- War Debts..... Invincible

PARAMOUNT
- Screen Souvenirs—No. 10.. Paramount
- Song Shopping..... Paramount

RIALTO
- Ain't She Sweet?..... Paramount
- Dream Stuff..... Paramount
- Hollywood on Parade—No. 10..... Paramount
- Screen Souvenirs—No. 10.. Paramount

RIVOLI
- Radio Murder Mystery..... Universal

RKO MUSIC HALL
- Bubbles and Troubles..... RKO Radio
- The Druggist's Dilemma.... RKO Radio

RKO ROXY
- False Alarm..... Columbia
- My Pal the Prince..... Universal

ROXY
- Flame of the Pacific..... Beverly Hills Pictures
- Flowers and Trees..... United Artists
- Tongue Twisters..... Master Art Products
- Walpi ..... Principal

STRAND
- The Grip..... Vitaphone
- Poor Little Rich Boy..... Vitaphone
- Rambling Round Radio Row No. 4..... Vitaphone

Erpi Club Holds Fifth Annual Banquet in N. Y.

The staffs of Electrical Research Products' various New York divisions who are members of the Erpi Club, attended the association's fifth annual banquet last Thursday evening, at Martin's Grill on Broadway. Conducted by the club's bowling league, the affair was featured by the awarding of prizes to winners in the regular bowling tournament. Tom Craig, of the home office, was master of ceremonies. George Friedl, research engineer, is president of the Erpi Club.

First place in the tournament was won by a team, of the sound receivers' department, composed of Frank Kelty, Frank Ungro, Charles Olajos, Ed Wagner and Bob Hoar. Individual high gross and net was won by Charlie Schaumberg; Frank Mudra won the individual high gross series, and Frank Graham the individual high gross and high net games.

MGM Wins Contract Suit in Minnesota

MGM is winner of a suit tried in Minnesota district court against Walter S. Bell and E. R. Johnson, operators of the Princess theatre at Roseau, Minn., charging breach of contract. MGM alleged that after entering contracts for features and short subjects the defendants played and paid for only half of them. The court granted judgment for the full amount of the contract prices. The defense had claimed restraint of trade and unreasonable contracts.

THEATRE RECEIPTS

Theatre receipts for the calendar week ended May 6, 1933, aggregated $1,108,-511 from 116 houses in 20 key cities of the country, a gain of $46,030 over the previous calendar week, ended April 29, when 116 theatres in 20 cities grossed a total of $1,154,541. No new high individual theatre record figures, and four new low record figures were established during the more recent period, which compares with no new "highs" and three new "lows" for the preceding week.

(Copyright, 1933: Reproduction of material from this department without credit to MOTION PICTURE HERALD expressly forbidden)

Theatres			Current Week: Picture	Current Week: Gross	Previous Week: Picture	Previous Week: Gross	High and Low Gross (Tabulation covers period from January, 1931 to date)
Boston
Fenway	1,800	30c-50c	"The Mind Reader" (F. N.) and "Terror Aboard" (Para.)	10,000	"Central Airport" (F. N.) and "Hello, Sister" (Fox)	10,500	.....
Keith's	3,500	30c-50c	"Kiss Before the Mirror" (U.)	19,000	"So This Is Africa" (Col.)	18,500	High 12-5 "Frankenstein"	27,000
							Low 3-9-33 "When Strangers Marry"	12,000
Keith-Boston	2,900	25c-50c	"Sweepings" (Radio)	18,000	"Out All Night" (U.)	17,500	High 4-9-32 "Steady Company"	26,000
							Low 3-9-33 "Topaze"	11,000
Loew's State	3,700	25c-50c	"Looking Forward" (MGM)	18,000	"Secrets" (U. A.)	18,500	High 6-18-32— "Hell Divers," "Possessed" and "Sin of Madelon Claudet"	26,000
							Low 3-9-33 "Men Must Fight"	11,000
Metropolitan	4,350	30c-65c	"Song of the Eagle" (Para.)	34,500	"Cavalcade" (Fox)	34,000	High 1-31 "No Limit"	44,500
							Low 3-9-33 "King of the Jungle"	26,500
Paramount	1,800	30c-50c	"The Mind Reader" (F. N.) and "Terror Aboard" (Para.)	12,500	"Central Airport" (F. N.) and "Hello, Sister" (Fox)	13,000	.....
Buffalo
Buffalo	3,500	30c-55c	"Secrets" (U. A.)	12,200	"The White Sister" (MGM)	18,300	High 3-28 "My Past"	39,500
							Low 3-24-33 "Our Betters"	9,800
Century	3,000	25c	"Sailor's Luck" (Fox) and "Secrets of Wu Sin" (Chesterfield)	6,100	"Mystery of the Wax Museum" (W.B.) and "A Lady's Profession" (Para.)	7,400	High 2-14 "Cimarron"	25,600
							Low 3-24-33 "Hello, Everybody" and "Parachute Jumper"	4,700
Great Lakes	3,000	25c-40c	"Rasputin and the Empress" (MGM)	9,200	"Central Airport" (F. N.)	7,500	High 8-8 "Politics"	35,100
							Low 4-14-33 "Rome Express"	5,400
Hippodrome	2,100	25c	"Strictly Personal" (Para.) and "Trick for Trick" (Fox)	5,100	"Hallelujah, I'm a Bum" (U. A.) and "Forgotten" (Chesterfield)	6,600	High 2-14 "Free Love"	26,300
							Low 7-16-32 "New Morals for Old"	4,200
Lafayette	3,300	25c	"Constant Woman" (World Wide) and "Men Are Such Fools" (Radio)	6,400	"Daring Daughters" (Tower) and "Soldiers of the Storm" (Col.)	5,900	High 4-11 "Ten Cents a Dance"	24,100
							Low 2-10-33 "Hypnotized" and "Trailing the Killer"	5,100
Chicago
Chicago	4,000	35c-68c	"The Barbarian" (MGM)	28,000	"Central Airport" (F.N.)	22,000	High 1-23-32 "Two Kinds of Women"	67,000
							Low 12-22-32 "The Match King"	20,000
McVickers	2,284	25c-50c	"Sweepings" (Radio) (9 days)	10,500	"Mussolini Speaks" (Col.) (3 days)	2,000	High 2-7 "Doorway to Hell"	38,170
							Low 2-10-33 "Hello, Everybody"	5,500
Oriental	3,940	35c-68c	"Cavalcade" (Fox)	14,500	"A Bedtime Story" (Para.) (2nd week)	9,000	High 3-7 "My Past"	46,750
							Low 3-24-33 "The Big Cage"	12,000
Palace	2,509	35c-75c	"King Kong" (Radio) (2nd week)	14,200	"King Kong" (Radio) (1st week)	25,400	High 4-2-32 "Cheaters at Play"	33,000
							Low 12-15-32 "False Faces"	14,000
Roosevelt	1,591	25c-50c	"Pleasure Cruise" (Fox)	7,200	"Today We Live" (MGM)	7,000	High 4-11 "Dishonored"	30,350
							Low 3-3-33 "Luxury Liner"	6,200
United Artists	1,700	35c-68c	"The Working Man" (W. B.)	9,300	"Secrets" (U. A.) (2nd week)	8,000	High 3-21 "City Lights"	46,562
							Low 3-17-33 "Perfect Understanding"	6,200
Cleveland
Allen	3,300	15c-35c	"Pleasure Cruise" (Fox) and "Reform Girl" (Tower) (25c-35c)	3,000	"Rome Express" (U.) and "Hypnotized" (World Wide)	3,000	High 1-30-32 "Hell Divers"	26,000
							Low 3-3-33 "Infernal Machine" and "Exposure"	1,800
Hippodrome	3,800	15c-35c	"The Big Cage" (U.) (4 days) "Parole Girl" (Col.) (5 days)	4,000	.....		.....
Mall	753	15c-25c	"Trick for Trick" (Fox)	1,500	"Smoke Lightning" (Fox)	1,400	.....
RKO Palace	3,100	25c-40c	"So This Is Africa" (Col.)	7,500	"Sweepings" (Radio)	10,000	High 5-2 "Laugh and Get Rich"	40,000
							Low 5-5-33 "So This Is Africa"	7,500
State	3,400	25c-40c	"Pick Up" (Para.)	7,600	"Cavalcade" (Fox)	12,500	High 12-5 "Possessed"	30,000
							Low 5-5-33 "Pick Up"	7,600
Stillman	1,900	25c-35c	"Looking Forward" (MGM)	6,500	"Sailor's Luck" (Fox)	4,000	.....
Warner's Lake	800	25c-40c	"The Keyhole" (W. B.)	4,000	"Elmer the Great" (F. N.)	4,500	High 10-3 "Five Star Final"	15,000
							Low 7-4 "Big Business Girl"	2,000
Denver
Aladdin	1,500	25c-40c	"King Kong" (Radio) (8 days)	5,500	"Destination Unknown" (U.) (6 days)	3,000	.....
Denham	1,700	15c-25c	"So This Is Africa" (Col.)	5,250	"The Death Kiss" (World Wide)	2,700	.....
Denver	2,500	25c-50c	"The White Sister" (MGM)	10,000	"A Bedtime Story" (Para.)	11,000	High 8-8 "Politics"	25,000
							Low 3-23-33 "Clear All Wires"	6,000
Orpheum	2,600	25c-40c	"King Kong" (Radio) (8 days)	8,000	"The Great Jasper" (Radio) (6 days)	6,000	.....
Paramount	2,000	25c-40c	"Looking Forward" (MGM) (4 days)	1,100	"Blondie Johnson" (F. N.)	4,500	High 1-10 "Hell's Angels"	22,000
			"A Lady's Profession" (Para.) (3 days)	1,000			Low 5-4-33 "Looking Forward" and "A Lady's Profession"	2,100
Detroit
Downtown	2,750	25c-40c	"Below the Sea" (Col.)	4,500	"Out All Night" (U.)	7,300	.....
Fisher	2,700	15c-40c	"Looking Forward" (MGM)	7,600	"Blondie Johnson" (F. N.)	5,200	.....
Fox	5,100	15c-40c	"Cohens and Kellys in Trouble" (U.) and "The Fighting President" (U.)	7,100	"Cavalcade" (Fox) (2nd week)	9,100	.....
Michigan	4,000	25c-50c	"The Barbarian" (MGM)	10,100	"Today We Live" (MGM)	14,200	.....
State	3,000	25c-50c	"Rasputin and the Empress" (MGM)	12,400	"A Bedtime Story" (Para.) (2nd week)	11,600	.....
United Artists	2,000	25c-50c	"The White Sister" (MGM) (2nd week)	7,300	"The White Sister" (MGM) (1st week)	12,100	.....

[THEATRE RECEIPTS--CONT'D]

Theatres			Current Week: Picture	Current Week: Gross	Previous Week: Picture	Previous Week: Gross	High and Low Gross (Tabulation covers period from January, 1931 to date)
Hollywood
W. B. Hollywood	3,000	25c-50c	"Elmer the Great" (F. N.).....	9,800	"Central Airport" (F. N.).....	10,500	High 2-7 "Little Caesar".....	30,000
							Low 11-7 "Honor of the Family".....	7,000
Indianapolis
Apollo	1,100	25c-40c	"Christopher Strong" (Radio)....	3,000	"King Kong" (Radio).....	3,500	High 6-13 "Daddy Long Legs".....	10,000
							Low 3-10-33 "Topaze"	2,500
Circle	2,800	25c-40c	"A Bedtime Story" (Para.).....	8,000	"Parole Girl" (Col.).....	4,000	High 2-14 "Cimarron".....	13,000
							Low 3-3-33 "Sign of the Cross"..... (Second run)	2,500
Indiana	3,300	25c-40c	"Crime of the Century" (Para.)..	6,000	"Girl Missing" (W. B.).....	13,000	High 1-17 "Her Man".....	25,000
							Low 4-16-33 "The Big Drive".....	5,000
Palace	2,800	25c-40c	"Secrets" (U. A.).....	6,500	"Today We Live" (MGM).....	6,000	High 5-2 "Trader Horn"	22,000
							Low 3-3-33 "Clear All Wires".....	3,500
Kansas City
Mainstreet	3,049	25c-40c	"Out All Night" (U.)..... (8 days)	7,000	"King Kong" (Radio)..... (2nd week-4 days)	2,000	High 1-9-32 "Peach o' Reno".....	25,500
							Low 3-7-33 "The Great Jasper"..... (Second week of straight film policy.)	4,000
Midland	4,000	25c	"Secrets" (U. A.)..... (7 days and Sat. midnite show)	9,800	"Rasputin and the Empress".... (MGM) (7 days and Sat. midnite show)	17,000	High 1-5-33 "Strange Interlude".....	30,000
							Low 12-8-32 "Man Against Woman"...	6,000
Newman	2,000	25c-50c	"Song of the Eagle" (Para.)..... (6 days and Sat. midnite show) (25c-40c)	6,000	"Ex-Lady" (W. B.)..... (6 days and Sat. midnite show)	3,500	High 2-27-32 "Shanghai Express"	25,000
							Low 4-28-33 "Ex-Lady".....	3,500
Uptown	2,000	25c-40c	"Elmer the Great" (F. N.).....	3,000	"Cavalcade" (Fox) ..... (2nd week-4 days)	2,000	High 1-10 "Girl of the Golden West"..	8,000
							Low 5-21-32 "Lena Rivers"	2,000
Los Angeles
Loew's State ...	2,416	25c-40c	"The White Sister" (MGM)....	13,607	"Cavalcade" (Fox)	16,083	High 10-25 "Susan Lenox".....	39,000
							Low 3-5-32 "The Silent Witness".....	6,963
Paramount	3,596	25c-40c	"Song of the Eagle" (Para.)....	14,750	"A Bedtime Story" (Para.)..... (2nd week)	14,500	High 10-31 "Beloved Bachelor".....	41,000
							Low 2-6-32 "Tomorrow and Tomorrow"	7,500
RKO	2,700	25c-55c	"The Fighting President" (U.) and "Out All Night" (U.) (4 days)	3,000	"Our Betters" (Radio).....	6,100	.....
W. B. Downtown	2,400	25c-50c	"Elmer the Great" (F. N.).....	13,200	"Central Airport" (F. N.).....	12,750	High 2-7 "Little Caesar"	27,000
							Low 4-23-32 "Destry Rides Again".....	6,200
W. B. Western.	2,400	25c-50c	"Central Airport" (F. N.).....	5,700	"The Keyhole" (W. B.).....	7,200	.....
Minneapolis
Century	1,640	25c-40c	"Pick Up" (Para.).....	4,500	"The Keyhole" (W. B.).....	4,000	.....
Lyceum	1,800	25c-40c	"The Big Cage" (U.)	3,000	"Kiss Before the Mirror" (U.)....	3,000	.....
Lyric	1,238	25c-40c	"Murders at the Zoo" (Para.)....	2,000	"Hello, Sister" (Fox).....	2,000	High 5-30 "Kiki"	4,000
							Low 1-24 "Men on Call".....	1,200
RKO Orpheum..	2,900	25c-50c	"Sweepings" (Radio)	6,000	"The Vampire Bat" (Majestic)....	10,000	.....
State	2,300	25c-55c	"Central Airport" (F. N.).....	6,500	"Cavalcade" (Fox)	8,000	High 1-2-32 "Sooky"	10,000
							Low 3-10-33 "King of the Jungle".....	3,500
World	400	25c-75c	"Be Mine Tonight" (U.)	1,500	"Be Mine Tonight" (U.)..... (2nd week)	1,750	.....
Montreal
Capitol	2,547	25c-60c	"The Keyhole" (W. B.) and..... "Grand Slam" (F. N.)	12,000	"Be Mine Tonight" (U.) and..... "The Mind Reader" (F. N.)	11,000	High 1-10 "Just Imagine"	18,000
							Low 12-23 "The Guardsman" and "The Tip Off" ...	8,000
Imperial	1,914	25c-60c	"Mirage de Paris" (French).....	2,000	"Les Deux Orphelines" (French).. (2nd week)	1,500	High 1-17 "Office Wife"	10,000
							Low 4-14-33 "Allo, Mademoiselle".....	1,500
Loew's	3,115	25c-75c	"King of the Jungle" (Para.)....	13,000	"Clear All Wires" (MGM).....	13,000	High 4-2-32 "Fireman, Save My Child"	16,500
							Low 7-18 "Stepping Out"	9,000
Palace	2,600	25c-75c	"Cavalcade" (Fox) ..... (2nd week)	10,500	"Cavalcade" (Fox) ..... (1st week)	13,500	High 4-2-32 "One Hour With You"....	19,500
							Low 12-23-32 "Life Begins".....	8,500
Princess	2,272	25c-60c	"Oliver Twist" (Monogram) and.. "Sailor Be Good" (Radio)	7,000	"Rome Express" (British) and.... "There Goes the Bride" (British)	10,000	High 4-1 "City Lights"	22,500
							Low 12-23-32 "The Crusader" and "Hearts of Humanity"	6,000
New York
Astor	1,120	55c-$2.20	"Hell Below" (MGM)..... (2nd week)	12,701	"Hell Below" (MGM)..... (1st week-5 days and premiere)	13,911	High 1-2-32 "Hell Divers"	24,216
							Low 3-26-33 "The White Sister".....	14,559
Cameo	549	25c-75c	"M" (Para.)	1,750	"Kuhle Wampe" (Kinematrade)...	2,750	.....
Capitol	4,700	35c-$1.65	"Looking Forward" (MGM).....	43,568	"Today We Live" (MGM)..... (2nd week)	27,974	High 1-9-32 "Mata Hari"	110,466
							Low 2-2-33 "Whistling in the Dark"..	23,600
Mayfair	2,300	35c-85c	"Bondage" (Fox) ..... (2nd week—5 days)	7,000	"Bondage" (Fox) ..... (1st week)	12,700	High 12-12 "Frankenstein"	53,800
							Low 3-10-33 "Racetrack"	7,100
Palace	2,500	25c-75c	"Cavalcade" (Fox)	11,000	.....		.....
Paramount	3,700	35c-99c	"Song of the Eagle" (Para.).....	18,800	"Supernatural" (Para.)	23,300	High 2-7 "Finn and Hattie".....	85,900
							Low 2-2-33 "Hello, Everybody".....	15,600
Rialto	2,200	40c-65c	"So This Is Africa" (Col.)..... (2nd week)	9,500	"So This Is Africa" (Col.)..... (1st week)	17,500	High 2-27-32 "Shanghai Express".....	64,600
							Low 6-27 "Dracula" and "Hell's Angels"	4,500
Rivoli	2,103	40c-85c	"A Bedtime Story" (Para.)..... (2nd week)	21,100	"A Bedtime Story" (Para.)..... (1st week)	32,220	High 1-9-32 "Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde"	67,100
							Low 7-29-32 "Igloo"	8,000
RKO Music Hall	5,945	35c-$1.65	"Zoo in Budapest" (Fox).....	61,240	"The Working Man" (W. B.).....	79,332	.....
RKO Roxy	3,700	35c-$1.65	"Diplomaniacs" (Radio)	26,764	"Cavalcade" (Fox)	34,090	.....
Roxy	6,200	25c-55c	"Past of Mary Holmes" (Radio)..	19,000	"Humanity" (Fox)	20,200	High 1-1-32 "Delicious"	133,000
							Low 1-26-33 "Air Hostess"	9,100
Strand	3,000	25c-85c	"42nd Street" (W. B.)..... (8th week)	17,231	"42nd Street" (W. B.)..... (7th week)	19,431	High 1-17 "Little Caesar"	74,821
							Low 4-2-32 "The Missing Rembrandt"..	8,012
Oklahoma City
Capitol	1,200	10c-40c	"Picture Snatcher" (W. B.).....	3,200	"Ex-Lady" (W. B.).....	3,500	High 2-7 "Illicit"	11,000
							Low 3-11-33 "From Hell to Heaven"....	1,350
Criterion	1,700	10c-55c	"Gabriel Over the White House" (MGM)	4,500	"A Bedtime Story" (Para.).....	5,300	High 2-21 "Cimarron"	15,500
							Low 3-11-33 "Clear All Wires".....	1,800
Liberty	1,500	10c-35c	"Hello, Sister" (Fox)..... (4 days)	1,000	"Circus Queen Murder" (Col.).... (4 days)	1,100	High 1-24 "Under Suspicion".....	7,200
			"Rome Express" (U.) ..... (3 days)	1,000	"Destination Unknown" (U.)..... (3 days)	900	Low 6-20 "Big Fight" and "Drums of Jeopardy"	900
Mid-West	1,500	10c-55c	"Elmer the Great" (F.N.).....	3,000	"Cavalcade" (Fox)	5,000	High 9-19 "Young As You Feel".....	11,000
							Low 3-11-33 "Employees' Entrance"....	1,400

[THEATRE RECEIPTS--CONT'D]

Theatres			Current Week		Previous Week		High and Low Gross
			Picture	Gross	Picture	Gross	(Tabulation covers period from January, 1931 to date)
Omaha
Orpheum	3,000	20c-40c	"Out All Night" (U.) and "Mussolini Speaks" (Col.) (25c-40c) (6 days)	4,500	"Sweepings" (Radio)	5,000	High 2-14 "Cimarron" 25,550 Low 5-6-33 "Out All Night" and "Mussolini Speaks" 4,500
Paramount	2,900	25c-50c	"Today We Live" (MGM)	7,000	"Cavalcade" (Fox)	7,500	High 4-23-32 "Tarzan, the Ape Man" 13,750 Low 5-21-32 "Wet Parade" and "It's Tough to Be Famous" 4,000
State	1,200	15c-25c	"Broadway Bad" (Fox) (4 days)	900	"King Kong" (Radio) (4 days) (20c-50c)	1,300	High 3-14 "Trader Horn" 10,000 Low 2-10-33 "The Devil Is Driving" and "The Intruder" 1,000
			"A Lady's Profession" (Para.) (3 days)	750	"Trick for Trick" (Fox) (3 days)	500
World	2,500	25c-40c	"Pick Up" (Para.) and "The Mind Reader" (F. N.)	6,500	"Mystery of the Wax Musuem" (W. B.) and "Pleasure Cruise" (Fox)	4,750	High 4-11 "Men Call It Love" 16,000 Low 11-28 "The Cisco Kid" 4,500
Philadelphia
Arcadia	600	25c-50c	"Men Must Fight" (MGM) (4 days)	1,200	"What! No Beer?" (MGM) (6 days)	2,400	High 12-17 "The Guardsman" 6,500 Low 10-1-32 "Make Me a Star" 1,500
Boyd	2,400	40c-55c	"Secrets" (U. A.) (6 days)	11,500	"The White Sister" (MGM) (2nd week-4 days)	7,000	.....
Earle	2,000	40c-66c	"A Lady's Profession" (Para.) (6 days)	13,000	"Out All Night" (U.) (6 days)	14,000	High 1-5-33 "Breach of Promise" 29,000 Low 4-13-33 "Fast Workers" 12,000
Fox	3,000	35c-75c	"Zoo in Budapest" (Fox) (6 days)	18,000	"Cavalcade" (Fox) (2nd week-6 days)	17,000	High 2-7 "Man Who Came Back" 40,000 Low 6-18-32 "Mystery Ranch" 15,000
Karlton	1,000	30c-50c	"The White Sister" (MGM) (7 days)	6,300	"King Kong" (Radio) (5 days)	3,800	High 5-2 "City Lights" 8,000 Low 3-23-33 "Air Hostess" 2,500
Keith's	2,000	15c-35c	"Soldiers of the Storm" (Col.) (6 days)	6,500	"West of Singapore" (Monogram) (6 days)	6,500	High 1-30-32 "Arrowsmith" 27,000 Low 3-23-33 "Jungle Bride" 6,000
Locust	1,300	25c-55c	"Phantom Broadcast" (Monogram) (6 days) (40c-55c)	4,000	"Oliver Twist" (Monogram) (2nd week-6 days)	5,000	.....
Stanley	3,700	40c-55c	"A Bedtime Story" (Para.) (6 days)	11,500	"Central Airport" (F. N.) (6 days)	10,000	High 12-19 "Frankenstein" 31,000 Low 7-25 "Rebound" 8,000
Stanton	1,700	30c-55c	"Picture Snatcher" (W. B.) (6 days)	8,000	"Ex-Lady" (W. B.) (6 days)	7,500	High 3-21 "Last Parade" 16,500 Low 3-23-33 "Cohens and Kellys in Trouble" 5,500
Portland, Ore.
Broadway	1,912	25c-40c	"Central Airport" (F. N.)	5,700	"A Bedtime Story" (Para.)	7,300	High 1-10 "Min and Bill" 21,000 Low 10-1-32 "The Crash" 2,800
Liberty	1,800	15c-25c	"Hello, Everybody" (Para.)	1,800	"Grand Slam" (F. N.)	2,000	.....
Music Box	1,600	15c-35c	"Men Are Such Fools" (Radio)	1,900	"Sailor Be Good" (Radio)	2,400	.....
Oriental	2,040	25c-35c	"42nd Street" (W. B.) (3rd week)	5,000	"42nd Street" (W. B.) (2nd week)	5,800	.....
Rialto	1,500	15c-25c	"Destination Unknown" (U.) and "The Fighting President" (U.)	1,800	"From Hell to Heaven" (Para.)	1,700	High 3-21 "Trader Horn" 12,000 Low 2-10-33 "Billion Dollar Scandal" 1,000
RKO Orpheum	1,700	25c-55c	"Out All Night" (U.)	6,000	"King Kong" (Radio)	5,000	High 2-14 "Cimarron" 20,000 Low 3-17-33 "Great Jasper" 4,000
United Artists	945	25c-40c	"Today We Live" (MGM)	5,700	"The White Sister" (MGM)	5,000	High 1-10 "Hell's Angels" 12,500 Low 3-10-33 "Madame Butterfly" 1,600
San Francisco
Fox	4,600	10c-35c	"Unholy Love" (Allied) and "High Gear" (Hollywood)	9,300	"Unwritten Law" (Majestic) and "Iron Master" (Allied)	10,350	High 1-3 "Lightning" 70,000 Low 5-5-33 "Unholy Love" and "High Gear" 9,300
Golden Gate	2,800	25c-65c	"Out All Night" (U.)	13,500	"King Kong" (Radio) (2nd week-5 days)	6,500	High 2-9-33 "The Mummy" 25,500 Low 6-11-32 "Lena Rivers" 7,000
Paramount	2,670	25c-75c	"A Bedtime Story" (Para.)	16,500	"Central Airport" (F. N.)	11,000	High 1-9-32 "The Champ" 35,600 Low 3-31-33 "The King's Vacation" 9,500
St. Francis	1,435	25c-50c	"She Done Him Wrong" (Para.) and "Employees' Entrance" (F.N.)	12,000	"Men Must Fight" (MGM) and "A Lady's Profession" (Para.)	7,500	.....
United Artists	1,200	25c-50c	"Be Mine Tonight" (U.) (3rd week)	10,300	"Be Mine Tonight" (U.) (2nd week)	10,000	.....
Warfield	2,700	35c-90c	"Today We Live" (MGM)	16,000	"The Keyhole" (W. B.)	20,000	High 3-14 "Parlor, Bedroom and Bath" 28,000 Low 4-6-33 "Grand Slam" 12,000
Seattle
Blue Mouse	950	25c-50c	"King Kong" (Radio)	5,500	"Our Betters" (Radio)	3,500	.....
Fifth Avenue	2,750	25c-55c	"A Bedtime Story" (Para.)	7,000	"The White Sister" (MGM)	8,000	High 7-30-32 "Million Dollar Legs" 18,500 Low 3-18-33 "From Hell to Heaven" and "Secret of Madame Blanche" 5,000
Liberty	2,000	10c-25c	"Air Hostess" (Col.)	4,250	"Officer 13" (Allied) and "Midnight Warning" (Mayfair)	4,250	High 1-10 "The Lash" 11,500 Low 11-11-32 "Amazon Head Hunters" 3,000
Music Box	950	25c-50c	"King Kong" (Radio)	5,500	"42nd Street" (W. B.) (4th week)	4,000	High 2-28 "City Lights" 14,000 Low 11-25-32 "The Crooked Circle" 3,000
Paramount	3,050	25c-55c	"Looking Forward" (MGM)	6,500	"Central Airport" (F. N.) and "Pleasure Cruise" (Fox)	5,500	High 1-10 "Paid" 18,000 Low 4-15-33 "Clear All Wires" and "Broadway Bad" 4,500
Rex	1,500	15c-25c	"The Telegraph Trail" (W. B.)	2,500	"Girl Missing" (W. B.)	2,500	.....
Roxy	2,275	25c-50c	"So This Is Africa" (Col.)	7,500	"Child of Manhattan" (Col.)	7,000	.....
Washington
Columbia	1,232	25c-40c	"Bondage" (Fox)	2,250	"The Big Stampede" (W. B.)	3,200	.....
Earle	2,323	25c-66c	"Central Airport" (F. N.)	19,000	"Elmer the Great" (F. N.)	22,500	.....
Fox	3,434	25c-66c	"Zoo in Budapest" (Fox)	20,000	"Pleasure Cruise" (Fox)	22,000	.....
Loew's Palace	2,363	35c-55c	"Cavalcade" (Fox)	17,000	"The White Sister" (MGM) (2nd week)	10,500	.....
Metropolitan	1,600	25c-55c	"A Bedtime Story" (Para.) (2nd week)	4,500	"A Bedtime Story" (Para.) (1st week)	9,000	.....
Rialto	1,900	25c-55c	"Out All Night" (U.)	9,000	"Be Mine Tonight" (U.) (2nd week)	5,000	.....
RKO Keith's	1,832	25c-55c	"World Gone Mad" (Majestic) (4 days)	2,500	"Mussolini Speaks" (Col.) and "Parole Girl" (Col.) (4 days).	2,500	.....
			"Below the Sea" (Col.) (3 days)	2,000	"The World Gone Mad" (Majestic) (3 days)	3,000

MANAGERS' ROUND TABLE CLUB

An international association of showmen meeting weekly in MOTION PICTURE HERALD for mutual aid and progress

KNOW YOUR PRODUCT!

By FRANK M. BOUCHER

Manager, Maryland Theatre, Hagerstown, Md.

Wide experience in the exhibition and distribution phases of this industry gives weight to the views set forth by Frank M. Boucher, the Club's Guest Editor this week. He sees the need of more exhibitor representation and foresight in the planning of pictures in the studios and, coincidentally, a recent report from Hollywood indicates that this policy is being broadened by at least one producing organization. To all members of the Round Table Club the standing invitation to expression is again conveyed. Additional Guest Editors signed this week include: ANDY ANDERSON, Philadelphia; HARRY CRULL, London, England; FREDDIE SCHADER, Detroit; ERNIE SCHMIDT, Peekskill, N. Y.; SONNY SHEPHERD, Miami; HAL SHERIDAN, Des Moines.

ONE of the first requisites of any theatre manager is a thorough knowledge of the product which is being produced and that which he is going to show in his particular theatre. I doubt if there is a better informed person on pictures today than the theatre manager—he sees every picture that is made, he feels the audience reaction and he judges the value of pictures by his box office receipts. By the same token, I wonder how many of our Hollywood producers — how many of the sales executives in the distribution department have such knowledge.

It is true that with economic conditions as they are today plus our bank holidays, which still exist in certain localities, good pictures make money. Outstanding pictures make considerable money. One of the greatest faults in our own business today is the lack of good product. By an outstanding picture I do not necessarily mean one that it has cost seven hundred and fifty thousand to one million dollars to produce. Some of the most appealing and successful pictures at the box office have been those whose production cost has not gone beyond two hundred and fifty thousand dollars. I am, perhaps, a little more fortunate than a good many of my brother managers, having spent considerable time in the distribution end of our business and in that capacity have some insight as to production values.

The majority of our pictures so far this season have been produced either for art's sake or merely to fill out a production schedule. Certainly a limited number has been produced with the box office in mind. It is my personal opinion that every studio should have a board comprised of a theatre executive, a sales executive and a producer. Certainly out of this combination, a new and finer understanding of what theatre patrons desire should come.

With times as they are, we are in greater need of box office attractions than ever before. When times were good, and naturally with the advent of sound there were created innumerable potential patrons who came to our theatres almost regardless of the attraction. That feeling, however, has now worn off—they are shopping for their entertainment and shopping carefully. If our producers and distributors would take the time to study the product which they are contemplating or have made for general release, in the same spirit and with the same amount of time that a theatre manager does, then I feel sure that a great portion of our troubles would be over.

Another trouble that I find with our producing organizations is their tendency to follow cycles. If such a condition does not cease, the theatre managers, in time, will have to run a "gang week" during which all "gang" pictures will be shown and a "war week" during which all "war" pictures will be shown. I would almost feel inclined to recommend such a procedure to break the cycle policy.

The motion picture theatre of today is still the nation's favorite center of entertainment. A little more intelligent planning and foresight on the part of producers will aid considerably toward relieving the theatre manager of one of his greatest worries. Consistently good pictures will certainly bring the theatre back to a much better financial standing. Don't blame all the bad business on theatre managers or present economic conditions or bank holidays. Let Hollywood and New York take a little of the blame for their lack of good product and their lack of knowledge as to what the theatregoing public really desires in entertainment. Let Hollywood use a little more of judgment in the selection of stories, directors and stars. Let them be a little more human and intelligent in the selection of supporting casts. After all, 95 per cent of the American theatregoing public do not expect miracles—they merely want to be entertained. Correct these conditions and you will solve the theatre manager's greatest difficulties. At least one producing organization has been turning out consistently good product. Let us hope for more.

QUICK SERVICE IDEAS THAT WORKED

WILLIAM T. (BILL) BURNS is proving himself a credit to the amusement business. That is proven by the write-up given him recently by the local newspaper following the showman's activities at the Rialto Theatre, Roslindale, Mass. The clipping was forwarded by Tom Morrissey, acting assistant manager of the house and a great Burns' booster.

RAMON COLLINS, of the Avalon Theatre, Montgomery, Ala., continues to utilize his desired flair for straight heads and "sock" copy in his poster advertising. It works wonders for Ray.

JAMES F. LUNSFORD, assistant manager of the Palace Theatre, Phoenix City, Ariz., continues to aid his chief on show selling and one of his recent activities was the "Word Game" advertised by means of heralds in which free tickets were offered to persons building up the most five-letters words from the sentence "Freaks Are Not All Born." The stunt was in advance of "Freaks" and clicked well.

MORRIS ROSENTHAL, managing Arcadia Theatre, Wilmington, Del., is an ace when it comes to promotions, so it is no surprise to find him tying up national publications and obtaining permission to stuff circulars in the periodicals plugging his film attractions.

JOSEPH KINSKY, city manager for Publix Theatres in Sioux City, Iowa, featured a lobby display on "They Just Had to Get Married" by cutting in half an old Essex car and dressing the back portion up in the fashion cars are decorated for newlyweds. A cut-out of the two featured players showed through the rear window. The car was painted with appropriate copy and a circular cut-out beaverboard, placed on the tire rack, plugged the picture. Another interesting sales angle was the invitation to the wedding herald, made up in formal style. Incidentally, for "Wax Museum," Krimsky used a technicolor herald designed by C. W. Peterson, manager of the Princess. The multi-colored effect was produced through the delicate blending of printer's inks on the press plate, at no extra cost. If you'd like one of these heralds, why not drop Krimsky a note?

RICHARD MOSS of the RKO Theatre, Los Angeles, Cal., keeps the ball rolling by turning out complete campaigns on every picture he offers the public. Letters; teaser trailers; personal endorsements; soda fountain tie-ups; special sandwiches, etc.—the sex and many other showman angles are but routine work for Dick. But, then, for all of us, too. Right?

IRVING WATERSTREET, manager of the Victory Theatre, Salt Lake City, is reported doing nicely with a new series of revival nights. . . .

PICK UP THIS ONE!

Duke Wellington, premier artist for the New York Paramount and a number of other Broadway houses, weekly effects some excellent displays, and we are passing along this White Way front in the event you might want to use it on some picture, as it is easily adaptable.

A long beaver board background under the marquee furnished the setting for cut-outs of Sidney and Raft. To the left of the player's heads their cut-out names were nailed. Note the copy atop the center cut-out plugging the picture. Equally interesting is the stage show plug, constructed on the front of the box office. The colors were exceedingly attractive.

EDWARD (EDDIE) SELETTE, live-wire showman of the Broadway Theatre in Chelsea, Mass., accomplished, in one week, the following: "Free Beer tie-up in connection with "Flesh"; a toy automobile six feet long to be given youngsters having largest amount of votes (given with each Saturday matinee ticket); fine institutional heralds; free living room suite promoted from a local furniture dealer; and a unique card, signed "The Girl in the Box-Office" in which she expressed amazement at the wonderful policy being planned for the theatre.

ORESTES MACRIS, of the Temple Theatre, Wellsville, N. Y., didn't let the recent bank holiday knock the house for a loop. He staged a minstrel show in which all participants were kiddies between six and 12 years old. An added inducement was given the youngsters in the form of free tickets for canvassing neighbors, handing out heralds and obtaining friends' promises to be on hand. It was a sell-out both nights of the show.

ELY E. SEFF, managing Rialto Theatre, Sioux City, Iowa, received some fine publicity on "Air Hostess" by effecting a tie-up with the local United Air Lines representative and the pair crashed the newspapers as well as creating an effective window display.

A. MASSON, manager of the Oakwood Theatre, Toronto, Ontario, Canada, adopted a novel herald to publicize his picture, theatre and free parking space. The herald, done in black and white, carried effective copy and was enclosed in an envelope which carried a scare-head, "Let's Stay Native." . . .

TOM KANE, manager of the Fox Sequoia Theatre, Redwood City, Calif., promoted successfully a "Merchant's Better Times Week." Had full-page ad, free displays, and even gave away merchandise. All at no cost. . . .

H. E. WILTON, who for 13 years has managed the Strand Theatre in Hamilton, Canada, mails out invitation cards to kid members of the Mickey Mouse Club on their birthday. The card entitles the youngster to bring both his father and mother as guests. . . .

FLOYD MAXWELL delivered an interesting talk on the motion picture industry in Portland, Oregon, to members of the Junior Chamber of Commerce. Mr. Maxwell is manager of the local Orpheum. . . .

WALLY CALDWELL, manager of Loew's Valentine Theatre, Toledo, Ohio, obtained a front page editorial from Paul Block on "The White Sister" in the Toledo "Blade." This, plus an editorial by Grove Patterson, editor-in-chief, helped sell the picture. . . .

JOHN C. BLACK, handling the Garden Theatre, Davenport, Iowa, employed two effective little stunts to help sell "What, No Beer?" One idea was attaching a pretzel to a small card carrying copy on the picture. The other slant was a card made up in the form of a beer drinking permit, plugging picture and theatre. Both cards were distributed on the streets. Black relates that few of them found their way to the sidewalk. . . .

STANLEY W. LAWTON, managing director of the George M. Cohan Theatre in New York City, inaugurated a price innovation for the White Way by offering two features, one a hit of past years, the other a current film, at nominal matinee and evening prices—fifteen and a quarter.

AL ZIMBALIST continues as the Little Bo Peep and Tell columnist for the New Jersey Dough Getters of the Warner Jersey Division. Al says the Englishmen say, "I sye, old deah, but can you spahe two nickels without undue embarrassment?"

SHORT SUBJECTS VITAL TO PROGRAM!

Trend Away from Dual Feature Again Stresses Importance of Shorts; Are Business Builders If Properly Grouped and Sold

By G. B. ODLUM

THE growing tendency toward deflating the Double Feature idea brings back to the spotlight with increasing vigor the usefullness and flexibility of the short feature program, particularly since bookers have constantly used the double feature idea as a dump (or sluff) for weak sisters of the screen.

The Short Feature well selected and announced in ad copy should and does enhance the program feature and can and will build business if properly grouped and built into a coherent entertainment.

The "Shorts" program selected with care and built into a program of entertainment similar to the method with which vaudeville programs were arranged in the dim days of "Flesh," and selecting from this program a second headline for your ad copy, has just as much selling power as a two feature show with no shorts for a buildup.

For instance—a redhot item from the News Reel of the Moment—A Big Name from Your Comedy or Featurette Special—say Little Jack Little-Morton Downey or Laurel and Hardy is just as eye-arresting as a comparatively unknown European star in some imported feature contrasted against the big spread of the principal feature displayed in your copy and the buyers' reaction is just the same; for showgoers of today are supreme show shoppers, and the writer has noted that relatively more inquiries are made for Mickey Mouse, or any other cartoon and many other shorts, than for any obscure feature added as "Extra" to the program or any other selling line being used at the moment.

Again the flexibility in program of the short subject as against the double feature is immeasurably in favor of the shorts and any programmer will verify the difficulty of satisfactorily programing the two full-length features for B. O. value and overtime hazards.

This writer, listening consistently to customers' comments, has found that the one program feature which is asked for more than any other, including the feature, is the cartoon, and the asker is invariably not a child. The middle aged, the school girl, the under twelve tencenter, all join in the chorus of applause for the "short" through their continuous questionnaire relative to cartoon or News, or what have you, indicates definitely that a small screen item is of value and is a factor in the build up of patronage.

The Mayor of a certain city recently told me his boys came to all the westerns—his wife to the serious subjects and he, the Mayor—only came to the show to see the cartoons and the News.

A recent addition to the short subjects has included many famous radio celebrities and without boosting for any particular brand of film makers' productions this writing cannot be complete without mentioning the value of these popular names. These are worthy of big type in any ad copy to the standard city theatre patronage and customers' comments have been clamorous of their praise of the advent of the radio star to the screen. Some of the continuity has not been so good, but the individual presentation of the celebrity-performing their well known favorite numbers has and will be an asset to the program of shorts.

A recent buildup on the kiddie klub idea, which certainly helped cartoons to their pinnacles of popularity with the younger element, was developed by one manager into a radio tieup sponsored by the association of commerce and presented on the air as the Kareful Kiddies Klub with Mickey Mouse pins as the official badge of the Klub. The tieup was clinched by the Safety League in connection with the annual "Safety Week."

Many other obvious devices for boosting the "short subject" can be utilized and the care and sincerity with which these odds and ends of screen entertainment are assembled and presented can certainly lend box office value for offsetting the weak second feature on the lengthy, unwieldy double feature program. The average payee at the box office comes to see either one or the other of these feature length stories, with the direct result that should the paying guest have to sit throughout the feature they did not wish to see, it is done with a yawn. The result is not satisfactory; whereas the same screen time used for a

(Continued on page 67)

G. B. Odlum and S. S. Solomon, whose atricles on the value of short subjects appear on this page, need little introduction to the majority of Club members. Both are showmen of wide experience and well qualified to present their views. The former has been recently engaged with management of the Capitol and Colonial Theatres, Elmira, N. Y., and prior to this assignment had charge of the Capitol, a Warner affiliation in Wheeling, W. Va. Although at present active in the radio broadcasting field he has plans under way to re-enter showbusiness proper at an early date. "Sig" Solomon will be recalled as having contributed many valuable articles to this department on different phases of showmanship. He is city manager of Publix interests at Youngstown, Ohio, with headquarters at the Paramount Theatre.

Quality and Program Balance Highly Important Phases of Short Subject Booking; Good "Cook" Can Blend Properly

By S. S. SOLOMON

FIRST, last, and foremost let's not forget that we are still in the show business; and whatever the policies or wherever the theatre, it is our conscientious responsibility to serve entertainment one hundred per cent.

Much too often does the average manager say to himself, "Well, now—my feature is seventy minutes and we must have a two-hour show; therefore I'll book in enough shorts to make up the difference in time." How many of us are guilty of placing just film and footage on the screen without regard to quality or program balance?

True enough, in this age of double featuring, abnormally long and short features, presentations, combination policies, and what-not, the box-office value of the one and two-reelers is practically negligible. Taking it for granted that the short feature will not bring in an appreciable amount of money at the box-office, isn't it just as true that a manager's problem is not only to bring the patrons to the box-office, but also to satisfy them?

I believe the best method to pursue in selecting the shorts or any one program is to try to place one's self in the mind and attitude of mister, missus, or miss average local theatre-goer. I have always attempted to blend talking picture entertainment similar to that of vaudeville performances and building around the feature to yield the proper amount of blending and contrast which can only be determined by a smart mixture of showmanship and appreciation of the clientele you are trying to interest.

To attempt to set-up a definite system for the booking of short subjects would not be unlike attempting to season all kinds of food for all palates with the same kinds and amount of seasoning products.

Truly, the short subject is the spice of the program, and only a conscientious and indulgent "cook" can mold a properly blended program.

While we agree that the women-folk are the backbone of screen entertainment, we must not neglect the men and children. If the feature is a western, let's add a domestic two-reel comedy and possibly a pictorial and cartoon. If we have a sex-feature, give the boys a sport-reel or a fast-action comedy with the same program. Naturally, if your feature is catering to one element, it would be suicide to force any short subject on them that would yield very little entertainment. As an illustration, if any manager would spot a fashion reel on the same program with "The Big Drive" he should be . . . well, you name the punishment!

The merchandising of shorts—to my mind—should be essentially institutional. Unquestionably, a theatre builds up a definite reputation as to short subject entertainment that is a distinct asset or liability. I can very definitely tell you of a theatre in this very city that many would-be

(Continued on page 67)

PUZZLE CRAZE

Dept. and Chain Store 25c Seller

MYSTO SEVEN PUZZLING BLOCKS Trade Mark Registered

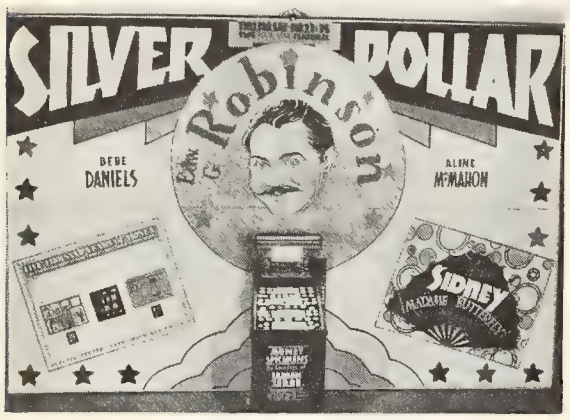
Novel Door Prize for Patrons

$10 per C—$90 per M net

With Theatre Imprint $2.50 Extra

Limited supply on hand. First come, first served. Orders will not be guaranteed to be filled after May 25. Greatest Game since the Jig-Saw and Cross-Word Puzzle. More entertaining and larger variety of stunts. Fine tie-up for Schools, Clubs and Kiddie Matinees. Backed by National Newspaper Advertising.

Money Order or Check must accompany order



GENERAL THEATRE EXCHANGE
551 FIFTH AVENUE NEW YORK CITY

DISPLAY OF UNIQUE COINS HELPED BILL BROWN SELL PICTURE

Unique displays continue to be made by William Brown, manager of the Marboro Theatre, Brooklyn, and a member of the Randforce Circuit of that city.

This time we present for your inspection the results of a tie-up Bill made with a numismatist over in New York City and the idea came with knowledge that Chase National had a window display of rare old coins. Not to be outdone by Chase when "Silver Dollar" came along the display shown in the accompanying photo was arranged and the coins from all over the world attracted plenty of attention. The piece at lower left is a 22x28 entitled "Five Thousand Years of Money," published by the local bank.

We've had the privilege of publishing photos and accounts of a number of Brown's displays and this one is right in line with his usual efforts to create something outstanding. Bill probably has another one up his sleeve by this time and we'll do our best by it when it arrives.

Brown's unique display!

Down in Virginia

Charles S. Roth, formerly of Staunton, Va., has been assigned management of the Warner-Virginia Theatre, Harrisburg, Va. Charles H. McKinney, former manager of the Harrisburg house, is now in charge of the Strand Theatre in Staunton.

The Newmarket Theatre, New Market, Va., which recently showed "Grand Hotel" to large audiences at advanced admission rates, is now working on a 15 and 25 cent scale. General reduction in rates among other Virginia houses are reported under way.

AD MAT SERVICE

COMPLETE NEWSPAPER CAMPAIGNS (10 Ads) on all nationally released feature pictures sent from one source.

Also

A MONTHLY GENERAL SERVICE of seasonal and attention-getting borders, ads, miscellaneous slugs, etc.

Centralized Service insures Economy and Efficiency. . . New low service charge to meet reduced budgets.

Write to

UNITED THEATRE ADVERTISERS, Inc.
330 WEST 42nd STREET, NEW YORK CITY

BEAVERBOARD 'PLANE

The display shown above was created by Herbert Morgan of the RKO Proctor's Theatre, Schenectady, for "Air Mail" and was not just an ordinary, painted affair but a giant beaverboard 'plane with wings extending out into the lobby. When the windows were lighted, the effect was striking against a black background.

CARROLL SENT OUT LETTER OF CHEER DURING THE PANIC

Among the first batch of "Bank Holiday" gags to reach this office was a letter sent out to patrons by Chas. P. Carroll, managing director of the Academy of Music, New York City.

He called upon the public to have faith in the new administration at Washington, saw the country-wide condition as one to test the fibre and patriotism of all citizens and announced that the Academy would accept legal scrip should that form of currency be put into circulation. It was further pointed out that in times of stress a few hours spent in a theatre would provide the diversion so necessary to worn nerve forces. Carroll coined a slogan "You Can't Stop America" and featured it at the close of the letter, stating further: "We Preach It. . . Practice It. . . And Reverently Hope To Perpetuate it!"

Carroll's letter was nicely timed and written and we sincerely believe it was read to a finish by many persons in the neighborhood of his theatre. After all, a theatre is a most important institution in any community and a message of good cheer from the management is certainly not amiss.

L. SCHNITZER MADE EFFECTIVE DISPLAY FOR "NIGHT MAYOR"

A display made for "Night Mayor" by Louis Schnitzer, manager of the Benson Theatre, Brooklyn, N. Y., recently attracted plenty of attention and effectively helped sell the attraction.

It consisted of six 8 x 10 photos of former mayors of New York City and a centre 11 x 14 of former Mayor Walker disporting himself on a pair of skiis. The main copy read: "Were Any of These Former Mayors 'Night Mayors'?" Copy below read: "I'll Match My Private Life With Any Man's!—Says Lee Tracy in 'The Night Mayor'."

We received the above through the courtesy of assistant manager Walter Goldstein and we have his word for it that the display was effective exploitation. Regards to your Chief, Waler.

LOBBY "SPEAKEASY" HAD TOWN TALKING ABOUT BEER PICTURE

Promoting more than 200 cases of soft drinks from a local bottling company, Herman C. Bamberger, manager of the Paramount Theatre, Middletown, Ohio, effected a corking lobby display for "What, No Beer?"

In fact, we think Herman's gag was so well done that we are showing a photo of it: re-creation of a regular bar, and placed in the lobby of the theatre. Free drinks were advertised several days in advance, both in the newspapers and on the screen. A large poster in a number of important windows also heralded the stunt.

The poster carried copy: "Free Drinks in Middletown's Newest Speakeasy—In the Lobby of the Paramount Theatre—C'mon in and Have One on the House!"

Perhaps you have a spot for this stunt on a future campaign, and if you don't happen to have one right now then file the gag away for use when you need it, as the bar can be constructed at little or no cost. Herman, incidentally, secured the services of a bartender from the bottling company.

Real barroom atmosphere!

ROUND TABLE BIOGRAPHIES

Sammy Siegel, whose application for membership accompanied this information, enjoys the enviable distinction of having started in the theatre business as a protege of the "one and only" Eddie Hitchcock. Sam's own sworn statement reveals that he was a salesman for a corset manufacturing company prior to that time. He originally served with Hitchcock in the publicity department of Fox West Coast Theatres in Seattle, later was publicity director for John Danz's Sterling Chain Theatres in the same city, also handled publicity for the Seattle division of Universal Chain Theatres, and publicized grand opera with Hitchcock for the American Broadcasting Company in Seattle.

Sam is now handling publicity material and exploitation for the John Hamrick circuit, comprising nine theatres in Seattle, Tacoma and Portland. He lists his birthplace as Little Falls, Minnesota, with the approximate date of birth November 11, 1902. He modestly admits that he is single, and encloses his photo "in hopes. . . ."

BOX OFFICE VERSUS HOT WEATHER!

Now's the Time To Plan Your Summer Campaign and Knock "Old Sol" For the Count of Nine During the Hot Months

Hot weather is just around the corner. Soon street pavements will sizzle with heat; pedestrians will be mopping perspiration from their brows, and thinking about where they can go to get a breath of fresh, cool air. The ages-old battle between beach resorts and theatres will be in full swing. . . .

Have you prepared your Cool Campaign; have you cleaned up your house, checked all items of equipment and put it in shape; have you ordered special trailers to sell the Cool Idea; have you ordered "Cool" cuts for ads, and made other efforts to get and hold trade? If you haven't done these things, get busy; for this year, as never before, low rates to the seashore and mountain resorts and other competitive moves will cut seriously into a trade which naturally falls below average during June, July and August, unless a strong effort is made to retain it.

The suggestions made herewith have been culled from various contributions made to this department by members of the Round Table Club. Use them and get your share of summer trade. More will be published from time to time. Incidentally, a limited number of reprints of last season's "Warm Weather Suggestions," a four-page article, are still available for Club members who may wish additional details. However, it has been the aim here to incorporate and bring up to date the more important features of several articles and combine them into one.

AT this season it is to be taken for granted that the preliminary steps in your plans for the summer, such as overhauling and cooling system, cleaning, changing the general scheme of lighting, checking up in general, etc., have been made. If you are part of a chain theatre organization you have undoubtedly been in touch with headquarters and made the necessary arrangements; if you are an independent operator you have probably mapped out your campaign in your own way. If you haven't given this matter the proper attention it would be well to do so at once. Summer has a habit of bursting upon us all of a sudden.

Propaganda!

Who made your cooling plant? If you don't know, find out and write for photos and literature on refrigeration. Last season a host of managers succeeded in getting their local newspapers to run stories and cuts explaining how theatres are cooled. The subject is interesting to the layman.

Don't Freeze Them Out!

Many managers have found to their dismay that they over-stressed the word "Refrigeration" in all mediums of advertising; in fact, patrons began to shiver every time they saw the word associated with a theatre. This, combined with a deluge of national advertising on home refrigeration, led them to think of ice-boxes instead of a "Comfortably Cool" auditorium. Be reasonable in your claims. We believe it will pay in the long run. If you haven't a cooling system, forget that old line of "Twenty Degrees Cooler Inside," for a long suffering public is altogether wised-up to that one. Try green lights, silent fans, draperies in keeping with the season and attractive lobby displays; or else, get that cooling system installed at once. Competition is too keen today to resort to artifice.

Still Shivering!

Fronts can also be overdone in the matter of icicles, scenes from Labrador and other points North, creating the impression that one is about to enter an igloo. Here again it is well to strike a happy medium. Small cutouts of Eskimos, Polar bears and fringes of icicles will serve to carry out the idea, just as well as an overabundance of this sort of thing. It is also well to confine lobby posters to blues, greens, yellows and whites. Reds suggest warmth. As to lamps, use frosted hulbs instead of plain ones.

Tie-up With a Florist

Fern baskets, palms and various other cool looking plants lend a particularly inviting appearance to any man's theatre. You can save yourself a piece of change by trying your brand of salesmanship on the leading florist. See if you can sell him the idea of supplying foyer and lounge rooms with flowers and greenery. A neat credit card of program mention will generally turn the trick.

Importance of Trailers

Trailers are important, especially during the advance campaign. Start plugging the "Comfortably Cool" idea before the hot weather arrives, so that when the sun does blaze forth they'll have your theatre in mind. Possibly a series of trailers, changed weekly, is less monotonous than the same old copy week after week. The cost is trivial compared to the amount of good this sort of propaganda can accomplish. If you can't write copy that carries a punch, get in touch with the company that made your cooling system and have them work out a campaign. If you make the attempt yourself it is suggested that short, snappy copy pointing out highlights of the system be used, together with appropriate catchlines such as, "Why Go Away to Escape Heat?" "How to Keep Cool This Summer"; "How Cool Is a Cucumber?" "Cool, Not Cold"; "Invigorating and Refreshing"; "Healthfully Cool."

Newspaper Ads

As to newspaper ads, also use judgment in the matter of icicles, snow, etc. Too much of this sort of stuff will clutter up an ad and make it unreadable. In other words, don't think of the blizzard of '88 when you are preparing copy—just an ordinary snow-squall. A change of type-style is also in keeping with the general scheme to plug the cool idea, and this same thought can be applied to lobby signs and frames. Create some good catchlines and use them sensibly.

Here's an ad that struck a popular note in last season's campaigns.

Business Stimulators

Many business stimulators for use throughout the summer months have been set down in this department from time to time. Some of these stunts have been frowned upon by certain of the larger circuits but the fact remains that they've garnered business in the past and we'll venture the opinion that they'll again work for those managers who put them over in the right way. Look over the following assortment:

Bathing Revues

Every retailer of bathing suits in your community will be interested. Begin to contact them now, arranging for a bathing revue on your stage one, two or three nights. In the bigger towns the revue can run one full week.

The Jantzen Bathing Suit dealers had a national tie-up on pictures in which Loretta Young, Joan Blondell or Douglas Fairbanks, Jr., are starred. The national distributor of these suits had window display material and other sales media that was given to the dealer for the asking. Watch your bookings and capitalize again on this tie-up.

Soft Drink Tie-ups

Reference to your files will bring to light detailed campaigns that were worked successfully in many of the theatres last year. It's time to do this again. Contact your bottling works at once, being sure to get the very utmost in cooperation. If you have misplaced the detailed plans call on some managers who operated this scheme successfully last year.

Gold Nights

Gold Nights proved themselves as being real revenue getters in every operation that went in for this type of activity. It is more than a year since this effort was engaged in in many of the theatres. It's good for a repeat—go after it.

Graduation Parties

Between June 1 and June 16 several hundreds of students will complete their studies.

(Continued on following page)

WARM WEATHER SUGGESTIONS

(Continued from preceding page)

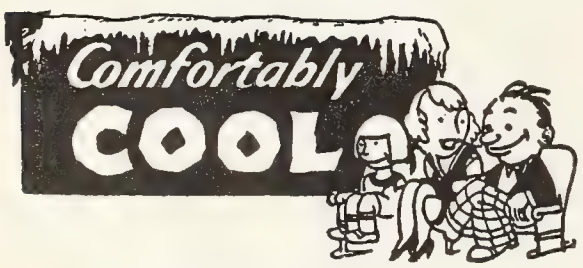
Every class is anxious to celebrate in some manner. By starting to contact school principals and class leaders at once you can influence these celebrations to be held at your theatre. Do the job thoroughly—contact every grade and high school; parochial schools; private institutions, not only in your town, but in those towns immediately surrounding it.

Ice Cream Tie-ups

Smaller ice cream makers and retailers can be contacted for the give-away of ice cream cones, small portions of brick cream, etc., in the lobby of your theatre either on one day a week or as a regular summer advertising activity. The dealer will supply the girl attendants and the ice and is getting a marvelous break in being privileged to distribute samples to the select patronage of your theatre.



Ice cream give-aways for kiddie matinees are marvelous business stimulators—go after them.

Pony, Puppy Giveaways, Etc.

Two theatres recently engaged in this activity with two to 20 merchants cooperating, guaranteeing herald coverage, window display and newspaper advertising over a four-week period plus the price of the pony and dogs at no cost to the theatre whatever.

Kid Business

Keep it alive by all means. Go into pet matinees with prizes for the best dogs and best cats. Go in for pie-eating contests, ice-cream-

A conservative statement!

eating contests, kid games and other things of interest to the youngsters that will make them think of your theatre first when seeking amusement and then go home and tell the grown folks what a wonderful time they had. Rework all the old kiddie stunts you ever did and generate some new ones.

Bicycle Giveaways

Every youngster in your territory is anxious to own a bicycle and every bicycle dealer is anxious to get the kind of advertising in back of his product that will mean real sales effort.

Here's a bit of home town propaganda!

Tons of cool fresh air are pouring into the FOX PALACE . . . $60,000 worth of machinery working to keep you cool and comfortable . . . tons of steel turning heat and humidity into summer resort weather . . . come to the PALACE and laugh in the face of the weather man.

A plug for the cooling plant!

You might not be able to get a new bicycle, and if you can't, follow Ed Cangley's scheme at Owego, who repainted an old one and increased his kid business 60 per cent on the day of award.

Refrigerator Giveaways

No product on the American market is receiving the advertising today that is given automatic refrigeration. Competition in this field is keener than in any other and very little opposition confronts you in contacting dealers for give-aways either on numbers, popularity or other type of contests.

Ice Box Giveaways—Ice Coupon Books

Dealers in natural and artificial ice are finally awakening to the menace of automatic refrigeration and are conducting demonstrations to illustrate the value of ice over electric refrigeration. These dealers are ready and willing to give ornamental ice boxes and prizes running into tons of ice in the form of coupons good for 100, 500, 1,000 and 2,000 pounds of ice to your patrons.

Amateur Nights

Regardless of the hot weather, the presentation of amateur talent in most instances means increased business. This activity has also been dead for almost a year—revive it. Contact the prize winners of previous contests—solicit dancing schools, piano and violin teachers, band instrument stores and others who will provide you with a list of their prize pupils that will raise the roster of available talent to dimensions that will guarantee several weeks of varied presentations.

Stage Weddings

Wherever this activity has been indulged in the SRO signs have been hung out. June is the month! The cooperation of department stores, jewelers, florists, lingerie merchants, shoe dealers, millinery stores, beauty parlors, auto dealers, etc., is all yours for the asking. A detailed plan of conducting a stage wedding will be found in the MOTION PICTURE HERALD issue of December 12, 1931, and October 31, 1931. If these numbers are not on hand, a letter to 1790 Broadway, New York, will bring duplicates. Write for them and put this over big.

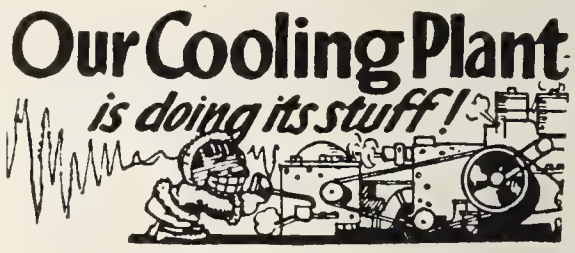
Clean-up Week

In a lot of the cities the newspapers have already gotten in back of this annual event. If your town is one that remains untouched, contact your newspaper at once. Start the activity at your theatre. Get every usher, cleaner, stage hand, operator and yourself working to refurnish the entire house. An excellent outline of how to go about this is included in the first two paragraphs on Page 60 of MOTION PICTURE HERALD issue of May 14, 1932.

Garden Week

This also offers an opportunity for newspaper cooperation. The world is in love with flowers! Every one from 6 to 66 wants a garden! Tie in with your newspaper, offering prizes of admissions to your theatre for the best examples of home grown flowers and plants. In addition to the advertising and goodwill you will receive, the flowers and plants entered in the contest will make a very attractive lobby display to which entrants will invite their friends. This idea is as big as you make it. Elaborate upon it, but, get it under way.

Lobbies



Begin at once to inaugurate a series of activities that will liven the lobby of your theatre. The give-away of ice cream; soft drinks; iced tea; cake; the exhibition of rowing machines with girl demonstrators, reducing machines with girl demonstrators and many other ideas offer possibilities of cost free tie-ups that will liven your lobby and provide additional interest and entertainment for your patrons.

Other Stunts

If you feel an urge to break out in a ballyhoo rash during the warm weather you might try mounting a large, stuffed polar bear on a float. Blocks of jagged papier mache ice help out the general scheme.

Arnold Gates, Round Tabler out at the Granada, Cleveland, suggests a "Keep Cool Club." Here's an idea you can play around with as regards the kiddie end of your patronage.

Last summer, Bill Saxton, Loew man down

Another plug for the plant!

at Baltimore, obtained a nice story in local papers by offering to let patrons sleep all night in their theatre chairs during the extremely hot weather. So if you want to get a lowdown on the hotel business you might try Bill's stunt. It was good publicity, anyway.

Last but not least, there's the practice of dressing employees in palm beach suits, which brings up the laundry bills a bit, it's true, but certainly lends tone to a house.

From the foregoing it is possible to build up a rapid-fire campaign throughout June, July and August. Map your plans now and keep plugging along until Old Sol eases up on the heat throttle. The business is there if you'll go after it.

A Few Don'ts

Here are a few "Don'ts" which appeared in "Howdy," Warner-New Jersey house organ:

Don't Sell the idea of Coolness and Comfort alone; remember your screen, stage and other attractions.

Don't let performers, if any, mop their brows or refer in any way to the heat.

Don't let musicians play heavy overtures or music that rises in thunderous crescendo. People become restless.

Don't neglect seat covers; keep them spick and span.

Don't neglect the drapes; are they covered with cooling effects?

Don't use "hot" colors on stage cards if you play acts.

And don't forget that brevity is the soul of coolness, whether in announcements, ads, trailers, lobby or newspapers.

HERE'S A COUPLE OF GAGS RECENTLY USED BY ANNA BELL WARD

Just to let the whole show-world know that Anna Bell Ward, executive and publicity expert of the Phoenix Amusement Company, Lexington, Ky., is still very much alive and still very much on the job of exploiting pictures, we're reproducing a couple of photos showing a portion of the campaign this versatile showwoman waged in behalf of "Bitter Tea."

For one thing, the good old sound truck

An elaborate sound truck!

(which, as you will readily agree, is quite an elaborate affair) was routed through all sections of the city. Music, announcing and stops at all strategic points to hand out (one at a time) tickets, beyond the shadow of a doubt impressed the natives with the fact that "Bitter Tea" was playing the Ben Ali. Note that the sound truck is in reality a large trailer and can be hitched to any kind of automotive vehicle. Banners are tacked on as the occasion demands.

Vaudeville ballyhoo!

The other photo shows one of Miss Anna's methods of advertising vaudeville. She tied-up with a dealer in a popular priced automobile and then secured the services of a stilt-walker to accompany the demonstrator on a tour of the downtown section of the city. The stilt-walker attracted plenty of attention by riding on top of the car and dusting off second-story windows. Naturally, the demonstrator also managed to get in a plug now and then for his car. Note that the stilt-walker carried a large sign on his back to advertise "Ben Ali Vodvil."

Several weeks ago we ran an article about a robot which had been used to excellent advantage by Miss Ward at the several theatres under her supervision. Unaware that the mechanical man created by Morgan Elliott was such a complicated contrivance, we innocently suggested that Miss Anna Bell would, without doubt, gladly furnish particulars as to construction. However, she advises us that this robot cost about $900 to rig up and that he's Some Man! And we can well believe that when we are told that Elliott gets $150 per week when renting his mechanical wonder. Not many theatre men will want to go overboard that much to build a robot, hence it will not be of much avail to seek further information from Miss Ward on robots unless interested to the extent of making the investment. On the other hand, as most showmen know, a fake robot can be built and rigged with speaker and mike at a fairly reasonable outlay.

NEW JERSEY GO-GETTERS!

by AL ZIMBALIST

LET'S roam about New Jersey for a few paragraphs and learn all about showmanship from . . . Sam Goldman planted one of the neatest and most comprehensive campaigns on M. in Uniform. . . . "Hard to Handle" is crocking them in the neibs. . . . Louis Stein of the Ritz-Newark is taking a flyer into exploitation what with a scheduled car giveaway, stage wedding and recently completed recording contest. . . . Karmitz is now performing wonders (yeh, they still hear of them here) at the Central, J. C., with his I map tie-ups. . . .

▽

Mistah Powers, formerly of RKO 86th Street Theatre and now knockin' them dead at the RKO Proctor's, is billing his stage attractions over features . . . and even this stooge couldn't find room for his pants. . . . Ray Cohn of the Capitol, Belleville, is giving plenty of headaches to depression. He's leading in the Warner Rainbow Handicap Drive. . . . James Fawns is heading for big things . . . and with a little more results . . . it shouldn't be long . . . you should taste the meals his missus (former Marion Roberts) cooks!!! if I can keep on getting these meals. . . . Mike Weshner of the U-U Hoboken has signed for the Karmitz lamp giveaway. . . .

▽

Mr. Norman is now the new manager of the Roosevelt-Union City replacing Frank Holler, who left. . . . Bill Weiss packs 'em in at the Capitol-Passaic with card stunts. . . . Sam Mutterpearl is on the verge of announcing one of the biggest benefit tie-ups ever heard of in these yere parts. . . . Flex, of the Capitol-Newark, recently returned a wallet full of dough to a patron and received plenty of thanks. He's Saul Ullman's ass't. . . . Larry Conley of the Stanley-Jersey City is doing a lot with exploitation tricks and neat promotions. . . . Bob Deitch, one of his assistants, helps a lot. . . .

▽

If I don't call a halt here we may find our "special department" cut down considerable . . . so . . . until the next outburst . . . S'long. . . . And so to printer's bed with column number three with a request that you watch this corner for more news from New Jersey—"Of thee I sing." "AL"

TIE UP YOUR COMING FILMS WITH SPRING; PRAGER'S WAS A HIT

A seasonal stunt in his "April Shower of Hits" aided N. T. Prager, manager of the Calvin Theatre, Northampton, Mass., to get in some very effective plugs for his coming attractions.

As a result of this, we are showing a

Lightning flash for this display was effected by two flasher circuits on rear. Color was blue with red at tip. The rain effect was secured by means of silver string.

photo of the display he used in the lobby, acting on the thought that perhaps you, too, might care to use it to plug your May or June pictures, as the copy can be easily adapted to fit both months, such as "May's March of Meritorious Pictures" or "June Brings the Roses and These Hits to the (local theatre)."

Prager is very active selling his shows and he seldom, if ever, misses an opportunity for an exploitation stunt and so, on "The Mummy" he dressed an usher up in gauze, masked the boy's face with beauty clay and stood the youngster alongside a lobby frame plugging the picture.

SHORT SUBJECTS ARE VITAL TO PROGRAMS

(Continued from page 63, column 3)

patrons keep away from, because the manager has no appreciation or valuation of his short subject—although he has plenty of good product but shows little showmanship in his booking.

Another very vital essential is to arrange the shorts either as a build-up for the feature or in contrast to it. It is just as much poor taste to have two musical acts or two comedy acts together on the screen as it would be "in the flesh."

In conclusion, let me suggest that we all give much more consideration to our short subjects—both on program and in merchandising—and give our patron the consistent kind of performance he anticipates and is entitled to.

BOOSTING THE SHORT

(Continued from page 63, column 2)

variety program, has small chance of becoming boresome, and being properly selected and assembled for entertainment value, should invariably lend the zest of a patent sauce to an already appetizing diet of entertainment presumably purchased by your theatregoer in the feature attraction.

THE RELEASE CHART

Productions are listed according to the names of distributors in order that the exhibitor may have a short-cut towards such information as he may need, as well as information on pictures that are coming. Features which are finshed or are in work, but to which release dates have not been assigned, are listed in "Coming Attractions." Running times are those supplied by the distributors. Where they vary, the change is probably due to local censorship deletions. Dates are 1932, unless otherwise specified.

ALLIED PICTURES

Features

Title	Star	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
Cowboy Counsellor	Hoot Gibson-Sheila Manners	Oct. 15	63	Oct. 8
Dude Bandit, The	Hoot Gibson-Gloria Shea	May 1,'33	67
Eleventh Commandment	Marian Marsh-Theo. Von Eltz	Mar. 15,'33	64	Mar. 18,'33
Intruder, The	Monte Blue-Lila Lee	Dec. 26	69	Jan. 14,'33
Iron Master, The	Lila Lee-Reginald Denny	Nov. 1	69	Dec. 10
Officer 13	Monte Blue-Lila Lee	Nov. 26	67	Dec. 3
Parisian Romance, A	Lew Cody-Marian Shilling	Oct. 1	77	Sept. 17
Shriek in the Night, A	Ginger Rogers-Lyle Talbot	Apr. 15,'33	70	Mar. 25,'33

Coming Feature Attractions

Anna Karenina
Beyond the Law
Boots of Destiny	Hoot Gibson
Cheaters
Davy Jones' Locker
Fighting Parson, The	Hoot Gibson-Marceline Day
Midnight Alarm
Nesters, The	Monte Blue
Open for Inspection
Pullman Car
Red Kisses
Scarlet Virgin, The Silk Trimmed
Slightly Used
Three Castles
Valley of Adventure, The	Monte Blue
Without Children

CHESTERFIELD

Features

Title	Star	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
Forgotten	June Clyde-Lee Kohlmar	Feb. 15,'33	65
Love Is Like That	Rochelle Hudson-John Warburton	Mar. 15,'33	65
Secrets of Wu Sin	Lois Wilson-Grant Withers	Dec. 15	65
Slightly Married	Evalyn Knapp-Walter Byron	Oct. 15	65	Dec. 3
Strange People	Hale Hamilton-Gloria Shea-John Darrow	Jan. 15,'33	65
Women Won't Tell	Sarah Padden-Gloria Shea	Nov. 15	67

COLUMBIA

Features

Title	Star	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
Air Hostess	Evalyn Knapp-James Murray-Thelma Todd	Jan. 15,'33	67	Jan. 28,'33
As the Devil Commands	Alan Dinehart-Neil Hamilton-Mae Clarke	Dec. 24
Below the Sea	Ralph Bellamy-Fay Wray	Apr. 25,'33
Bitter Tea of General Yen	B. Stanwyck-Nils Asther	Jan. 6,'33	89	Nov. 26
California Trail, The	John Boles-Nancy Carroll	Feb. 4,'33	71	Jan. 21,'33
Child of Manhattan	Adolphe Menjou-Greta Nissen-Donald Cook	Apr. 10,'33	65
Deception	Leo Carrillo-Barbara Weeks-Nat Pendleton	Nov. 4	67	Jan. 14,'33
End of the Trail, The	Tim McCoy-Luana Walters	Dec. 19	59½
Fighting for Justice	Tim McCoy-Joyce Compton	Dec. 28	60½
Forbidden Trail	Buck Jones-Barbara Weeks	Nov. 18	71
Man Against Woman	Jack Holt-Lillian Miles	Nov. 15	68	Dec. 10
Man of Action	Tim McCoy-Caryl Lincoln	Jan. 20,'33	57
Mussolini Speaks		Mar. 10,'33	76	Mar. 18,'33
Night of Terror	Bela Lugosi-Sally Blane	Apr. 24,'33
No Mere Orchids	Carole Lombard-Lyle Talbot
Obey the Law	Leo Carrillo-Lois Wilson-Dickie Moore	Jan. 20,'33	69	Mar. 18,'33
Parole Girl	Mae Clarke-Ralph Bellamy	Mar. 4,'33	67	Apr. 15,'33
Silent Man	Tim McCoy-Florence Britton	Mar. 3,'33	68
So This Is Africa	Bert Wheeler-Robt. Woolsey-Raquel Torres	Feb. 24,'33	70	Jan. 28,'33
Soldiers of the Storm	Regis Toomey-Anita Page	Apr. 4,'33
Speed Demon	Wm. Collier, Jr.-Joan Marsh	Nov. 5	65	Nov. 26
State Trooper	Regis Toomey-Evalyn Knapp	Feb. 10,'33	68	Apr. 1,'33
Sundown Rider, The	Buck Jones-Barbara Weeks	Dec. 30	69
Unknown Valley	Buck Jones-Cecilia Parker	May 5,'33
Treason	Buck Jones-Shirley Grey	Feb. 10,'33	61½
Virtue	Carole Lombard-Pat O'Brien	Oct. 25	69	Nov. 5
When Strangers Marry	Jack Holt-Lillian Bond	Mar. 20,'33	68
Whirlwind, The	Tim McCoy-Alice Dahl	Apr. 14,'33
Woman I Stole, The	Jack Holt-Raquel Torres-Fay Wray	May 1,'33	66

Coming Feature Attractions

Ann Carver's Profession	Fay Wray-Gene Raymond
Biddy	Richard Cromwell
Cocktail Hour	Bebe Daniels-Sidney Blackmer-Randolph Scott
Fighting Code, The	Buck Jones-Diane Sinclair
Fighting Ranger, The	Buck Jones-Dorothy Revier
Full Speed Ahead	Chic Sale-Diane Sinclair
Kaleidoscope in K
King of the Wild Horses	Wm. Janney-Dorothy Appleby
Madame La Guimp	Warren William-Guy Kibbee-May Robson-Glenda Farrell
Man's Castle
Open Road, The	Buck Jones-Cecilia Parker
Party's Over, The
Rusty Rides Alone	Tim McCoy-Barbara Weeks
Thrill Hunter, The	Buck Jones-Dorothy Revier
Twentieth Century
Wrecker, The	Jack Holt-Genevieve Tobin

EQUITABLE PICTURES

[Distributed through Majestic]

Features

Title	Star	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
Cheating Blondes	Thelma Todd-Rolfe Haroldo	Apr. 1,'33	66
Gigolettes of Paris	Madge Bellamy-Gilbert Roland	Mar. 15,'33	65
What Price Decency?	Dorothy Burgess-Alan Hale-Walter Byron	Mar. 1,'33	60	Mar. 11,'33

FIRST DIVISION

Features

Title	Star	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
Big Drive, The		Jan. 19,'33	91	Jan. 28,'33
Condemned to Death	Arthur Wontner	Oct. 10	78½	July 23
Goona Goona		Nov. 28	66	Aug. 27
Ringer, The	Franklyn Dyall	Oct. 30	60	June 11

FIRST NATIONAL

Features

Title	Star	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
Blondie Johnson	Joan Blondell-Chester Morris	Feb. 25,'33	69	Feb. 4,'33
Central Airport	Richard Barthelmess	Apr. 15,'33	75	Apr. 1,'33
Central Park	Joan Blondell	Dec. 10	55	Nov. 19
Elmer the Great	Joe E. Brown	Apr. 22,'33	74	Apr. 1,'33
Employees Entrance	W. William-Loretta Young	Feb. 11,'33	75	Dec. 24
Frisco Jenny	Ruth Chatterton	Jan. 14,'33	76	Dec. 17
Grand Slam	Paul Lukas-Loretta Young	Mar. 18,'33	65	Jan. 14,'33
Lilly Turner	Ruth Chatterton-Geo. Brent	May 13,'33	64	Apr. 29,'33
Match King, The	Warren William-Lili Damita	Dec. 31	79	Dec. 17
Mind Reader, The	Warren William	Apr. 1,'33	68	Feb. 25,'33
Silver Dollar	Edward G. Robinson	Dec. 24	78	Nov. 5
They Call It Sin	Loretta Young-Geo. Brent	Nov. 5	74	Sept. 3
20,000 Years in Sing Sing	Bette Davis-Spencer Tracy	Feb. 1,'33	81	Nov. 5
You Said a Mouthful	Joe E. Brown	Nov. 26	72	Nov. 19

Coming Feature Attractions

Captured!	Leslie Howard-Doug. Fairbanks, Jr.-Paul Lukas
Goodbye Again	W. William-Joan Blondell
Heroes for Sale	Richard Barthelmess-Loretta Young	June 17,'33
Little Giant, The	Edward G. Robinson	May 20,'33 — 74 — Apr. 15,'33
She Had to Say Yes	Loretta Young-Lyle Talbot

FOX FILMS

Features

Title	Star	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
After the Ball	Esther Ralston-Basil Rathbone	Mar. 17,'33	69	Mar. 25,'33
Bondage	Dorothy Jordan-Alex. Kirkland	Mar. 31,'33	65	Apr. 15,'33
Broadway Bad	Joan Blondell-Ginger Rogers-Ricardo Cortez	Feb. 24,'33	59	Mar. 11,'33
Call Her Savage	Bow-Owsley-Todd-Roland	Nov. 27	88	Dec. 3
Cavalcade	Clive Brook-Diana Wynyard	Apr. 15,'33	110	Jan. 14,'33
Dangerously Yours	Miriam Jordan-Warner Baxter	Feb. 3,'33	73	Feb. 4,'33
Face in the Sky	Spencer Tracy-Marian Nixon-Stuart Erwin	Jan. 22,'33	77	Feb. 4,'33
Golden West, The	Geo. O'Brien-Janet Chandler-Marion Burns	Oct. 30	74	Oct. 15
Handle with Care	James Dunn-Boots Mallory	Dec. 25	75	Dec. 24
Hello, Sister	James Dunn-Boots Mallory	Apr. 14,'33	56
Hot Pepper	Victor McLaglen-Edmund Lowe-Lupe Velez-El Brendel	Jan. 22,'33	76	Jan. 28,'33
Humanity	Boots Mallory-A. Kirkland	Mar. 3,'33	70	Apr. 29,'33
Infernal Machine	Genevieve Tobin-Chester Morris	Feb. 10,'33	65	Apr. 15,'33
Me and My Gal	Joan Bennett-Spencer Tracy	Dec. 4	78	Dec. 17
Pleasure Cruise	Genevieve Tobin-Roland Young	Mar. 24,'33	72	Apr. 1,'33
Rackety Rax	Victor McLaglen-Greta Nissen-Neil O'Day	Oct. 23	75	Oct. 29
Robbers Roost	George O'Brien-Maureen O'Sullivan	Jan. 1,'33	64	Apr. 1,'33
Sailor's Luck	James Dunn-Sally Eilers	Mar. 10,'33	78	Mar. 25,'33
Second Hand Wife	Sally Eilers-Ralph Bellamy	Jan. 1,'33	64	Jan. 21,'33
Sherlock Holmes	Clive Brook-Miriam Jordan	Nov. 6	69	Nov. 26
Smoke Lightning	George O'Brien-Nell O'Day	Feb. 17,'33
State Fair	Janet Gaynor-Will Rogers-Lew Ayres-Sally Eilers-Norman Foster-Frank Craven	Feb. 10,'33	100	Feb. 4,'33
Tess of the Storm Country	Janet Gaynor-Chas. Farrell	Nov. 20	75	Nov. 26
Too Busy to Work	Will Rogers-Marian Nixon	Nov. 13	70	Nov. 12
Trick for Trick	Ralph Morgan-Victor Jory	Apr. 21,'33
Warrior's Husband, The	Elissa Landi-Ernest Truex-David Manners	May 12,'33	68	May 6,'33
Zoo in Budapest	Gene Raymond-Loretta Young	Apr. 28,'33	85	Apr. 22,'33

Coming Feature Attractions

Adorable	Janet Gaynor-Henry Garat	May 19,'33
American, The	Spencer Tracy-Zita Johann
Arizona to Broadway	James Dunn-Joan Bennett
Berkeley Square	Leslie Howard-Heather Angel
Devil's in Love, The	Victor Jory-Loretta Young
Five Cents a Glass	Marian Nixon-"Buddy" Rogers	May 26,'33
Hold Me Tight	James Dunn-Sally Eilers	June 2,'33
I Loved You Wednesday	Warner Baxter-Elissa Landi-Mirriam Jordan	June 16,'33
It's Great to Be Alive	Edna May Oliver-Raul Roulien	June 9,'33
Life in the Raw	George O'Brien
Man-Eater	Marion Burns-Kane Richmond
My Lips Betray	Lilian Harvey-John Boles
Pilgrimage	Marian Nixon-Norman Foster
Power and the Glory, The	Colleen Moore-Spencer Tracy

FREULER FILM ASSOCIATES

Features

Title	Star	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
Deadwod Pass	Tom Tyler	May 1,'33
Easy Millions	Skeets Gallagher-Dorothy Burgess-Merna Kennedy	May 15,'33
Fighting Gentleman, The	Wm. Collier, Jr. - Josephine Dunn-N. Moorhead	Oct. 7	65	Oct. 15
Forty-Niners, The	Tom Tyler	Oct. 28	59
Gambling Sex	Ruth Hall-Grant Withers	Nov. 21	65
Kiss of Araby	Maria Alba-Walter Byron	Apr. 17,'33
Penal Code, The	Regis Toomey-Helen Cohan	Dec. 23
Savage Girl, The	Rochelle Hudson-Walter Byron	Dec. 5
When a Man Rides Alone	Tom Tyler	Jan. 15,'33

(THE RELEASE CHART--CONT'D)

Coming Feature Attractions

Black Cat, The
Bulldog Edition
East of Sudan
Green Paradise
My Wandering Boy
Red Man's Country
Silent Army, The Sisters of the Follies

MAJESTIC

Features

Title	Star	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
Crusader, The	Evelyn Brent-H. B. Warner	Oct.	1 72	Oct. 8
Gun Law	Jack Hoxie-Betty Boyd	Apr.	15,'33
Law and Lawless	Jack Hoxie-Hilda Moreno	Nov.	30 62
Outlaw Justice	Jack Hoxie-Dorothy Gulliver	Oct.	1 61
Trouble Busters	Jack Hoxie-Lane Chandler	May	15,'33
Unwritten Law, The	Greta Nissen-Skeets Gallagher	Nov.	15 70	Jan. 4,'33
Vampire Bat, The	Lionel Atwill-Fay Wray	Jan.	21,'33 67	Jan. 28,'33
Via Pony Express	Jack Hoxie-Marceline Day	Feb.	6,'33 62
World Gone Mad, The	Pat O'Brien-Evelyn Brent	Apr.	1,'33 80	Apr. 22,'33

Coming Feature Attractions

Buried Alive
Curtain at Eight
Sing, Sinner, Sing — Paul Lukas-Leila Hyams
Woman in the Chair, The

MAYFAIR PICTURES

Features

Title	Star	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
Alimony Madness	Helen Chandler-Leon Waycoff	Apr.	1,'33 65
Behind Jury Doors	Helen Chandler-Wm. Collier, Jr.	Dec.	1 67
Heart Punch	Marion Shilling-L. Hughes	Oct.	15 64	Oct. 29
Her Mad Night	Irene Rich-Conway Tearle	Oct.	1 67	Oct. 29
Her Resale Value	June Clyde-George Lewis	Apr.	15,'33
Justice Takes a Holiday	Patricia O'Brien-Lloyd Whitlock	Feb.	'33
Malay Nights	John Mack Brown-D. Burgess-Ralph Ince	Nov.	1
Midnight Warning	William Boyd-Claudia Dell	Nov.	15
Revenge at Monte Carlo	June Collyer-Jose Crespo-Lloyd Whitlock	Feb.	'33
Sister to Judas	Claire Windsor-John Harron	Jan.	1,'33 75	Feb. 18,'33

METRO-GOLDWYN-MAYER

Features

Title	Star	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
Barbarian, The	Ramon Novarro-Myrna Loy	May	12,'33 88	Apr. 15,'33
Clear All Wires	Lee Tracy-Benita Hume	Feb.	24,'33	Feb. 18,'33
Devil's Brother, The	Laurel and Hardy-Dennis King-Thelma Todd	May	5,'33 92	Apr. 8,'33
Faithless	T. Bankhead-R. Montgomery	Oct.	15 74	Oct. 15
Fast Life	William Haines-Madge Evans	Dec.	16 75	Dec. 10
Fast Workers	John Gilbert-Mae Clarke	Mar.	10,'33 66	Mar. 25,'33
Flesh	Wallace Beery-Karen Morley-Ricardo Cortez	Dec.	9 75	Dec. 17
Gabriel Over the White House	Walter Huston-Karen Morley	Mar.	31,'33 87	Apr. 8,'33
Looking Forward	Lewis Stone-Benita Hume-Lionel Barrymore	Apr.	28,'33 83	Apr. 1,'33
(Reviewed under the title "The New Deal")
Mask of Fu Manchu, The	Boris Karloff	Nov.	5 67	Dec. 10
Men Must Fight	Phillips Holmes-Diana Wynyard	Feb.	17,'33 72	Mar. 18,'33
Outsider, The	Harold Huth-Joan Barry	Jan.	28,'33 90	May 2,'31
Prosperity	Dressler-Moran	Nov.	18 76	Nov. 12
Rasputin and the Empress	Ethel, John and Lionel Barrymore	Mar.	24,'33 127	Dec. 31
Secret of Madame Blanche, The	Irene Dunne-Phillips Holmes	Feb.	3,'33 78	Jan. 21,'33
Son Daughter	Helen Hayes-Ramon Novarro	Dec.	23 79	Jan. 7,'33
Strange Interlude	Norma Shearer-Clarke Gable	Dec.	30 112	Sept. 3
Today We Live	Joan Crawford-Gary Cooper	Apr.	21,'33 115	Apr. 22,'33
What! No Beer?	Buster Keaton-Jimmy Durante	Feb.	10,'33 78	Feb. 11,'33
Whistling in the Dark	Ernest Truex-Una Merkel	Jan.	21,'33 78	Feb. 4,'33
White Sister, The	Helen Hayes-Clark Gable	Apr.	14,'33 101	Mar. 25,'33

Coming Feature Attractions

Dinner at Eight	Marie Dressler-Wallace Beery-Lionel Barrymore-Jean Harlow-Madge Evans-Karen Morley-Edmund Lowe-Lee Tracy-Jean Hersholt
Eskimo
He Was Her Man	Jean Harlow-Clark Gable	June	30,'33
Hell Below	Robt. Montgomery-Jimmy Durante-Robt. Young-Walter Huston-Madge Evans	June	2,'33 ..... 105 Apr. 15,'33
Lady of the Night	Loretta Young-Ricardo Cortez	July	14,'33
Made on Broadway	R. Montgomery-Sally Eilers	May	19,'33 ..... 70 Apr. 8,'33
Never Give a Sucker a Break	Lee Tracy-Madge Evans	June	9,'33 ..... 80 May 6,'33
Night Flight	H. Hayes - J. Barrymore - L. Barrymore - C. Gable - Robt. Montgomery
Peg O' My Heart	Marion Davies-Onslow Stevens	May	26,'33
Reunion in Vienna	John Barrymore-Diana Wynyard-Frank Morgan	June	16,'33 ..... 100 May 6,'33
Strange Rhapsody	Nils Asther-Kay Francis	July	7,'33
Stranger's Return	Lionel Barrymore - Franchot Tone-Miriam Hopkins
Tarzan and His Mate	J. Weissmuller-M. O'Sullivan
Tugboat Annie	Marie Dressler-Wallace Beery-Robt. Young-M. O'Sullivan
When Ladies Meet	Ann Harding-Alice Brady-Robt. Montgomery	June	23,'33

MONOGRAM PICTURES CORPORATION

Features

Title	Star	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
Black Beauty	Alex. Kirkland-Esther Ralston	May	10,'33 70	Apr. 29,'33
Breed of the Border	Bob Steele	Mar.	1,'33
Crashin' Broadway	Rex Bell	Dec.	30
Diamond Trail, The	Rex Bell	Dec.	30
Fighting Champ	Bob Steele	Dec.	15
Guilty or Not Guilty	Betty Compson-Tom Douglas	Nov.	15 ..... 7 reels
Hidden Valley	Bob Steele	Oct.	10 ..... 6 reels
Jungle Bride	Anita Page-Charles Starrett	Feb.	15,'33 63	Feb. 25,'33
Lucky Larrigan	Rex Bell-Helen Foster	Dec.	1
Man from Arizona, The	Rex Bell	Oct.	1 ..... 6 reels
Oliver Twist	Dickie Moore-Irving Pichel-Jackie Searle	Feb.	28,'33 80	Mar. 4,'33
Phantom Broadcast	Ralph Forbes-Vivienne Osborne	Mar.	15,'33 68	Apr. 8,'33
Self-Defense	Pauline Frederick	Dec.	15 68	Dec. 10
Strange Adventure	Regis Toomey-June Clyde	Nov.	20 ..... 7 reels
West of Singapore	Betty Compson	Jan.	31,'33 68	Apr. 15,'33
Young Blood	Bob Steele	Nov.	5

Coming Feature Attractions

Casey Jones	All Star	May	25,'33
Fighting Texans, The	Rex Bell	June	15,'33
Gallant Fool	Bob Steele	May	29,'33
Sphinx, The	Lionel Atwill-Sheila Terry	June	1,'33

PARAMOUNT PUBLIX

Features

Title	Star	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
A Bedtime Story	Maurice Chevalier-Helen Twelvetrees	Apr.	21,'33 87	Apr. 29,'33
Big Broadcast, The	Stuart Erwin-Bing Crosby-Kate Smith - Leila Hyams - Mills Bros. - Boswell Sisters - Cab Calloway - Vincent Lopez - Arthur Tracy - Sharon Lynn	Oct.	28 80	Oct. 8
Billion Dollar Scandal	Carole Lombard-Robt. Armstrong	Jan.	6,'33 78	Dec. 31
Crime of the Century	Stuart Erwin-Wynne Gibson	Feb.	24,'33 75	Mar. 4,'33
Devil Is Driving, The	Edmund Lowe-Wynne Gibson	Dec.	9 70	Dec. 10
Evenings for Sale	Herb Marshall-Sari Maritza	Nov.	11 65	Nov. 5
Farewell to Arms, A	Helen Hayes-Gary Cooper	Jan.	6,'33 78	Dec. 10
From Hell to Heaven	Carole Lombard-Jack Oakie	Feb.	24,'33 70	Feb. 18,'33
He Learned About Women	Stuart Erwin-A. Skipworth	Nov.	4 68
Hello, Everybody	Kate Smith	Feb.	17,'33 70	Jan. 14,'33
Hot Saturday	Nancy Carroll-Cary Grant	Oct.	28 73	Oct. 22
If I Had a Million	Gary Cooper - Wynne Gibson - Geo. Raft - Richard Bennett - Mary Robson	Nov.	 95	Nov. 12
Island of Lost Souls	Chas. Laughton-Richard Arlen-Leila Hyams	Dec.	 70	Dec. 10
King of the Jungle	Frances Dee-Buster Crabbe	Mar.	10,'33 74	Mar. 4,'33
Lady's Profession, A	Alison Skipworth-Roland Young	Mar.	3,'33 72	Feb. 25,'33
Luxury Liner	Geo. Brent-Zita Johann-Frank Morgan	Feb.	3,'33 70	Jan. 28,'33
M	Peter Lorre		 96	Apr. 8,'33
Madame Butterfly	Sylvia Sidney-Cary Grant	Dec.	30 88	Dec. 31
Murders in the Zoo	Charlie Ruggles-Lionel Atwill	Mar.	31,'33 55	Mar. 11,'33
Mysterious Rider, The	Kent Taylor-Lona André	Jan.	20,'33 59
Night After Night	Geo. Raft-C. Cummings	Oct.	14 70	Oct. 8
No Man of Her Own	Clark Gable-Carole Lombard	Dec.	 76	Dec. 24
Pick Up	Sylvia Sidney-George Raft	Mar.	24,'33 75	Mar. 25,'33
She Done Him Wrong	Mae West-Owen Moore	Jan.	27,'33 66	Feb. 18,'33
Sign of the Cross	Fredric March-Elissa Landi-Claudette Colbert	Feb.	10,'33 123	Dec. 16
Song of the Eagle	Chas. Bickford - Mary Brian - Richard Arlen	Apr.	28,'33 83	Apr. 29,'33
Story of Temple Drake, The	Miriam Hopkins-Jack LaRue	May	12,'33 72
Strictly Personal	Marjorie Rambeau-Eddie Quillan-D. Jordan	Mar.	17,'33 70	Mar. 4,'33
Supernatural	C. Lombard - Randolph Scott - V. Osborne	May	5,'33 ..... 64½	Apr. 29,'33
Terror Aboard	Neil Hamilton - Chas. Ruggles - Verree Teasdale	Apr.	14,'33 ..... 65½	May 6,'33
Tonight Is Ours	C. Colbert-Fredric March-Paul Cavanagh	Jan.	13,'33 76	Jan. 7,'33
Trouble in Paradise	Miriam Hopkins-H. Marshall-Kay Francis	Oct.	21 73	Oct. 29
Under Cover Man	Geo. Raft-Nancy Carroll	Dec.	2 74	Dec. 10
Under the Tonto Rim	Stuart Erwin-Verna Hillie	Apr.	7,'33 59
Wild Horse Mesa	Randolph Scott-Sally Blane	Nov.	25 ..... 72½
Woman Accused, The	Cary Grant-Nancy Carroll-John Halliday-Lona André	Feb.	17,'33 73	Feb. 4,'33

Coming Feature Attractions

College Humor	Bing Crosby-Jack Oakie	June	30,'33
Disgraced	Helen Twelvetrees-Wm. Harrigan
Eagle and the Hawk, The	F. March-C. Grant-J. Oakie	May	19,'33 ..... 72 May 6,'33
Gambling Ship	Cary Grant-Benita Hume	June	23,'33
Girl in 419, The	James Dunn-Gloria Stuart	May	26,'33 ..... 76 May 6,'33
Her Bodyguard	Wynne Gibson-Edmund Lowe
I Love That Man	Nancy Carroll-Edmund Lowe	June	9,'33 ..... 75 May 6,'33
International House	Peggy Hopkins Joyce	June	2,'33
Jennie Gerhardt	Sylvia Sidney-Donald Cook	June	16,'33
Song of Songs	Marlene Dietrich-Brian Aherne
Sunset Pass	Randolph Scott-Tom Keene	May	26,'33

RKO RADIO PICTURES

Features

Title	Star	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
Animal Kingdom	Leslie Howard-Ann Harding	Dec.	23 78	Dec. 10
Cheyenne Kid	Tom Keene	Jan.	20,'33 ..... 54½
Christopher Strong	K. Hepburn-Colin Clive-Billie Burke	Mar.	31,'33 72	Mar. 18,'33
Conquerors, The	Ann Harding-Richard Dix	Nov.	18 80	Nov. 19
Diplomaniacs	Bert Wheeler-Robt. Woolsey	May	12,'33 63	Apr. 15,'33
Goldie Gets Along	Lili Damita-Chas. Morton	Jan.	27,'33 68
Great Jasper, The	Richard Dix	Mar.	3,'33 76	Feb. 11,'33
Half-Naked Truth, The	Lee Tracy-Lupe Velez	Dec.	16 77	Jan. 7,'33
India Speaks	Richard Halliburton	Apr.	28,'33
King Kong	Fay Wray-Bruce Cabot	Apr.	7,'33 100	Feb. 25,'33
Little Orphan Annie	Mitzi Green-Buster Phelps	Nov.	4 70	Oct. 29
Lucky Devils	Bill Boyd-Bruce Cabot-William Gargan-D. Wilson	Feb.	3,'33 60	Dec. 31
Man Hunt	Junior Durkin - Mrs. Wallace Reid	Mar.	24,'33 68	Feb. 4,'33
(Reviewed under the title "A Successful Bunder")
Men Are Such Fools	Lee Carrillo-V. Osborne	Nov.	18 66
Men of America	Bill Boyd	Dec.	9 75	Nov. 12
Monkey's Paw, The	Ivan Simpson-Louise Carter	Jan.	13,'33 52	Oct. 1
No Other Woman	Irene Dunne-Chas. Bickford	Jan.	6,'33 58	Jan. 21,'33
Our Betters	Constance Bennett	Mar.	17,'33 72	Mar. 4,'33
Past of Mary Holmes, The	Helen MacKellar-Eric Linden	Jan.	20,'33 62	May 6,'33
Penguin Pool Murder	Edna May Oliver-Jas. Gleason	Dec.	30 75	Nov. 12
Renegades of the West	Tom Keene	Nov.	25 55
Rockabye	Constance Bennett-Joel McCrae	Nov.	25 75	Nov. 26
Sailor Be Good	Jack Oakie-Vivienne Osborne	Feb.	10,'33 68	Mar. 4,'33
Scarlet River	Tom Keene-D. Wilson	Mar.	10,'33 57	Jan. 21,'33
Secrets of the French Police	Gwili Andre-Frank Morgan	Dec.	2 58	Dec. 17
Son of the Border	Tom Keene-Julie Hayden	May	5,'33 55
Sport Parade, The	Joel McCrae-Marian Marsh	Nov.	11 65	Dec. 24
Sweepings	Lionel Barrymore	Apr.	14,'33 80	Mar. 18,'33
Topaze	John Barrymore-Myrna Loy	Feb.	24,'33 78	Feb. 11,'33

Coming Feature Attractions

Bed of Roses	Constance Bennett-Joel McCrea
Cross Fire	Tom Keene-Betty Furness	June	30,'33 ..... 55 Apr. 8,'33
Emergency Call	Bill Boyd-Betty Furness	May	26,'33
Flying Circus (Tent.)	Arline Judge-Bruce Cabot-Ralph Bellamy-Eric Linden
Jamboree	Robt. Armstrong-Helen Mack
Melody Cruise	Phil Harris-Charles Ruggles	June	2,'33
Morning Glory, The	K. Hepburn-D. Fairbanks, Jr.
Public Be Sold, The	Richard Dix-Doris Kenyon
Purity Girl (Tent.)	Ginger Rogers-Norman Foster
Silver Cord, The	Irene Dunne-Joel McCrea	May	19,'33
Tomorrow at Seven	Chester Morris-Vivienne Osborne	June	9,'33

(THE RELEASE CHART--CONT'D)

STATE RIGHTS

Features

Title	Star	Dist'r.	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
Bachelor Mother	Evalyn Knapp-James Murray	Goldsmith	Jan. 5,'33	71	Jan. 21,'33
Bal, Le	Andre Lefaur	Protex		80	Oct. 8
Blame the Woman	Adolphe Menjou-Benita Huma	Principal	Oct. 15	74	Nov. 5
Charlotte Lowenskold	Birgit Sergellius-Eric Barclay	Scandinavian
Contraband	Don Alvarado-Dorothy Sebastian	Hoffberg	Apr. 1,'33
Devil's Playground, The		Principal	Jan. 1,'33	54
Eternal Jew, The	M. B. Samuylow	Jewish Talking Pictures
Face on the Barroom Floor, The	B. Fletcher	Invincible		66	Oct. 22
Forgotten Men		Jewel Productions	Feb. '33
Fourteenth of July, The	Annabella - Georges Rigaud	Tobis-Rene Clair		85	Jan. 28,'33
High Gear	James Murray - Joan Marsh	Hollywood	Apr. 14,'33	67	Apr. 22,'33
Hotel Variety	Hal Skelly - Olive Borden	Screencraft		68
In the Days of the Crusaders	Alberto Pasquali	Monopole	Oct. 1	75	Oct. 15
Italy Speaks		Enrico Cutali			Feb. 25,'33
Jungle Gigolo		Principal	Feb. 15,'33	55
Jungle Killer	Carveth Wells	Century Productions	Dec.
Lady of the Night	Francesca Bertini	Portale Picts.	Mar. 9,'33
Love and Passion		Yugoslavian Picts.
Manhattan Tower	Mary Brian - Irene Rich-James Hall	Remington	Dec. 1	67	Nov. 19
Men and Jobs		Amkino	Jan. 1,'33	70	Jan. 14,'33
Moon Over Morocco	Rene Lefebvre-Rosine Derean	Protex	Jan. 21,'33	80	Feb. 25,'33
November Night (Polish)	S.Jaracz-J.Wegrzyn-J.Smosarska	Capital	Apr. 27,'33	97	May 6,'33
Out of Singapore	Noah Beery	Goldsmith Picts.		61	Sept. 24
Piri Knows All	Margit Dayka	Arkay Film
Potemkin		Kinematrade	Mar. 31,'33	54	Apr. 15,'33
Pride of the Legion	Sally Blane-B. Kent	Mascot	Oct. 10	70	Oct. 29
Return of Nathan Becker	David Gutman	Worldkino	Apr. 13,'33	71	Apr. 29,'33
Shadow Laughs, The	Hal Skelly-Rose Hobart	Invincible		67
Shame	Vladimir Gardin	Amkino	Oct. 15	65	Dec. 3
Socko		Hoffberg		30
Soviets on Parade		Kinematrade	Mar. 31,'31	60
Sucker Money	Mischa Auer	Hollywood	Apr. 5,'33	70	Apr. 15,'33
Truth About Africa, The		Wm. Alexander		47
Virgins of Bali		Principal	Dec. 8	46	Dec. 17
With Williamson Beneath the Sea		Principal	Nov. 24	59	Dec. 3
Wives Beware!	Adolphe Menjou	Regent Picts.
Woman in Chains	Owen Nares	Invincible		69	Aug. 13

(Reviewed under title "The Impassive Footman" — Assoc. Radio British)

TOWER PRODUCTIONS

Features

Title	Star	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
Daring Daughters	Marian Marsh-Joan Marsh	Feb. '33	60	Apr. 15,'33
Red Haired Alibi	Merna Kennedy-Theodore Von Eltz-Grant Withers	Oct. 15	72	Oct. 29
Reform Girl	Noel Francis-Dorothy Peterson-Skeets Gallagher	Mar. '33	70

UNITED ARTISTS

Features

Title	Star	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
Cynara	Ronald Colman-Kay Francis	Dec. 24	80	Nov. 5
Hallelujah, I'm a Bum	Al Jolson	Feb. 3,'33	82	Feb. 18,'33
Kid from Spain, The	Eddie Cantor	Nov. 17	90	Nov. 5
Magic Night	Jack Buchanan	Nov. 5	76	Nov. 12
Rain	Joan Crawford	Oct. 22	85	Sept. 17
Perfect Understanding	Gloria Swanson	Mar. 11,'33	84	Mar. 4,'33
Secrets	Mary Pickford-Leslie Howard	Apr. 16,'33	90	Feb. 18,'33

Coming Feature Attractions

I Cover the Waterfront	Claudette Colbert - Ben Lyon - Ernest Torrence		75	Apr. 29,'33
Joe Palooka	Jimmy Durante-Stuart Erwin
Masquerader, The	Ronald Colman-Elissa Landi		75	Feb. 25,'33
Yes, Mr. Brown	Jack Buchanan			Mar. 18,'33

UNIVERSAL

Features

Title	Star	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
Afraid to Talk	Eric Linden-Sidney Fox	Nov. 17	76	Sept. 24
(Reviewed under title "Merry Go Round")
Air Mail	Pat O'Brien-Ralph Bellamy	Nov. 3	83	Oct. 8
Be Mine Tonight	Jan Kiepura-Magda Schneider	Mar. 23,'33	78	Feb. 18,'33
Big Cage, The	Anita Page-Clyde Beatty	Mar. 3,'33	75	Mar. 4,'33
Cohens and Kellys In Trouble	Chas. Murray-Geo. Sidney	Mar. 23,'33	69	Apr. 22,'33
Destination Unknown	Pat. O'Brien-Ralph Bellamy	Mar. 16,'33	67	Jan. 28,'33
Fighting President, The		Apr. 14,'33	50	Apr. 15,'33
Flaming Guns	Tom Mix-Ruth Hall	Dec. 22	57
Hidden Gold	Tom Mix	Nov. 3	56
King of Jazz (Reissue)	Paul Whiteman-John Boles-Bing Crosby	May 18,'33
King of the Arena	Ken Maynard	May 18,'33
Kiss Before the Mirror	Nancy Carroll-Paul Lukas	May 4,'33	67	Mar. 11,'33
Laughter in Hell	Pat O'Brien-Gloria Stuart	Jan. 12,'33	68	Jan. 7,'33
Lucky Dog	Charles "Chic" Sale	Apr. 20,'33
Mummy, The	Boris Karloff-Zita Johann	Dec. 22	78	Dec. 3
Nagana	Tala Birell-Melvyn Douglas	Jan. 28,'33	74	Jan. 7,'33
Old Dark House, The	Boris Karloff-L. Bond	Oct. 20	74	July 16
Out All Night	Summerville-Pitts	Apr. 13,'33	72	Mar. 11,'33
Private Jones	Lee Tracy-Gloria Stuart	Feb. 16,'33	89	Apr. 1,'33
Rome Express	Esther Ralston-Conrad Veidt	Feb. 16,'33	87	Jan. 21,'33
Rustler's Roundup	Tom Mix—Diane Sinclair	Mar. 16,'33
Terror Trail, The	Tom Mix	Feb. 2,'33	57	Feb. 18,'33
They Just Had to Get Married	Summerville-Pitts	Jan. 5,'33	75	Feb. 11,'33

Coming Feature Attractions

Black Pearl	Tala Birell
Rebel, The	Vilma Banky-Luis Trenker	June 1,'33
S. O. S. Iceberg	Rod La Rogue-Gibson Gowland
When the Time Comes	Spencer Tracy

WARNER BROS.

Features

Title	Star	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
Baby Face	Barbara Stanwyck	Apr. 22,'33	74	Apr. 1,'33
Ex-Lady	Bette Davis	Apr. 8,'33	62	Feb. 18,'33
Forty-Second Street	Warner Baxter - Bebe Daniels - Geo. Brent	Mar. 11,'33	89	Mar. 18,'33
Girl Missing	Ben Lyon - Mary Brian - Peggy Shannon	Mar. 4,'33	69	Apr. 8,'33
Hard to Handle	James Cagney	Jan. 28,'33	76	Jan. 7,'33
Haunted Gold	John Wayne	Dec. 17	58
I Am a Fugitive from a Chain Gang	Paul Muni	Nov. 19	90	Oct. 22
Keyhole, The	Kay Francis-George Brent	Mar. 25,'33	69	Apr. 8,'33
King's Vacation, The	George Arliss	Feb. 25,'33	60	Jan. 28,'33
Ladies They Talk About	Barbara Stanwyck	Feb. 4,'33	64	Jan. 7,'33
Lawyer Man	Wm. Powell-Joan Blondell	Jan. 7,'33	72	Dec. 3
Parachute Jumper	Douglas Fairbanks, Jr.	Jan. 28,'33	72	Dec. 31
Picture Snatcher	James Cagney	Apr. 29,'33	75	Apr. 1,'33
Scarlet Dawn	D. Fairbanks, Jr. - Nancy Carroll	Nov. 12	58	Nov. 12
Telegraph Trail, The	John Wayne	Mar. 18,'33	55
Untamed Africa		Apr. 8,'33
Wax Museum, Mystery of the	Lionel Atwill-Fay Wray	Feb. 18,'33	72	Jan. 7,'33
Working Man, The	George Arliss-Bette Davis	May 6,'33	73	Apr. 8,'33

(Reviewed under the title "The Adopted Father")

Coming Feature Attractions

Gold Diggers of Broadway	Warren William-Joan Blondell-Aline MacMahon-Ruby Keeler-Dick Powell	May 27,'33
Life of Jimmy Dolan, The	D. Fairbanks, Jr.-Loretta Young	June 3,'33	70
Man from Monterey, The	John Wayne-Ruth Hall
Mary Stevens, M.D.	Kay Francis
Mayor of Hell, The	James Cagney	June 24,'33
Narrow Corner, The	Douglas Fairbanks, Jr.
Private Detective 62	William Powell	June 10,'33
Silk Express	Neil Hamilton-Sheila Terry	June 10,'33
Somewhere in Sonora	John Wayne	May 20,'33
Voltaire	George Arliss-Doris Kenyon

WORLD WIDE

[Distributed through Fox Films]

Features

Title	Star	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
Between Fighting Men	Ken Maynard	Oct. 16	62
Breach of Promise	Chester Morris-Mae Clarke	Oct. 23	67
Constant Woman, The	Conrad Nagel-Leila Hyams	Apr. 23,'33	75	Mar. 3,'33
(Reviewed under the title "Auction In Souls")
Death Kiss, The	Adrienne Ames-David Manners-John Wray	Jan. 8,'33	75	Dec. 24
Drum Taps	Ken Maynard	Jan. 29,'33	61
False Faces	Lowell Sherman-Lila Lee	Oct. 13	83	Dec. 3
Fargo Express	Ken Maynard	Nov. 20	62
Hypnotized	Moran and Mack	Dec. 25	70	Dec. 24
Lone Avenger, The	Ken Maynard	May 14,'33	61
Phantom Thunderbolt	Ken Maynard	Mar. 5,'33	62
Racetrack	Leo Carrillo-Kay Hammond	Feb. 25,'33	78	Mar. 11,'33
Study in Scarlet, A	Reginald Owen-June Clyde	May 14,'33	72
Tombstone Canyon	Ken Maynard	Dec. 25	62
Trailing the Killer	(Special)	Dec. 4	68	Oct. 15
Uptown New York	Jack Oakie-Shirley Grey	Nov. 20	80	Nov. 19

Coming Feature Attractions

Tarnished Youth	Jetta Goudal-Gilbert Roland

GERMAN

Features

Title	Star	Dist'r.	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
A Door Opens	Lily Rodien-Curt Lucas	Protex	Feb. 4,'33	70
A Night in Paradise	Anny Ondra-Herman Thimig	Kinematrade
Barberina, The King's Dancer	Lil Dagover	Capital	Oct. 25	87	Nov. 12
Beautiful Maneuver Time	Ida Wuest	World's Trade
Cadet, The	Frans Fiedler	Film Exchange		80	Apr. 8,'33
Captain of Koepenick, The	Max Adalbert	Kinematrade	Jan. 16,'33	93	Feb. 18,'33
Comradeship		Assoc. Cinema	Nov. 8	78	Dec. 10
David Golder	Harry Baur	Protex		80	Oct. 29
Don't Tell Me Who You Are	Liane Haid-Gustav Froehlich	Interworld	Feb. 15,'33	91	Feb. 25,'33
Enchanted Escapade	Kaethe von Nagy	Protex	Dec. 7	83	Jan. 28,'33
Friederike	Mady Christians	Kinematrade	Feb. 25,'33	80	Mar. 18,'33
Gitta Discovers Her Heart	Gitta Alpar	Capital		91	Oct. 15
Gloria	Gustav Froehlich	Tobis	Oct. 27	87	Nov. 12
Hertha's Awakening	Toni Van Eyck	Protex	Mar. 10,'33	82	Mar. 25,'33
Herzblut	Renate Mueller	Cines-Pittaluga	Sept. 30	77	Oct. 15
His Majesty, King Ballyhoo	Hans Moser - Heinz Ruehmann	Capital	Nov. 15	86	Feb. 11,'33
Kuhle Wampe: Whither Germany?	Hertha Thiele-Ernest Busch	Kinematrade	Apr. 22,'33
Louise, Queen of Prussia	Henny Porten	Assoc. Cinemas	Oct. 4	92	Oct. 15
M	Peter Lorre	Paramount	Mar. 31,'33	96	Apr. 8,'33
Maedchen in Uniform	Hertha Thiele	John Krimsky - Gifford Cochran		110	Oct. 1
Man Without a Name, The	Werner Krauss	Protex	Nov. 5	90	Dec. 17
Party Does Not Answer, The	Dorothy Wieck	Capital	Nov. 29	76	Dec. 31
Ronny	Willy Fritsch-Kaethe von Nagy	Protex
Song of Life	Albert Mog - Margot Ferra	Tobis	Mar. 24,'33	66	Apr. 15,'33
Spell of Tatra, The		Protex	Feb. 17,'33	65	Feb. 25,'33
Upright Sinner, The	Max Pallenberg-Dolly Haas	European Films	Mar. 28,'33	78	Apr. 15,'33
Victoria and Her Hussar	Michael Bohnen-Friedel Schuster	Kinematrade	Apr. 8,'33	90	Apr. 22,'33
Yorck	Werner Krauss	Protex	Nov. 23	99	Dec. 10

OTHER PRODUCT

Features

Title	Star	Dist'r.	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
Counsel's Opinion	Henry Kendall	London Film		71	Apr. 22,'33
Fires of Fate	Lester Matthews	British Int'l		72	Oct. 15
Flag Lieutenant, The	Henry Edwards-Anna Neagle	British and Dominions		85	Dec. 31
Ghost Train, The	Jack Hulbert	Gaumont-British		68	Feb. 25,'33
Good Companions, The	Jessie Matthews	Gaumont-British		96	Apr. 29,'33
Green Spot Mystery, The	Jack Lloyd	Mutual, London		66	Sept. 3
Here's George	George Clarke	P.D.C.-British		64	Nov. 5
Josser on the River	Ernest Lotinga	British Int'l		71	Sept. 17
Leap Year	Tom Walls - Anne Grey	British and Dominions		89	Dec. 17
Lodger, The	Ivor Novello	Twickenham		84	Oct. 15
Looking on the Bright Side	Gracie Fields	Assoc. Radio - British		82	Oct. 15
Love In Morocco	Rex Ingram	Gaumont-British	Mar. 18,'33	67	Oct. 15
(Reviewed under the title "Baroud")
Maid of the Mountains, The	Harry Welchman - Nancy Brown	British Int'l		80	Apr. 22,'33
Man They Couldn't Arrest	Hugh Wakefield - Renee Clama	Gaumont-British	Mar. 11,'33	70	Mar. 25,'33
Marry Me	Renate Mueller-Geo. Robey	Gaumont-British		85	Apr. 22,'33
Men of Tomorrow	Maurice Braddell	Paramount-London Film		80	Apr. 15,'33
Private Wives	Claude Allister-Betty Astell	British Lion
Sally Bishop	Harold Huth - Joan Barry	British Lion		82	Dec. 10
There Goes the Bride	Jessie Matthews - Owen Nares	Gaumont-British		79	Mar. 11,'33
Wedding Rehearsal	Roland Young	London Film

(THE RELEASE CHART--CONT'D)

SHORT FILMS

[All dates are 1932 unless otherwise stated]

COLUMBIA

Title	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
CURIOSITIES
C 237	Sept.	1	Sept. 24
KRAZY KAT KARTOONS
Antique Antics
Broadway Malady	Apr.	18,'33
Bunnies and Bonnets	Mar.	29,'33
Crystal Gazabo	Nov.	7	1 reel
Medicine Show	Feb.	7,'33	1 reel
Minstrel Show, The	Nov.	21	1 reel
Prosperity Blues	Oct.	8
Russian Dressing
Seeing Stars	Sept.	12	8 Dec. 17
Snow Time	Nov.	30
Wedding Bells	Jan.	10,'33
Wooden Shoes	Feb.	25,'33	1 reel
LAMBS GAMBOLS
Hear 'Em and Weep
Ladies Not Allowed	Sept.	8	2 reels
Lambs All-Star Gambol	Dec.	20	21½
Poor Fish, The	Apr.	27,'33
Shave It with Music	Sept.	30	19
MEDBURY SERIES
Laughing with Medbury in India			1 reel
Laughing with Medbury in Philippines	Nov.	11	1 reel
Laughing with Medbury Among the Wide Open Faces	Oct.	11	1 reel
Laughing with Medbury Among Dancing Nations	Dec.	23	1 reel
Laughing with Medbury in Wonders of the World	Dec.	13	1 reel
SCRAPPY CARTOONS
Bad Genius, The	Dec.	1
Beer Parade, The	Mar.	4,'33
False Alarm
Flop House	Nov.	9
Great Bird Mystery	Oct.	20
Match Kid, The
Sassy Cats	Jan.	25,'33
Scrappy's Party	Feb.	13,'33
Wolf at the Door, The	Dec.	29
SUNRISE COMEDIES
Campus Codes	Jan.	19,'33	21
College Gigolos	Jan.	3,'33	18½
His Vacation	Sept.	8
I'm a Fugitive from a Chain Store	Feb.	11,'33
Mind Doesn't Matter	Nov.	21	19½
Partners Two	Jan.	19,'33	22
The Curse of a Broken Heart	Feb.	4,'33	18
The Strange Case of Poison Ivy	Mar.	23,'33
WORLD OF SPORT
All's Wet That Ends Wet
Good Old Winter Time
Rough Sport	Dec.	29
Throwing the Bull	Jan.	14,'33	11

EDUCATIONAL

[Distributed through Fox Films]

Title	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
ANDY CLYDE COMEDIES
A Fool About Women	Nov.	27	22
Artist's Muddles	Jan.	29,'33	20
Boy, Oh Boy!	Dec.	25	21
Feeling Rosy	Apr.	30,'33	21
Giddy Age, The	Sept.	25	21½ June 4
Loose Relations	Apr.	9,'33	20
She Dunked Him Wrong
Sunkissed Sweeties	Oct.	30	22
BABY BURLESKS
Glad Rags to Riches	Feb.	5,'33	11 Dec. 31
Kid' in' Hollywood	May	14,'33	11
Kid's Last Fight, The	Apr.	23,'33	11 Dec. 3
Pie-Covered Wagon	Oct.	30	10 Dec. 31
Polly Tix in Washington	June	4,'33
War Babies	Sept.	18	10 Aug. 5
BATTLE FOR LIFE
Battle of the Centuries	Oct.	2	9
Desert Demons	Nov.	27	9
Killers	Oct.	30	10 Apr. 29,'33
Sea, The	May	7,'33	9
World Beneath Our Feet, The
BRAY'S NATURGRAPHS
An Oregon Camera Hunt	Sept.	11	9
Giants of the North	June	4,'33
Our Bird Citizens	Oct.	9	8 Dec. 10
Our Noble Ancestors	Dec.	4	9
Pirates of the Deep	May	7,'33	9
Stable Manners	Nov.	6	7
Wild Company	Jan.	1,'33	10
Woodland Pals	Jan.	29,'33	1 reel
BROADWAY GOSSIP
No. 1	Sept.	25	11
No. 2	Dec.	11	9 Dec. 31
No. 3	Feb.	5,'33	11
No. 4	Mar.	5,'33	11
No. 5	Apr.	30,'33	11
CAMERA ADVENTURES
Cougar's Mistake, The	May	28,'33	9
Taming the Wildcat	Jan.	15,'33	8
The Forgotten Island	Sept.	4	10
The Iceless Arctic	Nov.	6	11
Two Hundred Fathoms Deep	Mar.	19,'33	8
DO YOU REMEMBER
Gaslit Nineties, The	Nov.	27	8 Jan. 7,'33
Highlights of the Past	Apr.	9,'33	8
Old New York	Sept.	11	10 Jan. 14,'33
Puffs and Bustles	Mar.	12,'33	7
When Dad Was a Boy	Jan.	22,'33	8
GLEASON'S SPORT FEATURETTES
A Hockey Hick	Dec.	11	19
Always Kickin'	Oct.	9	20
Off His Base	Sept.	18	20
GREAT HOKUM MYSTERY
Burned at the Steak	Oct.	16	18
Evil Eye Conquers, The	Jan.	8,'33	14
In the Clutches of Death	Nov.	13	14
On the Brink of Disaster	Feb.	19,'33
HODGE-PODGE
Across America in Ten Minutes	Jan.	1,'33	11
Animal Fair, The	Jan.	15,'33	10
Bubble Blowers	Sept.	11	10
Down on the Farm	Dec.	18	10
Little Thrills	Oct.	23	9
Out of the Ordinary
Skipping About the Universe	Feb.	12,'33	10
Traffic	Nov.	6	10
Women of Many Lands	Mar.	12,'33	9
Women's Work	Sept.	25	9 Mar. 11,'33
Wonder City, The	Nov.	20	9 Feb. 25,'33
MERMAID COMEDIES
All Aboard Harry Langdon
Big Flash, The Harry Langdon	Nov.	6	22 Oct. 15
Hitch Hiker, The Harry Langdon	Feb.	12,'33	21
Knight Duty Harry Langdon	May	7,'33	22
Tired Feet Harry Langdon	Jan.	1,'33	22
Vest with a Tale, The Tom Howard	Dec.	4	22
MORAN AND MACK COMEDIES
A Pair of Socks	May	14,'33	20
As the Crows Fly	Feb.	5,'33	19
Hot Hoofs	Apr.	16,'33
Two Black Crows in Africa	Mar.	5,'33	20
OPERALOGUES
Brahmin's Daughter, A	Jan.	8,'33	22
Canteen Girl, The
Walpurgis Night	Oct.	30	20
SPIRIT OF THE CAMPUS (Reinald Werrenrath)
California	Mar.	5,'33	10
Cornell	Dec.	18	9 Dec. 17
Georgia Tech	May	7,'33	9
McGill	May	28,'33	9
Michigan	Dec.	4	8
Yale	Oct.	9	10
TERRY-TOONS
Burlesque	Sept.	4	6
College Spirit	Oct.	16	6
Down on the Levee	Mar.	5,'33	6
Farmer Al Falfa's Birthday Party	Oct.	2	6 Dec. 3
Forty Thieves, The	Nov.	13	6
Hansel Und Gretel	Feb.	5,'33	6
Hollywood Diet	Dec.	11	6
Hook and Ladder No. 1	Oct.	30	7 Nov. 5
Ireland or Bust	Dec.	25	6
Jealous Lover	Jan.	8,'33	6
Oh! Susanna	Apr.	2,'33	6
Pirate Ship	Apr.	30,'33	6
Robin Hood	Jan.	22,'33	6
Romeo and Juliet	Apr.	16,'33	6
Southern Rhythm	Sept.	18	6
Tale of a Shirt, The	Feb.	19,'33	6
Toyland	Nov.	27	6 Dec. 17
Who Killed Cock Robin?	Mar.	19,'33	6
THREE-REEL SPECIAL
Krakatoa	Apr.	23,'33	23
TOM HOWARD COMEDIES
A Drug on the Market	Jan.	22,'33	11
The Acid Test	Nov.	27	11
The Mouse Trapper	Sept.	11	12
TORCHY COMEDIES (Ray Cooke)
Torchy's Big Lead (Tent.)
Torchy's Busy Day	Oct.	2	20
Torchy's Kitty Coup	Jan.	22,'33	21
Torchy's Loud Spooker	Apr.	23,'33
Torchy Rolls His Own	Nov.	20	21
Torchy Turns Turtle	Apr.	23,'33	21
VANITY COMEDIES
Hollywood Run-Around Monty Collins	Dec.	18	20 Mar. 25,'33
Honeymoon Beach Billy Bevan-Glenn Tryon	Oct.	23	21
Keyhole Katie Gale Seabrook-John T. Murray	Jan.	15,'33	20
Techno-crazy Monty Collins-Billy Bevan	Apr.	23,'33	19

FOX FILMS

Title	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
MAGIC CARPET SERIES
1 Alpine Echoes	Aug.	14
2 Incredible India	Aug.	21	9
3 Big Game of the Sea	Aug.	28	8
4 The Tom-Tom Trail	Sept.	4	9
5 By-Ways of France	Sept.	11	9 Dec. 17
6 Manhattan Medley	Sept.	18	10
7 Rhineland Memories	Sept.	25	8
8 Fisherman's Fortune	Oct.	2	9
9 Zanzibar	Oct.	9	9
10 Belles of Bali	Oct.	16	8 Jan. 7,'33
11 Sailing a Square-Rigger	Oct.	23	10 Dec. 10
12 Venetian Holiday	Oct.	30	10 Nov. 12
13 Havana Ho!	Nov.	6	9
14 Paths in Palestine	Nov.	13	8
15 Ricksha Rhythm	Nov.	20
16 Pirate Isles	Nov.	27	9
17 From Kashmir to the Khyber	Dec.	4	9 Nov. 19
18 Silver Springs	Dec.	11
19 Desert Tripoli	Dec.	18
20 In the Guianas	Dec.	25	9
21 Mediterranean Memories	Jan.	1,'33
22 The Lure of the Orient	Jan.	8,'33	9
23 Here Comes the Circus	Jan.	15,'33
24 Sicilian Sunshine	Jan.	22,'33	10 Mar. 25,'33
25 Gorges of the Giants	Jan.	29,'33	9 Dec. 31
26 When In Rome	Feb.	5,'33
27 Berlin Medley	Feb.	12,'33	9 Nov. 26
28 Rhapsody of the Rails	Feb.	19,'33
29 Taking the Cure	Feb.	26,'33
30 Down from Vesuvius	Mar.	5,'33
31 Paris on Parade	Mar.	12,'33
32 Broadway by Day	Mar.	19,'33
33 The Iceberg Patrol
34 Mississippi Showboats
35 Sampans and Shadows
36 Boardwalks of New York
37 A Gondola Journey
38 Isles of the East Indies
39 Pagodas of Peiping

METRO-GOLDWYN-MAYER

Title	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
CHARLEY CHASE
Arabian Tights	June	3,'33	20
Fallen Arches	Feb.	4,'33	19
Girl Grief	Oct.	8	20
Mr. Bride	Dec.	24	19
Now We'll Tell One	Nov.	19	19 Oct. 22
Tarzan in the Wrong			20
Young Ironsides	Sept.	3	20
COLORTONE MUSICAL REVUES
Hollywood Premiere	Jan.	7,'33	18
Menu
Over the Counter		18	Feb. 25,'33
Wild People	Feb.	4,'33	18
FITZPATRICK TRAVELTALKS
Barbados and Trinidad	Sept.	24	9
Big Ditch of Panama, The
Come Back to Erin		9	June 4
Cuba, Land of the Rhumba	Feb.	25,'33
Daughters of the Sea		9
Iceland	Jan.	14,'33	10 Feb. 11,'33
Leningrad	Dec.	17	9 Mar. 11,'33
Norway	Feb.	4,'33	9
Over the Seas to Borneo		9
Rio the Magnificent		9
World Dances, The		9
FLIP, THE FROG
Cuckoo the Magician	Jan.	21,'33
Funny Face	Dec.	24	8
Lunchroom, The
Music Lesson, The	Oct.	29	8
Nursemaid, The	Nov.	26	7
Techno-cracked		8
LAUREL & HARDY
Me An' My Pal		21
Scram	Sept.	16	21 Oct. 15
Their First Mistake			21
Towed In a Hole	Dec.	31	21
Twice Two	Feb.	25,'33	21
ODDITIES
Chill and Chills	Sept.	10	9
Duck Hunter's Paradise	Dec.	31	10 Dec. 31
Microscopic Mysteries	Oct.	18	10 Apr. 8,'33
Toy Parade, The	Dec	3	7 Dec. 17
Whispering Bill	Dec.	31	10
OUR GANG
A Lad an' a Lamp	Dec.	17	17
Birthday Blues	Nov.	12	20
Fish Hooky	Jan.	28,'33	19
Forgotten Babies	Mar.	11,'33	17
Free Wheeling	Oct.	1	20
Kid from Borneo, The	Apr.	15,'33	19
Mush and Milk	May	27,'33
PITTS-TODD
Alum and Eve	Sept.	24	18 Aug. 13
Asleep in the Feet	Jan.	21,'33	19
Bargain of the Century			20
Maids a la Mode			18
One Track Minds
Sneak Easily	Dec.	10	17
Soilers, The	Oct.	29	19
SPECIAL
Roosevelt, the Man of the Hour		18	Apr. 15,'33
SPORT CHAMPIONS
Allez Oop	Mar.	11,'33
Auto Racing	Apr.	1,'33
Blocks and Tackles	Nov.	5	12 Mar. 11,'33
Bone Crushers	Feb.	8,'33	8
Chalk Up	Dec.	10	10 Jan. 7,'33
Desert Regatta	Sept.	17	10
Football Footwork			12
Motorcycle Mania	Jan.	28,'33	9
Old Spanish Custom	Oct.	15	10 Mar. 11,'33
Pigskin	Oct.	22	12 Dec. 10
Swing High	Dec.	10	10 Dec. 17
Throttle Pushers			9
TAXI BOYS
Bring 'Em Back a Wife	Jan.	14,'33	20
Call Her Sausage
Farewell to Legs
Hot Spot	Oct.	22	18 Oct. 1
Rummy, The			18
Strange Innertube	Sept.	22
Taxi Barons
Taxi for Two	Dec.	3	18
Thundering Taxis	June	24,'33	16
Wreckety Wrecks	Feb.	18,'33	19 Mar. 25,'33

PARAMOUNT PUBLIX

Title	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
HOLLWOOD ON PARADE
No. 1	Aug.	26	10 Aug. 13
No. 2	Sept.	23	1 reel
No. 3	Oct.	21	1 reel

(THE RELEASE CHART--CONT'D)

Title	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
No. 4	Nov.	18..... 1 reel	.....
No. 5	Dec.	16..... 1 reel	.....
No. 6	Jan.	13,'33... 1 reel	.....
No. 7	Feb.	10,'33... 1 reel	.....
No. 8	Mar.	10,'33... 1 reel	.....
No. 9	Apr.	7,'33... 1 reel	.....
No. 10	May	5,'33... 1 reel	.....
No. 11	June	2,'33... 1 reel	.....
No. 12	June	30,'33... 1 reel	.....
ONE REEL ACTS
Be Like Me (Ethel Merman)	Feb.	18,'33... 1 reel	.....
Breaking Even (Tom Howard)	Sept.	30.....	.....
Detective Tom Howard of the Suicide Squad (Tom Toward)	June	9,'33... 1 reel	.....
Hawaiian Fantasy (Vincent Lopez)	Jan.	20,'33... 1 reel	.....
Let's Dance (Burns and Allen)	Mar.	17,'33... 1 reel	.....
Moonlight Fantasy (Vincent Lopez)	Apr.	14,'33... 1 reel	.....
Musical Doctor (Rudy Vallee)	Oct.	28.....10.....Oct. 1
Rhapsody in Black and Blue (Louis Armstrong)	Sept.	2.....	.....
Reckle, The (Tom Howard)	Dec.	23..... 1 reel	.....
Walking the Baby (Burns and Allen)	May	12,'33... 1 reel	.....
Your Hat (Burns and Allen)	Nov.	25.....	.....
PARAMOUNT PICTORIAL—NEW SERIES
No. 1—Mists of the Morning—Temple Bells of Inde-China—Famous Radio Personalities	Aug.	12..... 1 reel	.....
No. 2—Just Mentioning the Unmentionable — New England Sunsets—Famous Radio Personalities	Sept.	9..... 1 reel	.....
No. 3—Making Friends in the Desert—The Fall of the Year — Radio Star-Maker	Oct.	7..... 1 reel	.....
No. 4—Distinctive Hair for Distinctive Heads — The Blooming Desert — The Camels Are Coming	Nov.	4..... 1 reel	.....
No. 5—John Mongol Comes to Town—Have a Little Ski—Meet Your Favorite Radio Personalities	Dec.	4..... 1 reel	.....
No. 6—Land of Sun and Shine — La Rumba de Cuba—Big Shots of U.S. Navy	Dec.	30..... 1 reel	.....
No. 7—This is Ducky — Music from the Ancients —Bringing You the News	Jan.	27,'33... 1 reel	.....
No. 8—Glass Making at the Corning Glass Works — "Going Back Home" — Costuming the Earl Carroll Vanities	Feb.	24,'33... 1 reel	.....
No. 9—A Drama of the Northland — Paramount Pictorial Presents Amelia Earhart	Mar.	17,'33... 1 reel	.....
No. 10—Birth of the Year — Laboratory Sleuth — Three X Sisters	Apr.	21,'33...10...Apr. 22,'33
No. 11—	May	19,'33... 1 reel	.....
No. 12—	June	16,'33... 1 reel	.....
SCREEN SONGS
Ain't She Sweet (Lillian Roth)	Feb.	3,'33.....	.....
Aloha Oe (Royal Samoans)	Mar.	17,'33... 1 reel	.....
Dinah (Mills Bros.)	Jan.	13,'33... 1 reel	.....
Down by the Old Mill Stream (Eton Boys)	June	30,'33... 1 reel	.....
Just a Gigolo (Irene Bordeni)	Sept.	9.....	.....
Peanut Vender, The (Armida)	Apr.	28,'33.....	.....
Popular Melodies (Arthur Jarrett)	Apr.	7,'33... 1 reel	.....
Reaching for the Moon	Feb.	24,'33... 1 reel	.....
Romantic Melodies (The Street Singer)	Oct.	21..... 1 reel	.....
School Days (Gus Edwards)	Sept.	30.....	.....
Sing a Song (James Melton)	Dec.	2.....	.....
Song Shopping (Ethel Merman)		1 reel	.....
Time on My Hands (Ethel Merman)	Dec.	23..... 7...Jan. 7,'33
When It's Sleepy Time Down South (Boswell Sisters)	Nov.	11..... 1 reel	.....
SCREEN SOUVENIRS — NEW SERIES
No. 1	Aug.	5..... 1 reel	.....
No. 2	Sept.	2..... 1 reel	.....
No. 3	Sept.	30.....10.....Oct. 15
No. 4	Oct.	28..... 1 reel	.....
No. 5	Nov.	25..... 1 reel	.....
No. 6	Dec.	23..... 1 reel	.....
No. 7	Jan.	20,'33... 1 reel	.....
No. 8	Feb.	17,'33... 1 reel	.....
No. 9	Mar.	17,'33... 1 reel	.....
No. 10	Apr.	14,'33... 1 reel	.....
No. 11	May	12,'33.....	.....
No. 12	June	9,'33... 1 reel	.....
PARAMOUNT SOUND NEWS
Two Editions Weekly
SPORTS EYE VIEW
Aggravatin' Bear, The	Apr.	28,'33... 1 reel	.....
Balance	June	23,'33... 1 reel	.....
Canine Thrills	Feb.	3,'33... 1 reel	.....
Catch 'Em Young	Dec.	9..... 1 reel	.....
Fighting Fins	Oct.	14.....10.....Oct. 15
Hot and Cold Thrills	Mar.	31,'33... 1 reel	.....
Jabs and Jolts	May	26,'33... 1 reel	.....
Over the Jumps	Jan.	6,'33... 1 reel	.....
Stuff on the Ball	Nov.	11..... 1 reel	.....
Water Jamboree	Sept.	16..... 1 reel	.....
Wonder Girl, The (Babe Didrickson)	Mar.	3,'33... 1 reel	.....

Title	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
TALKARTOONS
Betty Boop's Bamboo Isle	Sept.	23.....	.....
Betty Boop's Big Boss	June	2,'33... 1 reel	.....
Betty Boop's Birthday Party	Apr.	21,'33... 1 reel	.....
Betty Boop's Crazy Inventions	Jan.	27,'33... 1 reel	.....
Betty Boop for President	Nov.	4..... 7.....Oct. 1
Betty Boop's Ker-Choo	Jan.	6,'33... 7.....Dec. 10
Betty Boop, M.D.	Sept.	2..... 7.....Dec. 10
Betty Boop's May Party	May	12,'33... 1 reel	.....
Betty Boop's Museum	Dec.	16..... 1 reel	.....
Betty Boop's Ups & Downs	Oct.	14..... 1 reel	.....
Betty Boop's Penthouse	Mar.	10,'33... 6...Feb. 25,'33
Is My Palm Read	Feb.	17,'33... 1 reel	.....
Minding the Baby	Sept.	26..... 1 reel	.....
Mother Goose Land	June	23,'33... 1 reel	.....
Snow-White	Mar.	31,'33... 1 reel	.....
TWO REEL COMEDIES
Blue of the Night (Bing Crosby)	Jan.	6,'33...20.....Sept. 16
Bring 'Em Back Sober (Sennett Star)	Nov.	18..... 2 reels	.....
Caliente Love (Sennett Star)	Mar.	10,'33... 2 reels	.....
Cook's Day Off, The (Sennett Star)
Courting Trouble (Charles Murray)	Oct.	28.....19.....Dec. 17
Dentist, The (Sennett Star)	Dec.	9.....20.....Dec. 3
Don't Play Bridge With Your Wife (Sennett Star)	Jan.	13,'33... 2 reels	.....
Doubling in the Quickies (Sennett Star)	Dec.	16..... 2 reels	.....
Dream Stuff (Sennett Star)	May	12,'33... 2 reels	.....
Druggist, The (Sennett Star)	Apr.	21,'33.....	.....
Easy On the Eyes (Sennett Star)	Feb.	17,'33... 2 reels	.....
False Impressions (Sennett Star)	Nov.	4..... 2 reels	.....
Fatal Glass of Beer (W. C. Fields)	Mar.	3,'33... 2 reels	.....
His Perfect Day (Sennett Star)
Hollywood Double, A (Sennett Star)	Nov.	25..... 2 reels	.....
Honeymoon Bridge (Sennett Star)
Hubby's Vacation (Sennett Star)
Human Fish (Sennett Star)	Dec.	30..... 2 reels	.....
In the Bag (Sennett Star)
Lion and the House, The (Sennett Star)	Dec.	23.....18	.....
Ma's Pride and Joy (Donald Novis)	Oct.	14.....18.....Aug. 27
Morning After, The (Sennett Star)
Pharmacist, The (Sennett Star)	Apr.	21,'33... 2 reels	.....
Plumber and the Lady, The (Sennett Star)	Mar.	31,'33... 2 reels	.....
Prosperity Pays (Tom Howard)	Nov.	4.....	.....
Shet for Love (Sennett Star)
Sing, Bing, Sing (Bing Crosby)	Mar.	24,'33... 2 reels	.....
Singing Boxer, The	Jan.	27,'33.....	.....
Singing Plumber (Donald Novis)	Sept.	23.....	.....
Sweet Cookie (Sennett Star)	Apr.	14,'33... 2 reels	.....
Temporary Butler (Sennett Star)
Too Many Highballs (Sennett Star)	Feb.	10,'33... 2 reels	.....
Uncle Jake (Sennett Star)	May	5,'33... 2 reels	.....
Wrestlers, The (Sennett Star)	Jan.	20,'33.....	.....

RKO-RADIO PICTURES

Title	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
CHARLIE CHAPLIN SERIES (Re-Issues)
Easy Street	Sept.	30.....19½....Dec. 17
The Floorwalker	Dec.	23.....20½.....
The Pawnshop	Mar.	17,'33.....
The Rink	Nov.	11.....20	.....
The Vagabond	Feb.	3,'33...21	.....
CLARK & McCULLOUGH SERIES
Druggist's Dilemma, The	May	5,'33...17	.....
Hocus Focus	Mar.	3,'33...20	.....
Jitters, The Butler	Dec.	30.....20½....Aug. 20
Millionaire Cat, The	Oct.	21.....21	.....
HARRY SWEET COMEDIES
Firehouse Honeymoon	Oct.	28.....18...Jan. 14,'33
Heave Two	Mar.	10,'33...20½	.....
Loops, My Dear	Jan.	6,'33...17	.....
Shakespeare With Tin Ears	June	30,'33...18½	.....
Thrown Out of Joint	May	12,'33...21	.....
HEADLINER SERIES
No. 1—Shampoo, the Magician (Roscoe Ates-Hugh Herbert)	Nov.	25.....17	.....
No. 2—Private Wives (Skeets Gallagher W. Catlett)	Jan.	27,'33...21	.....
No. 3—Hip, Zip, Hooray (Nat Carr)	Mar.	31,'33...18½	.....
MASQUERS COMEDIES
Abroad In Old Kentucky
Bride's Bereavement, The	Nov.	18.....19	.....
Lost In the Limehouse	Apr.	7,'33...20½	.....
Moonshiner's Daughter, The

Title	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
Through Thin and Thicket	Jan.	20,'33...17½	.....
Two Lips and Juleps	Sept.	9.....20	.....
MICKEY McGUIRE SERIES
Mickey's Ape Man	Feb.	10,'33...18	.....
Mickey's Big Broadcast
Mickey's Busy Day	Sept.	2.....18.....Aug. 6
Mickey's Charity	Dec.	2.....18	.....
Mickey's Disguise
Mickey's Race	Apr.	14,'33...18	.....
MR. AVERAGE MAN COMEDIES (EDGAR KENNEDY)
Art In the Raw	Feb.	24,'33...19	.....
Fish Feathers	Dec.	16.....18	.....
Inferior Decorations
Merchant of Menace, The	Apr.	21,'33...19½	.....
Parlor, Bedroom and Wrath	Oct.	14.....20½	.....
PATHE NEWS
Released twice a week
PATHE REVIEW
Released once a month
SPECIALS
So This Is Harris		28...Mar. 11,'33
TOM AND JERRY SERIES
Barnyard Bunk	Sept.	16..... 6	.....
Happy Hoboes	Mar.	31,'33.....	.....
Magic Mummy	Feb.	7,'33... 7	.....
Panicky Pup	Feb.	24,'33... 7	.....
Pencil Mania	Dec.	9..... 7	.....
Piano Tooners	Nov.	11..... 7½	.....
Puzzled Pals		7...Apr. 22,'33
Spanish Twist, A	Oct.	14..... 6	.....
Tight Rope Tricks	Jan.	6,'33... 7	.....

STATE RIGHTS

Title	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
ATLANTIC FILM
Playgrounds in the Sky		10.....Nov. 5
Sportsmen's Paradise		10.....July 30
BEVERLY HILLS PICTURES
Coocoo Capers
Flame of the Pacific		23.....	.....
CAESAR FILMS
Veneziana		1 reel	.....
CENTRAL FILM
A Pilgrimage Through Palestine		10.....Dec. 3
Boston Common—and Proper		10...Jan. 7,'33
Hula		3 reels	.....
In Old New Orleans		May 28
Syria		May 21
F. M. S. CORP.
Newslaughs		7...Jan. 28,'33
IDEAL
Evolution		28.....Sept. 3
INDUSTRIAL
The Silent Enemy		30	.....
MARY WARNER
Berlin: Its Sports and Recreation		8	.....
Berlin: Rhythm of a Metropolis		8...Apr. 8,'33
Glimpses of Germany		8	.....
Green Heart of Germany, The		20	.....
Springtime on the Rhine		7	.....
The Mosel		8.....Oct. 15
Trier, Oldest City in Germany		8	.....
Vintagers' Festival in the Palatinate		10...Mar. 11,'33
Winter in the Bavarian Alps		1 reel	.....
Young Germany Goes Ski-ing		1 reel	.....
MASCOT
Technocracy		10...Jan. 7,'33
MASTER ART PRODUCTS
Melody Makers Series:
Sammy Fain		10.....Dec. 24
Benny Davis		9	.....
Gus Edwards
Cliff Friend		9	.....
Night of Romance		7	.....
Tongue Twisters		9	.....
PRINCIPAL
Beer Is Here
Get That Lion		29.....Aug. 27
Isle of Desire		3 reels	.....
Isle of Peril		32.....July 16
Isles of Love		1 reel	.....
Killing the Killer		11.....July 30
Matto Grosso		24	.....
New Western Front		25	.....
Primitive		1 reel	.....
Tiger Hunt, The		20.....Dec. 31
Voodoo		36	.....
Walpi
WARD PRODUCTIONS
Your Technocracy and Mine		9½..Feb. 11,'33

UNITED ARTISTS

Title	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
MICKEY MOUSE
1. Mickey's Nightmare	Aug.	8..... 7½....Oct. 8
2. Trader Mickey	Aug.	26..... 7	.....
3. The Whoopee Party	Sept.	16..... 7.....Nov. 12
4. Touchdown Mickey	Oct.	7..... 6½	.....
5. The Wayward Canary	Oct.	28..... 7¼	.....
6. The Klondike Kid	Nov.	18.....
7. Mickey's Good Deed	Dec.	9..... 8	.....
8. Building a Building	Dec.	20..... 7	.....
9. The Mad Doctor	Jan.	20,'33... 6	.....
10. Mickey's Pal Plute	Feb.	10,'33... 7	.....
11. The Mellerdrammer	Mar.	3,'33.....	.....
12. Ye Olden Days	Mar.	24,'33.....	.....
13. The Mail Pilot
SILLY SYMPHONIES
1. Bears and Bees	July	15..... 6½	.....
2. Just Dogs	Aug.	12..... 7	.....
3. Flowers and Trees	Sept.	9..... 8.....Oct. 15
4. Bugs In Love	Sept.	21..... 7	.....
5. King Neptune	Oct.	7..... 7.....Oct. 29
6. Babes in the Wood	Dec.	2..... 8...Apr. 1,'33
7. Santa's Workshop	Dec.	30..... 7.....Dec. 24
8. Birds In the Spring	Dec.	30.....	.....
9. Father Noah's Ark	Jan.	27,'33.....	.....

(THE RELEASE CHART--CONT'D)

UNIVERSAL

Title	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
OSWALD CARTOONS
Beau Best	May 22,'33	1 reel
Busy Barber	Sept. 12	1 reel
Carnival Capers	Oct. 10	1 reel
Going to Blazes	Apr. 10,'33	1 reel
Ham and Eggs	June 19,'33	1 reel
New Deal, A	July 17,'33	1 reel
Ocean Hop (Reissue)	Apr. 24,'33	1 reel
Plumber, The	Jan. 30,'33	7
Shriek, The	Feb. 27,'33	7	Mar. 25,'33
Teacher's Pest	Dec. 19	7
Wild and Wooly	Nov. 21	1 reel
POOCH CARTOONS
Butcher Boy, The	Sept. 26	7	Sept. 17
Cat and Dogs	Dec. 5	1 reel
Crowd Snores, The	Oct. 24	1 reel
Fine Feathers	July 3,'33	1 reel
Hot and Cold	May 8,'33	1 reel
King Klunk	July 31,'33	1 reel
Lumber Champ, The	Mar. 13,'33	7	Apr. 8,'33
Merry Dog, The	Jan. 2,'33	1 reel
Nature's Workshop	June 5,'33	1 reel
Terrible Troubador, The	Feb. 13,'33	1 reel
Underdog, The	Nov. 7	1 reel
RADIO STAR REELS
Morton Downey—No. 1 With Vincent Lopez	Oct. 31	2 reels
The Street Singer Nick Kenny—No. 1	Nov. 14	2 reels
Morton Downey—No. 2 With Brown and Henderson	Nov. 28	2 reels
Art Jarrett Nick Kenny—No. 2	Dec. 12	2 reels
Down Memory Lane Louis Sobol—No. 1 With Texas Guinan	Dec. 26	1 reel
Married or Single Nick Kenny—No. 3 With Little Jack Little	Jan. 16,'33	21
I Know Everybody and Everybody's Racket Walter Winchell—No. 1 With Paul Whiteman	Jan. 30,'33	21	Feb. 11,'33
Morton Downey—No. 3 The Holdup With Joe Young	Feb. 14,'33	2 reels
Radio Murder Mystery Louis Sobol—No. 2	Mar. 6,'33	2 reels
Morton Downey—No. 4 My Pal the Prince	Apr. 17,'33	2 reels
Beauty on Broadway Walter Winchell—No. 2	May 15,'33	2 reels
SPECIALS
Voice of the Vatican	Mar. 13,'33	10	Mar. 11,'33
Your Technocracy and Mine	Apr. 15,'33	1 reel
STRANGE AS IT SEEMS SERIES
No. 21—Novelty	Aug. 22	1 reel
No. 22—Novelty	Sept. 19	1 reel
No. 23—Novelty	Oct. 17	1 reel
No. 24—Novelty	Nov. 14	1 reel
No. 25—Novelty	Dec. 12	1 reel
No. 26—Novelty	Jan. 23,'33	1 reel
No. 27—Novelty	Mar. 20,'33	1 reel
No. 28—Novelty	Apr. 17,'33	1 reel
No. 29—Novelty	May 15,'33	1 reel
No. 30—Novelty	June 12,'33	1 reel
No. 31—Novelty	July 10,'33	1 reel
UNIVERSAL BREVITIES
Beer	Dec. 26	1 reel
Dr. Jekyll's Hide	Sept. 26	9	Oct. 1
Good Old Days, The	Nov. 21	1 reel
Greeks Had No Word for Them, The	Oct. 24	1 reel
Lizzie Stratta	Jan. 23,'33	10
UNIVERSAL COMEDIES (1932-33 SEASON)
A Quiet Night Bert Roach	May 31,'33	21
Alias the Professor James Gleason	Mar. 8,'33	2 reels
Boys Will Be Boys Frank Albertson	Nov. 30	2 reels
Family Troubles Henry Armetta	Jan. 11,'33	21
Finishing Touch Skeets Gallagher June Clyde	Oct. 19	2 reels
Hesitating Love L. Fazenda-M. Prevost	Nov. 16	2 reels
Hunting Trouble Louise Fazenda	Feb. 8,'33	20	Mar. 11,'33
Kid Glove Kisses Slim Summerville	Sept. 21	2 reels
Lights Out James Gleason	Dec. 24	2 reels
Mister Mugg James Gleason	May 10,'33	21
My Operation Vince Barnett-June Clyde	Dec. 28	2 reels
Officer, Save My Child Slim Summerville	Nov. 2	2 reels
Pick Me Up Marie Prevost	Apr. 5,'33	19
Rockabye Cowboy James Gleason	Jan. 25,'33	2 reels
Room Mates Frank Albertson	Apr. 19,'33	20
Should Crooners Marry? Frank Albertson	Feb. 22,'33	2 reels
Trial of Vince Barnett Vince Barnett	Mar. 22,'33
Who, Me Frank Albertson	Sept. 7	2 reels
Yoo Hoo! James Gleason	Oct. 5	21	Sept. 3

VITAPHONE SHORTS

Title	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
BIG V COMEDIES
No. 1—Sherlock's Home Jack Haley
No. 2—Here, Prince Joe Penner
No. 3—You Call It Madness Richy Craig, Jr.
No. 4—Hey, Pop Roscoe (Fatty) Arbuckle
No. 5—Then Came the Yawn Jack Haley
No. 6—The Run Around William Demarest
No. 7—Trouble Indemnity Codee and Orth
No. 8—The Build-Up Jack Haley
No. 9—Buzzin' Around Roscoe (Fatty) Arbuckle
No. 10—Wrongorilla Jack Haley
No. 11—How've You Bean? "Fatty" Arbuckle
No. 12—An Idle Roomer Jack Haley
BROADWAY BREVITIES (NEW SERIES)
No. 1—C'est Paris Technicolor Musical	Sept. 3	17
No. 2—Passing the Buck Alexander Gray	Sept. 24	18
No. 3—Tee for Two Technicolor Musical	Oct. 8	17	Nov. 12
No. 4—Tip-Tap-Toe Hal Leroy-Mitzi Mayfair	Oct. 22	19
No. 5—A Modern Cinderella Ruth Etting	Nov. 5	18
No. 6—Picking a Winner Technicolor Musical	Nov. 19	16	Nov. 19
No. 7—The Red Shadow Al Gray-Bernice Claire	Dec. 3	18
No. 8—Sky Symphony Stoopnagle & Budd	June 3,'33
No. 9—Poor Little Rich Boy Phil Baker	Dec. 24	18
No. 10—Hey, Hey, Westerner Technicolor Musical	Dec. 31	17	Oct. 15
No. 11—That Goes Double Russ Columbo	June 17,'33
No. 12—Bygones Ruth Etting	Jan. 14,'33	18
No. 13—Pleasure Island Technicolor Musical	Feb. 25,'33	18
No. 14—Yours Sincerely Lanny Ross	Mar. 11,'33	19
No. 15—Speaking of Operations Pick & Pat	Jan. 28,'33	18
No. 16—Northern Exposure Technicolor Musical	Apr. 8,'33	16
No. 17—Nothing Ever Happens Musical	Mar. 25,'33
No. 18—World's Champ Jack Dempsey	July 11,'33
No. 19—The Way of All Freshmen Hal Leroy-Mitzi Mayfair	Apr. 22,'33
No. 20—Along Came Ruth Ruth Etting	May 6,'33
No. 21—Fifi V. Segal-Chas. Judels	May 20,'33
HOW TO BREAK 90 BOBBY JONES
No. 1—The Grip	May 15,'33	9
No. 2—Position and Back Swing
No. 3—Hip Action
No. 4—Down Swing
No. 5—Impact
No. 6—Fine Points
LOONEY TUNES SERIES
No. 9—Bosko and Bruno		7	Dec. 16
No. 10—Bosko's Dog Race		6	July 8
No. 11—Bosko at the Beach		7	Nov. 5
No. 12—Bosko's Store		7
No. 13—Bosko the Lumberjack
LOONEY TUNES (NEW SERIES)
No. 1—Ride Him, Bosko
No. 2—Bosko the Drawback
No. 3—Bosko's Dizzy Date
No. 4—Bosko's Woodland Daze
No. 5—Bosko in Dutch
No. 6—Bosko in Person
No. 7—Bosko the Speed King
No. 8—Bosko's Knight Mare
MELODY MASTERS (NEW SERIES)
No. 1—Music to My Ears Jack Denny and Band
No. 2—Municipal Band Wagon
No. 3—Smash Your Baggage Small's Paradise Band
No. 4—The Lease Breakers Aunt Jemima		9	Dec. 3
No. 5—The Yacht Party Roger Wolfe Kahn's Band
No. 6—Hot Competition The Continentals-Barris-Whiteman-Ted Husing
No. 7—Abe Lyman and Band		10	Apr. 1,'33
No. 8—"How's Tricks?" Jean Sargent-George Owen and Gang
No. 9—That's the Spirit Noble Sissle and Band
No. 10—The Alma Martyr Fred Waring and His Pennsylvanians
MERRY MELODIES (New Series)
No. 1—You're Too Careless With Your Kisses		8	Dec. 17
No. 2—I Wish I Had Wings
No. 3—A Great Big Bunch of You
No. 4—Three's a Crowd
No. 5—Shanty Where Santa Claus Lives
No. 6—One Step Ahead of My Shadow
No. 7—Young and Healthy
No. 8—The Organ Grinder
No. 9—Wake Up the Gypsy in Me
NOVELTIES
Bigger They Are, The Primo Carnera		2 reels
Gypsy Caravan Martinelli		1 reel
Handy Guy, The Earl Sande		2 reels
Rhythms of a Big City		1 reel
Season's Greetings, The Christmas Special		5
Trip to Tibet, A		1 reel
Washington, The Man and the Capitol Clarence Whitehill		18

Title	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
ONE-REEL COMEDIES
Baby Face Victor Moore
Military Post, The Robert Guzman
No-Account, The Hardie-Hutchison
No Questions Asked Little Billy
Strong Arm, The Harrington-O'Neill
ORGAN SONG-NATAS
For You Organ-Vocal		1 reel
Say a Little Prayer for Me Organ-Vocal		1 reel
When Your Lover Has Gone Organ-Vocal		1 reel
JOE PENNER COMEDIES
Moving In		2 reels
Rough Sailing		16
Stutterless Romance, A		1 reel
Where Men Are Men		2 reels
PEPPER POT (NEW SERIES)
No. 1—Rambling Round Radio Row No. 1
No. 2—Nickelette
No. 3—Contact
No. 4—If I'm Elected
No. 5—King Salmon
No. 6—Rambling Round Radio Row No. 2
No. 7—Babe O' Mine
No. 8—Dangerous Occupations
No. 9—Out of the Past
No. 10—Love Thy Neighbor
No. 11—Rambling Round Radio Row No. 3
No. 12—A Whale of a Yarn
No. 13—Africa Speaks—English
No. 14—Rambling Round Radio Row No. 4		10	Apr. 29,'33
No. 15—Sea Devils
No. 16—Parades of Yesterday
No. 17—Breakwater
No. 18—Little White Lies
No. 19—Rambling Round Radio Row No. 5
No. 20—You're Killing Me
No. 21—Inklings
No. 22—Rambling Round Radio Row No. 6
No. 23—Around the World in 8 Minutes		8	Aug. 26
No. 24—Fishermen's Holiday
No. 25—Stuck, Stuck, Stucco
No. 26—Seeing Samoa
SPORT THRILLS SERIES TED HUSING
No. 1—
No. 2—
No. 3—
No. 4—Old Time Sport Thrills
No. 5—
No. 6—
S. S. VAN DINE MYSTERY SERIES (Donald Meek-John Hamilton)
No. 10—Campus Mystery, The
No. 11—Crane Poison Case, The
No. 12—Transatlantic Mystery, The		22	Sept. 19
TWO-REEL COMEDIES
Dandy and the Belle, The Frank McGlynn, Jr.-Mary Murray
Freshman Love Ruth Etting
Old Lace Ruth Etting
WORLD TRAVEL TALKS— E. M. NEWMAN
No. 1—Little Journeys to Great Masters		1 reel
No. 2—Southern India		9
No. 3—Road to Mandalay		1 reel
No. 4—Mediterranean By-ways		9
No. 5—Javanese Journeys		9
No. 6—Northern India		1 reel
No. 7—Oberammergau		1 reel
No. 8—South American Journeys		9	June 25
No. 9—Soviet Russia		1 reel
No. 10—Paris Glimpses		9	July 30
No. 11—Dear Old London		1 reel
No. 12—When in Rome		9	June 18
No. 13—Berlin Today		9	Oct. 29
WORLD ADVENTURES E. M. NEWMAN (New Series)
No. 1—Dancing Around the World		1 reel
No. 2—Transportations of the World		1 reel
No. 3—An Original Cocktail		10	Oct. 8
No. 4—Curious Customs of the World		1 reel
No. 5—From Bethlehem to Jerusalem		10	Apr. 1,'33
No. 6—High Spots of the Far East		10	Sept. 10
No. 7—Main Streets		1 reel
No. 8—Beauty Spots of the World		1 reel
No. 9—Workers of the World		1 reel
No. 10—Wonder Spots of the World		1 reel
No. 11—Costumes of the World		1 reel
No. 12—Strange Ceremonies		1 reel
No. 13—Top of the World		1 reel

SERIALS

UNIVERSAL

(EACH SERIAL 12 EPISODES OF TWO REELS)

Title	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
Clancy of the Mounted Tom Tyler-Jacqueline Wells	Feb. 27,'33	20 (each)	Feb. 4,'33
Lost Special Frank Albertson	Dec. 5
Jungle Mystery Tom Tyler	Sept. 12	20 (each)
Phantom of the Air Tom Tyler-Gloria Shea	May 22,'33

CLASSIFIED ADVERTISING

the great national medium for showmen

Ten cents per word, money-order or check with copy. Count initials, box number and address. Minimum insertion, $1. Four insertions for the price of three. Contract rates on application. No borders or cuts. Forms close Mondays at 5 P.M. Publisher reserves right to reject any copy. Address correspondence, copy and checks to MOTION PICTURE HERALD, Classified Dept., 1790 Broadway, New York City

REPAIR SERVICE

BEST GRADE REPAIR WORK. PRICES right. Free relief heads. Prompt service. GUERCIO AND BARTHEL, 1018 South Wabash Avenue, Chicago, Ill.

PROJECTORS, TICKET MACHINES AND OTHER theatre and sound equipment requiring parts and repairs can now be given prompt attention at reasonable cost. BOX 121A, MOTION PICTURE HERALD.

USED EQUIPMENT

UNUSUAL BARGAINS IN USED OPERA Chairs, Sound Equipment, Moving Picture Machines, Screens, Spotlights, Stereopticons, etc. Projection Machines Repaired. Send for catalogue H. MOVIE SUPPLY COMPANY, 844 So. Wabash Ave., Chicago.

BARGAINS RECONDITIONED ARTIC-NU-AIR blowers noiseless drives. Write for prices. SOUTHERN FAN CO., Box 440, Atlanta, Ga.

SACRIFICING COMPLETE RECORDING studio—Mitchell, Bell Howell Cameras; Amplifiers; Mikes; Recording Heads; Glowlamps, etc. BOX 289, MOTION PICTURE HERALD.

LIQUIDATION PROCEEDING — GOVERNment Surplus—Tremendous Reductions: Projectors, Lamphouses, Generators, Rectifiers, Amplifiers, Soundheads, Loudspeakers. Trades accepted. S. O. S. CORP., 1600 Broadway, New York.

NEW EQUIPMENT

VENTILATING, AIR WASHING, REFRIGERATing systems now within reach. Fit present blowers. Details ready. S. O. S. CORP., 1600 Broadway, New York City.

TRAILER SERVICE

SOUND TRAILERS—OUR PRICE OF 8c FT. IS a saving over 6c ft. 50c card. MISSOURI FILM LABORATORIES, 1704 Baltimore, Kansas City, Mo.

PROJECTIONISTS UNIONS

THE NEW NATIONAL PROJECTIONISTS' Union—Independent Motion Picture Operators' Union, National Executive Offices, 3546 Vincent North, Minneapolis, Minn.

PRINTING SERVICE

EXHIBITORS CAN SAVE MONEY ON STAtionery, window cards and advertising paper by ordering through the mail. Let us know your wants. BOX 135-A, MOTION PICTURE HERALD.

GENERAL EQUIPMENT

NEW & USED SCENERY DRAPES, TRACKS, etc. KINGSLEY STUDIO, Alton, Ill.

A FEW BARGAINS AT CROWN — FOREST rectifier 30 ampere, $75.00 each; 15 ampere rectifier, $25.00; Simplex mechanism, $135.00; Powers, $40.00. All merchandise guaranteed. Write us your needs and let us quote you. Special prices on Sanitary supplies. Write for list. CROWN MOTION PICTURE SUPPLIES CORP., 311 West 44th St., New York City.

DEBRIE CAMERA AND OTHER EQUIPment. Mrs. CLARENCE E. RUNEY, Palace Hotel, Cincinnati.

FILM EXCHANGES

INDEPENDENT EXCHANGES ALL OVER THE country wanted to act as local representative for independent productions handled on state right basis. State number of theatres servicing in territory together with list of producers you are now representing. BOX 138-A, MOTION PICTURE HERALD.

EQUIPMENT EXCHANGE

IF YOU WANT TO REPLACE ANY TYPE OF equipment with brand new material we will be glad to make an allowance on your old equipment and a better price on new equipment. Let us know what you need and what you want to exchange and we will send complete details on our proposition. EQUIPMENT EXCHANGE, c/o MOTION PICTURE HERALD, 1790 Broadway, New York City.

POSITIONS WANTED

OPERATOR—ELECTRICIAN WANTS JOB. WALTER INGALLS, Ionia, Iowa.

THEATRE POSTER ARTIST — NOW EMployed, thoroughly experienced in displays, cutouts, hand lettered bill posters, painting likenesses. Some equipment. Go anywhere. References. BOX 296, MOTION PICTURE HERALD.

BUSINESS STIMULATORS

LIMITED SUPPLY ON HAND. FIRST COME first served. MYSTO, the new puzzle game. Seven blocks that reproduce an endless variety of tricky silhouettes and figures. More entertaining and educational than jig saw puzzles. Each set contains instruction booklet. Blocks are unbreakable. The latest puzzle craze to give out as door prizes to grown ups and children. Backed up by national newspaper advertising. $10 per hundred, $90 per thousand. No orders accepted unless check or money-order accompanies it. BOX 137-A, MOTION PICTURE HERALD.

TECHNICAL BOOKS

"RICHARDSON'S HAND BOOKS OF PROJECtion" in three volumes. Universally accredited as the best and most practical. Aaron Nadell's "Projection Sound Pictures." Complete information on sound equipment. Both text books complete for $12.80. QUIGLEY BOOKSHOP, 1790 Broadway, New York.

TRAINING SCHOOLS

LEARN MODERN THEATRE MANAGEMENT. Approved home-study training. Free Catalog. THEATRE MANAGERS INSTITUTE, 315 Washington St., Elmira, New York.

POSTERS

GOOD, CLEAN, USED ADVERTISING CHEAP. Liberal credits. Highest cash prices paid for paper on current releases. We pay transportation charges. ALABAMA POSTER EXCHANGE, 528 North 18th St., Birmingham, Ala.

HELP WANTED

BRANCH MANAGERS WANTED IN EVERY State. Knowledge of projection helpful but not necessary. Business consists of theatre supplies. BOX 280, MOTION PICTURE HERALD.

AGENTS IN EVERY CITY IN AMERICA TO represent reliable concern furnishing necessary service to theatres. Those experienced as film or premium salesmen preferred. Must have car and willing to work on commission basis only. State all requirements in first letter. Box 136-A, MOTION PICTURE HERALD.

THEATRES WANTED

LEASE ON THEATRE. MIDDLEWEST town. 4,000 up. JONES BROS., Beatrice, Nebr.

WILL RENT 300 TO 600 SEAT THEATRE, Wisconsin-Minnesota, town 2,000 up. JOS. VAVERKA, 110 West Fourth St., Duluth, Minn.

INDIVIDUAL WILL LEASE MODERN small theatre with option to buy. Write particulars. BOX 297, MOTION PICTURE HERALD.

WANTED TO BUY

1,000 VENEER CHAIRS. STATE PRICE. R. LEVINE, 822 West 70th St., Chicago, Ill.

WANTED 2 USED PORTABLE PROJECTORS with soundheads. J. BILLITTER, Berry, Ky.

THE FOUNDATION

of the finest pictures you are showing this year is Eastman Super-sensitive Panchromatic Negative. Introduced two years ago, this film is recognized by producers and cameramen as the most trustworthy base on which to build the splendid motion picture of today. Eastman Kodak Company, Rochester, N. Y. (J. E. Brulatour, Inc., Distributors, New York, Chicago, Hollywood.)

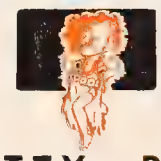
EASTMAN

SUPER-SENSITIVE

PANCHROMATIC NEGATIVE

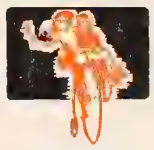
SHORT AND SWEET

. . . . ask the man who plays 'em



PARAMOUNT NEWS, THE EYES AND EARS OF THE WORLD

PARAMOUNT MACK SENNETT COMEDIES



PARAMOUNT SCREEN SONGS

PARAMOUNT "BETTY BOOP" CARTOONS

PARAMOUNT PICTORIALS

PARAMOUNT SCREEN SOUVENIRS

PARAMOUNT'S GRANTLAND RICE SPORTS-EYE VIEWS

PARAMOUNT'S "HOLLYWOOD ON PARADE"

The long and the short of it is: PARAMOUNT PICTURES plus . .
PARAMOUNT Short Subjects make "the Best shows in town"

MOTION PICTURE HERALD

A CONSOLIDATION OF EXHIBITORS HERALD-WORLD AND MOTION PICTURE NEWS

leadership

¶ In Washington a young President with zeal and a belief in America is doing things. There is the cheer of constructive work and a hum of energy in the air around the White House.

¶ Franklin Roosevelt gets support because he faces the problems of the day with a conviction that they can and will be solved. He is not looking at yesterday.

¶ The motion picture industry right now can do with a dash of the same spirit, the same faith, the same hope, the same conviction.

ol. 111, No. 8 Entered as second-class matter, January 2, 1931, at the Post Office, at New York, N. Y., under the act of March May 20, 19

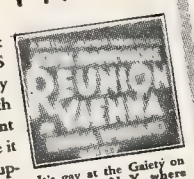
AT YOUR SERVICE!

These special ad mats now available in addition to our regular Press Sheet. Ask M-G-M Ad. Dept. 1540 B'way, N.Y.C.

HELL BELOW ASTOR

REUNION IN VIENNA GAIETY

"MAY THE NIGHT LAST FOREVER—"



Was she to blame? Her husband forced her to go to the gay reunion party! She didn't want to awaken old memories . . . but they played waltzes and champagne flowed . . . !

Reunion in VIENNA

JOHN BARRYMORE
DIANA WYNYARD

Already it is being talked about as the choice for the YEAR'S BEST PICTURE! The prize play that kept New York bubbling with slightly embarrassed merriment for months! You'll want to see it over again, to catch all the uproarious lines, to enjoy each heart-stabbing thrill of its romance!

It's gay at the Gaiety on Broadway, N. Y. where "Reunion in Vienna" is playing a World Premiere engagement at $2 admission. YOU SEE IT NOW AT OUR POPULAR PRICES!

Robert E. Sherwood's Theatre Guild play. Directed by Sidney Franklin. A METRO-GOLDWYN-MAYER PICTURE

3 COLS × 140 LINES

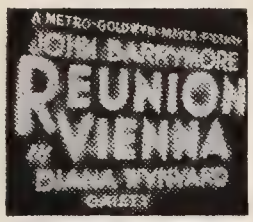
LOVE's most dangerous EXPERIMENT!

Was she to blame? Her husband insisted that she go to the gay reunion party! And there she met the sweetheart of her mad, care-free, single days!

RISKING HIS LIFE FOR A KISS!
It was gloriously worth while!

Here's the gay, thrilling picture that BROADWAY IS PAYING $2 to see in its World Premiere run. You see it simultaneously at our POPULAR PRICES!

Reunion in VIENNA



JOHN BARRYMORE
DIANA WYNYARD

Robert E. Sherwood's Theatre Guild play. Directed by Sidney Franklin. A METRO-GOLDWYN-MAYER PICTURE

2 COLS × 135 LINES

LEO AND THE BOYS GOING STRONG!

In their 4th Week at $2 on the M-G-M Gay White Way!

It's gay at the Gaiety on Broadway, N. Y. where "Reunion in Vienna" is playing a World Premiere engagement at $2 admission. YOU SEE IT NOW AT OUR POPULAR PRICES!

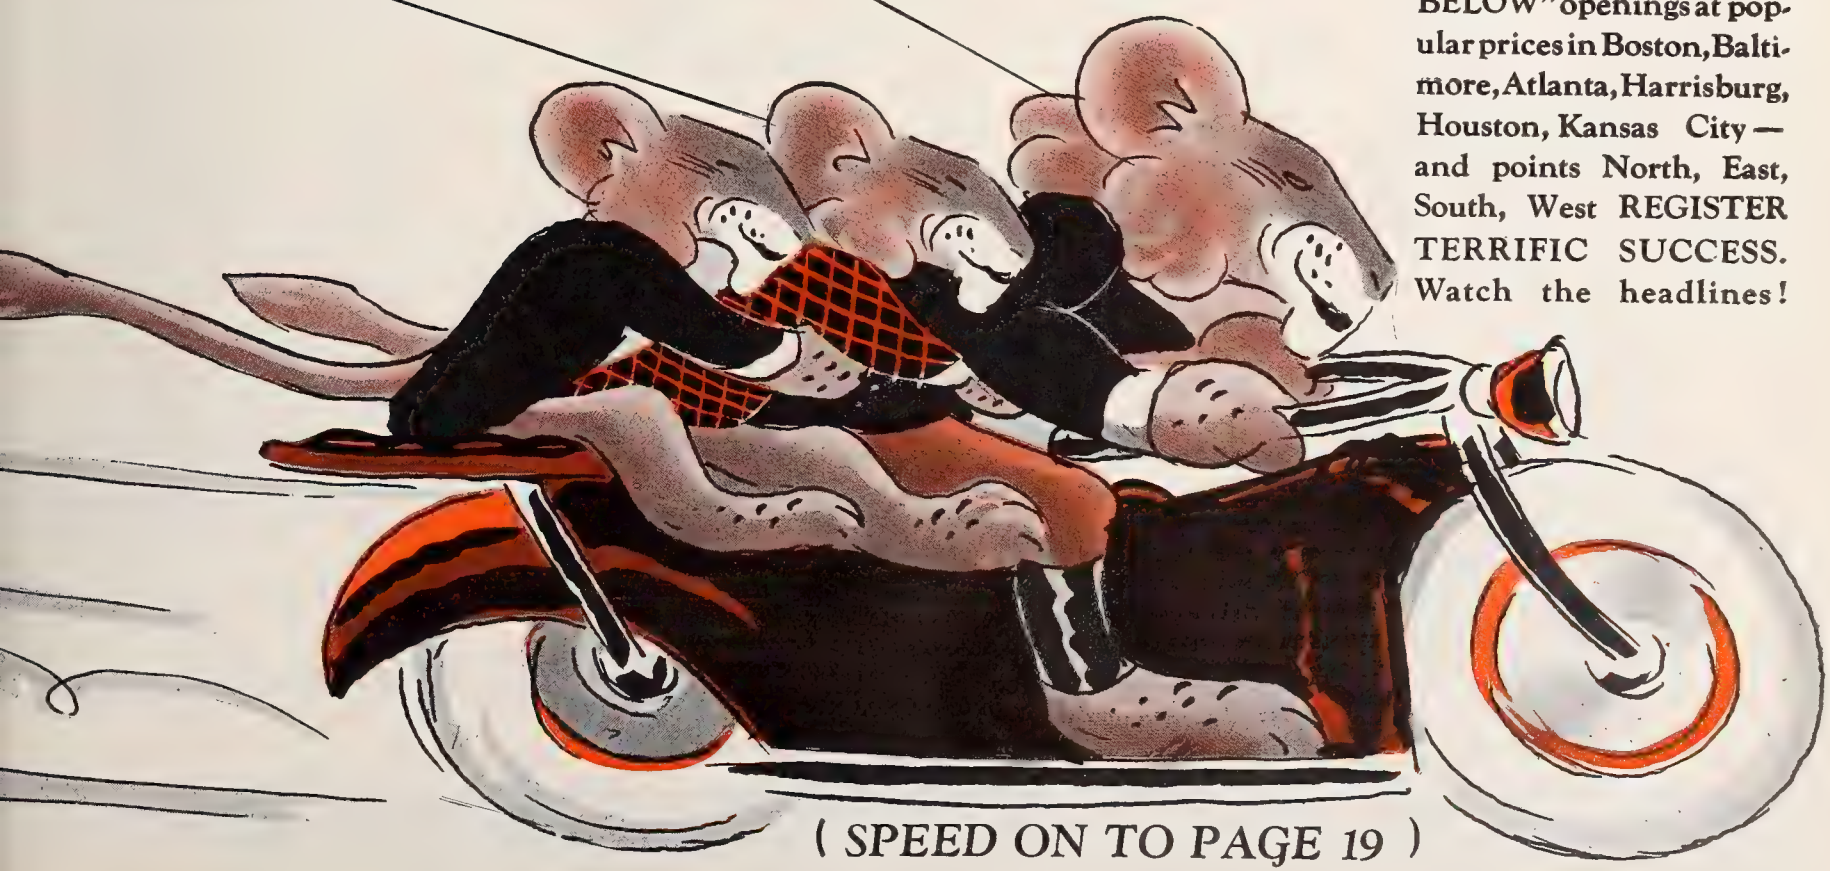
She took her HUSBAND's ADVICE and had a ROMANCE!

You can't trifle with emotions! She knew that her former lover would be at the gay reunion party. Her husband insisted that she go! What an evening... night... and dawn!

Reunion in Vienna

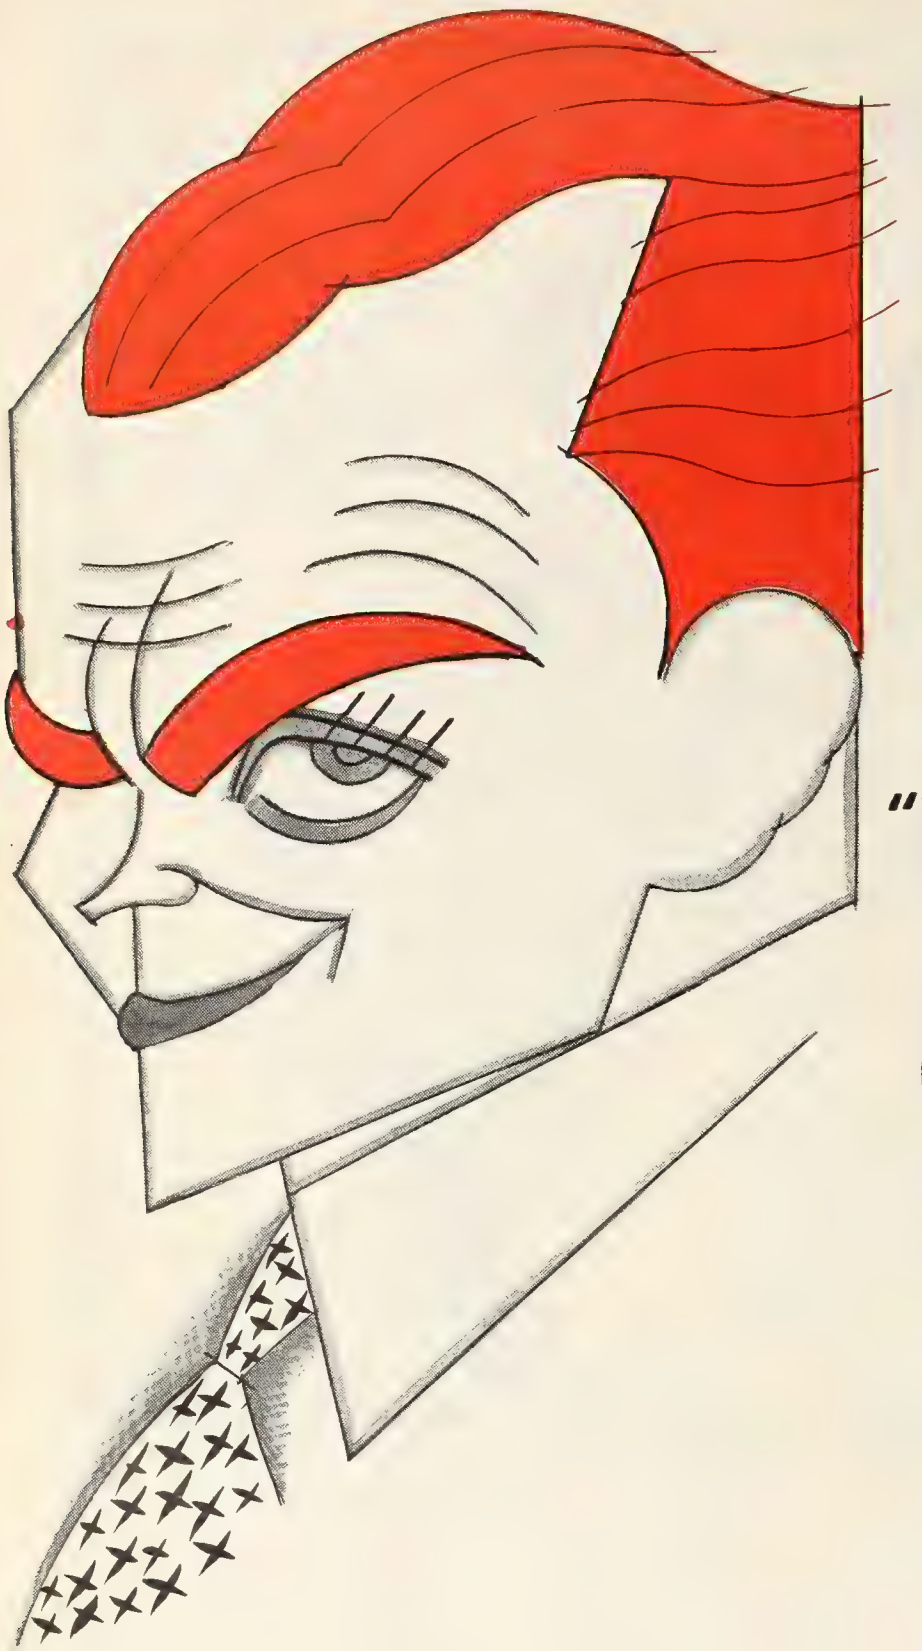
JOHN BARRYMORE DIANA WYNYARD

"May the night last forever."



Enchantment awaits you on the screen. Of course it was a magnificent opportunity for M-G-M. This famed Theatre Guild romance by Robert E. Sherwood, a carnival hit for months on Broadway... a record-breaking success on the road... M-G-M has met the challenge of a great play with a great picture. Directed by Sidney Franklin. The high hilarity, the daring of its love scenes, the heart-stabbing ending of its romance will completely captivate you!

A Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer Picture



5 COL'S × 110 LINES

EXTRA!

As we go to press! "HELL BELOW" openings at popular prices in Boston, Baltimore, Atlanta, Harrisburg, Houston, Kansas City — and points North, East, South, West REGISTER TERRIFIC SUCCESS. Watch the headlines!

(SPEED ON TO PAGE 19)

With Ralph Bellamy, Alice White, Patricia Ellis. Directed by Lloyd Bacon.

Today Broadway will see "RED" at his rough-and-rowdy best at the Strand . . . .

CAGNEY

hugs 'em and slugs 'em all over the screen in and here's how they love it, in Oklahoma City ("topping the town"—M.P.Daily)—in Los Angeles ("big business at the Hollywood, boosting gross at Downtown" —Variety)—in New Haven ("strong at the Roger Sherman"—Variety)—in Minneapolis ("quite a draw at the Lyric"—Variety)—and in Baltimore ("fine gross in sight for the Century"—Variety) . . . Which all goes to prove that the public wants Comedies for a change—and that WARNER BROS. have outsmarted the field again by bringing in 5 Big-Star Comedies Now!

"PICTURE SNATCHER"

WARNER BROS.

VITAGRAPH INC

YOU'LL PLAY IT SOON . . . START SELLING IT NOW!

6 of these life-size, full-color cut-outs of "Gold Diggers" girls, each with special lighting attachment, are ready for immediate use. Put one or more of them in your lobby right away. Only $4.95 each. Write or wire today to Warner Bros., Advt. Department, 321 West 44th St., N. Y. C. Or order direct from

American Display Co.,
475 Tenth Ave., N. Y. C.

. THE NO.1 COMPANY

RIBUTORS

Adorable

STARS

A new Janet Gaynor in breath-taking gowns...
Henry Garat destined to win America's heart.

Adorable

ROMANCE

A pert and saucy miss who completely conquers a boudoir veteran.

Adorable

MUSIC

Catchy song hits they're already humming
...joyous with the spirit of spring.

JANET GAYNOR
HENRY GARAT

in

Adorable

Story by Paul Frank and Billie Wilder.
Music by Werner Richard Heymann.
Directed by WILHELM DIETERLE.

Another HIT IN THE FOX May FESTIVAL

MAY 19 1933
©CIB 191093

MOTION PICTURE HERALD

Vol. III, No. 8 May 20, 1933

MYSTERIOUS MADNESS

NOT since Cheops went to expressing his vanity in piles of rock has the world enjoyed such a continuous and magnificent display of utter damned foolishness in such a big way as is afforded these days in that fantastic region known as Rockefeller Center, alias Radio City. If it is not one thing it is sure to be another. This week it is Señor Diego Rivera, who is first a radical, second a Mexican, third a mural decorator, held by some to be also an artist.

For reasons that are clear to no one, on provocation that does not appear and can not even be conjectured, Señor Rivera, who sings the "Internationale" in Spanish, French and English, after numerous and conspicuous art escapades and issues in various parts of the world, was retained to do a mural in the Great Hall of the RCA Building of Rockefeller Center. It is Rockefeller money, Rockefeller credit, Rockefeller management and Rockefeller administration in art, architecture and taste which create and dominate this amazing super-city within a city. It was therefore Rockefeller influence which brought this Mexican propagandist with his brushes and paint pots to write his message of a world turned upside down for the enrichment of the proletariat on the Rockefeller walls. Whereupon the merry Mexican proceeded to embellish his sixty foot panel with a portrait of Lenin and other pictorial thoughts variously related. Señor Rivera and his helpers raced against time to get the job done, but Rockefeller interests stopped the work and covered the mural with black paper.

So all the week there has been a great pother in the daily press. There have been meetings in Union Square and excitements running through all the big and little groups of Reds, Pinks and punks, to say nothing of party minorities merely looking for publicity.

There is a certain very old man, the old man of Pocantico Hills, who built the fortune upon which all this strange, mad city within a city is being builded now. He was a hard, shrewd master executive. He kept his mouth shut for many years and became the world's richest man. Then came Ivy Lee, righteousness and publicity. It is but an idle Maytime fancy, but one could wish that that same stern old man of Pocantico were in his prime again for a day, that he might take Rockefeller Center in hand and give appropriate orders, phrased in the appropriate words.

The world to date is somewhat less than perfect. But it is the product of hardworking, relentless, self-disciplined genius of the order which made the name of Rockefeller great among the leaders of industry. What mysterious influence now comes which can even contemplate delivery of its structures to be twenty-four sheets for the exponents of revolution and surrender of our world to the experimentalists of the school of Lenin?

THE LAST MAN

READY approval will greet the suggestion of Dr. Alfred N. Goldsmith before the New York section of the Society of Motion Picture Engineers that the projectionists responsible for the show might well share in the credits published in theatre programs. It does seem there might properly be a line for the man who puts it on the screen, along with the attentions now given to such persons as stage managers, scene painters, shoe vendors and piano manufacturers, orchestra conductors and piccolo players in general.

The projectionist is the more entitled to the honor of program publicity mention in that the better he does his work the less the audience is conscious of his existence.

It is not to be forgotten that the projectionist is the last in a long sequence of skilled workers who get the picture off the stage in Hollywood and deliver it to the ultimate consumer. As Dr. Goldsmith has so concisely pointed out, the special skill and dexterity of the projectionist would matter little if failures and delays affect only a small number of persons, but a projectionist's mistake or failure hits an audience of hundreds or mayhap thousands right in the eye. He is responsible for the end result, the hour of glamour and illusion for which author, actor, director, cameraman, recorder, and all the array of factors from producer to property man, have striven. The projectionist has to be good, all the time.

It is pleasant to remark that Motion Picture Herald has a very large reader circulation among projectionists, presenting to them articles from many specialties and continuing the untiring efforts in their behalf of our esteemed Mr. F. H. Richardson, who has been at it these twenty and more years.

△ △ △

YE ANCIENT METHOD

IS there not just a possibility that in these days of the reconstruction of the industry something might be done about the ancient rite of the sales convention. It has been too long the custom to call a couple of hundred salesmen together to tell them a story that ultimately has to go to some twelve thousand exhibitors. But what with this and that and the Boardwalk and the crap shooting and the headaches the net result has all too often been a week lost convening, a week lost convalescing and a fifty-thousand-dollar item on the home office books. Like all selling, the sales convention idea was great when it was new. It isn't now.

△ △ △

AN unregenerate editorial writer on the Times-West Virginian of Fairmount, enjoying the technique rather than the content of "King Kong," ventures to suggest a fairy story cycle, and then spoils everything by saying: "If any one does try it we'll bet our shirt that he will want to change the title of 'Little Red Riding Hood' to 'Her Mistake in the Woods'."

MOTION PICTURE HERALD MARTIN QUIGLEY, Editor-in-Chief and Publisher

Incorporating Exhibitor's Herald, founded 1915; Motion Picture News, founded 1913; Moving Picture World, founded 1907; Motography, founded 1909; The Film Index, founded 1906. Published every Thursday by Quigley Publishing Company, 1790 Broadway, New York City. Telephone Circle 7-3100. Martin Quigley, Editor-in-Chief and Publisher; Colvin Brown, Vice-President and General Manager; Terry Ramsaye, Editor; Ernest A. Rovelstad, Managing Editor; Chicago office, 407 South Dearborn street, Edwin S. Clifford, manager; Hollywood office, Pacific States Life Building, Wid Gunning, manager; London office, 41 Redhill Drive, Edgware, London, England, W. H. Mooring, representative; Berlin office, Katharinstrasse 3, Berlin-Halinsee, Germany, Hans Tintner, representative; Paris office, 19, Rue de la Cour-des-Noues, Paris 20e, France, Pierre Autré, representative; Sydney office, 102 Sussex street, Sydney, Australia, Cliff Holt, representative; Mexico City office, James Lockhart, Apartado 269, Mexico City, Mexico. Member Audit Bureau of Circulations. All contents copyright 1933 by Quigley Publishing Company. All correspondence should be addressed to the New York Office. Better Theatres, devoted to the construction, equipment and operation of theatres, is published every fourth week as section 2 of Motion Picture Herald. Other Quigley Publications: Motion Picture Daily, The Hollywood Herald, The Motion Picture Almanac, published annually, and the Chicagoan.

THIS WEEK - - - -

SUMMER SLACK

No fear now troubles the minds of the operators of major circuits, and hence first run houses, that insufficient product will make their usual summer selling difficulties more poignant. In its place stalks a growing anticipation that the product to be offered will fall short in quality, being the tail-end of the season's output, while subsequent runs will reap the harvest, combat the heat with better product already played by first runs before the warm weather sets in. Now discussed are circuit policy changes to meet the expected summer-slipping box office grosses. . . .

HALED TO COURT

"Illegal" is the cry with which one James N. Cleary and one Fannie Lurie carry to New York's supreme court an indictment of the manner in which Fox acquired its interest in Loew's, there demanding, as stockholders of the Fox Film, an accounting and such damages as the court in its grace and judgment may designate as fitting and proper. Attacked in particular is the stock transaction by which the acquisition was brought about. Named as defendants: directors of Fox Film, Fox theatres and General Theatres Equipment, a condition in which they have found themselves before. . . .

OPERA MADE EASY

Novel is the new use of pictures, rather more nearly "still" than "motion," invented by Albert E. Wier, musical editor of D. Appleton & Company and Charles Scribner's Sons. The device, a home projector, is designed worthily to make usually obtuse opera understandable to the common denominator. Film and phonograph are synchronized; as music resounds, still pictures flash on a screen scenes depicting the opera and explanatory titles, translations, even biographies of the composers. Thus must the screen aid in appreciation of another, older art form. . . .

PROTECTION TROUBLE

Thrashed out, booted about for many a long day and night was the Cleveland protection situation, until at long last was signed an agreement between members of the Cleveland Motion Picture Exhibitors Association and members of the MPPDA. But now has cropped out flaws in the supposed complete structure: inability to cope with exhibitor-violators, not members of the association; rigidity of the agreement which fails to provide for contingencies arising since January 1, effective date. The agreement concerned Loew's, RKO, Warner and thus the first run situation was thought covered. But decentralization has taken toll, independents are now handling some first-runs, and the protection agreement is in trouble. . . .

THE SCREEN'S "BEST"

Prominent in the list of chapters in newsriter Edwin C. Hill's recent best-selling book, "The American Scene," is that on the motion picture. Therein are included no less than 37 motion pictures of the season just fading, apparently of representative excellence, falling into the always debatable "best" classification. Among them are Paramount's "A Farewell to Arms," MGM's "Grand Hotel," Warner's "I Am a Fugitive," Radio's "A Bill of Divorcement," the foreign "Maedchen in Uniform." Totals: Paramount—11, MGM—9, Warner—6, Universal—2, Radio—3, United Artists—1, Fox—1, Columbia—1, Foreign—3. . . .

CONVICTION'S COURAGE

Completely having the courage of his convictions, challenging the omnipotence of Colorado's State Industrial Commission, Harry Huffman, Denver theatre operator, last week refused its order to re-employ union employees whom he had locked out, on the basis of "beating the union to the gun," believing they planned to strike. Thirty-days notice is a commission requirement, ignored by exhibitor Huffman, who claimed in turn that his employees were week-to-week workers, that the law applies only where public interest is involved. Practically certain is a court test case to determine the commission's power, Mr. Huffman's position. . . .

In This Issue

Eighty-four features with music available for booking in next few months, study shows	Page 9
Theatres make further progress in campaign for lower advertising rates	Page 11
Budget for 1933 in Great Britain ignores motion picture industry	Page 16
The Box Office Champions for April	Page 24

FEATURES

Editorial	Page 7
The Camera Reports	Page 13
J. C. Jenkins—His Colyum	Page 40
Asides and Interludes	Page 17

DEPARTMENTS

What the Picture Did for Me	Page 45
Showmen's Reviews	Page 29
Managers Round Table	Page 49
Technological	Page 61
Short Features	Page 44
The Release Chart	Page 55
Box Office Receipts	Page 36
Classified Advertising	Page 62

AT THE BAR

Famed, familiar to Havana-goers is "Sloppy Joe's" bar, but apparently are many careful of broadcasting their presence against its glossy length. Last New Year's Eve, in gala celebration, were many in Sloppy Joe's, among them one Mrs. Frances Spence and her husband. Unknown to them a motion picture camera was present, recording indelibly. When MGM's subject, "Cuba—Land of the Rumba" appeared on the screen, Sloppy Joe's was a part, Mrs. Spence was in Sloppy Joe's. Seeking an injunction she went to New York supreme court. MGM promptly ordered deletion of Mrs. Spence in deference to her wishes. Not only did the plaintiff claim her picture was used without her consent, but particularly irked was she that the film did not show her husband with her at the bar. . . .

CELLULOID TEACHER

To the lists last week came another champion of the cause of motion pictures in the classroom, this time Dr. Raymond S. Jewett, past president of New York's School Boards Association, speaking before multitudinous teachers in New York convention assembled. New, however, was Dr. Jewett's reason for advocacy. Noting "obviously desirable" changes which are ignored in education, he called for films as an economy move. . . .

MICKEY'S HOLIDAY

From Hollywood to Worcester, Mass., last weekend traveled Mr. Walter Disney's remarkable progeny, Mickey Mouse, whose name is infinitely better known the world over than Mr. Disney's, there to be guest of honor at the New England city's annual Prosperity Festival. Mickey Mouse Mall, a specially constructed street, ran before the City Hall, school children, merchants, police and unemployed rallied about a mythical pencil line which somehow has become vitally symbolical the country over for children, young and old, Boston dailies were enthusiastic, and United Artists, which releases the short subject series, was not at all perturbed. . . .

FLYING FILMERS

Flying filmers, all proud of their winged prowess, will have their day in court on July 3 when, as part of the 1933 National Air Races (July 1-4) at Los Angeles, they will take the air on Motion Picture Day, a special addition unique in Air Races history. Match speed races, stunts, formation flying will keep spectators' necks craned, as Wallace Beery, Ben Lyon, Paul Lucas, Howard Hughes and many of the unsung who provide thrills in flying films test their craft, skill and nerve—for the glory of—themselves. . . .

84 FEATURES WITH MUSIC AVAILABLE FOR BOOKING IN NEXT FEW MONTHS

Subjects with Songs and Music Are Aiding Box-Offices; Nearly All Firms Have Musical Features and Shorts on Schedules

Motion picture theatre owners and distributors are concertedly prying box-office dollars from the pocketbooks of the nation's public with music and song. Eighty-four features and several hundred short subjects with music, scheduled for release during the last half of this season and the beginning of next, is the means being used to accomplish this end.

Practically every large company in the industry is currently participating in the veritable deluge of screen musicals, thereby creating the second important musical movement since the electrics gave voice to motion pictures some five years ago. The new trend, however, differs favorably from the first cycle in that the producers of Hollywood have found a new and better way of treating musical pictures. Music, in virtually all instances, now has a direct bearing on the plot.

Box-office records have in recent weeks been shattered by the first group of musical motion pictures. While the majority of releases now available and scheduled for summer and fall, only contain musical interludes with some songs, about two dozen of the all-musical comedy revue type of subject have proven the most successful to date. It was the similarity of this type of musical feature in practically all releases in the musical cycle of 1929-1930, that caused the movement to end so abruptly at that time.

Feeling that there has been a decided renewal of interest on the part of the public in pictures with musical sequences. Hollywood's producers have been busy for weeks signing song writers, seeking Broadway's most outstanding musical directors and signing talent from the opera, the stage and radio land.

Jack Warner, with "42nd Street" and Samuel Goldwyn, with Eddie Cantor's "Kid From Spain," led the others to market. The success of both proved conclusively to other studio executives all they wanted to know about bringing the lyric and musical score again into the limelight.

"42nd Street" Started Trend

The reason for this sudden spurt of interest in musicals is generally accredited to "42nd Street." Other studios, of course, protest that the Warner musical-revue is not entirely responsible for the addition of musicals on their own schedules, pointing out the fact that they had announced musicals on their respective programs before "42nd Street" was announced by the Warner interests. But the fact that musicals have become more definitely a part of this and next season's product since the appearance of "42nd Street" cannot be denied. Briefly, the musical situation currently stands as tabulated elsewhere on this page.

The number of musical reels available to exhibitors is swelled considerably by the dozens of series of short subjects containing music and song which are on the schedules of the large companies. Then, too, importations from abroad, embrace music in features to no little extent. England is currently on top of the list of foreign countries shipping prints of musical films to our shores. While Hollywood was busy with "The Kid from Spain," "42nd Street," and "Gold Diggers of 1933," England was busily producing an unusually large number of musicals. Gaumont-British Pictures, one of the Kingdom's most important producers, has already completed 10 features of the musical type. Nearly all have arrived in New York.

The general opinion in the field of exhibition and at home offices in New York and studios in Hollywood is that the current musical movement stands better chances of prospering than did its predecessor of 1929-30, because the music and songs now being injected into the new features are not spotted without regard for its value to the dramatic situation involved, in the sequence.

Besides the Goldwyn musical and the two Warner subjects already mentioned, distributors have scheduled the following all-musical revues: "From Arizona to Broadway" and "Movietone Follies of 1933," Fox; several all musicals are included in the Gaumont group; "Dancing Lady," "Peg o' My Heart," "Hollywood Party of 1933," untitled Jack Pearl-Jimmy Durante feature, untitled Brown and Henderson musical and untitled Ed Wynn comedy, from Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer; "Wine, Woman and Song," Monogram; "College Humor," "International House," "Cloudy With Showers," and "Too Much Harmony," Paramount; "Diplomaniacs," "Melody Cruise," "Flying Down to Rio" and an untitled Wheeler and Woolsey vehicle, RKO; reissue of "Whoopee," "Yes, Mr. Brown," and "Androcles and the Lion," United Artists; reissue of "King of Jazz," and "Shooting the Works," Universal.

National Music Week, an annual event, held from May 7th to May 13th, appeared to spur the sales of feature and short subject musicals. The event was ushered in with special broadcasts over both national networks. Exhibitors made tieups.

The independent producers are not prominently identified with the musical movement, because they feel they cannot afford the "production" that is necessary to make a successful all-musical. However, independents are releasing numerous subjects which have musical background, or musical sequences.

SOURCES OF MUSICALS

COMPANY	NOW BOOKING (1932-33 RELEASE)	*SCHEDULED FOR EARLY 1933-34 RELEASE
COLUMBIA	1	None
FOX	8	4
FREULER	1	None
GAUMONT-BRITISH	10	None
GOLDSTONE PROD.	5	None
LESSER	1	None
MAJESTIC	1	None
MGM	6	9
MONOGRAM	1	None
PARAMOUNT	5	8
RADIO	6	4
UNITED ARTISTS	3	1
UNIVERSAL	4	1
WARNERS	2	2
TOTALS	55	29

* Next season's estimates, obviously, are not representative of the possible total number of musicals which will be released during 1933-34. These figures embrace only those subjects which are definitely scheduled to be released in the fore part of the season, in continuation of the current musical vogue.

On the following page appears a record, itemized by companies, of features and shorts with music now available or in preparation for early release.

55 Features Available for Showing, 29 Others in Preparation in Hollywood; First Musical Serial Will Appear in the Fall

Radio Used for Exploitation

Approximately 2,000 individual radio hookups throughout the nation have "plugged" songs of pictures since March 1. All companies were taking advantage of the situation in their merchandising plans. Publishers of this type of music learned quickly that the exploitation skyrocketed their earnings. Warners sold 500,000 sheets of "42nd Street" music, at 40 cents per copy, grossing $200,000. Sales of records, too, improved considerably. "42nd Street" record sales have totaled 100,000 to date, at 75 cents each, representing a gross of $75,000. The average high mark for sheet music sales is said to approximate 150,000 copies. Obviously, the Warner activities more than tripled this total, with still more sales in the offing.

Exploitation and advertising campaigns for the first group of musicals set a new pace. The box-offices reacted accordingly. Warners' "42nd Street" train is the highlight of ballyhooing to date.

Typical of the success of the movement were the three world records shattered by "42nd Street" at the New York Strand on Broadway, where the picture grossed $225,000 in nine weeks, playing to 450,000 admissions. The length of the run exceeded by two weeks the run of any popular priced picture. Holdovers for two, three and four weeks were common throughout the country. Universal is currently having the same experience with its "Be Mine Tonight," a musical imported from London, while Chevalier's Paramount musical, "Bedtime Story," broke records elsewhere.

Warners' home office officials were setting dates for 1,500 bookings on "Gold Diggers of 1933," even before the picture is released. Gradwell Sears and Andy Smith, Warner sales executives, said the demand for play dates is heavier than for any picture ever released by the company.

Most "Gold Diggers" play dates already set are for indefinite runs, in order to assure getting maximum amount of business from each engagement. No play dates are being allotted at present to other than "A" houses. The picture will open simultaneously on May 25th in leading centers.

Warner Brothers' deals with exhibitors on "42nd Street" and on "Gold Diggers" are for rentals totaling 50 per cent of the gross. This is said to be a record.

(Continued on page 28)

PICTURES TO BE RELEASED WITH MUSIC

Following is a complete record of all features and short subjects with music, or music and songs, which are now available to theatre owners for immediate booking, also musical pictures now in preparation for release early in the fall, on 1933-34 programs:

COLUMBIA

"So This Is Africa," starring Bert Wheeler, Robert Woolsey, released February 24, now playing. Wheeler and Woolsey sing a few songs, which are also used for dance numbers by an ensemble. Songs by Kalmar and Ruby, probably be published by Harms, Inc.

No other feature musicals are scheduled, nor are any expected to materialize within the next several months.

However, Columbia short subjects will have frequent and musical interludes. The series of "Lambs' Gambols," on the current schedule, which brought to the screen many stage stars, were musical from the start. Now the "Sunrise" comedies will have a large percentage of melody. The various cartoons, including animated "Scrappys," "Krazy Kats," "Silly Symphonies" and certain of the old series of "Mickey Mouse" releases, perform much of the hilarious antics to music. "Travelogues," "Curiosities" and "Screen Snapshots" include songs and orchestrations among their subjects.

EDUCATIONAL-WORLD WIDE

There are no musical features scheduled; all such activities are concentrated in short subjects. Current season releases:

"Spirit of the Campus," six one-reelers, featuring Reinald Werrenrath and his glee club in songs of American universities. The final two subjects will be marketed in May and June.

"Terry Toons," containing music throughout —songs and orchestrations. Twenty-six one-reel cartoons released one every two weeks. Many are based on well known operettas. Producers Paul Terry and Frank Moser have within recent weeks expanded the use of music to conform with the trend.

The company plans a heavy musical short subject schedule in 1933-34. There will be at least 38 one and two-reel subjects, out of 156 scheduled, in which music will be highlighted, including:

"Terry Toons," 26 one-reel subjects, following the style of the current group, with a maximum amount of singing and musical orchestration, using voices of well known singers.

Screen Adaptations of Musical Comedies, a new group of six two-reelers, based on stage productions, such as "Irene," "Chocolate Soldier." Settings will follow the original versions, with songs and dances featured.

Dramatizations of Popular Songs, also in two-reel form. Six subjects in the series, each dramatizing a popular song.

FOX FILM

"Adorable," released May 19. Directed by William Dieterle, supervised by Winfield Sheehan, starring Janet Gaynor and Henry Garat, who hereby makes his American screen debut. Music throughout—songs and orchestration. Music by Werner Richard Heymann, with additional music and lyrics by Richard Whiting and George Marion, Jr. Musical director, Louis De Francesco. Miss Gaynor sings "My Heart's Desire," and Mr. Garat sings "Adorable" and "My First Love to Last." Songs published by Fox-Movietone Music Corp.

"After the Ball," made in London by Gaumont, with musical interludes, released March 17 and now showing. Featured are Basil Rathbone and Esther Ralston.

"Five Cents a Glass," released May 26, with musical sequences by Will Jayson and Val Burton. Cast headed by Buddy Rogers and Marion Nixon. Supervised by Winfield Sheehan. Musical director, Louis De Francesco.

"From Arizona to Broadway," now in preparation for late current season's release. The only picture in this season's Fox group which has stage background. Songs and musical interludes. Starring James Dunn and Joan Bennett, with Sammy Cohen and Herbert Mundin. Director, James Tingling. Supervisor, Sol Wurtzel.

"I Love You Wednesday," from stage play by William DuBois and Molly Ricardel. Now in production, released June 16. Musical interludes, possibly songs. Dances by Sammy Lee. Cast includes Warner Baxter, Elissa Landi, Miriam Jordan and Victor Jory. Director, Henry King. Adapted by Philip Klein and Molly Ricardel.

"It's Great to be Alive," released June 2. Musical interludes. Music and lyrics by William Kernell. Dance ensembles by Sammy Lee. First Hollywood appearance of Roul Roulien, featuring comedy team of Edna May Oliver and Herbert Mundin. Director, Alfred Werker. Supervisor, Sol Wurtzel. Sets by Duncan Cramer. Screen story by Arthur Kober.

"Paddy-the-Next-Best-Thing," for release late this season. Partially musical. Music and lyrics by Richard Whiting. From a novel by Gertrude Page. Starring Janet Gaynor.

"Zoo in Budapest," a Lasky-Fox production, released April 28, now showing. While not a musical production, it does have a musical score running through 80 per cent of the action. The music sometimes extends to the most important dialogue sequences. In such cases it was muted and was of a symphonic nature, having been used for emphasis only. Mr. Lasky's first as an independent producer. Musical director, Louis De Francisco. Featuring Loretta Young and Gene Raymond.

While Fox's 1932-33 musical productions—except "From Arizona to Broadway"—are not of the so-called musical comedy or revue variety, the company took advantage of the trend toward musicals by launching "Adorable" last week with a nationwide campaign stressing the musical factor. Branch managers and salesmen in the field were enlisted in the exploitation activities to make the public "Adorable" tune-conscious. Their efforts resulted in 17 local broadcasts and the company followed through with numerous similar tieups. Broadcasting orchestras. Similar activities for others.

Sam Fox, of Fox's music publishing subsidiary, ordered the following staff members to work entirely in the field on songs and the picture: Bill Jacobs, east and midwest; "Hy" Polson, Pittsburgh, Cleveland, Cincinnati, Buffalo; Leonard Greenberger, Philadelphia, Baltimore, Washington; Tuby Garren, Pacific Coast; Frank Palma, Jr., Chicago, Detroit, St. Louis, Minneapolis, Omaha, Kansas City.

Numerically, Fox leads the field in musicals. Besides eight for the current season, already mentioned, the company has in preparation four with which to start off 1933-34. At least one will be an all-musical revue. Next season's group already includes:

"Forbidden Melody," with musical interludes. Now preparing, under Sol Wurtzel's supervision. John Boles, starring, will sing at least three numbers. Music and lyrics by William Kernell.

"Movie Follies of 1933" will probably be the title of an all-musical revue. In preparation.

"My Lips Betray," scheduled with songs and musical interludes. Music and lyrics by William Kernell. Supervised by Sol Wurtzel. Musical Director, Louis De Francesco. Director, John Blystone. Starirng Lilian Harvey, John Boles. Production completed this week.

"My Weakness," with songs and musical interludes. Music and lyrics by Richard Whiting and Leo Robbin. Producer, Buddy De Sylvia, from an original written by Mr. De Sylvia. Director, David Butler. Star, Lilian Harvey. Mr. Sylvia, who has somewhat of a reputation as a musical producer and song writer, was given a motion picture producer's contract last month by Fox. This picture will be his first. Supporting Miss Harvey will be Sid Silvers.

Fox's only short subject releases, the "Magic Carpet" series, issued once weekly, all contain scoring and background music in keeping with the locale of the subjects, which are principally foreign. In 1933-34, the company is expected to again release 52 of these reels.

FREULER FILM

"Kiss of Araby," a current release, has musical sequences. Director, Phil Rosen. Featured, Maria Alba, Walter Byron, Claire Windsor, Theodore Von Eltz.

The company has not scheduled any musicals for 1933-34.

GAUMONT-BRITISH

"Jack's the Boy," current release, partially musical. Starring Jack Hulbert, London entertainer. Cicely Courtneidge and Winfield Shotter head the support.

"King of the Ritz," musical interludes, current release. Prints arrived from London last week.

"Love on Wheels," current release, partially musical. With Jack Hulbert, Gordon Harker, Edmund Gwenn, Leonora Corbett.

"Marry Me," current release, musical sequences. Featuring Harry Green, Renate Muller, George Robey, Billy Caryl.

"Midshipman," current release, musical interludes. With Jessie Matthews, Fred Kerr, A. W. Bascomb.

"Soldiers of the King," starring Cicely Courtneidge. Current release. A Gainsborough production. Director, Maurice Elvey. All musical. Cast, Edward Everett Horton, Anthony Bushell.

"There Goes the Bride," current release, partially musical. Featuring Jessie Matthews, Owen Nares.

"Waltz Time," with musical interludes, ready this season.

Also scheduled for release during the current season are two semi-musicals, starring Lilian Harvey, who has since arrived in Hollywood to work for Fox.

The Gaumont-British group of pictures in which musical interludes and some songs are included, were made in London. The group is being exported to this country for possible distribution through large distributors. "After the Ball" and another were disposed of to Fox. Universal took "Be Mine Tonight." The company will distribute the remaining group in this country, including those pictures mentioned above, if deals with national companies are not consummated.

GOLDSTEIN PRODUCTIONS (Manny)

"Blue Danube," current release, musical throughout, starring Joseph Schildkraut.

"Getting Gertie's Garter," partially musical; released currently.

"Little Damozel," current release. Musical interludes. Starring Jack Buchanan, London musical comedy player.

"Night Like This," current release, musical sequences. Produced by Tom Walls and featuring Mr. Walls and Ralph Lynn.

"Say It With Music," musical, released currently. Produced by BIP.

Several English-made feature pictures will be released by the recently-formed corporation

(Continued on page 41)

THEATRES MAKE FURTHER PROGRESS IN CAMPAIGN FOR LOWER AD RATES

Publishers Show Disposition to Adjust Charges When Consistently Approached; Commercial Scale Extended

Progress toward more equitable newspaper rates for motion picture advertising is being reported from various cities throughout the country. The growing protest of theatre men against paying high premium rates, as compared to commercial rates, is finding some response from the publishers. In many key cities and smaller towns newspapers, realizing the numerous difficulties besetting the theatre man, independent and circuit alike, have made concessions to theatre advertisers. But commonly publishers still balk at lowering rates for theatre ads.

Recently, newspapers in Memphis have taken an interesting stand in the amusement rate situation. The publishers of the Memphis Appeal papers, morning, evening and Sunday, announced themselves as being "fed up" with the constant wrangle over publicity space and accepted the suggestion that the theatres go on a commercial rate basis, with the theatres remaining content with any publicity the newspapers choose to give them. It was agreed to continue a daily "movie gossip column," reviews and Sunday layouts, and the Appeal rates decreased from $3.40 to $2 per inch in the daily papers and from $3 to $2.40 on Sundays. A few days later the Scripps-Howard Press-Scimitar told the theatres that its rates would remain unchanged for the average weekly space now being used, but that if extra space were used it would be charged on a graduating scale, depending upon the amount of space. This extra space scales down to $1.40 per inch as compared with $2.13 to $2.80 previously charged. In other words, the lower rate is to encourage extra space and the extra space needed to get the lower rates is within easy range of the theatres—100 to 500 inches per year.

Commercial Rate in Yonkers

In Yonkers, N. Y., theatres have been advertising on commercial rates and, after several months' trial, the experiment is reported to be satisfactory. It has given theatres more space in which to merchandise their shows and it maintains the lineage.

In Richmond, Va., the News-Leader has granted theatres a 10 per cent reduction—from $2.52 to $1.89 per inch.

In Washington, where amusement rates are said to be way out of line with circulation value, the Post has reduced rates approximately 20 per cent. The Washington Star is allowing a 5 per cent discount.

The New Orleans Item, following previous rate revisions, has cut its 9-cent-a-line date daily to 8 cents.

The Repository, the only newspaper in Canton, Ohio, has allowed a 10 per cent rate readjustment.

In Nashville the morning and evening Tennessean is offering rate inducements on contract, bringing the rate down from the present $1.85 per inch to $1.55.

In Chicago, some adjustments have been made. The morning papers, namely the Tribune and the Herald-Examiner, have established a line or time discount which earns for the advertiser anywhere from 10 to 20 per cent, depending upon the space or number of insertions used. The evening papers, however, have made no readjustments. Chicago papers, generally, are said to regard theatre publicity as legitimate news, for they feel that the public is considerably interested in the people and happenings of the theatre world.

Oscar A. Doob, director of advertising for the Loew's theatre circuit, has long been an ardent advocate of the "lower rate and less stress on publicity" idea. It is his contention that if the theatre man will go to a publisher with but one thought in mind—that of obtaining a low rate, even a commercial rate if possible—he will ultimately get what he is after.

"Unfortunately, the theatre man so far has not been able to divorce his discussions of advertising rates and publicity," Mr. Doob says, "and in many instances, newspapers, after being approached by theatres for revisions have countered by giving extra publicity space, starting new movie pages or columns.

Present Rates Unjustified

Charles Skouras, trustee for Fox West Coast theatres, says that there never was and probably never will be any justification for the excessive rates charged motion picture theatres by the newspapers.

"As far as we know, the high rate is a throw-back to the early days of the motion picture theatre, when the owners had no credit standing and when theatre advertising was more or less of a nuisance to newspapers," he says. "The papers did not particularly want the business and they felt the credit risk was no good and for that reason they put a premium on the space.

"In later years, having once established a precedent, they have attempted to justify the rate because of free publicity which, as everyone knows, is ridiculous. Every real newspaper refuses to print the publicity unless it has, in their editorial opinion, reader interest and news value.

"Many, many times we have told the newspapers to forget publicity and give us an opportunity to buy space on the same basis as other commercial lines," Mr. Skouras declares. "If a theatre circuit can earn a rate comparable to that of a department store by entering into a big lineage contract, is there any just reason in the world why they should not be permitted to do so?"

Robert Gillham, director of advertising and publicity for Paramount, said this week that generally speaking the advertising rate situation in most parts of the country is perfectly satisfactory.

"There are only two places that I know of, New York and Los Angeles, where rates are drastically unfair," he said. "Rates in Los Angeles are way out of proportion to those of the commercial advertiser, and in New York the Times and Herald-Tribune are the worst offenders."

William Goldman, general manager of Higher Price for Amusement Space Declared Based on Old Ideas of Show Business; Leaders Now See Encouragement

Warner Bros.' Philadelphia theatres, comes to the fore with very definite and specific facts and opinions regarding this situation.

"I see no valid reason," he says, "why the daily newspapers should continue to discriminate against amusements, especially the motion picture theatres, by charging a higher rate for advertising space than they do other industries and commercial enterprises.

"Today the newspapers are—and have been for a long time—maintaining special editors and staffs to handle so-called publicity material, not, by a long shot, to publish it because of the higher space rate charged for straight advertising, not as part of any agreement or contract existing between the exhibitor and the newspaper based on such rate, but for the one good reason that what was once looked upon as publicity has become news, and news features, which have tremendous circulation value, are demanded by readers."

Motion picture theatres, as an advertising classification, were the last to cut advertising budgets, but they were ultimately forced to do so by the depression. Their big space advertisements did not bring in the business expected and their budgets climbed to 20 or even 30 per cent of their gross business. Therefore, because of the unwillingness of the newspapers in the majority of cases to cooperate, the theatre man has been forced to cut his lineage. Competing theatres fell into line and the unit of space soon became 25 to 50 per cent smaller.

Old Viewpoint Governs

An example of what encouragement will do is found in the advertising policy of one of the large companies. Because its national picture advertising receives a national commercial rate in the majority of newspapers, those papers get large campaigns running into thousands of lines on most of the company's pictures. This advertising is over and above the theatre budgets and would never be placed if the national commercial rate did not make it possible.

Publishers, entirely naturally, fight desperately against any downward revision of rates. They are, paradoxically, governed by tradition probably more than any other enterprise. Because they were able to levy 50 to 100 per cent, or more, excess rates on theatres in more prosperous days they feel the tradition should continue. They feel that if they must reduce rates to merchants and others, a reduction in the same proportion is sufficient for the theatres. But such reductions nearly always leave the theatres still paying a much higher rate than other advertisers.

Nevertheless, the fact that definite concessions are being made to the theatre man at last, is cause for encouragement on his part, industry leaders believe.

BUSINESS AIDED BY ROOSEVELT BILLS; SIROVICH MEASURE HAS A SUCCESSOR

Further Increases Reported in Industrial Activities; Balance of Roosevelt Program Due Soon in Congress

by FRANCIS L. BURT
Washington Correspondent

With further gains in commercial activity registered during the past week, following the progress of President Roosevelt's program, business and industry now are awaiting the submission to Congress of the President's detailed plans for industrial restoration and tariff amendment, probably the last major measures to be proposed before adjournment of the special session next month.

President Roosevelt Wednesday asked Congress for legislation to permit the launching of a $3,300,000,000 public works program and at the same time allow industry under government supervision to enter into agreements designed to prevent unfair competition and disastrous over-production. The president reported in a special message that at least $220,000,000 of additional revenue would be needed to undertake the program. Through enactment of the public works plan-industry partnership bill, the president told Congress he hoped "to obtain wide re-employment, to shorten the working week, to pay a decent wage for the shorter week and to prevent unfair competition and disastrous over-production."

To the film industry, the industrial restoration bill, with which will be linked the Administration's public works program, is of outstanding importance, because of the possible aid to theatre business. However, the threat of new taxes which it carries to raise revenue of some $220,000,000 a year to service bond issues to finance the various public works which are to be undertaken, may bring additional amusement levies.

Congress To Determine Method

Determination of the actual manner in which the money is to be raised will be left to Congress, where it is believed only a general manufacturers' sales tax will provide the necessary funds. The tax, if adopted, will be known as a "re-employment tax"; it will be slightly in excess of one per cent, with no exemptions, it is indicated, and in the case of the motion picture industry will be applied to leases and sales as was done in the war revenue measures 15 years ago.

On the other hand, institution of the $3,300,000,000 public works program now proposed, will mean a definite and large increase in employment and increased currency circulation, with the theatres in all sections of the country sharing in the increase in business.

The tariff legislation which the President soon will outline also has a definite importance to the industry, because of the importance of the foreign trade in motion picture films. The tariff truce proposed by President Roosevelt, to continue until after the world economic conference which opens next month, protects only against further establishment of barriers to trade with other countries. Definite agreements, proposed by the President to be negotiated on a "give-and-take" basis, will be necessary before any of the present handicaps to export trade can be removed.

With the signing by the President of the farm-relief bill last week, the way was opened for a currency expansion of more than $8,200,000,000 under powers granted the President which, however, he has assured the country will be used only sparingly.

The measure authorizes the President to increase the Federal reserve credit by $3,000,000,000, to issue another $3,000,000,000 in currency with which to meet maturing Government obligations, this currency to be retired over a period of 25 years at the rate of four per cent a year; to reduce the gold content of the dollar by as much as 50 per cent, and then accept from foreign governments in payments on their war debts up to $200,000,000 in silver at a maximum price of 50 cents an ounce, against which currency may be issued.

Bank Reopenings Release Money

The effect of inflationary activities upon the box office will depend, of course, upon the extent of expansion. In any event, the increased confidence derived from increased currency circulation will be, for some time to come, at least, a beneficial factor.

Congress is now seeking to amend the railroad control bill to save the jobs of 100,000 men said to be threatened by the economies proposed—an important matter to theatres in railroad communities.

Meanwhile the reopening of banks continues, with its attendant release of money tied up by institutions undergoing rehabilitation.

It will be seen from the foregoing that the major desire of the Administration is to speed up currency circulation. The quicker a dollar travels, the greater the prosperity.

Further definite evidence of an upturn in business was forthcoming from American industry at large. Improvement, with gains in wages and advancing prices for commodities, is revealed in news dispatches from various sections of the country.

Meanwhile, there were two new developments in the industry's own legislative situation at Washington. Investigation of the motion picture business by the Department of Commerce will be sought in lieu of the Congressional investigation desired by Representative Sirovich of New York.

Sirovich Measure Defeated

Defeating, by the overwhelming vote of 227 to 115, a special rule providing for immediate consideration of the Sirovich resolution, the House of Representatives, usually agreeable to any sort of investigation, on May 12 gave notice that under the new Administration it will no longer sponsor so-called "fishing" expeditions into industry and was informed almost immediately thereafter by Representative Patman of Texas that he will sponsor a measure calling upon the Attorney General to study conditions in the financial phase of the film industry.

House Overwhelmingly Kills Sirovich Measure; Patman Would Have Department of Justice Investigate Films

Ridicule and satire killed the attempt to jam the Sirovich measure through the House, with practically all of the expressed opposition coming from members of Representative Sirovich's own Democratic party.

Deriding the Sirovich resolution as enabling the proposed committee to carry its investigation all over the world, and employ "as many high-priced New York lawyers as it saw fit," Representative Blanton of Texas, expressed approval of attempts to break up "monopolies" but declared the resolution would not do it.

The Actors' Equity Union and the Federation of Labor were asserted by Representative Connery of Massachusetts to be in favor of the probe.

Following defeat of the rule, Representative Patman explained that he voted against it because such an investigation would be too slow, and announced that he would seek to have the inquiry conducted by the Department of Justice.

Vaudeville for Roxy Discussed; House May Close

Reports that the RKO Roxy is planning 12-act vaudeville shows, without pictures, to take the place of stage and unit shows which have held that stage since three weeks after the theatre's opening early in January, were declared premature on Wednesday by Harold B. Franklin, president of the RKO theatre circuit.

"There is nothing definite as yet concerning regular vaudeville acts," said Mr. Franklin. "The matter is still being discussed. I cannot imagine how such a rumor got out."

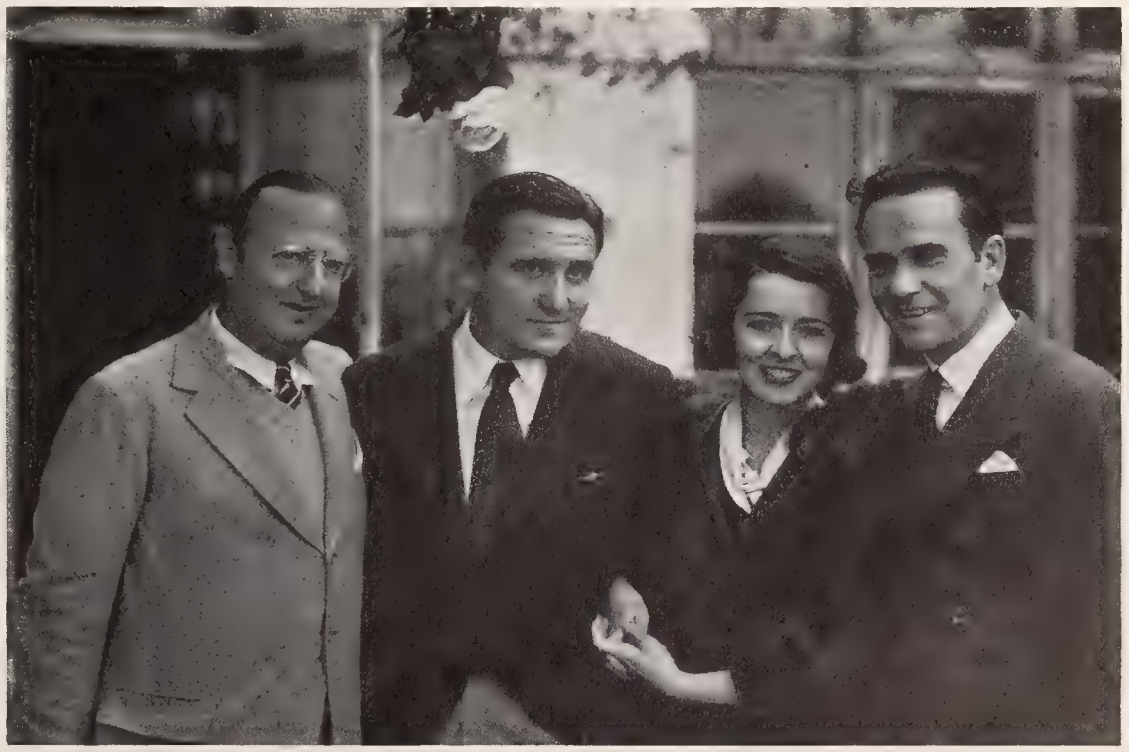
Meanwhile, it was learned that the RKO Roxy was planning to close for an indefinite period because a sufficient number of good acts could not be banded together. Mr. Franklin denied this vigorously. However, reports persisted that the theatre would close in a few days, probably on May 25.

The Radio City Music Hall opened late in December, with the RKO Roxy's premiere about five days later. Within a week, the Music Hall abandoned its policy of "glorified" stage shows and decided to embrace the motion picture, with a less "glorified" stage presentation. A few days later, the RKO Roxy announced that it would close, "due to unforeseen circumstances." The theatre remained open, however, and has since that time.

Next week's feature picture at the RKO Roxy is called "Hold Me Tight."

THE CAMERA REPORTS

GOOD AT BRIDGE TOO! Members of the bridge team of the AMPA officially acknowledged winners over the Motion Picture Club in New York. Shown accepting the cup from Mrs. Chico Marx is Monroe Greenthal. Other members of the team are Hank Linet, Wally Allen, Joe Fleisler, Halsey Raines, Milt Beecher, Kay Kamen.



BUBBLING OVER. (Below) A graceful tribute to instantaneous photography contributed by Jean Parker, who is as buoyant in MGM's "Made on Broadway."

BACK IN FOLD. Robert C. Bruce, who has signed to produce a series entitled "As a Dog Thinks" for Educational, whose first release was a Bruce production.

SOCIAL CONFERENCE. (Below) Principals in a new Lasky-Fox production as they turned business into pleasure far from the madding studio. The picture is "The Power and the Glory," and they are Jesse L. Lasky, producer; Spencer Tracy and Colleen Moore, players; and William K. Howard, director; while the place is Miss Moore's Bel-Air estate.

RE-SIGNED. Betty Furness, whom RKO Radio has given a new contract following completion of her role in "Emergency Call." Her first assignment under the new agreement is "The Death Watch," mystery drama.

WISHING BON VOYAGE. As Frank Lloyd entertained for Diana Wynyard at Fox Movietone City prior to the British actress' departure on a visit to England. Lloyd directed "Cavalcade," to play the lead in which Miss Wynyard came to America. Other guests shown are:

Reginald Berkeley, Mrs. H. M. Harwood, Edwin Burke, H. M. Harwood, Sonya Levien, Miss Harwood, Winfield Sheehan (Fox production chief), Clive Brook, Una O'Connor, John Balderston and George Hadden.

DISTINGUISHED. A new portrait of Louise Closser Hale, MGM character actress whose career is one of the screen's most notable. Her latest role is in "The Barbarian," starring Ramon Novarro.

IN NEW SHOCKER. (Below) Boris Karloff as he returned with Mrs. Karloff from Europe the other day to make "The Invisible Man" for Universal.

IN GERMAN PRODUCTION. (Left) Three principals of "Morgenrot" (Dawn), independent film which had its American premiere at the Little Carnegie Playhouse in New York this week. They are Adele Sandrock, Else Knott and Camilla Spira.

WILL BE SPLENDID ENTERTAINMENT

Says Benjamin De Casseres of Play, "Both Your Houses"; Also Evaluates Other Stage Efforts

by BENJAMIN DE CASSERES

BOTH YOUR HOUSES

The Theatre Guild's play, "Both Your Houses," by Maxwell Anderson, is of the class of "The Washington Merry-Go-Round" and "Gabriel Over the White House." To my way of thinking, it is better than either. For picture purposes it is not as tricky as its two predecessors. It reaches deeper, and blasts Congress to hell-angone.

It is all laid in the committee room of the Committee on Appropriations. We see how our godly representatives balloon a $40,000,000 appropriation for a Western dam to $400,000,000. There is much mouth-wrangling between the Congressmen who want their cut and the representatives of the President, who wants the bill cut to $200,000,000.

Things get hot when a rookie Congressman from Colorado, a young fellow who actually believes in Honesty and Serving the Public, forms a bloc to bust up the steal. But his own election has got a chunk of mud on the 'scutcheon.

Alan McLean, the young Galahad, is in love with the daughter of the chairman of the committee. The latter is a banker in his home town and his bank is in some dirty business.

Mazuma wins.

That's the dramatic layout. The dialogue is cut-throat English. The whole game at Washington is laid bare—its cynicism and its whatterhell?

The humor is stuck in the mouth of Sol Fitzmaurice, about as likable and as frank a scoundrel as ever got into Congress. His philosophy is Thievery in a workable form of government.

If "Both Your Houses" were just propaganda it would be of no value as a picture; but it will make, I believe, splendid entertainment, for what is more entertaining than razzing our Congress? And this play is good razz.

Picture value, 75 per cent.

A SATURDAY NIGHT

In "A Saturday Night," Owen Davis, the hero of a thousand and one plays, has written a refreshingly normal, sane and quite every-day comedy of domestic life.

Mr. Davis has taken a middle-class New York family and dug pretty keenly down to the substratum of their big and little troubles. Nothing Ibsenish or Strindbergian comes out of the concoction—which is a relief—but what does remain after three acts is much laughter and a feeling that among all the Broadway dramatic truck here is one honest job done by a man who knows the play game.

The action of this play takes place between 7:30 and 11:30 P. M. Of the Langdon household—father, mother, a young daughter of seventeen, a boy and two servants—Jim and Marguerite Langdon are going to celebrate Marguerite's birthday by going to George White's "Scandals." Sally and Ted, the children, are ordered to stay home. The children are rebellious. Sally insists on going out. Ted wants to go to his school-class basketball game. All parents will recognize these ructions.

Other things begin to happen to ruin this Saturday night. Jim Langdon finds that the business post he expected in Paris has gone to another. He gives up the "Scandals" and goes out to forget his troubles. Sally returns home loaded, having been at a speakeasy with a rich rotter. Ted comes home with a sprained ankle. The servants quarrel and Mrs. Langdon is compelled to fire them.

And, to cap the climax, an old flame of Marguerite Langdon's arrives at the top of her troubles, makes love to her and asks her to decamp. This happens in the best middle-class screen families, too.

So you can see what a fine Saturday night it is for Marguerite Langdon. Peggy Wood as the mother, the wife and the woman besieged by a lover moves through all her difficulties admirably. Here is an intensely human and always recognizable being. She has no great love for her Babbitty husband, played excellently by Hugh O'Connell, and yet when the great temptation comes she hears the call of her children. It's mother stuff with a good new kick in it.

There is a scene between the wife, the husband and the lover that reminds me of the famous wife-auction scene in "Candida." This is a good picture high-spot, and somewhat original for the films.

Picture value, 70 per cent.

THE PARTY'S OVER

Still pickin' on the Family.

For picture purposes "The Party's Over" is stronger stuff than "Three-Cornered Moon." It is by Daniel Kusell. It made an instantaneous hit because of its laughable lines, its good dialogue, and because, it being another domestic set-up, it is recognizable by every one who is pestered with a family.

It's the Blakely family. Bruce, the eldest son, a successful Wall street operator, has a parasitic gang hanging on to his pocket.

Old man Blakely is a house-louse known as a "retired gentleman." Mother Blakely is mainly concerned with the doings of the D. A. R., of which she is high-mucky-muckess.

A brother, Clay, is at Yale; but Bruce orders him back to the family ranch because he's nuts over a waitress and drinks something more than 3.2. This waitress is going to produce another voter.

A sister is haywire over a prospective radio crooner (played grandly by Ross Alexander, whom the pictures ought to grab).

Bruce himself has decided to win one Patricia Henly as soon as she has got her Paris divorce. The family is agin it. They'll lose their pickings.

This is the stew the family's all in when pop goes the weasel—in other words, Wall street blows the whistle. Bruce Blakely is caught with pants awry.

The family, including the prospective crooner and the waitress, are having a nice card and booze party when Bruce tells them the party's over—all parties—for he has lost his pants. He exits with the wealthy divorcee, leaving the family to paddle their own rumboats.

There is a chance for some swell character work when this is done on the celluloid, as it will be.

Picture value, 70 per cent.

FORSAKING ALL OTHERS

Tallulah Bankhead's dominant note is waggery. She has a humor that is all her own. I imagine that, dynamic, flexible and versatile as she is, she needs little directing. She is à la mode. She can also be old-fashioned and put on a good cry. She can even turn a handspring, which she does very deftly in her new comedy, "Forsaking All Others," a gaily, satiric piece in three acts, by Edward W. Roberts and Frank Morgan Cavett.

This play was made to fit all the Tallulahian pranks, moods and sex skirmishes.

There are several highly original and smartly amusing situations in "Forsaking All Others"—and it will make a hit on the screen.

When Mary Clay (the only Tallulah) turns up with her outfit at the altar to take a husband until death or divorce or separation allowance doth part them, she finds that the bridegroom has decamped to marry an old love, one of the indiscretions of his past.

He regrets what he has done quicker than you can shake a stick at a near-beer salesman. He gets a divorce in Mexico, the land of the bull, and in the last act tries to regain his Mary. But Mary turns the tables—a whole speakeasy full of tables.

Everything that my grandma used to consider serious and grave is spoofed in this play. The dialogue runs away from the theme like a ball from a kitten. Sometimes this smarty-smarty stuff gets tiresome. We are all so blasé on epigrams and wisecracks that the ultra-ultra characters in this play overdo the verbal jazz on our brain-pans. But it's good picture dialogue.

This is going to make swell stuff for the smarty-sexy trade.

Picture value, 80 per cent.

1933 BUDGET IGNORES BRITISH FILM INDUSTRY DESPITE LONG CAMPAIGN

Leaders Rallying to Correct Omission Before Budget Is Law; No Major Concession Is Seen; Small Houses in Danger

by BERNARD CHARMAN
of London Correspondent Staff

The annual fatal hour of the true-born Briton—Budget Day—has come and gone, leaving behind it a trail of disappointment and hope deferred. It was hoped that the national budget of 1933 would mark a turning point in the fortunes of the motion picture business on this side, with some relief from the burden of entertainments tax which has been crushing many of the smaller theatres out of existence.

After a fiasco last year, when the Cinematograph Exhibitors' Association did not wake up to the situation until it was too late to press for any revision, a big campaign was planned and put into action this year, embracing the preparation of a series of propaganda trailers, circulation of petition blanks, collation of theatre returns showing the effect of the tax on b. o. takings, interviewing of members of Parliament. The CEA did, in fact, get going in real fighting style, and it was anticipated that the Chancellor of Exchequer would show respect for its demands, if not by some major concession, by easing the strain on the cheaper seats.

Ignored in Budget Statement

But what did he do? He gave the trade the snub direct by ignoring it completely in his budget statement.

To the further credit of the CEA it must be said that, although bitterly disappointed by this callous treatment, its leaders have not given way, but quickly arranged a get-together in order to beat out a line of policy to pursue before the budget becomes law. Under the constitution of the United Kingdom, the Chancellor's statement must be debated in the House of Commons before it can be ratified, and the trade feels that this gives them an opportunity to repair the omission. Amendments have even been tabled to the Finance Bill (the measure authorizing the Budget) to effect a reduction in the tax.

That these measures are more than a forlorn hope is shown in the fact that many members of Parliament have guaranteed their sympathy for the trade's attitude and have promised to use their whole influence to convert their colleagues and consequently obtain some mitigation of the burden. Measures to obtain the desired result have actually been taken by groups of politicians independent of the action of the CEA.

Hope for Smaller Houses

It is not anticipated for a moment that any major concession will be forthcoming—the national need for revenue is too pressing—but it is felt that the weight of opinion may influence the Chancellor to give way in respect of tax on cheaper admissions. When admissions of three pence are taxed one penny the position of small halls in poor districts is desperate.

The big fellows in the West End of London or in the center of the important industrial cities of Great Britain can stand the strain, their higher admissions being their safeguard, but the family houses in the industrial regions are facing the future in fear and trembling. The weight of unemployment falls heavily on these areas, and to families whose weekly income can be reckoned in shillings the difference between paying threepence or fourpence for a visit to the movies is often the deciding factor between attendance or staying away.

It is houses serving this section of the community that form a considerable element of the CEA, and it is for them principally that the association is making its present stand. To their eternal credit they have seen in the 1933 Budget, not the breaking point, but a rallying point. The true spirit of the British exhibitor stands revealed, and so long as he continues to live in that spirit there is hope for him.

▽

Exhibitors on Warpath

Exhibitors at Manchester are on the warpath against a local showman who has cut his admission during a certain part of the day to twopence. Price cutting has been rampant in Britain since long enough, but its incidence on the biggest industrial center in the land is a danger signal that the trade cannot ignore.

The evils of the system are naturally not peculiar to the film business, and its ethics are the same in every industry. Under the dictum of the manufacturer, the grocery store or the drug store is not allowed to sell branded goods at less than a fixed price; the film distributor is equally selling a branded article, so surely his is the right to dictate to the retailer—the exhibitor—the minimum price he shall ask from the public?

If the CEA has sufficient strength it can take the initiative and demand of the renter that he shall not offer his product to the cut price merchant.

Past troubles of the British film business have been due mainly to the failure of both sides of the industry to get together for their common good. On the other hand, they have shown their ability to do so in matters of mutual importance (the tax campaign was a case in point). Maybe they'll see the necessity of doing so now.

▽

Crude Pictures

An exhibitor got up at a meeting the other day and said the public was clamoring for more crude pictures. The sophisticated subject, with its racy suggestiveness and smart dialogue, was not the meat for the average audience, but nevertheless several of the major studios have been lately concentrating on product of this type.

It's an old, old story, and this instance only goes to show that fans the world over are brothers and sisters under the skin. Give 'em something with plenty of action, lots of love interest, and as long as they don't have to think they're happy.

A showman friend told me recently that

Exhibitors in Arms Over Price Cutting in Manchester; CEA May Demand Pictures Not Be Sold to Theatres Which Cut

Stuart Erwin's "Make Me a Star" got razzed in his rural theatre. His patrons had to stop and figger out the humor!

▽

Thelma Todd, signed by BIP, will appear at Elstree in a musical titled "You Made Me Love You," under direction of Monty Banks. Lilyan Tashman also reported on her way Britainwards for purpose of work. . . . The CEA is in dispute with Paramount on the question of political propaganda in newsreels. Exhibitors have taken exception to items recording Hitlerite and Fascist activities. . . . Charley Chase, here on vacation, side-stepped a press interview to go racing. . . . Sam Eckman, London chief of MGM, was victim of a $25,000 jewelry robbery. The theft took place while he was a guest of Paramount at the "Farewell to Arms" premiere.

MGM Shows Net Of $966,178 for 6 Months

Metro-Goldwyn Pictures Corp. reports for 28 weeks, ending March 16, 1933, net profit of $966,173 after expenses and federal taxes, equivalent to $6.11 a share (par $27) on 157,913 shares of 7 per cent preferred stock which was outstanding at the close of the fiscal year. This compares with a net profit in 28 weeks ending in March, 1932, of $1,910,807, equal, on the above share basis, to $12.10 a share on 7 per cent preferred. The company stock is all owned by Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, Inc., the wholly-owned subsidiary of Loew's, Inc.

Income account for 28 weeks ended March 16, 1923, compares as follows:

	28 wks. end Mar. 16, '33	28 wks. end Mar. 12, '32	28 wks. end Mar. 13, '31
Gross profit	$3,673,807	$5,267,676	$7,004,382
Operating expenses	2,665,613	3,303,377	3,441,581
Operating profit	$1,008,194	$1,964,299	$3,562,801
Other income	121,832	207,072	454,743
Profit	$1,130,026	$2,171,371	$4,017,544
Federal taxes	163,853	260,564	482,105
Net profit	$966,173	$1,910,807	$3,535,439

Furber's Vote Elects Nine New Directors

Percy N. Furber, president of Trans Lux Daylight Screen Corp., won his second victory over opposition stockholders' groups when nine of 15 new directors were elected at the annual meeting of stockholders last week. Mr. Furber's first victory occurred at a similar meeting last September when 16 of 21 directors favorable to his administration were elected.

The new directors are: Percy N. Furber, Harold E. Sarrington, Robert L. Daine, Ellery Mann, Edward Wise, Leavitt J. Hunt, Theodore Pierson, G. W. Lindsay, E. T. Perot, Charles M. Waldon, Jr., Duncan Reed, Paul C. Schnitzler, George H. Eichelberger, W. A. Copeland, and Walter Siemmera.

ASIDES & INTERLUDES

By JAMES CUNNINGHAM

FIFTY American dollars will buy the former Kaiser Wilhelm's motor car. The head of the Hohenzollerns had it built especially for $8,000, but has not had much use for it. John Kitcher, the owner, has it stored in a small London garage, and wants to sell it because he can't pay the British tax of $152 a year. Besides, a gallon of gas only drives it seven miles. It's new, it has silk tapestry, rich upholstering, embossed Imperial arms, concealed luncheon table and cocktail cabinet. Just the thing for someone in Hollywood.

▽

RKO Radio's yearly purchasing report indicates that, during 1932-33, the studio used for screen purposes "thousands of bottles of various fancy liquors—dealcoholized, of course." Of course.

▽

Canadian's censors shudder at an udder. They have banned an American picture because it portrays—don't blush—a cow's udder. Every adult knows, of course, that there are two kinds of milk: canned milk and the udder kind. But that children should gaze upon nature's milk factory, observe the tank and perhaps study the working of the faucets, is—well, you just can't imagine, dear ol' Queen Victoria doing such a thing.

▽

According to Arthur Aylesworth, who broadcasts over Merlin Aylesworth's NBC system, a banker's secretary announced a man waiting in the reception room to interview him. "He wants you to tell him the secret of your success," explained the secretary. "Ahem," nervously coughed the financier, "what is he—a reporter or a bank examiner?"

▽

An egg, nine inches around the ends and six inches around the middle, was laid at Olean, N. Y. Sounds like the workings of one of those "centralized" theatre operators.

▽

The recent illness of John Mills with pneumonia cost the Mills Brothers an immediate loss of $50,000. The sepia songsters, with Don Redmond's band and a revue, had to cancel seven weeks of theatre bookings at $7,000 per.

▽

Distributors are about to start their annual highly competitive battle for new contracts. Paramount will launch the season with "Every Man for Himself."

▽

During the panic of 1869, Jay Gould came out about $12,000,000 ahead, and at the end of the dark days of '37, John Jacob Astor had increased his weath some $20,000,000. So, don't worry, even though so many houses have been foreclosed lately that thousands of homing pigeons are now living at the finance company.

▽

John Medbury reports that Olsen and Johnson are probably the laziest comedians on Broadway. They take an adding machine to bed with them to count the sheep.

▽

A composer, called into a Hollywood studio to write the lyrics for an important feature, asked if the lead was to be a soprano or a bass. He was told, "You write the music, we'll cast the picture!"

▽

In 1930, or thereabouts, Paramount revamped the story "Touchdown" because Jack Oakie and Dick Arlen were too old to play college football parts. They appeared as coaches, instead. The other day, three years later, Paramount cast Jack and Dick as freshmen in "College Humor." That's catching them on the re-bound.

PAGING
DR. SIROVICH

On the morning, last Friday, when the House of Representatives overwhelmingly turned down Representative Sirovich's bill to investigate the motion picture business, Doctor Sirovich's New York Daily Mirror column, "The Truth About Foods," talked about nuts.

Mr. Sirovich will not have a free trip to Hollywood this year. Charlie Pettijohn is feeling much better already.

Colonel-conscious Governor Ruby Laffoon made brother-elk Charles Clyde Pettijohn a Kentucky general in charge of all Kentucky colonels throughout the world. What an army. "C. C." immediately tightened his sabre belt, adjusted his spurs and, giving a rakish tilt to his old campaign sombrero, galloped off in the direction of Louisville to take command of the embattled hosts of Kentucky colonels who had assembled to do something about an impending battle among some horse flesh. Mobilization complete, General Pettijohn marched them in columns of 16 into the grandstand at Churchill Downs to witness the Derby. Lawyer Charlie is part Indian, one of the descendants of Daniel Boone, the first Kentuckian, and dislikes anti-film legislation.

▽

Inflation has already set in out Hollywood way. Charlie Rogers is going to film the story of a $1,000 bill.

▽

The Publix receivership situation is becoming a problem for stevedores. Referee Henry K. Davis had to move last week's creditors' hearing from his quiet office at 140 Nassau Street to the noisy Times Square Headquarters of the corporation in the Paramount Building. It seems that the bankruptcy investigation had proceeded to the point where the transportation uptown of a couple of dozen persons was easy compared to the job of moving downtown two full truckloads of corporate documents and ledgers.

▽

There's not a person outside of the family and one or two intimates who know the first name of M. A. Lightman. Mr. and Mrs. Lightman even call their young son, "M. A., Junior."

▽

Exacting Harold B. Franklin has a "detective" sitting "out front" in the Radio City theatres at all times checking up on the dancers and their routine. If Tottie Whiffletree kicks slightly out of turn, down goes Tottie's name and crime in a little black book. If there's a bulge in the line where there shouldn't be, the fact is duly noted and the names of those to blame jotted down as well. Tieing the heroine to the railroad track as the old Cannonball Express comes thundering down the rails.

▽

Colonel Hiram Staunton Brown, former RKO executive, was strolling leisurely the other day through the expansive gardens of his estate, Codlington Manor, near Chestertown, Md., when he stumbled across a meteorite, which was heavily embedded in the soil. It was of unusual weight and size, composed of fused, dark metals which give it a lustre. One might have heard Mr. Brown exclaim, "Who threw that!"

PARAMOUNT PICTURES has to date maintained strange silence about its prominent participation in a certain motion picture expedition which sailed quietly last week out of salty, codfish Boston harbor, to film and explore the little known jungles of Guiana.

Mr. William J(ohhnie) La Varre, Jr., 35-year old author, economist and newspaper publisher, is now on the rolling seas sailing to the South American wilderness with his brother Andre; the wives of both; Mr. Maurice Kellerman, representing Paramount; Floyd Crosby, who "shot" most of "Tabu"; Mr. Henwar Rodakiewicz, anthropologist, and Mr. David Binney Putnam, young son of George Palmer Putnam, head of Paramount's story department, and step-son of Amelia Earhart. They hope to bring back film and facts.

Some years ago Mr. La Varre captained an expedition into similar country. This time, however, he will follow a detour. On the previous excursion, "Bill" accidentally came across deposits of large, luscious, alluvial diamonds. His find was his fortune.

The two women in the party are young and quite attractive. Mr. La Varre had an ulterior motive in bringing them along: White women who make friends with the native women of British Guiana can accomplish more in a few hours than the men of the party can by days of bargaining with the native men.

▽

On his return to the air, after a four months' absence, Samuel Lionel Rothafel said: "It is like coming into a field of flowers to return to these Radio City theatres. It is like returning to a bit of heaven after a long time in a desert." He's still smelling the Aylesworth-Franklin roses.

▽

If Columbia had an "Alladin's Lamp," Jack Cohn would wish for more "Mickey Mouses."

▽

If you have doubts about the extent of the upheaval of 1932-33 and the resultant personnel changes, we suggest a peek at the typographical mutilations of the biographies which now are being prepared for the Motion Picture Almanac, 1933 edition.

Co-incidently, one of our reporters asked at RKO's headquarters for a biography of Mr. A. H. McCausland. "We never heard of him," replied someone in the publicity department. Mr. McCausland has charge of the RKO receivership situation for Irving Trust. Maybe that's the reason; they'd rather remain strangers.

▽

While en route west from New York, gum-chewing Will Rogers stopped off at Washington to call on sleepy-head John Nance Garner, at his vice-presidential office adjacent to the senate chamber, but found the Texan taking a nap. The attendant said Mr. Garner could not be disturbed.

"Can't he sleep in the senate?" asked Will.

▽

Mr. Douglas Fairbanks, actor, has no illusions about Hollywood. That might explain his traveling inclinations. Arriving home the other day from his latest European jaunt, Doug said: "Coming back at a time like this when the place is full of intrigue, fear and discord is like getting a blast from the door of a furnace. It's like jumping into a boiler factory." Lucky Mr. Fairbanks can afford to voice his opinions without worrying about the consequence.

▽

Paramount is right proud of their builder-uppers, Colonel Stoopnagle and Budd. A two-page announcement from the home office tells about the radio glorification by the comedy pair of "the man who made good at putting the little pieces of tissue paper between calling cards."

BRITISH FILMS GAINING FURTHER IN CANADA

18 Per Cent of Total Imports to Canada during 1932 from Britain, Comparing with 12 Per Cent of Total in 1931

by W. M. GLADISH
Toronto Correspondent

After pointing out that 18 per cent. of all motion pictures imported into Canada during 1932 were of British origin, as compared with 12 per cent in 1931 and 4.5 per cent in 1930, the Financial Post, of Toronto, proceeds to discuss the "British Challenge to U. S. Film Supremacy." There is pointed criticism of the British quota law as follows:

"Passing of the Cinematograph Film Act in Great Britain in December, 1927, compelling theatreowners in that country to show at least 20 per cent of feature films of British origin, while hailed as a great benefit to the British industry, has been one of the greatest drawbacks as far as Canada is concerned. With an assured market of 20 per cent of all productions shown in Great Britain, many small producers immediately began to produce films as cheaply as possible to fill the quota needs of theatre owners. These 'quota films,' as they were termed, were, and still are frankly admitted to be terrible, but they fill the need of operators who use them to make up their percentage during quiet summer months or when outstanding pictures are playing at rival theatres.

"Unfortunately, a number of these quota films found their way to Canada and their effect has had to be lived down. Canadians naturally were unable to distinguish between quota films and worthier British productions."

Pointing out that British talking pictures, at first, were a potential rather than an actual threat to the virtual monopoly of the United States, due to the fact that early talkies could hardly be compared with the good Hollywood productions and the many difficulties faced by the British producer in his efforts to obtain world distribution, the Financial Post says:

"With the exception of the United States itself, Canada has probably been the most difficult market to enter for many reasons. United States control of the majority of the Dominion's larger houses, a carefully nurtured feeling in the country to look to Hollywood for anything big in 'movies' and the following obtained for United States 'stars' through newspaper, fan magazine and radio publicity are probably the most obvious. Yet progress has definitely been made in the introduction of British pictures to Canadian audiences.

"Co-operating with the theatre owner, the United States film companies provide vast quantities of publicity matter, advertising layouts, photographs, etc., which enable the owner to advertise his show successfully. This was almost entirely lacking in the case of British pictures, such publicity matter as was available being useless owing to the fact that the 'stars' were unknown. The deficiency in this respect had to be made up by the Canadian distributor at his own expense in order not only to ensure successful showing of his pictures but to smooth the way for bookings.

"Add to those difficulties the fact that many Canadian exhibitors were unwilling to include British pictures in their schedules at all and the success achieved becomes the more remarkable.

"There is no doubt that, in the final instance, the only thing which will firmly establish British films in Canada is quality. A certain measure of success is probable because of associations of Canadians with the Mother Country and because of more tuneful accents of the players, but the former is never a definite or stable item and the latter has been overcome by Hollywood through the importation of English players.

"Less than five years ago the world-wide supremacy of Hollywood productions received its first blow with the introduction of the talking picture and Britain's chance to take a prominent place in the industry became evident. Her recent productions which have been shown in Canada prove that she is now ready to take a high place as a producer of talking pictures."

Torrence, Adolfi, Actor, Director, Die In One Week

Two of the motion picture's most noted figures, John G. Adolfi and Ernest Torrence, passed away this week. Each a veteran in his own field, Adolfi, the director, and Torrence, the actor, they died within a few days of each other.

Ernest Torrence, long one of the best-known of motion picture character actors, died early Monday at the Lenox Hill Hospital, New York, after a long and critical illness.

John Adolfi died while on a shooting trip in the Canadian Rockies about 100 miles north of Revelstoke. His death was due to cerebral hemorrhage.

Mr. Torrence's wife, the former Elsie Reamer Bedbrook; his son, Ernest Torrence, Jr.; a brother, David, also a well-known film actor, and Mr. Torrence's physician, were at his bedside when he died. He became ill on the Empress of Britain en route from California to New York and Southampton and, upon his arrival in New York, was removed from the ship and taken to the hospital where an operation on the gall bladder was performed. Several days of serious illness followed, with the actor's strength ebbing constantly, a result of complications. Shortly after midnight Monday Mr. Torrence lost consciousness, which he regained for a short period just before he died.

Born in Edinburgh 54 years ago, his career as singer, musician and actor had been varied. For more than a decade Ernest Torrence had played character parts in motion pictures. Among his more noted pictures were "Tol'able David," "Broken Chains," "The Covered Wagon," "Peter Pan," in which he played the notorious Captain Hook; "The Hunchback of Notre Dame," "The Prodigal Judge," "The Trail of the Lonesome Pine," "Ruggles of Red Gap," "Sherlock Holmes" and "The King of Kings." His last role, completed just before he left California for a vacation in Scotland, was the part of Claudette Colbert's father in "I Cover the Waterfront," which has its New York premiere this week.

John Adolfi, better known in the industry as a director of several successful pictures, had also had considerable acting experience. Born in New York and educated there and in Philadelphia, he spent 10 years on the legitimate stage and then, due to his success as a stage director and actor, broke into pictures with the Vitagraph company, as a leading man. With Annette Kellerman, he played in "Queen of the Sea," "The Cavell Case," with Julia Arthur; "Who's Your Brother," with Edith Taliaferro.

Mr. Adolfi was also connected with D. W. Griffith in the old Biograph days on Fourteenth street, New York. Among his earlier directorial efforts were "What Happened to Father," "Little Snob," "Midnight Taxi," "Fancy Baggage" and "Evidence." Pictures which he directed recently include George Arliss in "The Millionaire," "Alexander Hamilton," "The Man Who Played God" and "A Successful Calamity." Other recent pictures are "Central Park" and "Compromised."

Mr. Adolfi was stricken with a cerebral hemorrhage early last week and died on Wednesday. He was a close friend and associate of Darryl Zanuck and Lucien Hubbard, the writer. Mr. Hubbard received news of Adolfi's death in a long-distance telephone conversation with Mr. Zanuck on Sunday.

Surviving him, beside his widow, are a brother, Fred Adolfi of New York, and two sisters, Mrs. A. J. March of Norristown, Pa., and Mrs. B. D. Oliensis, of Germantown, Pa.

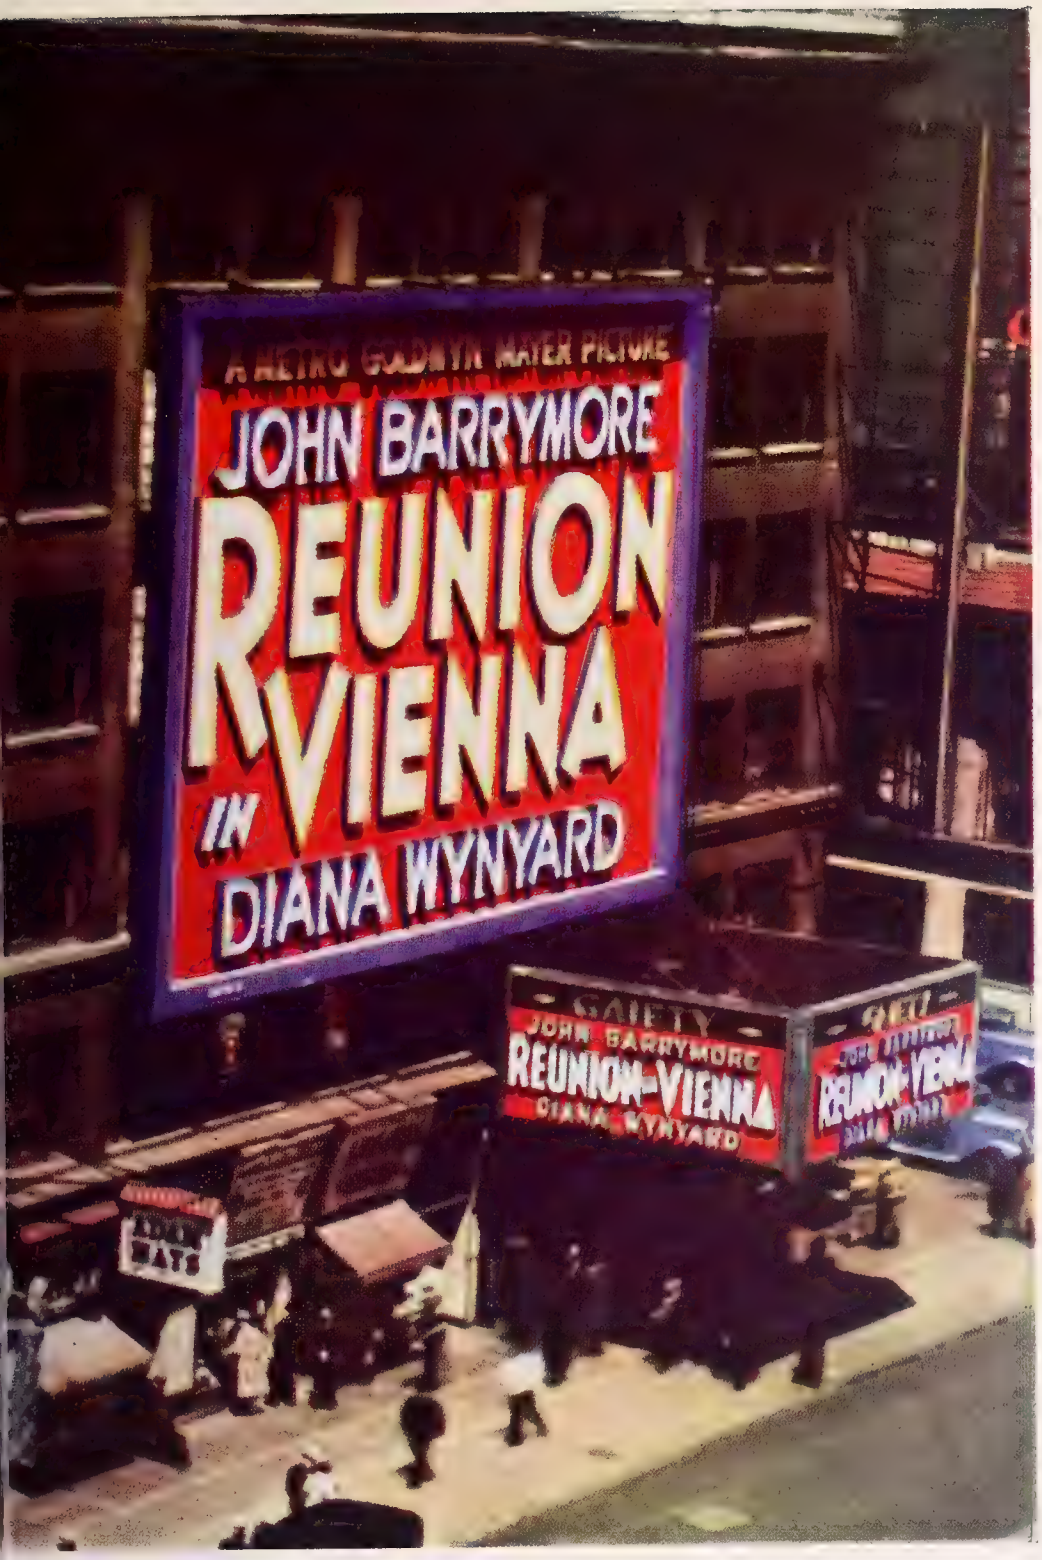
Warner Theatre Drive Points to Compact Circuit

Negotiations are under way for the acquisition of a number of theatres by Warner Bros. in the eastern and middle western sections.

With Public, RKO and Fox West Coast rapidly decentralizing their circuits, dropping houses daily in an effort to rehabilitate their corporate structure, Warner Bros. is effecting a program in direct opposition and is looking for new theatres and, at the same time, moving to make the present circuit more compact with eliminations of darkened theatres. During the past two months, approximately 25 unprofitable Warner houses have been dropped. In some situations where houses are closed, the company is retaining them in the hope of reopening when conditions are better.

Major Albert Warner, in Chicago enroute to the Coast Wednesday, said the company is not engaged in an acquisition drive as a company policy.

In the program of Warner expansion, Ohio and New England are regarded as the two most advantageous sections for theatre additions. Reported under way are negotiations for the Paramount houses in Boston and Toledo; the Opera House in Bayonne, and a theatre in Erie, Pa. In Pittsburgh, long a Warner stronghold, a deal is in progress to take over the Fulton. The Strand in Bayonne had already been added to the circuit, but will be kept closed until the summer. Other deals nearing completion are the Madison, Mansfield, Ohio, and the Shea's Park, in Youngstown. The circuit took over the Paramount in Youngstown last week.



EASY RESTS THE HEAD THAT WEARS THIS CROWN—

THE greatest salesman for Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer pictures are the nine years of our existence. At the conclusion of each year M-G-M unfailingly adorns the records with more brilliant hits, more front rank stars than any other company. It has always been so. It will always be so.

—On the next page is

METRO
GOLDWYN MAYER
presents
HELL BELOW
HELL
BELOW
ASTOR THEATRE
HELL
BELOW ASTOR THE
Robert MONTGOMERY
Jean PARKER

M-G-M LIGHTS THE WAY—

On Broadway, between 45th and 46th Streets, is symbolic evidence of M-G-M's faith in a rejuvenated industry. Motion picture business leaps forward as M-G-M brightens the Gay White Way with TWO $2 TOP ATTRACTIONS!

(And on the next page—)

Pictures

WHAT M-G-M THINKS ABOUT THE FUTURE OF MOTION PICTURE THEATRE BUSINESS

Have you noticed what's doing at the M-G-M studios?

A few inside facts (not entirely complete and perhaps subject to changes.)

Interesting, aren't they?

DINNER AT EIGHT — Imagine! In one picture! Marie Dressler, Wallace Beery, John & Lionel Barrymore, Jean Harlow, Lee Tracy, Madge Evans, Jean Hersholt, Karen Morley, Franchot Tone, May Robson. George Cukor directs a film feast!

ESKIMO — First came M-G-M's Tahitian expedition "White Shadows in The South Seas". Then to Africa for "Trader Horn." And now, thank heaven, Director W. S. Van Dyke and company are safely back from the Arctic with "Eskimo" after months of danger-filming.

NIGHT FLIGHT — Road-show size! A brilliant BIG idea. And the cast: Clark Gable, John & Lionel Barrymore, Helen Hayes, Robert Montgomery, Myrna Loy and more! Clarence Brown directs!

WHEN LADIES MEET — Ann Harding, Robert Montgomery in Rachel Crother's stage hit. Hollywood Reporter says: "Another M-G-M box-office wow! If it isn't the answer to showman's prayer it's too late for prayers!" Harry Beaumont directs!

HOLD YOUR MAN — Clark Gable and Jean Harlow together again by demand of the public that loved them in "Red Dust." Here's a rousing story of a smart aleck crook who escapes everything but love. Muriel Kirkland, Stuart Erwin in the cast. Sam Wood directs!

NEVER GIVE A SUCKER A BREAK — Hollywood Reporter says: "They'll turn out in droves for this one. New Tracy picture's swell." Lee Tracy, Madge Evans, Frank Morgan, Charles Butterworth. Jack Conway directs!

TUGBOAT ANNIE — Marie Dressler-Wallace Beery again! Advance Coast reports say it's got more heart-tugs, comedy, thrills than "Min and Bill." Satevepost story of the lovable, tough character Tugboat Annie. Mervyn Leroy directs.

CAT AND THE FIDDLE — Ran a year on Broadway! Romance of a singer and artist with a background of French studio life. Grand Songs. Ramon Novarro in the leading role, perfect for him. Jeanette MacDonald too!

LADY OF THE NIGHT — Dramatically different slant on night life in a great city. Cast thus far: Loretta Young, Ricardo Cortez, Franchot Tone, Una Merkel. William Wellman directs!

STRANGER'S RETURN — The age-old struggle between the old and the new on a modern farm by the author of "State Fair", Phil Stong. Cast: Lionel Barrymore, Franchot Tone, Miriam Hopkins, Stuart Erwin, etc. King Vidor directs!

HOLLYWOOD REVUE OF 1933 — M-G-M Stars! Hollywood celebrities! Song writers like Rodgers & Hart, Nacio Herb Brown, Arthur Freed, Gus Kahn, Oscar Levant! Albertina Rasch dancers! Edmund Goulding directs. Watch it grow!

TARZAN AND HIS MATE — Johnny Weissmuller in a brilliant return to the fans who await him! Sequel to "Tarzan the Ape Man" is twice as fast and romantic. Maureen O'Sullivan again the heroine.

BEAUTY — Typical M-G-M showman-exploitation picture. Faith Baldwin's best seller, dramatizing women's eternal search for beauty and her shrewd use of it. George Fitzmaurice directs!

STRANGE RHAPSODY — Celebrated Hungarian play becomes gripping screen spectacle. Love story against the background of the assassination at Sarajevo which precipitated the World War. Nils Asther, Kay Francis, Walter Huston, etc. Directed by Richard Boleslavsky who made "Rasputin."

LA BELLE PERKINS — Like "The Champ" this gives Jackie Cooper opportunity to appear in a drama involving adult relationships, tense exciting. Background of a school, with characters real as life!

JACK PEARL (All-Star Comedy) — Something different. When we tell you that the cast, in addition to Jack Pearl and Jimmy Durante features Mickey Mouse you'll know it's different. Sam Wood directs! Title to come.

ANOTHER LANGUAGE — Helen Hayes and Robert Montgomery in the play that taught Broadway that the true, human things of life are most dramatic. Written by Rose Franken, an unknown, it became the sensation of the year!

ED WYNN COMEDY — Recognizing the importance of presenting this nationally beloved comedian in a picture worthy of his top-rank following, M-G-M assures exhibitors that the genius of its studios is dedicated to the creation of a tremendous box-office attraction. Title to come.

SOVIET — Wallace Beery, Clark Gable heroes of "Hell Divers" in another giant dramatic spectacle. M-G-M showmanship ingenuity takes from Russia's titanic struggles a theme of brilliant human values.

DANCING LADY — Joan Crawford in the silken-allure that spells box-office. Never has she had a more perfect role than in this Satevepost serial story of a dancer's rise from obscurity to fame through flaming adventures!

And More! More! More! From the ONE and ONLY!

Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer

EASTMAN KODAK SHOWS PROFIT OF SIX MILLIONS

Annual Report Shows Surplus of $72,599,478 at Close of 1932; Quarterly Interest Declared on Preferred, Common

The Eastman Kodak Company's thirtieth annual report shows an earned net profit of $6,058,748.63 and an earned surplus at the end of December, 1932, of $72,599,478.69. The corporation is the largest manufacturer and distributor of motion picture film in this country and is an important exporter of raw stock abroad.

Preferred dividends amounting to $369,942 and common dividends totaling $9,008,478.25 were declared. Dividends for the year 1932 were declared as follows: four quarterly dividends of 1½ per cent on the preferred stock, and two quarterly dividends of $1.25 per share and two quarterly dividends of $0.75 per share on the common stock.

Operating results for 1932 were considerably affected by disturbed economic conditions prevailing throughout the world, the report indicated. These conditions, although bad in 1931, were considered much worse during the past year. As a consequence, the total volume of business declined about 20 per cent. The statement noted other factors contributing to the reduced profits as price reductions, depreciated currencies in countries where compensating price increases could not practicably be made, and inventory adjustments. Substantial economies, including reduction of salaries and wages, were reported to have been effected throughout the organization.

Affiliated Investments

Investments in and advances to affiliated companies, not wholly owned—the assets and earnings of which companies are not consolidated in the statement—amounted at the close of 1932 to $1,628,547.77, which includes $582,073.09 advances, as against $1,732,420.21 and $649,504.06 respectively, at the close of 1931.

During the year the amount invested in land, buildings, plant and machinery at cost increased $1,101,736.75, of which $802,849.06 applies to domestic and $298,887.69 to foreigh subsidiary companies. On the other hand, reserve for depreciation increased $4,772,072.70, although depreciation actually charged during the year against operations amounted in the aggregate to $5,757,626.30, the difference arising from obsolete plant charged against such reserves.

Foreign Financial Interests

The financial interests of Eastman Kodak in foreign countries are:

Fixed assets of wholly-owned foreign subsidiaries (at cost less reserve for depreciation)	$14,374,129.13
Net current assets of the same companies (converted at closing rates of exchange)	22,546,624.79
Total	$36,920,753.92

These interests are distributed as follows:

Canada	$ 5,787,140.25
South America, Cuba, and Mexico	1,648,899.23
Europe	26,113,559.71
Asia and Far East	1,702,355.72
Africa	1,668,799.01

A number of adjustments of contingent reserves were made during the year resulting in a net decrease of such reserves by $1,341,087.50, of which the most important are:

Extraordinary reserve for possible bad debts in addition to bad debts and reserves charged against profits	$ 250,000.00
Expenses applicable to part-time use of plant, charged to a contingent reserve which was provided in prior years for this purpose	552,568.48
Reduction in value of net current assets of foreign branches to exchange rates at close of year	257,000.29
Adjustments of taxes of prior years	248,831.62
Total	$1,308,400.39

Current assets of the company include cash on hand and in banks amounting to $9,118,176.74; marketable bonds and stocks totaling $11,250,122.74, and accounts and bills receivable, less reserve, of $15,821,937.42. Also inventories of raw materials, supplies, work in process and finished product at cost or market, whichever is lower, amounting to $29,476,937.42. Investments and advances come to $7,433,037.28; land, buildings, plant and machinery at cost, less reserve for depreciation, total $66,240,723.51; deferred charges to future operations of $803,282.57, making a grand total of current assets reaching $140,143,618.69.

Improved Product Announced

Current liabilities amount to $7,878,565.01. At the end of the last year there were 38,500 stockholders as compared with 36,200 at the end of 1931 and 33,200 at the close of 1930.

New and improved product development announced during 1932 includes an entirely new principle, to be applied to the Cine-Kodak Eight, a complete system for eight millimeter amateur motion pictures introduced in July, which will make a foot of film go four times as far. The special 25-foot film, 16 mm. wide, is run past the lens twice, leaving two separate rows of images along its full length. At processing stations this film is split and spliced, end to end, making a 50-foot 16 mm film equal in projection time to a 100-foot 16 mm. film.

Kodak Six-16, the world's smallest roll film camera to make 2½x4¼-inch pictures, was introduced in February. In June, Continental Kodaks were introduced in the American market. These precision instruments of the European type are made in the recently acquired Dr. Nagel works at Stuttgart, Germany. Early in 1933 two new Kodascopes, Models K-50 and 75, were announced. The first is an unusually brilliant projector and the Model K-75, equipped with a 750-watt lamp, is said to have the most powerful light source yet to be incorporated in a home motion picture projector.

Warner, U. A., Joint Exchange

A joint exchange will be opened in the Hawaiian Islands next month by United Artists and Warner Bros. Al Lichtman, vice-president and general manager of United Artists, and Gradwell Sears, Western and Southern general sales manager for Warner, will meet in San Francisco June 1 to arrange details, at which time the manager to take charge of the joint exchange will be announced.

Old Roxy Wins Over New Roxy In Name Fight

The old Roxy defeated the new Roxy in the court battle for the right to use as the name of the theatre, Samuel Lionel Rothafel's famous soubriquet. The original Roxy theatre, on Seventh Avenue, New York City, will be allowed to continue the use of the name, "Roxy," under a decision handed down Monday in New York by the Circuit Court of Appeals. The question as to which of New York's two Roxy theatres is entitled to the use of S. L. Rothafel's nickname was thus settled after several months of legal wrangling. The decision, delivered by presiding Justice Martin J. Manton, indicated that unless RKO succeeds in a possible Supreme Court appeal, it will have to remove the name from its Radio City theatre as soon as a formal order has been entered.

The Roxy Theatres Corp. was formed in June, 1925, with Mr. Rothafel as president. On July 31 of the same year a contract was signed under which Mr. Rothafel was to receive a salary of $2,000 per week and 10 per cent of the net profits of the company. This contract was for a period of five years with an option of renewal for a similar period. The contract was canceled in January, 1931, and Mr. Rothafel left the company.

The majority decision of the court on Monday held that the original contract was not abrogated as a result of the cancellation contract.

"The name 'Roxy' has become associated with the business of the Roxy Theatres Corp.," Justice Manton said, "and its use by RKO on its near-by theatre should be prohibited. Whatever rights RKO may have in the name necessarily are subject to the prior rights of the Roxy Corp. RKO may not use the name 'Roxy' on a competing theatre, but it is not restrained from advertising the employment of Mr. Rothafel, though it must be done in a manner that will not confuse."

Intake to Guide Production Costs

The probable intake from so-called "class" audiences will serve as a measuring stick for the production budget of "Emperor Jones," the first film production venture of Krimsky & Cochrane's new company, Film Choice.

Dudley Murphy will direct.

Unlike the efforts of many producers who have taken famous novels and plays for film production, trying to cater to mass audiences and thereby changing the original story so far as to make it completely unrecognizable, Mr. Murphy will adhere faithfully to the story and has already obtained Eugene O'Neill's approval of his script. The only change in the story is the addition of a prologue, which did not appear in the play.

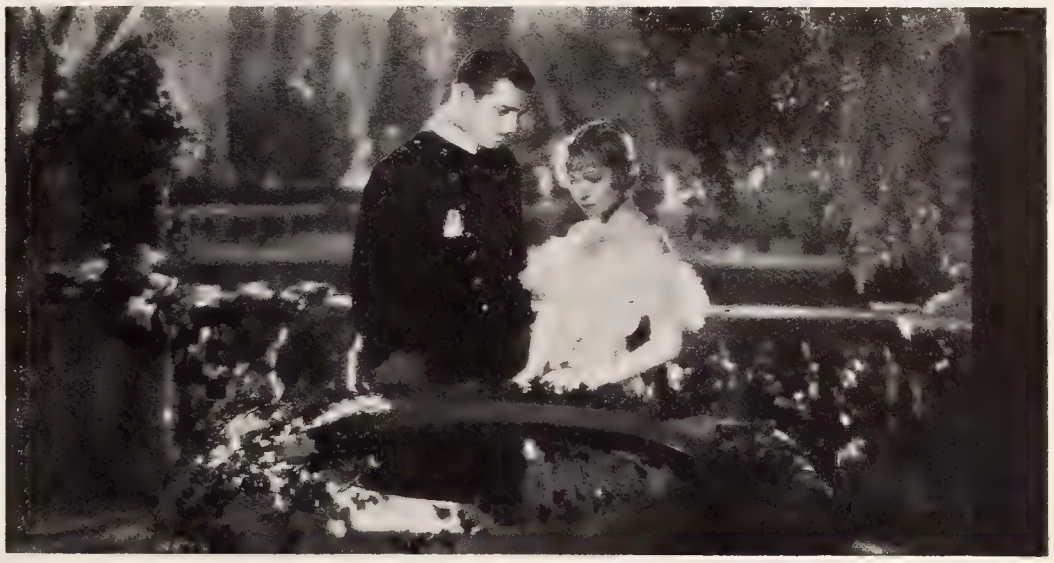
Negotiations are under way for United Artists distribution of the picture through United Artists.

THE BOX OFFICE CHAMPIONS FOR APRIL

KING KONG — RKO Radio

(1) Directed by Merian C. Cooper and Ernest Schoedsack from an idea conceived by Edgar Wallace and Merian C. Cooper. Screen play by James Creelman and Ruth Rose. Cameraman: Edward Linden. Sound effects: Murray Spivack. Sound recordist: E. A. Wolcott. Art directors: Carroll Clark and Al Herman. Film editor, Ted Cheeseman. Musical director: Max Steiner. Chief technician: Willis O'Brien. Cast: Fay Wray, Robert Armstrong, Bruce Cabot, Frank Reicher, Sam Hardy, Noble Johnson, James Flavin, Steve Clemento, Victor Wong. Released April 7, 1933.

CAVALCADE — Fox



(2) Directed by Frank Lloyd. From the play by Noel Coward. Screen play by Reginald Berkeley. Continuity by Sonya Levien. Assistant director: William Tummel. Director of dialogue: George Hadden. War scenes by William Cameron Menzies. Art director: William Darling. Film editor: Margaret Clancy. Photographer: Ernest Palmer. Sound recorder: J. E. Aitken. Cast: Diana Wynyard, Clive Brook, Ursula Jeans, Herbert Mundin. Released April 15, 1933.

42nd STREET — Warner Brothers

(3) Based on the novel by Bradford Ropes. Screen play by Rian James and James Seymour. Directed by Lloyd Bacon. Potographer: Sol Polito. Film editor: Frank Ware. Art director: Jack Okey. Songs by Al Dubin and Harry Warren. Cast: Warner Baxter, Bebe Daniels, George Brent, Ruby Keeler, Una Merkel, Guy Kibbee, Ned Sparks, Dick Powell, Ginger Rogers, Allen Jenkins, Henry B. Walthall, Edward J. Nugent, Harry Akst, Clarence Nordstrom, Robert McWade, George E. Stone, Al Dubin, Harry Warren. Released March 11, 1933.

Carrying the name of five producers, six pictures sufficiently outdistanced all others at the nation's key theatre box offices to comprise the list of "champions" for the month of April. Of these productions, two—RKO Radio's "King Kong" and Fox's "Cavalcade"—carried over from the previous month—the latter, indeed, carrying over for the second time, having been a "champion" also in February. As in March, the April box office leaders represent an interesting variety of picture types, consisting of one novelty "shocker," one musical revue, one musical play, one narrative spectacle, and two dramas, one of distinctly topical interest.

(4) Directed by Victor Fleming. From the novel by F. Marion Crawford. Dramatized by Walter Hackett. Screen play by Donald Ogden Stewart. Musical score by Herbert Stothart. Photographer: William Daniels. Film editor: Margaret Booth. Cast: Helen Hayes, Clark Gable, Lewis Stone, Louise Closser Hale, May Robson, Edward Arnold, Alan Edwards. Released April 14, 1933.

THE WHITE SISTER — M G M

(5) Directed by Norman Taurog. Screen play by Waldemar Young and Nunnally Johnson. Adapted by Benjamin Glazer from a novel by Roy Horniman. Music and lyrics by Ralph Rainger and Leo Robin. Photographer: Charles Lang. Cast: Maurice Chevalier, Helen Twelvetrees, Edward Everett Horton, Baby Leroy, Adrienne Ames, Earle Foxe, Leah Ray, Betty Lorraine, Gertrude Michael, Ernest Wood, Reginald Mason, Henry Kolker, George MacQuarrie, Paul Panzer. Released April 21, 1933.

A BEDTIME STORY — Paramount

(6) Directed by Gregory LaCava. Based on the anonymous novel "Gabriel Over the White House." Screen play by Carey Wilson. Additional dialogue by Bertram Bloch. Photographer: Bert Glennon. Film editor: Basil Wrangell. Cast: Walter Huston, Karen Morley, Franchot Tone, Arthur Byron, Dickie Moore, C. Henry Gordon, David Landau, Samuel Hinds, William Pawley, Jean Parker, Claire Dubrey. Released March 31, 1933.

GABRIEL OVER THE WHITE HOUSE — M G M

VARIED

ZOO IN BUDAPEST

N. Y. World Telegram names it one of the six best spring pictures

A Jesse L. Lasky Production

THRILLS

JANET GAYNOR HENRY GARAT in Adorable

A natural with three song hits

MUSIC

HOLD ME TIGHT

JAMES DUNN SALLY EILERS

ROMANCE

FOX May FESTIVAL

Entertainment

the lifeblood of your house

Audiences demand it as never before. Naturally you insist on it. You get it in the FOX May FESTIVAL. FOX showmen saw to that. No wonder exhibitors are booking these releases in a row . . . for week after week of continuous profit.

CAVALCADE

Nothing can touch it as a popular price smash.

STATE FAIR

A carnival of profit on repeat bookings.

BOOK REVIEWS

MODERN PHOTOGRAPHY: 1932. Cloth, $3.50; wrappers, $2.50. 8 x 11 3/8, 128 pp. London: The Studio, Ltd. (New York: The Studio Publications, Inc.).

Here is a review of recent achievements with the camera that makes a definite attempt to allocate photography among the arts. This effort is the distinction of the volume, by which it both gains and loses, for a great many of the 114 exhibits have been selected precisely in the hope that they provide an answer to the old and persistent quandary, "Is photography a separate art, and if so, what kind?"

Many working in the allied medium of the motion picture will recognize the difficulty in this question, for theirs, too, is a modern mechanization of an older means of expression, and they have an analogous problem: To decide what method is best adapted to the powers peculiar to their medium. In seeking a niche of its own, wherein it can at the same time perform effectively, still photography likewise must decide just what its relationships are to the other methods of delineation.

The approach of Modern Photography to the problem is useful and intelligent. "Photography as an applied art," writes the editor, Mr. C. G. Holme, in his introduction, "must be applied or used to some end other than that of producing what usually is termed an 'aesthetic' effect. Essentially a photograph is a record. And however persuasively, or by whatever novel means that end is effected, we are still entitled to look on it as fundamentally a record. It remains for the new technique to be applied to buildings, faces, sports, ceremonies and occupation of the age, so that, ideally speaking, a book of current photographs should be a sort of contemporary history."

That is indeed a good purpose to put the camera to. But what of the sun half-masked by the hills? And the deep-furrowed sea? And the boys at play? The achievements of Riethof, Beckers and Koya Okada, to select at random, in the current Modern Photography? Okada's "Dawn on Mount Fuji" surely is, as the caption says, "a successful photographic treatment." Subjects like it, however, and like the others indicated, constitute no specific record of contemporary life, while they might be better—at least more creatively—expressed in oil or water-color. Yet those who wish to create with lenses, light and emulsions choose them frequently, and many there are who call the results very pretty.

Although mere definition of an art of photography will of course never limit the application of its instruments, it is nevertheless pertinent to note that what photography can do better than any of the older media is to record reality. To insist that this reality rely for its interest upon contemporaneousness, would be to narrow the field unduly. Nor need this reality be superficial only, devoid of the creative interpretation necessary to give the technician some of the satisfactions of the artist. (It is possible, even, to photograph the function of a machine.) In subject selections, compositions and interpretation lies an opportunity to produce quite respectable art. But lest it be in mere imitation of drawing and painting that art must represent the peculiar ability of its technics to preserve what the eye actually beheld transiently.

All this is purely academic, of course, yet it may well be that in the advancement of a technique primarily based on actualistic candor and accuracy, photography is most likely to stimulate the kind of interest that can take it somewhere; that can, among other things, win over to photography itself those many, many sincere practitioners who are now using photographic paraphernalia to produce every kind of a picture except a photograph.

At the beginning we asserted that this edition both gains and loses by its point of view. The gain, as has been implied, is represented by the generous proportion of specimens which do show ways in which the camera can attain a significant, and sometimes an aesthetic, effect all its own. The loss—if indeed it is a loss—lies in the comparative fewness of those very studies which are imitative, but which nonetheless satisfy a general interest in pictures. But to both the professional and the amateur photographer, the 1932 Modern Photography should be eminently suggestive and instructive. The halftone plates are well printed on enamel paper of uniform weight and texture, some of them with tint blocks, and, best of all, each is accompanied by a caption stating the technical conditions under which the picture was made.—GEORGE SCHUTZ.

---

84 Features With Music Ready Soon

(Continued from page 9)

Major Albert Warner, in charge of sales, ordered Mr. Sears and Mr. Smith not to accept any "Gold Diggers'" contract where exhibitors will not agree to run the picture until grosses fall below the house average. "We are not going to permit the box-office possibilities of the picture to suffer because of indifferent treatment," said Major Warner. He was referring to situations, involving "42nd Street," where exhibitors did not get the maximum amount of business out of that musical. In one Texas theatre, an exhibitor discontinued showing "42nd Street," according to a Warner official, while it was in its third week and in that week had grossed $15,000. The house average was $6,000.

Robert Gillam, Paramount advertising director, said the other day that the musical trend is partially attributable to the fact that people in key cities no longer have the opportunity to see the Shubert musical extravaganzas, and that pictures have taken their place since the Shuberts discontinued these road tours. He indicated that musicals are more popular than ever in Europe, particularly in England.

In discussing the new lease on life given music publishers by the motion picture musicals, Jack Robbins, head of the Robbins Music Corp., publishing Metro's music, said, "Music to have any real value to a picture, must be placed at the time the story is written, and not thrown in carelessly, as has been the case in so many of the old musicals. The real dramatic value is derived by having the leading star sing the song in a closeup, at least the first chorus. Then, if additional playing of the number is desired, the number should be spotted incidentally.

"A music publisher whose songs are used in motion pictures," Mr. Robbins continued, "must induce the producer not to overdo the use of music in the feature." He indicated that most exhibitors have learned to not only "plug" the music of a forthcoming musical picture in their theatres, but also know the value of tie-ups with local music dealers and radio stations. "Those who have organists, obtain a valuable advance 'plug' through community singing stunts," he said.

Warner Brothers advanced "Gold Diggers" to this season's schedule. It was to have been released next year. The company feared that by that time the cycle would have started to narrow down.

From Columbia's headquarters in New York came word that short subjects will have frequent and adequate musical interludes. "Short subjects for the summer will continue to supply, in increasing amounts, the musical elements, which, for several seasons, have been lacking in motion picture entertainment," said vice-president Jack Cohn. "This swing toward fuller harmony is not a concession to the approaching summer," he declared.

"The theatregoing public has fully recovered from the over-abundance of musical films of several years ago, which left an antipathy toward music and are feeling the lack of rhythm in their screen entertainment," Mr. Cohn concluded.

"King of Jazz" Reissued

One of the highlights of the current musical movement is the reissuing by Universal of the "King of Jazz," Paul Whiteman revue, which was first marketed early in 1930. The company spent $1,750,000 on its production and admittedly suffered losses because the picture was not made available until the end of the color musical cycle. It is now hoped to liquidate the costs. Another reissue will be "Whoopee," starring Eddie Cantor and released by United Artists in 1930.

Hollywood is again beginning to resemble Times Square's "Tin Pan Alley." Dozens of song writers have trekked westward to write lyrics for the new musicals. In the group of 84 musical features, numbers were written by Kalmar and Ruby, Werner Richard Heymann, Richard Whiting, George Marion, Jr., Will Jayson, Val Burton, William Kernell, Leo Robbin, Buddy De Sylva, Abe Meyer, Nacio Herb Brown, Arthur Freed, Herbert Stothart, William Axt, Gus Kahn, Richard Rodgers, Larry Hart, Herbert Fields, Lew Brown and Ray Henderson, Bradford Ropes, Otto Harbach, Ralph Rainger, Sam Coslow, Arthur Johnston, Johnny Green, Edward Eliscu, Harry Akst, Maurice Watkins, Vincent Youmans, Clemence Dane, Lorenz Hart, Paul Frank, Ludwig Hirschfeld, Mischa Spoliansky, George Gershwin, Lynn Cowan, Harry Sauber, Al Dubin, Harry Warren, Sheridan Gibney.

Principal songs in the current group of features are: "42nd Street," "Shuffling Off to Buffalo," "Gold Diggers of 1933," "Young and Healthy," "You're Getting To Be A Habit With Me," "Shadow Waltz," "I've Gotta Sing a Torch," "Remember My Forgotten Man," "Pettin' in the Park," "In the Money," "Tell Me Tonight," "Things I do, I Do for You," "Yes, Mr. Brown," "Leave A Little for Me," "If You Would Learn to Live," "Flying Down to Rio," "My Imaginary Sweetheart," "Sing To Me," "No More War," "Isn't This a Night for Love," "He's Not the Marrying Kind," "This Is the Hour," "M'sieu Baby," "In the Park in Paree," "Look What I've Got," "Homema de Heaven," "My Alma Mater," "Learn to Croon," "Play Ball," "My Bluebeard Is Singing the Blues," "Thank Heaven for You," "The China Teacup," "Sweetheart Darling," "My Heart's Desire," "Adorable," "My First Love to Last."

A new departure in serials will be Universal's musical "Adventures of Ann," ten-chapter production, for release in the fall.

SHOWMEN'S REVIEWS

This department deals with new product from the point of view of the exhibitor who is to purvey it to his own public

Peg O' My Heart

(MGM-Cosmopolitan)

Comedy-Drama

As a stage play and as a silent picture, this light dramatic-romantic story of a little Irish girl enjoyed great popularity a decade or more ago. Somewhat modernized in the present case and given the benefit of lavish production, it is the type of entertainment that puts it in the average feature class. Probably its greatest appeal will be to family audiences. But because of its Irish atmosphere an aggressive campaign directed at that race may be the means of stimulating much additional business.

Realism tempered by the characteristic Irish wit motivates the light human drama and romance of the story. The use of atmospheric music in the scoring and the introduction of several folk songs, one or two of which Miss Davies sings, provide color to the picture. Yet this music is hardly of enough importance to play up strongly in selling.

The story relates to the fortunes of a colleen who inherits 2,000,000 pounds. To fulfill the conditions of her grandfather's will, she must part with her beloved father and take up her residence in a rigid, aristocratic English family. She can't understand these odd people. Mrs. Chichester is a continual terror. Alaric amuses her. Ethel is a snob. Only Jerry, a barrister, seems to understand. With him Peg falls in love. But he becomes engaged to Ethel, much to Peg's disappointment. Yet Peg interferes when Ethel is about to run off with Brent and because she is found in Brent's room brings scandal on the Chichester family.

In the end, however, everything is straightened out. With Peg finally safe in Jerry's arms, her contact with her father established again, the inheritance is forgotten for the peace and happiness that comes to those who are not burdened by the cares of money.

A campaign that stresses romantic appeal, the heart ache of a colleen who saw all her happiness fade in the glitter of wealth and social position, should most effectively get over the idea of "Peg o' My Heart." Supplementing this angle with the names that support Miss Davies, identifying each in the role she or he plays in Peg's affairs, should stimulate patron curiosity.

Exploitation that features atmospheric backgrounds is decidedly in line. Transforming lobbies into replicas of Irish fishing village scenes should prove attractive. Use of the old "Peg o' My Heart" song will undoubtedly stir memories in adults. Concentrate on capturing the interest of the family trade and work all your contacts with Irish societies, clubs and the like. —McCarthy, Hollywood.

Produced and distributed by MGM. A Cosmopolitan Production. Directed by Robert Z. Leonard. Adapted by Frances Marion. From the play by J. Hartley Manners. Screen play by Frank R. Adams. Release date, May 26, 1933. Running time, 80 minutes.

CAST

Peg	Marion Davies
Jerry	Onslow Stevens
Pat	J. Farrell MacDonald
Ethel	Juliette Compton
Mrs. Chichester	Irene Browne
Alaric	Tyrrell Davis
Brent	Alan Mowbray
Mrs. Brent	Doris Lloyd
Jarvis	Robert Greig
Smythe	Nora Cecil
Michael	Mutt
Terance	Geoffrey Gill

Just My Luck

(British & Dominions)

Comedy

Though played by the London "Aldwych team," this production has a story somewhat out of the rut of the "Aldwych farces," and for that reason may prove more popular on the American market than its predecessors, which simply exploited the insular humor peculiar to Great Britain. And even if there is not a great deal in the film to commend it in advance to your patrons, its comedy values should satisfy them if you can induce them to come through the medium of a strong supporting program.

A mythical philosopher, named Azeus, once evolved the theory that in every man's life good and bad luck are equally balanced. David Blake, poor music teacher whose life has been one long sequence of misfortune, seizes avidly on the theory on his 35th birthday and, encouraged by his pretty pupil, Peggy Croft, undergoes a miraculous change. The downtrodden worm gives place to a bombastic, self-confident fellow, who imposes on Peggy's father and from him wins the lucrative position of manager of the new luxury hotel. How fool's luck carries him on, blind to the scheming that is going on around him, and how a temporary and almost fatal hiatus in his good fortune (to compensate for the one stroke of luck he had in his old life) teaches him that there is more happiness in humility than self-opinion, the film reveals, working up to a rich comedy climax in which a frantic chase across the countryside plays a big part.

Though the tempo lags a trifle at infrequent points, there is a succession of restrained farce situations that carry the development well along, and only the last fadeout brings cessation of the laughter. Ralph Lynn in the major part shows higher histrionic ability than in previous roles, and the performances of the other principals maintain a consistently level quality. Brisk direction and high-grade technical work complete an efficient job.—Charman, London.

Produced by British & Dominions at Elstree, London. Adapted from H. F. Maltby's play "Fifty-Fifty" by Ben Travers. Directed by Jack Raymond. Photography by Cyril Bristow. Assistant direction by George Black. Recording by A. W. Watkins. Editing by A. W. Roome. Art direction by C. F. C. Stegmann. Music arranged by Lew Stone and played by Lew Stone and his orchestra. Running time, 80 minutes.

CAST

David Blake	Ralph Lynn
Peggy Croft	Winifred Shotter
Sir Charles Croft	Davy Burnaby
Lady Croft	Vera Pearce
Trigg	Robertson Hare
Stromboli	Frederick Burtwell
Babs St. Clair	Phyllis Clare

Thunder Over Mexico

(Sol Lesser)

Film Saga

For more than three years this Sergei Eisenstein picture has been the talk of the motion picture industry and a considerable portion of theatre audiences throughout the world. Thus it seems there is a ready made audience for this epic.

Shot entirely in Mexico, it is the saga of a race. It boasts no star names. There is no dialogue; captions elucidate the action. There are no sets, props or lights. Of the nearly 200,000 feet of film shot, the present length has been retained. This footage has caught the soul and spirit of a noble people. It tells a novelly powerful, dramatic, romantic and tragic story, in one continued sequence that is called "Hacienda." Artistically it is beautiful. Commercially it becomes a proposition to be handled by showmen who have the courage to accept something vividly new in the line of motion picture entertainment and possess the ingenuity and ability to exploit it properly.

For the straightaway picture-goer, those who like their romance and sentiment, the love-tragedy of "Thunder Over Mexico" should stir them with its simple appeal, the beauty and tragedy of the love story of the poor peon and his sad-eyed Madonna. It is poignant and beautiful.

In place of dialogue, Hugo Reisenfeld's music, using the chants and hymns of ancient Mexican Indians, interprets the story. This scoring is masterly. It should not be overlooked in any showmanship campaign. It is a selling point of real value to the music lovers of any community. While photography is seldom a ticket-selling asset, it is doubtful if any other picture can compare with this in photographic quality. The ancient ruins, the clouds, trees and vast vistas seem to have acted for the camera. This fact should not be overlooked in selling the picture.

Today, when the demand for something new and different is being voiced by every showman, "Thunder Over Mexico" should indicate whether that demand is real or only imaginary. Yet despite its novelty, the picture will not sell itself. It must be forcefully sold. Properly started, it should grow in popularity.—McCarthy, Hollywood.

Produced and distributed by Sol Lesser. Directed by Sergei M. Eisenstein. Photography, E. Tosse. Scenario, G. Alexandrov. Titles and editorial supervision, Harry Chandlee. Film Editors, Don Hayes and Carl Himm. Special effects, Howard Anderson. Musical setting conceived by Dr. Hugo Reisenfeld. Orchestra direction, S. K. Wineland. Original music by Juan Aguilar and Francisco Comacho Vega. Sound supervision, Abe Meyer, running time, 70 minutes.

Adorable

(Fox)

Musical Romance

Presenting Janet Gaynor in a lilting, light, story-book musical comedy romance, and introducing a new screen personality, Henry Garat, "Adorable" has definite audience-intriguing elements. With music that adapts the "Congress Dances" technique effectively, the show, wholesome and charming, has the unique quality of working its viewers into a happy frame of mind. Although it drags a bit in spots, there is always an appealing color that stimulates renewed interest. With comedy that inspires smiles rather than roars of glee, the show should appeal to all classes of people, adults as well as children.

Handsomely mounted. "Adorable" is set to beautiful music. One waltz number, the theme-song, has a similar swing to "Delicious" and audiences are sure to be humming it as they leave the theatre. Garat is of the Chevalier type. He has a romantic personality that clicked with the preview audience and, given the proper build-up, may become a new sensation.

The story, one of those mythical kingdom never-could-happen things, is appealingly sim-

They cover the Waterfront

"I COVER THE WATERFRONT" for the N. Y. TIMES

"I went to see this picture with the feeling of a busman on a holiday, but I was never so royally entertained and thrilled." —George Horne

"I COVER THE WATERFRONT" for the CITY NEWS ASSOCIATION

"This picture was like an intimate friend from home! I enjoyed every bit of it. At last somebody took the thrills and romance of the waterfront and gave it vivid life!" —John Regan

"I COVER THE WATERFRONT" for the WORLD-TELEGRAM

"What struck me more than anything else is how they got so much into this picture! I was thrilled every minute. One of the finest pictures I've ever seen!" —James E. Duffy

"I COVER THE WATERFRONT" for the N. Y. EVENING POST

"Here's a picture that strikes an amazing balance of spectacle, romance and discrimination. A truly distinguished piece of work." —Rayness Copeland

Max Miller's sensational book brought to vivid life with

CLAUDETTE
COLBERT
BEN LYON

Presented by Joseph M. Schenck

Produced by Edward Small

"I COV WAT

UNITED

And what they say

COVERS EVERYTHING!

"I COVER THE WATERFRONT" for the N. Y. AMERICAN

"The hero of this picture never saw the beauty and glamor of the harbor until he saw it through the eyes of this girl! There's the theme of the story! It held me spellbound! Romance, thrillingly done!" —John Sampson

"I COVER THE WATERFRONT" for the EVENING JOURNAL

"Been doing it for 25 years! But it remained for this picture to give me my greatest waterfront thrill! A love story against a background of action ... something I shall always remember!" —James P. Lanehart

"I COVER THE WATERFRONT" for the CITY NEWS ASSN.

"Anyone who has ever been on a boat should see this picture! It enthralled me beyond words! Flawless and masterfully executed!" —James McCloskey

"I COVER THE WATERFRONT" for the HERALD-TRIBUNE

"Here's a picture that catches the spirit of the waterfront more realistically than anything I've ever seen!" —Richard Reagan

ER THE ERFRONT"

ARTISTS PICTURE

ple, a yarn of a young army officer who meets a girl at a servant's ball. She identifies herself as a manicurist. He claims to be a delicatessen clerk. But she really is a princess. Their love is mutual. On a skating party, the young man confesses that he is a captain. But the girl knows that already, for only that morning she had insisted that the Prime Minister make him a captain, when she saw his superior officer berating him. The love story goes on, with the young man believing he is in love with the manicurist and being continually amazed to find himself elevated in rank every few days. Eventually, when he is summoned to be presented to the princess, the young man is embarrassed to have his manicurist sweetheart trail after him right into the palace. His embarrassment gives away to amazement when he discovers that the manicurist is the princess. Then he wants to call everything off. She makes him her personal aide.

Climax comes at a royal ball in honor of the prince, diplomatically chosen fiance of the princess. But the prince is more interested in the mummies of ancient Egyptian queens. The King makes his entry. He turns out to be a cocky five or six-year-old boy who releases the unwilling prince from his obligation, makes the young man a prince and clears the way for his marriage to the princess.

"Adorable" is a class picture with a mass appeal. With Janet Gaynor in the lead there is already a potential audience. You have a new name, Garat, to sell. Shout him from the roof-tops and don't worry that he won't deliver.

Sell the charm of the story in combination with the names and the music. Appealing catchlines fall all over one another in the dialogue. Use them. Dignified exploitation should be worked out with class contacts. The ring of the title will be valuable in this connection. Sell it as family material.—McCarthy, Hollywood.

Produced and distributed by Fox. Directed by Wilhelm Dieterle. Screen play by George Marion, Jr., and Jane Storm. Story by Paul Frank and Billie Wilder. Music, Warner Richard Heyman. Photography, John Seitz. Sound, Joseph Aiken. Additional music and lyrics by Richard A. Whiting and George Marion, Jr. Release date, May 19, 1933. Running time, 83 minutes.

CAST

The Girl.....Janet Gaynor
The Young Man.....Henry Garat
The Prime Minister.....G. Aubrey Smith
The Detective.....Herbert Mundin
The Countess.....Blanche Friderici
The Prince.....Hans Von Twardowski

Samarang

(United Artists)

South Sea Romance

"Samarang" is much more than the pictorial recording of the people, customs and scenery of a South Sea island. Against its fascinating land and sea background, it tells a romantic and dramatic story that constitutes real entertainment. There is no dialogue. The story is interpreted by effective action and a few explanatory subtitles. A nicely arranged musical scoring aids in understanding the theme. That everything is authentic can be readily appreciated. It is evident that the natives are enthusiastically overacting. But that enthusiasm seems to have the power to reach down from the screen and permeate the audience.

Of course it is a novelty. It offers much beautiful and interesting photography, the underwater sequences all the way through being particularly effective. While realistic, "Samarang" is devoid of sensationalism, though there is plenty of spectacular and thrilling action as various ocean denizens prey upon each other.

In the story, Ahmang, a poor pearl diver, only support of his mother, Mamounah, and younger brother, Ko-hai, is in love with Sai-Yu, chieftain's daughter. Because of his poverty and responsibilities they cannot marry. Then comes Ariff, a pearl trader, with glowing stories of fabulous pearl beds in a distant lagoon. Sai-Yu and little Ko-hai go along. Ensuing sequences are a vivid description of the hazards and glories of pearl diving. Ahmang finds a pearl that will enable him to marry Sai-Yu. But the boat runs out of water and Ariff sends the natives to a cannibal island. The lovers are deserted as Ariff's boat sails away. Terrorized by various jungle beasts as well as the cannibals, they are continually in danger. The natives, however, force Ariff to return and the lovers are taken off the island.

Ko-sai dives for a pearl. A shark kills him. Drama is intense as the divers hunt the killer. Sailing for home, the picture gives a description of native burial customs. After Ko-hai has been buried, Ahmang forces Ariff to return to the lagoon to avenge the boy's death. Then comes the battle between Ahmang and the shark, a supreme thrill. The shark killed, the party returns to Samarang, where the lovers are married in another description of native customs.

Differing from the ordinary travelogue, "Samarang" has the story power to interest modern audiences. That factor should be made an important part of every selling campaign. There is South Sea Island romance, drama and thrill to sell. Even though interesting novelty is a big asset, it is really secondary to these elements. Furthermore there is an unusual note of humanness in the film.

While the novelty of "Samarang" suggests unusual showmanship, the old standbys of entertainment selling should not be ignored. There is plenty of opportunity for doing unusual things. Tieups with jewelers featuring window displays of pearls, plenty of stills and hints that the hazards of pearl diving are revealed in "Samarang" are in line. Such exploitation should intrigue the curiosity of the irregular patrons. But for the regulars play up the romance and drama. Let the educational appeal take care of the children.—McCarthy, Hollywood.

Produced by B. F. Zeidman. Distributed by United Artists. Director, Ward Wing. Screen play by Lori Bara. Story by Lori Bara. Special submarine photography by Stacy Woodard. Cameraman, John C. Cook. Sound engineers, W. C. Smith, Lincoln Lyons. Film editor, Tom Geraghty. Musical supervision, Abe Meyer. Malaysian technical advisor, Lim Ah Sin. Release date undetermined . Running time, 62 minutes.

Native players: Mamounah, Ahmang, Ko-Hai, Sai-Yu, Ariff, Kimba.

F. P. One

(Ufa-Gaumont British)

Drama

This German-made British production is chiefly noteworthy for its imaginative setting, the story working out against a background that may be a reality of the near future but which is yet an unachieved dream. The author has visualized the possibility of artificial air bases established in mid-Atlantic to minimize the risks of air traffic between Europe and America, and has endeavored to show to what lengths established interests might go in order to overthrow a serious menace to existing methods of transport.

A young engineer named Droste places his plans before a famous German shipbuilding firm, who, on the intervention of his friend Ellissen, a famous airman, sponsor the scheme and construct the world's first floating island. Ellissen falls for Claire Lennartz, fair partner in the firm, but while he is away on a record-breaking flight she falls in love with Droste. The island is completed in spite of hidden opposition and towed to its position, but during a wireless talk with Droste, who is aboard, Claire hears shooting and realizes that something has gone amiss. She induces Ellissen to find help, and then quietly fades out of the picture leaving Claire and Droste to work out their own story together.

The marvellously contrived sets representing the island give every appearance of authenticity. There is no lack of thrills in the serial shots and sequences showing the incursion of water and the desertion of the crew. The film should sell to the public on the strength of these features alone, for it is the island, marvel of modern science, that is the true hero, with the human element playing second fiddle. The essential plot, however, works out smoothly enough and the acting is sincere enough to give full conviction to a weak story.

With its fantastic setting, the film should prove easy of exploitation, for the ingenious showman can make effective use of models, showing the curiously shaped island, and can make great play with stills. There is a story for your local papers in the feasibility of such a scheme.—Charman, London.

Produced by Gaumont British in conjunction with UFA, in Germany. An Erich Pommer production. Directed by Karl Hartl. Story by Walter Reisch and Kurt Siedmak. Supervision and dialog by Robert Stevenson and Peter MacFarlane. Scenario by Walter Reisch. Photography by Gunther Rittau and Konstantin Tschet. Sound supervision by Fritz Thiery. Editing supervised by Frederick Y. Smith. Art direction by E. Kettelhut. Music by Allan Gray. Lyrics by Rowland Leigh and Donovan Parsons. Running time, 90 minutes.

CAST

Ellissen.....Conrad Veidt
Droste.....Leslie Fenton
Claire Lennartz.....Jill Esmond
Lubin.....George Merritt
"Sunshine".....Donald Calthrop
Matthias Lennartz.....Nicholas Hannen
Conrad Lennartz.....William Freshman
First Officer.....Warwick Ward
The Man with Toothache.....Alexander Field
Seaman.....Francis L. Sullivan

The Mayor of Hell

(Warner)

Melodrama

"The Mayor of Hell" is a stark melodramatic character study of juvenile criminals. Basing its story on the lives of boy inmates of a reform school, its different drama rips, tears and amazes. There is no milk and honey in this one. Its sensationalism is reminiscent of "The Big House." Its vicious cruelty recalls the atmosphere of the "I'm a Fugitive"-"Hell's Highway" cycle. Tackling its subject without gloves, emphasizing realism to the utmost, it attempts an analysis of a sociological condition to which, so far, no one has found the answer. Actually the story is heart-quickening and packed with human interest. Cagney and Madge Evans are given the leads. Fundamentally they are playing in support of Frankie Darro, the real star, and Dudley Digges.

"Hell" in this case is prison and juvenile prisoners—mutiny and murder, crime and punishment. "The Mayor of Hell" is strong. It is, at the same time, the kind of picture that should interest every mother. Although the cast is large, the story really centers around the four named above. For their youthful depredations, Jimmy and several of his gang are sentenced to the reform school. Some of the court procedure is comic, most of it is tragic. In the school Jimmy is a rebel. Not even the most rigid discipline or Dorothy's attempts at reasoning with him can break his spirit. Then follows expositions of Thompson's heartless cruelty.

Into this "Hell" comes Patsy, a mug ward-heeler, made deputy commissioner as a political reward. Falling for Dorothy, he notes conditions and is convinced that Digges' "reform" methods are all wet. In typical Cagney fashion, he shelves the superintendent, assembles the boys and announces a new deal. Local government is instituted. Patsy gets into hot water when he shoots a too-ambitious henchman and has to hide away.

Thompson returns to the school, breaks up the new deal and re-establishes the old order of cruelty. Jimmy is his particular victim and one of the boys is slapped into solitary. Already weak, the exposure brings on his death. Then the kids go berserk. Thompson is tried. Escaping as the juvenile mob goes wild, he flees to the roof of a barn. They set fire to the barn and he jumps to his death. Patsy learns the facts and rushes to the school. Finale has him dramatically quieting things down and the governor appoints him superintendent to establish his plan of juvenile crime correction and character rehabilitation.

A straight-from-the-shoulder truth-telling campaign should introduce this picture to your patrons. As it is not ordinary entertainment, it should not be treated in an ordinary way. In the strongest fashion possible, get over the idea that this show is one that every man, woman and child should see. In doing so tell them that here is something that is more than entertainment; that it is a vivid picturization of a condition in which they are living.

It is not the kind of picture that will stand for direct theme exploitation, but one may look for cooperation from churches, welfare groups and reform organizations. Other than that, depend upon straight merchandising methods.—McCarthy, Hollywood.

Produced and distributed by Warner. Based on a story by Islin Auster. Screen play by Edward Chodorov. Directed by Archie Mayo. Photography by Barney McGill. Film editor, Jack Killifer. Release date, June 24, 1933. Running time, 80 minutes.

CAST

Patsy ..... James Cagney
Dorothy ..... Madge Evans
Mike ..... Allen Jenkins
Thompson ..... Dudley Digges
Judge Gilbert ..... Arthur Byron
Jimmy ..... Frankie Darro
The Girl ..... Sheila Terry
Mr. Smith ..... Robert Barrat
Smoke ..... "Farina"
Joe ..... Harold Huber
Mrs. Smith ..... Dorothy Peterson
Brandon ..... George Pat Collins
Louie Johnston ..... Edwin Maxwell
Hopkins ..... John Marston
Walters ..... Wm. V. Mong
Guard ..... Charles Wilson
Butch ..... Mickey Bennett
Izzy ..... Sidney Miller
Tommy's Father ..... Hobart Cavanaugh
Tony's Father ..... George Humbert
Johnny ..... Raymond Borzage
Charlie ..... George Offerman
Tommy ..... Charles Cane

International House

(Paramount)

Comedy

Careful showmanship more than anything else is the prime essential in successfully selling "International House" to the everyday type of audience. Primarily it is a gag-inspired, ribald comedy. Action and dialogue are fast and furious. But much of the double-meaning dialogue is of the ultra-risque type that is apt to start censors on the warpath. Constructed along the lines of a mammoth vaudeville show or a musical extravaganza, the motivating story often is side-tracked entirely to permit a lot of unrelated hokum comedy. While the necessary romantic twist is there, it is nothing to speak of. Consequently, comedy is its outstanding characteristic. The radio personalities are rung in by means of a television gag, with the exception of Burns and Allen who run a close second to, if they do not top W. C. Fields in fun creation.

Centered entirely in China, the reason for all the foolishness is that Dr. Wong has perfected a television apparatus. Seeking to get from Shanghai to Wu-Wu, Nash gets mixed up with Peggy Hopkins Joyce in sequences that develop reactions along the lines which stories have built up around the Joyce character. Nash is in love with Carol, but he always requires some childish disease—chicken pox or mumps—as he is about to marry her. His efforts to explain to her how he came to be associated with the colorful Peggy provide plenty of laughs.

When Nash breaks out with a rash, International House, the hotel, is quarantined. Into this setup lands the hilarious flying Professor Quail, to start his line of maniacal gags that turns the film into a riot of ribald, farcical mirth. Laughs come fast and loud as Burns and Allen do their stuff. More laughs and lots of blushes as Quail starts with Peggy Hopkins Joyce. Not much sense to anything that happens, but plenty of merriment. After Quail has turned the hotel into bedlam, by driving his Austin through it, seeking to avoid Peggy's jealous ex-husband, Petronovich, he flies off with her; Nash buys Wong's invention; and peace reigns as the whole thing is made clear to Carol.

If you can hit upon the right approach to handle the many risque suggestions, you can sell it as a circus of laughter. Create the impression that it is a landslide of hilarity, fun. In burlesque style play up the personalities in the cast, Fields, Joyce, Erwin, Maritza, Burns and Allen and Lugosi. Using a novel television angle, ring in the radio names for all they are worth. Unless much is cut, the dialogue may present difficulties. Circus it with topical exploitation and intriguing ad copy; stress the names and the fun and while carefully hinting its ribald color, gloss it over. If you can do that you should have a show that will hand the every-day patron plenty of laughs, yet one that is too strong for children's amusement.—McCarthy, Hollywood.

Produced and distributed by Paramount. Directed by Edward Sutherland. From a story by Neil Brant and Lou Heifetz. Screen play by Francis Martin and Walter De Leon. Music and lyrics by Ralph Rainger and Leo Robin. Photographed by Ernest Haller. Release date, June 2, 1933. Running time, 65 minutes.

CAST

Peggy Hopkins Joyce ..... Peggy Hopkins Joyce
Professor Quail ..... W. C. Fields
Tommy Nash ..... Stuart Erwin
Carol Fortescue ..... Sari Maritza
Doctor Burns ..... George Burns
Nurse Allen ..... Gracie Allen
General Petronovich ..... Bela Lugosi
Doctor Wong ..... Edmund Breese
Sir Mortimer Fortescue ..... Lumsden Hare
Hotel Manager ..... Franklin Pangborn
Herr von Baden ..... Harrison Greene
Serge Borsky ..... Henry Sedley
Inspector Sun ..... James Wang
Newsreel Reporter ..... Ernest Wood
Mr. Rollins ..... Edwin Stanley
Cameraman ..... Clem Beauchamp
Ticket Agent ..... Norman Ainslee
Hotel Clerk ..... Louis Vincenot
Chinese Girl (cigar counter) ..... Bo-Ling
Peggy's maid ..... Etta Lee
Girl Bell-hop ..... Bo-Ching
Chorus Queen ..... Lona Andre
Chorus King ..... Sterling Holloway
Rudy Vallee, Colonel Stoopnagle and Budd, Cab Calloway and his orchestra. Baby Rose Marie.

Show Business

(MGM)

Fair Comedy

Zasu Pitts and Thelma Todd in one of their Hal Roach efforts which has its comic moments, principally as the result of Miss Pitts' general clumsiness and stupidity. The girls are offered a part in a show and ordered to reach the train in an hour, with their pet monkey. Their efforts to get there, their faculty for annoying the show's star and driving its manager to distraction form the body of the comedy. Miss Todd supplies the face and figure, Miss Pitts the "dumbness" and the two contrive to make this reasonably amusing.—Running time, 20 minutes.

▽

Loose Relations

(Educational)

Entertaining

The old gag of mother-in-law visiting her daughter for the first time and meeting her new husband. Andy Clyde putting his best foot forward in order to do the right thing, always gets in wrong. The collapsing bed which traps the dowager is good for plenty of laughs as are the sequences in which the big dog figures. Finale is a knockdown, drag-out battle between Andy and the mother-in-law, attended by all the neighbors, which is given the atmosphere of a world's championship prize fight. Moves fast, has plenty of laughs and should prove good entertainment. Running time, 18 minutes.—McCarthy, Hollywood.

△

Room Mates

(Universal)

Weak Comedy

Two college boys, double-crossed by the same girl, vow bachelorhood, then marry, and fall into the error of a foursome honeymoon which turns out disastrously. Wrong rooms, other men's wives and the like serve for the supposed comic excitement, but there is little real comedy in the subject. The performances are for the most part insipid.—Running time, 20 minutes.

Pick Me Up

(Universal)

Noisy

There is too much noise and alleged slapstick in this to make it a generally pleasing comedy. Those who are particularly fond of that variety, however, may find a few laughs in it. Marie Provost and her friend plan to surprise their husbands, one of whom is Bert Roach, with a tonic cocktail, but before the husbands arrive, the girls have sampled the drink, with unusual results. An old maid aunt of Bert's comes around looking for trouble, takes a drink, and causes more excitement. Henry Arnetta, as the apartment house owner, aids in the comedy—and the noise.—Running time, 19 minutes.

Hip Zip Hooray

(RKO Radio)

Laborious

But for a situation or two the story and action are cut to pattern almost as exactly as the lingerie abundantly displayed by the models in the salon. A pair of handcuffs do their best to keep the story connected, but the best is not so much. The intended comedy in the indoor chase falls short. It concerns the befallings of the Governor's husband, his sheriff pal and Slippery Magee, who gives all in turn the restriction of the handcuffs at strategic moments. Harry Gribbon and Tom Kennedy are the leads.—Running time, 18½ minutes.

Wild People

(MGM)

Color Revue

There is lightness, a certain amount of entertainment and a certain amount of silliness in this comedy-musical short subject. A commendable and effective addition is the use of Technicolor, with excellent results. In a setting of cavemen and women, supposed to be broadcast to civilization, a chorus of boys and the MGM dancing girls go through the revue routine with enthusiasm, thereby lending liveliness to the subject.—Running time, 20 minutes.

Runaway Blackie

(RKO Radio)

Only Fair

More than the mechanics of having cartoon characters turn to making orchestras out of tableware, typewriter keys and whatnot is required in pen and ink comedy now that "everybody's doing it." In "Runaway Blackie," Aesop's Fables, the one elevation above routine is the windup—and literally so—with the chained convicts wound up on a huge roller by the jailer, for their night's sleep.—Running time, 7 minutes.

A Lad an' a Lamp

(MGM)

Good Comedy

The Our Gang youngsters are always appealing and in this subject are up to standard. Hearing of Aladdin's success with the magic lamp, they proceed to find and rub diligently every lamp they can find, with indifferent success, until sudden, and amusing complications develop when a theatre magician and a stage monkey become involved. The juvenile patronage will get a great kick out of the comedy, while the adults will be roundly amused.—Running time, 17 minutes.

U. A. To Release "Samarang"

United Artists will release "Samarang" (Out of the Deep), tropical romance produced by B. F. Zeidman. The film was the result of an expedition to Maylasia by Ward Wing, director, and his wife, Lori Bara, who wrote the story.

Detroit Exhibitor Dead

William J. Wiggins, 52, prominent Detroit exhibitor, died suddenly of a heart attack at his Detroit home last week. He is survived by his mother, his widow, four sons and two daughters.

ACKNOWLEDGED CREDIT FOR THEATRE PROJECTIONIST URGED BY GOLDSMITH

Professional Operator Should Be Taken Out of Anonymity, He Says, Citing Treatment of Other Technical Factors

The professional motion picture theatre projectionist should be taken out of anonymity and given credit on a theatre program equal to that accorded the technical factions of production, in the opinion of Dr. Alfred N. Goldsmith, president of the Society of Motion Picture Engineers. Dr. Goldsmith analyzed the projectionist's status and his modus operandi at the monthly meeting of the SMPE's New York section, held Wednesday evening.

"The final step in the processes of picture (and sound) production and exhibition is the projectionist's work in the theatre," he said, and "if the theatre equipment is permitted to remain in poor condition, or if it is inexpertly handled, audience satisfaction is jeopardized. Since the audience is the direct source of whatever financial support the motion picture industry enjoys," he continued, "and since the continuance of the activity of every branch of the industry thus depends on audience satisfaction, it is obviously poor policy to economize unwisely in the fields of projection personnel and their equipment.

"The equipment for picture projection and sound reproduction must be well understood so that any repairs except those requiring unavailable parts or special testing tools, may be rapidly made by the projectionist. He must cooperate with the engineer, the apparatus manufacturer, and the service man. In addition, a gift of oratorical persuasiveness is useful to the projectionist who is discussing the purchase of testing equipment, spare parts, or replacements for worn parts, with some of the less generously inclined exhibitors. In justice to the more far-sighted exhibitor, it should be stated that in his case this persuasiveness is not required," said Dr. Goldsmith.

No Time for Jeopardizing

Continuing, the SMPE president said, "It is likely that it is particularly hazardous at this time to risk displeasing the audience. Audiences are today made up of many persons who may be nervous, harassed, and insistent on being presented with so perfect and compelling an illusion that they are, in effect, transported to another world where their daily problems may be forgotten. It must be insisted that the profession of projection takes its place with those other, and more generally mentioned and understood, professions which are involved in the world of pictures.

"There is one aspect of the work of the projectionist which has not been emphasized so strongly as it might be, and that is the recurrent need that the projectionist shall meet small and great emergencies promptly and effectively. If the projectionist were serving a few people at a time, his promptitude and effectiveness would be relatively unimportant. But, considering that hundreds or thousands of persons have their attention concentrated on his work, any prolonged interruption or avoidable imperfection is shown up glaringly and creates a profound and unfavorable impression. The meeting of an emergency may be a comparatively simple task in some instances, as for example in maintaining sharp focus of the picture. Yet it is an urgent task even in these cases. If, however, film breakage, equipment failure, or above all a film fire, should occur, the projectionist immediately becomes by far the most important person in the theatre. He can make or mar a reputation in a very few minutes; and in extreme cases he can prevent disaster by cool and skilled work.

Some Duties of the Projectionist

"The work of the projectionist enters the fields of mechanical operation and of optical, acoustical, and electrical principles and practices. To function intelligently he requires a good working knowledge of those portions of each of these fields which are applied in the equipment of the projection room and in the loud speakers on the stage—and this is equivalent to saying that he requires a fair appreciation of a considerable portion of the less complicated parts of these fields and also some knowledge of some more complicated matters.

"It is likely that the field of the projectionist will expand rather than contract as time goes on, and that the knowledge and experience he will require will increase as innovations in the field are introduced into the theatre. Color motion pictures will bring some problems of illumination, screen color and arc color in their wake. Three-dimensional pictures (if and when they arrive) will probably further tax his ability. Special sound effects along some lines not yet introduced in the industry will add to the complication of the projectionist's task. And it is at least conceivable that television reception and the projection of television pictures on the regular theatre screen will add to the projectionist's training his technical library, and his required skill.

"Many an engineer can get useful information and practical guidance in apparatus design and construction matters from the thoughtful projectionist. The service man can save time and get better results if the projectionist is interested in the equipment, communicates a clear statement of any symptoms of trouble, and suggests the probable cause of the difficulty. It is therefore to be hoped that the projectionist, the service man and the engineer will continue to work together more closely."

Marxes Return To Paramount

The Four Marx brothers will return to Paramount to make one more picture, "Duck Soup," on which the company said it had spent considerable money in preparation when the Marx brothers severed their Paramount contract. Paramount instituted a suit against the comedians for breach of contract, but the Marxes had earlier started a suit based on profits allegedly due them on previous pictures.

The various suits having apparently been settled amicably, "Duck Soup" will go into production early in June and will be one of the specials on the Paramount program for 1933-34.

All of the brothers are now in New York, but will leave for the Coast within two weeks. Later they will resume activities on their first story for Sam Katz and Producing Artists Pictures. This will probably be a talking picture version of Sam Harris' "Of Thee I Sing."

Anti-Trust Suit Starts in Camden

The anti-trust suit filed against 28 producing, distributing and exhibiting companies by the Victoria Amusement Co., of Camden, N. J., got under way last week, with Major Albert Warner giving testimony on his company's holdings in subsidiary corporations in a hearing on an order to show cause why the action should not be dismissed. Twenty defendants were originally named in the suit, but before the hearing started, attorneys for Victoria moved for the inclusion of 11 additional companies, the motion being granted.

Major Warner testified on his corporation's holdings only after the judge had overruled the objection of the defendant's counsel that the holdings were the concern's own business. Major Warner then testified that his company owns the entire stock of Vitagraph, Inc., comprising 200 shares. He also said that there are 904,846 shares outstanding of Stanley Co., of which Warner Bros. owns 897,118 shares.

The court decided to postpone the hearing for three weeks.

The original defendants are Warner Brothers Pictures, Inc., Stanley Co. of America, First National Pictures Dist. Corp., Vitagraph, Inc., Vitaphone Dist. Corp., First National Pictures, Inc., Warner Brothers Theatres, Inc., Stanley Co. of Camden, N. J., Harry M. Warner, Albert Warner, Jack L. Warner, Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer Dist. Corp. of New York, Fox Film Corp., Columbia Pictures Corp., Paramount Dist. Corp., Universal Film Exchanges, Inc., United Artists Corp., RKO Pathe Dist. Corp., RKO Dist. Corp., and the Interstate Film Co. The 11 new defendants are Columbia Pictures Dist. Co., Inc., Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer Pictures, Inc., Loew's Inc., General Theatres Equipment, Inc., Fox Theatres Corp. of New York, Radio-Keith-Orpheum Corp., Radio Corp. of America, Paramount Pictures Corp. of New Jersey, Paramount Dist. Corp. of New York, Paramount Pictures Dist. Co. of New Jersey and Universal Pictures Co., Inc., of Delaware.

U.A. to Meet in Chicago, July 17

With Darryl Zanuck launched upon plans for 12 pictures for United Artists release, and with other contributors entering upon production which will bring the number up to between 25 and 30 features for next season, the United Artists sales forces throughout the United States and Canada will meet in convention in Chicago beginning July 17, Al Lichtman, vice-president and general manager of distribution, said this week. The company had previously planned not to hold a convention this year.

By the time the convention is called, Mr. Lichtman and other executives will have held conferences regarding next season's product with Joseph M. Schenck, Darryl Zanuck, Samuel Goldwyn and others in Hollywood.

After you read this wire you'll all want to play "House"

1228S

BY DIRECT WIRE FROM

WESTERN UNION

NEWCOMB CARLTON, PRESIDENT — J. C. WILLEVER, FIRST VICE-PRESIDENT

CLASS OF SERVICE

This is a full-rate Telegram or Cablegram unless its deferred character is indicated by a suitable sign above or preceding the address.

SIGNS

DL = Day Letter
NM = Night Message
NL = Night Letter
LCO = Deferred Cable
NLT = Cable Night Letter
WLT = Week-End Letter

The filing time as shown in the date line on full-rate telegrams and day letters, and the time of receipt at destination as shown on all messages, is STANDARD TIME.

NAH12 54 DL CNT QUOTATION=HOLLYWOOD CALIF MAY 8 1153A

RUSSELL HOLMAN,PARAMOUNT PICTURES DISTRIBUTING CORP

WUX NEWYORK NY=

HAD OUR SECOND PREVIEW ON "INTERNATIONAL HOUSE" STOP IF LAUGHS FROM AUDIENCE ARE INDICATION OF THEIR ENTERTAINMENT THIS PICTURE SHOULD BE KNOCKOUT BECAUSE THE LAUGHS WERE SO CONTINUOUS AND VOCIFEROUS THAT YOU COULD HARDLY HEAR ANY OF THE LINES STOP IT IS PERHAPS THE MOST UNIQUE KIND OF ENTERTAINMENT EVER PRESENTED STOP REGARDS=

EMANUEL COHEN

410P.

PATRONS ARE REQUESTED TO FAVOR THE COMPANY BY CRITICISM AND SUGGESTION CONCERNING ITS SERVICE

NEWS FLASH

Audience laugh their heads off at Astor Theatre preview in New York, Friday.

PARAMOUNT'S "INTERNATIONAL HOUSE"

★ PEGGY HOPKINS JOYCE ★ W. C. FIELDS ★ RUDY VALLEE
★ STUART ERWIN ★ GEORGE BURNS and ★ GRACIE ALLEN
★ COLONEL STOOPNAGLE and ★ BUDD ★ SARI MARITZA
★ CAB CALLOWAY and his ORCHESTRA ★ BELA LUGOSI
★ BABY ROSE MARIE ★ THE GIRLS IN CELLOPHANE

Directed by EDWARD SUTHERLAND

Paramount Pictures

IF IT'S A PARAMOUNT PICTURE IT'S THE BEST SHOW IN TOWN!

THEATRE RECEIPTS

Theatre receipts for the calendar weekended May 13, 1933, aggregated $1,120,354 from 115 houses in 20 cities of the country, an increase of $11,843 over the previous calendar week, ended May 6, when 116 theatres in 20 cities grossed a total of $1,108,511. No new high individual theatre record figures, and two new low record figures were established during the more recent period, which compares with no new "highs" and four new "lows" for the preceding week.

(Copyright, 1933: Reproduction of material from this department without credit to MOTION PICTURE HERALD expressly forbidden)

Theatres			Current Week		Previous Week		High and Low Gross (Tabulation covers period from January, 1931 to date)
Boston			Picture	Gross	Picture	Gross
Fenway	1,800	30c-50c	"Ex-Lady" (W. B.) and "Under the Tonto Rim" (Para.)	9,500	"The Mind Reader" (F. N.) and "Terror Aboard" (Para.)	10,000	.....
Keith's	3,500	30c-50c	"Below the Sea" (Col.)	17,500	"Kiss Before the Mirror" (U.)	19,000	High 12-5 "Frankenstein"	27,000
							Low 3-9-33 "When Strangers Marry"	12,000
Keith-Boston	2,900	25c-50c	"The World Gone Mad" (Majestic)	17,000	"Sweepings" (Radio)	18,000	High 4-9-32 "Steady Company"	26,000
							Low 3-9-33 "Topaze"	11,000
Loew's State	3,700	25c-50c	"The Barbarian" (MGM)	17,000	"Looking Forward" (MGM)	18,000	High 6-18-32— "Hell Divers," "Possessed" and "Sin of Madelon Claudet"	26,000
							Low 3-9-33 "Men Must Fight"	11,000
Metropolitan	4,350	30c-65c	"The Working Man" (W. B.)	35,000	"Song of the Eagle" (Para.)	34,500	High 1-31 "No Limit"	44,500
							Low 3-9-33 "King of the Jungle"	26,500
Paramount	1,800	30c-50c	"Ex-Lady" (W. B.) and "Under the Tonto Rim" (Para.)	12,500	"The Mind Reader" (F. N.) and "Terror Aboard" (Para.)	12,500	.....
Buffalo
Buffalo	3,500	30c-55c	"Today We Live" (MGM)	14,100	"Secrets" (U. A.)	12,200	High 3-28 "My Past"	39,500
							Low 3-24-33 "Our Betters"	9,800
Century	3,000	25c	"Grand Slam" (F. N.) and "Past of Mary Holmes" (Radio)	4,200	"Sailor's Luck" (Fox) and "Secrets of Wu Sin" (Chesterfield)	6,100	High 2-14 "Cimarron"	25,600
							Low 5-12-33 "Grand Slam" and "Past of Mary Holmes"	4,200
Great Lakes	3,000	25c-40c	"Elmer the Great" (F. N.)	6,800	"Rasputin and the Empress" (MGM)	9,200	High 8-8 "Politics"	35,100
							Low 4-14-33 "Rome Express"	5,400
Hippodrome	2,100	25c	"The Keyhole" (W. B.) and "Terror Aboard" (Para.)	6,000	"Strictly Personal" (Para.) and "Trick for Trick" (Fox)	5,100	High 2-14 "Free Love"	26,300
							Low 7-16-32 "New Morals for Old"	4,200
Lafayette	3,300	25c	"So This Is Africa" (Col.) and "Women Won't Tell" (Chesterfield)	7,600	"Constant Woman" (World Wide) and "Men Are Such Fools" (Radio)	6,400	High 4-11 "Ten Cents a Dance"	24,100
							Low 2-10-33 "Hypnotized" and "Trailing the Killer"	5,100
Chicago
Chicago	4,000	35c-68c	"Ex-Lady" (W. B.)	28,500	"The Barbarian" (MGM)	28,000	High 1-23-32 "Two Kinds of Women"	67,000
							Low 12-22-32 "The Match King"	20,000
McVickers	2,284	25c-50c	"King Kong" (Radio)	8,000	"Sweepings" (Radio) (9 days)	10,500	High 2-7 "Doorway to Hell"	38,170
							Low 2-10-33 "Hello, Everybody"	5,500
Oriental	3,940	35c-68c	"Cavalcade" (Fox) (2nd week)	9,000	"Cavalcade" (Fox) (1st week)	14,500	High 3-7 "My Past"	46,750
							Low 3-24-33 "The Big Cage"	12,000
Palace	2,509	35c-75c	"Kiss Before the Mirror" (U.)	19,000	"King Kong" (Radio) (2nd week)	14,200	High 4-2-32 "Cheaters at Play"	33,000
							Low 12-15-32 "False Faces"	14,000
Roosevelt	1,591	25c-50c	"Looking Forward" (MGM)	9,300	"Pleasure Cruise" (Fox)	7,200	High 4-11 "Dishonored"	30,350
							Low 3-3-33 "Luxury Liner"	6,200
United Artists	1,700	35c-68c	"The Working Man" (W. B.) (2nd week)	6,300	"The Working Man" (W. B.) (1st week)	9,300	High 3-21 "City Lights"	46,562
							Low 3-17-33 "Perfect Understanding"	6,800
Cleveland
Allen	3,300	25c-35c	"Shriek in the Night" (Allied) and "Cheating Blondes" (Majestic)	2,900	"Pleasure Cruise" (Fox) and "Reform Girl" (Tower)	3,000	High 1-30-32 "Hell Divers"	26,000
							Low 3-3-33 "Infernal Machine" and "Exposure"	1,800
Hippodrome	3,800	15c-35c	"When Strangers Marry" (Col.)	4,200	"The Big Cage" (U.) (4 days) "Parole Girl" (Col.) (5 days)	4,000	.....
Mall	753	15c-25c	"Fast Workers" (MGM)	1,400	"Trick for Trick" (Fox)	1,500	.....
RKO Palace	3,100	25c-40c	"Christopher Strong" (Radio)	11,500	"So This Is Africa" (Col.)	7,500	High 5-2 "Laugh and Get Rich"	40,000
							Low 5-5-33 "So This Is Africa"	7,500
State	3,400	25c-40c	"Today We Live" (MGM)	13,000	"Pick Up" (Para.)	7,600	High 12-5 "Possessed"	30,000
							Low 5-5-33 "Pick Up"	7,600
Stillman	1,900	25c-35c	"Hallelujah, I'm a Bum" (U. A.)	5,100	"Looking Forward" (MGM)	6,500	.....
Warner's Lake	800	25c-40c	"Ex-Lady" (W. B.) (6 days)	4,500	"The Keyhole" (W. B.)	4,000	High 10-3 "Five Star Final"	15,000
							Low 7-4 "Big Business Girl"	2,000
Denver
Aladdin	1,500	25c-40c	"Our Betters" (Radio)	4,500	"King Kong" (Radio) (8 days)	5,500	.....
Denham	1,700	15c-25c	"So This Is Africa" (Col.) (2nd week-3 days)	2,000	"So This Is Africa" (Col.) (1st week)	5,250	.....
			"As the Devil Commands" (Col.) (4 days)	1,200			High 8-8 "Politics"	25,000
							Low 3-23-33 "Clear All Wires"	6,000
Denver	2,500	25c-50c	"Elmer the Great" (F. N.)	7,500	"The White Sister" (MGM)	10,000	.....
Orpheum	2,600	25c-40c	"Out All Night" (U.)	8,500	"King Kong" (Radio) (8 days)	8,000
Paramount	2,000	25c-40c	"Song of the Eagle" (Para.)	3,500	"Looking Forward" (MGM) (4 days)	1,100	High 1-10 "Hell's Angels"	22,000
					"A Lady's Profession" (Para.) (3 days)	1,000	Low 5-4-33 "Looking Forward" and "A Lady's Profession"	2,100
Detroit
Downtown	2,750	25c-40c	"The Phantom Broadcast" (Monogram)	6,600	"Below the Sea" (Col.)	4,500	.....
Fisher	2,700	15c-40c	"Central Airport" (F. N.)	5,200	"Looking Forward" (MGM)	7,600	.....
Fox	5,100	15c-40c	"The Big Cage" (U.)	8,200	"Cohens and Kellys in Trouble" (U.) and "The Fighting President" (U.)	7,100	.....
Michigan	4,000	25c-50c	"Song of the Eagle" (Para.) and "The Keyhole" (W. B.)	8,700	"The Barbarian" (MGM)	10,100	.....
State	3,000	25c-50c	"Rasputin and the Empress" (MGM) (2nd week)	9,100	"Rasputin and the Empress" (MGM) (1st week)	12,400	.....
United Artists	2,000	25c-50c	"Picture Snatcher" (W. B.)	7,200	"The White Sister" (MGM) (2nd week)	7,300	.....

[THEATRE RECEIPTS--CONT'D]

Theatres			Current Week		Previous Week		High and Low Gross (Tabulation covers period from January, 1931 to date)
			Picture	Gross	Picture	Gross
Hollywood
W. B. Hollywood	3,000	25c-50c	"The Mind Reader" (F. N.).....	13,800	"Elmer the Great" (F. N.).....	9,800	High 2-7 "Little Caesar".....	30,000
							Low 11-7 "Honor of the Family".....	7,000
Indianapolis
Apollo	1,100	25c-40c	"Sweepings" (Radio)	3,000	"Christopher Strong" (Radio)....	3,000	High 6-13 "Daddy Long Legs".....	10,000
							Low 3-10-33 "Topaze"	2,500
Circle	2,800	25c-40c	"Oliver Twist" (Monogram).....	5,000	"A Bedtime Story" (Para.).....	8,000	High 2-14 "Cimarron".....	13,000
							Low 3-3-33 "Sign of the Cross"..... (Second run)	2,500
Indiana	3,300	25c-40c	"Elmer the Great" (F. N.).....	7,000	"Crime of the Century" (Para.)..	6,000	High 1-17 "Her Man".....	25,000
							Low 4-16-33 "The Big Drive".....	5,000
Lyric	2,000	25c-40c	"Past of Mary Holmes" (Radio)..	8,500	.....		.....
Palace	2,800	25c-40c	"The Barbarian" (MGM).....	5,000	"Secrets" (U. A.).....	6,500	High 5-2 "Trader Horn"	22,000
							Low 3-3-33 "Clear All Wires".....	3,500
Kansas City
Mainstreet	3,049	25c-40c	"Christopher Strong" (Radio)..... (7 days-Amos 'n' Andy on stage Sat. & Sun.)	13,500	"Out All Night" (U.)..... (8 days)	7,000	High 1-9-32 "Peach o' Reno".....	25,500
							Low 3-7-33 "The Great Jasper"..... (Second week of straight film policy.)	4,000
Midland	4,000	25c	"Today We Live" (MGM)..... (7 days and Sat. midnite show)	9,000	"Secrets" (U. A.)..... (7 days and Sat. midnite show)	9,800	High 1-5-33 "Strange Interlude".....	30,000
							Low 12-8-32 "Man Against Woman"...	6,000
Newman	2,000	25c-40c	"The Working Man" (W. B.).... (7 days and Sat. midnite show)	6,000	"Song of the Eagle" (Para.)..... (6 days and Sat. midnite show) (25c-40c)	6,000	High 2-27-32 "Shanghai Express"	25,000
							Low 4-28-33 "Ex-Lady".....	3,500
Uptown	2,000	25c-40c	"Central Airport" (F. N.)..... (10 days)	6,000	"Elmer the Great" (F. N.).....	3,600	High 1-10 "Girl of the Golden West"..	8,000
							Low 5-21-32 "Lena Rivers"	2,000
Los Angeles
Loew's State ...	2,416	25c-40c	"Zoo in Budapest" (Fox).....	10,300	"The White Sister" (MGM)....	13,607	High 10-25 "Susan Lenox".....	39,000
							Low 3-5-32 "The Silent Witness".....	6,963
Paramount	3,596	25c-40c	"Strictly Personal" (Para.).....	15,000	"Song of the Eagle" (Para.)....	14,750	High 10-31 "Beloved Bachelor".....	41,000
							Low 2-6-32 "Tomorrow and Tomorrow"	7,500
RKO	2,700	25c-55c	"Below the Sea" (Col.)..... (25c-40c)	4,500	"The Fighting President" (U.) and "Out All Night" (U.) (4 days)	3,000	.....
W. B. Downtown	2,400	25c-50c	"The Mind Reader" (F. N.).....	12,200	"Elmer the Great" (F. N.).....	13,200	High 2-7 "Little Caesar"	27,000
							Low 4-23-32 "Destry Rides Again".....	6,200
W. B. Western.	2,400	25c-50c	"Elmer the Great" (F. N.).....	5,000	"Central Airport" (F. N.).....	5,700	.....
Minneapolis
Century	1,640	25c-40c	"Ex-Lady" (W. B.).....	4,000	"Pick Up" (Para.).....	4,500	.....
Lyceum	1,800	25c-40c	"Cohens and Kellys in Trouble".. (U.)	3,500	"The Big Cage" (U.)	3,000	.....
Lyric	1,238	25c-40c	"Elmer the Great" (F. N.).....	2,500	"Murders at the Zoo" (Para.)....	2,000	High 5-30 "Kiki"	4,000
							Low 1-24 "Men on Call".....	1,200
RKO Orpheum..	2,900	25c-50c	"Cristopher Strong" (Radio).....	6,000	"Sweepings" (Radio)	6,000	.....
State	2,300	25c-55c	"Central Airport" (F. N.)..... (2nd week)	6,500	"Central Airport" (F. N.)..... (1st week)	6,500	High 1-2-32 "Sooky"	10,000
							Low 3-10-33 "King of the Jungle".....	3,500
World	400	25c-75c	"Be Mine Tonight" (U.)..... (4th week)	1,200	"Be Mine Tonight" (U.) ..... (3rd week)	1,500	.....
Montreal
Capitol	2,547	25c-60c	"Elmer the Great" (F. N.) and.. "Girl Missing" (W. B.)	12,000	"The Keyhole" (W. B.) and..... "Grand Slam" (F. N.)	12,000	High 1-10 "Just Imagine"	18,000
							Low 12-23 "The Guardsman" and "The Tip Off"	8,000
Imperial	1,914	25c-60c	"Mirage de Paris" (French)..... (2nd week)	1,500	"Mirage de Paris" (French).....	2,000	High 1-17 "Office Wife"	10,000
							Low 4-14-33 "Allo, Mademoiselle".....	1,500
Loew's	3,115	25c-75c	"Out All Night" (U.).....	13,500	"King of the Jungle" (Para.)....	13,000	High 4-2-32 "Fireman, Save My Child"	16,500
							Low 7-18 "Stepping Out"	9,000
Palace	2,600	25c-75c	"A Bedtime Story" (Para.).....	13,000	"Cavalcade" (Fox) ..... (2nd week)	10,500	High 4-2-32 "One Hour With You"....	19,500
							Low 12-23-32 "Life Begins".....	8,500
Princess	2,272	25c-60c	"Secrets" (U. A.) and..... "Face in the Sky" (Fox)	7,500	"Oliver Twist" (Monogram) and.. "Sailor Be Good" (Radio)	7,000	High 4-1 "City Lights"	22,500
							Low 12-23-32 "The Crusader" and "Hearts of Humanity"	6,000
New York
Astor	1,120	55c-$2.20	"Hell Below" (MGM)..... (3rd week)	10,441	"Hell Below" (MGM)..... (2nd week)	12,701	High 1-2-32 "Hell Divers"	24,216
							Low 3-26-33 "The White Sister".....	14,559
Cameo	549	25c-75c	"Zoo in Budapest" (Fox).....	2,850	"M" (Para.)	1,750	.....
Capitol	4,700	35c-$1.65	"The White Sister" (MGM).....	36,346	"Looking Forward" (MGM).....	43,568	High 1-9-32 "Mata Hari"	110,466
							Low 2-2-33 "Whistling in the Dark"..	23,600
Mayfair	2,300	35c-85c	"Alimony Madness" (Mayfair).... (4 days)	3,000	"Bondage" (Fox) ..... (2nd week—5 days)	7,000	High 12-12 "Frankenstein"	53,800
							Low 3-10-33 "Racetrack"	7,100
			"The Big Cage" (U.)..... (7 days)	9,200
Palace	2,500	25c-75c	"Diplomaniacs" (Radio).....	5,775	"Cavalcade" (Fox)	11,000	.....
Paramount	3,700	35c-99c	"Story of Temple Drake" (Para.)	28,700	"Song of the Eagle" (Para.).....	18,800	High 2-7 "Finn and Hattie".....	85,900
							Low 2-2-33 "Hello, Everybody".....	15,600
Rialto	2,200	40c-65c	"Circus Queen Murder" (Col.)....	11,800	"So This Is Africa" (Col.)..... (2nd week)	9,500	High 2-27-32 "Shanghai Express".....	64,600
							Low 6-27 "Dracula" and "Hell's Angels"	4,500
Rivoli	2,103	40c-85c	"A Bedtime Story" (Para.).....	16,200	"A Bedtime Story" (Para.)..... (2nd week)	21,100	High 1-9-32 "Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde"	67,100
							Low 7-29-32 "Igloo"	8,000
RKO Music Hall	5,945	35c-$1.65	"The Silver Cord" (Radio)..... (3rd week)	75,638	"Zoo in Budapest" (Fox).....	61,240	.....
RKO Roxy	3,700	35c-$1.65	"India Speaks" (Radio).....	17,023	"Diplomaniacs" (Radio)	26,764	.....
Roxy	6,200	25c-55c	"Hello, Sister" (Fox).....	23,500	"Past of Mary Holmes" (Radio)..	19,000	High 1-1-32 "Delicious"	133,000
							Low 1-26-33 "Air Hostess"	9,160
Strand	3,000	25c-85c	"Central Airport" (F. N.).....	16,231	"42nd Street" (W. B.)..... (8th week)	17,231	High 1-17 "Little Caesar"	74,821
							Low 4-2-32 "The Missing Rembrandt"..	8,012
Oklahoma City
Capitol	1,200	10c-40c	"Made on Broadway" (MGM)....	2,800	"Picture Snatcher" (W. B.).....	3,200	High 2-7 "Illicit"	11,000
							Low 3-11-33 "From Hell to Heaven"....	1,350
Criterion	1,700	10c-55c	"Today We Live" (MGM).....	4,000	"Gabriel Over the White House" (MGM)	4,500	High 2-21 "Cimarron"	15,500
							Low 3-11-33 "Clear All Wires".....	1,800
Liberty	1,500	10c-35c	"42nd Street" (W. B.).....	3,200	"Hello, Sister" (Fox)..... (4 days)	1,000	High 1-24 "Under Suspicion".....	7,200
							Low 6-20 "Big Fight" and "Drums of Jeopardy"	900
					"Rome Express" (U.) ..... (3 days)	1,000
Mid-West	1,500	10c-55c	"Lilly Turner" (F. N.).....	3,000	"Elmer the Great" (F.N.).....	3,000	High 9-19 "Young As You Feel".....	11,000
							Low 3-11-33 "Employees' Entrance"....	1,400

[THEATRE RECEIPTS--CONT'D]

Theatres			Current Week: Picture	Current Week: Gross	Previous Week: Picture	Previous Week: Gross	High and Low Gross (Tabulation covers period from January, 1931 to date)
Omaha
Orpheum	3,000	25c-40c	"Kiss Before the Mirror" (U.) and "Be Mine Tonight" (U.)	5,250	"Out All Night" (U.) and "Mussolini Speaks" (Col.) (6 days)	4,500	High 2-14 "Cimarron"	25,550
							Low 4-29-33 "Sweepings"	5,000
Paramount	2,900	25c-50c	"A Bedtime Story" (Para.)	12,250	"Today We Live" (MGM)	7,000	High 4-23-32 "Tarzan, the Ape Man"	13,750
							Low 5-21-32 "Wet Parade" and "It's Tough to Be Famous"	4,000
State	1,200	15c-25c	"Murders in the Zoo" (Para.) (4 days)	900	"Broadway Bad" (Fox) (4 days)	900	High 3-14 "Trader Horn"	10,000
			"Destination Unknown" (U.) (3 days)	800	"A Lady's Profession" (Para.) (3 days)	750	Low 2-10-33 "The Devil Is Driving" and "The Intruder"	1,000
World	2,500	25c-40c	"Picture Snatcher" (W. B.) and "Men Must Fight" (MGM)	5,500	"Pick Up" (Para.) and "The Mind Reader" (F. N.)	6,500	High 4-11 "Men Call It Love"	16,000
							Low 11-28 "The Cisco Kid"	4,500
Philadelphia
Arcadia	600	25c-50c	"Crime of the Century" (Para.) (6 days)	2,200	"Men Must Fight" (MGM) (4 days)	1,200	High 12-17 "The Guardsman"	6,500
							Low 10-1-32 "Make Me a Star"	1,500
Boyd	2,400	40c-55c	"Christopher Strong" (Radio) (6 days)	10,500	"Secrets" (U. A.) (6 days)	11,500	.....
Earle	2,000	40c-66c	"Elmer the Great" (F. N.) (6 days)	16,000	"A Lady's Profession" (Para.) (6 days)	13,000	High 1-5-33 "Breach of Promise"	29,000
							Low 4-13-33 "Fast Workers"	12,000
Fox	3,000	35c-75c	"Hello, Sister" (Fox) (6 days)	16,500	"Zoo in Budapest" (Fox) (6 days)	18,000	High 2-7 "Man Who Came Back"	40,000
							Low 6-18-32 "Mystery Ranch"	15,000
Karlton	1,000	30c-50c	"A Bedtime Story" (Para.) (6 days)	5,000	"The White Sister" (MGM) (7 days)	6,300	High 5-2 "City Lights"	8,000
							Low 3-23-33 "Air Hostess"	2,500
Keith's	2,000	15c-35c	"Reform Girl" (Tower) (6 days)	6,300	"Soldiers of the Storm" (Col.) (6 days)	6,500	High 1-30-32 "Arrowsmith"	27,000
							Low 3-23-33 "Jungle Bride"	6,000
Stanley	3,700	40c-55c	"Today We Live" (MGM) (6 days)	12,000	"A Bedtime Story" (Para.) (6 days)	11,500	High 12-19 "Frankenstein"	31,000
							Low 7-25 "Rebound"	8,000
Stanton	1,700	30c-55c	"The Woman Accused" (Para.) (6 days)	7,000	"Picture Snatcher" (W. B.) (6 days)	8,000	High 3-21 "Last Parade"	16,500
							Low 3-23-33 "Cohens and Kellys in Trouble"	5,500
Portland, Ore.
Broadway	1,912	25c-40c	"The Barbarian" (MGM)	6,100	"Central Airport" (F. N.)	5,700	High 1-10 "Min and Bill"	21,000
							Low 10-1-32 "The Crash"	2,800
Liberty	1,800	15c-25c	"Face in the Sky" (Fox)	1,900	"Hello, Everybody" (Para.)	1,800	.....
Music Box	1,600	15c-35c	"No More Orchids" (Col.)	1,600	"Men Are Such Fools" (Radio)	1,900	.....
Oriental	2,040	25c-35c	"42nd Street" (W. B.) (4th week)	5,000	"42nd Street" (W. B.) (3rd week)	5,000	.....
RKO Orpheum	1,700	25c-55c	"Kiss Before the Mirror" (U.)	4,000	"Out All Night" (U.)	6,000	Low 5-14-33 "Kiss Before the Mirror"	4,000
							Low 3-17-33 "Great Jasper"	4,000
United Artists	945	25c-40c	"Today We Live" (MGM) (2nd week-6 days)	4,000	"Today We Live" (MGM) (1st week)	5,700	High 1-10 "Hell's Angels"	12,500
							Low 3-10-33 "Madame Butterfly"	1,600
San Francisco
Fox	4,600	10c-35c	"Obey the Law" (Col.) and "11th Commandment" (Allied)	10,000	"Unholy Love" (Allied) and "High Gear" (Hollywood)	9,300	High 1-3 "Lightning"	70,000
							Low 5-5-33 "Unholy Love" and "High Gear"	9,300
Golden Gate	2,800	25c-65c	"Sweepings" (Radio)	15,500	"Out All Night" (U.)	13,500	High 2-9-33 "The Mummy"	25,500
							Low 6-11-32 "Lena Rivers"	7,000
Paramount	2,670	25c-75c	"Rasputin and the Empress" (MGM)	17,000	"A Bedtime Story" (Para.)	16,500	High 1-9-32 "The Champ"	35,600
							Low 3-31-33 "The King's Vacation"	9,500
St. Francis	1,435	25c-50c	"Bondage" (Fox) and "Sailor Be Good" (Radio)	6,000	"She Done Him Wrong" (Para.) and "Employees' Entrance" (F.N.)	12,000	.....
United Artists	1,200	25c-50c	"Be Mine Tonight" (U.) (4th week)	10,500	"Be Mine Tonight" (U.) (3rd week)	10,300	.....
Warfield	2,700	35c-90c	"Picture Snatcher" (W. B.)	18,000	"Today We Live" (MGM)	16,000	High 3-14 "Parlor, Bedroom and Bath"	28,000
							Low 4-6-33 "Grand Slam"	12,000
Seattle
Blue Mouse	950	25c-50c	"King Kong" (Radio) (2nd week)	3,250	"King Kong" (Radio) (1st week)	5,500	.....
Fifth Avenue	2,750	25c-55c	"Rasputin and the Empress" (MGM)	8,000	"A Bedtime Story" (Para.)	7,000	High 7-30-32 "Million Dollar Legs"	18,500
							Low 3-18-33 "From Hell to Heaven" and "Secret of Madame Blanche"	5,000
Liberty	2,000	10c-25c	"Cowboy Counsellor" (Allied) and "Ra-Mu" (State Rights)	3,500	"Air Hostess" (Col.)	4,250	High 1-10 "The Lash"	11,500
							Low 11-11-32 "Amazon Head Hunters"	3,000
Music Box	950	25c-50c	"The Great Jasper" (Radio)	3,500	"King Kong" (Radio)	5,500	High 2-28 "City Lights"	14,000
							Low 11-25-32 "The Crooked Circle"	3,000
Paramount	3,050	25c-55c	"Hello, Sister" (Fox) and "Murders in the Zoo" (Para.)	5,500	"Looking Forward" (MGM)	6,500	High 1-10 "Paid"	18,000
							Low 4-15-33 "Clear All Wires" and "Broadway Bad"	4,500
Rex	1,500	15c-25c	"Man Hunt" (Radio)	2,250	"The Telegraph Trail" (W. B.)	2,500	.....
Roxy	2,275	25c-50c	"Rome Express" (U.)	6,000	"So This Is Africa" (Col.)	7,500	.....
Washington
Columbia	1,232	25c-40c	"After the Ball" (Fox)	2,300	"Bondage" (Fox)	2,250	.....
Earle	2,323	25c-66c	"The Working Man" (W. B.)	22,000	"Central Airport" (F. N.)	19,000	.....
Fox	3,434	25c-66c	"The Barbarian" (MGM)	23,250	"Zoo in Budapest" (Fox)	20,000	.....
Loew's Palace	2,363	35c-55c	"Today We Live" (MGM)	15,500	"Cavalcade" (Fox)	17,000	.....
Metropolitan	1,600	25c-55c	"Picture Snatcher" (W. B.)	6,000	"A Bedtime Story" (Para.) (2nd week)	4,500	.....
Rialto	1,900	25c-55c	"Out All Night" (U.) (2nd week)	4,000	"Out All Night" (U.) (1st week)	9,000	.....
RKO Keith's	1,832	25c-55c	"Diplomaniacs" (Radio)	8,500	"World Gone Mad" (Majestic) (4 days)	2,500	.....
					"Below the Sea" (Col.) (3 days)	2,000

"RKO . . . IS TO BE DOUBLY COMMENDED FOR DOING IT SO WELL . . . IT DESERVES TO WIN A FEW PULITZER PRIZES ITSELF"

John S. Cohen, Jr. . . . N. Y. Sun

Irene DUNNE . . . IN

No picture in months has won such unstinted praise as this moving drama that finds understanding in every woman's heart. Audiences at Radio City Music Hall, where it played to one of the biggest weeks since that house opened, broke into frequent spontaneous applause at its dramatic and searching lines and situations. "It's a woman's picture," said the Daily Mirror while the World-Telegram joined the paean of praise with "Marvelously done . . . something that deserves your immediate attention."

"THE SILVER CORD"

WITH JOEL McCREA

FRANCES DEE ERIC LINDEN

LAURA HOPE CREWS

Based upon the play by SIDNEY HOWARD as produced by The Theatre Guild, Inc. Directed by JOHN CROMWELL . . . A Pandro S. Berman Production . . . Merian C. Cooper, Executive Producer.

RKO Radio PICTURES

JENKINS' COLYUM

Wisconsin Rapids, Wis.

DEAR HERALD:

We brung 'em rain, just as we always do. It has been raining almost constantly for four days and is still at it. Last Sunday night at midnight the trout season opened up here and we heard O. V. Kelly of the Badger theatre at Reedsburg arranging with a fellow to be out on the trout creek promptly at midnight. Now, O. V. is a lawabiding citizen, but we will betcha he turned his watch ahead and had a hook with an angleworm on it in that creek ten seconds before the stroke of midnight.

If Mr. Terry Ramsaye were here we will bet he'd be out on that creek right now with a can of angleworms, rain or no rain, but we have to work, doggone it anyhow. Last night we saw in a window here a German brown trout that weighed exactly 5¼ pounds that was caught yesterday near here by a boy. Oh, Elmer, bring us some smelling salts.

Yesterday we called on L. J. Berkitt of the Classic theatre at Sparta. The first time we met Mr. Berkitt he was operating a theatre at Morrison, Illinois. They were having a band convention in Sparta and there were twenty bands there from surrounding towns and the town looked like a beehive at swarming time. Mr. Berkitt is about the best posted man on what ails this industry of any man we have met in some time. A little of his excellent judgment out at the production head might help a whole lot.

▽

Charlie Thrasher of the Opera House at Green Lake is the same old Charlie Thrasher we met six years ago. Charlie is a HERALD fan and he has a stack of HERALDS in his home that would sink a tugboat. Charlie also has a refrigerator in his house and he won't let you drink any water. He says water was only calculated for boiling potatoes in and running under bridges and for bullfrogs and turtles to bathe in. We always have a good visit with him. He's 100 per cent plus.

Mr. and Mrs. Eckert still run both theatres here in Wisconsin Rapids. Last night they were playing "Cavalcade," a most excellent picture, to very good business in spite of rain. Pa and Ma Eckert are delightful folks and the kind of people who have helped to make this the greatest nation on earth. No law, except the law of kindness, is necessary with such people as these. We hope to find many more like them.

▽

An open letter to Mrs. Hal Brent Wallis (Louise Fazenda) of Hollywood:

Dear Mrs. Wallis:

A few days ago the Chicago Tribune carried a picture of you and His Honor, Hal Brent Wallis Jr., who was said to be sixteen days old at that time. Congratulations, Mrs. Wallis, we are pleased to know that there are some mothers in Hollywood, and we'll bet that Pa Wallis thinks that Hal Brent Junior is about the only REAL baby on earth and we surmise that Ma Wallis holds to that same opinion.

Being an expert on the subject of raising babies, we might suggest that you feed him plenty of fresh cow's milk to build up his physical condition and keep a copy of the HERALD lying by his crib at all times as a means of building his mental condition, but don't let him read this Colyum. No, sir, don't you do it, and don't feed him boiled cabbage or garlic. It might be well to occasionally put your arm around his neck and feed him an ice cream cone as you did the writer when we were out there four years ago; that won't hurt him a bit. Again congratulations, and please hurry and get back on the screen; we all want you.

▽

Ashland, Wis.

J. P. Adler operates a chain of theatres out of Marshfield, including the Relda theatre of that city. Mr. Adler says he hasn't noted any improvement in business as yet but believes that any change will have to be for the better, as it can't be for the worse.

Chippewa Falls impressed us as being a right snappy town. The Wisconsin Electric Power Co. has one of the largest electric power plants there is in the state, and this plant furnishes electric power for practically all of central and northern Wisconsin. Mr. N. A. Anderson operates the Rivoli theatre, is a director in a bank and a wholesaler of Wisconsin's 3.2 per cent prosperity. Mr. Anderson's contention is that poor pictures are responsible for poor business. We have heard that same idea advanced by several other well informed exhibitors; in fact, we agree with it ourself, which ought to make it conclusive.

▽

Smith Brothers operate the Orpheum at Menomonie. They are not the Smith boys who wear the whiskers, and they don't make cough drops, but they do make whoopee at the Orpheum for the customers at Menomonie. In point of service they are about the oldest theatre operators in Wisconsin, the youngest brother having started in the business when he was 14 years old and hasn't missed a day since, except on two occasions, once when he had the mumps and once when he went on his honeymoon. The older brother never had the mumps and we don't know about the honeymoon, but we do know that they are both real theatremen.

J. G. Heywood of the Gem theatre at New Richmond says he met us some years ago at Minneapolis. At that time he was selling some kind of a sound device. J. G. has three or four other theatres, one being at Stanley, which is operated by our old friend, Tom Foster, and by-the-way, we had a delightful visit with Tom and Mrs. Foster just as we always do when we go to Stanley.

▽

Mrs. Zimmerman, who operates the ZimZim theatre at Cumberland, declares we were there and sold her the HERALD four years ago. We couldn't remember that we had ever been in the town before. Now don't it just beat all what memories some ladies have? We had a girl once who remembered that we had promised her that we'd quit smoking and we didn't do it, so she gave us the run-a-round

We went into a cafe the other day and the waitress came over to us and said, "How do you do, Mr. Williams," and we said, "Whaja mean, Mr. Williams?" and she replied "Why, aren't you Mr. Williams from Peoria, Illinois?" and we said, "Genevieve, this is a case of mistaken identity, we are not Mr. Williams, and please don't charge us with being from Peoria. We've got plenty to answer for without hanging that onto us. Our ancestors came from old Thermopylae and settled among the vine-clad rocks and citron groves of Cyracilla. Our early life ran as quiet as the brook by which we sported. In other words, we are a second John the Baptist, preaching in the wilderness —as it were—and we bring you glad tidings of good cheer. And, now, if you will go and bring us some ham and eggs we'll tell you the rest of it." She went over to the head waitress and said, "Say, there's an old gink over there that has got pigeons in his belfry."

▽

We had our first visit with Nick Grengs of the Palace theatre at Spooner. Spooner is right in the heart of the trout country but we only stopped long enough to visit with Nick (and we had our trout rig right out in our car, too). Darn this having to work all the time; it's giving an acid flavor to our angelic disposition. Nick is a hard worker, but he lets his two boys do most of the work. Nick says he never goes trout fishing. Somebody ought to examine that boy's head. Ashland is the coldest spot in the United States on May 6th, 1933 at ten a. m.

COLONEL J. C. JENKINS,
The HERALD's Vagabond Colyumnist

Details Steps In Paramount Crisis; Fox Developments

The creation of the Film Production Corporation as a subsidiary of Paramount-Publix in March, 1932, to take over the obligations of Paramount-Publix and establish new credit when the company was facing a financial crisis, was described Monday by Ralph A. Kohn, Paramount treasurer, at a creditors' meeting before Federal Referee Henry K. Davis in New York. At the time loans to Paramount amounting to $9,600,000 were maturing, and, except for some of the smaller loans which were paid, the obligations were absorbed under an agreement whereby the subsidiary took over title to 23 film negatives and was authorized to issue promisory notes which the banks agreed to purchase up to the amount of $15,000,000. Paramount was given distribution rights to the films and from these receipts was to pay Film Productions $300,000 weekly until the bank obligations had been liquidated.

The meeting was adjourned to late this week, at which time Mr. Kohn may testify further. Creditors' action concerning leases and proposed settlements of claims was deferred until the next meeting, Friday, when a trustee to succeed Louis J. Horowitz will be elected. On June 1 another meeting will decide authorization for meetings without notice.

Robert H. Cochrane, Universal executive vice president, is understood to have declined a trustee post. Mr. Cochrane, on Wednesday, would not say the offer had been made. "Even if it had," he said, "it could not be reconciled with my duties at Universal."

Reported under discussion is a shift in the trusteeship from three to one.

The intricate, inter-company financing by which Paramount-Publix carried on its program of theatre acquisition over a 10-year period was described late last week at a creditors' meeting before Referee Davis. The Publix Corp. inter-company accounting system which kept the company solvent when subsidiaries suffered reverses was described at a meeting Wednesday.

In the taking of testimony, which lasted five hours, it was discovered that transactions boosted the capitalization of Publix Enterprises from an original $2,000,000 to $14,000,000 at the time of the theatre subsidiary's bankruptcy.

A petition of involuntary bankruptcy was filed in Wilmington this week against Statewide Theatres, a Delaware corporation operating in Wisconsin, an alleged bankrupt. The suit was filed in U. S. District Court by Fox Film, Wesco and Fox-Wisconsin Corp., creditors. Fox alleged Statewide owes them $1,200 in film rentals; Wesco charges debts on a note for $24,500 and Fox-Wisconsin alleges it loaned the defendant $700, still unpaid. The plaintiffs allege Statewide committed an act of bankruptcy in April when it favored one creditor above others in paying $5,331 while in an insolvent condition to the M. L. A. Investment Co., also a creditor.

A stay halting trial of an involuntary receivership suit brought by Charles M. Fox against Publix Theatres Corp., was sought last week by counsel for the defendant in New York.

On Monday in Kansas City attorneys for M. B. Shanberg and Herbert M. Woolf announced that they will begin their fight in a few days in federal district court to have the Fox Midland Theatre Co. receiver discharged.

Suit was filed in Trenton, N. J., chancery court last week against Fox New England by the New York Trust Co. and Boyd G. Curts, trustee of a $18,060,000 first mortgage, charging default in payments.

PICTURES WITH MUSIC

(Continued from page 10)

headed by Mannie Goldstein. Included are the foregoing musicals.

LESSER, SOL

"Thunder Over Mexico," to be released late in 1932-33, containing musical interludes and orchestration throughout. Musical settings by Hugo Riesenfeld. Scoring by Abe Meyer.

Sol Lesser and his friend, Upton Sinclair, tendered a reception recently to welcome Hugo Riesenfeld to Hollywood. At the Roosevelt Hotel, Mr. Lesser explained that the reason for the trip was to have Mr. Riesenfeld prepare the musical settings for "Thunder Over Mexico," which Mr. Lesser has purchased from Serge Eisenstein, who is now in Russia. He said he intends to cut from 104,000 feet of film, a feature length production of "road show" proportions, and to present it under the Lesser banner, either through a large distributor or independently. The premiere will be staged shortly in Los Angeles.

MAJESTIC

"Sing, Sinner, Sing," to be released in June, with musical interludes and a song or two. Director, Christy Cabanne. Featured, Leila Hyams, Paul Lukas. From a story by Edward P. Loew.

MASTER ART PRODUCTIONS

"Melody Makers," a group of single-reel musicals. Currently released, once every four weeks.

Master Art will, next season, expand considerably its musical activities in short subjects. The new line-up, for 1933-34, will embrace 52 subjects, all containing music in some form, and including:

"Melody Makers," 13 one-reel musicals. Jimmy McHugh and Dorothy Fields will write the music.

"Organlogues," 26 one-reelers, all music. One subject for fall release will headline Nick Lucas.

"Puzzlegraphs," 13 one-reel subjects in which music will form the background.

METRO-GOLDWYN-MAYER

"Barbarian," released May 12, showing currently. Musical background and song, "Song of the Nile," sung by Ramon Novarro. Director, Sam Wood. Musical score by Herbert Stothart. Orchestra conducted by Oscar Radin. Screen play and dialogue by Anita Loos and Elmer Harris, from the original story by Edgar Selwyn. Cast, besides Mr. Novarro: Myrna Loy, Reginald Denny, Louise Closser Hale.

"Dancing Lady," starring Joan Crawford. Now in preparation for current season's release. Numerous songs and music throughout. Lyrics and music by Nacio Herb Brown and Arthur Freed. Director, Robert Z. Leonard. Lead, Robert Montgomery.

"Devil's Brother," adapted from the opera, "Fra Diavolo," released May 5, now booking. Music from the original opera. Dennis King sings. Produced and directed by Hal Roach. Starring Laurel and Hardy. Associate producer, Charles Rogers. Cast also includes Thelma Todd, Arthur Pierson.

"Peg o' My Heart," released May 26, with songs, music, dances. Based on the play by J. Hartley Manners. Director, Robert Z. Leonard. Music by Herbert Stothart. Screen play by Frank R. Adams, adapted by Frances Marion. Dances by Le Roy Prinz. "Sweetheart Darling" is the principal song. Cast, Marion Davies. Onslow Stevens, J. Farrell MacDonald, Juliette Compton, Irene Brown, Tyrrell Davis, Alan Mowbray, Dirus Lloyd, Billy Devan.

"Reunion in Vienna," released June 16, now running pre-release run on Broadway. Musical sequences throughout in story of old Vienna. Music by William Axt. Screen play by Ernest Vajda, Claudine West. Directed and supervised by Sidney Franklin. Cast: John Barrymore, Diana Wynyard, Frank Morgan, Henry Travers, Una Merkel, May Robson, Bodil Rosing.

"Strange Rhapsody," now nearing completion for July 7 release. Musical interludes, probably no songs. Music by Dr. William Axt and Gus Kahn. Production by Lucien Hubbard, from an original by Alexander Hunyadi. Cast headed by Kay Francis, Nils Asther.

The company is laying the foundation with the six productions mentioned above for an important series of musicals, and of pictures with musical sequences, which will be continued in the 1933-34 season. In addition to current and feature musical releases, there are on Metro's 1932-33 schedule a number of short subjects with songs and music. These include:

Colortone Musical Revues, six two-reel all-musical song and dance numbers, released one every other month. Technicolor throughout, featuring Broadway headliners. Current releases are "Hollywood Premiere," "Menu," "Over the Counter," "Wild People." Ted Healy will star in the next.

Fitzpatrick's Traveltalks, a series of 13 in one-reel each, released one every four weeks. Like Fox's "Magic Carpets," these subjects have musical background throughout.

"Flip, the Frog," 12 one-reel cartoons, with music, released monthly.

In addition, other Metro short subject series, including Roach's "Our Gang," have musical interludes.

J. J. Robbin Music Publishing Company is the principal Metro tieup on songs.

Already, Metro has launched preparations for musical representation in 1933-34. Bradford Ropes, author of Warner's "42nd Street," was recently hurried to Hollywood to turn out a musical. Composers signed for other features include Arthur Freed, Al Goodhart, Charles Maxwell. Nelson Eddy, young baritone who has been a featured soloist with the New York and Philadelphia Symphony orchestras, has been signed to act and sing in Metro pictures. He is due at Culver City in August.

Musical features, or those partially musical, now in preparation for 1933-34, include:

"Cat and the Fiddle," all-musical with songs and dances from the original stage musical by Jerome Kern, Otto Harbach. Ramon Novarro and Janet MacDonald will star, for release next season.

"Hollywood Party (or Revue) of 1933," to be produced, possibly in color, by Harry Rapf. Directors, Edmund Goulding, Alexander Leftwich, a New York musical comedy stage producer. An all-musical song and dance revue. Dances by the Albertina Rasch girls. Already cast are Joan Crawford and Jean Harlowe. The entire music department at Culver City will contribute the music and lyrics, including numbers by Richard Rodgers and Larry Hart, Herbert Fields, Nacio Herb Brown, Gus Kahn and Arthur Freed. Mr. Goulding left New York for the coast last Monday, accompanied by Albertina Rasch, whose dancers will depart next week-end.

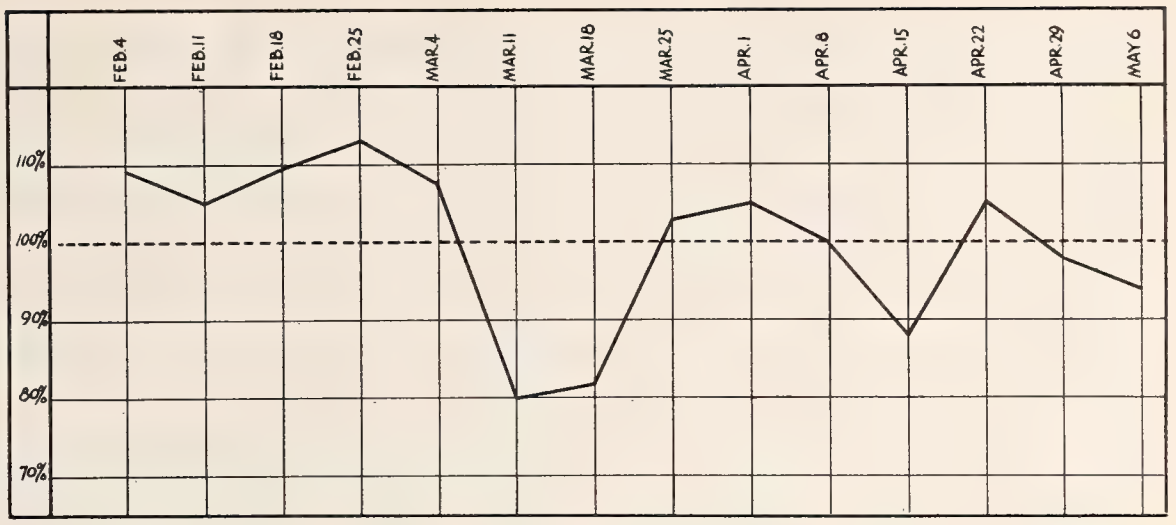
"I Married An Angel," another musical for 1933-34, will contain music and lyrics written by Richard Rodgers and Larry Hart. From the Hungarian play by John Vaszary. Metro's Ross Hart will write the screen book. In preparation.

"Merry-Widow," from the famous old operetta. This will be one of the important musical releases next season.

"Prisoner of Zenda," made as a silent, will have songs and music. Starring Janet MacDonald and Nelson Eddy.

Untitled Jack Pearl and Jimmy Durante, now preparing. Also starring Mickey Mouse. David O. Selznick will produce. This feature will be done in a manner similar to Jack Pearl's "Baron Munchausen" radio character and will be "a fantastic comedy with music throughout."

Untitled Ed Wynn all-musical feature is on the 1933-34 schedule, but no definite plans for production have been completed.



Untitled Lew Brown and Ray Henderson all-musical. They were recently signed by Metro to write the song and lyrics for a musical photoplay to be produced for next season.

Untitled original musical which, according to announcement, will be written by Bradford Ropes, who authored Warner's "42nd Street."

While other musical features for 1933-34 release will undoubtedly come along as the season progresses, the company will concentrate for the present on the preceding nine. In addition, the short subject lineup is expected to remain about the same as this season. From the standpoint of musicals, it will include the following groups:

Colortone Musical Revues, two-reel all-musical. Song and dance numbers throughout. Probably six in the new group, for release one every other month. Featuring musical comedy and studio headliners.

Fitzpatrick's Traveltalks, series of 13, released one every four weeks. Musical background, travel subjects.

The above chart, based on Motion Picture Herald's tabulation of box office grosses, shows the relative fluctuations in receipts in twelve key cities for a fourteen-week period since the beginning of February, 1933. The hundred percent line represents the average weekly gross in the twelve cities. These cities are Boston, Chicago, Cleveland, Hollywood, Kansas City, Los Angeles, Minneapolis, New York, Oklahoma City, Omaha, Portland and San Francisco.

"Flip, the Frog," 12 one-reel cartoons with orchestrations and an occasional dubbed song, released monthly.

Whether or not Hal Roach—Metro's principal short subject producer—will make any musical reels next season depends upon the success of "The Devil's Brother," light opera, which is released currently, starring Laurel and Hardy.

MONOGRAM

W. Ray Johnston's company has no feature musicals scheduled and only one will be made in 1933-34:

"Wine, Woman and Song," containing music and songs throughout.

PARAMOUNT

"Bedtime Story," released April 21, now booking. Typical Chevalier musical comedy, with Maurice singing "M'sieu Baby," "In the Park in Paree," "Look What I've Got" and "Homema de Heaven." Director, Norman Taurog. Cast, Helen Twelvetrees, Edward Everett Horton, Adrienne Ames, Earle Foxe. Music and lyrics by Ralph Rainger, Leo Robbin. Adapted from Roy Horniman's novel, by Benjamin Glazer. Baby Le Roy is featured with Chevalier.

"Big Broadcast," Kate Smith musical, was released late last year, but still is playing. Bing Crosby sings, too, while other musical numbers are rendered by the Boswell Sisters, Stuart Erwin, Mills Brothers, Cab Calloway, Vincent Lopez, Burns and Allen, Arthur Tracy, Don Novis. Based on the play, "Wild Waves," by William F. Manley. Screen play by George Marion, Jr. Music by Ralph Rainger. Lyrics by Leo Robbin. All musical-comedy drama.

"College Humor," released June 30; one of the few Paramount musicals with chorus routines. Songs sung by radio and motion picture headliners, including Bing Crosby, Richard Arlen (who sings in pictures for the first time), Jack Oakie, Mary Carlisle, Donald Kerr, Burns and Allen, Mary Kornman, Lona Andre, Joe Sauers and the "Ox Road Co-Eds." Featured songs are "Learn to Croon," "Moonstruck," "Down the Old Ox-Road," "My Alma Mater," "Play Ball." Supervised by William Le Baron. Directed by Wesley Ruggles. Screen play by Claude Binyon, Frank Butler, from a story by Dean Fales. Music and lyrics by Sam Coslow, Arthur Johnston. Dance director, Harold Hecht.

"International House," released June 2, with songs, dances and music throughout. Cast, Peggy Hopkins Joyce, W. C. Fields, Rudy Vallee, Stuart Erwin, Burns and Allen, Sari Maritza, Stoopnagle and Budd, Cab Calloway and orchestra, Baby Rose Marie, Bela Lugosi, Sterling Halloway, Lona Andre, Franklin Pangborn, Edmund Breese, 50 "International Beauties" and "The Girls in Cellophane." Music and lyrics by Ralph Rainger, Leo Robbin. Dance director, Harold Hecht. Songs and dance tunes: "My Bluebird Is Singing the Blues," "Thank Heaven for You," which features Vallee, "The China Teacup," "The Coffee Mug." Supervised by Al Lewis, directed by Edward Sutherland. Lou Heifetz and Neil Brand wrote the story, adapted by Francis Martin, Walter DeLeon.

"She Done Him Wrong," released February 1, now booking. Starring Mae West. Directed by Lowell Sherman. Screen play by Harvey Thew, John Bright. Cast, Cary Grant, Gilbert Roland, Noah Beery.

With these five in the feature musical field during the current season, Paramount earlier in the year set up an extensive program of shorts in which music plays an important part. In this group, for 1932-33 release, are:

"Betty Boop," 18 one-reel cartoons with dubbed songs and music, done by Max Fleischer.

Paramount Headlines, 13 all-musicals, one-reel, released once every four weeks. Current releases star Burns and Allen, Tom Howard, Vincent Lopez.

Screen Songs, 18 single-reel subjects featuring popular numbers sung by headline radio and stage songsters, including Boswell Sisters, Lillian Roth, Mills Brothers, Ethel Merman and others.

Sennett two-reel comedies included about six musicals, featuring Crosby, Novis, Howard. In addition, occasional songs and music are contained in some "Hollywood on Parade" subjects, likewise in the "Screen Souvenirs."

Songs in Paramount features are published by Famous Music Corp., a subsidiary.

Paramount will participate prominently in the 1933-34 musical movement, having already definitely scheduled at least eight, also. Tentatively, the company has lined up six musical shorts starring Bing Crosby. On the list so far for 1933-34, are the following features:

"Cloudy, with Showers," purchased last week for 1933-34. Jack Oakie, Burns and Allen, Mari Colman and Elizabeth Young will appear in the Thomas Mitchell play. Mr. Mitchell is preparing to go west to adapt it. Bing Crosby will sing.

"Every Man for Himself," with Bing Crosby, Jack Oakie, Harry Green, Skeets Gallagher.

"Her Bodyguard," with musical interludes, will star Edmund Lowe and Wynne Gibson.

"Song of Songs," originally scheduled for this season, will be released in 1933-34. Marlene Dietrich and Brian Aherne are featured. Miss Dietrich sings "Johnny." Other song numbers are included. Director, Rouben Mamoulian. Play by Edward Sheldon, screen story by Herman Suderman. Cast, Lionel Atwell, Alison Skipworth. Completed last week, now being edited.

"Too Much Harmony," a back stage story, which will have songs, dances and music throughout. Cast to date includes Jack Oakie, Skeets Gallagher, Harry Green. In preparation.

"Torch Singer," Claudette Colbert song vehicle, to be released in 1933-34.

"Way to Love," all-musical, starring Maurice Chevalier. Music by Johnny Green.

Untitled musical will be made next season by Charles R. Rogers, who produces independently for Paramount.

Headlining next season's short subject musicals will be the Bing Crosby group. Current short reel releases containing musicals will be included in the new lineup. Musical shorts scheduled for 1933-34 are:

Betty Boop, 18 one-reel cartoons with dubbed songs and music throughout. Max Fleischer produces.

Bing Crosby's six two-reelers are tentatively scheduled. Like his current Sennett shorts, they'll have song titles. "Please" and "Echo in the Valley" will be followed by "Learn to Croon" and "Moonstruck," both of which he sings in the feature, "College Humor."

Paramount Headliners, 13 all-musical songs, dances and band numbers, released once every four weeks and starring leading players and performers of radio and stage. First release in August.

Screen Songs, 18 one-reel numbers based on popular songs.

RADIO PICTURES

"Careless," part-musical, now in preparation, for release late this season. Ginger Rogers, who will star, is cast as a radio entertainer, singing at least one number, "Imaginary Sweetheart," written by Harry Akst, Edward Eliscu. Director, William Seiter.

"Diplomaniacs," all-musical, released May 12, currently booking. Starring Wheeler and Woolsey. Principal songs: "Sing to Me" and "No More War," written by Edward Eliscu and Harry Akst, who also wrote the music, which is played throughout by Gus Arnheim's band. Director, William Seiter. Story by J. L. Mankiewicz, screen play by Mr. Mankiewicz and Henry Meyers. Dance numbers staged by Larry Ceballos. Associate producer, Sam Jeffee. Musical director, Max Steiner. Cast, Marjorie White, Phyllis Barry, Louis Calhern, Hugh Herbert, Edgar Kennedy.

"Frivolous Sal," musical story about the "gay 90's," purchased last month for current season's release. Irene Dunne, singing star of Radio's studio, will be featured. Author, Norman Houston.

"King Kong," released April 7, and now booking. Contains musical interludes. Produced by Merian C. Cooper, Ernest B. Schoedsack. Featuring Fay Wray, Robert Armstrong, Bruce Cabot. Screen play by James Creelman, Ruth Rose, from an idea conceived by Mr. Cooper and Edgar Wallace. Music director, Max Steiner. Cast, Frank Reicher, Sam Hardy, Noble Johnson. Song: "March."

"Melody Cruise," formerly titled "Maiden Voyage," all-musical, released June 2. Chorus routines. Produced by Lou Brock. Director, Mark Sandrich. Cast, Charlie Ruggles, Phil Harris, Greta Nissen, Helen Mack, Chick Chandler, Marjorie Gateson, Florence Roberts, June Brewster, Shirley Chambers. Songs include: "Isn't This a Night for Love," "He's Not the Marrying Kind," "This Is the Hour," all written by Will Jason, Val Burton. Music by Jason and Burton. Original story and screen play by Ben Holmes and Mark Sandrich. Dialogue by P. J. Wolfson, Allen Rivkin. Associate producer, Louis Brock. Musical director, Max Steiner.

"Professional Sweetheart" (temporary title), now in preparation, with songs and music. Starring Ginger Rogers, who will sing: "My Imaginary Sweetheart." Cast, Norman Foster, Zasu Pitts, Frank McHugh, Allen Jenkins, Gregory Ratoff, Edgar Kennedy. Producer, H. N. Swanson. Director, William Seiter. Original story and screen play by Maurice Watkins. Music director, Max Steiner. Songs and lyric by Edward Eliscu, Harry Akst.

There were no all-musicals on the company's 1932-33 short subject series, except novelties, with musical backgrounds, including:

Aesop's Fables, 26 single reel, orchestrations throughout, released one every two weeks. Music by Gene Rodemich.

Tom and Jerry comedies, 13 one-reelers, released once every four weeks with occasional songs and musical interludes.

"So This Is Harris," a three-reel musical, starring Phil Harris, released March 28, now booking. Director, Mark Sandrich, Supervisor, Lou Brock. Song: "It Happened to Me," by Will Jason and Val Burton. Story by Mark Sandrich and Ben Holmes. Music by Jason and Burton. Cast, Walter Catlett, Helen Collins, June Brewster, James Finlayson.

Radio Pictures, because of its important relationship with NBC, both of which are RCA affiliates, is in an enviable position at all times to obtain valuable publicity for any musical numbers which it might feature in motion pictures, by air "plugs" over the nationwide NBC radio system.

Although Witmark and Sons, a Warner subsidiary, occasionally publishes special RKO songs, most of the numbers featured in the company's releases are published under a tieup with the Sam Fox Company. Last week Max Steiner, RKO's musical director, concluded negotiations whereby the Fox interests will publish all of Mr. Steiner's compositions up to a hundred, for a period of one year.

Four musical features are being prepared for 1933-34, including:

"Flying Down to Rio," the music for which will be written by Vincent Youmans. He was due in Hollywood this week to start work. The company says that "Flying Down to Rio" will be the first "air-musical," the action taking place aboard a huge airliner. Production will be in charge of Lou Brock, who plans to take a director, writer, a few composers, cameraman and others on an air trip to Rio De Janiero within two weeks.

"Troubadour" will probably be the subject of an all-musical starring Francis Lederer and Irene Dunne, for 1933-34. Clemence Dane is now writing the story and lyrics.

Untitled Wheeler and Woolsey musical. There may be two starring this comedy team next season. The first will probably be based on their current trip around the world.

Untitled musical, the story for which Ann Caldwell is now preparing. Lou Brock submitted the idea for the yarn. He will produce.

No definite plans have been made with regard to next season's short subjects. There will be, however, two series with music, continuing identical groups of this season, as follows:

AESOPS FABLES, 26 single reel novelties, released every other week, with orchestrations throughout. Music by Gene Rodemich.

TOM AND JERRY comedies, 13 one-reelers, released once every four weeks. Occasional songs and musical interludes.

UNITED ARTISTS

"HALLELUJAH, I'M A BUM," comedy drama with music and songs, sung by Al Jolson, written by Richard Rodgers, Lorenz Hart. Released February 3 and still showing. Directed by Lewis Milestone. Based on a story by Ben Hecht. Screen play by S. N. Behrman. Musical score by Alfred Newman. Cast: Madge Evans, Frank Morgan, Harry Langdon.

"KID FROM SPAIN," all-musical revue, starring Eddie Cantor, released early on November 17, 1932, still playing late runs. Story by William Anthony McGuire, Bert Kalmar and Harry Ruby. Music and lyrics by Bert Kalmar, Harry Ruby. Director, Leo McCarey. Dance numbers by Busby Berkeley. Musical director, Alfred Newman. Cast, Lyda Roberti, Robert Young, Ruth Hall.

"YES, MR. BROWN," all-musical, current release, starring Jack Buchanan, London's musical comedy player. Produced by British and Dominions, in London. Directed by Herbert Wilcox. Adapted from the German play, "Geschafte mit Amerika." Principal songs, written by Paul, Frank and Ludwig Hirschfeld: "Yes, Mr. Brown," "Leave a Little for Me," "If You Would Learn to Live." Records and sheet music will be used in merchandising. Cast, Hartley Power, Elsie Randolph, Margot Grahame, Vera Pearce, Clifford Heatherley. Story, dialogue and additional lyrics by Douglas Furber. Additional music by Paul Abraham.

"WHOOPEE," starring Eddie Cantor, released in 1930, will be reissued. All-musical revue.

Walt Disney's cartoons are the only short subjects distributed by United Artists. There are two groups, both musical:

"MICKEY MOUSE," one-reel musical cartoons, with occasional songs, dubbed.

"SILLY SYMPHONIES," one-reel musical cartoons, with occasional songs, dubbed.

United Artists' songs are usually published by Harms, Inc.

Highlighting next season's features will be an Eddie Cantor-Sam Goldwyn musical. No other plans for 1933-34 have been made, but it is likely that others of a musical nature will be distributed. The Cantor musical:

"ANDROCLES AND THE LION," an all-musical revue, now in preparation. Starring Eddie Cantor and produced by Samuel Goldwyn. The title will probably be changed. Original story by Robert S. Sherwood, George S. Kaufman. Background of Roman antiquity, done in a modern girl-and-music treatment.

Short subjects, with music, scheduled for 1933-34, are a continuation of the Walt Disney releases:

"MICKEY MOUSE," series of one-reel musical cartoons. Songs are frequently dubbed.

"SILLY SYMPHONIES," likewise musical cartoons and also containing occasionally dubbed songs.

UNIVERSAL

"BE MINE TONIGHT," musical comedy, produced in London by Gaumont-British. Released April 15. Songs: "Tell Me Tonight" and "Things I Do, I Do for You." Music and lyrics by Mischa Spoliansky. Director, Anatol Litwak. Story by I. V. Cube and A. Joseph. Adapted by John Otron. Additional lyrics by Frank Eyton. Cast, Jan Kiepura, Magda Schneider.

"KING OF JAZZ," all-musical revue, first released on April 1, 1930, will be reissued on June 1 for current season. Re-edited and re-cut; formerly in 9½ reels, now in 6. All of the old comedy blackouts were eliminated and new ones substituted. Produced by Carl Laemmle, Jr. Staged by John Murray Anderson. Featuring: Paul Whiteman and band, John Boles, Bing Crosby, Jeanie Lang, the Rhythm Boys, Grace Hayes, Jeanette Loff, Stanley Smith, Slim Summerville, Laura La Plante, Glenn Tryon, Kathryn Crawford, Merna Kennedy, Russell Markert Dancers, Brox Sisters and a dozen other radio, stage and vaudeville headliners. In Technicolor. Music and lyrics by George Gershwin, Mabel Wayne, Billy Rose, Milton Ager, Jack Yellen. New prints are being made available. Numerous songs, including: "It Happened in Monterey," "Song of the Dawn," "A Bench in the Park," "My Bridal Veil," "The Melting Pot," "The Rhapsody in Blue." Musical score by Ferde Grofe.

"ORCHID LADIES," formerly titled "Lillies of Broadway," musical now in preparation, for release late this season. Music and lyrics by Harry Sauber, Lynn Cowan. Starring June Knight. Musical comedy, written by William Herbert. Director, E. A. DuPont. Producer, Sam Jacobson.

Universal has only one musical feature definitely scheduled for 1933-34:

"IN THE MONEY," in which Lew Ayres will sing and play the banjo. Director, Murray Roth. Story by Mr. Roth and Howard Emmett Rogers. Support headed by Ginger Rogers, who will sing, too. Now in preparation.

In the short subject division, the company will continue to distribute the three series with musicals which are being marketed currently. In addition, there will be the first musical serial. The new group includes:

"ADVENTURES OF ANN," 10-episode serial of two reels each, with music throughout. Mystery story. Stories are now being prepared.

OSWALD CARTOONS, 26 one-reel cartoons, released every other week, containing music and an occasional song.

POOCH CARTOONS, 26 one-reel cartoons, released every second week. Music throughout.

RADIO STAR REELS. The company will continue its present series, again making 26, for release in 1933-34, and starring radio and stage headliners.

"SHOOTING THE WORKS," production on which starts in New Yark May 24. Producers, William Rowland, Monte Brice. Dances by Bobby Connelly. Directors, Monte Brice. Karl Freund. Featuring Leo Carrillo, Mary Brian. Story by Art Jarrett and Mr. Brice. Adapted by Paul Gangelin, Sig Herzig. All-musical comedy.

Several series of Universal's 1932-33 short subject releases contain music, some songs, including:

OSWALD CARTOONS, 26 one-reel cartoons with music and occasional song.

POOCH CARTOONS, 26 one-reel cartoons with music and occasional song, released once every two weeks.

RADIO STAR REELS, 26 two-reel musicals featuring radio, stage and screen headliners, released every other week. In the current group are featured Vincent Lopez, Morton Downey, Paul Whiteman.

WARNER BROTHERS

"FORTY SECOND STREET," released March 11. Directed by Lloyd Bacon. Based on the novel by Bradford Ropes. Dances by Busby Berkeley. Screen play by Rian James and James Seymour. Music and lyrics by Al Dubin, Harry Warren. Principal songs: "Forty Second Street," "Shuffling Off to Buffalo," "Young and Healthy," "You're Getting To Be a Habit with Me," All-musical revue with back stage story. Available for exploitation are records, sheet music and the like. Cast, Warner Baxter, Bebe Daniels, George Brent, Una Merkel, Ruby Keeler, Guy Kibbe, Ned Sparks, Dick Powell, Ginger Rogers, Allen Jenkins, Henry B. Walthall, Edward J. Nugent, Harry Akst, Clarence Nordstrom, Robert E. McWade, George E. Stone, Al Dubin, Harry Warren.

"GOLD DIGGERS OF 1933," released June 1. All-musical comedy and revue. Songs: "Gold Diggers Song," "Shadow Waltz," "I've Gotta Sing a Torch Song," "Remember My Forgotten Man," "Pettin' in the Park." Music and lyrics by Harry Warren, Al Dubin. Dance numbers of Busby Berkeley. Supervised by Raymond Griffith. Director, Mervyn Le Roy. Cast: Ruby Keeler, Joan Blondell, Warren William, Dick Powell, Aline MacMahon, Guy Kibbee, Ginger Rogers, Ned Sparks, Glenda Farrell. Changed from a First National to a Warner Brothers release.

Vitaphone—the Warner short subject subsidiary—produces more musical shorts than any other company. The 1932-33 lineup includes:

BROADWAY BREVITIES, 26 two-reel all-musical revues, released one every two weeks, six in color. Headliners starred include: Ruth Etting, Mitzi Mayfair, Hal Le Roy, Russ Colombo, Phil Baker, Ethel Waters, Hugh O'Connel, Polly Walters, Harry Warren. Producer, Sam Sax.

LOONEY TUNES, 13 single reel cartoons with musical backgrounds and occasional song, released once every four weeks.

MELODY MASTERS, 13 two-reel band numbers, released once every fourth week, starring Vincent Lopez, Dave Apollon, Guatemala Marimba Band, Claude Hopkins, Jack Denny, Small's, Roger Wolf Kahn, Paul Whiteman, Abe Lyman, Jean Sargent, Fred Waring, Noble Sissle.

"MERRY MELODIES," 13 single reel song cartoons, released once every four weeks. Based on popular songs, done in cartoon style.

PEPPER POTS, 26, released every second week, featuring stage and radio headliners in various song, dance, revue or musical stories. Six of the group, called "Rambling 'Round Radio Row," present brief acts, with bands.

A departure from the usual method of film-writing was established last month at Brooklyn Vitaphone studio, over which Sam Sax presides. Instead of functioning as one group, the scenario staff has been separated into two distinct departments—one to write the comedy and novelty pictures, the other to concentrate exclusively on musical shorts. In charge of the music reels will be Al Wood, Cyrus Wood, Cliff Hess, Dorian Otvos. On the comedy-novelty subjects will work Jack Henley, Glend Lambert, Ray McCary.

Mr. Sax signed 14 Broadway chorus girls, to be known as the "Vitaphone Beauty Chorus," who will appear in all Warner musical shorts.

Practically all of Warners' music is published by its subsidiary, the Witmark Company. Remick publishes some of the Warner-First National numbers, including the "Gold Diggers" group.

Musical activities planned for 1932-33 include:

"FOOTLIGHT PARADE," all-musical revue, which Sheridan Gibney is adapting from the original story by Mark Canfield. Mr. Gibney will also write the dialogue. The story is based on the life of a chorus girl, with dance numbers to be staged by Busby Berkeley. Director, Lloyd Bacon. A call for chorus girls has already been issued. Practically every important player at the Warner-First National studio will appear. Music by Walter Donaldson.

"PROLOGUE," all-musical being prepared by Harry Warren and Al Dubin, who will write the music and lyrics. Musical director, Leo Forbstein. Additional music by Melville Crossman. Based on a story by Melville Crossman. Adaptation and dialogue by James Seymour and Manny Seff.

Short subjects scheduled with music for 1933-34 will represent a continuation of several series released this season, and including:

BROADWAY BREVITIES, 26 two-reel all-musical revues, released every other week. Six will be done in Technicolor.

LOONEY TUNES, 12 one-reel cartoons, with musical backgrounds throughout and an occasional song. Released every fourth week.

MELODY MASTERS, 13 two-reel band numbers, starring headline stage orchestras. Released once every four weeks.

MERRY MELODIES, 13 one-reel song cartoons, based on popular numbers. Released every four weeks.

PEPPER POTS, 26 two-reel subjects, released every second week, and featuring stage and radio headliners.

NEWS PICTURES

FOX MOVIETONE NEWS—No. 67—Broker's Tip wins Kentucky Derby—West Point cadets welcome spring—Christians re-enact Arab defeat—Foreign statemen continue to call on Roosevelt—Greet Hitler aide in Rhineland—Kidnappers return girl and ransom at Narwich, Mass.

FOX MOVIETONE NEWS—No. 68—Foreign capitals celebrate May Day—Germany places hope in America—93,000 Britons see football classic—Jackie Coogan now college boy at Santa Clara, Cal.—Colored girls baptised at Memphis.

HEARST METROTONE NEWS—No. 266—Germans unite in demonstration—New Yorkers march as protest against Hitler—Planes in smoke screen tests at Fairfield, Ohio—First lady envoy sails for Denmark—Fire sweeps Ellsworth, Me.

HEARST METROTONE NEWS—No. 267—Troopers in workout at Fort Sill, Okla.—Kaiser's grandson to wed commoner—Sharkey and Carnera sign for bout—Speed boats in marathon from Albany to New York—New bonus army invades Capital—Preakness goes to Head Play—World's fair gets finishing touches.

PARAMOUNT NEWS—No. 81—100,000 New Yorkers march in Hitler protest—Lindy takes witness stand in Washington—Fire destroys homes at Ellsworth, Me.—Mrs. Pinchot joins child workers protest at Allentown, Pa.—Army planes in demonstration at March Field, Cal.—Jimmy Walker and bride interviewed at Vichy, France—Disabled soldiers make "poppies" at Sawtelle, Cal.

PARAMOUNT NEWS—No. 82—Belgium's ruler honored—Repeal gains momentum in New York—Government shelters bonus army—Heavyweight boxers in training; Sharkey signs to meet Carnera—Head Play wins Preakness classic—Indians dance on Grand Canyon's rim.

PATHE NEWS—No. 82—Roosevelt reports to nation—Public gives opinion on Roosevelt plan—Schacht calls America first in war and peace—Kidnap trials arouse United States—Orphans show how they saved train at Passaic, N. J.—Kentucky Derby won by Broker's Tip.

PATHE NEWS—No. 83—Ellsworth, Me., swept by fire—Royal Scot tours United States—Tornado strikes at Dayton, O.—Lindy at Washington trial—Woman envoy meets notables in New York—Bridge to Venice, Italy, opened—New York protests against Hitler—News flashes.

UNIVERSAL NEWSPAPER NEWSREEL—No. 144—New bonus army marches to Washington—Work on World's Fair speeded in Chicago—New York Jews in Hitler protest—Tornado hits Dayton, O.—Lindy appears at trial in Washington—Daring builders defy death at Niagara Falls—Fishermen manhandle sharks at Wellington, New Zealand—New army bombing planes in tests at Patterson Field, O.—Riot threat brings out Vienna army—French communists in May Day demonstration.

UNIVERSAL NEWSPAPER NEWSREEL—No. 145—Tornado kills 50 in Ohio—Cyclone strikes at Beaty Swamps, Tenn.—Gymnasts thrill crowds in Vienna—New rocket explodes on Staten Island, N. Y.—Students riot at Columbia University—Hopi tribes in weird rituals in Grand Canyon—Man seeks "buried alive" title at Denville, N. J.—Bears perform for dinner at St. Louis, Mo.—United States hospitality amazes "vets."

Leases Eastern Paramount Plant

Eastern Service Studio, Inc., finally took over the former Paramount studio at Astoria, L. I., last week, where 22 feature pictures will be made during the coming season. Six productions are already set. Eastern will not produce or have any interest in productions made at the plant, Capt. George McL. Barnes, who is in charge, said. Producers leasing space there include Universal-Rowland Brice, Guild Pictures and Krimsky-Cochrane's Film Choice.

Eastern took over the studios on a lease from the Seneca Holding Co., owners of the property. The lease is for one year with options for renewal.

ON BROADWAY

Week of May 13

CAPITOL

An Old Spanish Custom . . . MGM

MAYFAIR

Hear 'Em and Weep . . . . . Columbia
Temple of Heaven . . . . . Syndicate
The Lumber Champ . . . . . Universal

PARAMOUNT

Paramount Pictor—No. 11 . . Paramount
See You Tonight . . . . . Paramount

RIALTO

Aggravatin' Bear . . . . . Paramount
Roadhouse Queen . . . . . Paramount
Screen Souvenirs—No. 9 . . . Paramount

RKO MUSIC HALL

Broadway . . . . . Fox
In the Raw . . . . . RKO Radio

RKO ROXY

The Poor Fish . . . . . Columbia

WHEN THEY "NEED IT YESTERDAY" Ship via Air Express

▲ Air Express is fast—second morning delivery from Los Angeles to New York—overnight from New York to Chicago and proportionately prompt service between 85 principal cities linked by the major air lines of the country. These air routes are supplemented by fast rail connections with over 23,000 other points served by Railway Express.

▲ Special and news shots, new films, spare parts to meet emergencies—all travel fast and safely over this nation-wide network of air and rail lines. Pick-up and delivery service, available in leading cities, means that a single phone call to the nearest Railway Express Agent is all that's needed in most cases to start a shipment on its way and make sure it is delivered in the shortest possible time.

▲ The new reduced rates make it more economical than ever to save time by placing every rush job in the hands of Air Express.

AIR EXPRESS
VIA RAILWAY EXPRESS AGENCY

AIR EXPRESS
Division · Railway Express Agency, Inc.

TRAVELERS . . .

KARL FREUND arrived in New York from Hollywood to co-direct musical for Universal.
ALFRED E. GREEN, Warner director, is in New York from coast.
ALINE MACMAHON, Warner player, is in New York.
L. J. SCHLAIFER, Universal sales manager, returned to New York from Hollywood.
GEORGE ARLISS is en route to England.
FRANK ROGERS, of Sparks Enterprise, Florida, is in New York.
BORIS KARLOFF and JEAN HERSHOLT arrived in New York from Europe.
JOHN FORD, director, is in New York from Hollywood.
WORTHINGTON MINOR, New York stage director, arrived at Radio's studio to direct his first picture.
HENRY GINSBERG, general manager of Roach studio, returned to the coast after arranging new releasing contract with MGM.
LOUIS B. MAYER is en route to Honolulu for vacation, from Culver City.
PAUL ROBESON arrived in New York from Europe to play in "Emperor Jones" for Film Choice.
NATE BLUMBERG, Orpheum operator in middle west, is in New York.
AL GREEN is in New York.
EDDIE CANTOR left New York for Hollywood by way of Panama Canal.
MAX ROTH, new Columbia midwest division manager, arrived in Kansas City.
JOSEPH I. SCHNITZER, president of Jefferson Pictures, is in New York.
ROY DAVIDSON, Columbia technical director, is in New York shooting exteriors for his next.
SIDNEY SNOW is in New York editing "Cougar, the King Killer."
HARRY BUXBAUM left New York for Bermuda.
JOE ROCK is in New York.
ANN HARDING returned to Hollywood from Cuba.
MARTIN BECK arrived in New York from Europe.
TOM BAILEY and BILL PINE, in charge of publicity and advertising respectively, at Paramount studios, arrived in New York from the coast.
HOWARD SMITH, story editor for new Zanuck-Schenck company, left New York for Hollywood.
JEAN MUIR, recently signed by Warners, sailed for California.
RICHARD BARTHELMESS arrived in New York from Hollywood via the Grace steamer Santa Elena.
RUTH CHATTERTON and GEORGE BRENT returned to Paris after several weeks in Spain.
HARRY COHN, LEWIS MILESTONE and LAURENCE STALLINGS, Columbia officials, will sail for Europe May 25 and will probably visit Russia for story material.
J. S. HUMMEL, assistant foreign manager for Warner, left Europe for New York.
DALE VAN EVERY, Universal scenario editor, is in New York.
PAT GARYN returned to New York from Florida.
JAMES DUNN arrived in New York from Hollywood for personal appearances.
ALBERT L. WARNER, GRADWELL SEARS, ANDREW W. SMITH and S. CHARLES EINFELD, Warner officials, left New York for the coast to discuss production with JACK L. WARNER.
MARSHALL NEILAN is in Florida directing "Chloe" for Aubrey Kennedy Productions.
JOHN D. CLARK, Fox official, arrived in New York from Movietone City this week.

Marx Brothers' Father Dies

Samuel Marx, 72, father of the Four Marx Brothers, comedians, who died last week in Hollywood, after a long period of ill health, was buried in New York this week.

WHAT THE PICTURE DID FOR ME

IN this, the exhibitor's own department, the theatremen of the nation serve one another with information on the box office performance of product for their mutual benefit. It is a service of the exhibitor for the exhibitor. Address all communications to—

What the Picture Did for Me
MOTION PICTURE HERALD
1790 Broadway, New York

Allied

A PARISIAN ROMANCE: Lew Cody, Marion Shilling—Come on, fellows, line up; we are in for a game of tag the way they play it in gay Paree. Can you imagine Lew Cody, with sleek hair and a few stray hairs for a mustache, as God's gift to women knocks Paris gaga, the damsel knocker whom women tagged after and to whom servants were eager to display attentive tactics? Well, it's all shown in this first class, dressed up, mediocre edition taken on a main thoroughfare and then branded as done in true Parisian atmosphere in one of the slowest, laziest film sequences ever released by this independent concern since its establishment. It's a game of tag from start to finish between Lew Cody and Marion Shilling, who seems to be it all the way. If it's all the same, we would like a game of puss in the corner for a change. If this is the producer's interpretation of romance in Paris I would sooner book passage to China. A story of Paris is usually a gay, racy and spicy composition, but this film is an exceedingly poor contribution, that isn't even equivalent to a snail's pace. As for the characters, if Cody can play a French man about town to near perfection, I would take the sheet off my bed, shave my head and play Mahatma Ghandi. If you intend to play this you will find yourself playing tag to keep yourself occupied. We did, and all had a wonderful time. Yeh, all the ushers. I still can see the Eifel Tower with thumbs down. A waste of money, regardless of what price you pay for it. Allied made gravest mistake of its entire existence. We only give credit where credit is due. Played May 4. Running time, 74 minutes.—William Dabb, Lyric Theatre, Shenandoah, Pa. General small town patronage.

Columbia

AIR HOSTESS: Evalyn Knapp, James Murray—The first time this year I have had to turn people away. Drew exceptionally good business and pleased all of them. Some said that it did not follow the book very closely, but they said "swell show" and that is what we want nowadays.—Harold Smith, Dreamland Theatre, Carson, Iowa. Rural patronage.

THE BIG TIMER: Ben Lyon, Constance Cummings—A dandy audience picture that will hit the target most any place. Real acting, a keen, interesting plot, well directed, good sound and photography. A little old, but it has a lot of the big new releases skinned a mile for entertainment. It's clean.—Ned Pedigo, DeLuxe Theatre, Garber, Okla. General patronage.

BITTER TEA OF GENERAL YEN: Barbara Stanwyck, Nils Asther—Not a small town picture. Did not draw for me nor please the ones that came.—Harold Smith, Dreamland Theatre, Carson, Iowa. Rural patronage.

BITTER TEA OF GENERAL YEN: Barbara Stanwyck, Nils Asther—It is very evident that they don't want Chinese pictures from the business done on this one. The picture is well produced and both Stanwyck and Asther are fine in the roles that they have but, as I have said of other pictures, the low wages and restricted income that is rife in the small towns just won't let even good pictures gross what they would in good times.—A. E. Hancock, Columbia Theatre, Columbia City, Ind. Small town patronage.

CHILD OF MANHATTAN: Nancy Carroll, John Boles—An appealing story, marred in the telling by unnecessary vulgarities that made the roughnecks guffaw, but "made the judicious grieve" (Shakespeare), and which did not help the picture or the prestige of the theatre. Played May 2-3.—Roy W. Adams, Mason Theatre, Mason, Michigan. Small town patronage.

MAN AGAINST WOMAN: Jack Holt—Good action picture with good entertainment. Satisfactory.—M. W. Mattecheck, Lark Theatre, McMinnville, Ore. Local patronage.

NO MORE ORCHIDS: Carole Lombard—A good program picture but hard to sell. No star value. Played May 1.—M. W. Mattecheck, Lark Theatre, McMinnville, Ore. Local patronage.

ONE MAN LAW: Buck Jones—Very good show. My patrons eat up the Westerns.—Harold Smith, Dreamland Theatre, Carson, Iowa. Rural patronage.

SHOPWORN: Barbara Stanwyck—Another one a little ancient, but, say fellows, it's a real picture and should be picked up and shown. You will be pleased; so will the patrons. It has the stuff swell pictures are made of.—Ned Pedigo, DeLuxe Theatre, Garber, Okla. General patronage.

SO THIS IS AFRICA: Bert Wheeler, Robert Woolsey, Raquel Torres—This is the hottest picture that we have ever run that got past the censors but the picture is more money in the midweek than anything that we have run for some time, with the single exception of "The Big Cage." It is a bald, ribald farce, and only goes to show that the more risque they are the better chance to make money. Not a Sunday show if your town is finicky. Five years ago a show of this kind would have been closed in this town, which goes to show that the public has changed in the last five years. They could have eliminated the ape woman making love to Woolsey and have an ugly human and it would have helped it. This is the really only objectionable feature to the picture.—A. E. Hancock, Columbia Theatre, Columbia City, Ind. Small town patronage.

SO THIS IS AFRICA: Wheeler and Woolsey—As box office pull this one beats them all. It got lots of publicity just as I was showing it, as the papers had several accounts of an exhibitor being in jail in Mississippi for having shown it. There is no doubt about this being the best and funniest that Wheeler and Woolsey have ever made, but on the other hand there is no doubt but what it is the wildest and wooliest picture that has ever been made. I held my breath on the first showing. I've never heard such roars of laughter. They simply ate it up, and never before have I known of as much mouth-to-mouth advertising. Each showing drew a larger crowd. If you can get away with pictures like this it will make you plenty of money as Columbia certainly treated us right on prices. Don't bar the children. To do so would increase your receipts, of course, but the children will enjoy this as much as the grown-ups, and children under twelve could not be hurt by it. I am for clean pictures and this one is far from clean, but since I have seen that this type is what the majority want I cannot condemn the picture. I see now why this one was uncensored. If it had been there would not have been enough left to show. Played Apr. 30-May 1.—Edith M. Fordyce, Princess Theatre, Selma, La. General patronage.

SUNDOWN RIDER: Buck Jones—A mighty good Western. Lots of action. Sound good. Story interesting. Buck Jones always pleases in Westerns. Played Apr. 29.—Bert Silver, Silver Family Theatre, Greenville, Mich. Town and country patronage.

WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND: Lee Tracy—Very good political story which did just fair business here. I can't get them interested in a political type of story. This is a good show of its kind and if your patrons like this type it should do some business.—Harold Smith, Dreamland Theatre, Carson, Iowa. Rural patronage.

WHITE EAGLE: Buck Jones—A good Western with Buck as a white Indian. Pleased the usual Western fans on Saturday. I wonder if I have the only town in the world that still goes for Westerns? They are my only sure bet. Played Ap. 28-29.—Joe Hewitt, Lincoln Theatre, Robinson, Ill. Small town patronage.

First National

BLONDIE JOHNSON: Joan Blondell, Chester Morris—Just a fair picture, not up to the Warner standard. Pleased about fifty per cent. Played Apr. 29-30.—Gladys E. McArdle, Owl Theatre, Lebanon, Kans. Small town patronage.

CABIN IN THE COTTON: Richard Barthelmess, Bette Davis—A very good picture and it did some extra business because we ran their trailer, which is very good. The picture gave Barthelmess a chance to do some good work and it pleased exceptionally well.—Mayme P. Musselman, Princess Theatre, Lincoln, Kansas. Small town patronage.

EMPLOYEES' ENTRANCE: Loretta Young, Warren William—I was out of town on these dates so did not see this one. It pleased but the drawing power was only average. Played Apr. 23-24.—Edith M. Fordyce, Princess Theatre, Selma, La. General patronage.

EMPLOYEES' ENTRANCE: Loretta Young, Warren William—One would judge from some of my reports that I was working for Warner Bros., but the fact of the matter is that we have had so many good pictures from this company this year that I want to tell the boys about them. They have had one hit right after another. In fact, I have not had a poor picture from them this year. "Employees' Entrance" is a mighty fine picture, but for some reason it did not draw an average business. I think the title is bad for the small town. Those who saw it were well pleased. Take it from me, this is a swell picture and you can tell your patrons I said so. That ought to be enough to pull them out.—S. H. Rich, Rich Theatre, Montpelier, Idaho. Town and country patronage.

FRISCO JENNY: Ruth Chatterton—This picture belongs in the big league class. Ruth Chatterton does splendid work. But it did not seem to click—maybe it was the fault of the trailer showing Ruth Chatterton in prison, forlorn and hopeless before she was to be hung. Maybe the sad ending did not please. The picture did not draw in keeping with the bigness of the production.—J. E. Stocker, Myrtle Theatre, Detroit, Mich. Neighborhood patronage.

LIFE BEGINS: Loretta Young, Eric Linden—Good and certainly there isn't another picture like it. Just keep the kids out and curiosity will get you business. Women will get more out of it than men, but you'll hear from both sides and if it makes you money you should run it.—Mayme P. Musselman, Princess Theatre, Lincoln, Kansas. Small town patronage.

YOU SAID A MOUTHFUL: Joe E. Brown—It got some extra business but there weren't many laughs until they started the marathon swim. Joe gets quite a gang out though and I guess I can't register much of a complaint.—Mayme P. Musselman, Princess Theatre, Lincoln, Kansas. Small town patronage.

YOU SAID A MOUTHFUL: Joe E. Brown—Plenty of laughs, a good show for any place. Joe Brown has personality and is an actor, you tell 'em.—Ned Pedigo, DeLuxe Theatre, Garber, Okla. General patronage.

Fox

AFTER THE BALL: Esther Ralston, Basil Rathbone—This should be titled "After the Bawl," because that's just what every poor exhibitor will do after playing this. One of Fox's substitutions that's awful. Played May 2-3.—Joe Hewitt, Lincoln Theatre, Robinson, Ill. Mixed patronage.

BAD GIRL: James Dunn, Sally Eilers—Played this rather old, but it was new to us, and as good as any theatre needs in every respect. Good for the whole family. Unfortunately, too many whole families failed to see it. In other words, the picture was there but the patrons were elsewhere. But Fox Films contributed one of the best and we are proud of having shown it. Played Mar. 24.—Peter Bylsma, Victory Theatre, Napoleonville, La. Small town patronage.

CAVALCADE: Diana Wynyard, Clive Brook—I consider this one of the best pictures ever made. But it looks like another "Grand Hotel" in the small towns. We barely took in film rental on this one. Had it well advertised, too. My advice is to lay off of it unless you can yet out your better class of patrons. We failed to do even average business with it. If you do buy it, don't pay big money for it. Played May 3-4.—L. A. Mercier, Electric Theatre, Perryville, Mo. Small town patronage.

CAVALCADE: Clive Brook, Diana Wynyard—Hailed as the picture of the generation. Entire cast composed of English actors. Should be grand entertainment over in England, but in the good old U. S. A., just another picture. Backed by tremendous advertising, it may go over in the big spots. In smaller localities I can't see anything for it but a complete flop. A few of the high brows thought it wonderful, but more people walked out of my theatre before the picture was finished than on any picture in five years. God pity the poor exhibitor without perfect talking equipment, for the English lingo will drive his patrons crazy. They won't be able to understand half of it. Business no better than on average program pictures. Played Apr. 27-28. Running time, 105 minutes.—R. W. Hickman, Lyric Theatre, Greenville, Ill. General small town patronage.

CONGORILLA: Only an average crowd out, but picture proved interesting and capably handled. Played Apr. 22.—C. W. Mills, Arcade Thetare, Sodus, N. Y. Mixed patronage.

DANGEROUSLY YOURS: Warner Baxter, Miriam Jordan—A good program picture. Both stars good. Story interesting but very hard to understand. Played Apr. 27-28.—Bert Silver, Silver Family Theatre, Greenville, Mich. Town and country patronage.

DANGEROUSLY YOURS: Warner Baxter, Miriam

Jordan—Good picture. We ran this during our anniversary week and it surely pleased. Some of the boys say Fox are not as good as they used to be, but I have found their pictures satisfactory. In fact, all companies are producing better pictures this year.—S. H. Rich, Rich Theatre, Montpelier, Idaho. Town and country patronage.

THE FACE IN THE SKY: Spencer Tracy, Marion Nixon, Stuart Erwin—Good. It might not get you any extra business but it won't make you any enemies. Tracy is good and Marian Nixon is capable; consequently you have a good program picture.—Mayme P. Musselman, Princess Theatre, Lincoln, Kansas. Small town patronage.

THE FACE IN THE SKY: Spencer Tracy, Marian Nixon, Stuart Erwin—Entertaining comedy drama of the hard-boiled sign painter and the farmer's daughter. Pleased. Played Apr. 28-29.—P. G. Estee, S. T. Theatre, Parker, S. D. Small town patronage.

HANDLE WITH CARE: James Dunn, Boots Mallory—A good family picture, hard to sell, but if you can get them in to see it they will all like it. The ending is some different from the usual clinch.—Mayme P. Musselman, Princess Theatre, Lincoln, Kansas. Small town patronage.

HANDLE WITH CARE: James Dunn, Boots Mallory—One of the sweetest little pictures ever shown anywhere. The picture, players and patrons combined to make this an enjoyable occasion for all concerned. More pictures like this would "bring 'em back alive" or bring us back to life. Played Apr. 28.—Peter Bylsma, Victory Theatre, Napoleonville, La. Small town patronage.

HELLO SISTER: James Dunn, Boots Mallory—Shame on you, Fox Film. I see no good reason for releasing a picture of this kind. Even Zasu Pitts lost her good standing with her following. There are a number of situations and many remarks in this film that are downright vulgar, and so needless. I can stand a lot of smut, but suggestive scenes such as are shown in this picture are uncalled for. Boots Mallory is surely a sweet little star and has the sympathy of the audience all the way through. James Dunn also is good. The trouble is with the forced situations and several remarks. They even had to have Miss Pitts fall in the sewer to create more dirt. I am no lily myself but this stuff gets under my hide. The guy that wrote the story never got out of the sewer.—S. H. Rich, Rich Theatre, Montpelier, Idaho. Town and country patronage.

HOT PEPPER: Victor McLaglen, Edmund Lowe, Lupe Velez, El Brendel—This one is named right and it is HOT for country towns. The acting by the stars was good, the story very good, but too rough for country audience, and this kind of picture is inviting local investigation by people that have always "fit" the moving picture show. If they ever get local censure on pictures in towns this size it will be too bad. Try and run a theatre. Played Apr. 30, May 1.—Bert Silver, Silver Family Theatre, Greenville, Mich. Town and country patronage.

HOT PEPPER: Victor McLaglen, Edmund Lowe—This bird, McLaglen, to my female patrons, is just like hanging up a small-pox sign . . . and I can't blame them . . . too much filth and dirt . . . guess Fox wants censorship. Played Apr. 13.—Joe Hewitt, Lincoln Theatre, Robinson, Ill. Mixed patronage.

HOT PEPPER: Edmund Lowe, Victor McLaglen, Lupe Velez—It's not so "hot," but plenty of wise cracks, such as these two fellows can make. It's not a picture for the "family circle." Personally did not like it, but the audience seemed to like it fairly well. Had some say it was dandy, others did not care for it. Played Apr. 27-28.—D. E. Fitton, Lyric Theatre, Harrison, Ark. Small town patronage.

HUMANITY: Boots Mallory, James Dunn, Ralph Morgan—First of all let me congratulate this swell little star, Boots Mallory. She is perfect in this picture, and the whole cast is also good. The story is A-1. Photography good and sound fair. The picture will please 90 per cent and you will have many good comments from your patrons. You tell 'em I said it's a good show.—S. H. Rich, Rich Theatre, Montpelier, Idaho. Town and country patronage.

INFERNAL MACHINE: Chester Morris, Genevieve Tobin, Victor Jory—Just another picture. It seems a waste of time when they make pictures like this. It failed to please our customers.—L. A. Mercier, Electric Theatre, Perryville, Mo. Small town patronage.

PLEASURE CRUISE: Genevieve Tobin—The Astors may have had a lot of fun on this "Pleasure Cruise," but it was sure a pain in the neck for the cash customers. Slow and draggy, and no entertainment to it. Just a poor program picture. Played Apr. 19. Running time, 75 minutes.—R. W. Hickman, Lyric Theatre, Greenville, Ill. General small town patronage.

ROBBER'S ROOST: George O'Brien—Here's that Western that I was wanting to get some extra business. Did they come in? Some I had never seen, some old customers that I'd thought gone for good, and a lot of the regulars. It's been running in a farm weekly as a serial story and all I had to do was put it on my calendar. Run it and get yourself some biz.—Mayme P. Musselman, Princess Theatre, Lincoln, Kansas. Small town patronage.

ROBBER'S ROOST: George O'Brien—Splendid Western. I advertised this as a Zane Grey story and used heralds, which I seldom do on Westerns. The result was a nice business out of this one. This is the only type of Western that gets them in any

ONE LITTLE WORD— AND TYPOGRAPHY

Typography, what errors are committed in thy name. From J. M. Ensor, of the Crescent theatre, of Little Rock, Ark., has come a justified murmur, asking why he was credited in the May 6 issue, with reference to Universal's "Back Street," with the words: "Can't say much for it." In reality, says Mr. Ensor, and we agree, he said: "Can't say too much for it." What a vast difference one little word may make. With words to the typographer, we ask Mr. Ensor to forgive.

more. Played Apr. 27-28.—Edith M. Fordyce, Princess Theatre, Selma, La. General patronage.

STATE FAIR: Will Rogers, Janet Gaynor, Norman Foster, Sally Eilers, Lew Ayres—One of the best pictures of this or any other year. If you are looking for a picture that will really draw them in and please them after they are in, here is the picture. We had three days of very good business and not one complaint. Plenty of horses, chickens and hogs will get them in for me or any other small town. Played Mar. 27-28-29.—Mayme P. Musselman, Princess Theatre, Lincoln Kansas. Small town patronage.

WILD GIRL: Joan Bennett, Charles Farrell—I played this in December during the flu epidemic and a bad sleet storm to a $6.75 house the first night and no show at all the second. Got it back on this date. I think I reported on it the first time. Good Saturday picture. Drawing power only fair. Played Apr. 29.—Edith M. Fordyce, Princess Theatre, Selma, La. General patronage.

MGM

CLEAR ALL WIRES: Lee Tracy—I did not see this but reports were that it was a good picture. It drew fairly well the first night and was rained out the second. Tracy is popular here. Played Apr. 20-21.—Edith M. Fordyce, Princess Theatre, Selma, La. General patronage.

DOWNSTAIRS: John Gilbert, Virginia Bruce—I put this one on bargain night and was sure glad that I did. Very poor picture. Did not have one comment on it.—Harold Smith, Dreamland Theatre, Carson, Iowa. Rural patronage.

FAST WORKERS: John Gilbert, Mae Clarke, Robert Armstrong—No excuse for this one. Just another picture. Gilbert is miscast as a devil-may-care steel worker. Failed to please our audience.—L. A. Mercier, Electric Theatre, Perryville, Mo. Small town patronage.

THE MASK OF FU MANCHU: Boris Karloff—This picture did not give satisfaction. More people walked out on it than any picture we have played in months. I don't think anything more horrible was ever made. That is what our patrons told us and they are the ones that keep us going. Played May 4-5.—Bert Silver, Silver Family Theatre, Greenville, Mich. Town and country patronage.

THE MASK OF FU MANCHU: Boris Karloff—A dud for me. Poor entertainment. Played Apr. 12-13.—M. W. Mattecheck, Lark Theatre, McMinnville, Ore. Local patronage.

MEN MUST FIGHT: Diana Wynyard, Lewis Stone—I think this is the best entertainment MGM have delivered this year. Not a special, but above the average. Acting perfect, story entertaining, action and some comedy relief. Miss Wynyard is splendid but her voice does not reproduce as well as the others. Played May 2-3.—D. E. Fitton, Lyric Theatre, Harrison, Ark. Small town patronage.

MEN MUST FIGHT: Diana Wynyard, Phillips Holmes—We made the mistake of playing this before we played "Cavalcade." Or perhaps I should say from our experience play this and do not play "Cavalcade" if you have to pay through the nose as we did. "Men Must Fight" is above the ordinary picture and the acting is very good. It is a high type picture, and if you can get out your better class patrons they will enjoy it. Played May 1.—L. A. Mercier, Electric Theatre, Perryville, Mo. Small town patronage.

MEN MUST FIGHT: Diana Wynyard, Phillips Holmes—The critics said this was not so hot, but we found this a very good show. We didn't do average business on this picture, but it wasn't the fault of the show. Think it will suit average small town audiences. Played Apr. 28-29. Running time, 72 minutes.—J. E. Tunstall, Nottawa Theatre, Blackstone, Va. Small town patronage.

PACK UP YOUR TROUBLES: Laurel and Hardy—So far the best picture. They are two great funsters that ever appeared. Don't fail to play it. You don't have to hide when the show is over.—Ned Pedigo, DeLuxe Theatre, Garber, Okla. General patronage.

PAYMENT DEFERRED: Charles Laughton—Played to average Sunday crowd with opinion divided. Splendid arting vs. gruesome plot; am afraid the majority was against. Played Apr. 30, May 1.—Elaine S. Furlong, Star Theatre, Heppner, Oregon. Small town patronage.

PROSPERITY: Marie Dressler, Polly Moran—A very good comedy, but greatly over estimated. Not half the laughs as "Pack Up Your Troubles." Marie is good but not the whole show. Too much publicity causes people to expect too much. It can be overdone, and certainly was with this one.—Ned Pedigo, DeLuxe Theatre, Garber, Okla. General patronage.

SMILIN' THROUGH: Norma Shearer, Fredric March, Leslie Howard—Wonderful picture. Pleased every one and drew good business.—Harold Smith, Dreamland Theatre, Carson, Iowa. Rural patronage.

WHAT, NO BEER: Jimmy Durante, Buster Keaton—Played Friday and Saturday and pleased.—J. J. Hoffmann, Plainview Theatre, Plainview, Neb. Small town patronage.

WHISTLING IN THE DARK: Ernest Truex, Una Merkel—The prize flop of the season at the box office. It was a splendid picture, but Truex is unknown in this locality and Merkel's name does not draw. I have lost money on my Metro contract so far, but it looks as though we may get some pictures to offset this a little later. Never get the idea that you have to depend on any one company to keep your theatre on a paying basis. Played Apr. 25-26.—Edith M. Fordyce, Princess Theatre, Selma, La. General patronage.

Monogram

JUNGLE BRIDE: Anita Page, Charles Starrett—I can't say good things for this one. The stars and whole cast worked hard to make this entertaining, but my patrons said it was a joke and did not like it. Played Apr. 29.—Bert Silver, Silver Family Theatre, Greenville, Mich. Town and country patronage.

MAN FROM ARIZONA: Rex Bell—A very good action picture of the Western type. Gave good satisfaction to a Saturday crowd.—Bert Silver, Silver Family Theatre, Greenville, Mich. Town and country patronage.

OLIVER TWIST: Dickie Moore, Bill Boyd, Irving Pichel—A good picture of its kind and follows the book pretty well, but no drawing power. Some adverse comments and some good ones. Played Apr. 29-30.—Hobart H. Gates, Garlock Theatre, Custer, S. D. Small town patronage.

Paramount

THE DEVIL IS DRIVING: Edmund Lowe, Wynne Gibson—Here is a picture that should please the old time Saturday night crowd. A story that gets away from the beaten track. It deals with the automobile stealing racket. A little short, 62 minutes, but there is something doing every minute. This should please any other day of the week as well as Saturday. Drawing power a good present day average.—J. E. Stocker, Myrtle Theatre, Detroit, Mich. Neighborhood patronage.

A FAREWELL TO ARMS: Gary Cooper, Helen Hayes—Very good picture and it drew average business. Comments were mostly favorable and you won't have to hide when they come out. Hayes gives a very creditable perfomance and Cooper stays put. I'd run it because it's worth a date.—Mayme P. Musselman, Princess Theatre, Lincoln, Kansas. Small town patronage.

HE LEARNED ABOUT WOMEN: Stuart Erwin, Alison Skipworth—We learned something about women, too, i. e., how many different ways they can register disapproval. I concluded if Stuart was dumb, I was very dumb. At least that was the inference I drew. Paramount ought to feel ashamed of this one. I was. Played Apr. 30.—Peter Bylsma, Victory Theatre, Napoleonville, La. Small town patronage.

HELLO EVERYBODY: Kate Smith—Here's a real picture for the small towns. This has everything in it: fine singing, comedy, pathos, romance, and all you would expect to make an A-1 picture. You can go the limit on this one if you are in a small town. The larger towns might not like it so well, but it's wonderful entertainment for the smaller ones.—Harold Smith, Dreamland Theatre, Carson, Iowa. Rural patronage.

HELLO EVERYBODY: Kate Smith—A clean picture that seemed to please, but a very poor attraction at the b. o. Just could not get them in. Played Apr. 16-17-18.—M. W. Mattecheck, Lark Theatre, McMinnville, Ore. Local patronage.

ISLAND OF LOST SOULS: Charles Laughton, Richard Arlen, Kathleen Burke—It's plenty tough and if you will advertise it that way and let them know they will get scared and thrilled with plenty of gruesome scenes and half-human beings, it isn't so hard to sell. Not for children and can be passed up but never missed. Played Mar. 30.—Mayme P. Musselman, Princess Theatre, Lincoln, Kansas. Small town patronage.

ISLAND OF LOST SOULS: Charles Laughton, Richard Arlen, Kathleen Burke—For something unusual, different, fascinating, and really entertaining this one is it. Our people liked it very much. It's out of the old rut, entirely impossible and improbable, yet real entertainment. Boost up the horrors of it and advise the nervous souls to stay at home.—Ned Pedigo, De Luxe Theatre, Garber, Okla. General patronage.

KING OF THE JUNGLE: Buster Crabee, Frances Dee—This makes a good family night, or Saturday picture in the small town. It's different from anything we have had to date, plenty of lions, circus, which makes for action. Crabee makes a good "Lion man." Played Apr. 25-26—D. E. Fitton, Lyric Theatre, Harison, Ark. General small town patronage.

LUXURY LINER: George Brent, Vivien Osborne—Nice program picture and seemed to please most of them. Not big but filled for one night. Running time, 70 minutes.—H. J. Longaker, Glenwood Theatre, Glenwood, Minn. General patronage.

MURDER IN THE ZOO: Lionell Atwell—This is wild and wooly and full of thrills. If your patrons like snakes, crocodiles, all kinds of wild animals and wholesale murder you should get by with it, but most likely you'll starve to death with it. Don't believe that it will please a living soul. Too bad they continue making this type of picture. Played Apr. 24-25. Running time, 72 minutes.—R. W. Hickman, Lyric Theatre, Greenville, Ill. General small town patronage.

MURDER IN THE ZOO: Charlie Ruggles, Lionel Atwell—Murder in the zoo—and murder at the box office. Why, oh why, do they think people will fall for this class of Diamond Dick stuff? and what an avalanche of crime and "moider" pictures we've had lately. Is it any wonder people are quitting the movies. Played Apr. 15—Joe Hewitt, Lincoln Theatre, Robinson, Ill. General patronage.

MYSTERIOUS RIDER: Kent Taylor, Lona Andre—Not as good as other Zane Grey's we have run, but it is O. K. for Saturday. Played Apr. 29.—D. E. Fitton, Lyric Theatre, Harrison, Ark. Small town patronage.

NIGHT AFTER NIGHT: George Raft, Constance Cummings—We enjoyed this picture much more than counting up the receipts, though we may be unreasonable in expecting more than seven dollars for anything. Can recommend the picture but not the gross. Just one of the many pictures with a double ending. Happy for the patrons, sad for the exhibitor. Played Apr. 4.—Peter Bylsma, Victory Theatre, Napoleonville, La. Small town patronage.

NIGHT AFTER NIGHT: George Raft, Constance Cummings—The comedy throughout this feature hit the right spot. Played May 5.—C. W. Mills, Arcade Theatre, Sodus, N. Y. Mixed patronage.

NO MAN OF HER OWN: Carole Lombard, Clark Gable—Wouldn't call this so good for youngsters, but pleased the adults. Better for the industry in general if they would stay farther away from the censor line. Their heroes all seem to have to live with one or more women before the "real one" comes along. Played Apr. 30-May 1.—P. G. Estee, S. T. Theatre, Parker, S. D. Small town patronage.

PICK-UP: Sylvia Sidney—Very good. Story is good. Acting is good and can you believe it, never once do they mention babies. Believe the "Hays Code" is taking effect. Played May 7.—J. J. Hoffmann, Plainview Theatre, Plainview, Neb. Small town patronage.

SHE DONE HIM WRONG: Mae West—Did not do the business I expected to. Just failed to click and cannot account for it. It should go big as it has plenty of entertainment. Played Apr. 23-25.—M. W. Mattecheck, Lark Theatre, McMinnville, Ore. Local patronage.

SIGN OF THE CROSS: Fredric March, Claudette Colbert—As big and spectacular as they claim. Drew extra business. Tragic ending sent the crowd out silent and sober. Played Apr. 23-24.—P. G. Estee, S. T. Theatre, Parker, S. D. Small town patronage.

STRICTLY PERSONAL: Marjorie Rambeau, Dorothy Jordon, Ed Quillan—One fine show and how those stars did their part. Let's have more of those home-like pictures with this same cast. It's a relief after some of the ritzy plots. Running time, 70 minutes.—H. J. Longaker, Glenwood Theatre, Glenwood, Minn. General patronage.

TROUBLE IN PARADISE: Kay Francis, Miriam Hopkins, Herbert Marshall—Too sophisticated for my town. The kind of people who would like this picture don't ever come to the show. It didn't do any more than average business, not quite that.—Mayme P. Musselman, Princess Theatre, Lincoln, Kansas. Small town patronage.

WILD HORSE MESA: Randolph Scott—A good Western, and it had a very good cast of capable actors. There is action, and the scenic shots were marvelous. Paramount can be counted on for good photography and sound.—Mayme P. Musselman, Princess Theatre, Lincoln, Kansas. Small town patronage.

WILD HORSE MESA: Randolph Scott—Usual crowd, but not the following that the same picture brought in when given as a silent. Played Apr. 29—C. W. Mills, Arcade Theatre, Sodus, N. Y. Mixed patronage.

THE WOMAN ACCUSED: Nancy Carroll, Cary Grant—Excellent. Here is a picture that will please almost everyone. Paramount has had a good line of pictures this year. It just goes to show that you don't have to spend a million to make a good picture.—S. H. Rich, Rich Theatre, Montoelier, Idaho. Town and rural patronage.

RKO

ANIMAL KINGDOM: Ann Harding, Leslie Howard—These people deserve a better story. Would judge it was liked by 50 per cent. Played Apr. 30-May 1.—D. E. Fitton, Lyric Theatre, Harrison, Ark. Small town patronage.

ANIMAL KINGDOM: Ann Harding, Leslie Howard Again Mr. Hays, will you please lamp this one. Besides being plenty "raw," it was too darned sophisticed for the common folks. Had record breaking business with (not on) this, but I had Roscoe Ates in person on the stage. Played Apr. 20-21.—Joe Hewitt, Lincoln Theatre, Robinson, Ill. Mixed patronage.

ANIMAL KINGDOM: Leslie Howard, Ann Harding, Myrna Loy—A whole lot of talk without getting anywhere. It sure was a dud for me. No action. No entertainment. Played Apr. 26-27-28.—M. W. Mattecheck, Lark Theatre, McMinnville, Ore. Local patronage.

A BILL OF DIVORCEMENT: John Barrymore, Katharine Hepburn, Billie Burke, David Manners—John for once lost that air of "the world is my oyster and the people in it are lobsters." While some may differ with me (someone always does) we think he showed to better advantage in this one than any he has appeared in for some time. Glad to see our friend Billie Burke again. Katharine Hepburn gives promise. Played Apr. 23-24.—Peter Bylsma, Victory Theatre, Napoleonville, La. Small town patronage.

BRING 'EM BACK ALIVE: Frank Buck—Even the star had an animal moniker. It was really good and so realistic, this exhibitor hunted up a blind tiger after the show. After which, went home and dreamed of watching a huge python battle one of my favorite cockroaches. It was a draw and I awoke very much refreshed and bucked up. Played Apr. 18-19.—Peter Bylsma, Victory Theatre, Napoleonville, La. Small town patronage.

THE CONQUERORS: Richard Dix, Ann Harding—If this is not an epic then I don't understand the word. No one had a criticism to make. It did not draw as well as expected, but we have had rain every day for over a month. Played Apr. 22-23. Running time, 85 minutes.—Hobart H. Gates, Garlock Theatre, Custer, S. D. Small town patronage.

THE HALF NAKED TRUTH: Lee Tracy—Speedy and clever comedy drama; drew fairly well and won many comments. Played Apr. 25-26.—Roy W. Adams, Mason Theatre, Mason, Michigan. Small town patronage.

LUCKY DEVILS: Bill Boyd, Dorothy Wilson—Good action drama. Pleased Friday and Saturday patrons. Played Apr. 21-22.—P. G. Estee, S. T. Theatre, Parker, S. D. Small town patronage.

LUCKY DEVILS: Bill Boyd—Good fast entertainment and good story. The rank and file will enjoy this one.—M. W. Mattecheck, Lark Theatre, McMinnville, Ore. Local patronage.

MEN OF AMERICA: Bill Boyd—A mighty good entertaining picture. Lots of action and comedy. As a program picture it will check up with any of them to satisfy this kind of patronage. Played Apr. 27-28.—Bert Silver, Silver Family Theatre, Greenville, Mich. Town and country patronage.

PAST OF MARY HOLMES: Helen MacKellar, Eric Linden—The small crowds that saw this picture praised it to the skies. Later remarks indicated that with the title "The Goose Woman" the picture would have drawn better. Played Apr. 25-27.—Elaine S. Furlong, Star Theatre, Heppner, Oregon. Small town patronage.

ROCKABYE: Constance Bennett, Joel McCrea, Paul Lukas—All my patrons liked this very much. Connie was good, Jobyna Howland just as good, Joel McCrea did well and Baby stole the show. I sometimes wish some baby would steal mine. But RKO has nothing to be ashamed of in this one. Played Apr. 9.—Peter Bylsma, Victory Theatre, Napoleonville, La. Small town patronage.

ROCKABYE: Constance Bennett, Joel McCrea, Paul Lukas—Another picture that makes the patrons wonder why they waste their money on the talkies. Had been censored but not nearly enough. I ran this on family night and whole families walked out. I didn't blame them. I would have walked out, too, if I could. Why such pictures? Played Apr. 26-27.—Gladys E. McArdle, Own Theatre, Lebanon, Kans. Small town patronage.

SAILOR BE GOOD: Jack Oakie, Vivienne Osborne—Fair.—R. V. Fletcher, Lyric Theatre, Hartington, Neb. General patronage.

TOPAZE: John Barrymore—Well produced and acted, but did not please. Poor title and hard to sell. Played Apr. 9-10-11.—M. W. Mattecheck, Lark Theatre, McMinnville, Ore. Local patronage.

Tower

DARING DAUGHTERS: Marian Marsh, Joan Marsh—A very good program picture. Interesting story. Stars very good. Part of the picture very hard to understand, but on the whole it gave satisfaction. Just a little too much booze and rough stuff to make it a really good picture. People have soured on this whoopee stuff and they have got to be clean and entertaining to satisfy nowadays.—Bert Silver, Silver Family Theatre, Greenville, Mich. Town and country patronage.

Universal

THE ALL AMERICAN: Richard Arlen, Gloria Stuart—Very good football story; did better than average business. Played Apr. 21-22.—Roy W. Adams, Mason Theatre, Mason, Mich.—Small town patronage.

BE MINE TONIGHT: Pat O'Brien, Ralph Bellamy—I think we were the first in the state to use this one, and run it in conjunction with our first Sunday showing. There could not have been anything finer. It's the first time that we have had congratulatory phone calls the following day, and those that saw it, on leaving, stood around and discussed it. We think it the best entertainment we have presented, and we play 80% of the big ones. This one is proof that excellence can be obtained without dirt, which is entirely absent. Comedy, scenery, music, story, and without the aid of previous "city" advertising. You cannot go wrong and it will add prestige to your theatre. Please add that "Uncle Carl" is to be congratulated for sponsoring this type of picture.—A. Bern, Jr., Sunflower Theatre, Peabody, Kan. General small town patronage.

THE BIG CAGE: Clyde Beatty—Here's the real thing, just as "Uncle Carl" says it is in his Universal Weekly, and all who saw it praised it highly. Nice story, plenty of thrills and no horror stuff, thank goodness. Excellent for Sunday showing. Played May 2.—J. J. Hoffman, Plainview Theatre, Plainview, Neb. Small town patronage.

COHENS AND KELLYS IN TROUBLE: Charles Murray, George Sydney—It's their best. Nuff said. Too bad most people are short the quarter it costs for a ticket, as it deserved a full house. Running time, 69 minutes.—H. J. Longaker, Glenwood Theatre, Glenwood, Minn. General patronage.

DESTINATION UNKNOWN: Pat O'Brien, Ralph Bellamy, Betty Compson, Alan Hale—Better see this before showing. Hale and Bellamy fine, but the subject is not for a theatre; at least I could not see any entertainment to it. Played Apr. 18-19.—D. E. Fitton, Lyric Theatre, Harrison, Ark. Small town patronage.

FLAMING GUNS: Tom Mix—Very good Western. Pleased 100%.—Estes & Estes, Merry Land Theatre, Addison, Mich. General patronage.

FLAMING GUNS: Tom Mix—A Good Western, but Tom doesn't draw like he did. I guess the chewers and spitters are out of dough. Westerns seem to have lost a lot of their pull; except when cream comes up a few cents, then they get the business.—Mayme P. Musselman, Princess Theatre, Lincoln, Kansas. Small town patronage.

FLAMING GUNS: Tom Mix—Not so hot. The title "Flaming Guns" killed it at the box office. Why do great brainy fellows pull these boners? A good title is just half the battle. Lost on this one and knew it before I played it, but couldn't let it out.—Ned Pedigo, De Luxe Theatre, Garber, Okla. General patronage.

THE FOURTH HORSEMAN: Tom Mix—Am glad this is our last Mix picture. We have a large element of Western fans, but Mix does not click. Played Apr. 28-29.—Elaine S. Furlong, Star Theatre, Heppner, Ore. Small town patronage.

HIDDEN GOLD: Tom Mix—Rain and a second closed bank failed to cut in on the crowd, which was the average for the winter and spring. Played Apr. 15.—C. W. Mills, Arcade Theatre, Sodus, N. Y. Mixed patronage.

THE KISS BEFORE THE MIRROR: Frank Morgan, Nancy Carroll, Paul Lukas, Gloria Stuart—A very good picture. It is out and out melodrama, but the story is so smoothly directed that it is not tiresome. Frank Morgan gives a splendid performance and is winning lots of fans in our town. Played this on a Sunday night and would recommend it there or in the middle of the week. You will not be disappointed in this picture. Played May 7.—L. A. Mercier, Electric Theatre, Perryville, Mo. Small town patronage.

LUCKY DOG: Chic Sale, Trained dogs—Not so hot as adult entertainment. A bunch of well trained dogs and well done for this type, but it is more for kids than adults. Should have been in two reels. Very clean show. Running time, 58 minutes.—H. J. Longacre, Glenwood Theatre Co., Glenwood, Minn. Small town patronage.

NAGANA: Talla Byrell, Melvin Douglas—Some animal shots, a lot of laboratory work in connection with the title that the picture is named from. Sleeping sickness. Played too close to the "Big Cage" and it suffered accordingly. It is Okay for Friday and Saturday, but they won't rave about it after they see it. Byrell is another type like Deitrich and Garbo, somewhat restless, both of them. She seems to be a capable actress with the small part that she had, but she is unknown and don't mean a thing to the public at this time. Carl seems to get a lot of these foreigners in his pictures. The picture drags and the story unfolds entirely too slowly.—A. E. Hancock, Columbia Theatre, Columbia City, Ind. Small town patronage.

ONCE IN A LIFETIME: Jack Oakie, Aline MacMahon, Russell Hopton—No good. Lay off this one. No excuse for making a thing like this and selling it to the little lambs by false advertising.—Estes & Estes, Merry Land Theatre, Addison, Mich. General patronage.

OUT ALL NIGHT: Zasu Pitts, Slim Summerville—If this team goes over in your town it will please. Several real funny situations. Believe this is better than "They Just Had to Get Married." Played Apr. 20-21.—D. E. Fitton, Lyric Theatre, Harrison, Ark. Small town patronage.

OUT ALL NIGHT: Zasu Pitts, Slim Summerville

—Nice picture and good entertainment, but they are trying to run a good thing in the ground. "They Had to Get Married" was a natural, therefore the "big shots" rushed forth with another Pitts-Summerville less than three months apart and this team won't stand up that often. Business just about half of "They Had to Get Married." Played Apr. 16.—Joe Hewitt, Lincoln Theatre, Robinson, Ill. Mixed patronage.

PRIVATE JONES: Lee Tracy, Gloria Stuart—How this cast did their stuff amazed the few natives that came, is a caution. This is no doubt one of the first ten in the best ten of the year. Get them in if you can, they'll enjoy it to the limit. Running time, 89 minutes.—H. J. Longaker, Glenwood Theatre, Glenwood, Minn. General patronage.

RIDER OF DEATH VALLEY: Tom Mix—My first Mix and it drew good business, but was a little disappointing as it was rather slow. My people expected more action. Hope the next one has it.—Harold Smith, Dreamland Theatre, Carson, Iowa. Rural patronage.

THEY JUST HAD TO GET MARRIED: Zasu Pitts, Slim Summerville—Plenty of laughs in spots, but not spotted enough. Drew very well and they seemed to like it. Nothing to offend and not hard to sell.—Mayme P. Musselman, Princess Theatre, Lincoln, Kansas. Small town patronage.

THEY JUST HAD TO GET MARRIED: Zasu Pitts, Slim Summerville—A lot of hokum with the popular pair Zasu Pitts and Slim Summerville that seemed to tickle the fancy of our patrons, judging from the expressions on their faces while this was being unreeled. Good production values. Drawing power above average.—J. E. Stocker, Myrtle Theatre, Detroit, Mich. Neighborhood patronage.

United Artists

HALLELUJAH I'M A BUM: Al Jolson—Saw this in a screening room in January and I liked it. Played it and still liked it, but no crowd to see the once popular star of the talkies. Upon inquiry found that his radio performance had killed him as far as this town is concerned, and all we can say is that it served Jolson, and all the other stars that want to "hog" the entertainment field, right. Played Apr. 30.—J. J. Hoffman, Plainview Theatre, Plainview, Neb. Small town patronage.

SECRETS: Mary Pickford, Leslie Howard—The first part of this picture is a costume picture of the Victorian era, and is taken from a First National Picture which was circulated in 1926-27 with Norma Talmage in the lead. Those who saw it may recall her trouble with her crinoline which produced gales of laughter then, but has been toned down so much for Mary Pickford as to give only a ripple. There has been some touching up deserving mention. The photography of heavy wagon wheels, horses hoofs and big men's shoes pushing through mud and heavy rock-filled quagmires is the best of its kind. The play seems to be made up of an incongruity of some three players or more. Really the play as a whole, for the merest tyro to attempt the briefest constructive criticism, would be an act of condescension. The acting of Mary Pickford in the difficult role of expressing a mother's grief is real art. It would well serve as an object lesson to the new school of "Histrionic Hysterics" who try to express emotion by spasms, to the acute pain of the spectators who happen to have nerves or discrimination. You can measure the drawing power of this production by your experience with Mary Pickford pictures since "Sparrows." The play has none. Played Apr. 30-May 1.—A. J. Gibbons, Illinois Theatre, Metropolis, Ill. General small town patronage.

Warner

THE BIG STAMPEDE: John Wayne—Better than the first John Wayne and it pleased more people. I'm looking for a Western that will draw and hope to fine one pretty soon.—Mayme P. Susselman, Princess Theatre, Lincoln, Kansas. Small town patronage.

FORTY-SECOND STREET: Warner Baxter, Bebe Daniels, Ruby Keeler, George Brent, Ginger Rogers, Dick Powell—I saw this picture before I played it and said it is badly overrated. I said it would not do a big business in the small town, but boy what a great surprise I got. This picture did "Gold Diggers of Broadway" business. It's by far the greatest box office attraction I have had in two years. The last night we did the biggest business. What a box office baby this is. Here is your summer vacation, fellows. It's a home run, a complete knockout, and the beauty of it is it is already sold to the public and they come back the second night and pay the hard cash to see it over again. Played Apr. 27-28-29.—S. H. Rich, Rich Theatre, Montpelier, Idaho. Town and country patronage.

GIRL MISSING: Ben Lyon, Hary Brian, Peggy Shannon, Glenda Farrell—This is one of the best program pictures we have played in months. The story is extra good and the cast splendid. All made special mention of what an entertaining picture it was and that is unusual nowadays with pictures. Played May 4-5.—Bert Silver. Silver Family Theatre, Greenville, Mich. Town and country patronage.

GIRL MISSING: Ben Lyon, Glenda Farrell, Mary Brian, Peggy Shannon—A dandy picture that holds the patron's interest from start to finish. Glenda Farrell is a wow. A few more pictures like this would end the depression for small town shows. Mary Brian, Ben Lyon, Peggy Shannon, Guy Kibbee are all popular here. This may not be such a high class picture, but it is what they want. Played May 6-7.—Gladys E. McArdle, Owl Theatre, Lebanon, Kans. Small town patronage.

HARD TO HANDLE: James Cagney—This is a nice small town show. Action from start to finish. If they like Cagney should go over O. K. Played Apr. 26-27. Running time, 75 minutes.—J. E. Tunstall, Nottawa Theatre, Blackstone, Va. Small town patronage.

I AM A FUGITIVE FROM A CHAIN GANG: Paul Muni—It isn't as cruel or inhuman as you might expect. A wonderful piece of merchandise that is not hard to sell. Get your local police to lend you some of their stuff; that and a piece of compo board to mount it on and your lobby is complete. The picture will please and do business.—Mayme P. Musselman, Princess Theatre, Lincoln, Kansas. Small town patronage.

THE KING'S VACATION: George Arliss—This is a good show. Arliss is always good. Should please all the family. Played Apr. 24-25. Running time, 60 minutes.—J. A Tunstall, Nottawa Theatre, Blackstone, Va. Small town patronage.

THE KING'S VACATION: George Arliss—Exceptionally fine story and good acting, direction and photography make this good entertainment. It's a swell show.—S. H. Rich, Rich Theatre, Montpelier, Idaho. Town and rural patronage.

LADIES THEY TALK ABOUT: Barbara Stanwyck—If we were in the habit of talking about ladies, Barbara would take no offense at our remarks. While prison scenes are not conductive to the proper display of feminine charms, it's no easy matter to make this lady look unattractive. Played Apr. 16.—Peter Bylsma, Victory Theatre, Napoleonville, La. Small town patronage.

RIDE 'EM COWBOY: John Wayne—A fair Western that didn't seem to get by in such good shape. It's better than some of the horse operas, but not as good as I was expecting to get from this exchange. Played Mar. 21-Apr 1.—Mayme P. Musselman, Princess Theatre, Lincoln, Kansas. Small town patronage.

STRANGER IN TOWN; LAWYER MAN, William Powell; LOCAL BOY MAKES GOOD (First National), Joe E. Brown: I am reporting on all three of these pictures at once as they were run on anniversary week. All three were good. We celebrate our anniversary each year by giving our patrons a big double show at regular admission prices. This was our tenth anniversary, so we had a full week's celebration with double feature shows each night. You will find this will pay, but be sure to book good pictures, and tell your patrons it's an annual affair. Business was 30% above normal, and it's a good will builders. Every theatre should observe its anniversary and give its patrons double shows. Give the kids lollypops or prizes. It will pay.—S. H. Rich, Rich Theatre, Montpelier, Idaho. Town and country patronage.

A MESSAGE TO STEVE FARRAR

The feeling of mutual aid and the spirit of cooperation and friendship engendered among exhibitors who contribute to "What the Picture Did for Me" is in no way better exemplified than in the following note which Joe Hewitt, of the Lincoln theatre, Robinson, Ill., appended to a recent report:

"Word has been received that one of our oldest contributors, Steve M. Farrar, of Harrisburg, Ill., has been dangerously ill following an operation for appendicitis. Late reports inform us that Steve is now on the road to recovery, which all contributors to this department will be glad to hear. Hurry up, Steve, we miss your reports and anxiously await your resumption. Steve was reported in grave danger a week ago, but late advice reports he is now on the road to recovery."

Need we add that our best wishes also go to Steve Farrar for a speedy and complete recovery and early return to the ranks of contributors.

Short Features

Columbia

CAMPUS CODES: A mighty good two reel subject.—Bert Silver, Silver Family Theatre, Gerenville, Mich. Town and country patronage.

COLLEGE GIGOLOS: Eddie Lambert—This is one of the most unfunny comedies we ever played. Not a wrinkle in a car load.—Bert Silver, Silver Family Theatre, Greenville, Mich. Town and counrty patronage.

SCREEN SNAPSHOTS: A very acceptable single reeler showing all the different stars in their home surroundings and on the lot.—Hobart H. Gates, Garlock Theatre, Custer, S. D. Small town patronage.

Educational

FARMER ALFALFA'S APE GIRL: Good cartoon subject.—Mayme P. Musselman, Princess Theatre, Lincoln, Kansas. Small town patronage.

TIRED FEET: Harry Langdon—A very funny two reel comedy. This is more than a grin—it's a laugh.—Bert Silver, Silver Family Theatre, Greenville, Mich. Town and country patronage.

MGM

BIG DITCH OF PANAMA: Fitzpatrick Travel Talk—This is a very interesting travel talk and went over O.K.—J. E. Tunstall, Nottawa Theatre, Blackstone, Va. Small town patronage.

HOLLYWOOD PREMIERE: Good color and some keen girls but that's about all.—Mayme P. Musselman, Princess Theatre, Lincoln, Kansas. Small town patronage.

A LAD AN' A LAMP: Our Gang—Good and about as funny as they have made recently.—Mayme P. Musselman, Princess Theatre, Lincoln, Kansas. Small town patronage.

WILD PEOPLE: Not so good Technicolor subject. Add variety to a program and usually have a good song and dance number.—Mayme P. Musselman, Princess Theatre, Lincoln, Kansas. Small town patronage.

YOUNG IRONSIDES: Charley Chase—A Charley Chase short that pleased the audience, which is what we want. Personally I do not like that kind of short but my patrons do. Gets the laughs.—Gladys E. McArdle, Owl Theatre, Lebanon, Kans. Small town patronage.

Paramount

EASY ON THE EYES: One of the best I have received from Paramount.—Harold Smith, Dreamland Theatre, Carson, Iowa. Rural patronage.

MUSICAL DOCTOR: Rudy Vallee—Pretty good. Some musical numbers that were okay.—Mayme P. Musselman, Princess Theatre, Lincoln, Kansas. Small town patronage.

SING, BING, SING: Bing Crosby—Very good comedy. Crosby very well liked here.—Harold Smith, Dreamland Theatre, Carson, Iowa. Rural patronage.

THE SINGING BOXER: Donald Novis—The singing in these comedies puts them over. Novis is a fine singer but no actor.—Harold Smith, Dreamland Theatre, Carson, Iowa. Rural patronage.

RKO

MICKEY'S RACE: Mickey McGuire—The usual story of Mickey's gang coming through at the last minute and winning from their rivals, but it received lots of laughs from adults and children alike.—Hobart H. Gates, Garlock Theatre, Custer, S. D. Small town patronage.

UNIVERSAL

RADIO STAR REEL: Art Jarrett, Nick Kenny—A splendid two reel subject. Better than the average.—Bert Silver, Silver Family Theatre, Greenville, Mich. Town and country patronage.

Warner Vitaphone

THE BANDWAGON: A Melody Master with music. Just medium.—Mayme P. Musselman, Princess Theatre, Lincoln, Kansas. Small town patronage.

HOT COMPETITION: Fair musical number.—Mayme P. Musselman, Princess Theatre, Lincoln, Kansas. Small town patronage.

MUSIC TO MY EARS: Jack Denny and Band—Splendid one-reeler. Don't pass this one up.—Edith M. Fordyce, Princess Theatre, Selma, La. General patronage.

MUSIC TO MY EARS: A Melody Master with music, and what music. It's good.—Mayme P. Musselman, Princess Theatre, Lincoln, Kansas. Small town patronage.

Serials

RKO

THE LAST FRONTIER: Creighton Chaney—I have just finished this serial and found that it has been an exceptionally good serial. Kept my patrons interested to the last chapter and fifty per cent above average business.—Harold Smith, Dreamland Theatre, Carson, Iowa. Rural patronage.

MANAGERS' ROUND TABLE CLUB

An international association of showmen meeting weekly in MOTION PICTURE HERALD for mutual aid and progress

SOUR DOUGH

By H. E. WILTON

Manager, Strand Theatre, Hamilton, Canada

Adversity is often a blessing in disguise, believes H. E. Wilton, manager of the Strand Theatre, Hamilton, Ontario, Canada, and the Club's Guest Editor this week. He thinks the time is ripe for the wide-awake theatre manager to "kick the door wide open" and so sets forth his views in the following editorial. Once again we remind Club Members that this and all other pages of this department are theirs for expression on showmanship and other timely, kindred subjects. Additional Guest Editors signed this week include: VOGEL GETTIER, Sedalia, Mo.; DAN KRENDEL, Windsor, Canada; FRANK LA FALCE, Washington, D. C.; G. B. ODLUM, Elmira, N. Y.; MONTY SALMON, Pittsburgh, Pa.; SAMMY SIEGEL, Seattle, Wash.

One of the outstanding causes of the recent depression was the failure of managers of business concerns to realize the fact that "there must be sour dough before you can have sweet bread."

If it were not for the "sour dough" periods there would be no need for experienced theatre managers; the head usher could run the works. Business adversity often proves a blessing in disguise because it stimulates the wide-awake manager to increased activity resulting in the birth of business-getting originality. It sets the dormant mechanism of the sub-conscious mind into action and dwarfs depression.

Old Man Micawber sat down and waited for something to turn up. He knew the dough was sour, but instead of kneading and baking it into sweet bread he just "sat down and waited".

The theatre manager who, instead of waiting for the door of opportunity to open, kicks it open seldom has cause to worry about "sour dough" business. The only way to broaden the distance between yourself and the bailiff is to run faster than he does; and the logical time for increased business speed or effort is when the other fellow is sitting back yelling "depression".

Theatre managers throughout the country during the past year or so have passed through an economy campaign which will prove of great value to them in the future. They have learned the art of costless exploitation as never before. They have learned that big box-office receipts can easily turn RED, if obtained through unnecessary expenditure.

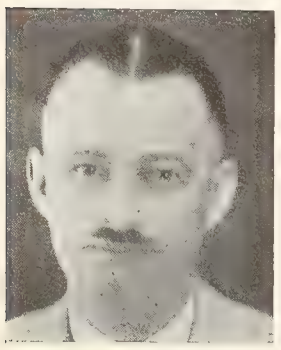
Volumes have been written on "How to successfully manage a theatre", but ninety-nine per cent of it is piffle to the manager who fails to realize the value of his greatest business asset—PERSONAL TOUCH.

When I say "personal touch" I do not mean "remote control".

It cannot be done behind the closed door of your office; neither can it be confined to the lobby or floor of your theatre. It must extend outside your theatre into the homes of your patrons, where there is sickness, death, or other causes where the hand of practical and kind sympathy may be extended. To do these things one must, of necessity, be personally acquainted with his patrons, and the best and most logical place to form this contact is in the lobby of your theatre.

Selling entertainment to the public is one of the most pleasing lines of business in the world. If you don't feel that way about it, you are in the wrong business, and your patrons will be the first to find it out and give you the go-by. You are bound to hit an occasional snag, but only the quitter will let it hold him there. Just a little added effort and the sour dough becomes sweet bread, reflecting itself in the smile with which you greet your patrons. Sunshine kills microbes and moths. Smiles kill depression.

DICK KIRSCHBAUM'S LOBBY LAFFS!



Askers of foolish questions are still around, so Eddie Hough, manager of the Rivoli Theatre, Greenville, S. C., informs us; so Cartoonist Dick Kirschbaum put his thoughts in black and white.

BOOTH'S WEEKLY PLAN!

He Defends Give-Away Policy, Holding That Use of Same Has Kept Theatres Out of the Red

MANAGERS in search of some definite, tried-out, weekly operating system, might do well to tarry here for a few moments and digest a plan effectively used for the past eighteen months by Billings Booth, manager of the Jefferson and Garden Theatres, Springfield, Mass., and publicity director for Winchester Amusement Company's five other houses in the city.

Billings Booth

Briefly, it is as follows:

Sunday, we are advised, takes care of itself. On Mondays and Tuesdays he uses a give-away for the ladies (at present a good grade of china). Wednesdays and Thursdays a bargain price goes into effect, at the same time keeping up standard of programs. On Fridays he uses an elaboration of Country Store, allowing a budget of $50 on house capacity of $250 and acting as M. C. himself, Booth thinks the manner of distributing gifts is just as important as quality of the articles and always adds comedy touches to the occasion. A kiddies' party is the general policy on Saturdays and at present he is using the Mickey Mouse idea, together with gifts of little toys and trinkets to keep the good will built up.

They Figure in Operation!

Obviously, the give-away figures prominently in the plan of operation outlined above. In anticipation of adverse comment from those who do not favor over-emphasis of this policy, Booth defends his course of action and takes issue on the contention that gifts of merchandise do not constitute good showbusiness. He grants that it's not old-time showbusiness, but holds that neither are these days the old days. However, his theatre has earned the sobriquet of "The Good Time Spot"; therefore, he maintains that if gifts help create a good time for his patrons, his theatre is functioning just as it should function. All of which seems logical enough.

Here is a sample of a list of gifts he uses: 1 fancy English lounging chair, $13.50; 1 upholstered occasional chair, $8; 2 Windsor chairs, $3.18; 2 toilet sets, 98c.; 2 sets of silverware (26 pieces), $3.38; 2 electric grills, $1.76; 2 cocktail shakers, $3; 2 cameras, $1.60; 2 smoking trays, 98c.; 2 fancy lamps, $1.58; 2 end tables, $2; 3 sofa pillows, $2.07; 2 framed pictures, $1.80; 2 cabinet smokers, $3.98; 2 table lamps, $1.58, and 2 rugs, at $2.78. There are 31 articles in the list, which amount to a total cost of $52.17.

It takes Booth practically a full afternoon to purchase his give-away articles and he claims its all A-1 merchandise—no ordinary premium junk. When picking out his assortment due attention is given to flash, with plenty of brightly colored articles of a size large enough to be seen on the apron from any point in the house. Lights are thrown on the display in order to let patrons see the gifts and he always has a few lamps in the group so that light from them can be utilized to show off particularly attractive gifts. All the art of the window dresser, he believes, should be employed to make the display brilliant as possible.

Rarely Fails To Draw!

During the eighteen months his operating plan has been in effect Booth claims he only failed but twice to draw capacity. He didn't have any stage at the Jefferson, so built a 6-foot apron with 38 foot-lights. Just as soon as one gift night is finished the next layout is set up after the show to allow a full week's display of the following group of articles. Gifts are constantly changed, never giving the same article two weeks in succession.

Now that the above defense of a give-away policy has been set forth, we'll gladly commit its fate to our readers. Supporting Booth's claim, however, that if intelligently used, the scheme can be made to act as a box office tonic, we might add that he recently completed his third year with Winchester Amusement Company in Springfield, and, to all appearances, will be there for some time to come. All of which leads us to believe his policy of management is making money for his concern. We always like to present claims from a man who so forthrightly sets forth the courage of his convictions and, therefore, will look forward to receiving further show-selling information from this energetic showman and member of our Club.

"WARRIORS' HUSBANDS"?

Really the boys will be girls nowadays, and the photographer who took this shot could hardly believe his eyes. But the truth is that Wally Akin, manager of the Arcadia Theatre, Dallas, Texas, put the shoe on the other foot and where the females have been effecting men's garb, the males decided they could adopt feminine clothes. Left to right: John Leyhe, Wally Akin, W. S. Larr and John Cash.

GOLDENBERG PULLED A SMART GAG WHEN EXPLOITING "GOONA"

One of the Club's recently elected members, Martin Goldenberg, manager of the Colonial Theatre, Philadelphia, sends along a bit of news from the Germantown Avenue section of his city.

It seems that some time in advance of the date set for "Goona Goona" a group of prominent women in the neighborhood turned thumbs down on an undraped statue in a park nearby the theatre. With a clear idea of some of the scenic effects featured in "Goona Goona," Goldenberg's fertile mind immediately conceived the idea of draping all advance displays of the "lovely Goona Goona maidens," even to the point of covering a splendidly arranged lobby display. Just three days prior to opening the picture was pulled to a later date and a special trailer was run in place of the one which had been elaborating on the opportunity of viewing natives of Bali in their natural and considerably abbreviated costumes. This "apology" trailer was so worded as though local censorship had banned the picture, though no one was accused.

The above gag stirred up a lot of arguments pro and con and Goldenberg adv ises us that there are many glances at the lobby display he left standing with a "Coming Soon" announcement. Thanks to him for contributing the suggestion; we're sure others will be able to adapt it to their campaigns. Also, our well wishes to Martin's assistant, Johnny Wilson, for his part in the good work being done at the Colonial.

GIRL PLAYING TUNES FROM MUSICAL MOVIE HELPED LYNCH SELL

Live ballyhoos are extremely effective in the matter of show selling, and basing his campaign upon this premise, Ed Lynch of the Cameo Theatre in Bridgeport, Conn., arrived at a satisfactory box-office conclusion with a recent musical film.

Ed tied-up with a local department store right on the main street of Bridgeport, and contracted with the enterprising manager of the organization for a window to be exclusively devoted towards the plugging of the movie's song hits.

A girl was hired to play tunes which were broadcast through a microphone rigged up by the theatre's sound technician, and from ten in the morning until six at night passersby were regaled with sparkling melodies. Ed paid half of the girl's salary; the merchant the balance. Attractive posters carried a terrific sales wallop with the result good box-office business was done.

HICKS JOHNNY-ON-SPOT WITH WAX FIGURES!

Located right near where "Mystery of Wax Museum" was made, J. Hicks, manager of the Hollywood Theatre, Los Angeles, arranged to have the original dummies set up in his lobby on recessed platforms. Entire lobby was closed from view from closing time at night until opening next day. Black back-drops (see above photo) were placed behind the figures and carried copy stressing "horror" angle. Hicks also used "mechanical man" in act alongside Joan of Arc figure to give impression he was one of the dummies. This display excited a great deal of comment. Photo shows both front and close-up of figures.

JIG-SAW PUZZLE WAS TIMELY CRAZE THAT FITTED IN CAMPAIGN

The Jig-Saw puzzle craze hit Uvalde, Texas, just as well as the rest of the towns in this "New Deal" country of ours, and Kenneth Taylor, enterprising manager of the Strand Theatre, tied up the fad with one of his pictures, a musical.

He purchased a number of jig-saw puzzles advertising the picture ("42nd Street") and distributed them gratis well in advance of play date. The town went crazy over them.

This was followed in rapid-fire order with excellent window displays; heralds circulated in town and adjacent counties, and a truck street ballyhoo, well plastered with news of the picture, and a tie-up with a local automobile concern netted a radio, which was attached to the back of the truck, and when time came for station announcement the driver plugged in and sold the film.

A front of many colors, designed to catch the eye and sell the picture, made the theatre facade look like Mardi Gras Day in New Orleans. It proved very effective. All in all, it was a campaign worthy of the combined showman merits of Mr. Little and again showed the power of exploitation to Kenneth Taylor, and again showed the power of exploitation to bring 'em back alive.

J. LAMM PROMOTED PROFITABLE DEAL WITH LOCAL STORE

That give-aways of household articles are still popular out in Cleveland and that Julius Lamm, manager of the Variety Theatre there is still able to promote several hundred dollars worth, is evidenced in the accompanying photo of a display he arranged.

Lamm's Collection of Gifts

a short time ago with cooperation from one of the leading furniture dealers in his section of the city.

The awards consisted of one Kroehler lounge and stool to match; one Apex electric washer; one President inner-spring mattress; one de luxe bed spring; one pair of Cooper tires, and a number of other valuable gifts, all of which amounted to about $300 in value. The merchant received in return a two-card trailer two weeks in advance of give-away night; the display shown in the photo and the resultant publicity from distribution of 10,000 special give-away tickets, some of which were sent out by the furniture concern with monthly statements, enclosed with other correspondence, placed on counters of several neighborhood stores and handed out at the theatre to all patrons two weeks in advance. The awards were made in the usual manner on the designated night.

So chalk up another promotional stunt to the many already credited to Manager Lamm by this department. He finds them profitable and this is just a reminder that it's still possible for an energetic showman to sell the scheme to a merchant.

GRADUATION DAY!

Increased patronage and additional good will have resulted from moves made by many members at this time of the year through extension of some little courtesy to graduates or groups of graduates of local schools and colleges.

Last season we recall that Walter Morris, then maanger of the Broadway, Charlotte, N. C., sent out a neatly printed invitation to graduates to witness either of the shows presented during the week. E. S. C. Coppock, managing director of the Paramount, Staten Island, N. Y., also sent out congratulatory cards good for any performance the week in question.

Lee Kirby, manager of the Monroe Avalon Theatre, Monroe, Wash., sprung a "Graduation Surprise" for the young men and women of the high school in his city by having all of them present as guests of the theatre on a day prior to Commencement.

In some instances school and theatre have been able to tie up for graduation exercises at the theatre, or have arranged theatre parties which have been instrumental in bringing to the theatre many members of families and their friends.

SOME NOTES ON WHAT MANAGERS ARE DOING TO SELL "BIG DRIVE"

The following will give readers an idea of what managers in different parts of the country are doing to put over "Big Drive," a war picture which appears to possess excellent angles for exploitation.

Effective campaigns were made in the cities of Newark and Jersey City, N. J., Dayton, Wilmington, Kansas City, Dallas, Boston, Louisville and Nashville, all of which featured tie-ups with local military units. A majority also used the stunt of having a local resident identify himself as a member of one of the regiments shown in the film.

The Loew house in Nashville invited the Gold Star Mothers to attend the theatre as a body; in Kansas City a special preview was held for veterans' organizations, clubs, etc.; Roy Slentz, manager of the Old Mill, Dallas, offered various awards for best exhibition of war trophies; Loew's Grand, Atlanta, tied-up with the Legion for a big parade; Walter McDowell, of the State, Louisville, invited inmates of the Marine Hospital to the opening night and also arranged with the Legion for a parade; effective advance work was done at the State and Orpheum, Boston, by building eye-arresting lobby displays; Ed Adler, of the Vendome, Nashville, used an assortment of radio announcements, special mailing list, distribution of heralds by 'plane, special preview and Legion tie-up, and J. C. Furman of Jersey City also went in for a preview, invitations to Gold Star Mothers, radio, etc.

Boston Legion Post Helped!

All of the foregoing activities were augmented with strong newspaper and other advertising.

AD MAT SERVICE

COMPLETE NEWSPAPER CAMPAIGNS (10 Ads) on all nationally released feature pictures sent from one source.

Also

A MONTHLY GENERAL SERVICE of seasonal and attention-getting borders, ads, miscellaneous slugs, etc.

Centralized Service insures Economy.. and Efficiency. . . New low service charge to meet reduced budgets.

Write to

UNITED THEATRE ADVERTISERS, Inc.
330 WEST 42nd STREET, NEW YORK CITY

Showman's Calendar

JUNE

1st	Kentucky Admitted to Union—1792 Tennessee Admitted to Union—1796 Clive Brook's Birthday
2nd	Hedda Hopper's Birthday
3rd	Jefferson Davis Born—1808 King's Birthday (Canada and Bermuda) Robert Edeson's Birthday
6th	Nathan Hale Born—1755 American Marine Victory at Belleau Woods—1918
8th	Battle of New Orleans—1815
9th	John Howard Payne Borne—1791 (Author of Home, Sweet Home)
10th	Franklin Drew Lightning from Clouds—1752
11th	Richard Strauss Born — 1864 (German Composer) Children's Day (Celebrated in All Churches)
14th	Flag Day Harriet Beecher Stowe Born—1811
15th	Pioneer Day (Idaho) Arkansas Admitted to Union—1836 Charter of Boy Scouts of America Granted — 1916
16th	Ona Munson's Birthday Stan Laurel's Birthday
17th	Battle of Bunker Hill—1775
18th	Battle of Waterloo—1815 Father's Day Jeannette MacDonald's Birthday
21st	Longest Day in Year (First Day of Summer)
22nd	Charlie Murray's Birthday
23rd	William Penn Signed Treaty of Peace with Indians—1683
25th	General Custer's Defeat by Indians—1876
26th	First American Troops to Land in France—1917
28th	Polly Moran's Birthday

Florida Transfers

Several transfers among Sparks theatres were recently announced. Jack Fitzwater, manager of the Tampa Theatre, Tampa, for the past year, has been made city manager at Clearwater, with supervision over the Ritz and Capitol there and the Sparks house at Belleaire.

W. R. "Bill" Hart has been transferred from Clearwater to Tampa, where he will have charge of the Park. Jack Hodges has been called from Jacksonville to take Fitzwater's old post at the Tampa. All houses are in the E. J. Sparks Circuit, under supervision of Jesse L. Clark.

REALISTIC STUNT USED BY JONAS TO EXPLOIT PICTURE

What could be more appropriate to exploit the picture "Rain" than rain itself, thought Seymour H. Jonas, manager of the State Theatre, Brooklyn, N. Y., and forthwith proceeded to carry out his idea by rigging a one-inch water pipe under the front side of his marquee. Small perforations in the pipe produced the desired effect and additional attention was drawn to the stunt by having a trio, dressed in raincoats and carrying umbrellas, walk back and forth under the improvised shower.

Jonas' "Rain" Trio!

That Seymour believes in realistic atmosphere there can be no doubt, and we have his word for it that the stunt drew public attention to his show. Of course one has to watch out that the artificial rain doesn't wet some lady's hat and frock, but a word of caution from the men on patrol should take care of that hazard.

This is the first time we've heard from Jonas in quite some time, despite the fact that he's been a member of this Club for a whole year. More about him later on.

TONY WILLIAMS PUT OVER STAGE WEDDING ON EVE OF NEW JOB

Before Tony Williams left the helm of the DeWitt Theatre, Bayonne, N. J., to become Warner's district manager in Hudson County, N. J., he put over one of those old, reliable stage weddings as one of his parting gestures of good showmanship.

The affair was staged in the usual fashion and in spite of depressed trade conditions among local merchants Williams went out and promoted a collection of furniture and other household goods fine enough to make any pair of newlyweds sit up and take notice. The accompanying photo will give you some idea of the result of Tony's labors.

Here's the Evidence!

Tony's old post at the DeWitt has been filled by Rudy Kuehn, another energetic showman. More than both in later issues.

MORE THAN ONE GAG IS BEING TRIED OUT BY GEORGE HENDRICKSON

A bulky manilla envelope chock full of assorted heralds, throwaways and whatnot—no more no less except that the theatre in question was the New Orion, Minneapolis, is identified through this department's files as the one-time property of our old friend George Hendrickson, and an indication that George has been trying out more than one means of boosting the box office.

For one thing, he got out a series of teaser throwaways and hangers in advance of announcing a revived admission schedule. Copy was built around "Watch For the Biggest Surprise Announcement of the Year." We can also see that he has been cutting down expense of other heralds by tying up with some merchant for an ad on the reverse side.

Other gags include use of the well known serial card for the youngsters, with the last show free; give-away of frock through tie-up with dress shop; distribution of bookmark herald with hairpin insert (hairpin to keep hair down when witnessing "Hatchet Man"); and give-away of lounging chair, etc., through tie-up with furniture dealer.

All of which is proof that Hendrickson is not asleep on the job. We'll be giving you more information concerning his activities in future issues.

Utica Cotton

With "Cabin in the Cotton" set for the Stanley Theatre, Utica, N. Y., it didn't take Manager B. Leighton long to realize that local cotton mills could provide him with real Southern atmosphere. Consequently, a bale of honest-to-goodness raw cotton appeared in the theatre lobby as an advance display. A phonograph alongside ground out the theme song of the picture. Additional interest was obtained by inviting patrons to estimate weight of the bale of cotton. The guest ticket gag was used in connection with the latter.

ROUND TABLE BIOGRAPHIES

Eugene O. Stutenroth entered the theatre business 15 years ago because, he states, the field held a "natural fascination."

Born in Redfield, S. D., in the year 1903, and educated in Minneapolis schools and University, he began his theatre career at an early age and served as assistant manager of houses on the Orpheum Circuit, Duluth; the World Theatre, Omaha; the Mission, Los Angeles, and Grauman's Metropolitan. He has managed the Egyptian, Long Beach, Calif., and the Jewel, Los Angeles.

After spending four years as technical expert in the pipe organ end of the business he returned to his first love—the theatre—and is at present engaged in management of the Holme Theatre, Philadelphia, Pa. Stutenroth is married, the father of two children and regards showbusiness as a permanent occupation.

TAYLOR'S FRONT ON "HALLELUJAH"

Jolson cartoon posters and a large collection of stills featured a front made for "Hallelujah, I'm a Bum" by William V. Taylor, manager of Loew's State Theatre, Houston, Texas. The film opened at the State as a World Premiere showing and was advertised as one of M-G-M's "exclusive" presentations.

COPPOCK'S PROGRAM INEXPENSIVE, NEAT, IS WELL WORTH USING

Making its initial appearance recently, E. S. C. Coppock's inexpensive and neat little "Theatre Topics" program for the Paramount Theatre, Stapleton, Staten Island, N. Y., has captured public fancy and is growing by leaps and bounds.

Undoubtedly economical, the program carries four pages—the front plugging a scene from a coming picture. A double spread of reading matter containing a gossip column by the manager, a Hollywood column, and stories on coming attractions, as well as a program containing current attraction, next picture and theatre policy. The back page carries a secret of success—ads for local merchants, which doubtless help defray, or do pay, the cost of printing.

If you would like one of these programs, why not write to Coppock. We are sure he'd be glad to send a sample to you.

KELLY AND KAPLAN STOLE FRONT PAGE SPACE WITH STUNT

Quick to take advantage of the fact that local newspapers were widely publicizing the present craze for women's trouser suits, Martin Kelly and Harold Kaplan, respectively publicity director and manager of the Paramount Theatre, St. Paul, Minn., dressed two ushers in female atire and sent them out on the streets and consequently made the front page of a local newspaper with a deep two-column photo and caption.

And so it goes, not only in Minneapolis, but in other cities. One way to start this gag is to plant a girl dressed in the new style trousers and then follow up with Kelly and Kaplan's stunt as a form of protest. Thanks to Chas. Winchell, publicity and advertising director of the Publix Northwest Division, for passing along the information.

CHRISTIAN USED AN IMPERSONATOR WHEN EXPLOITING CHAPLIN

An impersonator played an important part in the campaign made on Chaplin reissues by J. W. Christian, manager of the Kentucky Theatre, Corbin, Ky.

The accompanying photo shows the pseudo Charlie and the gang of youngsters in front of the theatre following a noisy parade all over town. The impersonator frequently made appearances on streets, stores and in each of the grade schools, cutting capers and handing out bills.

Looks Like Charlie Himself!

We have Christian's word for it that this old dyed-in-the-wool Chaplin gag accounted for much interest on the part of the public and lots of worthwhile publicity for the picture, hence we're passing it along as a reminder.

For Bridge Fans!

Warner Bros. have made available for exploitation purposes with "Grand Slam" a 16-page booklet entitled "Contract Bridge Made Easy," which carries a good plug for the picture on the front page and some scene cuts and ad copy of the last two pages.

WHY DELAY ANY LONGER? JOIN NOW!

DANIEL J. PROULX

is the manager of the Strand Theatre, Amsterdam, N. Y., and we're glad to add his name to the ever-lengthening Club roster. Dan's house is a unit of the M. A. Shea Circuit and operates on a policy of straight pictures with three changes each week. How's the knitting and rug mill trade up your way, Proulx? We happen to know that both have considerable to do with box office receipts in your town and hope that business is on the upturn. Let's hear further from you.

▽

GEORGE LANGNESS

is another manager to join up with the Club this week and he is in charge of the State Theatre, Minot, S. D. Furthermore, he's still another one of the Minnesota Amusement Company's live aggregation of showmen to become a Round Tabler and we want him to know that the welcome sign is out. Keep your Club informed, George, as to what you are doing to boost attendance.

▽

CECIL W. CURTIS

manages the Liberty Theatre down in Medford, Va., and we're also taking this opportunity to acknowledge his application for membership in the Round Table Club. The rest of the gang are glad to have you with them, Cecil, and now let's see what you can do to help the good work along. Shoot along some briefs on what's going on in showbusiness in your town.

▽

MITCHELL M. HADDAD

is another assistant manager to enroll in the Club and he holds forth at the Capitol Theatre, Willimantic, Conn. Glad to have you with us, Mitch', and here's hoping you are headed straight for a full-fledged manager's job in the near future. We feel sure that the contributions made by men from all sections of the country will help you make the grade. Read and use them. In the meantime, tell the boss that we'd like to hear from him. Or, if he's too busy, double for him.

▽

JOHN R. PICKETT

is in charge of the Capitol Theatre, Willimantic, Conn., and while we've just mentioned to Haddad, his assistant, to get word to him that we'll be expecting news of show-selling activities at the Capitol, it won't do any harm to repeat the request. Between the two we ought to get some action. Here's lots of luck to you and your staff, Pickett. Let's hear from you regularly.

▽

ROBERT L. SCHMIDT

manages the Grand Theatre down in Hazleton, Pa., and he not only comes through with an application for membership in the Club, but sends along an account of a recent campaign he made. That's the proper spirit, Bob, and we wish every new member of this outfit would follow your example. We'll see that the dope you sent along is written up in an early issue. Let's be hearing from you just as often as you can find time to write.

▽

MAX S. BRONOW

assistant manager of the Stanley Theatre, Camden, N. J., forwards his application for membership and it is duly received and acted upon, thus making Max a full fledged member, and we hope that his showselling will shortly net him a position at the helm of a house of his own. Let's know what you are doing to help your chief with his show selling campaigns, Max.

▽

EDWARD KANE

is the manager of the Cranford Theatre in Cranford, N. J. The house is a 1,500 seater and you can bet that Eddie does some tall show selling in his efforts to keep the seats "hot." That's why we want to hear from him often, in order that we can pass along his activities to the rest of his fellow members and showmen.

JOE GHIGLIONE

manages the Grand Opera House, a Warner holding down in Wilmington, Del., and he's still another live showman to join up with this week's crop of Round Tablers. Welcome to this constantly growing organization, Joe, and here's hoping you will do your full share to carry on the good work. Let's have some of your ideas on present-day theatre operation so we can pass the suggestions along. Drop around to the Arcadia in your town some day and say hello to Morris Rosenthal. He'll tell you just what the Club expects from a new member. So long till next time.

▽

RAY H. MEYER

is located down in Philadelphia, Pa., where he manages the Orpheum Theatre, a Warner 2,000-seater. Ray is another welcome addition to the ranks of the Round Table Army and we're mighty glad to acknowledge his application for membership. Showmen in your town have always been well to the front with contributions to this department, Ray, and we're going to expect the same from you. Shoot your ideas along.

▽

DAVID SEAMAN

holds forth in Lancaster, Pa., where he stands at the helm of the Capitol Theatre, another Warner house. Thus the Pennsylvania contingent of the Club continues to grow with Dave's application and it won't be long before the Round Table will be 100 per cent in his state. Lots of good luck to him and we'll be looking for word of what he's doing to boost spring and summer trade.

▽

SAMMY SIEGEL

is the live-wire publicity manager who keeps the Northwest fully informed on activities of the John Hamrick Circuit, Seattle, Wash., and, thanks to W. A. Praeger, who is considerable of a news and publicity expert himself, we are able to announce that Sammy, too, has promised to take a seat around this ever-growing Table. More about his work in forthcoming issues.

APPLICATION FOR MEMBERSHIP

MANAGERS' ROUND TABLE CLUB

Please enroll me in the Club and send me my framed certificate.

NAME

POSITION

THEATRE

ADDRESS

CITY STATE

DATE OF BIRTH

(Mail to Managers' Round Table Club, 1790 Broadway, New York)

GEORGE HENDRICKSON

is in charge of the New Arion Theatre in Minneapolis, Minn., and he's another one of the Publix-Northwest gang of live-wires to sign up for a life membership with the Round Table Club. Okay, George, and now let's know what's on your mind regarding the problems of show-selling these days. Your fellow Club members will be waiting to hear from you. Best regards to other Round Tablers out your way.

▽

A. H. YEOMANS

is owner-manager of the Rose Theatre, Hattiesburg, Miss., and his is another name to chalk up on the ever-growing Club roster. We're mighty glad to have a Club representative down in his city and will count upon him to keep this organization fully informed on what's going on in showbusiness there. Let's hear from you soon, A. H.

▽

"TONY" C. BALDUCCI

manages the Avon Theatre up in Canastota, N. Y., and now that he's joined the Round Table Club we're in line for some news from his section of New York State. Welcome to this organization, Tony, and let's hear from you regularly. Limber up that writing arm and tell your brother showmen what you are doing to fill seats at the Avon. All of us are interested in your activities.

▽

ROBERT W. SULLIVAN

is another New Yorker to send along his application for membership in the Round Table Club and he hails from Hornell, N. Y., where he manages the Boller Theatre. Fall in line with the army, Bob, and get in step with the rest of the fellows by sending in a report on activities at the Boller. What are you doing to boost spring trade? Let your fellow Club members know.

▽

JAMES SNYDER

hails from out in Crested Butte, Colo., where he manages the Princess Theatre and we're also adding James' name to the several thousand showmen already enrolled in this Club. He is also in sympathy with the work carried on by this department and promises to contribute his share of show-selling suggestions. Okay, Jim; that's the proper Club spirit. Shoot along your ideas.

▽

J. D. WOODWARD

manages the Victory Theatre, a well known vaudeville and picture house down in Tampa, Fla., and we're more than glad to include his name on the Club roster. Jaydee is a Sparks man and that means he's another live-wire member of this organization. Since there are other sections of this country just as warm as Florida in summer time, we'll be looking for dope to pass along on how Woodward combats the seasonal slump.

▽

BEN BLACKMON, JR.

has charge of the advertising for the Victory Theatre, Tampa, Fla., and we're also taking this opportunity to acknowledge his application for membership in the Club. Now that both Woodward and Blackmon are on the list, this department certainly should be in a position to advise fellow members on what's doing in showbusiness at the Victory. We will expect to hear more from both in the near future.

▽

MEYER PARET

is the skipper of the Astor Theatre down in Allentown, Pa., and we're also glad to announce that he, too, has become a Round Tabler. Now that you are one of the gang, Meyer, put your shoulder to the wheel and do your part to keep this organization the liveliest of its kind in showbusiness. We'll be awaiting your next communication.

THE RELEASE CHART

Productions are listed according to the names of distributors in order that the exhibitor may have a short-cut towards such information as he may need, as well as information on pictures that are coming. Features which are finshed or are in work, but to which release dates have not been assigned, are listed in "Coming Attractions." Running times are those supplied by the distributors. Where they vary, the change is probably due to local censorship deletions. Dates are 1932, unless otherwise specified.

ALLIED PICTURES

Features

Title	Star	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
Cowboy Counsellor	Hoot Gibson-Sheila Manners	Oct. 15	63	Oct. 8
Dude Bandit, The	Hoot Gibson-Gloria Shea	May 1,'33	67
Eleventh Commandment	Marian Marsh-Theo. Von Eltz	Mar. 15,'33	64	Mar. 18,'33
Intruder, The	Monte Blue-Lila Lee	Dec. 26	69	Jan. 14,'33
Iron Master, The	Lila Lee-Reginald Denny	Nov. 1	69	Dec. 10
Officer 13	Monte Blue-Lila Lee	Nov. 26	67	Dec. 3
Parisian Romance, A	Lew Cody-Marian Shilling	Oct. 1	77	Sept. 17
Shriek in the Night, A	Ginger Rogers-Lyle Talbot	Apr. 15,'33	70	Mar. 25,'33

Coming Feature Attractions

Anna Karenina
Beyond the Law
Boots of Destiny	Hoot Gibson
Cheaters
Davy Jones' Locker
Fighting Parson, The	Hoot Gibson-Marceline Day
Midnight Alarm
Nesters, The	Monte Blue
Open for Inspection
Pullman Car
Red Kisses
Scarlet Virgin, The Silk Trimmed
Slightly Used
Three Castles
Valley of Adventure, The	Monte Blue
Without Children

CHESTERFIELD

Features

Title	Star	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
Forgotten	June Clyde-Lee Kohlmar	Feb. 15,'33	65
Love Is Like That	Rochelle Hudson-John Warburton	Mar. 15,'33	65
Secrets of Wu Sin	Lois Wilson-Grant Withers	Dec. 15	65
Slightly Married	Evalyn Knapp-Walter Byron	Oct. 15	65	Dec. 3
Strange People	Hale Hamilton-Gloria Shea-John Darrow	Jan. 15,'33	65
Women Won't Tell	Sarah Padden-Gloria Shea	Nov. 15	67

COLUMBIA

Features

Title	Star	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
Air Hostess	Evalyn Knapp-James Murray-Thelma Todd	Jan. 15,'33	67	Jan. 28,'33
As the Devil Commands	Alan Dinehart-Neil Hamilton-Mae Clarke	Dec. 24
Below the Sea	Ralph Bellamy-Fay Wray	Apr. 25,'33
Bitter Tea of General Yen	B. Stanwyck-Nils Asther	Jan. 6,'33	89	Nov. 26
California Trail, The	Buck Jones-Helen Mack	Mar. 24,'33
Child of Manhattan	John Boles-Nancy Carroll	Feb. 4,'33	71	Jan. 21,'33
Circus Queen Murder, The	Adolphe Menjou-Greta Nissen-Donald Cook	Apr. 10,'33	65	May 13,'33
Deception	Leo Carrillo-Barbara Weeks-Nat Pendleton	Nov. 4	67	Jan. 14,'33
End of the Trail, The	Tim McCoy-Luana Walters	Dec. 19	59½
Fighting for Justice	Tim McCoy-Joyce Compton	Dec. 28	60½
Forbidden Trail	Buck Jones-Barbara Weeks	Nov. 18	71
Man Against Woman	Jack Holt-Lillian Miles	Nov. 15	68	Dec. 10
Man of Action	Tim McCoy-Caryl Lincoln	Jan. 20,'33	57
Mussolini Speaks		Mar. 10,'33	76	Mar. 18,'33
Night of Terror	Bela Lugosi-Sally Blane	Apr. 24,'33
No More Orchids	Carole Lombard-Lyle Talbot
Obey the Law	Leo Carrillo-Lois Wilson-Dickie Moore	Jan. 20,'33	69	Mar. 18,'33
Parole Girl	Mae Clarke-Ralph Bellamy	Mar. 4,'33	67	Apr. 15,'33
Silent Man	Tim McCoy-Florence Britton	Mar. 3,'33	68
So This Is Africa	Bert Wheeler-Robt. Woolsey-Raquel Torres	Feb. 24,'33	70	Jan. 28,'33
Soldiers of the Storm	Regis Toomey-Anita Page	Apr. 4,'33
Speed Demon	Wm. Collier, Jr.-Joan Marsh	Nov. 5	65	Nov. 26
State Trooper	Regis Toomey-Evalyn Knapp	Feb. 10,'33	68	Apr. 1,'33
Sundown Rider, The	Buck Jones-Barbara Weeks	Dec. 30	69
Unknown Valley	Buck Jones-Cecilia Parker	May 5,'33
Treason	Buck Jones-Shirley Grey	Feb. 10,'33	61½
Virtue	Carole Lombard-Pat O'Brien	Oct. 25	69	Nov. 5
When Strangers Marry	Jack Holt-Lillian Bond	Mar. 20,'33	68
Whirlwind, The	Tim McCoy-Alice Dahl	Apr. 14,'33
Woman I Stole, The	Jack Holt-Raquel Torres-Fay Wray	May 1,'33	66

Coming Feature Attractions

Ann Carver's Profession	Fay Wray-Gene Raymond
Biddy	Richard Cromwell
Cocktail Hour	Bebe Daniels-Sidney Blackmer-Randolph Scott
Fighting Code, The	Buck Jones-Diane Sinclair
Fighting Ranger, The	Buck Jones-Dorothy Revier
Full Speed Ahead	Chic Sale-Diane Sinclair
Kaleidoscope in K
King of the Wild Horses	Wm. Janney-Dorothy Appleby
Madame La Gimp	Warren William-Guy Kibbee-May Robson-Glenda Farrell
Man's Castle
Ninth Guest
Open Road, The	Buck Jones-Cecilia Parker
Party's Over, The
Rusty Rides Alone	Tim McCoy-Barbara Weeks
Thrill Hunter, The	Buck Jones-Dorothy Revier
Twentieth Century
Wrecker, The	Jack Holt-Genevieve Tobin

EQUITABLE PICTURES

[Distributed through Majestic]

Features

Title	Star	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
Cheating Blondes	Thelma Todd-Reife Haroldе	Apr. 1,'33	66
Gigolettes of Paris	Madge Bellamy-Gilbert Roland	Mar. 15,'33	65
What Price Decency?	Dorothy Burgess-Alan Hale-Walter Byron	Mar. 1,'33	60	Mar. 11,'33

FIRST DIVISION

Features

Title	Star	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
Big Drive, The		Jan. 19,'33	91	Jan. 28,'33
Condemned to Death	Arthur Wontner	Oct. 10	78½	July 23
Goona Goona		Nov. 28	66	Aug. 27
Ringer, The	Franklyn Dyall	Oct. 30	60	June 11

FIRST NATIONAL

Features

Title	Star	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
Blondie Johnson	Joan Blondell-Chester Morris	Feb. 25,'33	69	Feb. 4,'33
Central Airport	Richard Barthelmess	Apr. 15,'33	75	Apr. 1,'33
Central Park	Joan Blondell	Dec. 10	55	Nov. 19
Elmer the Great	Joe E. Brown	Apr. 22,'33	74	Apr. 1,'33
Employees Entrance	W. William-Loretta Young	Feb. 11,'33	75	Dec. 24
Frisco Jenny	Ruth Chatterton	Jan. 14,'33	76	Dec. 17
Grand Slam	Paul Lukas-Loretta Young	Mar. 18,'33	65	Jan. 14,'33
Lilly Turner	Ruth Chatterton-Geo. Brent	May 13,'33	64	Apr. 29,'33
Little Giant, The	Edward G. Robinson	May 20,'33	74	Apr. 15,'33
Match King, The	Warren William-Lili Damita	Dec. 31	79	Dec. 17
Mind Reader, The	Warren William	Apr. 1,'33	68	Feb. 25,'33
Silver Dollar	Edward G. Robinson	Dec. 24	78	Nov. 5
They Call It Sin	Loretta Young-Geo. Brent	Nov. 5	74	Sept. 3
20,000 Years in Sing Sing	Bette Davis-Spencer Tracy	Feb. 1,'33	81	Nov. 5
You Said a Mouthful	Joe E. Brown	Nov. 26	72	Nov. 19

Coming Feature Attractions

Heroes for Sale	Richard Barthelmess-Loretta Young	June 17,'33
She Had to Say Yes	Loretta Young-Lyle Talbot

FOX FILMS

Features

Title	Star	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
Adorable	Janet Gaynor-Henry Garat	May 19,'33
After the Ball	Esther Ralston-Basil Rathbone	Mar. 17,'33	69	Mar. 25,'33
Bondage	Dorothy Jordan-Alex. Kirkland	Mar. 31,'33	65	Apr. 15,'33
Broadway Bad	Joan Blondell-Ginger Rogers-Ricardo Cortez	Feb. 24,'33	59	Mar. 11,'33
Call Her Savage	Bow-Owsley-Todd-Roland	Nov. 27	88	Dec. 3
Cavalcade	Clive Brook-Diana Wynyard	Apr. 15,'33	110	Jan. 14,'33
Dangerously Yours	Miriam Jordan-Warner Baxter	Feb. 3,'33	73	Feb. 4,'33
Face in the Sky	Spencer Tracy-Marian Nixon-Stuart Erwin	Jan. 22,'33	77	Feb. 4,'33
Golden West, The	Geo. O'Brien-Janet Chandler-Marion Burns	Oct. 30	74	Oct. 15
Handle with Care	James Dunn-Boots Mallory	Dec. 25	75	Dec. 24
Hello, Sister	James Dunn-Boots Mallory	Apr. 14,'33	56	May 13,'33
Hot Pepper	Victor McLaglen-Edmund Lowe-Lupe Velez-El Brendel	Jan. 22,'33	76	Jan. 28,'33
Humanity	Boots Mallory-A. Kirkland	Mar. 3,'33	70	Apr. 29,'33
Infernal Machine	Genevieve Tobin-Chester Morris	Feb. 10,'33	65	Apr. 15,'33
Me and My Gal	Joan Bennett-Spencer Tracy	Dec. 4	78	Dec. 17
Pleasure Cruise	Genevieve Tobin-Roland Young	Mar. 24,'33	72	Apr. 1,'33
Rackety Rax	Victor McLaglen-Greta Nissen-Neil O'Day	Oct. 23	75	Oct. 29
Robbers Roost	George O'Brien-Maureen O'Sullivan	Jan. 1,'33	64	Apr. 1,'33
Sailor's Luck	James Dunn-Sally Eilers	Mar. 10,'33	78	Mar. 25,'33
Second Hand Wife	Sally Eilers-Ralph Bellamy	Jan. 1,'33	64	Jan. 21,'33
Sherlock Holmes	Clive Brook-Miriam Jordan	Nov. 6	69	Nov. 26
Smoke Lightning	George O'Brien-Neil O'Day	Feb. 17,'33
State Fair	Janet Gaynor-Will Rogers-Lew Ayres-Sally Eilers-Norman Foster-Frank Craven	Feb. 10,'33	100	Feb. 4,'33
Tess of the Storm Country	Janet Gaynor-Chas. Farrell	Nov. 20	75	Nov. 26
Too Busy to Work	Will Rogers-Marian Nixon	Nov. 13	70	Nov. 12
Trick for Trick	Ralph Morgan-Victor Jory	Apr. 21,'33
Warrior's Husband, The	Elissa Landi-Ernest Truex-David Manners	May 12,'33	68	May 6,'33
Zoo in Budapest	Gene Raymond-Loretta Young	Apr. 28,'33	85	Apr. 22,'33

Coming Feature Attractions

Arizona to Broadway	James Dunn-Joan Bennett	June 23,'33
Berkeley Square	Leslie Howard-Heather Angel
Devil's in Love, The	Victor Jory-Loretta Young	July 21,'33
Five Cents a Glass	Marian Nixon-"Buddy" Rogers	June 30,'33
Hold Me Tight	James Dunn-Sally Eilers	May 26,'33
I Loved You Wednesday	Warner Baxter-Elissa Landi-Miriam Jordan	June 9,'33
It's Great to Be Alive	Edna May Oliver-Raul Roulien	June 2,'33
Life in the Raw	George O'Brien	June 16,'33
Man Who Dared, The	Preston Foster-Zita Johann	July 14,'33
Man-Eater	Marion Burns-Kane Richmond
My Lips Betray	Lilian Harvey-John Boles
Pilgrimage	Marian Nixon-Norman Foster
Power and the Glory, The	Colleen Moore-Spencer Tracy

FREULER FILM ASSOCIATES

Features

Title	Star	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
Deadwod Pass	Tom Tyler	May 5,'33
Easy Millions	Skeets Gallagher-Dorothy Burgess-Merna Kennedy	May 15,'33
Fighting Gentleman, The	Wm. Collier, Jr.-Josephine Dunn-N. Moorhead	Oct. 7	65	Oct. 15
Forty-Niners, The	Tom Tyler	Oct. 28	59
Gambling Sex	Ruth Hall-Grant Withers	Nov. 21	65
Kiss of Araby	Maria Alba-Walter Byron	Apr. 21,'33
Penal Code, The	Regis Toomey-Helen Cohan	Dec. 23
Savage Girl, The	Rochelle Hudson-Walter Byron	Dec. 5
When a Man Rides Alone	Tom Tyler	Jan. 15,'33

(THE RELEASE CHART--CONT'D)

Coming Feature Attractions

Black Cat, The
Bulldog Edition
East of Sudan
Green Paradise
My Wandering Boy
Red Man's Country
Silent Army, The Sisters of the Follies

MAJESTIC

Features

Title	Star	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
Crusader, The	Evelyn Brent-H. B. Warner	Oct.	1	Oct. 8
Gun Law	Jack Hoxie-Betty Boyd	Apr.	15,'33
Law and Lawless	Jack Hoxie-Hilda Moreno	Nov.	30
Outlaw Justice	Jack Hoxie-Dorothy Gulliver	Oct.	1
Trouble Busters	Jack Hoxie-Lane Chandler	May	15,'33
Unwritten Law, The	Greta Nissen-Skeets Gallagher	Nov.	15	Jan. 4,'33
Vampire Bat, The	Lionel Atwill-Fay Wray	Jan.	21,'33	Jan. 28,'33
Via Pony Express	Jack Hoxie-Marceline Day	Feb.	6,'33
World Gone Mad, The	Pat O'Brien-Evelyn Brent	Apr.	1,'33	Apr. 22,'33

Coming Feature Attractions

Buried Alive
Curtain at Eight
Sing, Sinner, Sing — Paul Lukas-Leila Hyams
Woman in the Chair, The

MAYFAIR PICTURES

Features

Title	Star	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
Alimony Madness	Helen Chandler-Leon Waycoff	Apr.	1,'33	May 13,'33
Behind Jury Doors	Helen Chandler-Wm. Collier, Jr.	Dec.	1
Heart Punch	Marion Shilling-L. Hughes	Oct.	15	Oct. 29
Her Mad Night	Irene Rich-Conway Tearle	Oct.	1	Oct. 29
Her Resale Value	June Clyde-George Lewis	Apr.	15,'33
Justice Takes a Holiday	Patricia O'Brien-Lloyd Whitlock	Feb.	'33
Malay Nights	John Mack Brown-D. Burgess-Ralph Ince	Nov.	1
Midnight Warning	William Boyd-Claudia Dell	Nov.	15
Revenge at Monte Carlo	June Collyer-José Crespo-Lloyd Whitlock	Feb.	'33
Sister to Judas	Claire Windsor-John Harron	Jan.	1,'33	Feb. 18,'33

METRO-GOLDWYN-MAYER

Features

Title	Star	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
Barbarian, The	Ramon Novarro-Myrna Loy	May	12,'33	Apr. 15,'33
Clear All Wires	Lee Tracy-Benita Hume	Feb.	24,'33	Feb. 18,'33
Devil's Brother, The	Laurel and Hardy-Dennis King-Thelma Todd	May	5,'33	Apr. 8,'33
Faithless	T. Bankhead-R. Montgomery	Oct.	15	Oct. 15
Fast Life	William Haines-Madge Evans	Dec.	16	Dec. 10
Fast Workers	John Gilbert-Mae Clarke	Mar.	10,'33	Mar. 25,'33
Flesh	Wallace Beery-Karen Morley-Ricardo Cortez	Dec.	9	Dec. 17
Gabriel Over the White House	Walter Huston-Karen Morley	Mar.	31,'33	Apr. 8,'33
Looking Forward	Lewis Stone-Benita Hume-Lionel Barrymore	Apr.	28,'33	Apr. 1,'33
(Reviewed under the title "The New Deal")
Made on Broadway	R. Montgomery-Sally Eilers	May	19,'33	Apr. 8,'33
Mask of Fu Manchu, The	Boris Karloff	Nov.	5	Dec. 10
Men Must Fight	Phillips Holmes-Diana Wynyard	Feb.	17,'33	Mar. 18,'33
Outsider, The	Harold Huth-Joan Barry	Jan.	28,'33	May 2,'31
Prosperity	Dressler-Moran	Nov.	18	Nov. 12
Rasputin and the Empress	Ethel, John and Lionel Barrymore	Mar.	24,'33	Dec. 31
Secret of Madame Blanche, The	Irene Dunne-Phillips Holmes	Feb.	3,'33	Jan. 21,'33
Son Daughter	Helen Hayes-Ramon Novarro	Dec.	23	Jan. 7,'33
Strange Interlude	Norma Shearer-Clarke Gable	Dec.	30	Sept. 3
Today We Live	Joan Crawford-Gary Cooper	Apr.	21,'33	Apr. 22,'33
What! No Beer?	Buster Keaton-Jimmy Durante	Feb.	10,'33	Feb. 11,'33
Whistling in the Dark	Ernest Truex-Una Merkel	Jan.	21,'33	Feb. 4,'33
White Sister, The	Helen Hayes-Clark Gable	Apr.	14,'33	Mar. 25,'33

Coming Feature Attractions

Dinner at Eight — Marie Dressler-Wallace Beery-Lionel Barrymore-Jean Harlow-Madge Evans-Karen Morley-Edmund Lowe-Lee Tracy-Jean Hersholt
Eskimo — Native Cast
Hell Below — Robt. Montgomery-Jimmy Durante-Robt. Young-Walter Huston-Madge Evans — June 9,'33 — 105 — Apr. 15,'33
Hold Your Man — Jean Harlow-Clark Gable — June 30,'33
Lady of the Night — Loretta Young-Ricardo Cortez — July 14,'33
Never Give a Sucker a Break — Lee Tracy-Madge Evans — June 2,'33 — 80 — May 6,'33
Night Flight — H. Hayes-J. Barrymore-L. Barrymore-C. Gable-Robt. Montgomery
Peg O' My Heart — Marion Davies-Onslow Stevens — May 26,'33 — 85
Reunion in Vienna — John Barrymore-Diana Wynyard-Frank Morgan — June 16,'33 — 100 — May 6,'33
Strange Rhapsody — Nils Asther-Kay Francis — July 7,'33
Stranger's Return, The — Lionel Barrymore-Franchot Tone-Miriam Hopkins
Tarzan and His Mate — J. Weissmuller-M. O'Sullivan
Tugboat Annie — Marie Dressler-Wallace Beery-Robt. Young-M. O'Sullivan
When Ladies Meet — Ann Harding-Alice Brady-Robt. Montgomery — June 23,'33

MONOGRAM PICTURES CORPORATION

Features

Title	Star	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
Black Beauty	Alex. Kirkland-Esther Ralston	May	10,'33	70 Apr. 29,'33
Breed of the Border	Bob Steele	Mar.	1,'33
Crashin' Broadway	Rex Bell	Dec.	30
Diamond Trail, The	Rex Bell	Dec.	30
Fighting Champ	Bob Steele	Dec.	15
Guilty or Not Guilty	Betty Compson-Tom Douglas	Nov.	15	7 reels
Hidden Valley	Bob Steele	Oct.	10	6 reels
Jungle Bride	Anita Page-Charles Starrett	Feb.	15,'33	63 Feb. 25,'33
Lucky Larrigan	Rex Bell-Helen Foster	Dec.	1
Man from Arizona, The	Rex Bell	Oct.	1	6 reels
Oliver Twist	Dickie Moore-Irving Pichel-Jackie Searle	Feb.	28,'33	80 Mar. 4,'33
Phantom Broadcast	Ralph Forbes-Vivienne Osborne	Mar.	15,'33	68 Apr 8,'33
Self-Defense	Pauline Frederick	Dec.	15	68 Dec. 10
Strange Adventure	Regis Toomey-June Clyde	Nov.	20	7 reels
West of Singapore	Betty Compson	Jan.	31,'33	68 Apr. 15,'33
Young Blood	Bob Steele	Nov.	5

Coming Feature Attractions

Casey Jones — All Star — May 25,'33
Fighting Texans, The — Rex Bell — June 15,'33
Gallant Fool — Bob Steele — May 29,'33
Sphinx, The — Lionel Atwill-Sheila Terry — June 1,'33

PARAMOUNT PUBLIX

Features

Title	Star	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
A Bedtime Story	Maurice Chevalier-Helen Twelvetrees	Apr.	21,'33	87 Apr. 29,'33
Big Broadcast, The	Stuart Erwin-Bing Crosby-Kate Smith-Leila Hyams-Mills Bros.-Boswell Sisters-Cab Calloway-Vincent Lopez-Arthur Tracy-Sharon Lynn	Oct.	28	80 Oct. 8
Billion Dollar Scandal	Carole Lombard-Robt. Armstrong	Jan.	6,'33	78 Dec. 31
Crime of the Century	Stuart Erwin-Wynne Gibson	Feb.	24,'33	75 Mar. 4,'33
Devil Is Driving, The	Edmund Lowe-Wynne Gibson	Dec.	9	70 Dec. 16
Eagle and the Hawk, The	F. March-C. Grant-J. Oakie	May	19,'33	72 May 6,'33
Evenings for Sale	Herb Marshall-Sari Maritza	Nov.	11	65 Nov. 5
Farewell to Arms, A	Helen Hayes-Gary Cooper	Jan.	6,'33	78 Dec. 10
From Hell to Heaven	Carole Lombard-Jack Oakie	Feb.	24,'33	70 Feb. 18,'33
He Learned About Women	Stuart Erwin-A. Skipworth	Nov.	4	68
Hello, Everybody	Kate Smith	Feb.	17,'33	70 Jan. 14,'33
Hot Saturday	Nancy Carroll-Cary Grant	Oct.	28	73 Oct. 22
If I Had a Million	Gary Cooper-Wynne Gibson-Geo. Raft-Richard Bennett-Mary Robson	Nov.		95 Nov. 12
Island of Lost Souls	Chas. Laughton-Richard Arlen-Leila Hyams	Dec.		70 Dec. 16
King of the Jungle	Frances Dee-Buster Crabbe	Mar.	10,'33	74 Mar. 4,'33
Lady's Profession, A	Alison Skipworth-Roland Young	Mar.	3,'33	72 Feb. 25,'33
Luxury Liner	Geo. Brent-Zita Johann-Frank Morgan	Feb.	3,'33	70 Jan. 28,'33
M	Peter Lorre			96 Apr. 8,'33
Madame Butterfly	Sylvia Sidney-Cary Grant	Dec.	30	88 Dec. 31
Murders in the Zoo	Charlie Ruggles-Lionel Atwill	Mar.	31,'33	55 Mar. 11,'33
Mysterious Rider, The	Kent Taylor-Lona André	Jan.	20,'33	59
Night After Night	Geo. Raft-C. Cummings	Oct.	14	70 Oct. 8
No Man of Her Own	Clark Gable-Carole Lombard	Dec.		76 Dec. 24
Pick Up	Sylvia Sidney-George Raft	Mar.	24,'33	75 Mar. 25,'33
She Done Him Wrong	Mae West-Owen Moore	Jan.	27,'33	66 Feb. 18,'33
Sign of the Cross	Fredric March-Elissa Landi-Claudette Colbert	Feb.	10,'33	123 Dec. 10
Song of the Eagle	Chas. Bickford-Mary Brian-Richard Arlen	Apr.	28,'33	83 Apr. 29,'33
Story of Temple Drake, The	Miriam Hopkins-Jack LaRue	May	12,'33	72 May 13,'33
Strictly Personal	Marjorie Rambeau-Eddie Quillan-D. Jordan	Mar.	17,'33	70 Mar. 4,'33
Supernatural	C. Lombard-Randolph Scott-V. Osborne	May	5,'33	64½ Apr. 29,'33
Terror Aboard	Neil Hamilton-Chas. Ruggles-Verree Teasdale	Apr.	14,'33	65½ May 6,'33
Tonight Is Ours	C. Colbert-Fredric March-Paul Cavanagh	Jan.	13,'33	76 Jan. 7,'33
Trouble in Paradise	Miriam Hopkins-H. Marshall-Kay Francis	Oct.	21	73 Oct. 29
Under Cover Man	Geo. Raft-Nancy Carroll	Dec.	2	74 Dec. 10
Under the Tonto Rim	Stuart Erwin-Verna Hillie	Apr.	7,'33	59
Wild Horse Mesa	Randolph Scott-Sally Blane	Nov.	25	72½
Woman Accused, The	Cary Grant-Nancy Carroll-John Halliday-Lona André	Feb.	17,'33	73 Feb. 4,'33

Coming Feature Attractions

College Humor — Bing Crosby-Jack Oakie — June 30,'33
Disgraced — Helen Twelvetrees-Wm. Harrigan
Gambling Ship — Cary Grant-Benita Hume — June 23,'33
Girl in 419, The — James Dunn-Gloria Stuart — May 26,'33 — 76 — May 6,'33
Her Bodyguard — Wynne Gibson-Edmund Lowe
I Love That Man — Nancy Carroll-Edmund Lowe — June 9,'33 — 75 — May 6,'33
International House — Peggy Hopkins Joyce — June 2,'33 — 65
Jennie Gerhardt — Sylvia Sidney-Donald Cook — June 16,'33
Song of Songs — Marlene Dietrich-Brian Aherne
Sunset Pass — Randolph Scott-Tom Keene — May 26,'33

RKO RADIO PICTURES

Features

Title	Star	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
Animal Kingdom	Leslie Howard-Ann Harding	Dec.	28	78 Dec. 10
Cheyenne Kid	Tom Keene	Jan.	20,'33	54½
Christopher Strong	K. Hepburn-Colin Clive-Billie Burke	Mar.	31,'33	72 Mar. 18,'33
Conquerors, The	Ann Harding-Richard Dix	Nov.	18	80 Nov. 19
Diplomaniacs	Bert Wheeler-Robt. Woolsey	May	12,'33	63 Apr. 15,'33
Goldie Gets Along	Lili Damita-Chas. Morton	Jan.	27,'33	68
Great Jasper, The	Richard Dix	Mar.	3,'33	76 Feb. 11,'33
Half-Naked Truth, The	Lee Tracy-Lupe Velez	Dec.	16	77 Jan. 7,'33
India Speaks	Richard Halliburton	Apr.	28,'33	75 May 13,'33
King Kong	Fay Wray-Bruce Cabot	Apr.	7,'33	100 Feb. 25,'33
Little Orphan Annie	Mitzi Green-Buster Phelps	Nov.	4	70 Oct. 29
Lucky Devils	Bill Boyd-Bruce Cabot-William Gargan-D. Wilson	Feb.	3,'33	60 Dec. 31
Man Hunt	Junior Durkin-Mrs. Wallace Reid	Mar.	24,'33	68 Feb. 4,'33
(Reviewed under the title "A Successful Bunder")
Men Are Such Fools	Lee Carrillo-V. Osborne	Nov.	18	66
Men of America	Bill Boyd	Dec.	9	75 Nov. 12
Monkey's Paw, The	Ivan Simpson-Louise Carter	Jan.	13,'33	52 Oct. 1
No Other Woman	Irene Dunne-Chas. Bickford	Jan.	6,'33	58 Jan. 21,'33
Our Betters	Constance Bennett	Mar.	17,'33	72 Mar. 4,'33
Past of Mary Holmes, The	Helen MacKellar-Eric Linden	Jan.	20,'33	62 May 6,'33
Penguin Pool Murder	Edna May Oliver-Jas. Gleason	Dec.	30	75 Nov. 12
Renegades of the West	Tom Keene	Nov.	25	55
Rockabye	Constance Bennett-Joel McCrae	Nov.	25	75 Nov. 26
Sailor Be Good	Jack Oakie-Vivienne Osborne	Feb.	10,'33	68 Mar. 4,'33
Scarlet River	Tom Keene-D. Wilson	Mar.	10,'33	57 Jan. 21,'33
Secrets of the French Police	Gwili Andre-Frank Morgan	Dec.	2	58 Dec. 17
Silver Cord, The	Irene Dunne-Joel McCrea	May	19,'33	74 May 13,'33
Son of the Border	Tom Keene-Julie Haydon	May	5,'33	55
Sport Parade, The	Joel McCrae-Marian Marsh	Nov.	11	65 Dec. 24
Sweepings	Lionel Barrymore	Apr.	14,'33	80 Mar. 18,'33
Topaze	John Barrymore-Myrna Loy	Feb.	24,'33	78 Feb. 11,'33

Coming Feature Attractions

Bed of Roses — Constance Bennett-Joel McCrea
Cross Fire — Tom Keene-Betty Furness — June 30,'33 — 55 — Apr. 8,'33
Emergency Call — Bill Boyd-Betty Furness — May 26,'33
Flying Circus (Tent.) — Arline Judge-Bruce Cabot-Ralph Bellamy-Eric Linden
Jamboree — Robt. Armstrong-Helen Mack
Melody Cruise — Phil Harris-Charles Ruggles — June 2,'33
Morning Glory, The — K. Hepburn-D. Fairbanks, Jr.
Public Be Sold, The — Richard Dix-Doris Kenyon
Purity Girl (Tent.) — Ginger Rogers-Norman Foster
Tomorrow at Seven — Chester Morris-Vivienne Osborne — June 9,'33 — 64 — May 13,'33

STATE RIGHTS

Features

Title	Star	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
Alone	Elena Kuzmina-Amkino
Bachelor Mother	Evelyn Knapp-James Murray-Goldsmith	Jan.	5,'33	71 Jan 21,'33
Bal, Le	Andre Lefaur-Protex		80	Oct. 8
Blame the Woman	Adolphe Menjou-Benita Huma-Principal	Oct.	15	74 Nov. 5
Charlotte Lowenskold	Birgit Sergelius-Eric Barclay-Scandinavian
Contraband	Don Alvarado-Dorothy Sebastian-Hoffberg	Apr.	1,'33

(THE RELEASE CHART--CONT'D)

Title	Star	Dist'r.	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
Devil's Playground, The		Principal	Jan. 1,'33	54
Eternal Jew, The	M. B. Samuylow	Jewish Talking Pictures
Face on the Barroom Floor, The	B. Fletcher	Invincible		66	Oct. 22
Forgotten Men		Jewel Productions	Feb. '33	83
Fourteenth of July, The	Annabella - Georges Rigaud	Tobis-Rene Clair		85	Jan. 28,'33
High Gear	James Murray - Joan Marsh	Hollywood	Apr. 14,'33	67	Apr. 22,'33
Horizon (The Wandering Jew)	Nikolai Batalov	Amkino
Hotel Variety	Hal Skelly - Olive Borden	Screencraft		68
In the Days of the Crusaders	Alberto Pasquali	Monopole	Oct. 1	75	Oct. 15
Italy Speaks		Enrico Cutall			Feb. 25,'33
Jungle Gigolo		Principal	Feb. 15,'33	55
Jungle Killer	Carveth Wells	Century Productions	Dec.
Lady of the Night	Francesca Bertini	Portale Picts.	Mar. 9,'33
Love and Passion		Yugoslavian Picts.
Manhattan Tower	Mary Brian - Irene Rich-James Hall	Remington	Dec. 1	67	Nov. 19
Men and Jobs		Amkino	Jan. 1,'33	70	Jan. 14,'33
Moon Over Morocco	Rene Lefebvre-Rosine Derean	Protex	Jan. 21,'33	80	Feb. 25,'33
November Night (Polish)	S.Jaracz-J.Wegrzyn-J.Smosarska	Capital	Apr. 27,'33	97	May 6,'33
Out of Singapore	Noah Beery	Goldsmith Picts.		61	Sept. 24
Piri Knows All	Margit Dayka	Arkay Film
Potemkin		Kinematrade	Mar. 31,'33	54	Apr. 15,'33
Pride of the Legion	Sally Blane-B. Kent	Mascot	Oct. 10	70	Oct. 29
Return of Nathan Becker	David Gutman	Worldkino	Apr. 13,'33	71	Apr. 29,'33
Shadow Laughs, The	Hal Skelly-Rose Hobart	Invincible		67
Shame	Vladimir Gardin	Amkino	Oct. 15	65	Dec. 3
Socko		Hoffberg		30
Soviets on Parade		Kinematrade	Mar. 31,'31	60
Sucker Money	Mischa Auer	Hollywood	Apr. 5,'33	70	Apr. 15,'33
Truth About Africa, The		Wm. Alexander		47
Virgins of Bali		Principal	Dec. 8	46	Dec. 17
With Williamson Beneath the Sea		Principal	Nov. 24	59	Dec. 3
Wives Beware!	Adolphe Menjou	Regent Picts.
Woman in Chains	Owen Nares	Invincible		69	Aug. 19

(Reviewed under title "The Impassive Footman" — Assoc. Radio British)

TOWER PRODUCTIONS

Features

Title	Star	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
Daring Daughters	Marian Marsh-Joan Marsh	Feb. '33	60	Apr. 15,'33
Red Haired Alibi	Merna Kennedy-Theodore Von Eltz-Grant Withers	Oct. 15	72	Oct. 29
Reform Girl	Noel Francis-Dorothy Peterson-Skeets Gallagher	Mar. '33	70

UNITED ARTISTS

Features

Title	Star	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
Cynara	Ronald Colman-Kay Francis	Dec. 24	80	Nov. 5
Hallelujah, I'm a Bum	Al Jolson	Feb. 3,'33	82	Feb. 18,'33
I Cover the Waterfront	Claudette Colbert - Ben Lyon - Ernest Torrence		75	Apr. 29,'33
Kid from Spain, The	Eddie Cantor	Nov. 17	90	Nov. 5
Magic Night	Jack Buchanan	Nov. 5	76	Nov. 12
Rain	Joan Crawford	Oct. 22	85	Sept. 17
Perfect Understanding	Gloria Swanson	Mar. 11,'33	84	Mar. 4,'33
Secrets	Mary Pickford-Leslie Howard	Apr. 16,'33	90	Feb. 18,'33

Coming Feature Attractions

Joe Palooka	Jimmy Durante-Stuart Erwin
Masquerader, The	Ronald Colman-Elissa Landi
Samarang
Yes, Mr. Brown	Jack Buchanan

UNIVERSAL

Features

Title	Star	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
Afraid to Talk	Eric Linden-Sidney Fox	Nov. 17	76	Sept. 24

(Reviewed under title "Merry Go Round")

Air Mail	Pat O'Brien-Ralph Bellamy	Nov. 3	83	Oct. 8
Be Mine Tonight	Jan Kiepura-Magda Schneider	Mar. 23,'33	78	Feb. 18,'33
Big Cage, The	Anita Page-Clyde Beatty	Mar. 3,'33	75	Mar. 4,'33
Cohens and Kellys in Trouble	Chas. Murray-Geo. Sidney	Mar. 23,'33	69	Apr. 22,'33
Destination Unknown	Pat. O'Brien-Ralph Bellamy	Mar. 16,'33	67	Jan. 28,'33
Fighting President, The		Apr. 14,'33	50	Apr. 15,'33
Flaming Guns	Tom Mix-Ruth Hall	Dec. 22	57
Hidden Gold	Tom Mix	Nov. 3	56
Kiss Before the Mirror	Nancy Carroll-Paul Lukas	May 4,'33	67	Mar. 11,'33
Laughter in Hell	Pat O'Brien-Gloria Stuart	Jan. 12,'33	68	Jan. 7,'33
Lucky Dog	Charles "Chic" Sale	Apr. 20,'33	55	May 13,'33
Mummy, The	Boris Karloff-Zita Johann	Dec. 22	78	Dec. 3
Nagana	Tala Birell-Melvyn Douglas	Jan. 26,'33	74	Jan. 7,'33
Old Dark House, The	Boris Karloff-L. Bond	Oct. 20	74	July 16
Out All Night	Summerville-Pitts	Apr. 13,'33	72	Mar. 11,'33
Private Jones	Lee Tracy-Gloria Stuart	Feb. 16,'33	89	Apr. 1,'33
Rome Express	Esther Ralston-Conrad Veidt	Feb. 16,'33	87	Jan. 21,'33
Rustler's Roundup	Tom Mix—Diane Sinclair	Mar. 16,'33
Terror Trail, The	Tom Mix	Feb. 2,'33	57	Feb. 18,'33
They Just Had to Get Married	Summerville-Pitts	Jan. 5,'33	75	Feb. 11,'33

Coming Feature Attractions

Black Pearl	Tala Birell
Fiddlin' Buckaroo	Ken Maynard-Gloria Shea
In the Money	Lew Ayres-Ginger Rogers
King of Jazz (Reissue)	Paul Whiteman-John Boles-Bing Crosby
King of the Arena	Ken Maynard
Rebel, The	Vilma Banky-Luis Trenker
S. O. S. Iceberg	Rod La Roque-Gibson Gowland
Salt Water	Summerville-Pitts

WARNER BROS.

Features

Title	Star	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
Baby Face	Barbara Stanwyck	Apr. 22,'33	74	Apr. 1,'33
Ex-Lady	Bette Davis	Apr. 8,'33	62	Feb. 18,'33
Forty-Second Street	Warner Baxter - Bebe Daniels - Geo. Brent	Mar. 11,'33	89	Mar. 18,'33
Girl Missing	Ben Lyon - Mary Brian - Peggy Shannon	Mar. 4,'33	69	Apr. 8,'33
Hard to Handle	James Cagney	Jan. 28,'33	76	Jan. 7,'33
Haunted Gold	John Wayne	Dec. 17	58
I Am a Fugitive from a Chain Gang	Paul Muni	Nov. 19	90	Oct. 22
Keyhole, The	Kay Francis-George Brent	Mar. 25,'33	69	Apr. 8,'33
King's Vacation, The	George Arliss	Feb. 25,'33	60	Jan. 28,'33
Ladies They Talk About	Barbara Stanwyck	Feb. 4,'33	64	Jan. 7,'33
Lawyer Man	Wm. Powell-Joan Blondell	Jan. 7,'33	72	Dec. 3
Parachute Jumper	Douglas Fairbanks, Jr.	Jan. 28,'33	72	Dec. 31
Picture Snatcher	James Cagney	Apr. 29,'33	75	Apr. 1,'33
Scarlet Dawn	D. Fairbanks, Jr. - Nancy Carroll	Nov. 12	58	Nov. 12
Somewhere in Sonora	John Wayne	May 20,'33
Telegraph Trail, The	John Wayne	Mar. 18,'33	55
Untamed Africa		Apr. 8,'33
Wax Museum, Mystery of the	Lionel Atwill-Fay Wray	Feb. 18,'33	72	Jan. 7,'33
Working Man, The	George Arliss-Bette Davis	May 6,'33	73	Apr. 8,'33

(Reviewed under the title "The Adopted Father")

Coming Feature Attractions

Captured!	Leslie Howard-Doug. Fairbanks, Jr.-Paul Lukas
Gold Diggers of 1933	Warren William-Joan Blondell-Aline MacMahon-Ruby Keeler-Dick Powell
Goodbye Again	W. William-Joan Blondell
Life of Jimmy Dolan, The	D. Fairbanks, Jr.-Loretta Young
Man from Monterey, The	John Wayne-Ruth Hall
Mary Stevens, M.D.	Kay Francis
Mayor of Hell, The	James Cagney
Narrow Corner, The	Douglas Fairbanks, Jr.
Private Detective 62	William Powell
Silk Express	Neil Hamilton-Sheila Terry
Voltaire	George Arliss-Doris Kenyon

WORLD WIDE

[Distributed through Fox Films]

Features

Title	Star	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
Between Fighting Men	Ken Maynard	Oct. 16	62
Breach of Promise	Chester Morris-Mae Clarke	Oct. 23	67
Constant Woman, The	Conrad Nagel-Leila Hyams	Apr. 23,'33	75	Mar. 3,'33

(Reviewed under the title "Auction in Souls")

Death Kiss, The	Adrienne Ames-David Manners-John Wray	Jan. 8,'33	75	Dec. 24
Drum Taps	Ken Maynard	Jan. 29,'33	61
False Faces	Lowell Sherman-Lila Lee	Oct. 13	83	Dec. 3
Fargo Express	Ken Maynard	Nov. 20	62
Hypnotized	Moran and Mack	Dec. 25	70	Dec. 24
Lone Avenger, The	Ken Maynard	May 14,'33	61
Phantom Thunderbolt	Ken Maynard	Mar. 5,'33	62
Racetrack	Leo Carrillo-Kay Hammond	Feb. 25,'33	78	Mar. 11,'33
Study in Scarlet, A	Reginald Owen-June Clyde	May 14,'33	72
Tombstone Canyon	Ken Maynard	Dec. 25	62
Trailing the Killer	(Special)	Dec. 4	68	Oct. 15
Uptown New York	Jack Oakie-Shirley Grey	Nov. 20	80	Nov. 19

Coming Feature Attractions

Tarnished Youth	Jetta Goudal-Gilbert Roland

GERMAN

Features

Title	Star	Dist'r.	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
A Door Opens	Lily Rodien-Curt Lucas	Protex	Feb. 4,'33	70
A Night in Paradise	Anny Ondra-Herman Thimig	Kinematrade
Barberina, The King's Dancer	Lil Dagover	Capital	Oct. 25	87	Nov. 12
Beautiful Maneuver Time	Ida Wuest	World's Trade
Cadet, The	Frans Fiedler	Film Exchange		80	Apr. 8,'33
Captain of Koepenick, The	Max Adalbert	Kinematrade	Jan. 16,'33	93	Feb. 18,'33
Comradeship		Assoc. Cinema	Nov. 8	78	Dec. 10
David Golder	Harry Baur	Protex		80	Oct. 29
Don't Tell Me Who You Are	Liane Haid-Gustav Froehlich	Interworld	Feb. 15,'33	91	Feb. 25,'33
Enchanted Escapade	Kaethe von Nagy	Protex	Dec. 7	83	Jan. 28,'33
Friederike	Mady Christians	Kinematrade	Feb. 25,'33	80	Mar. 18,'33
Gitta Discovers Her Heart	Gitta Alpar	Capital		91	Oct. 15
Gloria	Gustav Froehlich	Tobis	Oct. 27	87	Nov. 12
Hertha's Awakening	Toni Van Eyck	Protex	Mar. 10,'33	82	Mar. 25,'33
Herzblut	Renate Muller	Cines-Pittaluga	Sept. 30	77	Oct. 15
His Majesty, King Ballyhoo	Hans Moser - Heinz Ruehmann	Capital	Nov. 15	86	Feb. 11,'33
Kuhle Wampe: Whither Germany?	Hertha Thiele-Ernest Busch	Kinematrade	Apr. 22,'33
Louise, Queen of Prussia	Henny Porten	Assoc. Cinemas	Oct. 4	92	Oct. 15
M	Peter Lorre	Paramount	Mar. 31,'33	96	Apr. 8,'33
Maedchen in Uniform	Hertha Thiele	John Krimsky - Gifford Cochran		110	Oct. 1
Man Without a Name, The	Werner Krauss	Protex	Nov. 5	90	Dec. 17
Party Does Not Answer, The	Dorothy Wieck	Capital	Nov. 29	76	Dec. 31
Ronny	Willy Fritsch-Kaethe von Nagy	Protex
Song of Life	Albert Mog - Margot Ferra	Tobis	Mar. 24,'33	66	Apr. 15,'33
Spell of Tatra, The		Protex	Feb. 17,'33	65	Feb. 25,'33
Upright Sinner, The	Max Pallenberg-Dolly Haas	European Films	Mar. 28,'33	78	Apr. 15,'33
Victoria and Her Hussar	Michael Bohnen-Friedel Schuster	Kinematrade	Apr. 8,'33	90	Apr. 22,'33
Yorck	Werner Krauss	Protex	Nov. 23	99	Dec. 10

OTHER PRODUCT

Features

Title	Star	Dist'r.	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
Counsel's Opinion	Henry Kendall	London Film		71	Apr. 22,'33
Fires of Fate	Lester Matthews	British Int'l		72	Oct. 15
Flag Lieutenant, The	Henry Edwards-Anna Neagle	British and Dominions		85	Dec. 31
Ghost Train, The	Jack Hulbert	Gaumont-British		68	Feb. 25,'33
Good Companions, The	Jessie Matthews	Gaumont-British		96	Apr. 29,'33
Green Spot Mystery, The	Jack Lloyd	Mutual, London		66	Sept. 3
Here's George	George Clarke	P.D.C.-British		64	Nov. 5
Josser on the River	Ernest Lotinga	British Int'l		71	Sept. 17
King of the Ritz	Stanley Lupino-Betty Stockfield	Gaumont-British
Leap Year	Tom Walls - Anne Grey	British and Dominions		89	Dec. 17
Lodger, The	Ivor Novello	Twickenham		84	Oct. 15
Looking on the Bright Side	Gracie Fields	Assoc. Radio - British		82	Oct. 15
Love in Morocco	Rex Ingram	Gaumont-British	Mar. 18,'33	67	Oct. 15

(Reviewed under the title "Baroud")

Maid of the Mountains, The	Harry Welchman - Nancy Brown	British Int'l		80	Apr. 22,'33
Man They Couldn't Arrest, The	Hugh Wakefield - Renee Clama	Gaumont-British	Mar. 11,'33	70	Mar. 25,'33
Marry Me	Renate Muller-Geo. Robey	Gaumont-British		85	Apr. 22,'33
Men of Tomorrow	Maurice Braddell	Paramount-London Film		80	Apr. 15,'33
Night and Day		Gaumont-British
Private Wives	Claude Allister-Betty Astell	British Lion
Radio Parade		British Int'l		70	May 13,'33
Sally Bishop	Harold Huth - Joan Barry	British Lion		82	Dec. 10
There Goes the Bride	Jessie Matthews - Owen Nares	Gaumont-British		79	Mar. 11,'33
Wedding Rehearsal	Roland Young	London Film

(THE RELEASE CHART--CONT'D)

SHORT FILMS

[All dates are 1932 unless otherwise stated]

COLUMBIA

Title	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
CURIOSITIES
C 237	Sept.	1	Sept. 24
KRAZY KAT KARTOONS
Antique Antics
Broadway Malady	Apr.	18,'33
Bunnies and Bonnets	Mar.	29,'33
Crystal Gazabo	Nov.	7
Medicine Show	Feb.	7,'33
Minstrel Show, The	Nov.	21
Prosperity Blues	Oct.	8
Russian Dressing	May	1,'33
Seeing Stars	Sept.	12	Dec. 17
Snow Time	Nov.	30
Wedding Bells	Jan.	10,'33
Wooden Shoes	Feb.	25,'33
LAMBS GAMBOLS
Hear 'Em and Weep
Ladies Not Allowed	Sept.	8
Lambs All-Star Gambol	Dec.	20
Poor Fish, The	Apr.	27,'33
Shave It with Music	Sept.	30
MEDBURY SERIES
Laughing with Medbury in India
Laughing with Medbury in Phillippines	Nov.	11
Laughing with Medbury Among the Wide Open Faces	Oct.	11
Laughing with Medbury Among Dancing Nations	Dec.	23
Laughing with Medbury in Wonders of the World	Dec.	13
SCRAPPY CARTOONS
Bad Genius, The	Dec.	1
Beer Parade, The	Mar.	4,'33
False Alarm
Flop House	Nov.	9
Great Bird Mystery	Oct.	20
Match Kid, The	May	9,'33
Sassy Cats	Jan.	25,'33
Scrappy's Party	Feb.	13,'33
Wolf at the Door, The	Dec.	29
SUNRISE COMEDIES
Campus Codes	Jan.	19,'33	21
College Gigolos	Jan.	3,'33	18½
His Vacation	Sept.	8
I'm a Fugitive from a Chain Store	Feb.	11,'33
Mind Doesn't Matter	Nov.	21	19½
Partners Two	Jan.	19,'33	22
The Curse of a Broken Heart	Feb.	4,'33	18
The Strange Case of Poison Ivy	Mar.	23,'33
WORLD OF SPORT
All's Wet That Ends Wet	May	5,'33
Good Old Winter Time
Rough Sport	Dec.	29
Throwing the Bull	Jan.	14,'33	11

EDUCATIONAL

[Distributed through Fox Films]

Title	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
ANDY CLYDE COMEDIES
A Fool About Women	Nov.	27	22
Artist's Muddles	Jan.	29,'33	20
Boy, Oh Boy!	Dec.	25	21
Feeling Rosy	Apr.	30,'33	21
Giddy Age, The	Sept.	25	21½ June 4
Loose Relations	Apr.	9,'33	20
Sunkissed Sweeties	Oct.	30	22
BABY BURLESKS
Glad Rags to Riches	Feb.	5,'33	11 Dec. 31
Kid' In' Hollywood	May	14,'33	11
Kid's Last Fight, The	Apr.	23,'33	11 Dec. 3
Pie-Covered Wagon	Oct.	30	10 Dec. 31
Polly Tix in Washington	June	4,'33
War Babies	Sept.	18	10 Aug. 6
BATTLE FOR LIFE
Battle of the Centuries	Oct.	2	9
Desert Demons	Nov.	27	9
Killers	Oct.	30	10 Apr. 29,'33
Sea, The	May	7,'33	9
World Beneath Our Feet, The
BRAY'S NATURGRAPHS
An Oregon Camera Hunt	Sept.	11	9
Giants of the North	June	4,'33
Our Bird Citizens	Oct.	9	8 Dec. 10
Our Noble Ancestors	Dec.	4	9
Pirates of the Deep	May	7,'33	9
Stable Manners	Nov.	6	7
Wild Company	Jan.	1,'33	10
Woodland Pals	Jan.	29,'33	1 reel
BROADWAY GOSSIP
No. 1	Sept.	25	11
No. 2	Dec.	11	9 Dec. 31
No. 3	Feb.	5,'33	11
No. 4	Mar.	5,'33	11
No. 5	Apr.	30,'33	11
CAMERA ADVENTURES
Cougar's Mistake, The	May	28,'33	9
Taming the Wildcat	Jan.	15,'33	8
The Forgotten Island	Sept.	4	10
The Iceless Arctic	Nov.	6	11
Two Hundred Fathoms Deep	Mar.	19,'33	8
DO YOU REMEMBER
Gaslit Nineties, The	Nov.	27	8 Jan. 7,'33
Highlights of the Past	Apr.	9,'33	8
Old New York	Sept.	11	10 Jan. 14,'33
Puffs and Bustles	Mar.	12,'33	7
When Dad Was a Boy	Jan.	22,'33	8
GLEASON'S SPORT FEATURETTES
A Hockey Hick	Dec.	11	19
Always Kickin'	Oct.	9	20
Off His Base	Sept.	18	20
GREAT HOKUM MYSTERY
Burged at the Steak	Oct.	16	18
Evil Eye Conquers, The	Jan.	8,'33	14
In the Clutches of Death	Nov.	13	14
On the Brink of Disaster	Feb.	19,'33
HODGE-PODGE
Across America in Ten Minutes	Jan.	1,'33	11
Animal Fair, The	Jan.	15,'33	10
Bubble Blowers	Sept.	11	10
Down on the Farm	Dec.	18	10
Little Thrills	Oct.	23	9
Out of the Ordinary
Skipping About the Universe	Feb.	12,'33	10
Traffic	Nov.	6	10
Women of Many Lands	Mar.	12,'33	9
Women's Work	Sept.	25	9 Mar. 11,'33
Wonder City, The	Nov.	20	9 Feb. 25,'33
MERMAID COMEDIES
All Aboard Harry Langdon
Big Flash, The Harry Langdon	Nov.	6	22 Oct. 15
Hitch Hiker, The Harry Langdon	Feb.	12,'33	21
Knight Duty Harry Langdon	May	7,'33	22 May 13,'33
Tired Feet Harry Langdon	Jan.	1,'33	22
Vest with a Tale, The Tom Howard	Dec.	4	22
MORAN AND MACK COMEDIES
A Pair of Socks	May	14,'33	20 May 13,'33
As the Crows Fly	Feb.	5,'33	19
Hot Hoofs
Two Black Crows in Africa	Mar.	5,'33	20
OPERALOGUES
Brahmin's Daughter, A	Jan.	8,'33	22
Canteen Girl, The
Walpurgis Night	Oct.	30	20
SPIRIT OF THE CAMPUS (Reinald Werrenrath)
California	Mar.	5,'33	10
Cornell	Dec.	18	9 Dec. 17
Georgia Tech	May	7,'33	9
McGill	May	28,'33	9
Michigan	Dec.	4	8
Yale	Oct.	9	10
TERRY-TOONS
Burlesque	Sept.	4	6
Cinderella	May	28,'33	6
College Spirit	Oct.	16	6
Down on the Levee	Mar.	5,'33	6
Farmer Al Falfa's Birthday Party	Oct.	2	6 Dec. 3
Forty Thieves, The	Nov.	13	6
Hansel Und Gretel	Feb.	5,'33	6
Hollywood Diet	Dec.	11	6
Hook and Ladder No. 1	Oct.	30	7 Nov. 5
Ireland or Bust	Dec.	25	6
Jealous Lover	Jan.	8,'33	6
Oh! Susanna	Apr.	2,'33	6
Pirate Ship	Apr.	30,'33	6
Robin Hood	Jan.	22,'33	6
Romeo and Juliet	Apr.	16,'33	6
Southern Rhythm	Sept.	18	6
Tale of a Shirt, The	Feb.	19,'33	6
Toyland	Nov.	27	6 Dec. 17
Tropical Fish	May	14,'33	6
Who Killed Cock Robin?	Mar.	19,'35	6
THREE-REEL SPECIAL
Krakatoa	Apr.	23,'33	23
TOM HOWARD COMEDIES
A Drug on the Market	Jan.	22,'33	11
The Acid Test	Nov.	27	11
The Mouse Trapper	Sept.	11	12
TORCHY COMEDIES (Ray Cooke)
Torchy's Big Lead (Tent.)
Torchy's Busy Day	Oct.	2	20
Torchy's Kitty Coup	Jan.	22,'33	21
Torchy's Loud Spooker	Apr.	23,'33
Torchy Rolls His Own	Nov.	20	21
Torchy Turns Turtle	Apr.	23,'33	21
VANITY COMEDIES
Hollywood Run-Around Monty Collins	Dec.	18	20 Mar. 25,'33
Honeymoon Beach Billy Bevan-Glenn Tryon	Oct.	23	21
Keyhole Katie Gale Seabrook-John T. Murray	Jan.	15,'33	20
Techno-crazy Monty Collins-Billy Bevan	Apr.	23,'33	19 May 13,'33

FOX FILMS

Title	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
MAGIC CARPET SERIES
1 Alpine Echoes	Aug.	14
2 Incredible India	Aug.	21	9
3 Big Game of the Sea	Aug.	28	8
4 The Tom-Tom Trail	Sept.	4	9
5 By-Ways of France	Sept.	11	9 Dec. 17
6 Manhattan Medley	Sept.	18	10
7 Rhineland Memories	Sept.	25	8
8 Fisherman's Fortune	Oct.	2	9
9 Zanzibar	Oct.	9	9
10 Belles of Bali	Oct.	16	8 Jan. 7,'33
11 Sailing a Square-Rigger	Oct.	23	10 Dec. 10
12 Venetian Holiday	Oct.	30	10 Nov. 12
13 Havana Hol	Nov.	6	9
14 Paths in Palestine	Nov.	13	8
15 Ricksha Rhythm	Nov.	20
16 Pirate Isles	Nov.	27	9
17 From Kashmir to the Khyber	Dec.	4	9 Nov. 19
18 Silver Springs	Dec.	11
19 Desert Tripoli	Dec.	18
20 In the Guianas	Dec.	25	9
21 Mediterranean Memories	Jan.	1,'33
22 The Lure of the Orient	Jan.	8,'33	9
23 Here Comes the Circus	Jan.	15,'33
24 Sicilian Sunshine	Jan.	22,'33	10 Mar. 25,'33
25 Gorges of the Giants	Jan.	29,'33	9 Dec. 31
26 When in Rome	Feb.	5,'33
27 Berlin Medley	Feb.	12,'33	9 Nov. 26
28 Rhapsody of the Rails	Feb.	19,'33
29 Taking the Cure	Feb.	26,'33
30 Down from Vesuvius	Mar.	5,'33
31 Paris on Parade	Mar.	12,'33
32 Broadway by Day	Mar.	19,'33
33 The Iceberg Patrol
34 Mississippi Showboats
35 Sampans and Shadows
36 Boardwalks of New York
37 A Gondola Journey
38 Isles of the East Indies
39 Pagodas of Peiping

METRO-GOLDWYN-MAYER

Title	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
CHARLEY CHASE
Arabian Tights	June	3,'33	20
Fallen Arches	Feb.	4,'33	19
Girl Grief	Oct.	8	20
Mr. Bride	Dec.	24	19
Now We'll Tell One	Nov.	19	19 Oct. 22
Tarzan in the Wrong			20
Young Ironsides	Sept.	3	20
COLORTONE MUSICAL REVUES
Hollywood Premiere	Jan.	7,'33	18
Menu
Over the Counter			18 Feb. 25,'33
Wild People	Feb.	4,'33	18
FITZPATRICK TRAVELTALKS
Barbados and Trinidad	Sept.	24	9
Big Ditch of Panama, The
Come Back to Erin		9	June 4
Cuba, Land of the Rhumba	Feb.	25,'33
Daughters of the Sea		9
Iceland	Jan.	14,'33	10 Feb. 11,'33
Leningrad	Dec.	17	9 Mar. 11,'33
Norway	Feb.	4,'33	9
Over the Seas to Borneo			9
Rio the Magnificent			9
World Dances, The			9
FLIP, THE FROG
Cuckoo the Magician	Jan.	21,'33
Funny Face	Dec.	24	8
Lunchroom, The
Music Lesson, The	Oct.	29	8
Nursemaid, The	Nov.	26	7
Techno-cracked			8
LAUREL & HARDY
Me An' My Pal		21
Scram	Sept.	16	21 Oct. 15
Their First Mistake			21
Towed in a Hole	Dec.	31	21 May 13,'33
Twice Two	Feb.	25,'33	21
ODDITIES
Chill and Chills	Sept.	10	9
Duck Hunter's Paradise	Dec.	31	10 Dec. 31
Microscopic Mysteries	Oct.	18	10 Apr. 8,'33
Toy Parade, The	Dec	3	7 Dec. 17
Whispering Bill	Dec.	31	10
OUR GANG
A Lad an' a Lamp	Dec.	17	17
Birthday Blues	Nov.	12	20
Fish Hooky	Jan	28,'33	19
Forgotten Babies	Mar.	11,'33	17
Free Wheeling	Oct.	1	20
Kid from Borneo, The	Apr.	15,'33	19
Mush and Milk	May	27,'33
PITTS-TODD
Alum and Eve	Sept.	24	18 Aug. 13
Asleep in the Feet	Jan.	21,'33	19
Bargain of the Century			20
Maids a la Mode			18
One Track Minds
Sneak Easily	Dec.	10	17
Soilers, The	Oct.	29	19
SPECIAL
Roosevelt, the Man of the Hour			18 Apr. 15,'33
SPORT CHAMPIONS
Allez Oop	Mar.	11,'33
Auto Racing	Apr.	1,'33
Blocks and Tackles	Nov.	5	12 Mar. 11,'33
Bone Crushers	Feb.	8,'33	8
Chalk Up	Dec.	10	10 Jan. 7,'33
Desert Regatta	Sept.	17	10
Football Footwork			12
Motorcycle Mania	Jan.	28,'33	9
Old Spanish Custom	Oct.	15	10 Mar. 11,'33
Pigskin	Oct.	22	12 Dec. 10
Swing High	Dec.	10	10 Dec. 17
Throttle Pushers			9
TAXI BOYS
Bring 'Em Back a Wife	Jan.	14,'33	20
Call Her Sausage
Farewell to Legs
Hot Spot	Oct.	22	18 Oct. 1
Rummy, The			18
Strange Innertube	Sept.	22
Taxi Barons
Taxi for Two	Dec.	3	18
Thundering Taxis	June	24,'33	16
Wreckety Wrecks	Feb.	18,'33	19 Mar. 25,'33

PARAMOUNT PUBLIX

Title	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
HOLLWOOD ON PARADE
No. 1	Aug.	26	10 Aug. 13
No. 2	Sept.	23	1 reel
No. 3	Oct.	21	1 reel

(THE RELEASE CHART--CONT'D)

Title	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
No. 4	Nov.	18	1 reel
No. 5	Dec.	16	1 reel
No. 6	Jan.	13,'33	1 reel
No. 7	Feb.	10,'33	1 reel
No. 8	Mar.	10,'33	1 reel
No. 9	Apr.	7,'33	1 reel
No. 10	May	5,'33	1 reel
No. 11	June	2,'33	1 reel
No. 12	June	30,'33	1 reel
ONE REEL ACTS
Be Like Me Ethel Merman	Feb.	18,'33	1 reel
Breaking Even Tom Howard	Sept.	30
Detective Tom Howard of the Suicide Squad Tom Toward	June	9,'33	1 reel
Hawaiian Fantasy Vincent Lopez	Jan.	20,'33	1 reel
Let's Dance Burns and Allen	Mar.	17,'33	10 May 13,'33
Moonlight Fantasy Vincent Lopez	Apr.	14,'33	1 reel
Musical Doctor Rudy Vallee	Oct.	28	10 Oct. 1
Rhapsody in Black and Blue Louis Armstrong	Sept.	2
Rookie, The Tom Howard	Dec.	23	1 reel
Walking the Baby Burns and Allen	May	12,'33	1 reel
Your Hat Burns and Allen	Nov.	25
PARAMOUNT PICTORIAL—NEW SERIES
No. 1—Mists of the Morning—Temple Bells of Indo-China—Famous Radio Personalities	Aug.	12	1 reel
No. 2—Just Mentioning the Unmentionable — New England Sunsets—Famous Radio Personalities	Sept.	9	1 reel
No. 3—Making Friends in the Desert—The Fall of the Year — Radio Star-Maker	Oct.	7	1 reel
No. 4—Distinctive Hair for Distinctive Heads — The Blooming Desert — The Camels Are Coming	Nov.	4	1 reel
No. 5—John Mongol Comes to Town—Have a Little Ski—Meet Your Favorite Radio Personalities	Dec.	4	1 reel
No. 6—Land of Sun and Shine — La Rumba de Cuba—Big Shots of U.S. Navy	Dec.	30	1 reel
No. 7—This Is Ducky — Music from the Ancients —Bringing You the News	Jan.	27,'33	1 reel
No. 8—Glass Making at the Corning Glass Works — "Going Back Home" — Costuming the Earl Carroll Vanities	Feb.	24,'33	1 reel
No. 9—A Drama of the Northland — Paramount Pictorial Presents Amelia Earhart	Mar.	17,'33	1 reel
No. 10—Birth of the Year — Laboratory Sleuth — Three X Sisters	Apr.	21,'33	10 Apr. 22,'33
No. 11—	May	19,'33	1 reel
No. 12—	June	16,'33	1 reel
SCREEN SONGS
Ain't She Sweet Lillian Roth	Feb.	3,'33
Aloha Oe Royal Samoans	Mar.	17,'33	1 reel
Dinah Mills Bros.	Jan.	13,'33	1 reel
Down by the Old Mill Stream Eton Boys	June	30,'33	1 reel
Just a Gigolo Irene Bordoni	Sept.	9
Peanut Vendor, The Armida	Apr.	28,'33
Popular Melodies Arthur Jarrett	Apr.	7,'33	1 reel
Reaching for the Moon	Feb.	24,'33	1 reel
Romantic Melodies The Street Singer	Oct.	21	1 reel
School Days Gus Edwards	Sept.	30
Sing a Song James Melton	Dec.	2
Song Shopping Ethel Merman			1 reel
Time on My Hands Ethel Merman	Dec.	23	7 Jan. 7,'33
When It's Sleepy Time Down South Boswell Sisters	Nov.	11	1 reel
SCREEN SOUVENIRS — NEW SERIES
No. 1	Aug.	5	1 reel
No. 2	Sept.	2	1 reel
No. 3	Sept.	30	10 Oct. 15
No. 4	Oct.	28	1 reel
No. 5	Nov.	25	1 reel
No. 6	Dec.	23	1 reel
No. 7	Jan.	20,'33	1 reel
No. 8	Feb.	17,'33	1 reel
No. 9	Mar.	17,'33	1 reel
No. 10	Apr.	14,'33	1 reel
No. 11	May	12,'33
No. 12	June	9,'33	1 reel
PARAMOUNT SOUND NEWS
Two Editions Weekly
SPORTS EYE VIEW
Aggravatin' Bear, The	Apr.	28,'33	1 reel
Balance	June	23,'33	1 reel
Canine Thirils	Feb.	3,'33	1 reel
Catch 'Em Young	Dec.	9	1 reel
Fighting Fins	Oct.	14	10 Oct. 15
Hot and Cold Thrills	Mar.	31,'33	1 reel
Jabs and Jolts	May	26,'33	1 reel
Over the Jumps	Jan.	6,'33	1 reel
Stuff on the Ball	Nov.	11	1 reel
Water Jamboree	Sept.	16	1 reel
Wonder Girl, The Babe Didrickson	Mar.	3,'33	1 reel

Title	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
TALKARTOONS
Betty Boop's Bamboo Isle	Sept.	23
Betty Boop's Big Boss	June	2,'33	1 reel
Betty Boop's Birthday Party	Apr.	21,'33	1 reel
Betty Boop's Crazy Inventions	Jan.	27,'33	1 reel
Betty Boop for President	Nov.	4	7 Oct. 1
Betty Boop's Ker-Choo	Jan.	6,'33	7 Dec. 10
Betty Boop, M.D.	Sept.	2	7 Dec. 10
Betty Boop's May Party	May	12,'33	1 reel
Betty Boop's Museum	Dec.	16	1 reel
Betty Boop's Ups & Downs	Oct.	14	1 reel
Betty Boop's Penthouse	Mar.	10,'33	6 Feb. 25,'33
Is My Palm Read	Feb.	17,'33	1 reel
Minding the Baby	Sept.	26	1 reel
Mother Goose Land	June	23,'33	1 reel
Snow-White	Mar.	31,'33	1 reel
TWO REEL COMEDIES
Blue of the Night Bing Crosby	Jan.	6,'33	20 Sept. 16
Bring 'Em Back Sober Sennett Star	Nov.	18	2 reels
Caliente Love Sennett Star	Mar.	10,'33	2 reels
Cook's Day Off, The Sennett Star
Courting Trouble Charles Murray	Oct.	28	19 Dec. 17
Dentist, The Sennett Star	Dec.	9	20 Dec. 9
Don't Play Bridge With Your Wife Sennett Star	Jan.	13,'33	2 reels
Doubling in the Quickies Sennett Star	Dec.	16	2 reels
Dream Stuff Sennett Star	May	12,'33	2 reels
Druggist, The Sennett Star	Apr.	21,'33
Easy On the Eyes Sennett Star	Feb.	17,'33	2 reels
False Impressions Sennett Star	Nov.	4	2 reels
Fatal Glass of Beer W. C. Fields	Mar.	3,'33	2 reels
His Perfect Day Sennett Star
Hollywood Double, A Sennett Star	Nov.	25	2 reels
Honeymoon Bridge Sennett Star
Hubby's Vacation Sennett Star
Human Fish Sennett Star	Dec.	30	2 reels
In the Bag Sennett Star
Lion and the House, The Sennett Star	Dec.	23	18
Ma's Pride and Joy Donald Novis	Oct.	14	18 Aug. 27
Morning After, The Sennett Star
Pharmacist, The Sennett Star	Apr.	21,'33	2 reels
Plumber and the Lady, The Sennett Star	Mar.	31,'33	2 reels
Prosperity Pays Tom Howard	Nov.	4
Shot for Love Sennett Star
Sing, Bing, Sing Bing Crosby	Mar.	24,'33	2 reels
Singing Boxer, The	Jan.	27,'33
Singing Plumber Donald Novis	Sept.	23
Sweet Cookie Sennett Star	Apr.	14,'33	2 reels
Temporary Butler Sennett Star
Too Many Highballs Sennett Star	Feb.	10,'33	2 reels
Uncle Jake Sennett Star	May	5,'33	2 reels
Wrestlers, The Sennett Star	Jan.	20,'33

RKO-RADIO PICTURES

Title	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
CHARLIE CHAPLIN SERIES (Re-Issues)
Easy Street	Sept.	30	19½ Dec. 17
The Floorwalker	Dec.	23	20½
The Pawnshop	Mar.	17,'33
The Rink	Nov.	11	20
The Vagabond	Feb.	3,'33	21
CLARK & McCULLOUGH SERIES
Druggist's Dilemma, The	May	5,'33	17
Hocus Focus	Mar.	3,'33	20
Jitters, The Butler	Dec.	30	20½ Aug. 20
Millionaire Cat, The	Oct.	21	21
HARRY SWEET COMEDIES
Firehouse Honeymoon	Oct.	28	18 Jan. 14,'33
Heave Two	Mar.	10,'33	20½
Loops, My Dear	Jan.	6,'33	17
Shakespeare With Tin Ears	June	30,'33	18½
Thrown Out of Joint	May	12,'33	21 May 13,'33
HEADLINER SERIES
No. 1—Shampoo, the Magician Roscoe Ates-Hugh Herbert	Nov.	25	17
No. 2—Private Wives Skeets Gallagher W. Catlett	Jan.	27,'33	21
No. 3—Hip, Zip, Hooray Nat Carr	Mar.	31,'33	18½
MASQUERS COMEDIES
Abroad in Old Kentucky
Bride's Bereavement, The	Nov.	18	19
Lost in the Limehouse	Apr.	7,'33	20½
Moonshiner's Daughter, The

Title	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
Through Thin and Thicket	Jan.	20,'33	17½
Two Lips and Juleps	Sept.	9	20
MICKEY McGUIRE SERIES
Mickey's Ape Man	Feb.	10,'33	18
Mickey's Big Broadcast
Mickey's Busy Day	Sept.	2	18 Aug. 6
Mickey's Charity	Dec.	2	18
Mickey's Disguise
Mickey's Race	Apr.	14,'33	18
MR. AVERAGE MAN COMEDIES (EDGAR KENNEDY)
Art in the Raw	Feb.	24,'33	19
Fish Feathers	Dec.	16	18
Inferior Decorations
Merchant of Menace, The	Apr.	21,'33	19½
Parlor, Bedroom and Wrath	Oct.	14	20½
PATHE NEWS
Released twice a week
PATHE REVIEW
Released once a month
SPECIALS
So This Is Harris		28	Mar. 11,'33
TOM AND JERRY SERIES
Barnyard Bunk	Sept.	16	6
Happy Hoboes	Mar.	31,'33
Magic Mummy	Feb.	7,'33	7
Panicky Pup	Feb.	24,'33	7
Pencil Mania	Dec.	9	7
Piano Tooners	Nov.	11	7½
Puzzled Pals			7 Apr. 22,'33
Spanish Twist, A	Oct.	14	6
Tight Rope Tricks	Jan.	6,'33	7

STATE RIGHTS

Title	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
ATLANTIC FILM
Playgrounds in the Sky		10	Nov. 5
Sportsmen's Paradise		10	July 30
BEVERLY HILLS PICTURES
Coocoo Capers
Flame of the Pacific		23
CAESAR FILMS
Veneziana			1 reel
CENTRAL FILM
A Pilgrimage Through Palestine		10	Dec. 8
Boston Commen—and Proper		10	Jan. 7,'33
Hula			3 reels
In Old New Orleans			May 28
Syria			May 21
F. M. S. CORP.
Newslaughs		7	Jan. 28,'33
IDEAL
Evolution		28	Sept. 8
INDUSTRIAL
The Silent Enemy		30
MARY WARNER
Berlin: Its Sports and Recreation		8
Berlin: Rhythm of a Metropolis		8	Apr. 8,'33
Glimpses of Germany		8
Green Heart of Germany, The		20
Springtime on the Rhine		7
The Mosel		8	Oct. 15
Trier, Oldest City in Germany		6
Vintagers' Festival in the Palatinate		10	Mar. 11,'33
Winter in the Bavarian Alps		1 reel
Young Germany Goes Ski-ing		1 reel
MASCOT
Technocracy		10	Jan. 7,'33
MASTER ART PRODUCTS
Melody Makers Series:
Sammy Fain		10	Dec. 24
Benny Davis		9
Gus Edwards
Cliff Friend		9
Night of Romance		7
Tongue Twisters		9
PRINCIPAL
Beer Is Here
Get That Lion		29	Aug. 27
Isle of Desire		3 reels
Isle of Peril		32	July 16
Isles of Love		1 reel
Killing the Killer		11	July 30
Matto Grosso		24	May 13,'33
New Western Front		25
Primitive		1 reel
Tiger Hunt, The		20	Dec. 31
Voodoo		36	May 13,'33
Walpi
WARD PRODUCTIONS
Your Technocracy and Mine		9½	Feb. 11,'33

UNITED ARTISTS

Title	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
MICKEY MOUSE
1. Mickey's Nightmare	Aug.	8	7½ Oct. 8
2. Trader Mickey	Aug.	26	7
3. The Whoopee Party	Sept.	16	7 Nov. 12
4. Touchdown Mickey	Oct.	7	6½
5. The Wayward Canary	Oct.	28	7¼
6. The Klondike Kid	Nov.	18
7. Mickey's Good Deed	Dec.	9	8
8. Building a Building	Dec.	20	7
9. The Mad Doctor	Jan.	20,'33	6
10. Mickey's Pal Pluto	Feb.	10,'33	7
11. The Mellerdrammer	Mar.	3,'33
12. Ye Olden Days	Mar.	24,'33
13. The Mail Pilot	Apr.	14,'33
SILLY SYMPHONIES
1. Bears and Bees	July	15	6½
2. Just Dogs	Aug.	12	7
3. Flowers and Trees	Sept.	9	8 Oct. 15
4. Bugs in Love	Sept.	21	7
5. King Neptune	Oct.	7	7 Oct. 29
6. Babes in the Wood	Dec.	2	8 Apr. 1,'33
7. Santa's Workshop	Dec.	30	7 Dec. 24
8. Birds in the Spring	Dec.	30
9. Father Noah's Ark	Jan.	27,'33

(THE RELEASE CHART--CONT'D)

UNIVERSAL

Title	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
OSWALD CARTOONS
Beau Best	May 22,'33	1 reel
Busy Barber	Sept. 12	1 reel
Carnival Capers	Oct. 10	1 reel
Going to Blazes	Apr. 10,'33	1 reel
Ham and Eggs	June 19,'33	1 reel
New Deal, A	July 17,'33	1 reel
Ocean Hop (Reissue)	Apr. 24,'33	1 reel
Plumber, The	Jan. 30,'33	7	May 13,'33
Shriek, The	Feb. 27,'33	7	Mar. 25,'33
Teacher's Pest	Dec. 19	7
Wild and Wooly	Nov. 21	1 reel
POOCH CARTOONS
Butcher Boy, The	Sept. 26	7	Sept. 17
Cat and Dogs	Dec. 5	1 reel
Crowd Snores, The	Oct. 24	1 reel
Fine Feathers	July 3,'33	1 reel
Hot and Cold	May 8,'33	1 reel
King Klunk	July 31,'33	1 reel
Lumber Champ, The	Mar. 13,'33	7	Apr. 8,'33
Merry Dog, The	Jan. 2,'33	1 reel
Nature's Workshop	June 5,'33	1 reel
Terrible Troubador, The	Feb. 13,'33	1 reel
Underdog, The	Nov. 7	1 reel
RADIO STAR REELS
Morton Downey—No. 1 With Vincent Lopez	Oct. 31	2 reels
The Street Singer Nick Kenny—No. 1	Nov. 14	2 reels
Morton Downey—No. 2 With Brown and Henderson	Nov. 28	2 reels
Art Jarrett Nick Kenny—No. 2	Dec. 12	2 reels
Down Memory Lane Louis Sobol—No. 1 With Texas Guinan	Dec. 26	1 reel
Married or Single Nick Kenny—No. 3 With Little Jack Little	Jan. 16,'33	21
I Know Everybody and Everybody's Racket Walter Winchell—No. 1 With Paul Whiteman	Jan. 30,'33	21	Feb. 11,'33
Morton Downey—No. 3 The Holdup With Joe Young	Feb. 14,'33	21	May 13,'33
Radio Murder Mystery Louis Sobol—No. 2	Mar. 6,'33	2 reels
Morton Downey—No. 4 My Pal the Prince	Apr. 17,'33	2 reels
Beauty on Broadway Walter Winchell—No. 2	May 15,'33	2 reels
SPECIALS
Voice of the Vatican	Mar. 13,'33	10	Mar. 11,'33
Your Technocracy and Mine	Apr. 15,'33	1 reel
STRANGE AS IT SEEMS SERIES
No. 21—Novelty	Aug. 22	1 reel
No. 22—Novelty	Sept. 19	1 reel
No. 23—Novelty	Oct. 17	1 reel
No. 24—Novelty	Nov. 14	1 reel
No. 25—Novelty	Dec. 12	1 reel
No. 26—Novelty	Jan. 23,'33	1 reel
No. 27—Novelty	Mar. 20,'33	1 reel
No. 28—Novelty	Apr. 17,'33	1 reel
No. 29—Novelty	May 29,'33	1 reel
No. 30—Novelty	June 12,'33	1 reel
No. 31—Novelty	July 10,'33	1 reel
UNIVERSAL BREVITIES
Boo!	Dec. 26	1 reel
Dr. Jekyll's Hide	Sept. 26	9	Oct. 1
Good Old Days, The	Nov. 21	1 reel
Greeks Had No Word for Them, The	Oct. 24	1 reel
Lizzie Stratta	Jan. 23,'33	10
UNIVERSAL COMEDIES (1932-33 SEASON)
A Quiet Night Bert Roach	May 31,'33	21	May 13,'33
Alias the Professor James Gleason	Mar. 8,'33	21	May 13,'33
Boys Will Be Boys Frank Albertson	Nov. 30	2 reels
Family Troubles Henry Armetta	Jan. 11,'33	21	May 13,'33
Finishing Touch Skeets Gallagher June Clyde	Oct. 19	2 reels
Hesitating Love L. Fazenda-M. Prevost	Nov. 16	2 reels
Hunting Trouble Louise Fazenda	Feb. 8,'33	20	Mar. 11,'33
Kid Glove Kisses Slim Summerville	Sept. 21	2 reels
Lights Out James Gleason	Dec. 24	2 reels
Mister Mugg James Gleason	May 10,'33	21	May 13,'33
My Operation Vince Barnett-June Clyde	Dec. 28	2 reels
Officer, Save My Child Slim Summerville	Nov. 2	2 reels
People vs. Vince Barnett Vince Barnett	Mar. 22,'33	21	May 13,'33
Pick Me Up Marie Prevost	Apr. 5,'33	19
Rockabye Cowboy James Gleason	Jan. 25,'33	21	May 13,'33
Room Mates Frank Albertson	Apr. 19,'33	20
Should Crooners Marry? Frank Albertson	Feb. 22,'33	2 reels
Who, Me Frank Albertson	Sept. 7	2 reels
Yoo Hoo! James Gleason	Oct. 5	21	Sept. 3

VITAPHONE SHORTS

Title	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
BIG V COMEDIES
No. 1—Sherlock's Home Jack Haley
No. 2—Here, Prince Joe Penner
No. 3—You Call It Madness Richy Craig, Jr.
No. 4—Hey, Pop Roscoe (Fatty) Arbuckle
No. 5—Then Came the Yawn Jack Haley
No. 6—The Run Around William Demarest
No. 7—Trouble Indemnity Codee and Orth
No. 8—The Build-Up Jack Haley
No. 9—Buzzin' Around Roscoe (Fatty) Arbuckle
No. 10—Wrongorilla Jack Haley
No. 11—How've You Been? "Fatty" Arbuckle
No. 12—An Idle Roomer Jack Haley
BROADWAY BREVITIES (NEW SERIES)
No. 1—C'est Paris Technicolor Musical	Sept. 3	17
No. 2—Passing the Buck Alexander Gray	Sept. 24	18
No. 3—Tee for Two Technicolor Musical	Oct. 8	17	Nov. 12
No. 4—Tip-Tap-Toe Hal Leroy-Mitzi Mayfair	Oct. 22	19
No. 5—A Modern Cinderella Ruth Etting	Nov. 5	18
No. 6—Picking a Winner Technicolor Musical	Nov. 19	16	Nov. 19
No. 7—The Red Shadow Al Gray-Bernice Claire	Dec. 3	18
No. 8—Sky Symphony Stoopnagle & Budd	June 3,'33
No. 9—Poor Little Rich Boy Phil Baker	Dec. 24	18
No. 10—Hey, Hey, Westerner Technicolor Musical	Dec. 31	17	Oct. 15
No. 11—That Goes Double Russ Columbo	June 17,'33
No. 12—Bygones Ruth Etting	Jan. 14,'33	18
No. 13—Pleasure Island Technicolor Musical	Feb. 25,'33	18
No. 14—Yours Sincerely Lanny Ross	Mar. 11,'33	19
No. 15—Speaking of Operations Pick & Pat	Jan. 28,'33	18	May 13,'33
No. 16—Northern Exposure Technicolor Musical	Apr. 8,'33	16
No. 17—Nothing Ever Happens Musical	Mar. 25,'33	18	May 13,'33
No. 18—World's Champ Jack Dempsey	July 11,'33
No. 19—The Way of All Freshmen Hal Leroy-Mitzi Mayfair	Apr. 22,'33
No. 20—Along Came Ruth Ruth Etting	May 6,'33
No. 21—Fifi V. Segal-Chas. Judels	May 20,'33	21	May 13,'33
HOW TO BREAK 90 BOBBY JONES
No. 1—The Grip	May 15,'33	9
No. 2—Position and Back Swing
No. 3—Hip Action
No. 4—Down Swing
No. 5—Impact
No. 6—Fine Points
LOONEY TUNES SERIES
No. 9—Bosko and Bruno		7	Dec. 10
No. 10—Bosko's Dog Race		8	July 8
No. 11—Bosko at the Beach		7	Nov. 5
No. 12—Bosko's Store		7
No. 13—Bosko the Lumberjack
LOONEY TUNES (NEW SERIES)
No. 1—Ride Him, Bosko
No. 2—Bosko the Drawback
No. 3—Bosko's Dizzy Date
No. 4—Bosko's Woodland Daze
No. 5—Bosko in Dutch
No. 6—Bosko in Person		7	May 13,'33
No. 7—Bosko the Speed King
No. 8—Bosko's Knight Mare
MELODY MASTERS (NEW SERIES)
No. 1—Music to My Ears Jack Denny and Band
No. 2—Municipal Band Wagon
No. 3—Smash Your Baggage Small's Paradise Band
No. 4—The Lease Breakers Aunt Jemima		9	Dec. 3
No. 5—The Yacht Party Roger Wolfe Kahn's Band
No. 6—Hot Competition The Continentals-Barris-Whiteman-Ted Husing
No. 7—Abe Lyman and Band		10	Apr. 1,'33
No. 8—"How's Tricks?" Jean Sargent-George Owen and Gang
No. 9—That's the Spirit Noble Sissle and Band
No. 10—The Alma Martyr Fred Waring and His Pennsylvanians
MERRY MELODIES (New Series)
No. 1—You're Too Careless With Your Kisses		8	Dec. 17
No. 2—I Wish I Had Wings
No. 3—A Great Big Bunch of You
No. 4—Three's a Crowd
No. 5—Shanty Where Santa Claus Lives
No. 6—One Step Ahead of My Shadow
No. 7—Young and Healthy
No. 8—The Organ Grinder
No. 9—Wake Up the Gypsy in Me
NOVELTIES
Bigger They Are, The Primo Carnera		2 reels
Gypsy Caravan Martinelli		1 reel
Handy Guy, The Earl Sande		2 reels
Rhythms of a Big City		1 reel
Season's Greetings, The Christmas Special		5
Trip to Tibet, A		1 reel
Washington, The Man and the Capitol Clarence Whitehill		18

Title	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
ONE-REEL COMEDIES
Baby Face Victor Moore
Military Post, The Robert Guzman
No-Account, The Hardie-Hutchison
No Questions Asked Little Billy
Strong Arm, The Harrington-O'Neill
ORGAN SONG-NATAS
For You Organ-Vocal		1 reel
Say a Little Prayer for Me Organ-Vocal		1 reel
When Your Lover Has Gone Organ-Vocal		1 reel
JOE PENNER COMEDIES
Moving In		2 reels
Rough Sailing		16
Stutterless Romance, A		1 reel
Where Men Are Men		2 reels
PEPPER POT (NEW SERIES)
No. 1—Rambling Round Radio Row No. 1
No. 2—Nickelette
No. 3—Contact
No. 4—If I'm Elected
No. 5—King Salmon
No. 6—Rambling Round Radio Row No. 2
No. 7—Babe O' Mine
No. 8—Dangerous Occupations
No. 9—Out of the Past
No. 10—Love Thy Neighbor
No. 11—Rambling Round Radio Row No. 3
No. 12—A Whale of a Yarn
No. 13—Africa Speaks—English
No. 14—Rambling Round Radio Row No. 4		10	Apr. 29,'33
No. 15—Sea Devils
No. 16—Parades of Yesterday
No. 17—Breakwater
No. 18—Little White Lies
No. 19—Rambling Round Radio Row No. 5
No. 20—You're Killing Me
No. 21—Inklings
No. 22—Rambling Round Radio Row No. 6
No. 23—Around the World in 8 Minutes		8	Aug. 20
No. 24—Fishermen's Holiday
No. 25—Stuck, Stuck, Stucco
No. 26—Seeing Samoa
SPORT THRILLS SERIES TED HUSING
No. 1—
No. 2—
No. 3—
No. 4—Old Time Sport Thrills
No. 5—
No. 6—
S. S. VAN DINE MYSTERY SERIES (Donald Meek-John Hamilton)
No. 10—Campus Mystery, The
No. 11—Crane Poison Case, The
No. 12—Transatlantic Mystery, The		22	Sept. 19
TWO-REEL COMEDIES
Dandy and the Belle, The Frank McGlynn, Jr.-Mary Murray
Freshman Love Ruth Etting
Old Lace Ruth Etting
WORLD TRAVEL TALKS— E. M. NEWMAN
No. 1—Little Journeys to Great Masters		1 reel
No. 2—Southern India		9
No. 3—Road to Mandalay		1 reel
No. 4—Mediterranean By-ways		9
No. 5—Javanese Journeys		9
No. 6—Northern India		1 reel
No. 7—Oberammergau		1 reel
No. 8—South American Journeys		9	June 25
No. 9—Soviet Russia		1 reel
No. 10—Paris Glimpses		9	July 30
No. 11—Dear Old London		1 reel
No. 12—When in Rome		9	June 18
No. 13—Berlin Today		9	Oct. 29
WORLD ADVENTURES E. M. NEWMAN (New Series)
No. 1—Dancing Around the World		1 reel
No. 2—Transportations of the World		1 reel
No. 3—An Original Cocktail		10	Oct. 8
No. 4—Curious Customs of the World		1 reel
No. 5—From Bethlehem to Jerusalem		10	Apr. 1,'33
No. 6—High Spots of the Far East		10	Sept. 10
No. 7—Main Streets		1 reel
No. 8—Beauty Spots of the World		1 reel
No. 9—Workers of the World		1 reel
No. 10—Wonder Spots of the World		1 reel
No. 11—Costumes of the World		1 reel
No. 12—Strange Ceremonies		1 reel
No. 13—Top of the World		1 reel

SERIALS

MASCOT

Three Musketeers, The

UNIVERSAL

(EACH SERIAL 12 EPISODES OF TWO REELS)

Title	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
Clancy of the Mounted Tom Tyler-Jacqueline Wells	Feb. 27,'33	20 (each)	Feb. 4,'33
Lost Special Frank Albertson	Dec. 5
Jungle Mystery Tom Tyler	Sept. 12	20 (each)
Phantom of the Air Tom Tyler-Gloria Shea	May 22,'33

TECHNOLOGICAL

The BLUEBOOK School

By F. H. RICHARDSON

BLUEBOOK SCHOOL QUESTION NO. 173.—(A) From what is the best port fire shutter made? (B) Tell us what, in your opinion, provides the best and really the only protection from audience fright in motion picture theatres. (C) Give us your own idea of how port shutters should be fused and exactly where the fuses should be located. (D) In a properly ventilated projection room having good port fire shutters so fused that they will automatically fall within one or two seconds of the start of any film fire, are audiences in any danger of any sort from such fire? (E) Can such a system be installed without prohibitive cost?

Answer to Question No. 166

Bluebook School Question No. 166 was: (A) Tell us just what if any effect the projection of film in poor mechanical condition or smeared with oil and (or) dirt will have on box office receipts. (B) Tell us just what if any mechanical faults, including oil smears, you have found in films received from an exchange recently. (C) Tell us your views concerning the importance of having the two reels on the rewinder in perfect alignment.

The following answered acceptably: J. Wentworth, Lester Brost, Dale Danielson, T. Van Vaulkenburg, G. E. Doe, Wilbur Ostrum, Kenneth Dowling, P. W. Edwards, E. W. Parkinson, Bill Doe, J. Lansing and R. D. Oberleigh, O. L. Evans, D. K. Ormie and T. M. Vinson, S. F. Love and W. Love; D. Emmerson, D. L. Tapley, D. D. Davis and L. Thomas; P. L. Danby, L. Hutch and D. Goldberg; E. Harlor and G. Harrison, D. U. Grainger, A. Breaston and D. Haber; R. Wheeler and R. Suler, M. Simms and O. L. Daris, J. H. Rathburn and D. Little, D. R. Peters and D. Holler; M. L. Lamb, M. Spencer and D. T. Arlen; A. Bailey, R. D. Konley and S. Maybe; L. Hendershot and R. Rubin; B. Jones, R. Geddings, L. Grant and P. T. Zann; R. Singleton and M. L. George; T. S. Raymond, G. Tiplin, T. N. Williams and R. S. Allen; C. Cummings and T. Kelley, J. N. and H. T. Wilson, L. Summers and D. M. Banks; M. H. Lonberger, H. True, O. Allbright, G. K. Berger, H. R. Baldwin and W. T. Soare; D. L. Mason and J. T. Ballinger, T. Davis and T. Lambert; E. W. Warner, B. Sappert, J. Cermak, T. R. Bancroft and D. L. Danielson; B. L. Blinkendorfer, T. McGruder, H. B. Coates, D. Michaelson, H. Edwards, L. H. Simmons, P. Jackson and B. Diglah; D. Anderson, E. Rymer and B. L. Tanner; D. L. Howard, P. L. Jenson and A. Ilks; F. F. Franks, D. L. Dillon, J. B. Malley and M. D. Oleson; M. R. Davis, G. Farmann, H. Rogers, B. L. Banning and L. Jones; H. D. Schofield, T. Lambert and T. Davis; D. L. Sinklow, P. K. Daniels and F. F. Franks; R. Geddings, D. V. Peterson and M. G. Grieg.

I have selected the reply of G. E. Doe to section A. He says:

"One prime purpose of the motion picture is to create, so far as is possible, an illusion of real life. Oil on film or mechanical defects therein will invariably be visible in the screen image. Faults in the screen image injure its beauty. Mechanical faults in the film will or may serve to make the picture unsteady, and an unsteady picture destroys all illusion of actuality. It automatically makes the observer remember that it is a picture and not reality. Oil blurs the image, and besides injuring its beauty, is hard on the eyes. Anything that makes the picture less beautiful or makes it harder on the eyes works against the box office, though just to what extent would depend upon how often the films were in poor mechanical condition and how bad the condition might be. One unsteady, jumpy, rainy or oil-smeared film might do not very much harm, from the box office point of view, but continuous use of such film, or their use frequently, would cut down box office receipts heavily."

(B) It would be impossible to select a representative answer to this question. From the more than 1,100 answers, many of which I have examined carefully, it would seem that some men received all first-runs. Others receive film in very fair condition, though not new; some in poor condition, and some very bad. Oil seems to be more or less present on most films, except of course first run. The faults named were oil, loose splices, stiff splices, buckled splices (rare), weakened and strained sprocket holes, crooked splices (rare), ripped sprocket holes, rain, sprocket tooth indentations, change-over signals, breaks in sound caused by film being cut out; edges of film damaged; injury to sound track.

(C) H. Edwards says:

"The importance of exact alignment of the rewinder reels is obvious. Unless they be in perfect alignment the film will rub on the edge of the tail reel first, then on the edges of both reels, and finally on the edge of the reel from which film is being rewound. This will of course be injurious in proportion to (1) the speed of rewinding, (2) the condition of the reels, and (3) the tension applied to the tail reel. With poor, crooked reels and high speed rewinding the damage may be considerable."

New Paint Is Devised To Protect Darkrooms

A paint produced especially for photographic dark-room and laboratory purposes has been announced by the Eastman Kodak Company. It is called "Kodacoat." It was conceived for a number of waterproofing and chemical-proofing purposes in the darkroom and in other photographic quarters. It is said to be non-inflammable, non-fogging, non-reflecting, acid and alkali-proof, and waterproof; and to resist chemical solutions, including oxidizing and reducing agents.

Another new Eastman paint has been compounded to reflect all the light possible when a darkroom is lighted with a panchromatic safelight, or a series-3 safelight. This is "Pauchromatic Green." If the room is lighted with a yellow or a red safelight, the reflective power of the paint is still at maximum for such a color. When a darkroom is painted with Panchromatic Green the walls look light under the illumination of a Series 3 Safelight, and gray when the room is flooded with yellow light, but dark when red light is used.

CLASSIFIED ADVERTISING

the great national medium for showmen

Ten cents per word, money-order or check with copy. Count initials, box number and address. Minimum insertion, $1. Four insertions for the price of three. Contract rates on application. No borders or cuts. Forms close Mondays at 5 P.M. Publisher reserves right to reject any copy. Address correspondence, copy and checks to MOTION PICTURE HERALD, Classified Dept., 1790 Broadway, New York City

REPAIR SERVICE

BEST GRADE REPAIR WORK. PRICES right. Free relief heads. Prompt service. GUERCIO AND BARTHEL, 1018 South Wabash Avenue, Chicago, Ill.

PROJECTORS, TICKET MACHINES AND OTHER theatre and sound equipment requiring parts and repairs can now be given prompt attention at reasonable cost. BOX 121A, MOTION PICTURE HERALD.

USED EQUIPMENT

UNUSUAL BARGAINS IN USED OPERA Chairs, Sound Equipment, Moving Picture Machines, Screens, Spotlights, Stereopticons, etc. Projection Machines Repaired. Send for catalogue H. MOVIE SUPPLY COMPANY, 844 So. Wabash Ave., Chicago.

HIGH GRADE LENSES, ALL SIZES; SELL OR trade. Cheap. BOX 288, MOTION PICTURE HERALD, 407 So. Dearborn St., Chicago, Ill.

BARGAINS RECONDITIONED ARCTIC-NU-AIR blowers noiseless drives. Write for prices. SOUTHERN FAN CO., Box 440, Atlanta, Ga.

NEW EQUIPMENT

VENTILATING, AIR WASHING, REFRIGERATing systems now within reach. Fit present blowers. Details ready. S. O. S. CORP., 1600 Broadway, New York City.

LIQUIDATION SOUNDHEAD STOCK LEADing manufacturer—fraction original value. Built like finely jewelled watch. Year's greatest opportunity. BOX 293, MOTION PICTURE HERALD.

PROJECTIONISTS UNIONS

THE NEW NATIONAL PROJECTIONISTS' Union—Independent Motion Picture Operators' Union, National Executive Offices, 3546 Vincent North, Minneapolis, Minn.

PRINTING SERVICE

EXHIBITORS CAN SAVE MONEY ON STAtionery, window cards and advertising paper by ordering through the mail. Let us know your wants. BOX 135-A, MOTION PICTURE HERALD.

500 ENVELOPES AND 500 WHITE BOND LETTERHEADS, $2.75. WEBSTER'S PRESS, Farmland, Indiana.

GENERAL EQUIPMENT

NEW & USED SCENERY DRAPES, TRACKS, etc. KINGSLEY STUDIO, Alton, Ill.

A FEW BARGAINS AT CROWN — FOREST rectifier 30 ampere, $75.00 each; 15 ampere rectifier, $25.00; Simplex mechanism, $135.00; Powers, $40.00. All merchandise guaranteed. Write us your needs and let us quote you. Special prices on Sanitary supplies. Write for list. CROWN MOTION PICTURE SUPPLIES CORP., 311 West 44th St., New York City.

RCA-VICTOR LOUDSPEAKERS, RCA PHOTOphone Professional Projectors, Soundheads, Parts. Never lower. S. O. S. CORP., 1600 Broadway, New York.

FILM EXCHANGES

INDEPENDENT EXCHANGES ALL OVER THE country wanted to act as local representative for independent productions handled on state right basis. State number of theatres servicing in territory together with list of producers you are now representing. BOX 138-A, MOTION PICTURE HERALD.

EQUIPMENT EXCHANGE

IF YOU WANT TO REPLACE ANY TYPE OF equipment with brand new material we will be glad to make an allowance on your old equipment and a better price on new equipment. Let us know what you need and what you want to exchange and we will send complete details on our proposition. EQUIPMENT EXCHANGE, c/o MOTION PICTURE HERALD, 1790 Broadway, New York City.

POSITIONS WANTED

AT LIBERTY—AGGRESSIVE LIVE-WIRE MOtion picture theatre manager, expert exploitation, publicity director. Married—age 38, small salary or percentage. BOX 127A, MOTION PICTURE HERALD.

BUSINESS STIMULATORS

LIMITED SUPPLY ON HAND. FIRST COME first served. MYSTO, the new puzzle game. Seven blocks that reproduce an endless variety of tricky silhouettes and figures. More entertaining and educational than jig saw puzzles. Each set contains instruction booklet. Blocks are unbreakable. The latest puzzle craze to give out as door prizes to grown ups and children. Backed up by national newspaper advertising. $10 per hundred, $90 per thousand. No orders accepted unless check or money-order accompanies it. BOX 137-A, MOTION PICTURE HERALD.

TECHNICAL BOOKS

"RICHARDSON'S HAND BOOKS OF PROJECtion" in three volumes. Universally accredited as the best and most practical. Aaron Nadell's "Projection Sound Pictures." Complete information on sound equipment. Both text books complete for $12.80. QUIGLEY BOOKSHOP, 1790 Broadway, New York.

TRAINING SCHOOLS

LEARN MODERN THEATRE MANAGEMENT. Approved home-study training. Free Catalog. THEATRE MANAGERS INSTITUTE, 315 Washington St., Elmira, New York.

HELP WANTED

BRANCH MANAGERS WANTED IN EVERY State. Knowledge of projection helpful but not necessary. Business consists of theatre supplies. BOX 280, MOTION PICTURE HERALD.

AGENTS IN EVERY CITY IN AMERICA TO represent reliable concern furnishing necessary service to theatres. Those experienced as film or premium salesmen preferred. Must have car and willing to work on commission basis only. State all requirements in first letter. Box 136-A, MOTION PICTURE HERALD.

THEATRES WANTED

LEASE ON THEATRE. MIDDLEWEST town. 4,000 up. JONES BROS., Beatrice, Nebr.

EXPERIENCED SHOWMAN DESIRES THEAtre in Texas. Percentage or low rental. Have sound equipment. PECK, P.O. Box 1194, New Orleans, La.

THEATRES

FOR SALE: THE UPTOWN THEATRE AT Muncie, Indiana. Owner with broken hip wants rest—not work. He has bought the theatre and building, and other properties out of profits. Population 50,000—manufacturing and college city. Price for this modern equipped theatre and building $20,000. Will sell theatre equipment alone if desired and rent building. A golden opportunity. WARREN JACKSON, 911 University Avenue.

DATE BOOKS

NEW, IMPROVED, LOOSE-LEAF DATE BOOK; compact, complete, 6 x 8; permanent binder and year's filler, 80 cents. Money back guarantee. PREMIER ADVERTISING SERVICE, 1717 Wyandotte, Kansas City, Mo.

THE FOUNDATION

of the finest pictures you are showing this year is Eastman Supersensitive Panchromatic Negative. Introduced two years ago, this film is recognized by producers and cameramen as the most trustworthy base on which to build the splendid motion picture of today. Eastman Kodak Company, Rochester, N. Y. (J. E. Brulatour, Inc., Distributors, New York, Chicago, Hollywood.)

EASTMAN

SUPER-SENSITIVE

PANCHROMATIC NEGATIVE

more power to you

from

Paramount

maurice chevalier

in "A Bedtime Story" with Helen Twelvetrees, Adrienne Ames, Edward Everett Horton and Monsieur Baby Le Roy... directed by Norman Taurog

"the story of temple drake"

with Miriam Hopkins, Jack La Rue, Wm. Gargan and Wm. Collier, jr. ... directed by Stephen Roberts from William Faulkner's famous novel.

"song of the eagle"

("the passing of the beer baron")

with Charles Bickford, Richard Arlen, Mary Brian, Jean Hersholt, Louise Dresser, Andy Devine and George E. Stone . . . directed by Ralph Murphy
a Charles R. Rogers production

"international house"

with Peggy Hopkins Joyce, W. C. Fields, Rudy Vallee, Stuart Erwin, George Burns & Gracie Allen, Sari Maritza, Col. Stoopnagle & Budd, Cab Calloway and his Orchestra, Baby Rose Marie and the Girls in Cellophane... directed by Edward Sutherland.

"i love that man"

with Edmund Lowe, Nancy Carroll, Robert Armstrong and Lew Cody ...directed by Harry Joe Brown
a Charles R. Rogers production

"the eagle and the hawk"

with Fredric March, Cary Grant, Carole Lombard and Jack Oakie. Story by the author of "Wings" directed by Stuart Walker

Sylvia Sidney in

"jennie gerhardt"

by Theodore Dreiser with Donald Cook, Mary Astor, H. B. Warner and Edward Arnold... directed by Marion Gering
a B. P. Schulberg production.

"the girl in 419"

with James Dunn, Gloria Stuart, David Manners and Jack La Rue...directed by George Somnes and Alexander Hall
a B. P. Schulberg production

"college humor"

with Bing Crosby, Richard Arlen, Mary Carlisle, Jack Oakie, George Burns and Gracie Allen and the "ox-road" co-eds... directed by Wesley Ruggles

★ last call

Join the 984 theatres, 241 newspapers and 24 radio stations who have grabbed the chance to conduct local contests to find the 30 perfect men and women to appear in the forthcoming Paramount production

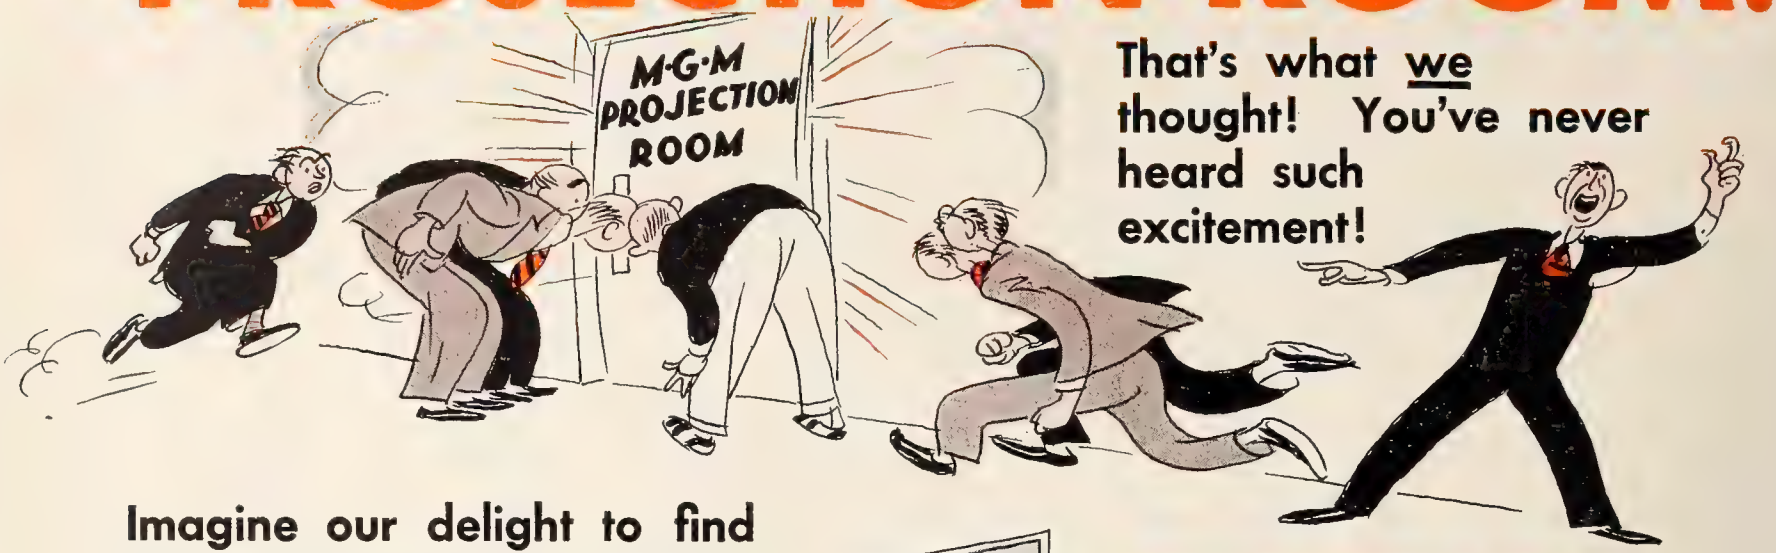
"the search for beauty"

Paramount's Hollywood Studio must have your entry May 19th. Hurry! Wire now!

Paramount Pictures

if it's a Paramount Picture, it's the best show in town!

MOTION PICTURE HERALD



A CONSOLIDATION OF EXHIBITORS HERALD-WORLD AND MOTION PICTURE NEWS

The growth, prosperity and success of the motion picture industry in the America of the New Deal is safe and assured, assured because of the sincerity and ability of twelve thousand exhibitors who represent the box office and the amusement buying power of these United States. That many showmen represent all the right and might that pertain to majorities, and the motion picture is a business of majorities and masses. The New Day has dawned and the showmen are going ahead—they will take the business with them.

MARTIN QUIGLEY

Vol. 111, No. 9 Entered as second-class matter, January 12, 1931, at the Post Office, at New York, N. Y., under the act of March 3, 1879. Published Weekly by Quigley Publishing Co., Inc., at 1790 Broadway, New York. Subscription, $3.00 a year. Single copies, 25 cents. May 27, 1933

MURDER IN A PROJECTION ROOM!

Imagine our delight to find it was a PREVIEW FOR FAN MAGAZINE EDITORS of Lee Tracy in "The Nuisance!"
(Former title "Never Give a Sucker a Break")

So we asked them to let us tell you exactly what they're going to tell millions of fans about this great M-G-M comedy!

MILLIONS OF FANS WILL READ THESE GREAT REVIEWS!

"Lee Tracy in 'The Nuisance', a howling, smashing, screaming success. Lee Tracy out-Tracies anything to date as the go-getting, ambulance chasing, shyster lawyer. Right on the dot at every accident, even before it gets through happening, Lee reaps clients like a farmer reaps wheat, and by hook or crook (mostly crook) outwits the big corporations at every turn. And are they burned? But he's finally tripped by no less a tripper than the fair Madge Evans. And does he fall? Second to that of Lee stands the marvelous performance of Frank Morgan as the drunken doctor accomplice. Madge Evans comes through in a big way as the little 'stool pigeon' who falls for Lee, while Charles Butterworth as Floppy, the professional accident case, brings many a howl."

—PHOTOPLAY MAGAZINE (Selected as one of the 6 Best of the Month!)

"Excellent Comedy. Lee Tracy hasn't had such a perfect-made-to-order picture since 'Blessed Event,' and that's saying a mouthful. As a shyster lawyer, commonly known as an 'ambulance chaser,' Tracy romps away with the picture and leaves you gasping with laughter. There is one swell scene after another until the lovers are happily united."

—SILVER SCREEN

"Lee Tracy fans, sit up and whoop! Here's your Lee at his top-best, and you'll love him and the picture. The story moves as fast as Lee talks, and you don't stop laughing at one gag before you're roaring at the next. Is that recommendation? Okeh! Then take it. Charlie Butterworth, with the dead-pan comedy and some swell lines, will hurt your tummy with laughs. And for a howlingly ludicrous sequence, there's a physical examination scene in which a bit-player named Herman Bing scores with a BING! The picture is jammed with twists, developments, gags that will more than pay you for the coin you gave the box office girl. This is A-1 entertainment for any moviegoer. It's all right for any 1933 youngster to see."

—MOVIE MIRROR

"Lee Tracy's gift of gab finds a perfect outlet in the role of a shyster lawyer who is equally at home chasing ambulances and troubled blondes. Miss Evans is appealing and I can't blame Phineas Stevens for being taken in. The lesser roles are so nicely cast, and this film is listed above the average."

—PICTURE PLAY

"Lee Tracy steps out in a picture which is, without a doubt, his best since 'Blessed Event.' Fast, breezy pace, with a titter every few seconds. It's a gem of a picture for everybody . . . including the kids."

—MODERN SCREEN

"'The Nuisance!' What a break for the audience. It's Tracy's best!"

—SCREENLAND

"Tangy, gusty, amusing comedy melodrama. Lee Tracy at his best gives a corking performance."

—SCREEN BOOK

And the Hollywood Previews are great, too!

"Great cast, story makes whale of comedy. Perfect for Lee Tracy. It is a comedy smash. A joy to behold, and the laughs come about as fast as they have in anything screened in a long time. Seldom has there been a better-constructed, better-played, better-written and better-directed comedy."

—HOLLYWOOD HERALD

"New Tracy picture swell. Directing, Acting, Writing all great. A lot of people will think it ties 'Blessed Event.' They'll turn out in droves for this one."

—HOLLYWOOD REPORTER

(Thank the fan magazines for these reviews in advance of publication. Use them in ads, house organs, heralds, lobby, etc.)

IT'S OUT!

The PRESS BOOK two thousand exhibitors helped plan! A gold mine of ticket-selling aids! Get it and get going on the kind of campaign you've always WANTED to give a picture! . . . . . .

You're All Set To Go With The World's Greatest Show!

WARNER BROS.' GOLD

Says Motion Picture Daily:

"Reminiscent of 'Bad Girl.' Human and understandable to millions of patrons. Sally Eilers and James Dunn give first-class performances in a story that fits right into the problems of most boys and girls."

Says Film Daily:

"Sweet romance of store employes that hold interest throughout with action, thrills and punch climax. A delightful picture . . . should receive plenty of favorable response.

A preferred time booking for any man's theatre!

HOLD ME TIGHT

JAMES
DUNN
SALLY EILERS

From the story "Department Store" by Margaret Rigdon

Directed by DAVID BUTLER

Another HIT IN THE FOX May FESTIVAL

©CIB 191510

MAY 26 1933

MOTION PICTURE HERALD

Vol. III, No. 9 — May 27, 1933

LOOKING UP!

POSITIVELY things are looking up, all along the line. The motion picture industry has gone to talking business again, instead of disaster. The talk these days is of things to do, rather than what will happen next. Probably all of the real bad news has been had.

There is a new tone in the daily press too, and less of the glums and glooms on the commuters' trains and the subways. Enough people think things are better to make them better.

There are pleasant manifestations running all through the news of industries in general, indicating that the workers are going to have enough money to be box office customers again. For instance steel has recovered as far in two months as it slipped down in the prior fourteen months. Automobile production and sales are both up since the bank holiday. Commercial failures have decreased. Railroad bonds are up. Agricultural products are leading in an upward trend of merchandise prices. The wheels are turning again.

△ △ △

BUGHOUSE FACTS

IN the early days of that far thirsty land that was to become Kansas, the pioneers, being short of cards and the equipments of diversion, invented a curious game called "fly lit." The players sat about a bare table in a damp, cool sod house, each putting down a coin. He on whose money a fly first alighted took the pot. One memorable fly lit game on the Cimarron river broke up into a lynching party when the players caught a St. Louis slicker with honey on his money. Finding no tree in that barren land, they hanged him in a well.

Now comes some fiendish inventor with a new insect game, cockroach racing—yes, plain kitchen cockroaches, matched against each other in a race track machine with a dozen parallel runways.

The device is solemnly offered, and probably sold, to the amusement industry by—cursed be tradition—the present day successor to the old Mutoscope company, the concern which gave the motion picture the golden age of Biograph and through Mr. D. W. Griffith founded the narrative styles and expedients of the screen.

△ △ △

NO proper adjustment and inter-relation between the sound picture and music will be reached until there cease to be "cycles of musicals" and discussions of cycles. Evolution through experience will take care of that, in time. That's the way it happened on the stage. Presently, after vast expense and travail, it will be found that music will have a part in the sound motion picture somewhat approximating the place it achieved in the theatre of the so-called "silent drama" which in fact was never silent.

WHERE THE PEP BELONGS

WRITING in approbation of our expression of last week anent the outmoded idea of the annual "sales convention," Mr. P. J. Wood, of Columbus, business manager of the Motion Picture Theatre Owners of Ohio, steps forward in an outspoken letter with a vigorous suggestion:

"It is not the film salesman who must be pepped up during the next couple of years," says Mr. Wood, "but the great bulk of independent exhibitors who right now are wondering whether or not they can continue in business, and, as this industry will, for some time to come, have to be entirely financed out of box office receipts, the thought occurs to me that instead of spending thousands of dollars on sales conventions, it might not be a bad idea for the distributors to spend half of the amount, or less, on a real honest-to-God 'motion picture' convention.

"To such a convention, financed by the distributing companies, should be invited, say, one hundred of the leading independent exhibitors of the country. These exhibitors should be fellows who have a real investment in the business and are not afraid to speak out. Fellows in Ohio, for example, like John Schwalm, Martin Smith, Henry Bieberson, Real Neth and Ike Libson.

"To this convention should also come not only the general sales managers, but the real leaders like Hays, Sidney Kent, Nicholas Schenck, Harry Warner, Carl Laemmle, etc., etc. The producing end of the business should also be represented in person by Louis B. Mayer, Winnie Sheehan, etc., and a few of the leading directors like Zanuck, Vidor, DeMille, etc.

"Such a gathering would be a real 'motion picture' convention and would enable those who most desire the business perpetuated to frankly discuss the future of the business from all angles, bring motion picture entertainment the most desirable front-page publicity in every newspaper in the country, and would go a long way towards restoring the confidence of the general public in our industry.

"And finally, as in all likelihood the President's 'Industry Control Bill' will be enacted by Congress, a convention of this nature within the very near future would be most opportune as it could consider the matter of establishing a code of practice applicable to the industry."

There is, too, indirectly expressed in Mr. Wood's communication, a very apparent demand from the big independent exhibition field for a new realization of and a new application to its problems of entertainment. The production attitude engendered by the big chain era is not precisely in tune with the dominant exhibitor thought of today.

△ △ △

Dr. Alfred N. Goldsmith, consulting engineer to the world of electrical entertainment, after reflection on the 3.2 situation has come out on a national platform of "two refrigerators for every home".

MOTION PICTURE HERALD — MARTIN QUIGLEY, Editor-in-Chief and Publisher

Incorporating Exhibitor's Herald, founded 1915; Motion Picture News, founded 1913; Moving Picture World, founded 1907; Motography, founded 1909; The Film Index, founded 1906. Published every Thursday by Quigley Publishing Company, 1790 Broadway, New York City. Telephone Circle 7-3100. Martin Quigley, Editor-in-Chief and Publisher; Colvin Brown, Vice-President and General Manager; Terry Ramsaye, Editor; Ernest A. Rovelstad, Managing Editor; Chicago office, 407 South Dearborn street, Edwin S. Clifford, manager; Hollywood office, Pacific States Life Building, Wid Gunning, manager; London office, 41 Redhill Drive, Edgware, London, England, W. H. Mooring, representative; Berlin office, Katharinstrasse 3, Berlin-Halinsee, Germany, Hans Tintner, representative; Paris office, 19, Rue de la Cour-des-Noues, Paris 20e, France, Pierre Autré, representative; Sydney office, 102 Sussex street, Sydney, Australia, Cliff Holt, representative; Mexico City office, James Lockhart, Apartado 269, Mexico City, Mexico. Member Audit Bureau of Circulations. All contents copyright 1933 by Quigley Publishing Company. All correspondence should be addressed to the New York Office. Better Theatres, devoted to the construction, equipment and operation of theatres, is published every fourth week as section 2 of Motion Picture Herald. Other Quigley Publications: Motion Picture Daily, The Hollywood Herald, The Motion Picture Almanac, published annually, and the Chicagoan.

THIS WEEK - - - -

HOLLYWOOD CZARS

Firm in the belief that "pictures, more than any other world product, depend on creation, on ideas," Walter Wanger, producer of some note, last week in Hollywood turned emphatic "thumbs down" on the occasionally discussed thought of a studio dictator. Said Mr. Wanger: "a dictator would break down the morale . . . . and produce pictures with neither merit nor ideals." Since, also, creators cannot be handled in a dictatorial manner, "czars" would be practically unable to function in the industry's producing community. . . .

UNION TROUBLES

Not yet out of hot water, though it has recently cooled somewhat, is the New York projectionists' union, Local 306, from which arrogant former president Sam Kaplan took a step to court for coercion, was there convicted, sentenced. Now asked by 239 "permit men" of the union, through counsel, is permission to examine the union books, prior to continuation of their action for a declaratory judgment to compel union officials to allow them to become full members. Said Supreme Court Justice Frank F. Adel in Brooklyn, when he granted the book-examination request: "I wonder if this union is as arrogant as some of the others. When a man is married and has a wife and children to support, and a union boss tells him to sign something, the man will sign". . . .

WAR AND FILMS

Long synonymous have been the terms Central and South America, and minor wars. Now more optimistic are theatre operators in northern South America and Central America since at the moment there is only one war currently in work, last week declared John B. Nathan, Paramount representative there, in New York for his first visit in 15 months. Widespread in the political cauldron south of Mexico is optimism, aided by President Roosevelt's proposed tariff truce, particularly insofar as exporters are concerned. Musicals are in demand, Manager Nathan added, with dubbed versions and superimposed subtitle dialogue translations of American films continuing to satisfy the cinematic appetite of Latin Americans, thus permitting American pictures to retain their top in that hectic market. . . .

NO PHILANTHROPIST

Unprecedented in the last generation of Broadway's theatrical district are the figures on the price list beside the box office of the Royale theatre, where is playing the return engagement of John Golden's "When Ladies Meet." No philanthropist is Showman Golden when he offers the play for prices from 25 cents to $1, but rather a shrewd businessman.Three reasons are behind the strange maneuver: one, willingness of the cast to take minimum salaries; two, memories, as Mr. Golden recalls the yesterday when the nearly penniless could see a good play with the carriage trade, be the famed gallery gods; three, an attack on the motion picture houses of Broadway which have quite stolen the low price theatre crowd away from the "legitimate." Says Mr. Golden: "If this plan should meet with the public favor, I shall continue . . . to offer them (plays) to theatregoers at prices within reach of folks whose only entertainment is now limited to the talkies." . . .

REFRESHING MEMORIES

To "refresh the distributors' memories" is the intent of Jay Means, president of the Independent Theatre Owners of Greater Kansas City, now voicing protest against the showing of theatrical films in schools and churches. The distributors' memories, claims the group, seem to have failed relative to the "gentlemen's agreement" or "unwritten code" covering such situations. It has hitherto been the custom, it is contended, to offer films to non-theatrical situations after theatre bookings are exhausted, but lately deviations have become increasingly noticeable. "Theatres," contends President Means, "are the backbone of the industry." . . .

In This Issue

Industry all set for new season; companies outline available production Page 9
Film Industry to draft own control bill plan; theatre levy kept Page 11
New device permits instantaneous image Page 12
Court acts to save assets in receiverships Page 16

FEATURES

Editorial Page 7
The Camera Reports Page 13
J. C. Jenkins—His Colyum Page 48
Asides and Interludes Page 35

DEPARTMENTS

What the Picture Did for Me Page 39
Showmen's Reviews Page 31
Managers Round Table Page 55
Technological Page 63
Chicago Page 62
The Release Chart Page 64
Short Features Page 62
Meetings Page 50
Productions in Work Page 51
Box Office Receipts Page 52
Classified Advertising Page 70

LARGEST SIGNS

Animated Neon lights, dancing on an electric sign 150 feet by 40 feet, and claimed to be the world's largest sign, will proclaim Warner-made motion pictures to all and sundry attending the Century of Progress Exposition at Chicago, which begins next week. Proudly S. Charles Einfeld, the ambitious advertising and publicity director of Warner-First National, announced the stupendous selling fact to newsmen at Kansas City at a stop-over with sales head en route to the Coast. . . .

GROUPING ADS

Off on a new advertising tack, independent theatre owners of New Orleans last week inaugurated group advertising with a 55-agate line, one-column advertisement in a local morning paper, thus slipped a leaf from the selling book of the United circuit of the city. Heretofore independents used individual space. Eleven theatres took advantage of the opportunity of selling their pictures en bloc to New Orleans' motion picture-going public. . . .

NAZI MANEUVERS

Via London comes the report, partially substantiated, that France has virtually embargoed German films. Government implication in the maneuver is seen not remote. As French bankers exerted pressure, German films were stranded in the customs, while in French theatres an aroused citizenry reacted thunderously to the appearance of German films. As the Hitler thumb continues to press downward in its autocratic omnipotence, comes a new Nazi ruling: any theatre owner, a member of the National Socialist Party (Nazi), trading with film salesmen of the Jewish faith may expect immediate expulsion from the Party, apparently for daring to do business without the Hitlerian sanction. Expected to close are 2,000 of Germany's 5,000 houses, Hitler "culture" to be instilled through the stage. . . .

ACROSS THE PAGE

To the other side of the page are moving the advertisements of Baltimore theatres, whose owners have thus far agreed to run with the MPTO of Maryland, of which Frank A. Hornig is guiding spirit, following a merger of Associated Theatre Owners of Maryland with the MPTO. As the Associated members respond to MPTO's mailed invitations to become members, their daily advertisements will be shifted to the MPTO side of the neighborhood theatre program calendar in the Morning and Evening Sun and the Evening News. Thus is their new alliance proclaimed. . . .

INDUSTRY GETS SET FOR NEW FILMS, INDIVIDUAL SALES AND PRODUCTION

Plans Materializing for 1933-34 Releases; Adjustment of Distribution Machinery Expected, to Meet Decentralization

The industry appears to be making rapid strides forward in rounding out its plans and specifications for the production and merchandising of motion pictures for 1933-34. Although the unavoidable lateness of the current season, due to recent general conditions, has postponed the arrangement of complete schedules and policies until mid-summer, progress is evident in practically all quarters on both coasts.

Besides the usual problems of lining up new material, personalities and policies, leading executives everywhere are giving much thought to the possible effect on next season's operations of the industry's newest factors: Decentralization, in favor of individual effort, of the manufacture and sale of motion pictures. These highly important movements were bringing to a conclusion the evolution of the business, which started last year with the breaking down of centralized circuit operation into small and independent properties. The season of 1933-34, it appears, will complete the process.

Wholesale turning back this season of some 2,000 theatres to individual operators has, as previously noted, brought about a situation which will necessitate a tremendous increase of individual selling in the field next year. Postponement of the annual sales meetings from April and May, to July, should give the distributors ample time in which to adjust their distribution machinery accordingly. It is hoped, too, that the contractual complexities of the unsettled theatre situation will be adjusted before any actual sales effort is expended on 1933-34 product.

Early in the week there was some discussion of even postponing the sales conferences until August 1, or thereafter, but this is considered unlikely. However, none will be held before the end of June, by general agreement. The status of 1933-34 convention plans of the large distributors follows:

Columbia—Not determined. A series of regional meetings will be held some time in July, probably at New York, Chicago, Los Angeles.

Educational—Meeting with Fox.

Fox—National convention at Atlantic City, beginning June 29.

Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer—Not determined.

Paramount—Regional meetings, at New York, June 26-27; Chicago, June 29-30; New Orleans, July 2-3; Los Angeles, July 6-7.

Radio—Regional meetings, beginning June 26, at New York; then in Chicago and Los Angeles.

United Artists—National convention, in Chicago, beginning July 17.

Universal—Not determined, but probably will hold regional meetings in July.

Warners—Not determined, some time in July.

The preponderance of regional meetings as compared with national conferences is attributable to economies.

LOOKING TOWARD THE NEW SEASON

Among outstanding developments in the industry involved in preparations for the season of 1933-34 are to be noted:

Sales conferences to begin by the end of June; postponement until August 1 considered unlikely.

Return of 2,000 theatres to individual operators points toward substantial expansion of distributors' selling organizations.

New standard contract to have widespread use for first time.

Allied States indicates continued opposition to tying-in of short subjects with features in selling methods.

Unit production seen as end of "mass" production in Hollywood; higher quality of product expected in consequence.

Survey indicates plentiful supply of product in 1933-34.

Season line-up of product nearing completion with many feature titles and comedy groups now announced.

More amicable contractual relations next season between distributors and exhibitors are expected through the new standard exhibition contract, which will be offered on a widespread scale for the first time as an alternative to the many forms of individual company agreements, by all corporations, except Warner Brothers and United Artists. These two may adopt the pact before commencement of the new buying period in the fall. Columbia Pictures accepted the standard form last week-end, thereby joining Paramount, Metro, Radio, Educational, Fox, RKO and Universal.

Exhibitors of the country had petitioned for years for a standard contract. The new agreement was written last year at conferences between exhibitors and sales managers.

The MPTOA is officially on record in favor of the pact and its membership throughout the nation indicated months ago that it would be acceptable. Although Allied States' attitude of opposition has not been publicly altered, officials are said to be urging its adoption in preference to individual company contracts.

Members of Allied Theatre Owners practically throughout the nation were preparing to investigate new season's sales policies and prices. Naturally, all exhibitors are interested in any deviations from the present rule.

In Illinois, president Aaron Saperstein's Allied committee to weigh "new wrinkles" in distribution, had already commenced to function. Any increase in rentals will be fought vigorously.

Exhibitors saw some improvement in the recent proposal of distributors to contract with exhibitors for a certain amount of next season's playing time on a flat rental basis, in place of the customary selling of picture schedules. However, until sales convention time in July, there is little likelihood of distributors announcing any changes in selling policies, if such are contemplated.

Allied's old opposition stand against the tying in of short subjects with features on one contract, was voiced again the other day when Sidney Samuelson's New Jersey Allied joined with Irving Dollinger, an exhibitor, in supporting his defense of a suit filed by Fox to collect on unplayed shorts. Allied appeared to have in mind a test case.

Breakdown of Mass Production Is Continuing; Standard Contract Adopted by All but Two; Sales Convention Dates Set

Probably the most important factor entering into the production of new motion pictures for 1933-1934, from the standpoint both of buyer and seller, is the continued widespread breaking down of Hollywood's so-called "mass production system," and the substitution of individual, independent effort. To the already large list of important executives, formerly associated with large companies and small, who have set out on their own production ventures, there are being added names of many others daily. In most instances, these new producers will contribute short subject and feature product to the release schedules of the large companies. Private capital is being developed, or deals made with distributors.

The New Production Structure

Acquisition of quality independent product should lessen the enormous production budgets of the big companies, thereby helping the cash situation.

The industry at large believes that the direct benefit to the screens of the nation will be a quality of product higher than that which could be obtained by an industry-wide system of mass production, and of timely importance, at a cost more in keeping with conditions in the business.

The first group of independent producers for major consumption has been at work quite some time, led by Jesse L. Lasky, releasing through Fox; B. P. Schulberg and Charles R. Rogers, at Paramount. Darryl Zanuck and Joseph M. Schenck will produce independently for United Artists, and, possibly, Sam Katz will release through the same company. United Artists will also have product from Edward Small and Harry M. Goetz.

On Radio's schedule will be pictures from the Saal-Bischoff-Kelly combination and also from Joseph I. Schnitzer. Paramount, for the first time, will have short subjects from outside producers, including Arvid Gillstrom.

R. M. ("Bob") Savini and William Saal have a new company, Amity Pictures. Edwin Carewe, pioneer director for many of the large studios, will set out as an independent producer. Robert C. Bruce, who made the first short for Educational, is returning to that fold after an absence of many years. B. P. Fineman, formerly a Metro producer, joined the independent group early in May. Another executive formerly with a large company who will participate independently next season is Phil Meyer, head of the new Helber Pictures. He was formerly with Columbia in New York.

Unit Managers

Unit managers in charge of feature production will be the order of the day at W. Ray Johnston's Monogram company. Propositions will also be considered from outside producers. Paramount was set to renew with William Le Baron, producer, who was with Radio some months ago. Phil L. Ryan will also produce for Paramount, making shorts.

Charles Rosenzweig was readying a new company, following his recent resignation from Columbia. Likewise, Richard A. Rowland, formerly of Fox, had in work details for a new production and distribution venture. D. W. Griffith, who recently withdrew as a United Artists owner, was reported to be preparing for new independent activities.

(Continued on following page)

COMPANIES OUTLINE PRODUCTION

Chester Erskine is another of the new group who will contribute to United Artists' new schedule. John Krimsky and Gifford Cochrane, of Film Choice, will distribute "Emperor Jones" through the same company. B. F. Zeidman's "Samarang" has already been placed on the U.A. lineup, and so have a group which will come from Alexander Korda, now abroad.

William Rowland and Monte Brice head a company producing for Universal. A series was planned by B. F. Zeidman.

Plenty of Product in Sight

There will be no lack of product for next season, despite the bellowings of the pessimists, who, some weeks ago, predicted a shortage as a result of the tightened money situation during the industry's emergency period in March.

MOTION PICTURE HERALD published on May 6 the first analysis of the new season's schedules of practically all companies, and while many reports were only tentative, activities since then have served to substantiate the earlier findings, which indicated a numerical lineup as follows:

	1932-1933		1933-34
	Features	Shorts	Features	Shorts
Majors	397	719	366	760
Independents	289	99	306	194
TOTALS	686	818	672	954

It still is too early to gather together a complete report of titles and specific production information of new season's releases. A clue, however, is in MOTION PICTURE HERALD's summary of story and play purchases for 1933-34 production, which was carried in the April 22 and May 13 issues, also, in a compilation of 84 titles of forthcoming releases with music, which appeared on May 20. These three records presented definite information on 235 features scheduled for next season.

Complete company schedules will not be made known, as is customary, until sales convention time, in July. Monogram's forthcoming releases were announced at its conference last month. The list appeared in MOTION PICTURE HERALD on April 29.

New Season Production Plans

Since the tentative reports of new season's activities were published on May 6, considerable progress has been made both in the independent field and by large companies, in rounding out plans for the annual sales meetings and for feature and short subject material which will be made available to exhibitors in 1933-34. A summary of these new activities follows:

Allied Productions started work, following the return of M. H. Hoffman, president, from New York, on preparation of "Pullman Car" and "Davey Jones' Locker," and on Hoot Gibson's "Boots of Destiny."

Amity Pictures Corp. announced it now has 26 offices in operation in this country and six in Canada. R. M. Savini and William Saal are in charge. These exchanges are handling product of Tiffany, Tiffany of California, Quadruple and Amity Pictures, and are seeking new releases.

Artclass closed for distribution rights to a series of cowboy "songalogues" now being produced by National Pictures-Gulf Coast Studio, at San Antonio.

Edwin Carewe, pioneer director, is working on a financing and distributing arrangement for one picture every 20 weeks. He plans to work in California, spend $125,000 a negative.

Theodore Charlton, who in 1920 produced 12 Nick Carter silents in Boston, is preparing a series of features for the return of the famous character, adapted from the Street and Smith stories.

Chesterfield-Invincible announced they will make 18 features for 1933-34. Each of the two units will make nine. This is an increase of six over 1932-33. The first release of the new season will be "I Have Lived," (Chesterfield). Following this, one picture will be released every three weeks. Richard Thorpe will direct the first.

Columbia Will Have 48

Columbia was preparing for its annual sales convention, to be held some time in July. They will be held regionally. Meanwhile, it has been announced that the company will make 48 features for 1933-34, with 16 westerns. Four features now in production, a similar number being prepared, and four being cut, will bring the current program to completion. "Cocktail Hour," "Ann Carver's Profession," "Full Speed Ahead" and "The Fighting Ranger" are the pictures in production. "Brief Moment," "The Wrecker," "Madame La Guimp" and a Leslie Howard vehicle to be made by Gilbert Miller in London, are in preparation. "The Woman I Stole," "Below the Sea," "Night of Terror" and "Unknown Valley" were just completed.

Educational plans 12 subjects for June release. Of these, three are two-reel comedies, and the remainder, one-reelers and novelties. These will complete the 1932-33 schedule. Robert C. Bruce is to return to do a series of six one-reelers, called "As a Dog Thinks," for 1933-34. About 10 new series of shorts are being planned for the new season. Of the present series, Andy Clyde, Moran and Mack and the Terry-toons have already been signed again to continue.

Embassy Pictures has announced a schedule of 31 short subjects for 1933-34, consisting of 12 one-reel comedies, eight two-reelers, three three-reel adventure films and eight one-reel travel subjects.

Exhibitors' Screen Service, distributing trailers, concluded its sales meeting in Kansas City last week. A sales campaign has been in progress in the midwest.

Federal Film Exchange, Inc., was opened in New York by Morris Epstein. Epstein already has six features which he is selling under deals whereby an exploitation man is supplied with each engagement to merchandise the film properly. Mr. Epstein said he is contracting for 12 additional releases.

B. P. Fineman, formerly a producer with M-G-M, has completed plans for entering independent production. His schedule will be limited to three pictures annually, all of which will be made in New York. His first picture will be based on J. B. Priestly's "Dangerous Corner," which had a stage run in New York last season.

John E. Firnkoess, formerly RKO division manager in Ohio and West Pennsylvania, has taken over distribution of "Cougar" and four other features. The films will be roadshown before general release.

First Division Pictures, heretofore an exchange system, will enter production next month, according to Harry H. Thomas, president. At least four features will be made.

John Michael Flick, who resigned two weeks ago as treasurer of Screenart Pictures, is forming a new company to produce.

Franklin Film has acquired American rights to "Eskimo Perils," Capt. F. E. Kleinschmidt's latest Arctic picture. It will be released through state rights exchanges.

Fox will release its entire 1932-33 line-up as originally announced. All productions are completed with the exception of "The Devil's in Love" and "Shanghai Madness," which are now in production. Forty-two features were scheduled for 1932-33, and with the addition of the Gaumont-British film, "F. P. 1," to be released July 28, the number is completed. Plans for 1933-34 will be made known June 29 at the Atlantic City convention. "The Good Companions," the film adaptation of J. B. Priestly's novel and play, a Gaumont-British production, will be released in America this summer by Fox.

Freuler is planning to increase its production budget from 25 to 75 per cent, on an elastic basis to apply to the individual circumstances, during 1933-34. Directors will be signed under term contracts, instead of on a picture-to-picture basis.

W. Goldburg Productions completed "Victims of Persecution," first of a series of features with Jewish themes and English dialogue. Goldburg produced "Yiskor," and other Jewish films.

Helber Pictures Corp., headed by Phil F. Meyer, will distribute features under the brand name, Marquee. The company will undertake the dubbing of American voices on talking pictures made in England, thus aiming to overcome the obstacles of English accent which have heretofore limited distribution of British films. The company will also handle other foreign as well as domestic product. Twenty-six features will be released in 1933-34. First release is set for June 15.

Hollywood Pictures plans 24 features for 1933-34. There will be no shorts or westerns. Company exchanges have already been set up in Buffalo and Philadelphia and a branch will be established shortly in Washington. In other places films are handled by state right exchanges.

Jewel Productions was considering methods of release for "Forgotten Men," its first.

Sam Katz's Producing Artists' Pictures will not announce its first program before next fall.

Metro Still Undetermined

M-G-M announces that Hal Roach's 1933-34 program, which will approximate last year's in number, will begin June 15. Henry Ginsberg, vice-president and general manager for Roach, signed Patsy Kelly and Don Barclay, stage player, and Douglas Wakefield and Billy Nelson, English comedians. These will augment the present Roach talent, which includes Laurel and Hardy, Charley Chase, Thelma Todd and Zasu Pitts and Our Gang. No plans for features for 1933-34 were made known. The annual sales convention has not been set.

Monogram signed Ben Verschleiser to produce "Devil's Mate," one of the four remaining melodramas on the present schedule. Release dates on four more pictures and starting dates on six others have been set. Releases scheduled are: May 29, "The Gallant Fool"; June 1, "The Sphinx"; June 5, "Casey Jones"; June 15, "The Fighting Texan." Productions which are slated to start are: May 26, "The Avenger" (1933-34); June 2, "West of the Rockies," with Rex Bell; June 4, "The Singing Cowboy," with Bob Steele; June 7, "The Devil's Mate"; June 8, "The Sensation Hunters," and June 20, "Two Little Arms." Monogram held its annual sales convention in Atlantic City late in April, when a complete lineup was made known for 1933-34.

National Pictures, producing in San Antonio, completed the second of a series of 10 westerns, starring Hal Byrnes. P. B. Villett is directing.

Paramount has definitely set dates for its regional sales conventions, to start in New York on June 26-27, when approximately half

(Continued on page 34)

INDUSTRY TO DRAFT OWN CONTROL BILL SYSTEM; THEATRE LEVY KEPT

House Rejects Suggestion for Reducing Theatre Tax Exemptions; Licenses for Picture Companies Under Measure

by FRANCIS L. BURT

Washington Correspondent

The motion picture industry learned during the week of the exact nature of the effect which President Roosevelt's newest measures for industrial recovery will have on its business operation. Two principal factors are involved: creation of funds for financing a public works program; and control of all industry. The film business will not be burdened with heavy admission taxation, as threatened, but its workers will pay higher rates on income. Regarding the second phase, the motion picture business will undoubtedly organize shortly to abide by the Administration's proposal for industry supervision.

Refusal of the House ways and means committee to consider further reduction in the theatre admission tax exemption in planning for the raising of $220,000,000 a year in new revenue to finance the $3,300,000,000 bond issue for the Administration's public works program was the outstanding industry development of the week.

Laying before the committee a number of proposals for taxes to raise the required revenue, Director of the Budget Lewis W. Douglas suggested, among other things, that a reduction of the exemption to 20 cents would develop $25,000,000 additional revenue while total elimination of the exemption would raise $46,000,000.

Income Tax Rise in Lieu of Admissions

Spurning this suggestion, as well as a proposal for a general sales tax, the House committee adopted a plan suggested by the Budget director, under which the normal income tax rates will be raised from four to six per cent on the first $4,000 of net income and from eight to ten per cent on income above that sum, subject corporate dividends to the normal income taxes and increase the Federal gasoline tax to 1¾ cents per gallon, raising an estimated revenue of $221,000,000 a year. Briefly, the plan adopted by the committee provides:

INCREASE IN NORMAL INCOME

Tax rates to 6 and 10 per cent	$46,000,000
Application of the normal rates to stock dividends	83,000,000
Increase of ¾ of one cent in the Federal gasoline tax	92,000,000
Total	$221,000,000

The complete report of Budget Director Douglas containing suggestions to Congress for financing the public works program in the industrial recovery bill follows:

(a) Normal income tax rates, 6 and 10 per cent.	$46,000,000
Dividends subject to above rate	83,000,000
Additional tax of ¾-1 cent on gasoline	92,000,000
Total	$221,000,000
(b) Normal income tax rates, 6 and 10 per cent.	46,000,000
Dividends subject to above rates	83,000,000
Tea (10 cents per pound)	8,000,000
Coffee (5 cents a pound on coffee beans)	70,000,000
Cocoa (5 cents per pound on cocoa beans)	17,000,000
Total	$224,000,000
(c) Normal income tax rates, 8 and 12 per cent.	$87,000,000

HOW CONTROL BILL WOULD OPERATE

The motion picture industry as a unit would, like all other industries, be affected by President Roosevelt's emergency bill for controlling American business. Highlights of the proposal follow:

1. Two-year national emergency period would be declared.
2. All industry associations (MPPDA, MPTOA, Allied, etc.) would be required to cooperate in framing a code for standards, maximum hours of labor, minimum wages, and such other conditions as may be necessary.
3. Anti-trust laws would be suspended for two years.
4. If industries fail to adopt code, the President would prescribe one and enforce it with $500 fines and imprisonment as penalties.
5. Trade associations would first be approved by the Administration before starting to function, and they would be compelled to make periodical reports and keep accounts.

Dividends subject to foregoing rates (a)	103,000,000
Telephone toll messages (tax of 5 cents on messages 25 to 50 cents)	6,000,000
Admissions (beginning at 20 cents)	25,000,000
Total	$221,000,000
(d) General manufacturers excise (re-employment tax), 1⅛ per cent with no exemptions	$214,000,000
(e) General manufacturers excise (re-employment tax), 1 1-5 per cent with no exemptions	228,000,000

(a) "We should be inclined to reduce the dividend estimate by another $10,000,000 to take account of the effect of further increase in the tax in promoting evasion and in repressing dividend payments."

Less favorable to the motion picture industry, however, was the committee's decision to continue for an additional year the reduced admission tax exemption of 40 cents. The revenue law of 1932, reducing the exemption from $3, provided that the new figure should apply only until July 1, 1934. Emergency taxes, which include the amusement levies, will be eliminated if the Eighteenth Amendment is repealed, President Roosevelt said Wednesday.

An immediate effect to help stabilization was expected from President Roosevelt's orders late Tuesday to Federal Reserve Banks to purchase $25,000,000 of U. S. Government bonds in the open market, as the first step of the inflation program outlined in the permissive, but not mandatory Thomas legislation. It authorizes direct purchase of an aggregate of $3,000,000,000 in United States obligations.

With the way paved for consideration of the industrial-recovery bill by the development of a tax program, Administration leaders in the House are prepared to pass the measure on Friday and send it immediately to the Senate, where an effort will be made to dispose of it next week.

Moving to forestall anticipated efforts by the Senate to substitute a general sales tax for the program worked out by its ways and means committee, the House will probably bring up for vote an amendment proposing the sales tax.

Film Business, Like Others, Will Be Required to Adopt "Code of Fair Competition"; Government to Enforce It

Under the industrial-recovery bill the motion picture industry, with others, will be required to adopt what will be termed a code of fair competition, which will be enforced by the Government, and companies engaged in interstate commerce will be required to secure Federal licenses.

The measure also provides for tremendous public works, the execution of which will increase employment in all sections of the country, to the resultant benefit of box-office receipts.

House Will Vote on Bill Friday

Improved business for theatres in the Southeast is expected to come as a result of the development of the Tennessee Basin, provided for under the so-called Muscle Shoals legislation which was signed by the President during the week. Large sums of money will be spent in the Tennessee Valley by the Government.

Blue-sky legislation also is nearing enactment, with House and Senate prepared to compose their differences and send a bill to the President within a day or two. This measure provides for Federal approval before any new issues of securities of any nature can be offered to the public. A companion bill is now being written, for introduction next session, which will give the Government further control over the practices of stock exchanges.

Tariff Activities Tie in Quotas

Considerable difficulty is understood to have been encountered by the Administration in devising a plan whereby the President can make reciprocal tariff agreements with other governments without having them run the gauntlet in the Senate.

It is understood that President Roosevelt has asked Attorney General Cummings for an opinion as to the extent of his authority in this direction, only to be informed that, regardless of what such an agreement may be called, it is still a treaty in fact and, as such, would require affirmative action by the Senate.

The motion picture industry is looking toward these agreements to eliminate quota and other restrictions which have retarded exports of American films. On the other hand, the United States has a number of embargoes all its own, although the fact is not generally recognized, and pressure is being brought to prevent their abandonment.

As an example of the attitude toward our own restrictions, it may be cited that a group of Southwestern Congressmen last week visited the White House to ask the President not to enter into any agreement which would involve the elimination of the present embargo on the importation of cattle and beef. The removal of this embargo is sought by Argentina.

In return for easing of her film quota regulations, it is probable that France will ask the abandonment of our embargo on her flower bulbs, to cite another nation which is interested in this subject.

With the enactment of the industrial-recovery bill, little major legislation other than tariff remains to be disposed of and plans are being made for adjournment of the session by June 10.

"Momentous experiments" is President Roosevelt's own description of his industrial control bill. To a small group of advisers who had helped him draft it, he explained just how ex-

(Continued on page 34)

NEW DEVICE PERMITS SIMULTANEOUS IMAGE

Edgar Jones of the Madrid in Kansas City Has System That Reproduces on Smaller Screen Anywhere in Theatre

Multiple projection by a single operation was demonstrated late last week in Kansas City, by Edgar Jones, of the Madrid theatre, who collaborated in the development of a process that reproduces simultaneously on a screen anywhere in the theatre the images thrown on the theatre screen. A loud speaker attachment plugged into the stage amplification system gives synchronized sound.

The process employs the use of a series of mirrors and fused quartz tubing as a light conductor. The light image from the projector is caught by a small mirror at one end of the quartz tube, which is one-half inch in diameter. From the other end, the light is reflected on a ground glass screen.

By means of the device, which will probably be called the "Telescreen," Mr. Jones sits in his office and sees on a small glass panel on the wall all of the action taking place on the theatre screen. The speaker attachment completes the projection both of sound and image.

Will Market Device

The unique contrivance was developed after several months of experimentation by Mr. Jones and by Fred Cook, electrical engineer of the Madrid theatre, Lee Sargeant and E. H. Francis, projectionists, and Richard O'Rear, assistant manager.

Mr. Jones and his associates plan to have the device marketed commercially as a lobby display. Parts of the current attraction could be shown at the same time as it is being projected on the regular theatre screen. For coming attractions, a trailer could be run off in the booth, with the hook-up in the lobby, or in lounge rooms.

While the inventors also have in mind simultaneous projection from one central booth into a circuit of houses, contractual complications with distributors to this angle might interfere. However, the sponsors claim that distance is no bar to perfect reproduction by this method.

No extra projection equipment is used. No principals of television are involved. It is not an electrical contrivance.

Worked on Quartz Tubes

For the last few months the inventors have been making experiments in conducting light waves through solid quartz tubes. Only a few years ago scientists discovered that fused quartz is a perfect conductor of light. It carries light waves without diffusion just like a copper wire carries electricity. A light image projected in one end of a tube of this transparent mineral will come out the other end without distortion no matter how many turns there may be in the tube.

The Messrs. Cook, Sargeant, Francis and O'Rear are said to have made a practical application of that property of quartz by using tubes to carry the light images of a projection machine in a conductor which may be run through walls, under floors or any place where an electrical cable could be laid. A small mirror, a quarter inch in length and width is extended into the light beam from the lens of a projection machine. The light from that tiny mirror is reflected through a magnifying lens into the end of the quartz tube one half inch in diameter. From the distant end of the tube the light is projected on a ground glass screen as motion pictures.. A conventional radio loudspeaker under the screen picks up the electrically transmitted sound waves from the film, and that gives talking pictures.

The small screen is said to show pictures just as clearly as they appear on the theatre's big screen. Peculiar properties of the ground glass screen are said to make the images as visible in light as in darkness. The attachment of the "telescreen" pick-up mirror in front of a projection machine's lenses does not interfere with the normal operation of the equipment and is not discernible in the light beams on the screen.

Casey and Unions Halt Conferences

Conferences between producers' representatives and those of the studio labor craftsmen, which have been in progress in New York for ten days, came to an abrupt end Monday because of the refusal of the producers' group to recognize unionization of film editors and cutters under the banner of the International Alliance of Theatrical Stage Employees. A deadlock over this question had been maintained since last Saturday.

Although the conferees finally settled down to actual business after two months of procrastination, little or no definite results have been obtained. Primarily, the conferences were held to solve the 25-50 per cent wage cut situation and to come to an understanding on a new basic studio agreement. Of these two questions, the only action taken is a refusal, by the unions, to accept a new proposal of 20 per cent reduction in salaries.

A year ago the unions accepted a ten per cent cut, scheduled to finish in March of this year. The cut was not taken up and the unions are now planning an attempt to have this cut rescinded and made retroactive to March 1.

The decision of the producers, through Pat Casey, labor contact for the large companies, will result in throwing back final decision to Hollywood where the IATSE will meet and determine exactly what it proposes to do. Meanwhile, the organization has temporarily withdrawn from any future meetings and the presidents of other unions are standing by pending outcome of the forthcoming vote on the coast.

Also differences in connection with the basic agreement between studio and the Coast cameramen's local will again be the subject of conferences when Nicholas M. Schenck, president of M-G-M, goes to the coast.

Attending the conferences in New York were William C. Elliott, president of the IATSE; Joseph N. Weber, president of the American Federation of Musicians; Edward Bierretz, president of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers; Abe Muir, president of the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners of America, and Mr. Casey.

Suit for $140,000 was filed this week by E. S. Young, owner of the Central theatre, in Kansas City, against officials and members of K. C. Local 170, IATSE. The action, brought in Kansas City U. S. District Court, is regarded by exhibitors there as calling for a "showdown" on what they consider an attempt by the union to force "open shop" houses into the union fold. Even those exhibitors employing union operators are said to be in sympathy with what Mr. Young hopes to accomplish through his action. While the suit is primarily a move to put an end to a siege of attacks on his theatre, it is believed it will have the effect of ending sabotage elsewhere.

A tear gas bomb was tossed into the Central theatre a few hours after Young had signed with the independent union to employ one of its operators. Alleged conspiracy to ruin Young's business through stench, sulphur and tear gas bombing and picketing is charged in the action against six defendants, including: R. R. Dillon, business agent of the Kansas City IATSE operators' union; Felix Snow, international IATSE representative; Oscar Higgins, president of the Local 170 and operator at the Publix Newman; R. E. Topper, member of the executive board and operator at the Regent; John Morgan, operator at Loew's Midland, and John George, who was recently convicted on a peace disturbance charge following release of tear gas at the Central. Union officials claim George is not a member.

Kuykendahl New MPTOA Head

Ed. Kuykendahl, president of the Tri-States M. P. T. O., has been elected to succeed M. A. Lightman as president of the Motion Picture Theatre Owners of America. Mr. Lightman sent in his resignation by letter recently, requesting Fred Wehrenberg, chairman of the board, to call an election by mail. The chairman sent out official ballots and returns indicated that Kuykendahl would be elected. He will take up his new duties immediately.

A change of national and Tri-State presidencies may develop. There is said to be a considerable amount of agitation among members of the Tri-State organization to have Mr. Lightman drafted as president. A meeting is expected to be called by Kuykendahl at once to name his successor.

Meanwhile, Mr. Lightman and his southern circuit partners, Joe Maceri and Paul Zerilla, are invading the downtown Memphis first-run field with acquisition of the Strand, formerly operated by Loew's in partnership with Publix. Although final negotiations have not been closed, Lightman admitted Tuesday that there is little doubt that the Strand will be added to his Community Theatres group and will be reopened immediately.

Ed. Kuykendahl has been a successful independent exhibitor, operating theatres for many years in Tupelo, West Point and Columbus, Mississippi. For the past two years he has been actively opposing adverse industry legislation at Washington.

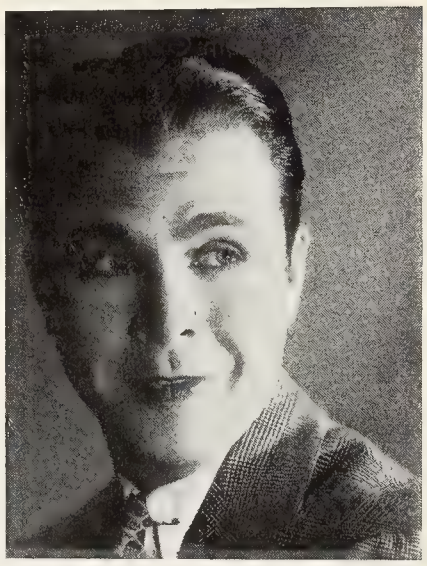
THE CAMERA REPORTS

BACK TO WORK. (Below) Ann Dvorak, Warner star, who, back from a vacation, is to begin a new picture soon.

REMEMBER 'EM? (Left) Of course, for they're Ruth Roland, erstwhile Kalem Girl, and Anita Stewart, once the pride of Vitagraph, who thus were snapped the other day in Hollywood.

FIRST PRINT. (Right) As the initial reels of Warners' latest musical, "Gold Diggers of 1933," arrived East, received by four Warner "chorines."

HE WAS THERE. Sharley can't deny this one, for the camera, unlike the Baron, doesn't lie. Radio's favorite Munchausen, Jack Pearl, was surely there to welcome MGM's living trade-mark when he arrived the other day in Toledo. Pearl is under contract to MGM.



SITTING PRETTY. For they've got a steady job now. Not sitting, of course. But being pretty and dancing pretty in Warner Vitaphone shorts. They are the 14 girls who have been engaged to form a permanent chorus for two-reel musicals. Here they are as in "Use Your Imagination."

EX-FILM LEADER ON CRUISE. (Below) W. R. Rothacker, former head of the Rothacker Film Laboratories, with his daughter Virginia as they arrived in New York on the Santa Elena, completing a cruise of Southern waters from California to Central America and Cuba.

WELL, WHERE ARE THEY? The cocktails, we mean. This being a scene from Columbia's "The Cocktail Hour." Oh, well, the beer isn't so bad, and it's getting—er—let's see, where were we? Ah, yes, their names. We're given four—Jessie Ralph, Sidney Blackmer, Bebe Daniels and Muriel Kirkland.

RE-SIGNED. Dick Powell, Warner juvenile who has been given a new contract. His latest film is "Gold Diggers of 1933."

VACATION NEARS END. Richard Barthelmess, First National star, and Mrs. Barthelmess as they arrived in New York from an ocean trip. He will remain East for several weeks, then return to Burbank to begin work in the starring role of his next, still undetermined.

MAKING STAGE PLAY. (Below) Principals and director of Fox's "I Loved You Wednesday"—Warner Baxter and Elissa Landi, co-stars; Henry King, director; Miriam Jordan and Victor Jory.

"MIGHT BE PROFOUND FILM DRAMA"

DeCasseres Evaluates a New "Cavalcade"; Arthur Hopkins Re-reads "Hamlet"; Other Plays

by BENJAMIN DE CASSERES

FOR SERVICES RENDERED

This play is by Somerset Maugham. It is of the kidney of "A Bill of Divorcement" and "Cavalcade," both of which were, in my opinion, top-notchers.

Maugham's play, a tremendously serious study in post-war disintegration of a middle-class English family, could be made into a profoundly moving drama of the screen.

What it needs is one single character giving it some comic relief. As a play it failed because of this. Or was it because the lovely Fay Bainter played an embittered spinster?

Old man Ardsley is still 100 per cent pro-British. The wife is weary; can't stand the lax new ways.

Then we have the post-war children. Sidney is a D. S. C., but is blind. Ethel married beneath her station, as they used to say. He's a boozer and tries to make Lois, the littlest Ardsley.

Blows in Collie Stratton, twenty years in the navy and now on the economic tobog. Eva Ardsley, the spinster, tries to grab him. He's her last call for dinner. He's a forger. She goes insane.

Maugham blames the whole mess on the war, which is hooey. It is, nevertheless, strong drama. Another follow-up "Cavalcade" might be knocked out of it.

Picture value, 70 per cent.

CONQUEST

Arthur Hopkins has been re-reading "Hamlet." So he got the idea that the story about the Great Dane would go in a modern near-New York setting. But as stage stuff it proved a fizzle. There is an air of unreality about it. It is labored. It is unconvincing.

But there is some good picture stuff in it. When the drama does jell it is tense. The situations are odd, and do not always follow the Hamlet scheme throughout.

The Nolte family, somewhere near New York. Old Nolte is a maker of computing machines. He's high-class, old style, ag'in the new-fangled. His business is near rigor mortis.

Young Fritz (Hopkins' Hamlet) has second sight. He feels tragedy hanging over the house. He's not set right with his Ophelia. He's got agenbite of inwit.

The tragedy breaks on schedule time. Fritz is being sent to Germany. Old Nolte collapses on the pier and subsequently dies on learning that his wife has sold him out in business to a bird trying to make her.

Fritz comes home and, like Hamlet, begins to sniff out the game between his mother and her business "partner," who has now married her. Fritz also finds out why his father kicked. All the more odor as his mother and her King Claudius flaunt their treachery.

The business is still running down. Fritz puts it on its feet (Hamlet plays the stock market); the great Nolte works come back —à la 1925; Fitz has the goods on his stepfather and saves him from the District Attorney by shipping him off to Europe. Exit mother in hi-sterics.

Monkeying with business has cured this Hamlet of his agenbite and he weds his Ophelia (Judith Anderson).

Forget the Hamlet monkey business and shuffle for straight dramatic entertainment for pictures.

Picture value, 60 per cent.

OUR WIFE

Lillian Day and Lyon Mearson gave to a waiting world a comedy of tissue-paper weight. It was obviously amateurish and as brainless and pointless as some of the cheap side-swipes at France that the Mearsons (for Lillian Day is Madame Mearson) never tire of. As Paris is a city where all Germans (and Americans) are free, why these remarks?

However, there is some stuff in this gob of mustache wax that might be scrambled into a laughable and sophisticated comedy for the Bawdy Belt.

Locales: Paris and an island in the Bay of Naples. Jerry Marvin and Margot Drake, both scribblers, are living together all hunky and nice. They send their pin money to Jerry's wife, in New York (fawncy that, Hedda!).

Barbara, the kept wife, suddenly comes in on them. Shes a post-war sap, but doesn't like the technique of the game.

Jerry and Margot go to the Bay of Naples Island and Barbara tails them. Jerry then stops knocking France and begins to make cracks about Schmoozalini. He goes to the jug. He teaches the guards the high-toned game of craps.

Back in Paris, where one nutty incident follows another.

Barbara divorces Jerry, and so a beautiful free-love romance rots into a marriage between Jerry and Margot.

Me no lika thisa cup custard, and I don't think Uncle Will will care for it much in its present state.

Picture value, 17 per cent.

BEST SELLERS

The trouble with "Best Sellers," by Edouard Bourdet, so far as the films are concerned, is that it's about books, writers and publishers.

"Best Sellers," with Ernest Truex and Peggy Wood, is a rattling good farce and contains so many potential haw! haws! for gay Hollywood actors and slick dialogue writers that the strongy literary flavor could easily be sunk and a straight comedy-drama, played at a rapid pace, might send this thing over big.

Besides, it has a good sex angle. And then there are Paris and Biarritz. They always mean b.o.

Bourdet takes publishers and writers for a ride. A Parisian book publisher does some intriguing to land the Zola Prize. But when he finds the fellow he has selected for the prize has signed up elsewhere, he looks for another best selling writer.

Blows in Truex, a timid fellow who has written one book, got the Zola prize by accident and hasn't a second book in him. The publisher goads him for a second, and to give him a real story gets a friend of his to try to seduce the sap's wife.

Then we have comedy fast and loose and giddy of a very delectable order.

"Best Sellers" is a Lubitsch prize.

Picture value, 75 per cent.

HANGMAN'S WHIP

This play didn't go very far on the stage. The "legit" public is apparently fed up on the horrors of Africa, its sweat, its gambling, its brutality and its snaky brown chisellers.

But in this play I could glimpse some riproaring old-style picture stuff. What the picture "pub" will always eat up is thrills. And "Hangman's Whip!" would give 'em one a minute if, say, Ben Hecht and Charley MacArthur could maul this script to their hearts' delight.

The central character rules a chunk of Africa like Nero. He's a trader and he knows no law but the rule of brute force. His wife is one of the oppressed.

Comes the uprising—wife and all. Looks like "goodbye" for Big Brute. He lives on a rotting ship. Wife and followers escape when it looks like "goodbye."

One Casabianca, however, remains. They play a grand game of stud while the beach boys close in around them. Big Brute dies fighting.

You see, he was "founding an Empire." But the natives no like.

Maybe Victor McLaglen could put it over big.

Picture value, 40 per cent.

THE SOPHISTICRATS

In the "Sophisticrats," Kenneth Phillips Britton had a good idea, which is to spoof to shreds all the world-weary, chaise-longue wisecrackers.

Strung out to three acts, it becomes as weary as the exposition of the Economic Situation by the firm of Tugwell & Moley.

It is laid in a town in Connecticut. There is a poetess who writes "Bedroom Ballads" who has really never been kissed (believe it or not, Rip.).

The copybook culture-hounds in this ton of lobscouse all have "Freudian complexes" that are merely forms of lumbar colic.

Picture value, .001 per cent.

COURT ACTS TO SAVE RECEIVERSHIP ASSETS

Unnecessary Appointment of Ancillary Receivers in Bankruptcy Cases Halted; Richardson Paramount Trustee

The United States Supreme Court at Washington officially took action late last week to prevent dissipation of assets through unnecessary appointments of ancillary receivers in the field for subsidiaries of bankrupt corporations. Moving to conserve the assets of such corporations, the court issued a sweeping order restricting the appointment of ancillary receivers.

While originally designed to deal with situations arising from the bankruptcy of chain-store organizations, the new Supreme Court order is of general application and will cover motion picture and other cases in which bankrupt concerns have branches outside their home district.

Ancillary receivers, the court ordered, may be appointed only upon the petition of, or with the consent of the primary receiver, or with leave of the court of original jurisdiction, and no application may be granted unless the petition contains a detailed statement of the facts showing the necessity of the appointment, verified by the party in interest or the primary receiver.

New York Attorneys Sponsored Decision

The order was prepared and submitted to the court by a group of New York attorneys and is designed to curb the practices of "a certain type of collection agencies and others purporting to act for creditors" who are declared to have found an "opportunity to profit through the unnecessary appointment" of ancillary receivers.

Under former regulations, ancillary receivers could be appointed in each of the several circuit court districts wherein a branch of a bankrupt was located. A number of cases were cited where from 12 to 24 ancillary receivers were appointed, leading to added charges of $100,000 or more upon the bankrupt estate.

The order issued by the supreme court restricting the appointment of ancillary receivers will have no great effect on present film and theatre company receiverships. RKO has an ancillary receiver in Delaware, but the appointment was not contested by Irving Trust, and for this reason, there is little likelihood that the Delaware receiver will be displaced as a result of the new order.

At the time of the original parent Paramount receivership, three ancillary receivers were appointed. When the company went into bankruptcy in March, they were automatically terminated.

Fox West Coast subsidiaries have had several ancillaries, but attorneys in New York last week declared that these appointments were necessary and probably would not be disturbed by the order.

Richardson a Paramount Trustee

Meanwhile, it appeared that progress was being made in New York in the Paramount bankruptcy case. Activities of a triumverate of trustees had been interrupted early in the month by the resignation of Louis J. Horowitz. His place was filled this week by Charles E. Richardson, vice-president and treasurer of Fox Film Corporation, who was elected a trustee in bankruptcy of Paramount Publix on Friday at a creditor's meeting.

Mr. Richardson's election first met with some opposition by counsel for minority bondholders. Samuel Z. Zirn, representing this group, opposed the nomination mainly, he said, because of the new trustee's connection with a competitor company. However, when Mr. Richardson's nomination was made by Robert P. Levis, counsel for the Allied Owners Corporation, Mr. Levis said that the Fox executive had previously signified his intention of severing connections with that company. This he proceeded to do and he was voted into the post without opt a single opposing vote. The election took place in the offices of Referee Henry K. Davis.

Zirn Challenges Voting

Moves were made to include Mr. Richardson under the joint bond of $100,000 posted by Mr. Horowitz, together with Charles D. Hilles and Eugene W. Leake, the other two trustees.

Aside from his objections to the trusteeship appointment, Samuel Zirn figured largely in a challenge against the voting of $4,811,000 of claims against Paramount Publix by Edgar G. Crossman, counsel for the bondholders' committee, of which Frank G. Vanderlip is chairman, on the ground that the claims had not been proved. He also challenged the voting of the claims of the Allied Owners Corp. on the ground that the claim was disputed.

The close relationship between Paramount Publix and Film Productions, Inc., was shown Tuesday at a creditors' meeting before Referee Henry K. Davis. Ralph Kohn, appearing as vice president of Film Productions, testified and produced more than 100 photostatic and certified copies of Paramount Publix financial records. It is understood the records were presented for the purpose of building up a case for re-transfer of title to 23 negatives to Paramount-Publix. The negatives were pledged in March, 1932, to secure a loan of $13,875,000. Of this sum $13,368,932.02 was actually turned over to Paramount Publix by 12 banks, Mr. Kohn said.

Copies of Checks Shown

One of the exhibits, a photostatic copy of a check for $5,000, was presented to show that this was in full payment by Paramount Publix for all the capital stock of Film Productions, Inc. Another showed that the quick assets of all Paramount Publix subsidiaries in April, 1932, totaled $90,490,000, and the parent company's liabilities aggregated $14,500,000, of which some were demand obligations. Subsidiary companies of Paramount Publix totaled 110 corporations, doing business in every country in the world.

A compromise was approved whereby promissory notes of the Art Cinema Corp., amounting to $210,000, of which $50,000 is due, are to be returned to the corporation by Paramount Publix in consideration of a cash payment of $150,000.

Another compromise was effected in the cancellation of Paramount Publix leases on premises of the McNaughton Realty Company., Inc., of Buffalo, in connection with which Paramount has $315,000 on deposit in the Marine Trust Company of Buffalo. Under this agreement, Paramount Publix will receive $50,000 of this deposit, the remainder going to the realty company.

An action to regain title to 23 film negatives pledged to 12 creditor banks was filed this week by Paramount Publix trustees. The action will be undertaken in U. S. District Court on the grounds that pledging of the negatives gave the banks a preference over other Paramount creditors. It is understood these banks have agreed to surrender that preference and will attempt to work out a compromise of their claims with the trustees.

The Publix Enterprises trustee and this circuit company's general creditors' committee, headed by S. A. Lynch as chairman, are said to be expected to question the $5,889,547 claim of Publix Theatres against the parent company at the next creditors' meeting, unless, it was said, the debt is broken down satisfactorily.

Meanwhile the situation of Publix theatres throughout the country has evidently reached the stage where now it is receiving only a small portion of the heretofore concentrated activity regarding their disposition. In Denver, trustees appointed for Mountain States Theatre Corp., a subsidiary company included L. J. Finske, district manager for the circuit; J. F. Welborn and Stockton Lowndes.

There were reports that Bernard Depkin, formerly with Publix in Roanoke, Va., would take over a number of former Publix houses in Virginia. Mr. Depkin was said to have an option on six and planned a new corporation to take over the houses. In Boston Tuesday Judge Winfred Whiting in Superior Court, ordered continuance of Samuel Pinanski and Harry Lebaron Sampson as temporary receivers for Olympic Theatres, a Publix subsidiary. He said there was no deceit or fraud evident.

From Des Moines this week came word that A. H. Blank, trustee for Publix-Nebraska, may continue operation of the circuit due to the lack of bids on company assets at a sale in Omaha.

In New Orleans, bankruptcy schedules of Saenger Theatres of Alabama, Ind., were filed in Federal Court late last week. The schedule showed assets of $6,312.52 and liabilities of $11,923.10. Most of the claims are unsecured and include film rentals owed to practically all major distributors.

The Fox and RKO Situations

There were few developments in either the Fox Theatres or the RKO receivership situations during the week.

A suit was started in Hudson County, New Jersey, as reported last week, by the New York Trust Company, and Boyd G. Curts to foreclose mortgages on two buildings and 13 theatres held by Fox New England. The Guaranty Trust and Melville W. Terry are parties of the suit as trustees of a second bond issue of $4,000,000 6½ convertible sinking fund gold debentures.

On Saturday an involuntary bankruptcy action against statewide Theatres, a subsidiary of Fox Midwesco, was filed in Milwaukee in U. S. District Court by the Kenosha Orpheum Theatre Co., S. & S. Operating Co., and the Jeffris Theatre Co. of Janesville. How this will be reconciled with an involuntary petition filed against the same company in Wilmington, Del., May 16, is not yet known. In the local action, Statewide admitted liabilities of over $50,000 and assets of $6,260 due in theatre leases.

Wisconsin Amusement Enterprises, Inc., Fox subsidiary, took over four houses in Milwaukee this week.

Seven houses of the RKO Theatres Operating Corporation, in receivership, will be disposed of by June 1. The theatres are in Connecticut and New Jersey.

RKO Roxy Second Run; Cullman Says Shops Keep Names

The RKO Roxy in Radio City, New York, will become virtually a second-run motion picture house this week, with admissions scaled down to a 40-cent top.

The management will make an appeal shortly against the decision handed down last week by the circuit court of appeals depriving the theatre of the name, "Roxy," in favor of the original Roxy on Seventh Avenue.

Announcement was made Tuesday that the house will not be closed, as was previously anticipated, but that all stage shows will be dropped. The new prices will be 25 cents from 11 a. m. to 6 p. m., and 40 cents from 6 p. m. to closing.

Howard S. Cullman, operating receiver for the original Roxy, asked what he intended to do about the 50-odd delicatessens, shoe-shine parlors, doughnut shops and coffee shoppes in New York which bear the Roxy name, said: "Why should I do anything about it? It's pretty good advertising for us. We have no right to prohibit the use of the name to any but a theatre in a competing area. As to the Roxy name in front of delicatessens and other merchants' shops, I honestly believe they are a help."

Asked what he would pay for their signs if it were decided to prohibit their use of the name, Mr. Cullman said that there is no such possibility. "Rather," he said, "I should like to buy them all new and shiny signs."

The list of "Roxy" merchants in New York ranges from awning hangers to hand laundries. There's a Roxy delicatessen on Ninth Avenue in Hell's Kitchen, several beauty shops and tonsorial parlors, belt and suspender makers, binderies, button-hole manufacturers, cafeterias, clothing shops, cosmeticians, doughnut shops, coffee "shoppe-es," dressmaking concerns, embroidery makers, feather curlers, fruit and vegetable markets, fur stripers, garages, grills and laundries.

There is a Roxy Paint Company and a Roxy Pants Company; Roxy plumbers, presses, bathrobe makers, shoe-shine parlors and sportswear establishments; thread companies, moving vans, watch setters, dairies and whatnot.

Mr. Cullman's remarks have probably stopped the worries of dozens of New York's side-street merchants who believed that the court decision might take away their trade names.

Academy To Revise Credits

The Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences has organized a committee of writers to revise the screen credit clause in the writers' code. A report on the first year's operation of the code, soon to be released, will show that 74 per cent of credits have been in accordance with the code provisions.

Wehrenberg Honored

Fred H. Wehrenberg, exhibitor leader, was guest of honor at a testimonial dinner in St. Louis last week. Exhibitors of St. Louis presented a wrist watch to Mr. Wehrenberg.

NEW DEVICE FOR DEAF MAY AID BOX OFFICES

Possibility of $2,500,000 in Additional Receipts Seen Weekly; Dan Halpin, Formerly of "U", Joins New Company

Science is about to launch a development pointing the way toward the creation in this country of a new market of millions of motion picture theatregoers.

Dr. Hugo Lieber, noted scientist and inventer, and the first to bring radium to America, announced eariy this week, at a private demonstration in New York, the completion of research on a device which will enable 80 per cent of the 20,000,000 deafened persons in the United States to hear, many for the first time. The possibilities offered thereby for regaining theatre patronage which was lost at the beginning of sound and of creating new customers, appears quite obvious. If, as claimed, the process will give hearing to all but 20 per cent of the 20,000,000 who, according to the Department of Commerce, are hard of hearing, motion picture theatre boxoffices stand the possibility of adding about $2,500,000 weekly, on the basis of each person attending only once weekly, and paying an average of 15 cents admission.

The new instrument, of compact nature, will be made available as the Sonotone, in individual sets for private use and in multiples for use in theatre auditoriums, where special sections of the orchestra may be set aside for totally or partially deaf patrons. A campaign to educate theatre owners in the merchandising of the service is in the making.

Servicing is unnecessary, according to the sponsors, who claim, also, that the cost of electrical energy for theatre sets will be slight, and that the device may be hooked-up directly with the stage amplification system. An individual receiver for each theatre set is, therefore, unnecessary.

Theatre owners have always depended to a considerable extent on tieups with schools and various institutions. The new system will further widen this field of exploitation, giving the exhibitor new sources in the nature of hundreds of schools and institutions for the deaf. Special showings will be suggested.

Basically, sound is transmitted by Dr. Lieber's system directly to the inner ear (which is the source of the nerves of hearing) by bone conduction, utilizing the mastoid bone. A small gold button—about the size of an ordinary pencil—is placed on the mastoil bone behind the ear. The Sonotone is said to be the first bone conduction development made available for commercial usage.

At the demonstration, the device apparently reproduced natural sound, and, unlike air conduction principles used generally, it does not disturb other patrons by too conspicuous amplification.

Ten per cent of all residents in the average theatre community have defective hearing, according to United States Department of Commerce investigations.

"Sound is a wave motion," Dr. Lieber explained. "To hear, the internal hearing organs must be vibrated by these sound waves. Nature provides a diaphragm in the ear which vibrates to sound waves and transmits these vibrations to the internal hearing organs.

"Science has recognized for decades that bones of the head are quite as capable as, and often superior to, the ear drum for conveying sound by vibrations to the interior hearing organs.

"About 80 per cent of the deafened can hear through bone-conductivity. Not muffled, distorted sounds such as many hearing aids have been conveying through the outer ear, but sound that is pure, distinct, delightfully natural. About one person in five lacks 'bone conduction.' These people cannot be aided," concluded Dr. Lieber.

The convertible Sonotone consists of a very small, thin and light-weight transmitter, a button earpiece or circular earpiece, an amplifier, sound oscillator and case.

Dealers and agencies are now being established throughout the country and in Europe.

Dan Halpin, who was formerly assistant to Jack Schlaiffer, Universal sales manager, has joined the new company, which has headquarters at 19 West 44th Street, New York. Mr. Halpin is executive assistant to Dr. Lieber.

Progressives Sign Incorporation Papers

Incorporation of the Progressive M. P. Producers and Distributors Assoc., sponsored by Tobias A. Keppler, attorney, was executed at a meeting of independent producers in New York on Monday night.

The primary object of the organization is to solidify the non-major producers and distributors so that they may act as a unit in all matters affecting their interests. Meetings will be held regularly in the future on each Monday evening, either in the offices of Keppler & Keppler, or at some local hotel.

Tiffany Loses Right to Name

According to a ruling handed down by the court of appeals at Albany Tuesday, Tiffany Productions, Inc., loses its right to the name Tiffany. The injunction against the company was obtained by Tiffany & Co., New York jewelers, who contended that the use of their name by the film company made for unfair competition.

Debrie Has New Camera

A new camera, known as the Super Parvo, has been developed by Andre Debrie, Inc., who claims it permits recording, without pickup of studio noise, when the microphones are as close as 18 inches to the camera.

Baker on RCA Board

Newton D. Baker has been elected a member of the board of directors of Radio Corporation of America, to fill a vacancy created by the resignation of Owen D. Young.

CRITICISM JEOPARDIZES ARTISTS SERVICE BUREAU

Conrad Nagel Says Proposed Booking Office Ultimately Might Be of Service, but Usefulness May Be Impaired

by AL FINESTONE

Kansas City Correspondent

Mr. Conrad Nagel was interviewed by Mr. Finestone as he alighted from the Chief at Kansas City, en route from Hollywood to New York, where he will appear in stage productions, temporarily retiring from the motion picture screen.

The Artists Service Bureau, intended by the producers as a booking office for Hollywood talent, ultimately might be of great service, but its usefulness might be impaired because it may be subject to criticism, in the opinion of Conrad Nagel, until recently president of the Academy of M. P. Arts and Sciences, and a leading figure in the controversy which raged around the proposal of the Bureau and the recent 25-50 per cent salary reductions.

The one big objection that gives rise to opposition by creative talent to the Bureau idea is that it might eliminate competitive bidding for their services in a highly competitive market, Mr. Nagel explained.

Fear Bureau as Axe

"Of course, the important contract players would not be affected, but the rank and file in Hollywood fears that the Bureau will be used as an axe to whittle down salaries, and the widespread unemployment further aggravates the situation," he said.

Despite the fact he resigned as Academy president on April 20 under fire of criticism by its Board of Directors as a result of his activities during the dispute with producers over salary cuts, Mr. Nagel said he quit on a basis of "perfect harmony" with the Board and will continue his cooperation with the Academy.

"In reality, the chief reason I resigned was due to the great press of my duties as president of the Hollywood Motion Picture Relief Fund," he declared. "The unemployment problem made my job with the Fund a difficult one. I found I couldn't carry both positions."

The Relief Fund, he said, is "overwhelmed" with requests for employment and assistance and many cannot be handled.

"We have on our list a total of 350 producers, stars, directors and others who formerly were in the front rank of earning power," Mr. Nagel continued. "Today they'll take anything they can get, from work of one day a week and up.

"The depression has caused a great influx of unemployed actors into Hollywood and the situation is a serious one. At the artists' present 'call' bureau, there are registered almost 10,000 players and 17,000 extras. A survey I made at six major studios revealed that only 350 actors and actresses and 600 or 700 extras, on an average, are employed and these work an average of only one day a week.

"Naturally, the presence of thousands of idle players creates terrific competition for jobs and the effect on salaries is disastrous."

The pending reorganization of the Academy has the former president's complete approval.

"The new set-up will establish the Academy as a more practical organization," he said. "For one thing, the new by-laws contemplate that only those will receive help who are entitled to it—that is, those who are actually sustaining members through payment of dues."

The argument over salary cuts that recently excited Hollywood to a state of hysterics "did away with the greatest bugaboo the Academy had to fight, and that is that the Academy was the producers' mouthpiece," Mr. Nagel declared. The preponderance of artists on the Board proved that the Academy represented the creative workers, he added.

Mr. Nagel stoutly defended salaries of important players.

"One thing easily forgotten is that artists work on a picture basis, whether production runs one week or four weeks," he asserted. "While they are paid weekly salaries, the total of their earnings per picture is figured on the length of time spent on production. Say they make four pictures a year, spend 10 weeks on each picture and receive $10,000 per picture. While they get $40,000 for 40 weeks, you can't figure it at $1,000 a week because they don't work 52 weeks a year.

"Another consideration is that while a feature player may get several weeks on a picture, the production goes on making money for the producer five years after it leaves the studio. In other words, the company gets five years' service out of an artist for only a few weeks' salary. Furthermore, there are very few top-flight players who remain in the 'big money' more than several years.

"Creative workers also have to buck excessive taxation on their earnings," he said.

Government Taxes Heavy

"The government is taxing the industry out of business," Mr. Nagel declared. "I know a producer who last year made or headed the production of 45 pictures. This year he will make six pictures, but will net more because less of what he earns will go for taxes."

The Academy's constitutional committee of 10 brought the complete new document up for round-table discussion last Thursday night by the five branch executive committees.

When approved the constitution will be published by the membership in advance of meetings of all branches to vote on the many changes.

The current membership list shows the 958 total membership grouped approximately as follows: 200 stars and featured players; 100 free lance and supporting players; 100 directors; 140 production and executives; 120 screen writers; 55 assistant directors; 40 art directors; 80 sound technicians; 50 first cinematographers and laboratory technicians; 15 film editors; 30 equipment and theatre technical executives and 25 special members.

As Good As Their Critics

Kirk Russell, the alert young man who reads all the newspapers to see what the editors are saying about the motion picture, in behalf of the Motion Picture Producers and Distributors of America, Inc., went sorting through a speech of Carl W. Ackerman before the American Society of Newspaper Editors the other day. Mr. Russell came up with a set of remarks that Mr. Ackerman made in answer to criticism of newspapers, which would seem to have a quite equally good application as observations on the motion picture in its relation to the public, including:

No saints or supermen in the newspaper business.

The Public generally likes newspapers as are.

Some "bad" eggs.

Circulation is an evidence of progress.

Don't put out the light but get rid of the misconduct, or "Don't smash the mirror but change the face."

"Superficial and trivial?" Yes, that's what "the great majority of newspaper readers" are like.

In other words, newspapers are as good as and no better than their critics and consumers.

Hays Asks Trailer Aid in Censorship

A closer watch on the type of material compiled for trailers is being asked by the Motion Picture Producers and Distributors of America. The MPPDA is requesting the cooperation of the trailer companies in an effort to ward off censorship throughout the country.

Censor boards in many sections have registered complaints that more often than not trailers do not accurately indicate the subject matter of the feature pictures they advertise. The MPPDA is seeking to avoid censorship difficulties by asking the trailer manufacturers to institute greater care.

Walter Brown Assistant To Aylesworth at RKO

Walter Brown, one of the Irving Trust Company representatives handling the RKO situation, resigned this week to become special assistant to Merlin H. Aylesworth, president of RKO and the National Broadcasting Company.

He will assist Mr. Aylesworth in the preparation of reports on the company situation which are frequently requested by the various interests identified financially with RKO.

Seymour Rice Dead

Seymour Rice, 62, long prominent in Kansas City theatre circles, died at his home last week. For the past 20 years he was in the theatre program publishing business.

A TALE OF TWO TELEGRAMS

BY DIRECT WIRE FROM

SIGNS

DL = Day Letter

This is a full-rate Telegram or Cablegram unless its deferred character is indicated by a suitable sign above or preceding the address.

UNION

NEWCOMB CARLTON, PRESIDENT

J. C. WILLEVER, FIRST VICE-PRESIDENT

WLT = Week-End

The filing time as shown in the date line on full-rate telegrams and day letters, and the time of receipt at destination as shown on all messages, is STANDARD T

NE16 12=BALTIMORE MD MAY 22 1933 1105A

NED E DEPINET,

RKO DISTRIBUTING CORP=

RADIO CITY NEWYORK NY=

WIRE ME LOW DOWN ON WHAT TO EXPECT BALANCE OF SEASON

REGARDS=

I M RAPPAPORT

HIPPODROME THEATRE.

THE QUICKEST, SUREST AND SAFEST WAY TO SEND MONEY IS BY TELEGRAPH OR CABLE.

UNION

ACCT'G I

TIME F

NIGHT LETTER

WEEK END LETTER

Patrons should check class of service desired; otherwise message will be transmitted as a full-rate communication.

NEWCOMB CARLTON, PRESIDENT

J. C. WILLEVER, FIRST VICE-PRESIDENT

Send the following message, subject to the terms on back hereof, which are hereby agreed to

NW441 791 DL CNT PNCTNS=RKO NEWYORK NY MAY 22 1933 456P

I M RAPPAPORT=

HIPPODROME THEATRE

BALTIMORE MD=

DEAR IZZY ITS A PLEASURE TO SHOW GOODS A LOT OF THE YEARS

AT THE TAIL OF THE SEASON!

e to the account of

OF SERVICE DESIRED
STIC		CABLE
AM		FULL RATE
TTER		DEFERRED
		NIGHT LETTER
SAGE		WEEK END LETTER
T ETTER

ns should check class of service ed; otherwise message will be transmitted as a full-rate communication.

WESTERN UNION

NEWCOMB CARLTON, PRESIDENT

ACCT'G INFMN.

FILED

d the following message, subject to the terms on back hereof, which are her

BEST SHOWS ARE COMING THROUGH THIS SPRING AND SUMMER INCLUDING PRODUCTIONS WITH ALL OUR BIG STARS STOP IRENE DUNNES NEW PICTURE "THE SILVER CORD" PLAYED TO SMASH BUSINESS LAST WEEK RADIO CITY MUSIC HALL ALL CRITICS GIVING IT GREAT NOTICES 100 PERCENT WOMAN APPEAL STOP GREAT CAST INCLUDES JOEL MCCREA FRANCES DEE ERIC LINDEN LAURA HOPE CREWS STOP BANK ON THIS ONE STOP WE INTENDED

" MELODY CRUISE" FOR NEXT SEASON BUT DUE TO DEMAND FOR GIRL AND MUSIC SHOWS STUDIO IS RUSHING WORK FOR JUNE RELEASE THIS SEASONS PROGRAM STOP THIS LOOKS LIKE A CLEANUP FOR SUMMER BUSINESS AS SHOW IS CROWDED WITH PRETTY GIRLS SPECTACULAR SCENES AND NOVELTIES STOP SEVERAL GREAT SONG NUMBERS WILL BE FEATURED ON RADIO STOP CHARLIE RUGGLES PHIL HARRIS GRETA

ARE FEATURED STOP YOU WILL GET TWO MORE CONSTANCE BENNETT
PICTURES ON 32-33 PROGRAM STOP FIRST IS " BED OF ROSES"
TO BE RELEASED NEXT MONTH WITH JOEL MCCREA JOHN HALLIDAY
PERT KELTON IN CAST STOP BEST CONSTANCE BENNETT ROLE IN MONTHS DOWN TO EARTH STORY OF GIRL WHO WANTED TO MAKE HER LIFE
BED OF ROSES AND TOOK EASIEST WAY TO DO IT STRONG LOVE INTEREST

"INDIA SPEAKS" WITH RICHARD HALLIBURTON POPULAR AUTHOR ADVENTURER IS NOW AVAILABLE THIS IS UNIQUE ATTRACTION WITH ROMANCE WOVEN INTO AMAZING SCENES IN THE FABULOUS LAND OF INDIA WHERE COWS ARE SACRED AND GIRLS OF TEN MARRY STOP HALLIBURTONS BOOKS ARE BEST SELLERS HE HAS TREMENDOUS FOLLOWING WE HAVE STRIKING POSTERS AND EXPLOITATION MATERIAL READY STOP PICTURE MADE BY WALTER FUTTER PRODUCER OF "AFRICA SPEAKS" STOP HERES ANOTHER HOT WEATHER PICTURE YOU

CLASS OF SERVICE DESIRED

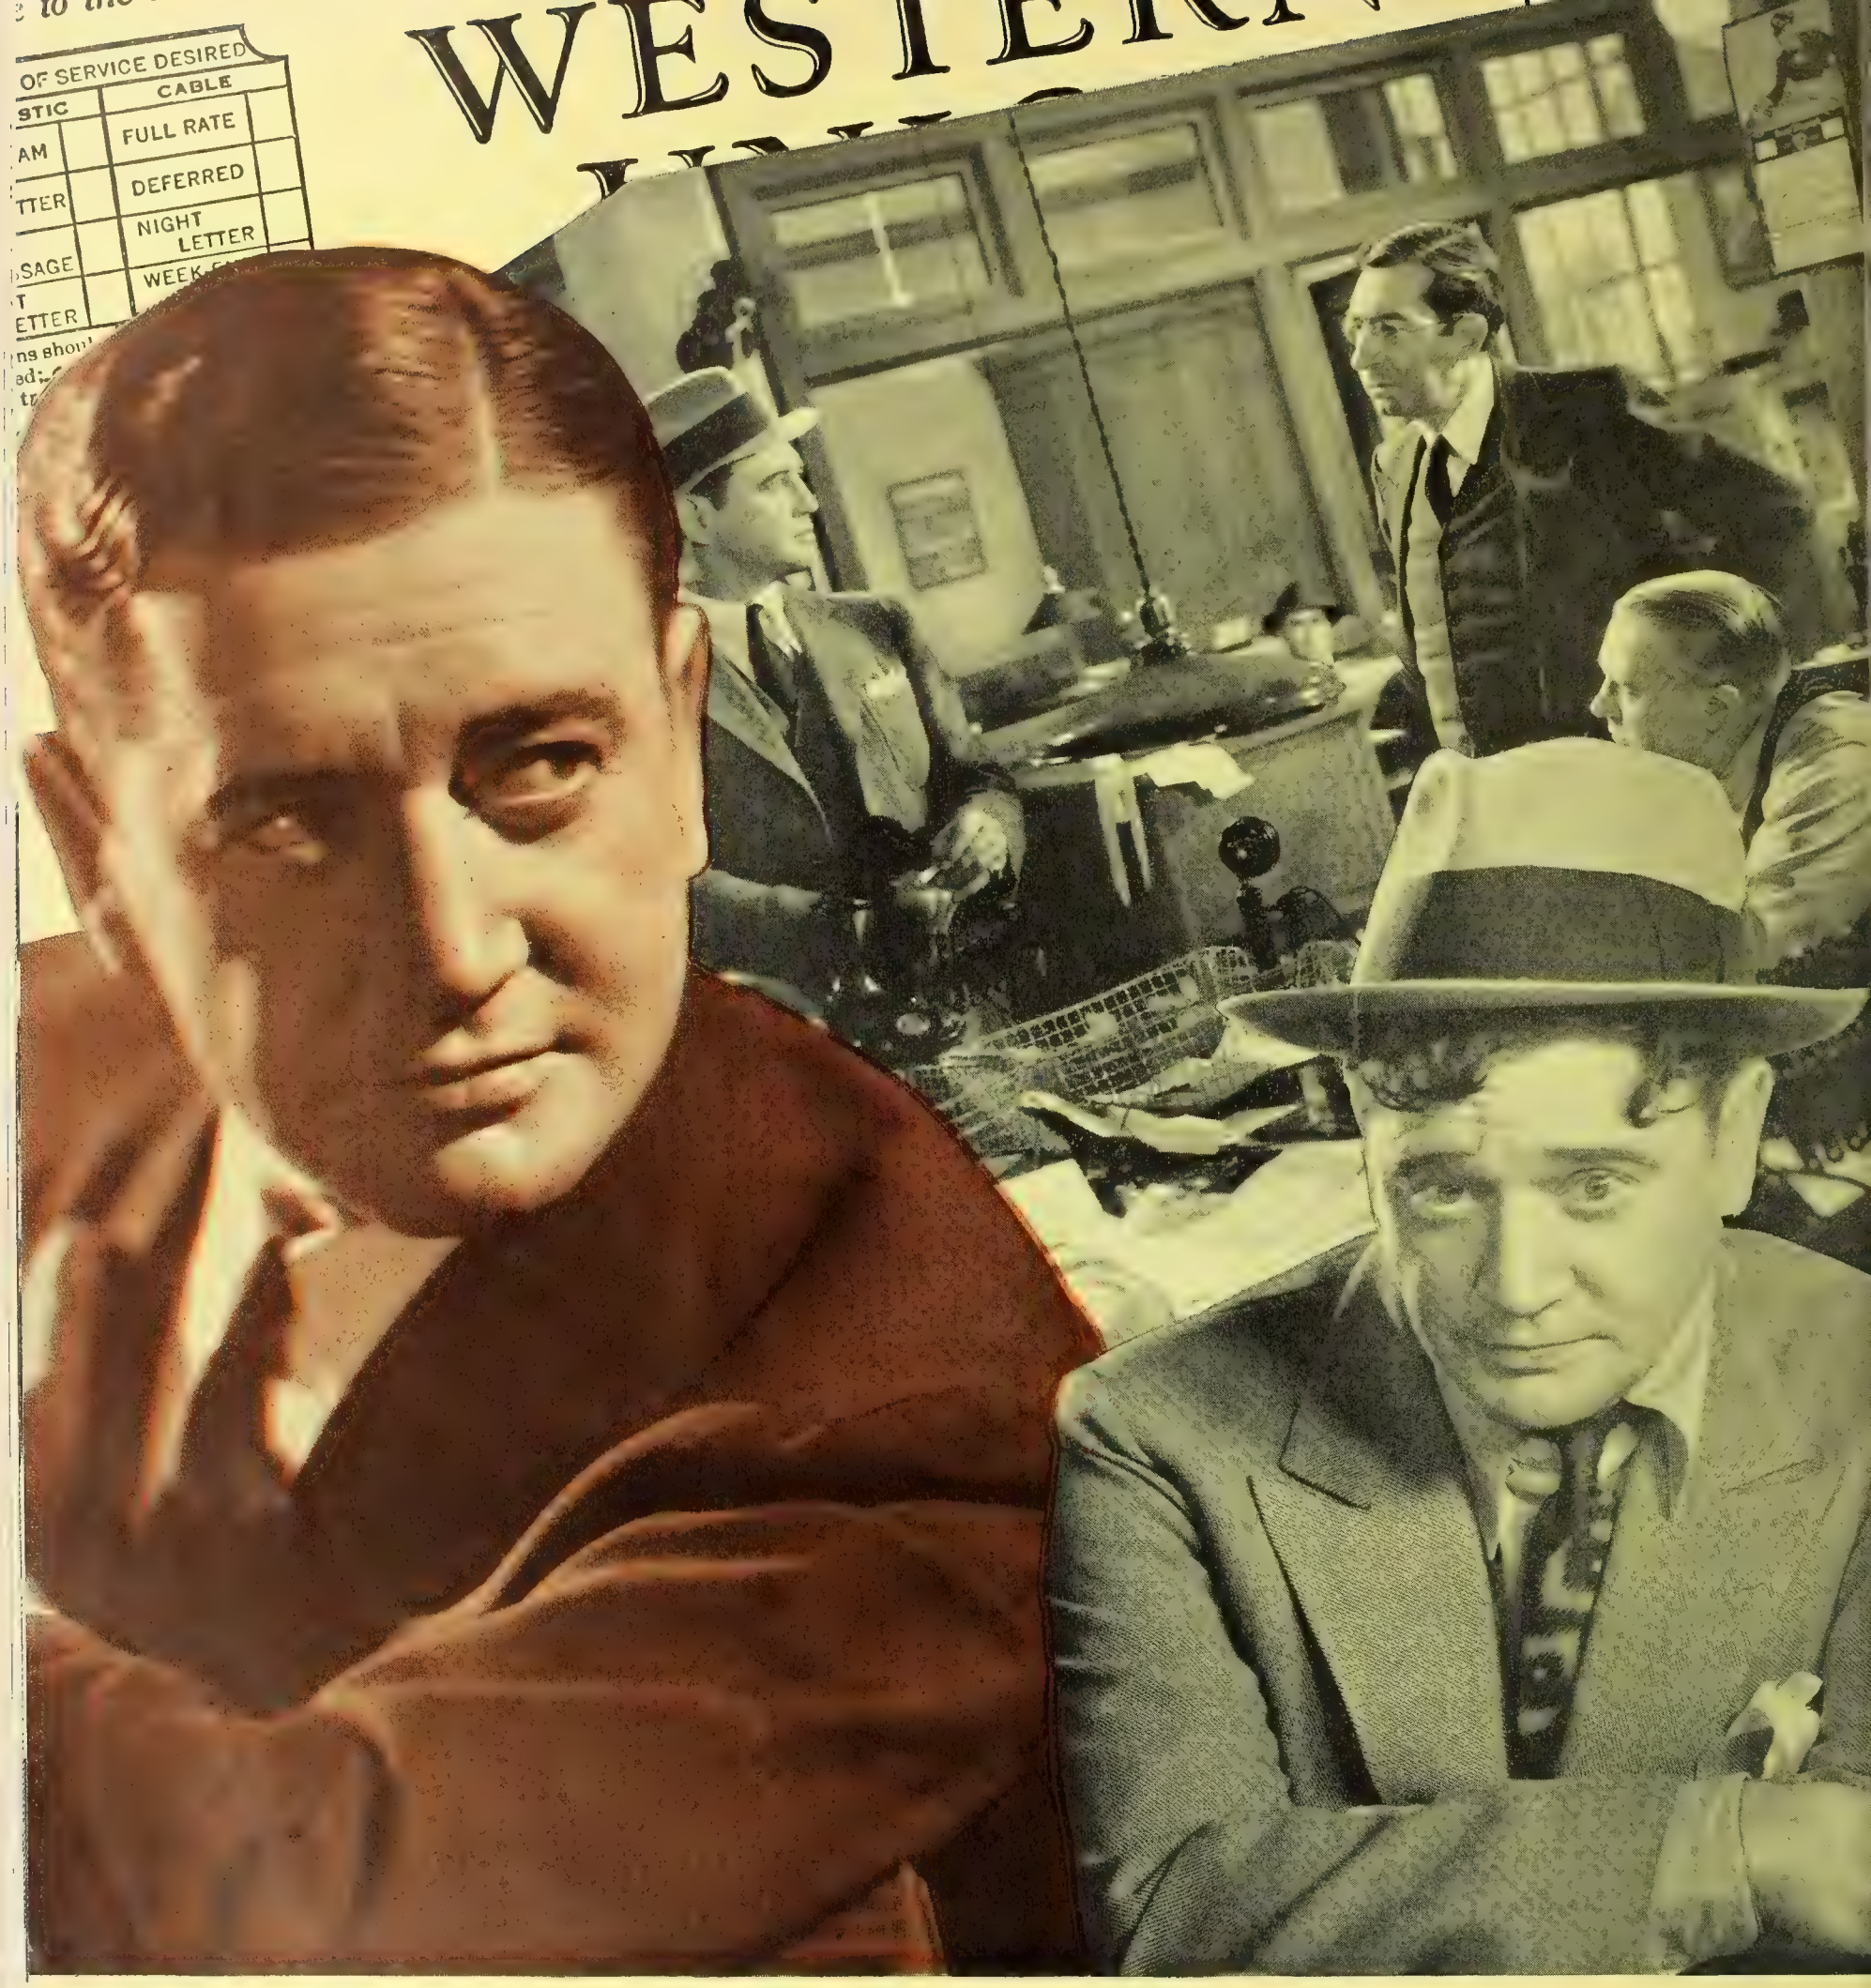
DOMESTIC		CABLE
TELEGRAM		FULL RATE
DAY LETTER		DEFERRED
NIGHT MESSAGE		NIGHT LETTER
NIGHT LETTER		WEEK END LETTER

Patrons should check class of service desired; otherwise message will be transmitted as a full-rate communication.

WE

U

NEWCOMB CARLT



Send the following message, subject to the terms on bac

CAN BUY RIGHT AWAY WHEELER AND WOOLSEY IN "DIPLOMANIACS"
STOP A HONEY OF A COMEDY WITH MUSICAL COMEDY FEATURES PRETTY GIRLS AND SONG HITS STOP THE CUCKOOS WERE NEVER FUNNIER STOP
THEY GO AS PEACE DELEGATES TO GENEVA STOP THEY WIN IGNOBLE PRIZE FOR ESTABLISHING FRIENDLY RELATIONS WITH GOVERNMENT_BLONDES

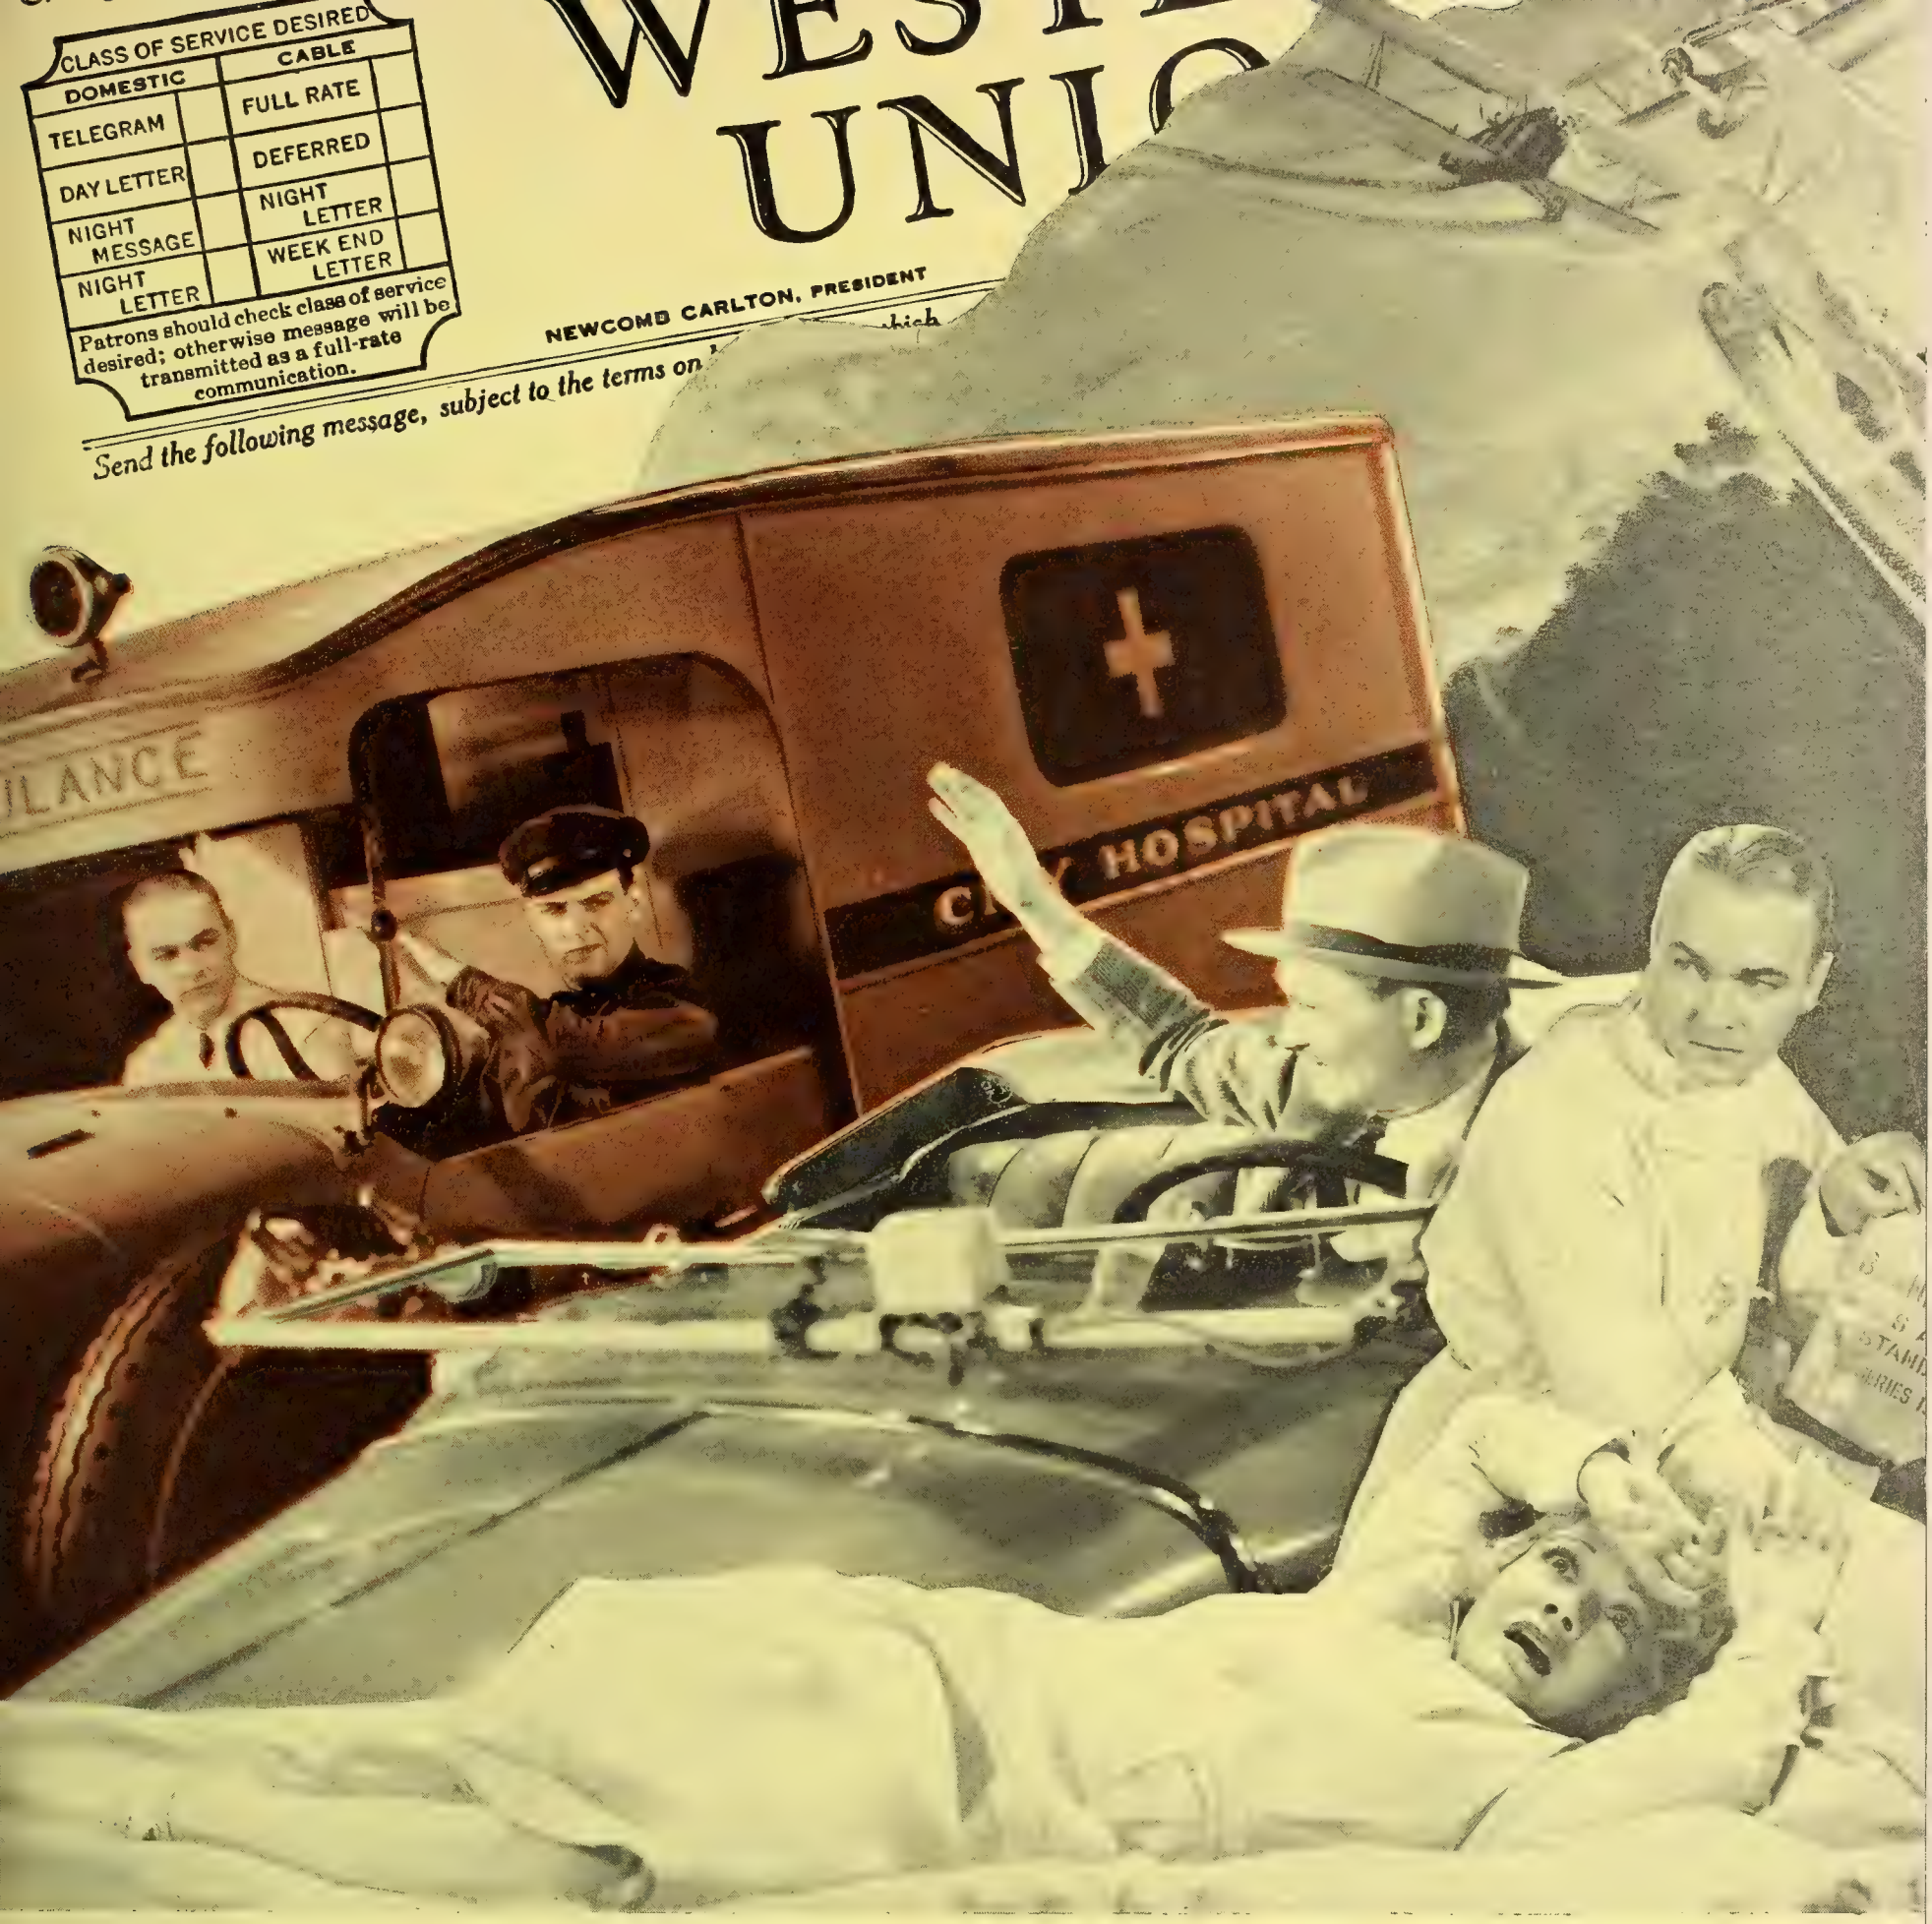
HAVE JUST SCREENED "TOMORROW AT SEVEN" AND HEARTILY RECOMMEND IT AS ONE OF THE BEST MYSTERY STORIES I HAVE SEEN STOP CHESTER MORRIS FEATURED WITH VIVIENNE OSBORNE HENRY STEPHENSON STOP FRANK MCHUGH AND ALLEN JENKINS PLAY TWO SCREWY DETECTIVES THEIR COMEDY IS GREAT STOP JOE SCHNITZER WHO PRODUCED THIS WILL ALSO HAVE ANOTHER STOP

OLD SURE FIRE BOX OFFICE RICHARD DIX IS JUST FINISHING
"THE PUBLIC BE SOLD" SMASHING UP TO THE MINUTE BUSINESS
ROMANCE WITH DIX AS HARD HITTING YOUNG ADVERTISING
MAN WHO WONT TAKE NO FOR AN ANSWER FROM A CUSTOMER
OR A GIRL STOP SCRIPT STILLS AND RUSHES ON THIS



CLASS OF SERVICE DESIRED
DOMESTIC		CABLE
TELEGRAM		FULL RATE
DAY LETTER		DEFERRED
NIGHT MESSAGE		NIGHT LETTER
NIGHT LETTER		WEEK END LETTER

Patrons should check class of service desired; otherwise message will be transmitted as a full-rate communication.

WESTERN UNION

NEWCOMB CARLTON, PRESIDENT

Send the following message, subject to the terms on

STOP MERIAN COOPER HAS BEEN HOPPING ME UP FOR WEEKS ABOUT "EMERGENCY CALL" AND I HAVE JUST SEEN IT PRINT WILL BE IN EXCHANGE NEXT WEEK AND I WANT YOU TO LOOK AT IT STOP THIS IS ONE OF SIX SMASH MELODRAMAS ON THIS SEASONS PROGRAM AND ITS A HONEY BILL BOYD WILLIAM GARGAN AND WYNNE GIBSON FEATURED STOP STUDIO NOW SHOOTING "THE FLYING CIRCUS" AIR THRILLER WITH HEAD ON COLLISION "FLAMING GOLD" "HEADLINE SHOOTERS" "TWIXT MIDNIGHT AND DAWN" AND "THE DEATH WATCH" EDGAR WALLACE STORY THESE WILL KEEP YOUR CUSTOMERS ON THE EDGE OF THEIR SEATS STOP WHAT LOOKS LIKE ONE OF THE BEST BETS OF SUMMER IS "PROFESSIONAL SWEETHEART" NOW IN CUTTING ROOM SET FOR EARLY JULY GINGER ROGERS PLAYS RADIO STAR WHOSE CONTRACT MAKES HER LIVE UP TO HER GOODY GOODY RADIO CHARACTER OF PURITY GIRL ON THE IPPSY-WIPPSY WASH CLOTH HOUR STOP GREAT FUN HER EFFORTS TO GO GAY STOP NORMAN FOSTER HAS SWELL PART AS THE FAN MAIL LOVER AND FAT COMEDY PARTS FOR ZASU PITTS AS SENTIMENTAL NEWSPAPER SOB SISTER AND GREGORY RATOFF AS THE WASH CLOTH KING

DAY LETTER		DEF
NIGHT MESSAGE		NIGH LE
NIGHT LETTER		WEEK LET

Patrons should check class o desired; otherwise message transmitted as a full-ra communication.

Send the following message

ACCT

TIME

STOP WE ARE BRINGING TWO GREAT STARS TOGETHER IN "DOUBLE HARNESS" AND GIVE YOU ANN HARDING AND WILLIAM POWELL IN THIS FINE DRAMA OF MODERN MARRIAGE NOW IN PRODUCTION AND SET FOR EARLY SUMMER RELEASE STOP STUDIO PROMISES FINE PRODUCTION AND SURE FIRE BOX OFFICE GREAT WOMAN SHOW

FULL RATE DEFERRED NIGHT

INFMN.

ED

WESTERN UNI

IN JUNE WILL RELEASE "THE BIG BRAIN" GAMBLING RACKET MELODRAMA
WITH PHILLIPS HOLMES GEORGE STONE AND FAY WRAY MINNA GOMBELL
SAM HARDY HEADING FINE CAST PREVIEW REPORTS ARE VERY PROMISING
FOR TIMELY RACKET STORY STOP "THE DELUGE" SPECTACULAR PRODUCTION
FROM S FOWLER WRIGHTS REMARKABLE BEST SELLING NOVEL NOW PREPARING COMPLETES 1932-33 PROGRAM WHICH BASED ON RKO RADIOS PERFORMANCE
RECORD THIS SEASON ASSURES YOU STRONG BOX OFFICE ATTRACTIONS
THROUGHOUT SUMMER REGARDS=

NED E DEPINET.

SHOWMEN'S REVIEWS

This department deals with new product from the point of view of the exhibitor who is to purvey it to his own public

Gold Diggers of 1933

(Warner Bros.)

Comedy Romance

In any showmanship analysis of "Gold Diggers," comparisons with "42nd Street" are inevitable. The atmosphere of the picture—the stage and stage folk—are the same. There the essential similarity ceases. "Gold Diggers" is a laugh-laden, heart-tingling musical comedy romance—a glamorous picturization of the theatre and its off-stage life. Lavishly mounted, the show moves with zippy tempo; the light dramatic twist serving to effectively counterbalance the prevailing comedy. For audience-interesting purposes, the songs, musical numbers and girl-dance sequences predominate over the basic story. The theme is uniquely interesting, yet the elaborate and spectacular action music-dance sequences are the features that should click most notably with the patrons. Three of these—the "We're in the Money" prelude; the neon-illuminated violin number and the "Forgotten Man" finale are sensational. A fourth, a modernistic stair-case dance sequence, likewise is an eye-opener.

Possessing everything that made its predecessor a box office triumph, "Gold Diggers" incorporates much that is new and different. The show may have more in the way of understandable audience appealing entertainment than "42nd Street." So much so that even lacking the tremendous national ballyhoo given its companion piece, it should be fully as popular with all types of patrons.

The story seems more intriguing. Simple, almost elementary, it is clever, furnishing a logical reason for the elaborate spectacle. Thus when Barney's shoe-string promoted "We're in the Money" vision goes, the three girls, Carol, Trixie and Polly, join the at liberty army. The girls are discouraged, but not Barney; he still has million dollar dreams—all he lacks is cash.

Into the setup comes Brad, an amateur songwriter, who has just the stuff that Barney wants and when he also has the dough to angel the show everything is peaches. Moving along in appealing style, the show is staged and then it develops that Bard is the scion of a blue-blooded Boston family. Enter J. Lawrence, Brad's brother, and Peabody to break up the now widely publicized romance between Brad and Polly, the show girl. Then Carol and Trixie start their clever gold digging. Mistaking Carol for Polly, Lawrence endeavors to make her like him more than his brother. The fun is keen as the two kids pursue their romance uninterrupted. After a bit of topical drama, Lawrence discovers that he has made a mistake in identity, but he has come to love Carol so much that when Peabody confesses he is going to marry the ambitious Trixie, he can vision no finer life-mate than Carol. And of course it is wedding bells for Polly and Brad.

About this premise radiates all the color, glamour, thrill and sparkle of back-stage life. It is the structure on which the elaborate girl-dance-music features are reared. Appealingly acted, it always makes for audience interest. There are no long drawn out sequences. Everything moves with a speedy zip. Transitions from shots that feature only one or two people quickly give way to stage-filling spectacles.

With the experience of "42nd Street" as a basis, "Gold Diggers" is wide open for a vivid interest-stimulating publicity campaign. Ballyhoo, and there is no end of ideas for spectacular stunts, should have a prominent place in every campaign. Everything done should be in a way that accentuates bigness; that "Gold Diggers" is new, different, more interesting more pleasing than "42nd Street."

The title has a curiosity-inspiring ring. Much can be done with it. Likewise the cast boasts plenty of marquee names. The opening, "We're in the Money" sequence, and the "Forgotten Man" finale, which is vividly dramatic in its appeal, furnish you with two outstanding features to talk about. Remembering all this and supplementing it with publicity that stresses the music, comedy, romance, spectacle, color and novelty of the show, "Gold Diggers" is the type of entertainment that justifies spending a little extra money in its exploitation.—McCarthy, Hollywood.

Produced and distributed by Warner. Directed by Mervyn LeRoy. Supervised by Ray Griffith. Numbers created and directed by Busby Berkeley. Screen play by Erwin Gelsey and James Seymour. Music and lyrics by Harry Warren and Al Dubin. Dialogue by David Boehm and Ben Markson. Based on a play by Avery Hopwood. Photography by Sol Polito. Art director, Anton Grot. Edited by George Amy. Release date, May 27, 1933. Running time, 90 minutes.

CAST

J. Lawrence	Warren William
Carol	Joan Blondell
Trixie	Aline MacMahon
Polly	Ruby Keeler
Brad	Dick Powell
Peabody	Guy Kibbee
Barney	Ned Sparks
Fay	Ginger Rogers
Don	Clarence Nordstrom
Dance Director	Robert Agnew
Eddie	Tammany Young
Messenger Boy	Sterling Holloway
Clubman	Ferdinand Gottschalk

Forgotten Men

(Jewel)

War Compilation

Another memory of the World War, this particular compilation was pieced together from "official film from the archives of fourteen warring nations." That at least fourteen sources were tapped to make "Forgotten Men" is obvious, since the resulting lengthy film rushes here and there, showing spattered bits of experience of the soldiers of numerous countries. The film, in the manner in which it races from one spot and one phase of the war to another, attempts to cover far too much ground, and loses thereby. It has become disjointed, patchy and gives every appearance of having been tossed together, rather than closely knit.

It is much like several others of the same nature which have been more or less recently released. If the exhibitor has had experience with previous similar films, he will immediately know what may possibly be done with this in his particular community. If he has not, it would be well to bear in mind certain salient features of the material. It is often exciting, thrillingly realistic in brief snatches. It is presumably authentic, having been taken from official sources. Cameramen were obviously extremely close to the action they photographed. It offers possibilities for tieups with various local organizations, especially women's clubs, since it is automatically an indictment of war in all its vicious phases.

Seen at various times are General Pershing, Marshal Joffre, Lord Kitchener, Kaiser Wilhelm and the Crown Prince, Ludendorf and Von Hindenburg, the Russian Czar and his family, then President Poincare of France and numerous others.

Forgetting for the moment the picture's patch-work manner of construction, the fact remains that it is a realistic motion picture document, embodying much of the gruesome and the terrible, and may be sold as an actual pictorial record of war as it is today. The use in the lobby of innumerable stills from the picture should prove effective.—Aaronson, New York.

Compilation of World War film, distributed by Jewel Productions. Compilation made by Samuel Cummins with the assistance of Edward Gellner and Louis Goldberg. New York release date, May 12, 1933. National release date undecided. Running time, 84 minutes.

Hold Me Tight

(Fox)

Drama

The drama of the big city boy and girl, who meet, fall in love, and suffer the distress which misunderstanding, wage-earning complications and the like bring about, always possesses a certain definite amount of appeal, especially for the younger adults as well as the more mature patrons.

This picture falls rather completely into that classification of entertainment. It is highly salable material, particularly since it has at the top of the cast two highly popular and appealing performers, James Dunn and Sally Eilers. These two names will look very well on any marquee, and they have previously demonstrated their box office effectiveness in that position. In support are the always capable, and humorous, Frank McHugh, and June Clyde, Kenneth Thomson.

The picture makes good entertainment, of the type which the regular run of motion picture patrons should find rather enjoyable, enlivened as it is by the capable rendition of considerable clever dialogue by Dunn and the humorous touches imparted by McHugh. The major campaign, of course, should be directed toward the younger set, since the characters are of their years and the experiences are those which many young couples undoubtedly have themselves experienced.

Dunn and Miss Eilers work in the same large city department store, where the store detective, Thomson, pays too much attention to Miss Eilers, which is more than slightly resented by Dunn. Miss Clyde works with Miss Eilers and is the wife of McHugh, who has large ideas, but not of work, another fact which Dunn caustically resents. Through a trick of Thomson's Dunn is fired just as the two are about to be married. Miss Eilers hears of it but permits the marriage to be performed before telling him. The complication of his wife working, supporting him, gets the better of Dunn, and he leaves to find a job without burdening her. Miss Clyde, a child coming, fears dismissal and attempts suicide. When Thomson attempts to rob the store of furs, he implicates Dunn, Miss Eilers and McHugh, though they do not realize the job they are called upon to do. When they do, Dunn thrashes Thomson, the police walk in, and there the story ends.

It is not highly unusual material, but it is rather well handled, the performances are good, and the whole has a definite appeal of sincerity and authenticity. The big city department store atmosphere, in which practically the entire picture is set, should offer opportunities for good tieups and promotional effort, while the Dunn-Eilers team is not to be overlooked. It is not heavy, but good entertainment. There is little in it for juveniles, though there is nothing objectionable for them.—AARONSON, New York.

Produced and distributed by Fox. Directed by David Butler. Story by Gertrude Rigdon. Screen play by Gladys Lehman. Photographed by Arthur Miller. Sound engineer, George Leverett. Musical director, Samuel Kaylin. Release date, May 26, 1933. Running time, 71 minutes.

CAST

Chuck ..... James Dunn
Molly ..... Sally Eilers
Billy ..... Frank McHugh
Dottie ..... June Clyde
Dolan ..... Kenneth Thomson
Trudie ..... Noel Francis
Mary Shane ..... Dorothy Peterson
Blair ..... Clay Clement

Heroes for Sale

(First National)

Melodrama

In this headline-inspired story, exhibitors will find much to test their showmanship ability. Frankly the story is a melodramatic study of a certain phase of post-war American history. It is told through the careers of an ex-soldier and his associates. Drama, romance, tragedy, pathos, human interest and grim comedy contrast are there.

Authentic fact has been combined with imaginative fiction in developing the plot.

The picture may be the subject of much discussion and controversy. It vividly bears out many of the contentions that have been advanced on the platform and pulpit as well as in the press. Men and women may find much in it to both impress and depress them. Always convincingly acted, the film boldly tackles its subject, "Why social upheaval—why revolution?" Beginning with a spectacular war sequence, it makes its hero, Tom, a drug addict. It gives his rightful honors to Roger. Then, stripped of all atmospheric detail, the yarn moves to America, where Tom, still an addict, loses his bank job and is confined to a narcotic hospital. His mother commits suicide.

Curing Tom, it moves into Chicago, introduces him to Ruth and romance and gives him the friendship of Mary and Pa, flop-house proprietors, and the capitalist-baiting Max. For a time it has him prospering in his laundry job until he marries Ruth. Then as a result of misuse of Max's invention which Tom has persuaded his friends to finance, it plunges into an unemployment riot during which Ruth is killed. Tom is jailed for five years. Max develops another invention and both become wealthy. Released, Tom refuses to accept any of the money, but instructs Mary to use his share to feed the hungry unemployed. Joining the wandering army of jobless, he treks across the country. Driven from one state to another, the men burn a freight train. Tom finds Roger, and the two indulge in a discussion of what brought it all about, which is featured by excerpts from some of the recent presidential messages. Finale has a possee driving the jobless from their shelter down the road, their only consolation being that it "isn't raining any more."

More than the usual care should be exercised in handling this. In many localities, due to mob scenes, it may be dangerous. Probably a line of publicity that takes advantage of the meaning of the title will be the most effective way of handling it. Combining the fact that it is realism and fiction, try to build patron interest on graphic announcements that here is a denouement of what has happened to thousands of 1917-18's heroes. While there are exceptional opportunities for effective ballyhoo, this angle should be thoughtfully handled. Because the picture ignores many things that the government and veterans' organizations have done for ex-soldiers, there is hardly room for tieups with the Legion and kindred groups. Sell it as human drama, a study of men, events and conditions. Concentrate on its topical atmosphere and direct your appeal to the adults. It is depressing, and because of some of its radical dialogue would hardly be entertainment for juveniles.—MCCARTHY, Hollywood.

Produced and distributed by First National. Screen play by Robert Lord and Wilson Mizner. Supervised by Hal B. Wallis. Directed by William A. Wellman. Photography by James Van Trees. Film editor, Howard Bretherton. Release date June 17, 1933. Running time, 76 minutes.

CAST

Tom ..... Richard Barthelmess
Mary ..... Aline MacMahon
Ruth ..... Loretta Young
Roger ..... Gordon Wescott
Mr. Winston ..... Berton Churchill
Max ..... Robert Barratt
George Gibson ..... Grant Mitchell
Pa Dennis ..... Charles Grapewin
Dr. Briggs ..... Robert McWade
Leader of agitators ..... George Pat Collins
Blind Man ..... James Murray
Laundry Co. president ..... Edwin Maxwell
Ella Holmes ..... Margaret Seddon
Capt. Joyce ..... Arthur Vinton
The Detective ..... Robert Elliott
The Judge ..... John Marston
The Sheriff ..... Willard Roberston
Chief Engineer ..... Douglas Dumbrille
Red ..... Ward Bond
Dope peddler ..... Tammany Young
German prisoner ..... Hans Furberg

Morgenrot

Dawn

(Protex)

Drama

The distributors of this German-produced drama in this country have indicated that the film was made prior to the establishment of the Hitler regime in Germany, and that it embodies a strong plea for an end to war, indicating its horrors, its fruitlessness.

It very definitely is strong drama, and a plea against war, with able performances throughout, a well constructed story, combining action, romance of the quiet, more subtle type, and, as a story nucleus, the overwhelming feeling of a mother, two of whose sons have already been killed in the war, for her last surviving boy, commander of a German U boat, who is a great hero to the entire town, but merely a son in danger to his mother. In that respect the film possesses a universal appeal.

With the capable employment of impressive technical effects in photography, the scene shifts now and again from the U boat in its conflicts with enemy ships, to the small town where the populace hangs on every word of news of their commander and his submarine, and the mayor takes every opportunity to make a speech. The sequences which picture the mother in her effort to bear up under the strain of fearing news at any moment of the death of her last son are tremendously effective, combined with the attempted light-heartedness of the wife of the submarine's radio man, also a resident of the town. The romantic aspect enters in the person of the daughter of the mayor, who is in love with the commander, who in turn believes she is actually in love with his first officer, a younger man.

The sequences on the sea, with the aid of unusually fine photography, are excellent, reaching the point of thrilling effectiveness when the U boat is pursued by a British cruiser, hit by a depth bomb, and the surviving ten of the crew are dying in the hulk, 60 fathoms below the surface. Eight life preservers are available, and one man and the young officer, who had learned his superior is the object of the girl's love, kill themselves, permitting the others to escape. The conclusion has the commander acknowledging the girl's affection and leaving to resume his undersea command.

A brief foreword English translation, plus frequent superimposed subtitle translations of the German dialogue, make the film perfectly understandable to the patron without a knowledge of the language. Sell the picture as a "pre-Hitler" production, preaching a powerful lesson in mother love and the horror of war, with unusually effective undersea drama of submarine warfare to add action and strength to the picture as a whole.—AARONSON, New York.

A Ufa production. Distributed by Protex. Directed by Gustav Ucicky. American release, May 15, 1933. Running time, 85 minutes.

CAST

Frau Liers ..... Adele Sandrock
Captain Liers, her son ..... Rudolf Forster
Lieutenant Fredericks ..... Fritz Genschow
The Mayor ..... Hans Leibelt
Helga, his daughter ..... Else Knott
Gustl Jaul ..... Paul Westermeier
Greta, his wife ..... Camilla Spira

Soldiers of the Storm

(Columbia)

Drama

There is lively action of the program variety in this picture, which is more readily adaptable to the smaller theatre in the lesser community. The mixture of bootlegging, flying, fighting and romance which makes up the backbone of the story, should cause the picture to be as acceptable to the youngsters as to the adults.

The cast has no really outstanding names, but the leading players should strike a familiar note with the regular run of patronage. Regis Toomey, as the hard-flying, daring lieutenant of the U. S. Border Patrol on the Mexican border, provides a good performance, with Anita Page, Robert Ellis, Wheeler Oakman and Barbara Barondess supplying the chief support.

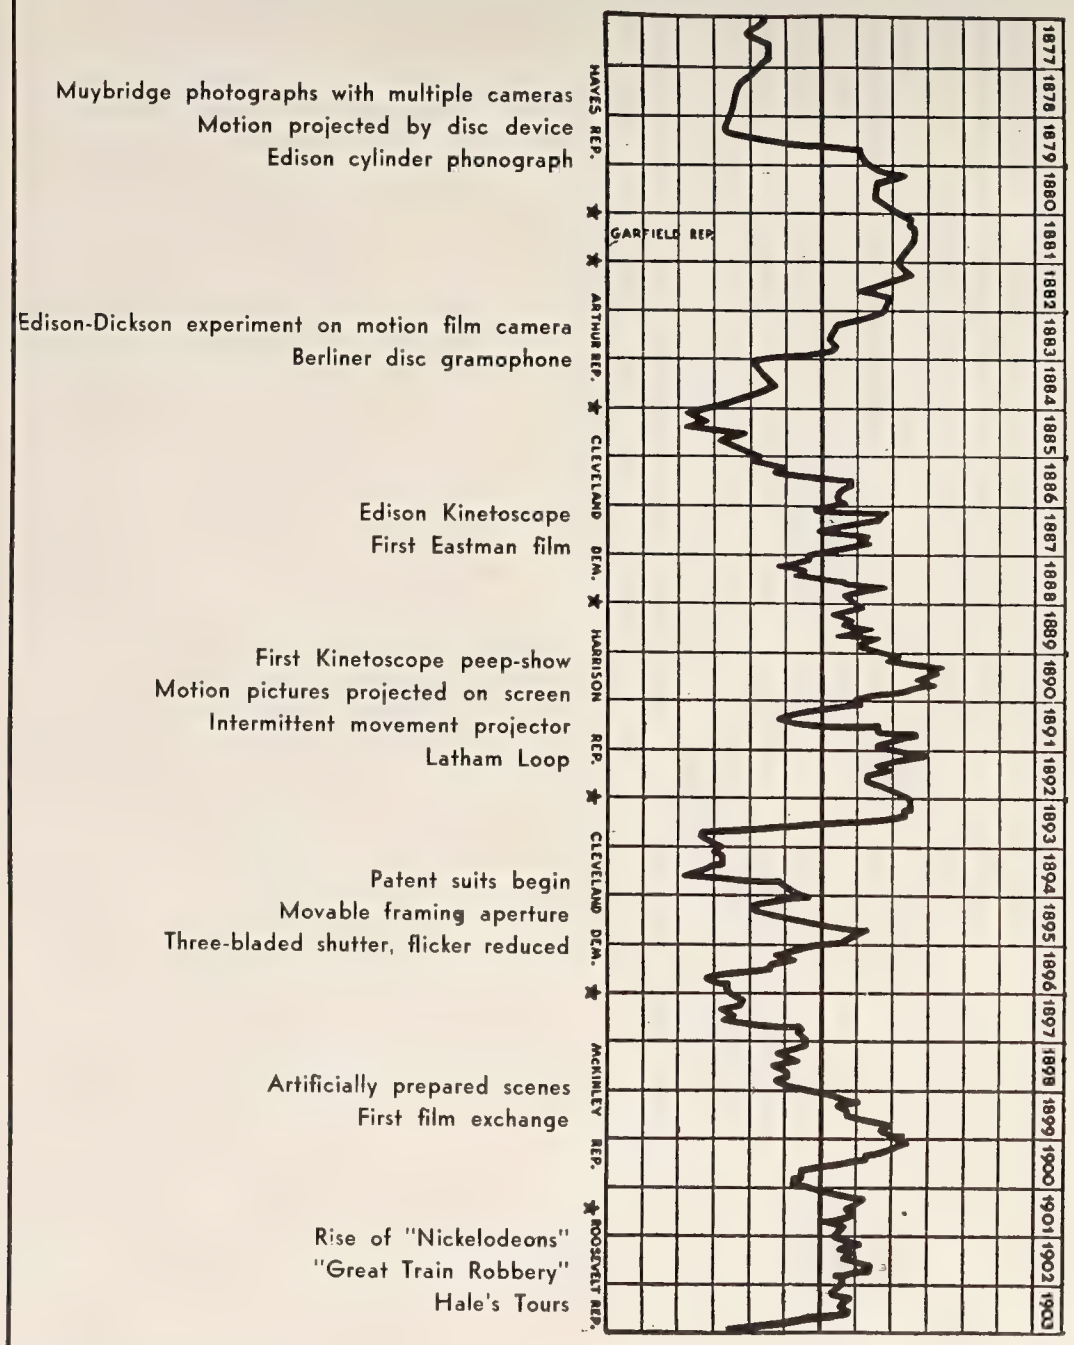
The title is a trifle misleading, in that it implies a type of background which is not a part of the film, yet it is a good salable title for an action picture, and is not too far-fetched to be used to good advantage.

Toomey is ordered to a border resort to track down a gang of smugglers, and poses as a famous stunt flyer at the dedication of an airport. He meets and falls in love with the daughter of the town's political leader, who is in cahoots with Ellis, gang chief. The pseudo-identity causes complications in his romance, Miss Page misunderstanding his supposed familiarity with Miss Barondess, in the employ of Ellis. Racing in his plane between the resort and an isolated place over the border, he gathers sufficient evidence, after worming himself into the employ of Ellis, to cause the arrest and conviction of Ellis and his henchman, Oakman. Miss Page's father, confronting Ellis, is killed and his actions later vindicated. Ellis and Oakman, aware of their immediate apprehension, take flight in an automobile, pursued by Toomey in a plane. Manning a machine gun, Toomey swoops down on the pair, wrecking their car and killing them. At the conclusion, the romance between Toomey and Miss Page is reorganized with a flying honeymoon the result.

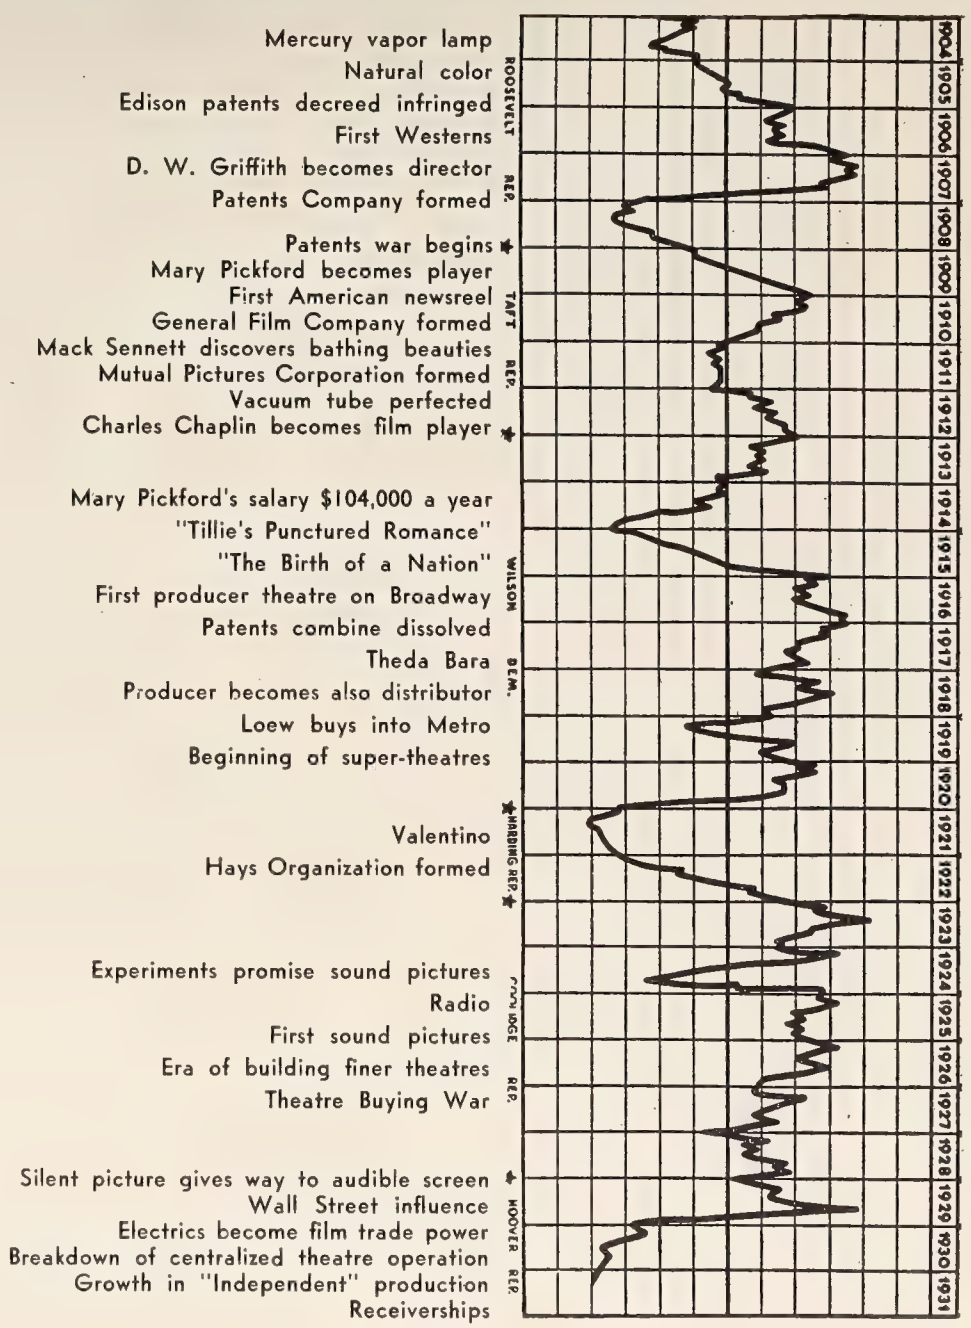
Play the picture, and sell it, as an action melodrama, with flying thrills and punch making it suitable for the adults who like fast pictures, and the children as well. As program material, it is satisfactory entertainment.—AARONSON, New York.

Produced and distributed by Columbia. Directed by D. Ross Lederman. Story by Thomson Burtis. Screen play by Charles Condon. Dialogue by Horace McCoy. Cameraman, Teddy Tetzlaff. Sound engineer, George Cooper. Film editor, Maurice Wright. Release date, April 4, 1933. Running time, 67 minutes.

CAST



Brad Allerton ..... Regis Toomey
Natalie ..... Anita Page
Spanish waitress ..... Barbara Weeks
Moran ..... Robert Ellis
George ..... Wheeler Oakman
Sonia ..... Barbara Barondess
Chuck Bailey ..... Dewey Robinson
Red ..... George Cooper
Adams ..... Arthur Wanzer
Dodie ..... Henry Wadsworth



Paramount Retains Schulberg

B. P. Schulberg will continue as an independent producer for Paramount under a new contract calling for eight features for 1933-34.

Joseph Singer Dead

Joseph Singer, operator of the Peekskill, at Peekskill, N. Y., died last week following a heart attack.

POLITICAL PHILOSOPHIES—THE UPS AND DOWNS OF BUSINESS—AND THE MOTION PICTURE

Two charts, done in the best manner of modern business statisticians, neither of which show much of anything, except that regardless of the moods of business, and even less considerate of the moods of the electorate, the motion picture managed to get invented, get going, get rich and —but the chart stops at 1931. It probably should be explained that the bold center line indicates the level of "normal" business.

Business line prepared by statistical department, Bank of America, New York.

Business Control Measure Studied By Film Industry

(Continued from page 11)

perimental the bill is. If government supervision of industry, as provided in the bill, primes the machinery of commerce, Mr. Roosevelt will go no further. But if government supervision does not return prosperity, he is prepared to take the next step—actual government participation in private industry.

In the opinion of Raymond Moley, Assistant Secretary of State, who spends his forenoons with the President, "the basic policy of this Administration, as it is coming to be embodied in legislation and in Adminstrative action, expresses a concept of the relation of worker to employer, debtor to creditor, State to people."

Licenses for All Film Companies

Licensing of all motion picture producers and distributors doing an interstate business, in order that the government may readily enforce adherence to codes of fair competition which are to be adopted by the various industries, will be required under the proposed industrial-recovery bill, which was introduced in Congress May 17 following a special message by President Roosevelt.

Government control of industry will prevail for a period of two years under the bill, which declares the existence of "a national emergency productive of widespread unemployment and disorganization of industry, which burdens interstate commerce, affects the public welfare and undermines the standards of living of the American people" and defines the policy of Congress to be "to remove obstructions to the free flow of interstate commerce which tend to diminish the amount thereof; and to promote the organization of industry for the purpose of cooperative action among trade groups, to induce and maintain united action of labor and management under adequate governmental sanctions and supervision, to eliminate unfair competitive practices, to reduce and relieve unemployment, to improve standards of labor, and otherwise to rehabilitate industry and to conserve natural resources."

To this end, the industries of the country are to develop codes of "fair competition" which, upon approval by the President, are to constitute legal requirements, with fines ranging up to $500 as penalties for violations.

Following adoption of a code, or its enforced application upon an industry which fails to act voluntarily, all members of the industry affected, engaged in interstate commerce, will be required to secure Federal licenses, failure to do so to be punishable by a fine not exceeding $500 or by imprisonment for not more than six months, or both.

Industry Preparing to Accept Control

Even before the industry-control measure has reached a vote in the House, industry throughout the nation was preparing to act quickly in adapting the machinery of the bill. The motion picture business, too, was prepanirg to discuss ways and means for industry at large, and as a point of contact with the Administration. More than 150 heads of national trade associations at a dinner in New York the other night, pledged their support. Fifty different industries had already started to draft codes.

As distributors in New York were completing plans for individual sales conventions, P. J. Wood, exhibitor leader of the midwest, and business manager of the Ohio MPTO, suggested that, instead of individual meetings, the entire industry meet together. In view of impending enactment of President Roosevelt's control bill, Mr. Wood said that such a convention within the near future would be most opportune, as it could consider, besides sales and product problems, the matter of establishing a code of practice applicable to the industry.

In any event, it is held likely that the MPPDA, Allied States and the MPTOA will eventually participate in a meeting to formulate a code in keeping with the government's requirements. Abram F. Myers, general counsel, said last week that the national Allied association has received power of attorney from state units, "as well as certain unaffiliated bodies," to see that no action on the control bill is taken with respect to the film business "which will discriminate unfairly against the independent theatre owners." Mr. Myers said that Allied is pledged to cooperate with the government and with the industry.

Regardless, if the industry does not agree on a code of practice, the government will draw one for it and require it to observe such an agreement.

No trade or industry association can go to work on a code until it has filed a statement with the President as to the activities and organization.

Under the terms of the measure, anti-trust law provisions relating to agreements in the realm of price fixing are suspended in order that industries and trade associations may develop "codes" covering hours of labor, wages, buying and selling practices, etc. Probably the film industry will be allowed to treat each of its divisions as a separate unit.

Industry Plans For New Season Get Underway

(Continued from page 10)

the titles for next season's release will be announced. A second meeting will be in New Orleans, June 29-30, the third in New Orleans, July 2-3, and the fourth in Los Angeles, July 6-7. B. P. Schulberg was signed to make eight more features, for 1933-34, and starting in the fall. The Marx brothers will return to the Paramount lot early in June to make one more picture under the company's banner. The company's 1933-34 feature total may run as high as 65, George J. Schaefer, general sales manager, stated. These, of course, include outside product. Charles R. Rogers started work on his new program for Paramount release and William LeBaron is said to be set to renew his producing contract. Marlene Dietrich and Josef von Sternberg were signed to make two features for next season. Special exploitation pre-release showings in four key cities of Paramount's "College Humor" are planned in advance of the general release, June 30.

William Pizor will handle eight features during 1933-34. He will produce four. The remainder will be made by William A. Berke. The first is "The Flaming Signal," and the second, "Corruption."

Sol Lesser closed with Principal for distribution of a microscopic insect series titled "Conflicts of Nature."

RKO Will Meet June 26

RKO will complete its 1932-33 short subject line-up by July 1. Out of 42 two-reelers scheduled, all but two have been finished. Nine out of 39 cartoons and two out of seven Pathe Reviews are still to be made. Differences in a number of details of the deal by which William Saal, et al., may make 12 pictures for Radio release next season has held up closing of the deal. The 12 productions will be made by KBS under the name of Admiral Productions. RKO's Clark & McCullough started their first of a series of shorts for 1933-34 release, Lou Brock producing. The company has set June 26 as the date for the first of three regional conventions. The first will be held in New York, the second in Chicago and the last on the coast.

Charles Rosenzweig, formerly of Columbia, was ready to start a producing and distributing organization. The company will produce 12 features for 1933-34 and acquire eight more from outside sources. Four directors have already been signed, each with stories already accepted by the company. The organization is being incorporated; the name will be announced next week.

Richard A. Rowland, pioneer in motion picture production, who resigned from the executive staff of Fox recently, is making plans for production, probably to start some time in the early fall. It is understood he will make 10 features for 1933-34.

Fanchon Royer, supplementing exchanges opened in New York, Boston and Philadelphia, has established branches in Cleveland, Cincinnati and Pittsburgh to handle the 15 features planned for 1933-34 release.

Screencraft Productions is planning the addition of a second series of eight, making 16 features in all for 1933-34, probably to be produced by Dave J. Mountan, president of Showmen's Pictures. The 16 pictures will be in addition to four being offered by Mountan this season. "His Private Secretary" is set for June 1 release, with "Public Stenographer" now in work and "Police Call" to follow.

U. A. Plans Well Advanced

United Artists' national sales force will meet in Chicago beginning July 17. Plans for 1933-34 may include as many as 30 features. Twentieth Century Productions, the Zanuck-Schenck unit, is slated to have 12 features and Chester Erskine may also deliver 12. Mary Pickford and Douglas Fairbanks will each deliver at least one. Other deals with independents are pending. A deal to distribute "Samarang" was closed with Bennie Zeidman. Five pictures made by London Film Productions, Ltd., and either directed or supervised by Alexander Korda, will be distributed by the company in 1933-34. The first will be "The Fourth Wife of Henry the Eighth." Reports that Gloria Swanson would seek a release elsewhere for her pictures were denied this week by the company which stated that her next picture, to be made in Hollywood this summer, will go through that organization. Miss Swanson and D. W. Griffith recently sold their ownership interests in United Artists.

Universal is adding 10 features to make a total of 36, for 1933-34. Six westerns, with Ken Maynard, will raise this total to 42. "Zest," by Charles Norris, and "The Behavior of Mrs. Crane" are definitely set for 1933-34. "S. O. S. Iceberg," if not completed in time, will go over to next season's release. The company may also have "The Ghoul," made in England by Gaumont-British, with Boris Karloff. Rowland and Brice will make six for 1933-34 if their first for the company, "Shoot the Works," now filming, comes up to company expectations. Six more on the 1933-34 line-up have yet to be completed. They are: "Glamour," "Counsellor at Law," "Left Bank," "Salt Water" and "In the Money," and one other. According to L. J. Schlaifer, general sales manager for Universal, the company will choose a convention date approximating the July deadline agreed upon by major distributors. The exact date is to be decided upon, but the company will probably hold regional meetings.

Warners Hollywood studios will reopen early next month. Vitaphone will probably increase its output next season. Maj. Albert Warner, Grad Sears, A. W. Smith and S. Charles Einfeld are at present conferring in Hollywood with Jack Warner regarding 1933-34 product.

Worldkino Corp., New York, sponsor of "The Return of Nathan Becker," is planning additional releases.

B. F. Zeidman left for the coast this week after a three-weeks stay in New York, during which he set release of "Samarang" through United Artists. He also conferred with another distributor for handling three other travel pictures made by Ward Wing and Lori Bara. These are: "Weeping Trees," "Roping 'Em Alive" and "Typhoon Waters." He further discussed a deal for production of a series for next season's release.

ASIDES & INTERLUDES

By JAMES CUNNINGHAM

WITH ONE BOLD STROKE the sacred sons of K'ung Fu Tsu (Confucius to you) have unravelled at last the dark reason behind those rejected manuscripts of aspiring authors, including Miss Marion Herd, of Erpi's home office, who found in Reader's Digest the following note of rejection, which was sent to one John K. Williamson by a firm of Chinese publishers:

"We read your manuscript with boundless delight. By the sacred ashes of our ancestors we swear that we have never dipped into a book of such overwhelming mastery.

"If we were to publish this book, however, it would be impossible in the future for us to issue any book of a lower standard. As it is unthinkable that within the next 10,000 years we shall find its equal, we are, to our great regret, compelled to return this too divine work and beg you a thousand times to forgive our action." . . .

▽

Old Professor Roxy Rothafel's Seminary of Synchronized Kicking must preserve some semblance of dignified morals, to say nothing of murals. The Radio City Roxyettes are, therefore, governed by a number of "mustn'ts," just like college girls in Mrs. Swishback's dormitory. The Roxyette is forbidden to change the color of her hair without discussing the matter with the faculty. She cannot wear lounging pajamas at rehearsal, no matter how she kicks, squirms and screams. And, of course, it need not be added that a Roxy Roxyette must not indulge in even the tiniest, teeniest, weeniest drinkie during the working day—which lasts from ten in the morning to ten at night. Mr. Rothafel's rules for the Roxyettes, however, say nothing about making fudge after "lights out."

▽

Mrs. S. L. Rothafel, while visiting back home in Forest City, Pa., the other day rescued her parents from a fire which broke out in the Freedman Building. Back in 1909, her young husband, Roxy, almost set the same building afire with his first motion picture show, the enterprise which started him for Broadway and fame.

▽

Colvin Brown is tree planting his acres up in Haviland Road in Stamford. Despite his frequent excursions to Washington this has no bearing on the reforestation program launched by his favorite president.

▽

Economics are not the only troublesome matters at home offices in New York. The fan magazines, which are currently engaged in a bitter competitive battle, are kicking up quite a fuss over securing "scoops" on production stills. Several are insisting that they each get first inspection of all pictures which are sent on from Hollywood, under threats of barring all publicity of those companies which give a competitor first crack.

▽

Al Finestone, our Kansas City correspondent, reports that the Marx Brothers really had their beginning about 300 years ago. A German society of the 16th century, formed to encourage fencing—but not with film producers—was called the Marcus Brothers and was best known as the "Marx Brothers." We always thought some of their gags dated from then.

▽

Now it's a wooden Indian contest. Paramount offers a free trip to Hollywood, all expenses paid, and a five-week contract (or will buy outright) for a wooden Indian of the 1902 vintage.

THE SUBJECT OF MARRIAGE interests the average American reader most, while archaeology and science rate next, according to Victor Halperin, of the brothers Halperin, who produce for Paramount. The Halperins tabulated 1935 stories and articles appearing in magazines. The next seven subjects in order of appeal are: "Murder," "divorce," "beauties," "art," "wealth," "suicide" and "romance," "Chorus girls" and "ghosts" tie for eleventh place. "Beauty contests" and "passive deaths" have equal appeal. "Motion picture players" are away down the list near "babies." "Hoodooism," "insanity," "flappers" and "snakes" follow.

▽

An extra girl left the Fox studio last week with an extra $5. There is little need for detail, except this: The young lady sat all day on the box seat of an 18th century coach which bounced and rocked perilously for scenes of "Berkeley Square."

"Give her $5 extra," said Frank Lloyd, the director. "She's earned it."

"Compensation for callouses," read the Fox report.

▽

Jack Nelson, producing one reelers at Mack Sennett's studio, asked the property department for 20 jackasses. "And no Hollywood jackasses," Mr. Nelson told the "prop" manager. "This is for an Arabian desert scene."

▽

A lady patron attending Mickey Gross' supercolossal program at his Sioux City theatre, saw four "big time" vodvil acts, a four-star feature picture, two comedies and a newsreel. She also ate three cheese sandwiches and drank two cups of coffee in the lobby, parked her car free at a nearby garage, and then walked out complaining bitterly because there had been no Mickey Mouse on the program. Mr. Gross learned later that she had been the non-paying half on a two-for-one ticket.

▽

J. C. Furnas, New York Herald-Tribune journalist, would feel happier if Hollywood producers would cease and desist from filming any more animal pictures. "According to the sprightlier economists," he said, "one of the earliest harbingers of the depression was the great panic at the international animal market in Hamburg, when lions were going at a few dollars apiece and snakes were selling at 50 cents per linear foot. It might be suspected that Hollywood laid in some bargains then and has been cashing in on them ever since. If the suspicion is correct, it is obvious that the investment has not yet been written off."

▽

There's some talk about technocracy staging a comeback. "Then," reports Hal Horne, "they're going to arrange the working hours so that everybody will punch the clock an equal number of hours every day." That'll become awfully monotonous for the clock.

▽

Globe-trotter, lecturer and author E. M. Newman brought back from his eighth trip a pictorial record of the people of the world at work, for release in his Vitaphone series, "World Adventures." Pictorialized are the Icelanders drying miles and miles of codfish; Norwegians weaving rugs; Hollanders making cheese; Italians carving sea-shells into roses; the Bethlehemians making mother-of-pearl rosaries and boxes from shells; Egyptian blacksmiths carving wood; the Hindu laundrymen tearing off shirt buttons; Java's workers withdrawing water from rice. But the record is not complete. There's not a single Irishman making a blackthorn shillalah. We protest.

IN a jerry-built joss house in Mott Street, in the heart of New York's Chinatown, a frail-voiced Chinese girl lectures for "rubbernecks" (sightseers) at a quarter a head. Journalist O. O. McIntyre was down there the other night and heard her explain the process of prayer and some of the tenets of Confucius. After the "spiel" the Chinese girl pilots the customers to a rear exit—it is bad luck to leave through the entrance door—and they grope through a dark, tortuous alley. Mr. McIntyre found it quite scary. Boo!

Stage and screen player Anna May Wong, while in New York recently en route to England from Hollywood, promised to act as Mr. McIntyre's Chinatown cicerone, but they never got around to it. On Miss Wong's occasional visits to New York's Chinatown, it is said that business comes to a full stop in cafes, joss houses and fantan parlors. Mr. McIntyre reports that news of her arrival spreads in that mysterious grapevine fashion so peculiar to the quarter. Everywhere are peering eyes, even to white wives behind shuttered windows. She is their own who has captivated another world.

▽

New Yorker Karl Pachman, having heard that the Nazis will choose the cast for the famous Passion Play at Oberammergau, wants to know what the Hitlerites will do about depicting the character of Christ.

▽

Suggested sign for Hollywood garage, in keeping with President Roosevelt's program: "Free inflation."

▽

Ed Reed, of the Paramount theatre in Providence, has a large bottle of red ink on his desk, with this sign attached: "Film Salesmen, Take Note."

▽

Warners are negotiating with Secretary of the Treasury Woodin for permission to obtain gold coins of all denominations for an exhibition to be held in the lobby of the Hollywood theatre on Broadway, in connection with the premiere of "Gold Diggers of 1933," opening shortly. The captain of the Warner studio guards would be brought to New York to supervise the protection of the display.

▽

Tragedy overtook Harry Volpe, one of the inspired banjo-twanglers of the Radio City musical forces. Mr. Volpe had been commissioned to make a string transcription of a Rachmaninoff prelude. For months he had been working on the score, and, at last, his magnum opus was finished.

Came the morning, recently, when the very young pride and joy of the house of Volpe approached daddy's bedside. "Looka Dada!" said the darling. Clutched in his tiny hand was Mr. Volpe's precious score, torn into many small pieces.

Mr. Volpe might be seen any day now in the music vault at the Music Hall piecing together, with gummed paper, the jig-saw puzzle his son made out of his Rachmaninoff prelude.

▽

Judge Skillman, Detroit, sentencing Arthur Reamer for "Fagin" activities, made the reading of "Oliver Twist" part of the compulsory sentence, and advised the culprit to see Ray (Monogram) Johnston's "Oliver Twist" on the screen as soon as he gets out. Looks like publicity-man Mike Simmons has been traveling in the midwest again.

▽

Says Warners: "The Motion Picture Producers and Distributors of America, also known as the Hays organization in deference to its head, General Will Hays, has put the seal of its approval on 'Elmer the Great.' Their verdict: 'An outstanding farce.'"

AN Adorable WIRE FROM

Harry Arthur starts the ball rolling

BY DIRECT WIRE FROM

WESTERN UNION

NEWCOMB CARLTON, PRESIDENT — J. C. WILLEVER, FIRST VICE-PRESIDENT

CLASS OF SERVICE

This is a full-rate Telegram or Cablegram unless its deferred character is indicated by a suitable sign above or preceding the address.

SIGNS

DL = Day Letter
NM = Night Message
NL = Night Letter
LCO = Deferred Cable
NLT = Cable Night Letter
WLT = Week-End Letter

The filing time as shown in the date line on full-rate telegrams and day letters, and the time of receipt at destination as shown on all messages, is STANDARD TIME.

NU13 114 DL=NEWHAVEN CONN MAY 18 210P

SIDNEY R KENT,
FOX FILM CORPORATION=

"DEAR SIDNEY ADORABLE IS CERTAINLY A MAGNIFICENT PRODUCTION AND CONTAINS EVERYTHING TO MAKE IS SUREFIRE ENTERTAINMENT AND BOX OFFICE SUCCESS STOP IT CERTAINLY IS A WELCOME RELIEF FROM SOME OF THE PICTURES WE HAVE BEEN GETTING LATELY AND I SINCERELY HOPE IT BRINGS TREMENDOUS RETURNS TO YOUR COMPANY STOP HENRY GARAT LOOKS TO ME LIKE A SUREFIRE BOX OFFICE WINNER IT IS A LONG TIME SINCE I HAVE ENJOYED A PERFORMANCE SUCH AS HIS AND HE SEEMS TO POSSESS ALL OF THE ATTRIBUTES FOR A REAL STAR STOP I HOPE YOU HOLD ON TO HIM I WOULD NOT BE A BIT SURPRISED TO SEE HIM A BIG BOX OFFICE FAVORITE OVERNIGHT VERY KIND REGARDS=

-HARRY ARTHUR.

Merrily the FOX May FESTIVAL

A SUCCESSFUL SHOWMAN

JANET GAYNOR
HENRY GARAT
in
Adorable

Story by Paul Frank and Billie Wilder.
Music by Werner Richard Heymann.
Directed by WILHELM DIETERLE.

Adorable notices

One of the best of the Janet Gaynor vehicles. Full of life . . . deserves the success it will achieve.
—Baltimore Post

Adding a little daring and replacing the old wistfulness with a lot of spice . . . Janet Gaynor is prettier and peppier than ever. —N. Y. Daily News

You will be delighted with the young officer—portrayed by Henry Garat. —N. Y. Eve. Telegram

One of the finest pictures in which Janet Gaynor has appeared. You will thoroughly enjoy it.
—Philadelphia News

Janet Gaynor has never seemed so full of life. She is thoroughly vivacious. —Baltimore News

Henry Garat is a newcomer who should attain great popularity. —Syracuse Post-Standard rolls along—hit after hit week after week

MEXICO GOES THE LIMIT TO BACK HOME FILMS

Law Forces Exhibitors to Show at Least Two Reels of Native Product Weekly; Prizes Offered for Best Pictures

by JAMES LOCKHART
Mexico City Correspondent

Acting on the principle that those who help others cannot miss benefiting themselves, two important industrial and commercial organizations and the Mexico City civic government have reached out helping hands to the struggling national motion picture production industry in its uphill fight for recognition before terrific competition from abroad, chiefly the United States. The sixteen producing companies that Mexico now boasts have sold these organizations and the Mexico City authorities on the idea that assistance rendered the native picture-making industry is a boost for all other lines of endeavor in the land.

As was fit and proper, the municipal government sprang to answer the SOS broadcast by the picture makers. It has tossed them two life belts—one in the form of offering semi-annual and yearly prizes for the best pictures made in the country during those periods; the other in the shape of a law forcing all exhibitors in the Federal District, which includes the national capital, to show at least two reels of made-in-Mexico films weekly. The prizes are worth around $150 for the best picture produced in six months, and twice that much for the year's best production.

Handicap in Product Shortage

The prize proposition is a lift, pure and simple. But the forced exhibition measure has encountered several drawbacks. Fearful of fines and the embarrassment they cause, exhibitors have gone to great extremes to comply with the law. Some of them have used almost any old thing to meet the requirement, so long as it was made in Mexico. Dumb shots of landscape, excerpts from silents of the long, long ago, views of presidential inaugurations from news reels that were new once upon a time, and other things have been thrown on the screens here. Many exhibitors have complained to the civic government that this measure is all right in spirit, but in letter it raises the deuce. These exhibitors point out that their audiences razz such stuff, which impairs the prestige of their houses. There are not enough Mexican-made features and shorts to go around just yet for this purpose, the exhibitors argue. The municipal government has announced that it proposes to continue the enforcement of this law, and has assured the exhibitors that better times in this regard are just around the corner as a couple more native newsreel and short subject enterprises have entered the field. These concerns are the Cinemex and the Buen Tono News Reel Company. Both are reportedly working overtime to meet the demand for home productions that the measure has created.

Film critics of Mexico City newspapers are in accord that "Una Vida Por Otra" ("A Life for a Life"), a Mexican underworld drama, and the third production of the National Motion Picture Production Company, should be awarded the civic government's prize. This picture was written and directed by John H. Auer and the camera work was done by Alex Phillips, both of whom have had considerable experience in Hollywood. The picture is easily the best that the company has produced.

Council Takes Action

A plea for practical assistance that was made by this company and the 15 others, has resulted in definite action by the National Organization Council for the Advancement of Industry and Agriculture. These enterprises asked the Council's assistance in their program to turn out all features and shorts that the Mexico market needs. The Council is now busy urging all industries in Mexico and the federal government to get behind this ambitious program. Its argument is that as motion pictures are fine publicity for Mexico, assistance to the national picture making industry will be a big boost for all other lines of endeavor in the country, as the whole world will be advised by the film route as to what this Republic can do and what she has to sell. The Council also has said that what Mexico needs most in the film entertainment line are films that depict the true national spirit and philosophy. Imported pictures, the Council contends, have a baleful influence upon the masses as they get them to thinking along foreign lines, which is a bad thing for nationalistic spirit.

Now comes the Confederation of Mexican Chambers of Commerce, the greatest commercial association organization in Mexico, with the statement that it proposes to do all it can toward helping the national picture making industry. The Confederation points out that this industry has made a definite start along the road to producing films that are really worthwhile. It predicts that the day is not very far distant when native producers will offer productions which will be as good as, and perhaps better than those that come from abroad. The Confederation thinks it is not too much to say that within the next few years made-in-Mexico pictures will be of such quality and abundance that they will dominate this market.

These optimistic opinions were inspired by the great improvement shown in National's third venture. The Confederation deems this production vastly superior in plot, direction, acting, technique, etc., to the company's two other productions, "Santa" ("Saintess") and "Aguilas Frente al Sol" ("Eagles Before the Sun"). The Confederation considers that "A Life for a Life" is much better than most Spanish language talkers produced by foreign companies. The Confederation is urging its members to help along the national motion picture production industry by giving preference to those cinemas which exhibit made-in-Mexico pictures.

Columbia Plans British Selling

Columbia will establish its own distributing organization in England, starting with its 1933-34 product. The deal whereby United Artists handled this, the most important branch of foreign distribution for Columbia, will automatically be terminated.

Harry Cohn, together with Lewis Milestone and Laurence Stallings, sails for England this week and, during his stay in that country, will set up a new British organization.

Meyer Urges "Buy American" As Matter of Common Sense

Declaring Hollywood the new fashion center of the world, and pointing to the definite superiority of American producers in the field of motion picture production, Fred S. Meyer, president of the MPTO of Wisconsin and Upper Michigan, urged that Americans "buy American" not through patriotism but because of superior product, in a recent radio address over Station WISN, Milwaukee.

Mr. Meyer decried the fact that the American public permitted itself "to think in terms of foreign superiority. . . . The world has granted to America the leadership of the motion picture industry and its adjuncts, not through brotherly love, but because America has proven its leadership. It is a matter of common sense (to buy American) because America produces more excellent things," Mr. Meyer said in part.

A. P. Giannini Honored at Luncheon in New York

A. P. Giannini, a ranking executive of the Bank of America, was guest at a luncheon tendered him last week by Joseph M. Schenck at the Biltmore Hotel, New York, at which many industry executives attended.

Among those present were M. H. Aylesworth, Joseph Bernhard, David Bernstein, Edward Bowes, Harry D. Buckley, R. H. Cochrane, Harold B. Franklin, Isadore Frey, Leopold Friedman, Will H. Hays, Arthur W. Kelly, S. R. Kent, Al Lichtman, David Loew, Charles C. and Joseph H. Moskowitz, Bertram S. Nayfack, Dennis F. O'Brien, William P. Philips, J. Robert Rubin, Nicholas M. Schenck, E. A. Schiller, Spyros Skouras, Louis K. Sidney, Joseph R. Vogel, Harry M. Warner and Adolph Zukor.

Kansas Insurance Limited To Value of Property

Fire insurance coverage in Kansas is limited to the value of the property, under a ruling ordered into effect by the Kansas Inspection Bureau and mandatory on all agents and insurance companies in the state. The order was made to stop over-insurance.

Zanesville Gets Five Houses

Zanesville Theatres, Inc., incorporated a few weeks ago in the Ohio town, began operation last week of five Zanesville theatres: the Grand. Imperial, Liberty, Quimby and Weller. F. N. Ransbottom and Caldwell J. Brown head the company, which is virtually a reorganization of the Brown Theatrical Company, which recently went into receivership.

WHAT THE PICTURE DID FOR ME

IN this, the exhibitor's own department, the theatremen of the nation serve one another with information on the box office performance of product for their mutual benefit. It is a service of the exhibitor for the exhibitor. Address all communications to—

What the Picture Did for Me
MOTION PICTURE HERALD
1790 Broadway, New York

Allied

THE BOILING POINT: Hoot Gibson—A very good western, but rather "phony" sound. We had a hard time putting this one over, but due to lots of kids who like Hoot, we had a good show. Played May 5-6. —Amuzu Theatre, Inman, S. C. General patronage.

GAY BUCKAROO: Wayne Gibson—Poorest of the five Gibsons I have run. Too much cheap gambling. Will get by, however, with the horse fans. Sound was excellent. Allied has given me better sound than any other producer.—L. V. Bergtold, Opera House, Kasson, Minn. General patronage.

Columbia

AIR HOSTESS: Evalyn Knapp—A "freak" draw of the box office. They came out of nowhere, without extra advertising, and repeated the second night. Just one of those unexplainable things in show business, but rather pleasantly unexplainable.—Myron Sheldon, State Theatre, Ipswich, S. D. General patronage.

AIR HOSTESS: Evalyn Knapp, James Murray, Thelma Todd—Believe it or not this comes close to our attendance record for the season, and others have reported the same kind of draw. A little better than average air picture that gets them in from somewhere. True Story Magazine story probably the reason.—Rolly Matson, Crystal Theatre, Flandreau, S. D. General patronage.

AS THE DEVIL COMMANDS: Alan Dinehart, Neil Hamilton, Mae Clarke—A mystery type that is better done than the average, and good all around entertainment.—Myron Sheldon, State Theatre, Ipswich, S. D. General patronage.

THE BITTER TEA OF GENERAL YEN: Barbara Stanwyck—About the usual Far East stories. Nearly everyone killed. Didn't please here.—Robert K. Yancey, Paradise Theatre, Cotter, Ark. Railroad and general patronage.

THE BITTER TEA OF GENERAL YEN: Barbara Stanwyck, Nils Asther—Like all of Capra pictures this has fine direction, action and characterization. Asther does one of the best jobs of the year. A high class picture with a novel title, that will please.—Myron Sheldon, State Theatre, Ipswich, S. D. General patronage.

THE BITTER TEA OF GENERAL YEN: Barbara Stanwyck—An excellent picture that did better than average business. Just two criticisms: it didn't help the picture or Stanwyck's audience appeal to have her strip off her clothes and take a bath in front of the camera; also, a repressed New England lady missionary wouldn't smoke cigarettes even if she had spent a week in China. Played May 5-6.—Roy W. Adams, Mason Theatre, Mason, Mich. Small town patronage.

THE BLONDE CAPTIVE: Native Cast—Ran as second feature with "Lawyer Man." Apparently has no box office appeal. It's really just a travelogue. Played Apr. 27-28-29.—C. C. Griffin, New Piedmont Theatre, Oakland, Cal. Neighborhood patronage.

BY WHOSE HAND: Ben Lyons—Not much in the name, but plenty in the picture. Action all takes place on train. Enough mystery, action and suspense to keep everyone on edge of seats from start to finish. Bound to please all who enjoy mystery stories. Played Mar. 29-30.—W. J. Carter, Maxine Theatre, Croswell, Mich. Small town patronage.

CHILD OF MANHATTAN: John Boles, Nancy Carroll—Just the type small towns eat up. Boles has another role like his in "Back Street" which was plenty good. Well-produced show that pleased 100% —Myron Sheldon, State Theatre, Ipswich, S. D. General patronage.

DEADLINE: Buck Jones—Picture satisfactory for family. Business 90%.—Harry Waldron, Blue Moon Theatre, Oklahoma City, Okla. General patronage.

DECEPTION: Leo Carrillo—The young wrestler is the star in this and it is a good picture for the sport fans. Badly titled as the name is deceptive and for that reason is hard to get them in, but it will please most everyone. Played May 5. Running time, 67 minutes.—E. N. Collins, Star Theatre, Humble, Tex. General patronage.

DIRIGIBLE: Jack Holt, Ralph Graves—Ancient, but pleased. Business 100% on Sunday, Monday and Tuesday.—Harry Waldron, Blue Moon Theatre, Oklahoma City, Okla. General patronage.

HELLO TROUBLE: Buck Jones—It was "Hello everybody," for they all came. This is the best western from Buck Jones to date. Plenty of action, good story, good sound. Pleased everyone. Don't know what we will do when they stop making westerns. They are our meat in the small town. All the children come out and when playing westerns you can be sure that it will not be necessary to hide when the folks go out. Played Apr. 11-12.—W. J. Carter, Maxine Theatre, Croswell, Mich. Small town patronage.

MAN AGAINST WOMAN: Jack Holt—And a new leading lady to us that should be a star in her own right. In our opinion a new edition of the "Last Parade" and as good, which is saying considerable for the show. Holt is the most consistent star on the list in our opinion.—Myron Sheldon, State Theatre, Ipswich, S. D. General patronage.

THE MENACE: H. B. Warner, Bette Davis—Another good mystery picture that keeps them guessing to the end. We played it a little old but it pleased 100%. Played Apr. 4-5.—W. J. Carter, Maxine Theatre, Croswell, Mich. Small town patronage.

NO MORE ORCHIDS: Carole Lombard, Lyle Talbot—A class show, which we wish had been sold more on the fashion angle. A fashion show once in a while is a great boost, and this picture fits this idea perfectly. Walter Connelly is a comer as a character man.—Rolly Matson, Crystal Theatre, Flandrequ, S. D. General patronage.

OBEY THE LAW: Leo Carrillo—Good program picture that does not seem to have much draw.—E. N. Collins, Star Theatre, Humble, Texas. General patronage.

SO THIS IS AFRICA: Bert Wheeler, Robert Woolsey—My patrons enjoyed it thoroughly. This team is more of a favorite with male audiences. A good drawing card. Played Apr. 14-15.—Charles Born, Elks Theatre, Prescott, Arizona. General patronage.

SO THIS IS AFRICA: Bert Wheeler, Robert Woolsey—Had several advance reports against this show, mostly from competing salesman, so drove to Aberdeen to see it. We are going to play it and expect to do business. After all we hope to entertain. Let the schools educate, and the churches reform. Ours is the field of amusement.—Myron Sheldon, State Theatre, Ipswich, S. D. General patronage.

SO THIS IS AFRICA: Bert Wheeler, Robert Woolsey—It surely sounds good to hear them roar and to have a house full to do it. While rather warm in spots, we had no complaints that really mattered, and the box office naturals are scarce enough now-a-days, so play the show, and catch up on your back rent.—Rolly Matson, Crystal Theatre, Flandreau, S. D. General patronage.

SO THIS IS AFRICA: Wheeler and Woolsey—Brother exhibitors, grab this picture quick and make yourself some dough. Had to put chairs in the aisle, and stood them up in the back both nights. This picture ranks second for my house record. I spent no extra money for advertising, and paid minimum prices for it, no split. Thanks, Columbia. If the remainder of your pictures on the block are as good as they have been, you can use the slogan: "The Leader of the Industry." Since the bank holiday my business has been terrible. Last week Columbia's "When Strangers Marry" pulled me out to where I showed a nice profit for the week. This week "So This Is Africa" has made this the second best week I have ever had. Only one picture so far of Columbia that didn't please but about 50%. "So This Is Africa" is a little too hot. Nevertheless, I warned them in my advertising. I think this is one reason it drew so well, but don't worry, they'll go out with a broad smile. This is the best Wheeler-Woolsey I've run. Hurray for Old Lady Liberty.—Robert K. Yancey, Paradise Theatre, Cotter, Ark. Railroad and general patronage.

STATE TROOPER: Regis Toomey, Evalyn Knapp—Good action picture.—C. M. Hartman, Liberty Theatre, Carnegie, Okla. Small town patronage.

STATE TROOPER: Regis Toomey, Evalyn Knapp—These melodramas are in my opinion setting the pace for a new type of film, probably replacing the vogue for westerns. As they have the same appeal to action fans, plus a woman angle, no doubt we will see a lot more of this type of picture. Well made, and a credit to any program.—Rolly Matson, Crystal Theatre, Flandreau, S. D. General patronage.

WAR CORRESPONDENT: Jack Holt, Ralph Graves—Played this one a little old. Mighty fine action. Picture that will please the Saturday crowds. Played Mar. 25-26.—W. J. Carter, Maxine Theatre, Croswell, Mich. Small town patronage.

WASHINGTON MERRY GO ROUND: Lee Tracy —Another good Columbia picture that drew well and pleased 100%. Played May 9-10.—Roy W. Adams, Mason Theatre, Mason, Mich. Small town patronage.

WASHINGTON MERRY GO ROUND: Lee Tracy —Good enough to play a repeat engagement, the first we have played in years. Still timely and hot. A great show both before and after you play it.—Rolly Matson, Crystal Theatre, Flandreau, S. D. General patronage.

WHEN STRANGERS MARRY: Jack Holt, Lillian Bond—Here's a dandy little show. Drew far above average at box office. Everyone pleased. This is kind of title that will draw. It aroused plenty of curiosity.—Robert K. Yancey, Paradise Theatre, Cotter, Ark.—Railroad and general patronage.

WHEN STRANGERS MARRY: Jack Holt—A nice programme picture. Nothing big but outgrossed Fox's Cavalcade which played one week prior to this on the same day. Played May 7.—E. N. Collins, Star Theatre, Humble, Tex. General patronage.

First National

CABIN IN THE COTTON: Richard Barthelmess. We had read many adverse criticisms on this one and were agreeably surprised when our audience enjoyed it. Second night better than first. Good for box office anywhere. Played Mar. 7-8.—W. J. Carter, Maxine Theatre, Croswell, Mich. Small town patronage.

CABIN IN THE COTTON: Richard Barthelmess—Drew on Sunday, Monday and Tuesday, and pleased. Business 110%.—Harry Waldron, Blue Moon Theatre, Oklahoma City, Okla. General patronage.

ELMER, THE GREAT: Joe E. Brown—Here's a picture you will do extra business with or I am greatly mistaken. I consider it Brown's best picture, and know everyone enjoyed it. Held up exceedingly well the second night, which is very unusual for any picture at the present time. Played May 8-9. Running time, 72 minutes. —R. W. Hickman, Lyric Theatre, Greenville, Ill. General patronage.

THE MIND READER: Warren William—Just a fair picture. It fails to reach being real good, and likewise bad. It will make a fair program picture. It offers an expose of mind readers.—L. A. Mercier, Electric Theatre, Perryville, Mo. General patronage.

20,000 YEARS IN SING SING: Spencer Tracy—Here is a big league outstanding picture with considerable drawing power. In my opinion it is as good as any of the prison dramas shown so far. Can be shown any day of the week. The sad ending is handled so nicely that it does not injure the picture. It gives it a quality of self sacrifice that adds to the picture's bigness. Drew better than average.—J. E. Stocker, Myrtle Theatre, Detroit, Mich. General patronage.

YOU SAID A MOUTHFUL: Joe E. Brown—Here is entertainment for the entire family. It sure made them laugh, and when our audience laughs the picture must be good. Give us more like this one and we won't care what the critics say. Played Mar. 14-15.—W. J. Carter, Maxine Theatre, Croswell, Mich. Small town patronage.

Fox

BONDAGE: Dorothy Jordan—Just about as poor as they make them. When Fox makes them poor, they are poor all the way through. Impossible to do any business on pictures of this type. Played May 3. Running time, 63 minutes.—R. W. Hickman, Lyric Theatre, Greenville, Ill. General patronage.

BONDAGE: Dorothy Jordan, Alexander Kirkland—Here's one you can hide on when patrons come out. If you don't, I'd be sorry for you. Better pay for it and not play it. Played May 9-10.—D. E. Fitton, Lyric Theatre, Harrison, Ark. Small town patronage.

CALL HER SAVAGE: Clara Bow—Good picture. Glad to see Clara is back. Did fair business on this one and it pleased generally. Played Apr. 8-9.—W. J. Carter, Maxine Theatre, Croswell, Mich. Small town patronage.

DANGEROUSLY YOURS: Warner Baxter—Not up to what one would expect from Baxter. Almost another case of waste of film, which is getting to be

MAKE "WHOOPEE"

No picture ever grossed more! N picture ever broke so many record
No picture ever made more fo
the Exhibitors of the World

RE-PLAY Eddie

Exactly as originally produced by SAMUEL GOLDWYN
and FLORENZ ZIEGFELD

100%
TECHNICOLOR

NOW BOOKING AT UNITED

do it all over again!

CASH IN on the vast new audience created by Cantor on the air—the 40,000,000 people who follow his coast-to-coast broadcasts!

CASH IN on the current craze for musicals with this, the greatest money-making musical ever made!

CASH IN on the gorgeous color of this production—THE only 100% all-technicolor musical on the market today.

CANTOR in "WHOOPEE"

CASH IN on the millions of additional movie fans created by Cantor's two recent smashes, "PALMY DAYS" and "THE KID FROM SPAIN"

ARTISTS EXCHANGES

an epidemic with Fox. This Baxter. Played Apr. 25. —Joe Hewitt, Lincoln Theatre, Robinson, Ill. Mixed patronage.

DANGEROUSLY YOURS: Warner Baxter—Fair picture, but did not click for me. Played May 2-3.—C. C. Griffin, New Piedmont Theatre, Oakland, Cal. Neighborhood patronage.

HELLO SISTER: James Dunn, Boots Mallory—Just another picture. Would say it pleased about half of our crowd. When I say pleased I mean partially pleased. Why they have to bring in childbirth is more than we can figure in this picture. It actually spoils it when there is no need to bring it in.—L. A. Mercier, Electric Theatre, Perryville, Mo. General patronage.

HOT PEPPER: Edmund Lowe, Victor McLaglen—Quirt and Flagg, as the hard-boiled, wise-cracking marines in an action comedy which offers more screen entertainment than the ordinary sex drama. Played Apr. 25-26.—Charles Born, Elks Theatre, Prescott, Ariz. General patronage.

POCATELLO KID: Ken Maynard—Good Friday and Saturday type. Business 100%.—Harry Waldron, Blue Moon Theatre, Oklahoma City, Okla. General patronage.

REBECCA OF SUNNY BROOK FARM: Marion Nixon—Used this rather old picture for my Easter attraction and it grabbed first place for 1933 in gross and net both. This is type of picture that we should have a lot more of. Come on, producers, let's glorify the small towners and agriculturist in film.—L. V. Bergtold, Opera House, Kasson, Minn. General patronage.

SHE WANTED A MILLIONAIRE: Joan Bennett, Spencer Tracy—Ancient, but seemed to satisfy most of bargain night crowd. Business 80%.—Harry Waldron, Blue Moon Theatre, Oklahoma City, Okla. General patronage.

STATE FAIR: Will Rogers, Janet Gaynor—Of course it's a 100% audience picture, for it contains sufficient story substance to permit a large number of characters to carry on to a given climax. All screen successes have been of that type. We are getting too many single-track stories in pictures. Give them all a human interest part and we will get along with less prisons, hospitals and childbirth in pictures. Played Apr. 2-4.—Charles Born, Elks Theatre, Prescott, Ariz. General patronage.

STATE FAIR: Will Rogers, Janet Gaynor—Pleased 100% and is the only picture from Fox this season that made some profit. Good for any day of the week. Played May 2-4. Running time, 100 minutes.—A. I. Latts, Royal Theatre, Ashland, Wis. General patronage.

STATE FAIR: Will Rogers, Janet Gaynor—Plenty good, especially for small towns. Will stand all you can give it.—C. M. Hartman, Liberty Theatre, Carnegie, Okla. Small town patronage.

STATE FAIR: Will Rogers, Janet Gaynor—Good picture well liked by old and young alike. Drew fairly well at box office. Played May 10-13.—C. C. Griffin, New Piedmont Theatre, Oakland, Cal. Neighborhood patronage.

TOO BUSY TO WORK: Will Rogers—Excellent picture and good entertainment. A good drawing card. A well known quality in Will Rogers' pictures —human interest stories—places him first on the list in star values. Played Feb. 5-7.—Charles Born, Elks Theatre, Prescott, Ariz. General patronage.

MGM

CLEAR ALL WIRES: Lee Tracy—No excuse for it. Tracy good, if you enjoy ranting and being talked to death. Played Mar. 12-13.—Charles Born, Elks Theatre, Prescott, Arizona. General patronage.

CLEAR ALL WIRES: Lee Tracy—All Tracy needs is a few more like this one and he will be through. About the only way to describe this picture is that it is no good.—L. A. Mercier, Electric Theatre, Perryville, Mo. Small town patronage.

CLEAR ALL WIRES: Lee Tracy—Fair picture to extra poor business.—C. M. Hartman, Carnegie, Okla. Small town patronage.

CLEAR ALL WIRES: Lee Tracy—About the usual Metro picture from them on the new block. Haven't had but two good pictures on this year's block. With the exception of these two Metro pictures, have failed to draw average business, and I paid more this year than last.—Robert K. Yancey, Paradise Theatre, Cotter, Ark. Railroad and general patronage.

CLEAR ALL WIRES: Lee Tracy—Just another MGM flop; should have been titled "Clear All Aisles" for the walkouts. If they give Tracy another like this, he's through, and so is the exhibitor. Played May 14-15.—Cle Bratton, Stella Theatre, Council Grove, Kan. General patronage.

DOWNSTAIRS: John Gilbert—Picture just gets by. Few complaints and few compliments. Business 80% on bargain night.—Harry Waldron, Blue Moon Theatre, Oklahoma City, Okla. General patronage.

FACE IN THE SKY: Spencer Tracy, Marion Nixon—One of the best pictures we have played. Full of comedy from beginning to end with Erwin stealing the show. Get behind this one with everything you've got and watch the box office grin. Played May 9.—Cle Bratton, Stella Theatre, Council Grove, Kan. General patronage.

FAST WORKERS: John Gilbert, Robert Armstrong—Nothing to it. You better pay for it and not run it. Would like to hear from other exhibitors, I may be wrong, but that's the way I feel about it. Played May 6.—D. E. Fitton, Lyric Theatre, Harrison, Ark. Small town patronage.

FAST WORKERS: John Gilbert—Fair. Gilbert lost his drawing power here. Played May 12-13. Running time, 66 minutes.—J. E. Tunstall, Nottawa Theatre, Blackstone, Va. Small town patronage.

GABRIEL OVER THE WHITE HOUSE: Walter Huston—Splendid pictures, entertaining and timely. Well liked and applauded by those who attended. Only fair in drawing power, perhaps title did not appeal. Played May 7-8.—Charles Born, Elks Theatre, Prescott, Ariz. General patronage.

GABRIEL OVER THE WHITE HOUSE: Walter Huston—Man, what a picture. Caused more talk than any picture in moons. Business built up each of the three days. Took in more money on first night than on "Rasputin and the Empress" in three.—C. M. Hartman, Liberty Theatre, Carnegie, Okla. Small town patronage.

LOOKING FORWARD: Lionel Barrymore, Lewis Stone—Very little entertainment. Business less than half of an average three-day showing. Would advise cutting playing time on this one. Played May 9-11. Running time, 80 minutes.—A. I. Latts, Royal Theatre, Ashland, Wis. General patronage.

MEN MUST FIGHT: Phillips Holmes, Diana Wynyard—Absolutely nothing to it. Failed to get film rental on Sunday afternoon and night showing. There is no depression in the show business, just a difference in good and bad pictures. Friday and Saturday I played "So This Is Africa" and turned them away both nights with a school play for competition, making me the second best week in 18 months. In fact, it only lacked a few dollars in getting my house record. Now I play this one and can't get film rental. I paid more for this one than "So This Is Africa." At one time I thought I was a good buyer, but since I've bought Metro and RKO I've decided there never was a worse one than myself. Imagine trying to make a living with Metro and RKO pictures this year. Six or eight will catch all the good pictures I've got from both companies together on the 1932-33 block.—Robert K. Yancey, Paradise Theatre, Cotter, Ark. Railroad and general patronage.

RASPUTIN AND THE EMPRESS: Ethel, John, Lionel Barrymore—A wonderful production and drew the better class of people that only go to see the most outstanding specials. Business better than average. Played Apr. 18-20. Running time, 120 minutes.—A. I. Latts, Royal Theatre, Ashland, Wis. General patronage.

RASPUTIN AND THE EMPRESS: Ethel, John and John Barrymore—This is a wonderful picture. We did average business. Don't know whether this is a small town picture or not. We were surprised at the results. Played May 5-6. Running time, 126 minutes.—J. E. Tunstall, Nottawa Theatre, Blackstone, Va. Small town patronage.

RASPUTIN AND THE EMPRESS: Ethel, John, Lionel Barrymore—A wonderful picture and wonderful acting. Those that know what they are going to see will call it "wonderful," others won't care for it. We had a good many leave on it and did not do much business. Played May 4-5.—D. E. Fitton, Lyric Theatre, Harrison, Ark. Small town patronage.

SECRET OF MADAME BLANCHE: Irene Dunne —Picture was a box-office flop and the running time was far too long. Those who do not run it will come out on top; as for me, I am glad it's long gone. Played May 2.—Cle Bratton, Stella Theatre, Council Grove, Kan. General patronage.

SKYSCRAPER SOULS: Warren William—Pretty good picture, but poor title. Business 55% on bargain nights. Rain first night.—Harry Waldron, Blue Moon Theatre, Oklahoma City, Okla. General patronage.

STRANGE INTERLUDE: Norma Shearer, Clark Gable—Not the kind that assembles in New York to see a Eugene O'Neill play, but the most heterogeneous crowd that assembles in a semi-provincial, semi-cosmopolitan place like Metropolis on a family night. By some fatuity of the booker, the family night had been dated for this select production, therefore it was a well-filled house with many children. For two weeks there had been a notice on the screen of the innovation of Metro-Goldwyn, that in this play an invisible speaker would deliver the "innermost thoughts" of so much that was expected of the action from this stroke of genius. Just why the "innermost thoughts" could not be delivered as an aside on the screen as in a stage play by the actor, I am unable to explain. But what the innovation seemed to be was this: An actor facing the audience while the prompter behind the screen delivered the aside. But as to the audience, the play had barely begun when there was a misplaced titter of merriment, remindful of the early days of sound on record when the needle would jump the record and the players would have to go through the balance of the reel without talk, but the moving lips, to the intense merriment of ill-mannered people who would rather see things go wrong than right. The effect was most ludicrous during the long monologue of Charles Marsden in the library scene. And now broke out a theatre phenomenon which grew to such proportions as had not been seen in this theatre before: first a titter, next a laugh, then a loud guffaw, next by some kind of crowd contagion, the merriment, at sight of the speechless actor increased to such hilarity as to become boisterous, only to be followed by a demonstration so riotous as to fill timid people with a vague fear that something was about to happen. When at the end of the monologue all became quiet again. During the evening this disturbance became less until the end, when Mr. O'Neill's new clientele seemed to "catch on." "Dear old Charley," said one, "what's the matter with him?" "Got the bellyache," said another. "Must have swallowed the film," added a third. "Reely," put in one wisecracker. And there were other remarks altogether too pointed for publication, except the one an old guy asked of his wife about the actors, "What are they doing?" "Doing the same as you," she snapped, "talking to themselves." As for this stroke of genius of Metro-Goldwyn, I consider it a clumsy expedient and would express the hope that it will not be followed up were it not for the feeling of assurance that there is no danger of any such innovation. Second night an average house of more select people with a minimum of disturbance. Otherwise a famous presentation. It paid here. Played May 10-11.—A. J. Gibbons, Illinois Theatre, Metropolis, Ill. General patronage.

THE WHITE SISTER: Helen Hayes, Clark Gable —This is a splendid picture. It drew extra business in middle of week. Hayes gives a fine performance. Gable is very good. It is very well directed and the photography is good. If you happen to have a Catholic community, go after it in a big way. However, the picture will please in any section. It is a beautiful story, well played. It certainly clicked for us. Running time, 100 minutes.—L. A. Mercier, Electric Theatre, Perryville, Mo. Small town patronage.

THE WHITE SISTER: Helen Hayes, Clark Gable —Far superior to the old silent "White Sister." Hayes far excels in her role. Direction perfect, but again as in case for remakes of former big hits, this does not click like the old one. Very few do! Metro, director and stars all deserve the highest praise for giving a great picture. Played Apr. 23-24. Running time, 110 minutes.—Joe Hewitt, Lincoln Theatre, Robinson, Ill. Mixed patronage.

THE WHITE SISTER: Helen Hayes, Clark Gable —Atta boy, Leo. This is one of the extra good ones that you have been holding up your sleeve. When the final checkup is made, "The White Sister" will rank well up among the ten best pictures of the year. Story, directing and acting just about perfect. Business not so good. Played May 4-5. Running time, 105 minutes.—R. W. Hickman, Lyric Theatre, Greenville, Ill. General patronage.

THE WHITE SISTER: Helen Hayes, Clark Gable —An excellent production. Fine cast and good performances. A good drawing card, especially with feminine patrons. Played Apr. 30-May 1.—Charles Born, Elks Theatre, Prescott, Arizona. General patronage.

Monogram

OLIVER TWIST: Dickie Moore, Bill Boyd—What was proclaimed as the greatest achievement in juvenile talking history, as the great heart-warmer of the country, filled with emotion and inspiration appealing to human interest, went to the contrary as the greatest disappointment ever recorded by exhibitors of this part of the country over an extended period of time. Dickie Moore as Oliver Twist is much too early in years to portray the characterization to perfection and receives little opportunity to display his juvenile process, appearing in only a minor portion of the production. Bill Boyd, Irving Pichel and Doris Lloyd portray the characters of "Billy Sykes," "Fagan" and "Nancy Sykes," respectively, receive only a short range over which to reproduce their histrionic abilities, which resulted in an extremely immovable photoplay that when fully progressed tends to produce an atmosphere of boredom that is not at all appealing to the exhibitor during the procedure. How this picture was regarded as a special production will remain a mystery to which an increase in price is the only possible solution. Our highly honored censor board must have taken a generous portion of the second reel, which added to our discomfiture. Only about 300 ft. remained and the part censored no doubt is an omission of an inspiring sequence of the film. Only excessive advertising and campaigning on the part of Monogram executives combined with the public's knowledge of the well known classic was responsible for its being partially successful, but when previewed the audience expressed their disappointment and that their expectation was only partly fulfilled. Heaven help exhibitors if special releases like this abound in the film curb of our present day. Thus far only a few releases from this concern have appeared satisfactory enough to assure a public showing which would rate as a popular vehicle. First screening marked its quality as not suitable for this territory. This feature is only capable of a limited engagement. Played May 7-10. Running time, 72 minutes.—William Dabb, Lyric Theatre, Shenandoah, Pa. Small town patronage.

PHANTOM BROADCAST: Ralph Forbes, Viviene Osborne—Here is a sweet little picture. If we could get pictures as good as this all the time our worries would be over. Pleased ten times better than "Cavalcade" and took in about as much money. Played May 3. Running time, 68 minutes.—E. N. Collins, Star Theatre, Humble, Tex. General patronage.

SELF DEFENSE: Pauline Frederick—Barbara Kent stole the picture, at least that is what our patrons thought. The film appeared to be somewhat worn, but sound fair. Makes a fairly good feature program.—Amuzu Theatre, Inman, S. C. General patronage.

Paramount

THE BIG BROADCAST: Stuart Erwin, Leila Hyams—Was rather disappointed in the business, as I expected to pay up a lot of bills from the profits. Gross was slightly above average but rental was a lot above average so we will have to stall our creditors until we get another "Rebecca." Picture went

On April 8th we told you THIS

It still holds good TODAY

REPEAT SHOWINGS

Des Moines Picks Up

Des Moines, May 18—"State Fair," written by Phil Stong, Iowan, and filmed partly in Iowa, did $5,000 in a week at the Palace on a return engagement. The film several weeks ago broke all records for the year at the Paramount.

M. P. DAILY, MAY 18

...ade. For you just can't squeeze this one dry.

STATE FAIR

Date it in again for extra profits

One of the FOX CAVALCADE OF HITS

over satisfactorily, several favorable comments and no knocks.—L. V. Bergtold, Opera House Theatre, Kasson, Minn. General small town patronage.

EVENINGS FOR SALE: Sari Maritza, Herbert Marshall—Here is a honey. And if I may say so, Maritza is the sweetest thing by far that has appeared on any screen in any age, and besides all that she has and displays plenty of talent. To be sure, Marshall is the best leading man of the screen. Thus, coupled up with a host of excellent players and a creditable story, you have in "Evenings for Sale," an extraordinary offering.—W. H. Brenner, Cozy Theatre, Winchester, Ind. General patronage.

A FAREWELL TO ARMS: Gary Cooper, Helen Hayes—Another effort gone wrong. Paramount again spoils its record and tries to capitalize on sex. No business and bad comments.—R. C. Metzger, Ritz Theatre, Winner, S. D. General patronage.

HELLO EVERYBODY: Kate Smith—A box office headache. Don't get excited about it. Played Apr. 30-May 1.—C. C. Griffin, New Piedmont Theatre, Oakland, Cal. Neighborhood patronage.

HELLO, EVERYBODY: Kate Smith—The highbrows and sophisticates may not be pleased with this, but the masses and mainstays of the movies should enjoy this. Anyway, our patrons seemed to like this very much. Smith is liberal with her songs, and as many millions can testify from the radio that Smith can sing in a manner to please the masses. Drawing power above average.—J. E. Stocker, Myrtle Theatre, Detroit, Mich. General patronage.

LADY AND GENT: George Bancroft—Gave this a repeat booking and actually did more than I did the week before with "Madison Square Garden." And this in spite of extremely bad weather conditions. Certainly a fine show. L. V. Bergtold, Opera House, Kasson, Minn. General patronage.

LUXURY LINER: George Brent, Zita Johann—Good program picture.—R. C. Metzger, Ritz Theatre, Winner, S. D. General patronage.

MADISON SQUARE GARDEN: Jack Oakie—Used this on bargain night and it proved a darned poor bargain for me, poorest midweek business we ever had even though weather conditions were ideal for good show patronage. Comments were divided. O.K. for those that like fight pictures.—L. V. Bergtold, Opera House, Kasson, Minn. General patronage.

MAKE ME A STAR: Stuart Erwin—They like Joan Blondell and Erwin, and I also booked in Columbia Screen Snapshots No. 3 with the Hoot Gibson rodeo. I gave the feature and the short equal amount of space in advertising. Believe Hoot Gibson drew them in and "Make Me a Star" kept them there to praise. Audience went out happy. Business 105% on Friday and Saturday.—Harry Waldron, Blue Moon Theatre, Oklahoma City, Okla. General patronage.

MILLION DOLLAR LEGS: Jack Oakie—Title good, and picture good for all who can laugh at darn foolishness (I did). Business 100% on Sunday, Monday and Tuesday.—Harry Waldron, Blue Moon Theatre, Oklahoma City, Okla. General patronage.

PERSONAL MAID: Nancy Carroll—Old picture that pleased on bargain nights. 90% business.—Harry Waldron, Blue Moon Theatre, Oklahoma City, Okla. General patronage.

SHE DONE HIM WRONG: Mae West—Just one of those sleepers that got plenty. I am bringing it back for another two-day run. Played Apr. 15-16.—C. C. Griffin, New Piedmont Theatre, Oakland, Cal. Neighborhood patronage.

SHE DONE HIM WRONG: Mae West—First rate. They all enjoyed it thoroughly, especially the old timers. If you have anyone who can equal the star's performance in this, just trot them out. Played Mar. 5-6.—Charles Born, Elks Theatre, Prescott, Ariz. General patronage.

SIGN OF THE CROSS: Fredric March—A massive spectacle elaborately produced, but missing in appeal of any kind. Played Apr. 9-11.—Charles Born, Elks Theatre, Prescott, Ariz. General patronage.

TONIGHT IS OURS: Frederic March, Claudette Colbert—This picture seemed to suit majority. Did average business. Played May 8-9. Running time, 76 minutes.—J. E. Tunstall, Nottawa Theatre, Blackstone, Va. Small town patronage.

WILD HORSE MESA: Randolph Scott—Average Zane Grey that drew slightly above average bargain night business. Westerns are still my best bet for the "two for a quarter night." L. V. Bergtold, Opera House, Kasson, Minn. General patronage.

WILD HORSE MESA: All star—A Zane Grey story, and a good one. Well produced and well liked by my patrons. It was good for average business last half of the week.—W. H. Brenner, Cozy Theatre, Winchester, Ind. General patronage.

RKO

ANIMAL KINGDOM: Ann Harding—Good of its kind, but of slight entertainment merit to the average audience. The star deserves better vehicles. Played Apr. 24-25.—Charles Born, Elks Theatre, Prescott, Ariz. General patronage.

ANIMAL KINGDOM: Leslie Howard, Ann Harding—This might have been a big hit in New York, but it certainly won't please anyone in the tank towns. Very little entertainment.—Robert K. Yancey, Paradise Theatre, Cotter, Ark. Railroad and general patronage.

ANIMAL KINGDOM: Leslie Howard, Ann Harding—Even the highbrows will have to do some close watching to know what it's all about.—R. C. Metzger, Ritz Theatre, Winner, S. D. General patronage.

BILL OF DIVORCEMENT: John Barrymore, Billie Burke—Good picture, will please any audience. Some mighty fine acting by Katharine Hepburn, the new star. Played Mar. 21-22.—W. J. Carter, Maxine Theatre, Croswell, Mich. Small town patronage.

BRING 'EM BACK ALIVE: (Taken by Frank Buck)—RKO brought it back alive, but it should have been killed. A big box office flop. Didn't take in enough to pay for the picture. Oversold on this one aplenty. Too much snake caused walkouts. Should have been named "Drunkard's Nightmare." Played Mar. 11-12.—W. J. Carter, Maxine Theatre, Croswell, Mich. Small town patronage.

CHEYENNE KID: Tom Keene—A crackerjack western. Keene is good and Roscoe Ates adds the right amount of humor. It will please the kids and the western fans. Some talk about cutting down on the westerns. A lot of them should be cut down, but good westerns are what keeps the little fellow in biz. —E. N. Collins, Star Theatre, Humble, Tex. General patronage.

CHRISTOPHER STRONG: Katharine Hepburn—An excellent production. A love triangle dominated by the excellent work and personality of the star. Mediocre drawing card. Played May 9-10.—Charles Born, Elks Theatre, Prescott, Ariz. General patronage.

THE CONQUERORS: Richard Dix, Ann Harding —A fine production to terrible business. Did 50% more advertising, paid 50% more for show and did nearly 50% less than average even though I played it an extra night. Just one of those things you can't account for.—L. V. Bergtold, Opera House, Kasson, Minn. General patronage.

THE CONQUERORS: Ann Harding, Richard Dix —Good picture and good entertainment. This should have been made a big special, but it fell short of it for several reasons. Played May 7-8.—D. E. Fitton, Lyric Theatre, Harrison, Ark. Small town patronage.

HOLD 'EM JAIL: Bert Wheeler, Robert Woolsey —Didn't do much business on this one but it was no fault of the picture. Football scenes overdone, but full of laughs. Played Mar. 18-19.—W. J. Carter, Maxine Theatre, Croswell, Mich. Small town patronage.

LITTLE ORPHAN ANNIE: Mitzi Green—Used this as a benefit with the Camp Fire Girls, paying them 40% from the first dollar. (Barnum was right.) The girls made about $12.00 and I lost twice as much. One of the three pictures I have played in eight years that did not return me my film rental. Good kid show, however. L. V. Bergtold, Opera House, Kasson, Minn. General patronage.

LITTLE ORPHAN ANNIE: Mitzi Green—Here is natural for the children. It will draw better than it will please. Mitzi gives clever imitation of Marx Brothers. The picture will sell itself to your child patronage. However, would suggest a little extra push and you will get extra business.—L. A. Mercier, Electric Theatre, Perryville, Mo. General patronage.

LITTLE ORPHAN ANNIE: Mitzi Green—A very good kid picture with very little entertainment for your grownups. Had more kids to this show than any picture I've shown since I've been in the business.—Robert K. Yancey, Paradise Theatre, Cotter, Ark. Railroad and general patronage.

LUCKY DEVILS: Bill Boyd—A mighty nice little show for Saturday. Not big, but very entertaining. Plenty of thrills.—Robert K. Yancey, Paradise Theatre, Cotter, Ark. Railroad and general patronage.

MEN OF AMERICA: Bill Boyd, Chic Sale—Good program picture that will please. Played Mar. 23-24. —W. J. Carter, Maxine Theatre, Croswell, Mich. Small town patronage.

MEN OF AMERICA: Bill Boyd—Good for town below 400 population.—R. C. Metzger, Ritz Theatre, Winner, S. D. General patronage.

OUR BETTERS: Constance Bennett—No good. Would pay for it and not play it. Second day business dropped to 15% of the first day. Played Apr. 22-23. Running time, 72 minutes.—A. I. Latts, Royal Theatre, Ashland, Wis. General patronage.

OUR BETTERS: Constance Bennett—Only fair entertainment. Business below average.—Robert K. Yancey, Cotter, Ark. Railroad and general patronage.

PHANTOM OF CRESTWOOD: Ricardo Cortez—This supposedly big show did not even do 60% of average business on bargain night. Had this set for a Sunday date but pulled after reading rather mediocre reports and changed to the cheap show night. Several favorable comments and no knocks.—L. V. Bergtold, Opera House, Kasson, Minn. General patronage.

ROCKABYE: Constance Bennett—This show is only fair. Didn't do average business on this. Played May 1-2. Running time, 75 minutes.—J. E. Tunstall, Nottawa Theatre, Blackstone, Va. Small town patronage.

Tiffany

THE TWO-GUN MAN: Ken Maynard—Regular old horse opera, riding, shooting and fighting. The only sure-fire bet in the whole bag of tricks for this man's town. Played May 12-13.—Roy W. Adams, Mason Theatre, Mason, Mich. Small town patronage.

United Artists

CYNARA: Ronald Colman—A high class drama in every way of the sophisticated type. While it treats of an ultra-modern theme, a husband's mis-step from the straight and narrow, it is done in a manner that few can object to. One remark in the picture (I really don't know the reason for such a remark), "No woman is ever respectable until she is dead," got the big laugh of the show, so perhaps it served its purpose. Drawing power below average.—J. E. Stocker, Myrtle Theatre, Detroit, Mich. General patronage.

MR. ROBINSON CRUSOE: Douglas Fairbanks—Held attention fairly well. Kids liked it. Business just ordinary. Played May 7-8.—C. C. Griffin, New Piedmont Theatre, Oakland, Cal. Neighborhood patronage.

Universal

AIR MAIL: Ralph Bellamy—Here is real entertainment, thrills and action galore. Poor draw for box office because of bank holiday. No fault of picture. Played Mar. 4-5.—W. J. Carter, Maxine Theatre, Croswell, Mich. Small town patronage.

AIR MAIL: Pat O'Brien, Ralph Bellamy—Excellent. Business 100% for Sunday, Monday and Tuesday.—Harry Waldron, Blue Moon Theatre, Oklahoma City, Okla. General patronage.

COHENS AND KELLYS IN TROUBLE: Charlie Murray, George Sidney—This one played first part of week, and found it to be well received by the family trade. It creates a lot of laughs and gives better than average entertainment.—W. H. Brenner, Cozy Theatre, Winchester, Ind. General patronage.

DESTINATION UNKNOWN: All star—To say the least, it is an unusual picture. There is a fine performance by entire cast. There is no doubt that everyone connected with the making of this picture was serious minded. However, the idea involved is a mighty hard one to handle, and they do not get it across. Business good three days.—W. H. Brenner, Cozy Theatre, Winchester, Ind. General patronage.

LUCKY DOG: Charles "Chic" Sale and dogs—How do they have the nerve to pass this kind of junk out to the public? Chic Sale is a marvelous artist in his old man characters, but the press sheet brags about him not being in character in this. In this one he should have hidden himself in character for his own good. Played Apr. 23. Running time, too much.—Joe Hewitt, Lincoln Theatre, Robinson, Ill. Mixed patronage.

NIGHT WORLD: Lew Ayres, Mae Clarke—Old, but satisfactory. Poor business.—Harry Waldron, Blue Moon Theatre, Oklahoma City, Okla. General patronage.

OUT ALL NIGHT: Slim Summerville, Zasu Pitts —Excellent. It kept all the customers laughing from start to finish. This should go over in all spots. Played May 10-11. Running time, 72 minutes.—J. E. Tunstall, Nottawa Theatre, Blackstone, Va. Small town patronage.

RUSTLERS' ROUNDUP: Tom Mix—Tom is always a good draw here. Sorry he is leaving the screen. One of his best. Played May 3-4. Running time, 67 minutes.—J. E. Tunstall, Nottawa Theatre, Blackstone, Va. Small town patronage.

TERROR TRAIL: Tom Mix, Naomi Judge—Back in outdoor atmosphere deriving an hour of clean cut entertainment with the foremost western idol of the screen. Tom Mix as the source of supply portraying a marshal out of retirement appointed by the governor to disperse a band of outlaw cutthroats who had infested a law abiding town, ruled by an undercover man, who had control of law in that territory. Tom takes every opportunity to display his shooting capability, and produces many laugh-laden comedy situations which erase any possible monotony injected during the course of procedure. Attractive Naomi Judge has the feminine lead, with John St. Polis and Raymond Hatton and others equally capable supporting the under structure of the cast. A dependable Universal production. Played May 5-6. Running time, 55 minutes.—William Daab, Lyric Theatre, Shenandoah, Pa. Small town patronage.

THEY JUST HAD TO GET MARRIED: Zasu Pitts, Slim Summerville—An entertaining picture. Good comedy and went over good at box office. Ran in connection with "Igloo." Played May 4-5-6.—C. C. Griffin, New Piedmont Theatre, Oakland, Cal. Neighborhood patronage.

THEY JUST HAD TO GET MARRIED: Slim Summerville, Zasu Pitts—This one broke the record here, because our folks like Slim and Zasu. It pleased everybody, and the sound was good. We want to thank "Uncle Carl," too, for his live and let live policy as applied to the small town theatre, most of which are having a hard time to keep open. Played May 12-13.—Amuzu Theatre, Inman, S. C. General patronage.

THEY JUST HAD TO GET MARRIED: Zasu Pitts, Slim Summerville—A cleverly constructed play in which the humor consisted more in the way it was said and in the people who said it than what was said, but the notable thing about this play was the "innermost" novelty in "Strange Interlude" a few nights before. It would seem that "innermost thoughts" may have a place on the screen if confined to short phrases or ejaculations as in this case, with added opportunities for humor when the "innermost thought" is the opposite of the spoken word; but by all means avoid the long monologue for the present at least. Think of Hamlet delivering the celebrated soliloquy, "To be, or not to be," as inner-

PEGGY HOPKINS JOYCE

W. C. FIELDS

RUDY VALLEE

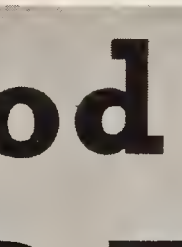
STUART ERWIN

GEORGE BURNS and

GRACIE ALLEN

COLONEL STOOPNAGLE

and BUDD



SARI MARITZA

CAB CALLOWAY

BELA LUGOSI

BABY ROSE MARIE

12 good reasons why PARAMOUNT'S "INTERNATIONAL HOUSE" ...means a full house for YOU!

and if you want more here they are

THE GIRLS IN CELLOPHANE

Directed by EDWARD SUTHERLAND

most thoughts. There is a lot of entertainment in this play. It drew a good average house both first and second nights in the face of a tent show, which usually denudes the theatre of its regular patronage here. Played May 14-15.—A. J. Gibbons, Illinois Theatre, Metropolis, Ill. General patronage.

Warner

THE BIG STAMPEDE: John Wayne—This is one of an excellent series. Business 95% just before Easter.—Harry Waldron, Blue Moon Theatre, Oklahoma City, Okla. General patronage.

FORTY-SECOND STREET: Ruby Keeler, Warner Baxter, Bebe Daniels—All that was claimed for it and more. The Warner boys sure slipped us a "pippin" in this. Baxter never better. Again congratulations to the brothers and their staff. However, I suppose we'll now have an avalanche of musicals and so-called musicals. They'll have to step some to class with "Forty-second Street." Played Apr. 26-27. Running time, 89 minutes.—Joe Hewitt, Lincoln Theatre, Robinson, Ill. Mixed patronage.

HAUNTED GOLD: John Wayne—Excellent for family. Their trailer good. Business 110% on Friday and Saturday.—Harry Waldron, Blue Moon Theatre, Oklahoma City, Okla. General patronage.

GIRL MISSING: Glenda Farrell, Ben Lyon—One dandy morsel of entertainment. Not big, but mighty good fan fare. This girl Glenda Farrell can and will go places if they give her a chance. Ben Lyon as usual good. Thanks, Warner Brothers. Played Apr. 22.—Joe Hewitt, Lincoln Theatre, Robinson, Ill. Mixed patronage.

I AM A FUGITIVE FROM A CHAIN GANG: Paul Muni—Real good picture, though it favors the prisoner. Splendid acting by Muni. Not a picture for children and many women will think it rough, but the men all enjoyed it. Played Apr. 1-2.—W. J. Carter, Maxine Theatre, Croswell, Mich. Small town patronage.

I AM A FUGITIVE FROM A CHAIN GANG: Paul Muni—They liked Muni. Strong picture. Business 135% on Sunday, Monday and Tuesday.—Harry Waldron, Blue Moon Theatre, Oklahoma City, Okla. General patronage.

LADIES THEY TALK ABOUT: Barbara Stanwyck—Just program, but well liked by those who saw it. Business only fair. Played May 9.—C. C. Griffin, New Piedmont Theatre, Oakland, Cal. Neighborhood patronage.

A SUCCESSFUL CALAMITY: George Arliss—This is the first Arliss picture we have run. Splendid story, good, clean entertainment for the whole family. Can step on this one. Played Mar. 1-2.—W. J. Carter, Maxine Theatre, Croswell, Mich. Small town patronage.

World Wide

FARGO EXPRESS: Ken Maynard, Helen Mack—Good western data of the early mining camps with the famous express line as the base for the story. Action and suspense are loosely constructed, scattered at different intervals during the film, which lessens the interest and enjoyment of the outdoor fan. Ken Maynard in the lead contributes an excellent performance, despite the fact that he had not the opportunity to use his bag of tricks. Helen Mack in the feminine lead renders a queerly acted but rather enjoyable presentation. A fairly capable supporting cast completes the under bill. Maynard is one of the world's most daring trick riders and marksmen in the game. Will, when given ample range, thrill the ardent western fans beyond the standard of their expectations. Good product will rocket western material skyward instead of its slowly dwindling journey downward which, if continued, will in due time be withdrawn from the western screen. If movie admirers can derive an hour's clean cut entertainment found in western, what reason can be produced to continue its elimination from the schedules? Westerns will produce the staff of life here and in many other medium sized towns, and I urge all exhibitors favoring this type of entertainment to unite in a protest toward its elimination by the producers of various concerns. Come on, fellows, get some spirit and usher in your opinion concerning our problem to the publisher of the Herald in an effort to re-establish its now losing success. Come on, you slackers. Played Apr. 28-29. Running time, 65 minutes.—William Dabb, Lyric Theatre, Shenandoah, Pa. Small town patronage.

Short Features

Columbia

CAMPUS CODES: Columbia doesn't seem to have the formula for good comedies. Their two reel comedies are pretty bad as a rule.—E. N. Collins, Star Theatre, Humble, Tex. General patronage

UNCLE TOM'S CABIN: Mickey Mouse—A few more like this and Mickey Mouse might as well crawl into his hole.—A. J. Gibbons, Illinois Theatre, Metropolis, Ill. General patronage.

Fox

RHINELAND MEMORIES: Magic Carpet—Better than some we have run. This one is O. K. to fill out eight minutes on your program.—D. E. Fitton, Lyric Theatre, Harrison, Ark. Small town patronage.

MGM

A LAD AN' A LAMP: Our Gang—I did not see it but reports were that it was the best Gang comedy that we have ever shown.—Edith M. Fordyce, Princess Theatre, Selma, La. General patronage.

BRING 'EM BACK A WIFE: Taxi Boys—Poorer than their poorest. These boys have not made comedies, just footage.—D. E. Fitton, Lyric Theatre, Harrison, Ark. Small town patronage.

CALL HER SAUSAGE: Taxi Boys—Average comedy. Running time, 18 minutes.—J. E. Funstall, Nottawa Theatre, Blackstone, Va. Small town patronage.

DAUGHTERS OF THE SEA: Traveltalk—Good program filler. Running time, 8 minutes.—J. E. Tunstall, Nottawa Theatre, Blackstone, Va. Small town patronage.

LENINGRAD: Traveltalk—These traveltalks are not worth parcel post.—Robert K. Yancey, Paradise Theatre, Cotter, Ark. Railroad and general patronage.

MR. BRIDE: Charley Chase—A laugh now and then but not often enough.—Mayme P. Musselman, Princess Theatre, Lincoln, Kansas. Small town patronage.

NATURE IN THE WRONG: Charley Chase—This is the best Chase comedy we have run in many moons. Satisfied the majority.—J. E. Tunstall, Nottawa Theatre, Blackstone, Va. Small town patronage.

NOW WE'LL TELL ONE: Charley Chase—About the usual Chase comedy. Metro's sure slipping fast this year.—Robert K. Yancey, Paradise Theatre, Cotter, Ark. Railroad and general patronage.

ROOSEVELT, THE MAN OF THE HOUR: Sold as a special and should be run as an advertising trailer on the next presidential campaign. Not worth any extra money and it won't get a nickel's worth of extra business.—Mayme P. Musselman, Princess Theatre, Lincoln, Kansas. Small town patronage.

SNEAK EASILY: Zasu Pitts, Thelma Todd—About the same thing from Todd and Pitts. Their comedies have been too much of the sameness.—Robert K. Yancey, Paradise Theatre, Cotter, Ark. Railroad and general patronage.

SWING HIGH: Sport Champions. This is one of best one reelers I ever played. Thrilling from start to finish. This family are the best acrobats I've ever seen.—Robert K. Yancey, Paradise Theatre, Cotter, Ark. Railroad and general patronage.

TAXI FOR TWO: Too much that wasn't funny.—Mayme P. Musselman, Princess Theatre, Lincoln, Kansas. Small town patronage.

THE KID FROM BORNEO: Our Gang—This is a very good Our Gang comedy. It seemed to please.—J. E. Tunstall, Nottawa Theatre, Blackstone, Va. Small town patronage.

TOWED IN A HOLE: Laurel and Hardy—Plenty funny and they're belly laughs.—Mayme P. Musselman, Princess Theatre, Lincoln, Kansas. Small town patronage.

WILD PEOPLE: Colortone Musical Revue—A very good musical color two reeler. Something different.—Robert K. Yancey, Paradise Theatre, Cotter, Ark. Railroad and general patronage.

JAYSEE: ARE THEY CALLING FOR YOU!

"If you can get word to that old hard-shelled Baptist, J. C. Jenkins, tell him the season for bass, wall-eyed pike, great northern pike, crappies, etc., will soon be open here, and as usual I'd be willing to catch him a mess (you know he can't brag much on his fishing prowess). I'd like to see him get his feet under the table and get a good fish fry—no limit to how many helpings for him.

Every time he comes out of the Nebraska Sand Hills he looks like a bear that's hibernated all winter—lank and shaggy—but some of these big fat bass soon smooth out his loose hide and wrinkles. He should bring Elmer Gailey along; there's a real fisherman, no matter how much J. C. belittles him. Come on, J. C. Beer and bass for you here."—H. J. LONGAKER, Glenwood Theatre, Glenwood, Minn.

Paramount

BREAKING EVEN: Tom Howard—Best Howard we have had. Running time, 8 minutes.—J. E. Tunstall, Nottawa Theatre, Blackstone, Va. Small town patronage.

PEANUT VENDER: Screen Song—Good.—J. E. Tunstall, Nottawa Theatre, Blackstone, Va. Small town patronage.

SCHOOL DAYS: This is the first single reel short I have reported on. Reason—personally I think it is the best and most entertaining single reel I ever witnessed. I watched it through six times and would enjoy seeing it again. Book this and you will give your fans the best short ever.—L. V. Bergtold, Opera House, Kasson, Minn. General patronage.

SILVERY MOON: Arthur Tracy—Excellent. Good on any program.—D. E. Fitton, Lyric Theatre, Harrison, Ark. Small town patronage.

SILVERY MOON: Aesops Fables—Excellent.—D. E. Fitton, Lyric Theatre, Harrison, Ark. Small town patronage.

MY PAL THE PRINCE: Morton Downey—Good entertainment. Downey sings three songs, a trio sings one and a young lady one.—D. E. Fitton, Lyric Theatre, Harrison, Ark. Small town patronage.

Warner Vitaphone

SMASH YOUR BAGGAGE: Small's Paradise Band—Swell. Snappy music. A dance number that is the best I ever ran or saw. That colored boy could do his stuff.—Mayme P. Musselman, Princess Theatre, Lincoln, Kansas. Small town patronage.

TEE FOR TWO: Technicolor Musical—A good two reel short with good singing and dancing.—Gladys E. McArdle, Owl Theatre, Lebanon, Kans. Small town patronage.

THE NICKELETTE: Poor. People do not care for this type. It is a reel made in the days when pictures were in their infancy. There is a narrator. It really is funny to see how crude they used to be but a half reel would be enough I should think.—Edith M. Fordyce, Princess Theatre, Selma, La. General patronage.

TIP, TAP, TOE: Hal LeRoy, Mitzi Mayfair—This is O.K. We find these Broadway Brevities unusually good.—J. E. Tunstall, Nottawa Theatre, Blackstone, Va. Small town patronage.

Serials

Universal

CLANCY OF THE MOUNTED: Tom Tyler—This serial is very good so far. It pleases and had a draw. Will some one please report on "Whispering Shadow," the new independent serial.—E. N. Collins, Star Theatre, Humble, Tex. General patronage.

New Distribution Deal for Latin-America Arranged

J. H. Hoffberg, Jack Lustberg and George Kallman are uniting activities in the field of Spanish talking pictures. They will leave this month for South America to arrange distribution details.

Individually, the three men represent Fanchon Royer, Rafael A. Frias, Jose Alcaidy, Alberto Monroy, F. P. Lascurain, Productora National de Peliculas, Mexico Cines, I C S A, Sonora Films, all producers of Spanish talking pictures.

Announces New Animatophone

The Victor Animatograph Corporation, Davenport, Iowa, has announced a new sound-on-film animatophone. Simplicity and compact arrangement are pointed out by the manufacturers as advantages of the new apparatus. Effective June 1, the company also announces, reverse action will be a regular feature of the Model S Victor camera.

Zeidman Crew to Italy in July

The expedition which will film scenes for "The March of Two Worlds," B. F. Zeidman production in which Mussolini and his family will have speaking parts, according to the Zeidman announcement, will leave for Italy in July. Tom Geraghty will write the screen play.

6TH RECORD-BREAKING WEEK AT UNITED ARTISTS THEATRE, SAN FRANCISCO—6TH BIG WEEK IN LOS ANGELES—6TH BIG WEEK IN MINNEAPOLIS—5TH BIG WEEK IN ST. PAUL—4TH BIG WEEK IN CHICAGO

and

BE MINE TONIGHT:
—I think we were the first in the state to use this one, and run it in conjunction with our first Sunday showing. There could not have been anything finer. It's the first time that we have had congratulatory phone calls the following day, and those that saw it, on leaving, stood around and discussed it. We think it the best entertainment we have presented, and we play 80% of the big ones. This one is proof that excellence can be obtained without dirt, which is entirely absent. Comedy, scenery, music, story, and without the aid of previous "city" advertising. You cannot go wrong and it will add prestige to your theatre. Please add that "Uncle Carl" is to be congratulated for sponsoring this type of picture.—A. Bern, Jr., Sunflower Theatre, Peabody, Kan. General small town patronage.

MOTION PICTURE HERALD

Presented by Carl Laemmle

A UNIVERSAL SPECIAL

BE MINE TONIGHT

JENKINS' COLYUM

Minneapolis, Minn.

DEAR HERALD:

There is a certain portion of the American intelligentsia who have become entirely too vocal. Windjammers tell us that wealth can be created by governmental fiat and a printing press. All of which is a lotta damnonsense. Soapbox oratory will raise a dust but it never settles anything.

▽

It is the time of year when corn should be planted and the hens should be out in the garden scratching up the radish and lettuce beds, but when we came through Duluth last Monday there was snow "on them thar hills" and it looked like Old Man Winter had grabbed a new hold.

At Cloquet we met our old friends, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Miller, who operate the Leb theatre. "Didja" ever hear of such a name for a theatre? We did once over in South Dakota. There's a theatre over there called "Sug," which was named after an amusement park in Sweden. You can expect most anything from them thar Swedes, even though they are about the best class of citizens we have.

Mr. Miller was playing "State Fair" the night we called and we had to hunt around for some time to find a seat, although it was the second night for it. The first night the house wouldn't hold 'em.

After the show they took us up to their apartment and Mrs. Miller brought out a large dish of pretzels and Mr. Miller brought out some 3.2% "prosperity" and then the gabfest began and lasted much longer than it should, but that was all our fault, for we never know when to go home.

Guy D. Thorne operates the New theatre at Sandstone. Sandstone is surrounded by lakes and Guy is surrounded by ladies most of the time wanting to know what the next show is going to be. Guy says he never knows, because they switch programs on him so often. He says some day he is going to make a fuss about it.

▽

C. C. Christenson operates the theatre at Henkley and is cashier of a bank at Beroun, six miles away. We wanted to tell Chris that there was no darn sense in a man loading himself up with two jobs like that right when the trout season was open and the country full of trout streams, but we didn't do it. But speaking of trout, last week we crossed the Brule River in Northern Wisconsin. The Brule is where the late ex-President Coolidge spent his vacation once trout fishing. When we crossed that river it sure looked trouty and we could smell 'em. We thought of Mr. Terry Ramsaye, editor of this household necessity, fishing for trout back in the eastern states where a trout as long as his index finger would be considered a whale, and wondered what he would think if he got to messing around with these babies in the Brule that would weigh from six to twelve pounds, and the Brule has plenty of them that large.

We were sorry not to meet Mrs. Jessie L. Jensen of the Avalon theatre, at White Bear. We met her son, however, and had a delightful visit with him. The Avalon is a beautiful theatre; in fact we don't know of a finer one in a town of that size, and the folks of White Bear have no reason for driving to Minneapolis for their entertainment, for Minneapolis can't give them any better. We hope to see Mrs. Jensen next time.

▽

Over in Stillwater is an old showman who has been in the show business so long that he smells of sawdust and celluloid. F. W. Boll of the Majestic is an old timer in the business and he is located in a town that is hard to get into and harder to get out of. It is down one hill and up six, and the next time we go there we are going to take an aeroplane. Stillwater is where the state penitentiary is located, and they have an average clientele of about twelve thousand Gophers. At one time Stillwater had her choice between the penitentiary and the State University and she chose the penitentiary. Can you imagine a town being so dumb? F. W. says he would have an average attendance at each change of programs of twelve thousand, but they won't let 'em out. That's the trouble with these penitentiaries, they keep the boys cooped up too much.

Charlie Closson still operates the Green theatre at Anoka. Charlie has some relatives over in our home county that we are well acquainted with. Charlie looks just like the Closson family, and the Closson family are not bad looking people. Mrs. Closson says she wishes she could say that of Charlie. We told her that we'd bet she did at one time. The night we were there Charlie gave away enough groceries and canned goods at his theatre to feed the Bonus army for a week, but he had a house full. Maybe it takes groceries nowadays to get business.

▽

Sam Steigal is the manager of the Northern Theatre Supply Co. here in Minneapolis, that is, he is presumably the manager, but our guess is that Mrs. Steigal lays out the day's work for Sam and the boys and Sam have learned that she knows her onions, for what she don't know about theatre equipment hasn't been published yet. Take it on a full day's run, we believe Sam could out-talk the Mrs., for he can talk faster than a Populist politician on the subject of free silver. They are both delightful folks. We hope to meet them again some time.

▽

As between Gaston B. Means and Baron Munchausen we are inclined to think that Gaston had a little the best of it. His famous wild yarn regarding the Lindbergh baby incident has made a piker out of the Baron and a sucker out of the press. Somebody ought to put a muzzle on that guy.

▽

If the producers would care to learn what the public wants in entertainment they should go and see "Be Mine Tonight," a British-made picture which is released by Universal. This picture is playing its fourth week at the World and is likely to run for four weeks more.

"Be Mine Tonight" is as clean as a scoured platter. It has no suggestive scenes, no smutty dialogue, no sex situations, no illicit love scenes and, in fact, it hasn't even a kiss in it. This picture proves beyond any question that salacious and risque scenes and smutty dialogue are not necessary to good entertainment. Perhaps England can teach the producers of this country something about entertainment. Somebody ought to, and if England will send us a few more like this one it will create a universal demand for British-made pictures. Universal hasn't released a better picture in many months. The picture has some beautiful shots of Alpine scenery of lakes and snow-capped mountains. Equally as grand scenery can be found in this country. Lake Chelan in eastern Washington and Lake Crescent in the Olympic mountains in western Washington will compare favorably with the Alps. We've been on both lakes and Switzerland can't beat 'em. If you want a clean picture get "Be Mine Tonight."

▽

If we ever go to a foreign country we are going to pick on Australia. There are a bunch of exhibitors over there we'd like to meet; they are our kind of people. One exhibitor writing to the HERALD says he agrees with Uncle Carl Laemmle that the return of liquor will be detrimental to the theatre business. That makes three of us. When Australia and the United States are agreed on a proposition what more do you want?

COLONEL J. C. JENKINS,
The HERALD's Vagabond Colyumnist

TRAVELERS . . .

CONRAD NAGEL arrived in New York from Hollywood to do stage work.

GEORGE ARLISS, Warner star, sailed for England.

VINCENT YOUMANS, song writer, arrived in Hollywood, from New York, to write music for RKO.

RUSSELL HARDY, New York stage actor, left for Hollywood to work for MGM.

SAM FLAX, Monogram exchange head in Washington, was in New York.

J. H. SKIRBALL, Educational sales manager, returned from exchange tour.

MARY BRIAN, Universal player, arrived in New York from coast to appear in "Shoot the Works."

ROBERT SMELTZER, Warner district manager, arrived in New York from Washington, to stay three weeks.

RICHARD BARTHELMESS, who arrived in New York last week from California, cancelled European trip.

ED SMITH left Los Angeles for Hawaii in interests of Paramount sales.

JEROME P. SUSSMAN, Paramount representative in British South Africa, is en route to New York.

CLAYTON R. SHEEHAN and ROBERT T. KANE, Fox foreign executives, arrived at Paris from New York.

ROBERT E. SHERWOOD, stage and screen writer, sailed for England.

EDWIN CAREWE, director, arrived in New York from the coast.

RUBY KEELER, Warner star, arrived in New York from the coast with her husband, AL JOLSON.

RUTH CHATTERTON and her husband, GEORGE BRENT, leave Paris for London the end of this week, en route to Hollywood.

SAM TAYLOR, director, left for London to direct JEANNETTE MACDONALD'S first British film.

DOUGLAS FAIRBANKS, JR., arrives in New York early next week, bound for Europe.

MOE SILVER and DAVE WESHNER, Warner theatre executives, left New York for Cleveland.

I. J. HOFFMAN, Warner official, left New York for Pittsburgh.

FRANK MCHUGH, Warner player, is in New York.

OLIVE BORDEN is in St. Petersburg, Fla., to work on a film for AUBREY KENNEDY.

ED WYNN will leave New York for the coast in July to start on his first M-G-M picture.

LEE TRACY is in New York.

CARROLL H. DUNNING, of the Dunning Process Co., is in Denton, Md.

SPYROS SKOURAS is in St. Louis.

JAMES R. GRAINGER arrived in London from Paris.

HARRY BUXBAUM returned from a vacation in Bermuda.

B. F. ZEIDMAN returned to the coast from New York.

JACK LUSTBERG left for Buenos Aires.

DICK SEARS, Pathe News Boston representative, is in New York.

ELISSA LANDI left Hollywood for a vacation.

ROBERT BENCHLEY, dramatic critic, arrived in Hollywood to start writing contract for Radio.

MURRAY SILVERSTONE, managing director for United Artists in England, left for New York.

HARRY COHN sailed for Europe. With him were LEWIS MILESTONE and LAURENCE STALLINGS.

JOHN D. CLARK returned to New York from Hollywood.

GLORIA SWANSON and MICHAEL FARMER, her husband, are on their way east.

ROBERT MCGOWAN and RAE HENDERSON arrived in New York from Europe.

The HEPE CRUIKSHANKS sailed for Europe.

JOSEPH I. SCHNITZER is en route to the coast following a New York vacation.

WE'RE ALL STEAMED UP—

ANDY CLYDE
You'll feel great when you play him in "FEELING ROSY" and "LOOSE RELATIONS".

HARRY LANGDON
Day or night, keep 'em laughing with "KNIGHT DUTY". And watch for "TIED FOR LIFE".

MERMAID COMEDIES

MORAN AND MACK
The "two black crows" in a great pair of laugh-makers—"A PAIR OF SOCKS" and "HOT HOOFS".

and why not!

"Krakatoa" stealing the show everywhere—the short subject hit of the year! Andy Clyde adding thousands more to his tremendous following with every new comedy! Harry Langdon, Moran and Mack, the Terry-Toons, and all the rest of our short features going over bigger every day! Why shouldn't we be all steamed up!

KRAKATOA

The real feature of the bill —Detroit Free Press

Steals all the interest this week at the Stanton —Philadelphia Public Ledger

Most interesting feature on the Stanton's new program —Philadelphia Record.

The double feature passes. It's the show that counts again. And Educational Pictures are More Than Ever The Spice Of The Program.

Educational Pictures
"THE SPICE OF THE PROGRAM"

Distributed in U. S. A. by FOX FILM CORPORATION

MEETINGS . . .

EAST

MAY

25—Associated Motion Picture Advertisers: Weekly luncheon and open forum, at Sardi's, West 44th Street, New York. President, Hal Horne; Secretary, Al Sherman.

26—Society of Motion Picture Engineers, New York Section: Grand Central Palace, New York, 8 p.m.

31—Allied Theatres of Illinois: Weekly directors' meeting, at 910 South Michigan Avenue, Chicago. President, Aaron A. Saperstein; Secretary, Harry H. Lasker.

Motion Picture Club of New York: Weekly luncheon and forum, at 1560 Broadway. President Lee A. Ochs.

JUNE

2—Actors' Equity Association: Annual meeting, two p.m., at Hotel Astor, New York.

3—Cincinnati Film Board of Trade: Annual Outing for relief fund, at Striker's Grove, Cincinnati

5—Motion Picture Projectionists Local of Chicago: Annual reception and ball, at Trianon Ballroom, Chicago. Business manager, Tom Maloy.

6-7—MPTA of Kansas and Missouri: Annual convention, at Kansas City, Mo. President, E. Van Hyning.

14—Motion Picture Producers and Distributors of America: Quarterly meeting, at 28 West 44th Street, New York. President, Will H. Hays; Secretary, Carl Milliken.

19—American Federation of Musicians: Annual convention, at Chicago. President, Joseph Weber.

20—Eastern Motion Picture Golf Tournament: Semi-annual tournament, at Rye Country Club, Westchester. Chairman, John Wilde Alicoate; Committee members, Maurice D. Kann, Don M. Mersereau, et al.

21—Warner Home Office Club: Sixth Annual Boat Ride.

WEST

JUNE

4—North Dakota Theatre Owners Association: First annual convention, at Mandan, N. D. President, John Piller.

Wiggin Resigns from Chase Directorate

Albert H. Wiggin and 36 other members of the board, resigned from the Chase National Bank directorate Monday. The resignation of Mr. Wiggin, who was chairman, came as a complete surprise.

The board approved the reforms recently urged by President Winthrop W. Aldrich, some of which included changing the name of the Chase Securities Corp. to Chase Corp.; liquidation of the Chase Harris-Forbes Corp., and reduction of the capital of the Chase Securities Corp. Both affiliates have been intimately connected with Fox, Educational, and, through the Film Securities Corp., with Loew and General Theatres Equipment, Inc., financing.

RCA Quarter Gross 12 Million

The RCA statement for the first quarter of 1933 shows a gross income from operations of $12,981,058 and a total gross income from all sources of $13,222,053. Net income, before interest, depreciation and amortization of patents, amounts to $556,746.89.

The statement in detail follows:

Gross Income:
From Operations	$12,981,058.63
Other Income	240,995.04
Total Gross Income from all sources		$13,222,053.67
Less:
Cost of Sales, General Operating, Development, Selling and Administrative Expenses		12,665,306.78
Net Income for the Period (before Interest, Depreciation and Amortization of Patents		$556,746.89
Deduct:
Interest	$57,819.67
Depreciation	827,091.07
Amortization of Patents.	150,000.00
Total Deductions		$1,034,910.74
Net Loss for the Period Transferred to Surplus		*$478,163.85
Surplus at December 31, 1932		9,851,184.18
Surplus at March 31, 1933		$9,373,020.33

*Deficit.

Monogram Exchanges In Play Date Drive

Monogram franchise holders started a concerted move to launch a W. Ray Johnston play date drive this week. Thirty-seven exchanges have joined the movement, which is the crystallization of a proposal made by delegates to the recent convention in Atlantic City.

In carrying out the project, the exchanges are getting out their own accessories, window cards, special shipping labels, newspaper advertising and a special series of direct mail follow-up campaigns.

Pantages Plans New Route Throughout Northwest

Alexander Pantages, back in Seattle, where he organized his first vaudeville circuit 35 years ago, announced last week that he will soon inaugurate a new vaudeville route which will have Seattle as one of its key points. It is understood to be a definite possibility that Mr. Pantages may join forces in Seattle with an independent operator, probably John Hamrick, and will also attempt to obtain the RKO theatres there for his new circuit.

Miss MacDonald in New Film

Jeannette MacDonald, who recently completed a concert tour in Europe, has begun work on a new British-Dominion production, "The Queen," to be released in the United States by United Artists. It was recently reported that she was to appear in "The Merry Widow" for United Artists, and this title was given in the caption of a picture in the April 15th issue of MOTION PICTURE HERALD. Rights to "The Merry Widow" belong to MGM, according to the latter company.

SIGNED . . .

Columbia

Genevieve Tobin engaged for "The Wrecker," Albert Rogell directing. . . . Ned Sparks and May Robson added to "Madame La Gimp." . . . Niles Welch and Eddie Kane sign for "Full Speed Ahead" . . .

Educational

Ray Cooke, Marian Shockley and Franklyn Pangborn in "Trying Out Torchy," C. C. Burr directing. . . .

Fox

George Meeker and Claire Trevor engaged for "Life in the Raw." . . . Merna Kennedy signed for "Arizona to Broadway." . . . Spencer Tracy and Claire Trevor assigned to "Shanghai Madness," John Blystone will direct. . . .

MGM

Lawrence Grant and Charles Butterworth given new contracts. . . . Marie Dressler and Wallace Beery in "Ferike." . . . Josef von Sternberg signed to direct next Crawford-Gable picture. . . . Frankie Daro, William Burness, Jack Pennick and Marylin Harris engaged for "Tugboat Annie." . . . Muriel Kirkland signs for "Hold Your Man." . . .

Paramount

Alexander Hall and Leo McCarey, directors, and Marc Connelly, writer, given contracts. . . . Mary Boland, Richard Arlen and Lyda Roberti assigned to "Three Cornered Moon" (B. P. Schulberg). . . . Marlene Dietrich and Josef von Sternberg engaged for two productions.

RKO Radio

William Sistrom appointed associate producer. . . . Sidney Lanfield and J. Walter Ruben, directors, William Gargan, Tom Kennedy and Florence Lake, players, given contracts. . . . Ferdinand Gottschalk joins "The Public Be Sold." . . . George Stevens to direct an Average Man comedy with Edgar Kennedy and Florence Lake. . . . Betty Furness added to "Careless." . . . Captain Harold Buckley engaged as technical advisor for "The Balloon Buster." . . . Helen Mack assigned to "Headline Shooters," Otto Brower to direct. . . . Bobby Clark and Paul McCullough to appear in new series of shorts. . . . Ralph Cedar and Al Ray to co-direct "Stolen by Gypsies or Beer and Bicycles" (Masquer Club). . . . William Powell, Ann Harding, Lucile Brown and George Meeker assigned to "Double Harness." . . .

Universal

Lew Ayres, Una Merkel and Ginger Rogers in "In the Money," Murray Roth directing. . . . Ken Maynard to star and direct "The Fiddlin' Buckaroo." . . . Karl Freund and Monte Brice to co-direct "Shoot the Works." . . .

Warner-First National

Olive Borden and Charles Judels to appear in a two reel comedy. . . . Charles Judels and George Givot signed for a short subject. . . .

Bruce With Educational

Robert C. Bruce has signed a contract with Earl Hammons, whereby he will produce a novelty series of six one-reelers for the 1933-34 Educational program. The series will be titled, "A Dog Thinks," featuring human interest stories about dogs.

Kennedy Publicity Shift

Bill Evans, former publicity director for Aubrey Kennedy Productions, St. Petersburg, Fla., has returned to the Coast and has been replaced by Herbert F. Allen.

PRODUCTIONS IN WORK

TITLE	WRITER AND DIRECTOR	CAST	STAGE OF PRODUCTION
COLUMBIA
"The Wrecker"	Story and direction by Al Rogell.	Jack Holt, Genevieve Tobin, Sidney Blackmer, George E. Stone, Ward Bond, Harrison Green.	Shooting
"Madame La Gimp"	Original story by Damon Runyon. Director: Frank Capra.	May Robson, Warren William, Guy Kibbee, Glenda Farrell, Ned Sparks, Walter Connolly, Nat Pendleton.	Shooting
FOX
"Berkeley Square"	From the play by John Balderston. Director: Frank Lloyd.	Leslie Howard, Heather Angel, Irene Browne, Valerie Taylor, Juliette Compton, David Torrence.	Shooting
"Life in the Raw"	Story by Zane Grey. Director: Lewis King.	George O'Brien, Claire Trevor, Warner Richmond, George Meeker.	Shooting
"The Man Who Dared"	Story and screen play by Dudley Nichols and Lamar Trotti. Director: Hamilton MacFadden.	Preston Foster, Zita Johann, Irene Biller.	Shooting
"The Devil's In Love"	Original screen story by Harry Hervey. Director: Wilhelm Dieterle.	Victor Jory, Harvey Stephens, Loretta Young.	Shooting
METRO-GOLDWYN-MAYER
"Eskimo"	Original story by Peter Freuchen. Director: W. S. Van Dyke.	Native Cast.	Shooting
"Night Flight"	Story by Antoine de Saint Euxpery. Director: Clarence Brown.	John Barrymore, Clark Gable, Lionel Barrymore, Helen Hayes, Robert Montgomery, Mryna Loy, C. Henry Gordon, William Gargan.	Shooting
"Hold Your Man"	Story by Anita Loos and Howard Emmett Rogers. Director: Sam Wood.	Clark Gable, Jean Harlow, Dorothy Burgess, Stuart Erwin.	Shooting
"Tugboat Annie"	Original stories by Norman Reilly Raine. Director: Mervyn LeRoy.	Marie Dressler, Wallace Beery, Robert Young, Maureen O'Sullivan.	Shooting
"Strange Rhapsody"	Story by Alexander Hunyady. Director: Richard Boleslavsky.	Nils Asther, Kay Francis, Walter Huston, Eugene Pallette, C. Henry Gordon, Phillips Holmes, Jean Parker, Louise Closser Hale.	Shooting
"Stranger's Return"	Story by Phil Stong. Director: King Vidor.	Lionel Barrymore, Miriam Hopkins, Stuart Erwin, Franchot Tone, Tad Alexander.	Shooting
PARAMOUNT
"Gambling Ship"	Story by Peter Ruric. Directors: Louis Gasnier and Max Marcin.	Cary Grant, Benita Hume, Jack LaRue, Roscoe Karns, Arthur Vinton.	Shooting
"Disgraced"	Story by Nate Gatzert. Director: Ken May-C. Kenton.	Helen Twelvetrees, Adrienne Ames, Bruce Cabot, Ken Murray.	Shooting
"Mama Loves Papa"	Original story by Keene Thompson and Douglas MacLean. Director: Norman McLeod.	Charles Ruggles, Mary Boland, Lilyan Tashman, Walter Catlett, Ruth Warren.	Shooting
RKO-RADIO
"The Public Be Sold"	Original story by Charles Curran and Rich Gaffney.	Richard Dix, Doris Kenyon, Allan Dinehart, Elizabeth Allen.	Shooting
"Double Harness"	From the play by Edward Poor Montgomery. Director: Kenneth MacGowan.	Ann Harding, William Powell, George Meeker, Henry Stephenson, Lucille Brown.	Shooting
UNIVERSAL
"Fiddlin' Buckaroo"	Story by Nate Gatzert. Director: Ken Maynard.	Ken Maynard, Gloria Shea, Fred Kohler, Frank Rice, Jack Rockwell, Jack Mower, Robert McKenzie.	Shooting
"Salt Water"	From the stage play by Dan Jarrett and John Golden. Screen play by H. M. Walker and Earl Snell. Director: William Wyler.	Slim Summerville, Zasu Pitts, Una Merkel, Warren Hymer, Henry Armetta, Berton Churchill, George Marion.	Shooting
"In the Money"	Original screen play by Howard Emmett Rogers and Murray Roth. Director: Murray Roth.	Lew Ayres, Ginger Rogers, Merna Kennedy, Charles Grapewin, Shirley Grey.	Shooting
"S. O. S. Iceberg"	Screen play by Tom Reed and Dr. Arnold Franck. Directors: Tay Garnett and Dr. Arnold Franck.	Rod LaRoque, Gibson Gowland, Leni Reifenstahl, Ernst Udet.	Shooting

THEATRE RECEIPTS

The total of theatre receipts from 113 houses in 20 major cities for the calendar week ended May 20, 1933, aggregated $1,064,672, a decrease of $55,682 from the previous calendar week, ended May 13, when 115 theatres in 20 cities recorded a total of $1,120,354. No new high individual theatre records, and five new low record figures were established during the more recent period which compares with no new "highs" and two new "lows" for the preceding week.

(Copyright, 1933: Reproduction of material from this department without credit to MOTION PICTURE HERALD expressly forbidden)

Theatres			Current Week		Previous Week		High and Low Gross
			Picture	Gross	Picture	Gross	(Tabulation covers period from January, 1931 to date)
Boston
Fenway	1,800	30c-50c	"Picture Snatcher" (W. B.) and.. "Supernatural" (Para.)	10,000	"Ex-Lady" (W. B.) and..... "Under the Tonto Rim" (Para.)	9,500	.....
Keith's	3,500	30c-50c	"The Silver Cord" (Radio).....	17,000	"Below the Sea" (Col.).....	17,500	High 12-5 "Frankenstein"..... 27,000 Low 3-9-33 "When Strangers Marry".. 12,000
Keith-Boston	2,900	25c-50c	"The Phantom Broadcast" ..... (Monogram)	16,000	"The World Gone Mad" (Majestic)	17,000	High 4-9-32 "Steady Company"..... 26,000 Low 3-9-33 "Topaze" 11,000
Loew's State	3,700	25c-50c	"Hell Below" (MGM).....	18,000	"The Barbarian" (MGM).....	17,000	High 6-18-32— "Hell Divers," "Possessed" and "Sin of Madelon Claudet" 26,000 Low 3-9-33 "Men Must Fight"..... 11,000
Metropolitan	4,350	30c-65c	"Story of Temple Drake" (Para.)	34,000	"The Working Man" (W. B.)....	35,000	High 1-31 "No Limit" ..... 44,500 Low 3-9-33 "King of the Jungle"..... 26,500
Paramount	1,800	30c-50c	"Picture Snatcher" (W. B.) and.. "Supernatural" (Para.)	12,500	"Ex-Lady" (W. B.) and..... "Under the Tonto Rim" (Para.)	12,500	.....
Buffalo
Buffalo	3,500	30c-55c	"The Working Man" (W. B.)....	10,800	"Today We Live" (MGM).....	14,100	High 3-28 "My Past"..... 39,500 Low 3-24-33 "Our Betters"..... 9,800
Century	3,000	25c	"Picture Snatcher" (W.B.) and... "The Monkey's Paw" (Radio)	5,100	"Grand Slam" (F. N.) and..... "Past of Mary Holmes" (Radio)	4,200	High 2-14 "Cimarron" ..... 25,600 Low 5-12-33 "Grand Slam" and "Past of Mary Holmes" 4,200
Great Lakes	3,000	25c-40c	"Hell Below" (MGM).....	9,700	"Elmer the Great" (F. N.).....	6,800	High 8-8 "Politics" ..... 35,100 Low 4-14-33 "Rome Express"..... 5,400
Hippodrome	2,100	25c	"Employees' Entrance" (F.N.) and "Perfect Understanding" (U. A.)	5,900	"The Keyhole" (W. B.) and.... "Terror Aboard" (Para.)	6,000	High 2-14 "Free Love" ..... 26,300 Low 7-16-32 "New Morals for Old"..... 4,200
Lafayette	3,300	25c	"Circus Queen Murder" (Col.) and "Laughter in Hell" (U.)	7,000	"So This Is Africa" (Col.) and.. "Women Won't Tell" (Chesterfield)	7,600	High 4-11 "Ten Cents a Dance"..... 24,100 Low 2-10-33 "Hypnotized" and "Trailing the Killer" 5,100
Chicago
Chicago	4,000	35c-68c	"Story of Temple Drake" (Para.)	25,000	"Ex-Lady" (W. B.).....	28,500	High 1-23-32 "Two Kinds of Women".. 67,000 Low 12-22-32 "The Match King"..... 20,000
McVickers	2,284	25c-50c	"Song of the Eagle" (Para.).....	5,000	"King Kong" (Radio)	8,000	High 2-7 "Doorway to Hell"..... 38,170 Low 5-19-33 "Song of the Eagle"..... 5,000
Oriental	3,940	35c-68c	"Cavalcade" (Fox) ..... (3rd week)	8,200	"Cavalcade" (Fox) ..... (2nd week)	9,000	High 3-7 "My Past" ..... 46,750 Low 3-24-33 "The Big Cage"..... 12,000
Palace	2,509	35c-75c	"Out All Night" (U.).....	19,000	"Kiss Before the Mirror" (U.)....	19,000	High 4-2-32 "Cheaters at Play"..... 33,000 Low 12-15-32 "False Faces"..... 14,000
Roosevelt	1,591	25c-50c	"Bondage" (Fox)	7,000	"Looking Forward" (MGM).....	9,500	High 4-11 "Dishonored" ..... 30,350 Low 3-3-33 "Luxury Liner"..... 6,200
United Artists	1,700	35c-68c	"Hell Below" (MGM)	15,500	"The Working Man" (W. B.).... (2nd week)	6,300	High 3-21 "City Lights"..... 46,562 Low 3-17-33 "Perfect Understanding".. 6,800
Cleveland
Allen	3,300	25c-35c	"Perfect Understanding" (U. A.)	2,950	"Shriek in the Night" (Allied).. and "Cheating Blondes" (Majestic)	2,900	High 1-30-32 "Hell Divers" ..... 26,000 Low 3-3-33 "Infernal Machine" and "Exposure" 1,800
Hippodrome	3,800	15c-35c	"Be Mine Tonight" (U.)..... (5 days) (25c-35c)	4,500	"When Strangers Marry" (Col.)..	4,200	.....
Mall	753	15c-25c	"Murders in the Zoo" (Para.).....	1,400	"Fast Workers" (MGM).....	1,400	.....
RKO Palace	3,100	25c-40c	"Kiss Before the Mirror" (U.)....	9,000	"Christopher Strong" (Radio)....	11,500	High 5-2 "Laugh and Get Rich"..... 40,000 Low 5-5-33 "So This Is Africa"..... 7,500
State	3,400	25c-40c	"A Bedtime Story" (Para.).....	10,500	"Today We Live" (MGM).....	13,000	High 12-5 "Possessed" ..... 30,000 Low 5-5-33 "Pick Up" 7,600
Stillman	1,900	25c-35c	"Gabriel Over the White House" (MGM)	6,500	"Hallelujah, I'm a Bum" (U. A.)	5,100	.....
Warner's Lake	800	25c-40c	"The Working Man" (W. B.)....	5,600	"Ex-Lady" (W. B.)..... (6 days)	4,500	High 10-3 "Five Star Final"..... 15,000 Low 7-4 "Big Business Girl"..... 2,000
Denver
Aladdin	1,500	25c-40c	"Ex-Lady" (W. B.).....	3,250	"Our Betters" (Radio).....	4,500	.....
Denham	1,700	15c-25c	"Be Mine Tonight" (U.).....	3,600	"So This Is Africa" (Col.)..... (2nd week-3 days) "As the Devil Commands" (Col.) (4 days)	2,000 1,200	.....
Denver	2,500	25c-50c	"Today We Live" (MGM).....	6,500	"Elmer the Great" (F. N.).....	7,500	High 8-8 "Politics" ..... 25,000 Low 3-23-33 "Clear All Wires"..... 6,000
Orpheum	2,600	25c-40c	"Picture Snatcher" (W. B.).....	7,000	"Out All Night" (U.).....	8,500	.....
Paramount	2,000	25c-40c	"Hallelujah, I'm a Bum" (U.A.)	4,000	"Song of the Eagle" (Para.).....	3,500	High 1-10 "Hell's Angels"..... 22,000 Low 5-4-33 "Looking Forward" and "A Lady's Profession" 2,100
Detroit
Downtown	2,750	25c-40c	"Diplomaniacs" (Radio)	4,100	"The Phantom Broadcast"..... (Monogram)	6,600	.....
Fisher	2,700	15c-40c	"Rasputin and the Empress".... (MGM)	5,200	"Central Airport" (F. N.).....	5,200	.....
Fox	5,100	15c-40c	"Pleasure Cruise" (Fox).....	8,800	"The Big Cage" (U.).....	8,200	.....
Michigan	4,000	25c-50c	"Story of Temple Drake" (Para.)	10,400	"Song of the Eagle" (Para.) and "The Keyhole" (W. B.)	8,700	.....
State	3,000	25c-50c	"Mussolini Speaks" (Col.) and..... "Girl Missing" (W. B.)	4,500	"Rasputin and the Empress".... (MGM) (2nd week)	9,100	.....
United Artists	2,008	25c-50c	"Little Giant" (F. N.).....	10,600	"Picture Snatcher" (W. B.).....	7,200	.....

[THEATRE RECEIPTS--CONT'D]

Theatres			Current Week		Previous Week		High and Low Gross
			Picture	Gross	Picture	Gross	(Tabulation covers period from January, 1931 to date)
Hollywood
W. B. Hollywood	3,000	25c-50c	"Picture Snatcher" (W. B.).....	13,700	"The Mind Reader" (F. N.).....	13,800	High 2-7 "Little Caesar"..... 30,000 Low 11-7 "Honor of the Family"..... 7,000
Indianapolis
Apollo	1,100	25c-40c	"Kiss Before the Mirror" (U.)....	2,750	"Sweepings" (Radio)	3,000	High 6-13 "Daddy Long Legs"..... 10,000 Low 3-10-33 "Topaze" 2,500
Circle	2,800	25c-40c	"Grand Slam" (F. N.).....	4,000	"Oliver Twist" (Monogram).....	5,000	High 2-14 "Cimarron"..... 13,000 Low 3-3-33 "Sign of the Cross"..... 2,500 (Second run)
Indiana	3,300	25c-40c	"From Hell to Heaven" (Para.)..	7,000	"Elmer the Great" (F. N.).....	7,000	High 1-17 "Her Man"..... 25,000 Low 4-16-33 "The Big Drive"..... 5,000
Lyric	2,000	25c-40c	"Out All Night" (U.).....	8,000	"Past of Mary Holmes" (Radio)..	8,500	.....
Palace	2,800	25c-40c	"Hell Below" (MGM)	5,000	"The Barbarian" (MGM).....	5,000	High 5-2 "Trader Horn" ..... 22,000 Low 3-3-33 "Clear All Wires"..... 3,500
Kansas City
Mainstreet	3,049	25c-40c	"Sweepings" (Radio)	4,000	"Christopher Strong" (Radio)..... 13,500 (7 days-Amos 'n' Andy on stage Sat. & Sun.)		High 1-9-32 "Peach o' Reno"..... 25,500 Low 5-19-33 "Sweepings"..... 4,000
Midland	4,000	25c	"Hell Below" (MGM)..... 10,000 (7 days and Sat. midnite show)		"Today We Live" (MGM)..... 9,000 (7 days and Sat. midnite show)		High 1-5-33 "Strange Interlude"..... 30,000 Low 12-8-32 "Man Against Woman"... 6,000
Newman	2,000	25c-40c	"Story of Temple Drake" (Para.).. 5,700 (7 days and Sat. midnite show)		"The Working Man" (W. B.).... 6,000 (7 days and Sat. midnite show)		High 2-27-32 "Shanghai Express" ..... 25,000 Low 4-28-33 "Ex-Lady"..... 3,500
Uptown	2,000	25c-40c	"Bondage" (Fox)	2,000	"Central Airport" (F. N.)..... 6,000 (10 days)		High 1-10 "Girl of the Golden West".. 8,000 Low 5-19-33 "Bondage"..... 2,000
Los Angeles
Loew's State ...	2,416	25c-40c	"Hell Below" (MGM).....	16,000	"Zoo in Budapest" (Fox).....	10,300	High 10-25 "Susan Lenox"..... 39,000 Low 3-5-32 "The Silent Witness"..... 6,963
Paramount	3,596	25c-40c	"Supernatural" (Para.)	14,000	"Strictly Personal" (Para.).....	15,000	High 10-31 "Beloved Bachelor"..... 41,000 Low 2-6-32 "Tomorrow and Tomorrow" 7,500
RKO	2,700	25c-40c	"Christopher Strong" (Radio)....	5,300	"Below the Sea" (Col.).....	4,500	.....
W. B. Downtown	2,400	25c-50c	"Picture Snatcher" (W. B.).....	12,000	"The Mind Reader" (F. N.).....	12,200	High 2-7 "Little Caesar" ..... 27,000 Low 4-23-32 "Destry Rides Again"..... 6,200
Minneapolis
Century	1,640	25c-40c	"Looking Forward" (MGM).....	4,000	"Ex-Lady" (W. B.).....	4,000	.....
Lyceum	1,800	25c-40c	"Ladies They Talk About" (W.B.)	3,000	"Cohens and Kellys in Trouble".. (U.)	3,500	.....
Lyric	1,238	25c-40c	"Picture Snatcher" (W. B.).....	2,500	"Elmer the Great" (F. N.).....	2,500	High 5-30 "Kiki" ..... 4,000 Low 1-24 "Men on Call"..... 1,200
RKO Orpheum..	2,900	25c-50c	"Penguin Pool Murder" (Radio)..	8,500	"Christopher Strong" (Radio)....	6,000	.....
State	2,300	25c-55c	"Today We Live" (MGM).....	7,000	"Central Airport" (F. N.)..... (2nd week)	6,500	High 1-2-32 "Sooky" ..... 10,000 Low 3-10-33 "King of the Jungle"..... 3,500
World	400	25c-75c	"Be Mine Tonight" (U.)..... (5th week)	1,200	"Be Mine Tonight" (U.)..... (4th week)	1,200	.....
Montreal
Capitol	2,547	25c-60c	"Christopher Strong" (Radio) and "The Great Jasper" (Radio)	12,000	"Elmer the Great" (F. N.) and.. "Girl Missing" (W. B.)	12,000	High 1-10 "Just Imagine" ..... 18,000 Low 12-23 "The Guardsman" and "The Tip Off" ... 8,000
Imperial	1,914	25c-60c	"Une Idee Folle" (French).....	2,500	"Mirage de Paris" (French)..... (2nd week)	1,500	High 1-17 "Office Wife" ..... 10,000 Low 4-14-33 "Allo, Mademoiselle"..... 1,500
Loew's	3,115	25c-75c	"Murders in the Zoo" (Para.)...	12,500	"Out All Night" (U.).....	13,500	High 4-2-32 "Fireman, Save My Child" 16,500 Low 7-18 "Stepping Out" 9,000
Palace	2,600	25c-75c	"The White Sister" (MGM).....	13,500	"A Bedtime Story" (Para.).....	13,000	High 4-2-32 "One Hour With You".... 19,500 Low 12-23-32 "Life Begins"..... 8,500
Princess	2,272	25c-60c	"Yes, Mr. Brown" (British) and.. "Just My Luck" (British)	7,500	"Secrets" (U. A.) and..... "Face in the Sky" (Fox)	7,500	High 4-1 "City Lights" ..... 22,500 Low 12-23-32 "The Crusader" and "Hearts of Humanity" 6,000
New York
Astor	1,120	55c-$2.20	"Hell Below" (MGM)..... (4th week)	8,861	"Hell Below" (MGM)..... (3rd week)	10,441	High 1-2-32 "Hell Divers" ..... 24,216 Low 3-26-33 "The White Sister"..... 14,559
Cameo	549	25c-75c	"India Speaks" (Radio).....	3,000	"Zoo in Budapest" (Fox).....	2,850	.....
Capitol	4,700	35c-$1.65	"The Barbarian" (MGM).....	31,425	"The White Sister" (MGM).....	36,346	High 1-9-32 "Mata Hari" ..... 110,466 Low 2-2-33 "Whistling in the Dark".. 23,600
Mayfair	2,300	35c-85c	"The Big Cage" (U.) ..... (2nd week—2 days)	1,500	"Alimony Madness" (Mayfair).... (4 days)	3,000	High 12-12 "Frankenstein" ..... 53,800 Low 3-10-33 "Racetrack" 7,100
			"Soldiers of the Storm" (Col.).... (7 days)	7,200	"The Big Cage" (U.)..... (1st week-7 days)	9,200
Palace	2,500	25c-75c	"The Silver Cord" (Radio).....	11,500	"Diplomaniacs" (Radio).....	5,775	.....
Paramount	3,700	35c-99c	"The Eagle and the Hawk" (Para.)	29,070	"Story of Temple Drake" (Para.)	28,700	High 2-7 "Finn and Hattie"..... 85,900 Low 2-2-33 "Hello, Everybody"..... 15,600
Rialto	2,200	40c-65c	"Forgotten Men" (Jewel).....	22,500	"Circus Queen Murder" (Col.)....	11,800	High 2-27-32 "Shanghai Express"..... 64,600 Low 6-27 "Dracula" and "Hell's Angels" 4,500
Rivoli	2,103	40c-85c	"A Bedtime Story" (Para.)..... (4th week)	10,000	"A Bedtime Story" (Para.)..... (3rd week)	16,200	High 1-9-32 "Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde" 67,100 Low 7-29-32 "Igloo" 8,000
RKO Music Hall	5,945	35c-$1.65	"The Warrior's Husband" (Fox)..	72,045	"The Silver Cord" (Radio).....	75,638	.....
RKO Roxy	3,700	35c-$1.65	"Kiss Before the Mirror" (U.)....	19,928	"India Speaks" (Radio).....	17,023	.....
Roxy	6,200	25c-55c	"Jungle Bride" (Monogram).....	16,700	"Hello, Sister" (Fox).....	23,500	High 1-1-32 "Delicious" ..... 133,000 Low 1-26-33 "Air Hostess" 9,100
Strand	3,000	25c-85c	"Ex-Lady" (W. B.).....	13,293	"Central Airport" (F. N.).....	16,231	High 1-17 "Little Caesar" ..... 74,821 Low 4-2-32 "The Missing Rembrandt".. 8,012
Oklahoma City
Capitol	1,200	10c-40c	"The Kid From Spain" (U. A.)	2,600	"Made on Broadway" (MGM)....	2,800	High 2-7 "Illicit" ..... 11,000 Low 3-11-33 "From Hell to Heaven".... 1,350
Criterion	1,700	10c-55c	"Hell Below" (MGM).....	4,000	"Today We Live" (MGM).....	4,000	High 2-21 "Cimarron" ..... 15,500 Low 3-11-33 "Clear All Wires"..... 1,800
Liberty	1,500	10c-35c	"42nd Street" (W. B.)..... (2nd week-4 days)	1,500	"42nd Street" (W. B.)..... (1st week)	3,200	High 1-24 "Under Suspicion"..... 7,200 Low 6-20 "Big Fight" and "Drums of Jeopardy" 900
			"A Shriek in the Night" (Allied).. (3 days)	900
Mid-West	1,500	10c-55c	"Little Giant" (F. N.).....	4,000	"Lilly Turner" (F. N.).....	3,000	High 9-19 "Young As You Feel"..... 11,000 Low 3-11-33 "Employees' Entrance".... 1,400

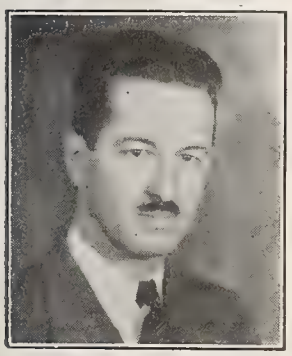
[THEATRE RECEIPTS--CONT'D]

Theatres			Current Week		Previous Week		High and Low Gross (Tabulation covers period from January, 1931 to date)
			Picture	Gross	Picture	Gross
Omaha
Orpheum	3,000	25c-40c	"World Gone Mad" (Majestic).... (25c-55c) (with stage show)	14,250	"Kiss Before the Mirror" (U.).. and "Be Mine Tonight" (U.)	5,250	High 2-14 "Cimarron"	25,550
							Low 4-29-33 "Sweepings"	5,000
Paramount	2,900	25c-50c	"Hell Below" (MGM).....	6,500	"A Bedtime Story" (Para.).....	12,250	High 4-23-32 "Tarzan, the Ape Man"..	13,750
							Low 5-21-32 "Wet Parade" and "It's Tough to Be Famous"	4,000
State	1,200	15c-25c	"Bondage" (Fox)	2,000	"Murders in the Zoo" (Para.).. (4 days)	900	High 3-14 "Trader Horn"	10,000
					"Destination Unknown" (U.)..... (3 days)	800	Low 2-10-33 "The Devil Is Driving" and "The Intruder"	1,000
World	2,500	25c-40c	"Elmer the Great" (F. N.) and.. "Hello, Sister" (Fox)	5,000	"Picture Snatcher" (W. B.) and "Men Must Fight" (MGM)	5,500	High 4-11 "Men Call It Love"	16,000
							Low 11-28 "The Cisco Kid"	4,500
Philadelphia
Arcadia	600	25c-50c	"Pick Up" (Para.)..... (6 days)	2,200	"Crime of the Century" (Para.).. (6 days)	2,200	High 12-17 "The Guardsman"	6,500
							Low 10-1-32 "Make Me a Star"	1,500
Boyd	2,400	40c-55c	"The Working Man" (W. B.).... (6 days)	11,000	"Christopher Strong" (Radio).... (6 days)	10,500	.....
Earle	2,000	40c-66c	"Strictly Personal" (Para.)..... (6 days)	14,000	"Elmer the Great" (F. N.)..... (6 days)	16,000	High 1-5-33 "Breach of Promise"	29,000
							Low 4-13-33 "Fast Workers"	12,000
Fox	3,000	35c-75c	"The Warrior's Husband" (Fox).. (6 days)	16,000	"Hello, Sister" (Fox)..... (6 days)	16,500	High 2-7 "Man Who Came Back"	40,000
							Low 6-18-32 "Mystery Ranch"	15,000
Karlton	1,000	30c-50c	"Christopher Strong" (Radio).... (6 days)	4,000	"A Bedtime Story" (Para.)..... (6 days)	5,000	High 5-2 "City Lights"	8,000
							Low 3-23-33 "Air Hostess"	2,500
Keith's	2,000	15c-35c	"Bachelor Mother" (Goldsmith).. (6 days)	5,200	"Reform Girl" (Tower)..... (6 days)	6,300	High 1-30-32 "Arrowsmith"	27,000
							Low 5-18-33 "Bachelor Mother"	5,200
Stanley	3,700	40c-55c	"The Barbarian" (MGM)..... (6 days)	9,500	"Today We Live" (MGM)..... (6 days)	12,000	High 12-19 "Frankenstein"	31,000
							Low 7-25 "Rebound"	8,000
Stanton	1,700	30c-55c	"Made on Broadway" (MGM)..... (6 days)	7,500	"The Woman Accused" (Para.).. (6 days)	7,000	High 3-21 "Last Parade"	16,500
							Low 3-23-33 "Cohens and Kellys in Trouble"	5,500
Portland, Ore.
Broadway	1,912	25c-40c	"Looking Forward" (MGM).....	5,900	"The Barbarian" (MGM).....	6,100	High 1-10 "Min and Bill"	21,000
							Low 10-1-32 "The Crash"	2,800
Liberty	1,800	15c-25c	"Hello, Sister" (Fox).....	2,300	"Face in the Sky" (Fox).....	1,900	.....
Oriental	2,040	25c-35c	"42nd Street" (W. B.)..... (5th week)	4,000	"42nd Street" (W. B.)..... (4th week)	5,000	.....
RKO Orpheum..	1,700	25c-55c	"Diplomaniacs" (Radio) ..... (25c-40c)	3,000	"Kiss Before the Mirror" (U.)..	4,000	High 2-14 "Cimarron"	20,000
							Low 5-21-33 "Diplomaniacs"	3,000
United Artists..	945	25c-40c	"Hell Below" (MGM)..... (8 days)	5,300	"Today We Live" (MGM)..... (2nd week-6 days)	4,000	High 1-10 "Hell's Angels"	12,500
							Low 3-10-33 "Madame Butterfly"	1,600
San Francisco
Fox	4,600	10c-35c	"State Trooper" (Col.) and..... "Hearts of Humanity" (Majestic)	9,600	"Obey the Law" (Col.) and..... "11th Commandment" (Allied)	10,000	High 1-3 "Lightning"	70,000
							Low 5-5-33 "Unholy Love" and "High Gear"	9,300
Golden Gate	2,800	25c-65c	"Below the Sea" (Col.).....	13,000	"Sweepings" (Radio)	15,500	High 2-9-33 "The Mummy"	25,500
							Low 6-11-32 "Lena Rivers"	7,000
Paramount	2,670	25c-75c	"Zoo in Budapest" (Fox)..... (5 days)	5,500	"Rasputin and the Empress"..... (MGM)	17,000	High 1-9-32 "The Champ"	35,600
							Low 3-31-33 "The King's Vacation"	9,500
St. Francis	1,435	25c-50c	"42nd Street" (W. B.) and..... "Untamed Africa" (W. B.)	9,000	"Bondage" (Fox) and..... "Sailor Be Good" (Radio)	6,000	.....
United Artists..	1,200	25c-50c	"Be Mine Tonight" (U.)..... (5th week)	10,000	"Be Mine Tonight" (U.)..... (4th week)	10,500	.....
Warfield	2,700	35c-90c	"The Barbarian" (MGM).....	15,400	"Picture Snatcher" (W. B.).....	18,000	High 3-14 "Parlor, Bedroom and Bath"	28,000
							Low 4-6-33 "Grand Slam"	12,000
Seattle
Blue Mouse	950	25c-50c	"Out All Night" (U.).....	3,750	"King Kong" (Radio)..... (2nd week)	3,250	.....
Fifth Avenue...	2,750	25c-55c	"Today We Live" (MGM).....	7,000	"Rasputin and the Empress".... (MGM)	8,000	High 7-30-32 "Million Dollar Legs"	18,500
							Low 3-18-33 "From Hell to Heaven" and "Secret of Madame Blanche"	5,000
Liberty	2,000	10c-25c	"Speed Demon" (Col.).....	3,500	"Cowboy Counsellor" (Allied).... and "Ra-Mu" (State Rights)	3,500	High 1-10 "The Lash"	11,500
							Low 11-11-32 "Amazon Head Hunters"	3,000
Music Box	950	25c-50c	"The Keyhole" (W. B.).....	3,500	"The Great Jasper" (Radio).....	3,500	High 2-28 "City Lights"	14,000
							Low 11-25-32 "The Crooked Circle"	3,000
Paramount	3,050	25c-55c	"The Devil's Brother" (MGM)..	6,500	"Hello, Sister" (Fox) and..... "Murders in the Zoo" (Para.)	5,500	High 1-10 "Paid"	18,000
							Low 4-15-33 "Clear All Wires" and "Broadway Bad"	4,500
Rex	1,500	15c-25c	"Billion Dollar Scandal" (Para.).. (15c-35c)	3,500	"Man Hunt" (Radio).....	2,250	.....
Roxy	2,275	25c-50c	"The Woman I Stole" (Col.).....	5,500	"Rome Express" (U.)	6,000	.....
Washington
Columbia	1,232	25c-40c	"Hello, Sister" (Fox).....	3,000	"After the Ball" (Fox).....	2,300	.....
Earle	2,323	25c-66c	"Lilly Turner" (F. N.).....	19,000	"The Working Man" (W. B.)....	22,000	.....
Fox	3,434	25c-66c	"The Warrior's Husband" (Fox)..	22,000	"The Barbarian" (MGM).....	23,250	.....
Loew's Palace..	2,363	35c-55c	"Reunion in Vienna" (MGM).....	15,000	"Today We Live" (MGM).....	15,500	.....
Metropolitan	1,600	25c-55c	"Song of the Eagle" (Para.)..... (4 days)	2,000	"Picture Snatcher" (W. B.).....	6,000	.....
			"The Working Man" (W. B.).... (3 days)	3,500
Rialto	1,900	25c-55c	"Kiss Before the Mirror" (U.)..	4,800	"Out All Night" (U.)..... (2nd week)	4,000	.....
RKO Keith's	1,832	25c-55c	"The Woman I Stole" (Col.)....	4,200	"Diplomaniacs" (Radio)	8,500	.....

MANAGERS' ROUND TABLE CLUB

An international association of showmen meeting weekly in MOTION PICTURE HERALD for mutual aid and progress

"PROSPERITY PUPPETS"



By BUNNY BRYAN

Manager, Belmont Theatre, Chicago

Bunny Bryan, well-known contributor to this department, appears to have coined a title for his following editorial, "Prosperity Puppets." We believe you'll find his observations both interesting and timely. Again the Club extends a standing invitation to all members to use this and all other pages of this section to express their views on subjects of showbusiness. Guest Editors signed this week include: M. E. BERKHIMER, Las Vegas, N. M.; JULES FIELDS, Brooklyn, N. Y.; LEE GOLDBERG, Louisville, Ky.; S. S. SOLOMON, Youngstown, Ohio; E. A. STEINBUCH, Baltimore, Md.; JOHN W. TREWHELA, Lewistown, Mont.

MANY years ago we spent a very delightful July week end on a typical New England hill farm.

During the visit, mine host directed our steps to a meadow. Cattle were grazing, earning their food and keep; several horses were dozing in the shade. Hogs were wallowing in a hog wallow at the lowest place in the field.

Pointing to one, extra large and overfat hog, my friend remarked, "That fellow is going to pay the price of his own greed and be killed long before the rest of them. I've watched him since he was a suckling piglet. He's a prosperity puppet."

"He's a prosperity puppet" seemed to stick with me. It seemed just the right phrase to describe certain persons and conditions existing in show business.

Returning to New York, I had ample opportunity to watch many re-enactments of the New England hill farm drama. The settings, the lightings, the casts were different but greed, the motive, was just the same. Substitute Broadway for the meadow; let the pompous, egotistical, inferiority complexed executive, manager, performer and agent replace the swine; fill the industrious cattle roles with hardworking, result-getting, doing-something, capable executives, managers, stars and agents.

We have never believed that any one man was endowed with the wisdom of a Solomon. To err is only human. At lunch, shortly after our New England trip, we mentioned our rural drama and our resultant thoughts. One of the keenest minded, squarest-shooting men in pictures was at our table. Starting as a press agent, on through the ranks as manager, district manager and division manager, he had finally fought his way into a ranking executive position. He knew from experience what he was discussing. In part he said, "I've never been able to understand the whining, alibi artist tribe. If they would devote one-half of their moaning time to really endeavoring to obtain results, possibly many of their complaints would have no reason for existence and the entire industry would be on a rock-like foundation, instead of shifting around.

In these most trying days, we have thought many times of "prosperity puppets." We know they have always existed, though they may have been called something else. The entire motion picture industry originated and is based upon the human equation, one of the most elusive, undefinable elements known. Oftentimes, analyze as you may, you will never be able to put your finger on the exact "reason why." Still, in the majority of cases, there is always a way out, in the manager's case, a way to pull patrons to the box office and into the theatre.

By the same token, the capable executive, harassed as he may be, and usually is, by the many problems awaiting solution, can develop initiative, obtain ticket-selling, good will obtaining results from his personnel by refusing to become a greedy, thinking-only-of-himself driver, instead of a leader.

"Prosperity puppets" thrived and waxed fat in the golden era, when, in spite of all the mistakes made, patrons stormed our box offices, ready and anxious to exchange their money for our moments of relaxing entertainment. What happened to these self-satisfied creatures, when it became necessary to produce, buy and sell shows?

In some instances, they sat down with themselves; did some real self-stock taking; endeavored to ascertain just what was wrong, not with the world, but themselves, and came out of the huddle capable of doing a real man-size job. Show me the man today, who in spite of Hell and High Water is still, at least 70 per cent successfully carrying on and we'll lay you odds he is and has been constantly taking stock of himself and conditions.

In most instances, "prosperity puppets" went into a huddle, at every possible opportunity, with other "victims of conditions" and had a real, sympathetic experience meeting, out of which came nothing but increased dissatisfaction and certainty that they were getting the rawest possible deal in every way, when, if the real truth were known, they were living far better than their brains, ability and energy entitled them to live.

Let everyone concerned, from the ranking executive to the newest usher, put his shoulder to the wheel with that extra ounce of intelligent energy that changes "prosperity puppets" into "depression doers."

KEEPING UP WITH THE TIMES!

By GUY JONES

Cartoonist Guy Says: "If the shoe fits, put it on!"

BUSINESS BUILDING!

Rosenthal Took Advantage Of Every Angle To Bring Business To Upstate Theatres!

BEFORE leaving Little Falls, N. Y., to assume an important assignment with Warner Brothers in Wilmington, Del., Morris Rosenthal succeeded in leaving some show-selling records that a successor will have plenty of trouble to top.

One thing about Rosenthal's activities that have always impressed us is the great variety of angles he injects into his campaigns. Rarely do you find a duplication of ideas in his merchandising; yet you can cover a period of many months. How many others can say as much for their work?

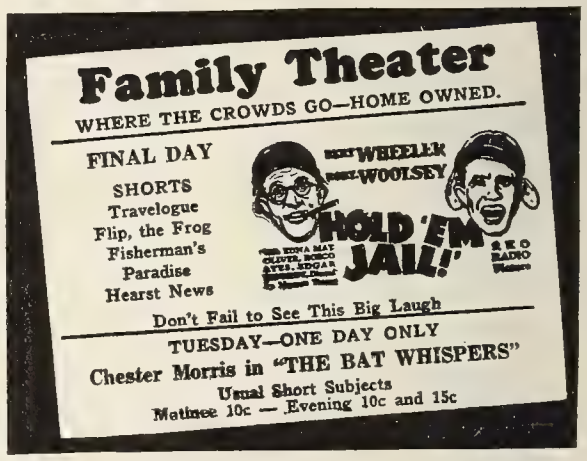
Widespread Distribution!

To vary the regular run of house to house advertising he has been sending out boys and girls with letters announcing Greater Picture Season and the current week's program of attractions. The lower half of the letter carries ruled lines for about one dozen names and addresses and a paragraph certifying that those who signed the letter read the program copy. When all signatures are attached the boy or girl becomes entitled to a free admission. Obviously this is much more effective circulation than handbills dropped at doors or pushed under them, to say nothing of being a means of collecting a new and live set of names for a mailing list. Another means he has used to reach the home, especially when some outstanding picture is due, is to turn a girl loose with a telephone and city directory.

During the Thanksgiving and Xmas seasons it was arranged with the local chapter of the Red Cross to stage Food Matinees on Saturday mornings, which netted large quantities of foodstuff for the poor. The mayor and other city officials endorsed the move and for the first time the Board of Education permitted public announcement of the matinees in every classroom in all schools. Rosenthal also effected other tie-ups with local organizations for the staging of benefit shows by means of having members sell tickets, which entitled them to a percentage of the gross resulting from the sale.

During the Food Matinee, announcement of a new serial and give-away of 25 Mickey Mouse sweat shirts, as well as the staging of a Mickey Mouse party, was made with the idea of getting the serial off to a good start. With the theatre jammed with matinee fans, it was a particularly auspicious time to distribute membership cards in the "Jungle Club," which, when punched consecutively for 11 episodes, entitled the holder to a free show at the showing of the twelfth and final chapter.

There are a number of smaller towns and hamlets within a radius of 25 miles of Little Falls and Rosenthal had secured wide distribution of his programs and heralds by effecting service tie-ups with out-of-town news dealers, through the stuffing of the bills in papers and placing them in prominent windows.



Additional efforts made recently included use of "Fat" Sanders and his "Original Country Store" to build up Tuesdays and Wednesdays, the poorest days in the week; a tie-up with a local merchant for give-away of a Speedo-Byke every Saturday over a period of four weeks; turkey give-away over the holidays, and a tie-up with the local athletic club for a benefit show to exploit "Madison Square Garden." We also note that a tie-up was made with the local newspaper to include guest tickets to the theatre for each new three-months subscription, which netted the theatre a generous amount of free advertising space.

We're always glad to hear from this energetic showman and to pass along his suggestions to other members. Operating theatres in a section such as he is in is considerably different than in the big city downtown and neighboring stands, for reason that due attention must be paid to the outlying trade, which, in many instances, is several miles distant. It takes real effort on the part of a manager to dislodge these rurals from their homes this season of the year, but we'll go on record that Morris has what it takes to do this. We'll tell you more concerning his activities in a forthcoming issue.

DON THORNBURG HAS TRICK WAY TO MAKE SMALL AD LOOK BIG

In these days of hunting around for all kinds of gags to reduce the nut and, at the same time, produce results, Don Thornburg, proprietor and manager of the Family Theatre, Marshalltown, Iowa, appears to have hit upon a method of making a two-column by four inch ad look as though it occupied much more space.

We're reproducing one of Thornburg's ads here and while details of make-up were not included it looks like regular composition set into morticed lead and off-set. At any rate, it's the contrast of white against a black background that gives the illusion.

Thornburg's Trick Ad!

Golf Shorts Tie-Up

The Warner Theatre forces in New York City recently arranged with the "Sun" and other local newspapers to run an eight-column strip taken from the new Bobby Jones series of golf sports. The strip will run for 10 consecutive Saturdays and each one will be devoted to a different club and stroke. Explanatory copy will run with the strips, as well as name of theatre.

LONG OR SHORT FILMS ALL ALIKE TO RYBAK— IF THEY CAN BE SOLD

Length of a picture doesn't mean anything when it has exploitation possibilities, believes Berner Rybak, manager of the well known Trans-Lux Theatre, Broadway, New York City, and he sets forth his convictions on the short subject in the following paragraphs:

"The picture which has an exploitation angle, regardless of whether it is a one-reeler or a seven-reeler, can be counted on to bring in a number of extra dollars to the box-office, the amount of additional revenue depending on the extent to which the picture can be exploited as well as the effort which the exhibitor puts behind it.

"The sale of tickets can be boosted through the simple medium of informing the public by means of marquee and lobby display that a particular favorite of theirs is being shown, and this is just as true of a two-reel comedy, as of a feature.

"In recent weeks the Trans-Lux Theatre has gone in more heavily for exploiting subjects "with an angle," and I am convinced that it has helped business. When we played "Krakatoa" recently, I know that the attention-getting volcanic effect in front of the theatre, with provocative copy, telling something about the remarkable nature of this film, actually sold tickets at our theatre.

"When we have a two-reel comedy with a "name" which we know is popular on Broadway, we play it up prominently, realizing that that name will bring in people who might not otherwise be coming to our theatre.

"While carefully watching the short subjects programs for next season I am hoping that producers will make more pictures that mean something in lights. It will make more money for them, and will guarantee larger box-office intakes to exhibitors who take advantage of their exploitation potentialities."

Front for "Krakatoa"

STRIKING EXAMPLE OF EUROPE AN FRONT!

Above photo is an example of the fine work being done at the new Metropole Theatre in Brussels, Belgium. This front on "Scarface" was arranged under supervision of Marcel Coppens, United Artists representative in that city. Observing the general scheme from top to bottom, note the huge cut-out head of "Scarface"; the city skyline done in modernistic style (also note Camel and Chesterfield ads in lights along tops of buildings); the French copy which translated means "Held Up Six Months by American Censors"; and the large blow-up of the newspaper office scene on the board in the rotunda. Quite a flash, eh?

E. LYONS PRODUCED EXCELLENT RESULTS ON O'NEILL DRAMA

Excellent results were obtained on "Strange Interlude" by E. Lyons, manager of the Pantheon Theatre, Vincennes, Ind., with the following campaign:

He began his teaser ad campaign 6 days ahead of opening with a small "Coming" ad and gradually increased to a 2x8 the day prior to playdate. Additional effort included planting of the regular Norma Shearer jig-saw contest with local paper; life story of Gable with another paper; tie-up with bus company to carry 500 dodgers; posting of 25 one-sheets, 1 twenty-four and 50 window cards; placing of 42 special art cards with 11x14 mounted stills in stores; display in Elks Club; mailing of 300 post cards to selected list; house-to-house distribution of 2,500 locally imprinted heralds, and advance lobby display of Shearer and Gable cutouts.

According to records the above is the first report the Club has received on Lyons. He is a welcome addition to the Round Table and we'll be looking for further word.

VET TIE-UP TURNED OUT WELL FOR JONES ON A WAR PICTURE

Plenty of publicity was obtained for "Big Drive" by George W. Jones, manager of Loew's Parkway Theatre, Wilmington, Del., through extending invitations to local Veterans of Foreign Wars to witness a gratis showing.

The accompanying photo practically tells the story. Uniformed members of the post and drum corps are grouped around entrance of the theatre, following a parade through main streets. Note the large banner the men carried en route. It stated that the post was on its way to Loew's to see the film.

George Jones' "Big Drive"

The above is just another one of the many stunts put over by Manager Jones to popularize his house and bring in extra business. As stated before, the veteran soldier angle to this picture is its strongest selling point and many other members of the Round Table Club have played it up to advantage.

ALL READY FOR INDEPENDENCE DAY!

Although most managers have already planned Fourth of July activities by this time, for those who have let this go until now we are reminding them that there's still time to push plans through to a successful conclusion.

Theatre fronts and lobbies will of course be decorated to fit the occasion; likewise, you will want some special short subjects or trailers. Displays, lobby frames and regular signs ought to be treated with holiday dress, and the National colors should be used throughout.

If you are active in your community, it should be possible to swing some portion of local entertainment to the front of the theatre, or have a parade wind up there. Fireworks displays and street dancing in front of theatres are also numbered among stunts for the occasion. And use that movie camera, if you have one, for local shots of events. It is possible to rent 35mm. cameras these days in many cities.

Also, don't neglect your advance advertising campaign. Let people know that something special is brewing to combat the general exodus which generally takes place at this season of the year. Remember, it may rain!

MICKEY MOUSE ICE CREAM TIE-UP WAS GOOD, SAYS DOMAN

During the Tenth Apple Blossom Festival, an annual event in Winchester, Va., Hable's Palace Theatre, an independent operation, promoted a very effective tie-up with the Woodstock, Virginia Division of Southern Dairies, manufacturers of milk and ice cream products and local exclusive dealers for the Mickey Mouse Ice Cream in-a-cup, by entering a Mickey Mouse motorized Float in the mammoth Festival Parade. The accompanying photograph shows the float which was designed and built by H. A. Doman, publicity director of the Palace.

The Mickey Mouse costumes were purchased from a New York manufacturer, four local kiddies secured for the impersonations; the Ford service truck loaned to the theatre by Southern Dairies, while Buster Norris, Palace Theatre artist, produced the drawings and lettering on beaverboard. While the float was not entered in contest for various prizes offered, it attracted as much attention and received as much comment as any commercial display in the entire parade.

Hable's Palace, together with Southern Dairies on the Ice Cream angle, are waging a brilliant Mickey Mouse publicity campaign for Winchester and vicinity, the Palace staging special Mickey Mouse matinees with a cup of the Mickey Mouse Ice Cream given free to every child. Needless to say, the results are proving profitable for all concerned.

Doman's Attractive Float!

We believe this is the first time the Club has had the pleasure of reporting on activities of Hable Theatres and we're indebted to Doman for the above information. We'll hope to hear more from him in the future.

AD MAT SERVICE

COMPLETE NEWSPAPER CAMPAIGNS (10 Ads) on all nationally released feature pictures sent from one source.

Also

A MONTHLY GENERAL SERVICE of seasonal and attention-getting borders, ads, miscellaneous slugs, etc.

Centralized Service insures Economy and Efficiency. . . New low service charge to meet reduced budgets.

Write to

UNITED THEATRE ADVERTISERS, Inc.
330 WEST 42nd STREET, NEW YORK CITY

SEAGOING BALLYHOO!

The resourceful Mike Simmons, director of advertising and publicity for Monogram Pictures, gazed out upon the briny during his company's recent convention at Atlantic City and thought: "What a nice place for a bally, with 'Oliver Twist' coming SOON to the Steel Pier and all these folk looking on." The above photo tells the rest of the story.

FRED HINDS MADE PROFITABLE DEAL WITH LOCAL PAPER

Working on the theory that theatres are long on seats and newspapers short on ads these days, Fred Hinds, skipper of the Strand Theatre out in Whitewater, Wis., made a call on the editor of a local sheet and proposed a swap idea. Anticipating a turn-down from the newspaperman he was pleasantly surprised when he was congratulated for advancing the scheme.

Briefly, Hinds exchanges $10 worth of theatre passes each week for a 30 inch ad. The paper gives the passes away with new subscriptions and as the result of the deal has tripled its list of new subscribers as compared with the past year.

Naturally you will not be able to sell the above idea on the big time, but Hinds believes there are many spots in various sections of the country where the deal can be made and considerable cash saved by theatremen on weekly ad expense. And why not? With scrip and other substitute currency flying around, what's wrong with a good, honest barter of passes for newspaper space? More from Fred later on.

AIR STUNT PRODUCED EXCELLENT RESULTS FOR MANAGER REQUA

The popular advertising stunt of having an airplane trail a long banner through the sky was recently used by C. E. Requa, manager of the Cozy and Norton Theatres, Norton, Kas., to publicize his houses.

His banner was seventy-five feet long by five feet wide and carried the following copy: "Parachute Jumper—Cozy—Norton" (dates). It was clearly visible for at least half a mile.

Requa believes the novelty of this stunt, especially in the smaller towns, will draw a crowd. In his case it had the natives stretching their necks and digging under the mattresses for the price of admission.

BASEBALL ANGLE IN 'ELMER' NETTED SID DANNENBERG PLENTY

By stressing the baseball theme of the picture and tying in with the local big league team and newspapers, Sid Dannenberg, director of publicity and exploitation for Warner Bros.' Circuit Management Corp., Ohio, pulled many an extra dollar into the box office during the Cleveland run.

Following is a resume of the Cleveland campaign as outlined in the "Mouthpiece," which goes out to 30 odd managers in the division:

Ushers wore baseball uniforms, secured gratis, one week in advance of playdate; 20,000 heralds were distributed on day of "Cleveland Indians" opening game (accompanying photo shows ushers who mingled with crowd of fans, bearing Joe E. Brown copy; inset shows Nat Wolf, zone manager, with Mel Harder, ace pitcher); special invitations were sent to Cleveland and Detroit Clubs for Baseball Night Celebration; special newspaper publicity in sports and news sections of papers; ballyhoo man wearing large size baseball uniform and carrying huge bat paraded streets, and an "Are You Aware" tie-up in classified section of paper, in which gratis announcement appeared in editorial columns.

Additional effort included planting of 40 11 by 14's in select downtown windows; planting of 100 stills in select downtown windows; ad in downtown newspaper office;

The Cleveland Gang!

mention of attraction in every hotel guide and magazine; give-away of baseball bats, gloves and other equipment at kiddies' Saturday matinee at Uptown and Variety theatres; newspaper teaser campaign five days in advance.

As Sid Dannenberg states, any manager who can tie this picture in with an important baseball opening day or game is in line to obtain some corking exploitation. He also suggests taking photos of sections of crowds and then running same in newspapers with a few heads circled in white for guest tickets. His Cleveland campaign brought home the bacon and we thank him for passing along the foregoing excellent suggestions to his fellow showmen. More about his activities in forthcoming numbers.

Before we sign off, however, let us mention that Hank Harold, well known artist with the Warner-Cleveland staff, is still knocking out effective copy. We'll reproduce some of his work just as soon as space permits resumption of the Club newspaper ad pages.

looking forward

To what extent do the methods of the studio consider the problems of effective exhibition? For example, many productions of recent years show a great advance in cinematographic technique. But do they show consideration of the conditions at the screen—do they show an appreciation of the full range of the screen? These are production matters that importantly affect the theatre. Use of the entire screen offers greater opportunities to make the picture a dynamic instrument of story-telling. And such use of the entire screen fundamentally affects theatre design. . . . In the June 3 issue of Better Theatres, Ben Schlanger, New York, architect and specialist in problems of the motion picture as they involve the theatre, will offer further researches in this field, in seqence to his first article on the subject in the April 8 issue.

the job today

The theare manager and his assistants interest themselves in the ideas that come from a seeking of better methods, of greater opportunities for the motion picture and its theatre — but today's job is made up of today's necessary tasks in operating and conditioning the property in their care. And today's most urgent task in management is the rehabilitation of the theatre which has not been properly maintained during the last two or three years. . . . In the June 3 issue of Better Theatres will be started an ambitious program of aid to management in the work of Theatre Rehabilitation.

In the next Issue of

BETTER THEATRES

Published as Section Two of Motion Picture Herald of June 3

personalities

MONTY MAC LEVY
that affable, capable showman from Brooklyn has rejoined the Randforce Amusement Corporation as Publicity Director of the Circuit. Lots of luck, Monty, you know we're rooting for you, and as soon as you're set let's here what you're doing to put things over.

▽

VERNE TOUCHETT
formerly with Fox at Fond du Lac, Wis., has been named manager of the recently reopened Fond du Lac Theatre. The house is being operated on a vaudeville and film policy by a partnership consisting of Thomas K. Valos, Tom Chamales and James Gregory, operators of the Majestic, Chicago, and twelve other houses in Indiana and Illinois cities. T. G. Valos is assisting Touchett.

▽

RUSSELL A. BROWN
has been appointed manager of the newly opened New State Theatre, now under the Universal banner, Spokane, Wash.

▽

LEON AND SOL KRIM
have taken over the Kramer Theatre, Detroit, a house formerly operated by Wallie Kramer. W. D. Ward has been named manager.

▽

ROBERT B. JACKSON
formerly assistant manager of the Lafayette Theatre, Buffalo, has been appointed manager of the Strand and Cataract Theatres, Niagara Falls, N. Y., by A. C. Hayman.

▽

A. M. MILLER
formerly manager of the Orpheum Theatre, Oakland, Calif., is now at the helm of the Fox-Oakland, Oakland, according to word from Frank C. Burhans, present manager of the Orpheum.

▽

EDGAR JONES
manager of the Madrid Theatre, Kansas City, recently became an honorary member of the Bandit's Relief Association, through being robbed of $200 in theatre receipts, including $35 of Edgar's hoardings.

▽

EMANUEL ROLSKY
recently completed reseating of his 800 seat St. John Theatre, Kansas City. Heywood-Wakefield did the job.

▽

LEW M. HARRIS
former manager of the Egyptian Theatre, Delta, Colo., is managing the Fox-Majestic, Santa Monica, Calif., according to information from Harry R. Moore, present manager of the Egyptian.

▽

A. H. YOEMAN
independent theatre operator of Hattiesburg, Miss., has taken over management of the Temple Theatre, Meridian, Miss.

▽

M. A. LEBENSBURGER
recently acquired the Court Theatre, Bellefontaine, Ohio, and will reopen following installation of new sound equipment.

▽

CAL MILLER
former owner of the Opera House and Strand Theatres, Port Clinton, Ohio, has taken over the Madrid, local de luxe house.

▽

HARMON PEERY
well known Ogden, Utah, exhibitor, has plans under way to reopen the Orpheus Theatre, Evanston, Wyoming.

▽

JOE RINZLER
formerly in charge of the Marcy Theatre, Brooklyn, N. Y., is now at the helm of the Alba, another Randforce house in Brooklyn.

KIDDIE BUSINESS !

Here's how Jack Hodges, manager of the Tampa Theatre, Tampa, Florida, brings the kids in with a vengeance. The occasion was a tie-up with "King of the Jungle" and a pet parade. So many kids and animals were entered in the march, a police escort was necessary.

CHARLIE ROSE
manager of Schines' Colonial Theatre, Norwich, N. Y., was erroneously associated with the Smalley Circuit, also represented in Norwich, in a recent exploitation brief published in this department. Clifford Swick is manager of Smalley's Theatre there.

▽

J. L. THATCHER
has reopened the New Theatre, New Staritsville, Ohio. Thatcher hails from New Lexington, Ohio.

▽

W. B. COOK
has purchased the Arvada Theatre, Arvada, Colo., and has reopened it.

▽

P. J. NOLAN
well known operator of the Avalon, Rexy and Columbia Theatres, Ottawa, Canada, recently increased his activities in the business world through acquisition of $100,000 worth of drug store, restaurant and cafe, all located in the downtown section of his home town.

▽

PETE CERRETTI
has announced reopening of the Casino Theatre, Melcher, Iowa, first run which has been closed for three years. Sound equipment, new cooling system and new seats have been installed.

▽

BEN Y. CAMMACK
is the new manager of Warner Bros. exchange at St. Louis.

MANAGERS' ROUND TABLE CLUB OF MOTION PICTURE HERALD

CLUB PIN

Managers' Round Table Club, Motion Picture Herald, 1790 Broadway, New York. • Send postpaid the number of pins noted below, for which payment is enclosed at $1.00 each (Actual pin is 3/8 of an inch in diameter.)

MEMBER _____

THEATRE _____

ADDRESS _____

CITY _____

STATE _____ HOW MANY? _____

DOUGLAS GEORGE
recently in charge of Warner's Palace Theatre, Philadelphia, Pa., has been appointed assistant to Phil Chakeres, general manager of the State-Regent Corporation, Springfield, Ohio. George will have personal supervision of the State, Fairbanks and Regent Theatres. Good luck, Doug.

▽

TED ROCKWELL
staff artist on a newspaper for the past two years, was recently appointed manager of the Spreckels Theatre, San Diego, by Lou Metzger, general manager. Ted replaces Jack Rosenberg, who has been made exploitation man. William Brodie will handle publicity.

▽

GEORGE ALLEN
former operator of the American Theatre, Coalville, Idaho, has taken over the Playhouse, Salt Lake City.

▽

LEROY V. JOHNSON
general manager of Jensen & Von Herberg interests, Seattle, recently announced reopening of his company's newly acquired Fox Theatre, Seattle.

▽

ROY PATTERSON
recently resigned his connection with Publix at Hamilton, Ohio, to take over the management of the Gordon Theatre, first run house at Middletown, Ohio. He succeeds Robert Gibbs, owner, who will devote his time to other theatre interests.

▽

CLIFF BOYD
until recently manager of the RKO Albee Theatre, Cincinnati, Ohio, with Jack Sprig, conductor of the Albee orchestra, and Abraham Lipp, local legal counsel for RKO, have formed a new corporation known as the Boy Amusement Company. It will operate theatres, roadhouses and book stage talent locally and in several other key cities.

▽

GLEN McCONNELL
owner of the Cozy, Humboldt, Kas., has installed new sound equipment.

▽

BRECKENDRIDGE L. FAGIN
until recently manager of the Fox Plaza, Kansas City, is now at the helm of the Paramount, Joplin, Mo., a Publix house operated by Grubel Bros.

▽

FRED CRUISE
formerly manager of the Palace Theatre, New York City, is now handling the RKO 81st Street Theatre, also in New York.

▽

JOHN JONES
is directing operation of the Oriental and Tower Theatres, Milwaukee, for the M. L. Annenberg Investment Corp., owner of the buildings. W. R. Leddy continues as manager of the Oriental, and D. C. Murray, former assistant manager of the Tower, is in charge of the Tower.

▽

WILLIAM WATSON
who managed the Cleveland Hippodrome under the RKO banner, continues at the helm since the 3,800 seater reverted to its owners under independent first run policy. Corwin Collins, formerly with Keith's East 105th Street, is assistant manager.

▽

BILL DRISCOLL
assistant manager of the Southtown Theatre, Chicago, for the past eighteen months, has been transferred to a similar post at the Roosevelt, same city.

▽

HARVEY FLEISCHMAN
until recently manager of the Embassy Theatre, a Randforce house in Brooklyn, N. Y., has been transferred to the Lefferts, another link in the same circuit.

QUICK SERVICE IDEAS THAT WORKED

FERDINAND ALSINA, skipper of the Famous Theatre, a neighborhood house in New Orleans, recently inaugurated a 10 Cent Matinee for children on Saturday afternoon, consisting of a puppet talking exhibition of Amos 'n' Andy, Jiggs and Maggie, Mutt and Jeff and Punch and Judy. Magic tricks were given free to children who wormed their way through the doors. To quote the policeman on duty the afternoon was "terrific." . . .

CHARLES B. TAYLOR, publicity director of Shea Theatres, Buffalo, N. Y., assisted by E. K. O'Shea, local M-G-M exchange manager, cashed in on publicity following a trade and press review which was attended by the socially prominent parents of Franchot Tone, who gets his first real screen break in "Gabriel Over the Whitehouse." A sequence still of Tone made the local papers. . . .

J. E. BECKER, manager of the Hollywood, Cincinnati suburban house, received unstinted thanks of local ministers and church members for keeping his theatre closed Tuesdays, Wednesdays and Thursdays during Lent. . . .

J. C. HUNTER, general manager of Ralph Talbot Theatres, justifiably calls attention to an editorial box which recently occupied two-column top centre space on the front page of the "Tulsa Tribune," a prominent western newspaper, in behalf of "Gabriel Over the Whitehouse" at the local Ritz Theatre. The paper's editor urged every citizen to see it and become "a better citizen." Mr. Hunter feels that this industry should take pride in having produced a picture meriting such praise. This is a tip to see your local editor. . . .

E. E. WHITTAKER, manager of the Paramount, Atlanta, pressed his entire staff into service when exploiting and publicizing "42d Street." Each member undertook to complete three different tie-ups and as a result the picture received the benefit of a corking campaign. One of the stunts was a four-page broadside, consisting of picture publicity, cuts and local advertising. The latter defrayed distribution expense of 10,000 copies. . . .

LOU METZGER, general manager of the Spreckles, San Diego, invited all the local bridge experts to participate in a tournament in theatre lobby as a publicity stunt for "Grand Slam." He also tied-up with Bicycle Playing Card for lobby display of blown-up playing cards, and, in addition had an attractive display of bridge lamps, tables and other accessories in foyer. Regular size playing cards with theatre imprint were used for throwaways. . . .

HOLT'S CLEVER AD!

When announcing hold-over of the Cantor picture, "Kid from Spain," at the Palace Theatre, Cincinnati, Nat Holt, division manager for RKO, framed the ad shown

We believe you'll all agree that use of the copy, "Out of My Way, Panther Woman —You'll Have to Wait Another Week," was both a clever means of advising the public concerning the current attraction and a plug for the picture due the following week.

BOB BROWNING, live-wire manager of the Aztec Theatre, Enid, Okla., likes ballyhoo. He not only used a car bally on "42d Street," but attracted a crowd at his Mecca Theatre by having his drummer, dressed as a clown, do some plain and fancy drumming. The drummer would then "kid" with the people or walk out on the gathering with a girl friend on his arm.

JOHN McMANUS, manager of Loew's Midland, Kansas City, recently reaped publicity and good will by playing host to the Kansas City Blues and Chicago Cubs, so that both teams might witness a short film of the Blues' team in training. . . .

PEP UP YOUR BUSINESS

DECORATIONS - PAPER HATS - BALLOONS
NOISEMAKERS - SERPENTINE - CONFETTI
PRIZES - GIVE-AWAY NOVELTIES

SLACK MANUFACTURING CO.
124-126 West Lake Street Chicago, Ill.
Phone: Randolph 3654 Send for Catalogue

GEORGE BAKER, manager of the Publix-Newman, Kansas City, garnered a lot of publicity on "Hard to Handle" by tying up with 600 young Liberty magazine salesmen for a parade through the downtown section. The boys carried banners plugging the picture and distributed throwaways en route. George rewarded them with a Saturday matinee. . . .

B. D. COCKRILL, manager of the RKO Orpheum Theatre, Salt Lake City, in conjunction with the recent addition of vaude acts on his program, saw audiences give Owen Sweeten, well known M. C. along the Pacific Coast, a warm welcome when taking up his new duties as M. C. at the Orpheum. . . .

KARL KRUG, former drama critic and now special exploitation man for U. A., when handling "Secrets" at the Penn, Pittsburgh, had his doubts how the male reviewers on Pittsburgh's three dailies would react to a picture claimed to be chock full of feminine appeal. Imagine his heart action when the boys came through with such words as "great," "triumph," etc. . . .

LARRY CONLEY, of the Stanley Theatre, Jersey City, discovered that a recent issue of "Screen Romances" carried the complete story of "Ladies They Talk About" and tied-up with the magazine for plenty of large, brilliantly colored window cards which gave the theatre imprint and playdate. . . .

JAMES LONG, manager of the Fox-Warwick, Kansas City, staged a Fashion Parade recently, with live models, master of ceremonies and acts. Patrons liked the stunt. . . .

J. HARRY GRUVER, proprietor of the Glen Theatre, Glenburnie, Md., uses an inch and a half space on bottom portions of his programs so that names and addresses can be filled in and has obtained a one-cent Post Office Permit for mailing of same without envelopes. He folds the pocket size program in half, fastens the pages with a brad, and says they go through okay. . . .

GEORGE NEALANS, assistant manager of the Alabama Theatre, Birmingham, Ala., plugged "King of the Jungle" with a fine tie-up with the A & P Tea Co. He selected 14 of the 138 stores in the city and put out some 7,000 large paper sacks imprinted with theatre copy. Stores selected were located in key positions. . . .

MANAGER NOWACHEK, of the Adams Opera House, Adams, Wis., is a firm believer in the personal letter angle and frequently utilizes this method to plug attractions he wants to crack box-office records with. . . .

WABASH AVENUE

CHICAGO

Frank Young, who has a host of friends along Film Row and among the city's exhibitors, has been promoted to the branch managership of United Artists' exchange in Milwaukee. As a Chicago salesman, Mr. Young built up an enviable reputation for himself, and his name was frequently at the head of the list of the company's leading business getters throughout the country. He has been with United Artists for nine years.

▽

Vic Maylon, a veteran in the equipment business, has joined Joe Goldberg's new service and supply organization. Maylon was with the old Exhibitors Supply Company for 12 years and later with National. For the past five years he has been with E. E. Fulton Co.

▽

It is a sad coincidence that two recent deaths took from Allied Theatres of Illinois two of its directors: Floyd Brockell and Abe Ostrowsky.

▽

A couple of Wabash Avenue's popular young men should get together and form a mutual consolation society. We refer to the chaps who are nursing sore jaws and falsetto voices as a result of having molars extracted.

▽

Harry Hollander, of Master Arts Products, was a visitor from New York, calling on Johnny Mednikow.

▽

Ed Wolk, who is well known through his many years with the Chicago Cinema Equipment Company, has gone into the supply business on his own. Mr. Wolk is making his headquarters at 1636 Greenleaf Avenue, where he is handling a line of parts for Simplex and Kaplan projectors, as well as Peerless lamps and other items.

▽

The only two men at a luncheon of 75 women, motion picture chairmen of the Illinois Federation of Women's Clubs, Henry Herbel and Jack Miller, did honors for the industry in brave and pertinent talks.

▽

George West, of Exhibitors Screen Service, is covering a lot of ground on his current visit to branch offices in the middle west.

▽

Jack Belkey has taken over the Casimer theatre. Gus Stathis is now managing the Cameo.

▽

Many fine compliments are heard along the Row on the attractive manner in which Gallos Bros. have decorated, equipped and modernized the Ray theatre.

▽

Every year along about this season Irving Mack brings out a new group of cooling trailers and the Filmack head says that this year's are the snappiest ever.

▽

Henri Ellman announces that Capitol Film has taken over the release of 10 old Pathe features for Illinois and Indiana. Robert Armstrong in "The Racketeer" will be the first release.

HOLQUIST

Sennett in Columbia Deal

Mack Sennett is discussing a short subject deal with Columbia which will call for 26 two-reel subjects for 1933-34. The producer has been in New York for a number of weeks.

Eisenstein Film Opening on Coast

Sergei Eisenstein's "Thunder Over Mexico" will probably have its world premiere in Los Angeles, after which Sol Lesser and Upton Sinclair will take the film to New York for a showing before the Film Forum. Another showing will be given for the motion picture trade and following this plans will be made for the roadshowing of the picture.

M. Eisenstein, noted Russian director, shot the film below the Mexican border in exactly 186,000 feet. It will be shown on the screens of this country in 7,200 feet. Sol Lesser, independent distributor, is attempting to make a deal for distribution of the picture through a national company, but, in the event that such a thing is not possible, he will take charge of distribution himself.

ON BROADWAY

Week of May 20

MAYFAIR

Hear 'Em and Weep..... Columbia
Temple of Heaven..... Syndicate
The Lumber Champ..... Universal

PARAMOUNT

Daddy Knows Best..... Paramount
Balance..... Paramount

RIALTO

Aggravatin' Bear..... Paramount
Roadhouse Queen..... Paramount
Screen Souvenirs—No. 9... Paramount

RIVOLI

Stephen Foster..... Master Arts
The Mail Pilot..... United Artists
When in Rome..... Fox

RKO MUSIC HALL

Hot Hoofs..... Educational
Russian Dressing..... Columbia

RKO ROXY

A Gondola Journey..... Fox
Heave Two..... RKO Radio
Rome and Juliet..... RKO Radio

ROXY

King Neptune..... United Artists
Knight Duty..... Educational

STRAND

Hip Action..... Vitaphone
Sky Symphony..... Vitaphone

Amity Raises Total Offices; Sues Educational Exchanges

The total number of Amity Pictures branch offices has been raised to 26. R. M. Savini and William Saal are in charge. Amity handles Tiffany, Quadruple and Amity pictures. Detroit and Cleveland will soon have exchanges.

An action to collect $100,461 from Educational was filed this week in New York by Amity. Justice Gavegan in Supreme Court signed a writ of attachment against the two defendants. The action involves a distribution contract which existed between Tiffany and Educational and alleges $100,461 is due Tiffany, whose claims were assigned to Amity in April, and is unpaid

NEWS PICTURES

FOX MOVIETONE NEWS—No. 69—Head Play wins Preakness—Army troopers train at Fort Sill, Okla.—German plane re-christened Hindenburg—Chicago Fair prepares to open—J. F. T. O'Connor named treasury comptroller—Roller skating fad hits New York—Ramsay MacDonald pleased with trip to United States.

FOX MOVIETONE NEWS — No. 70 — Gold Star Mothers leave for France—Major Dalrymple wars on gangs—New York family has 16 children—Prince of Wales heads English football fans—Japs honor their Emperor—Maytime arrives on the Danube—Autos dash over Italian peaks.

HEARST METROTONE NEWS—No. 268—Roosevelt makes plea for peace—Japan hails its ruler—Gold Star Mothers sail for France—Milk war rages in Midwest—New York's prize Daddy has 16 children—Italian air fleet in flight to World's Fair in Chicago—Lewis wins wrestling match in New York.

HEARST METROTONE NEWS — No. 269 — Tom Mooney fights for freedom in San Francisco—"Big Ten" college meet at Evanston, Ill.—Grisha Goluboff must return violin to Germany—Society witnesses steeplechase at Roslyn, N. Y.—Long hair put in Chicago Fair—Nazis burn books in Germany—$3,300,000,000 plan to aid recovery—Motorcyclists perform at Cary, Ill.

PARAMOUNT NEWS—No. 83—Honor Joan of Arc with parade at Orleans—President moves for peace—Cowboys give show at Livermore, Cal.—Armed guards convoy Midwest milk shipments—Fire strikes at Auburn, Me.—Family of 16 is New York's largest PARAMOUNT NEWS—No. 84—Motorcyclists climb hills at Cary, Ill.—Mooney pleads case in San Francisco—Royal Naval College moves to Suffolk—Baby animals at Chicago Fair—Germans burn books—Employment and wage levels rising everywhere.

PATHE NEWS—No. 84—Nations await Hitler's arms talk—Marchers demand bonus payment—Rockefellers move to Radio City—New York boy murderer convicted—President's son becomes manager of air line at Glendale, Cal.—More jobs and pay rises—Preakness goes to Head Play.

PATHE NEWS—No. 85—America backs Roosevelt—Milk strike at Try, Wis.—New rail bus tested in Paris—$1,000,000 blaze at Auburn, Me.—Beauties parade at Agua Caliente, Mex.—Motor trials at Indianapolis, Ind.—New York's largest family consists of 16—New York locksmith back from North Sea—News flashes.

UNIVERSAL NEWSPAPER NEWSREEL—No. 86—German riders win cup in Rome, Italy—Mrs. Roosevelt visits bonuseers at Fort Hunt, Va.—Ancient fighting fete revived in Japan—Rubber money in circulation at Hood River, Ore.—Police raze "shanty village" in New York—Pictures of New York's largest family—Experts hail one-man submarine at Oakland, Cal.—Chipmunks take to bottle in Atlanta—Farmers clash in milk riot at Mukwonago, Wis.

UNIVERSAL NEWSPAPER NEWSREEL—No. 147—Society sees steeplechase at Roslyn, N. Y.—B. E. F. marches to White House—College teams hold track meet at Evanston, Ill.—New device to speed farm work tested at Salinas, Cal.—Children stage unique fete in Switzerland—Tom Mooney's trial begins in San Francisco—College at Wayne, Pa., teaches stilt walking—Elephant at St. Louis zoo looses ton during illness—Motorcyclists thrill crowds at Cary, Ill.

Baker Named Treasurer of Missouri, Kansas MPTA

C. F. Baker, Publix district manager in Kansas City, has been named treasurer pro tem of the MPTA of Kansas and Missouri to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Jay Means, who also withdrew as a director. Mr. Baker will serve until the regular election of officers at the convention next month.

Jay Means declared that he resigned because he was slighted by E. Van Hyning, president, in not being asked to attend a recent board meeting. President Van Hyning, replying to Means' allegations, said that the reason he was not asked was because of the wide divergence of opinion between Means and the board and that inasmuch as the board had been called on matters of policy, he did not feel Means would be interested.

Adams Joins United Artists

Alvin Adams, formerly with Paramount's publicity department, has resigned from Columbia and will join Hal Horne's staff at United Artists May 22.

TECHNOLOGICAL

The BLUEBOOK School

By F. H. RICHARDSON

BLUEBOOK SCHOOL QUESTION NO. 174.—(A) Do local authorities for the most part err in the matter of locating port shutter fuses? (B) Many port shutter fuses are located from two to four feet from the seat of any possible film fire. How long, in your judgment, would it take for such a fuse to "let go" and drop the shutters? (C) What value would a fuse so placed have in the prevention of fright in case the projectionist failed to drop the shutters manually? (D) What state has laws requiring port fire shutters to be held by film fuses so located that fire will reach them immediately a fire starts, either at a projector or at the rewind table? (I ask this question for the reason that I believe projection ists really should keep posted on such matters. I am curious to know whether or not any of you have this really important bit of information.)

Answer to Question No. 167

Bluebook School Question No. 167 was: "(A) Explain, in full detail, just what constitutes proper rewinding of film. (B) What amount of tension should be applied to the reel from which the film is being rewound? (Note: There was an error in this one. The word 'upon' should have been 'from.' (C) Explain, in full detail, how the rewinder elements should be mounted."

There was a lamentable failure on this rather simple series. What's the matter with some of you men. Don't you realize the high importance of the proper rewinding of film? Great damage is constantly being done by failure to do this job properly. Some of the answers show why. One man, whom I won't name, says in answer to Section A: "I don't understand what you mean by this question. It is only necessary to place the reels on the rewinder and start it going. I suppose you mean, should the man hold the film between his fingers to find loose patches? But how can that be done in a one-man place?"

The following made acceptable answers: S. Evans and C. Rau, G. E. Doe, Dale Danielson, E. E. Parkinson, T. Van Vaulkenburg, K. Dowling, H. Edwards, W. Ostrum, J. Wentworth, Bill Doe, C. Humphries, M. R. Winning and L. N. Daniels; A. Lomberg and D. Johnson; D. Holler and B. Eilers; G. M. Marksley, D. L. Stanhope, P. Buckstone and P. L. Davis; D. Golding, J. M. McKinzie, D. E. Pratt and F. H. Banning; A. Bailey, P. N. Weigand and J. C. Lawby; D. Samuels and H. Samuels; O. Garling and B. Diglah; B. M. May, A. E. Wyatt and R. E. Baiss; J. Ahrenson and G. Lombard; H. D. Davis and H. D. Cylor; E. Olliver and D. L. Bentley; H. B. Coates, W. S. Andrus, B. R. Thompson, G. Deckson and L. Cranlo; T. Hollender and R. G. McGillis; F. D. Samuels, L. Peterson and D. Donahue, L. V. Smolley and K. L. Knight; B. Tildon, D. B. Bates and J. L. Major; G. G. Creston, U. L. Banning and F. Daniels; P. L. Janns, F. D. Prindley, J. S. Bischoff and L. S. Marksley; R. L. Grant and D. Grant; T. L. Binns, P. Lambert and S. G. Goss; L. Torr and P. L. Davis; and L. Simmons and D. Adamson.

After careful consideration I have selected the answer of T. VanVaulkenburg to Section A as best suited for publication. He says, "First of all, good rewinding must accomplish its purpose with a minimum of damage to the film. This may be accomplished only when the following procedure is observed. (A) Rewinder elements in perfect alignment so that the film will touch neither side of either reel as rewinding is carried forward. (B) When rewinding is not done at excessive speed, the minimum permissible time consistent with good work being six minutes to each 1,000 feet of film; the best rate of speed being eight to ten minutes per thousand feet of film. (C) Sufficient tension applied to reel from which film is being rewound to cause the film to be wound snugly upon the receiving reel. (D) Rewinding not carried forward in dusty atmosphere. (E) Rewinder motor arranged to have its feed circuit broken instantly the rewinding is fully accomplished. (F) Automatic brake so arranged that receiving reel will be stopped quickly when rewinding is finished. (G) No bent or otherwise imperfect reels to be used. (H) No punched sheet metal reels having openings, etc., roughened by dull punch to be used. (I) No "pulling down."

"In the foregoing I have assumed that film inspection and repairs are not meant to be included in the answer, they being done by means of a hand driven rewinder supplied by the management for the purpose."

(B) I believe the answer of K. Dowling is at least as excellent as any of the several very good ones. He says, "Apparently the question contains an error. Naturally tension could not, or at least would not, be applied to the reel upon which the film is being rewound. I believe the word 'upon' was intended to be 'from.' (Correct.)

"There should be just enough tension applied to rewind the film snugly, but not sufficient to cause the film layers to slip or slide over each other lengthwise as rewinding progresses, since that would cause grinding any dust or dirt present into the film or the emulsion, or to produce scratch marks which, when they fill up with dirt will set up the effect of 'rain' on the screen. Too much tension, moreover, is not only hard on the rewind motor, but also wasteful of current. Too little tension is bad for several reasons. It is a matter for the exercise of judgment and common sense." (Note: I doubt that excessive tension would cause slippage.—F. H. R.)

(C) G. E. Doe says, "Rewinder elements should be mounted on a suitable table or bench having a solid, substantial top, assuming, of course, that our editor and friend does not have in mind one of the self-contained rewinders, but merely two rewinder elements, a suitable driving motor and speed reduction gearing. The table or bench should be mounted in the most convenient place which will comply with local laws. The two elements should be mounted in such manner that two perfect reels placed on the rewinder will be in perfect alignment with each other, and should be locked rigidly in that position, preferably with substantial bolts. The alignment should be tested once each month. The motor should be so mounted that by no possibility can film come into contact with it, regardless of what kind of motor it may be, or how impossible it may seem for trouble to occur through contact with film. The controlling switch must be fully and completely enclosed. The elements should be mounted a sufficient distance apart to leave plenty of room between large-sized reels, and if it is intended at any time to use said rewinder for inspection and repair, then suitable arrangement should be made for mounting cement bottle, film splicer, etc., conveniently and permanently—permanently for the reason that they should always be there when wanted."

THE RELEASE CHART

Productions are listed according to the names of distributors in order that the exhibitor may have a short-cut towards such information as he may need, as well as information on pictures that are coming. Features which are finshed or are in work, but to which release dates have not been assigned, are listed in "Coming Attractions." Running times are those supplied by the distributors. Where they vary, the change is probably due to local censorship deletions. Dates are 1932, unless otherwise specified.

ALLIED PICTURES

Features

Title	Star	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
Cowboy Counsellor	Hoot Gibson-Sheila Manners	Oct. 15	63	Oct. 8
Dude Bandit, The	Hoot Gibson-Gloria Shea	May 1,'33	67
Eleventh Commandment	Marian Marsh-Theo. Von Eltz	Mar. 15,'33	64	Mar. 18,'33
Fighting Parson, The	Hoot Gibson-Marceline Day	May 22,'33
Intruder, The	Monte Blue-Lila Lee	Dec. 26	69	Jan. 14,'33
Iron Master, The	Lila Lee-Reginald Denny	Nov. 1	69	Dec. 10
Officer 13	Monte Blue-Lila Lee	Nov. 26	67	Dec. 3
Parisian Romance, A	Lew Cody-Marian Shilling	Oct. 1	77	Sept. 17
Shriek in the Night, A	Ginger Rogers-Lyle Talbot	Apr. 15,'33	70	Mar. 25,'33

Coming Feature Attractions

Boots of Destiny — Hoot Gibson
Cheaters
Davy Jones' Locker
Midnight Alarm
Open for Inspection
Pullman Car
Red Kisses
Scarlet Virgin, The Silk Trimmed
Slightly Used
Three Castles
Valley of Adventure, The — Monte Blue
Without Children

CHESTERFIELD

Features

Title	Star	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
Forgotten	June Clyde-Lee Kohlmar	Feb. 15,'33	65
Love Is Like That	Rochelle Hudson-John Warburton	Mar. 15,'33	65
Secrets of Wu Sin	Lois Wilson-Grant Withers	Dec. 15	65
Slightly Married	Evalyn Knapp-Walter Byron	Oct. 15	65	Dec. 3
Strange People	Hale Hamilton-Gloria Shea-John Darrow	Jan. 15,'33	65
Women Won't Tell	Sarah Padden-Gloria Shea	Nov. 15	67

Coming Feature Attractions

I Have Lived — Alan Dinehart-Anita Page — June 15,'33

COLUMBIA

Features

Title	Star	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
Air Hostess	Evalyn Knapp-James Murray-Thelma Todd	Jan. 15,'33	67	Jan. 28,'33
As the Devil Commands	Alan Dinehart-Neil Hamilton-Mae Clarke	Dec. 24
Below the Sea	Ralph Bellamy-Fay Wray	Apr. 25,'33
Bitter Tea of General Yen	B. Stanwyck-Nils Asther	Jan. 6,'33	89	Nov. 26
California Trail, The	Buck Jones-Helen Mack	Mar. 24,'33
Child of Manhattan	John Boles-Nancy Carroll	Feb. 4,'33	71	Jan. 21,'33
Circus Queen Murder, The	Adolphe Menjou-Greta Nissen-Donald Cook	Apr. 10,'33	65	May 13,'33
Deception	Leo Carrillo-Barbara Weeks-Nat Pendleton	Nov. 4	67	Jan. 14,'33
End of the Trail, The	Tim McCoy-Luana Walters	Dec. 19	59½
Fighting for Justice	Tim McCoy-Joyce Compton	Dec. 28	60½
Forbidden Trail	Buck Jones-Barbara Weeks	Nov. 18	71
Man Against Woman	Jack Holt-Lillian Miles	Nov. 15	68	Dec. 10
Man of Action	Tim McCoy-Caryl Lincoln	Jan. 20,'33	57
Mussolini Speaks		Mar. 10,'33	76	Mar. 18,'33
Night of Terror	Bela Lugosi-Sally Blane	Apr. 24,'33
No More Orchids	Carole Lombard-Lyle Talbot
Obey the Law	Leo Carrillo-Lois Wilson-Dickie Moore	Jan. 20,'33	69	Mar. 18,'33
Parole Girl	Mae Clarke-Ralph Bellamy	Mar. 4,'33	67	Apr. 15,'33
Rusty Rides Alone	Tim McCoy-Barbara Weeks	May 26,'33
Silent Man	Tim McCoy-Florence Britton	Mar. 3,'33	68
So This Is Africa	Bert Wheeler-Robt. Woolsey-Raquel Torres	Feb. 24,'33	70	Jan. 28,'33
Soldiers of the Storm	Regis Toomey-Anita Page	Apr. 4,'33	67
Speed Demon	Wm. Collier, Jr.-Joan Marsh	Nov. 5	65	Nov. 26
State Trooper	Regis Toomey-Evalyn Knapp	Feb. 10,'33	68	Apr. 1,'33
Sundown Rider, The	Buck Jones-Barbara Weeks	Dec. 30	69
Unknown Valley	Buck Jones-Cecilia Parker	May 5,'33
Treason	Buck Jones-Shirley Grey	Feb. 10,'33	61½
Virtue	Carole Lombard-Pat O'Brien	Oct. 25	69	Nov. 5
When Strangers Marry	Jack Holt-Lillian Bond	Mar. 26,'33	68
Whirlwind, The	Tim McCoy-Alice Dahl	Apr. 14,'33
Woman I Stole, The	Jack Holt-Raquel Torres-Fay Wray	May 1,'33	66

Coming Feature Attractions

Ann Carver's Profession — Fay Wray-Gene Raymond
At the Crossroads — Chic Sale-Diane Sinclair
Biddy — Richard Cromwell
Brief Moment — Carole Lombard
Cocktail Hour — Bebe Daniels-Sidney Blackmer-Randolph Scott
Fighting Code, The — Buck Jones-Diane Sinclair
Fighting Ranger, The — Buck Jones-Dorothy Revier
Kaleidoscope in K
King of the Wild Horses — Wm. Janney-Dorothy Appleby
Madame La Gimp — Warren William-Guy Kibbee-May Robson-Glenda Farrell
Man's Castle
Ninth Guest
Open Road, The — Buck Jones-Cecilia Parker
Party's Over, The
Shall We Tell Our Children? — Willard Mack-Jean Parker
Thrill Hunter, The — Buck Jones-Dorothy Revier
Twentieth Century
Wrecker, The — Jack Holt-Genevieve Tobin

EQUITABLE PICTURES

[Distributed through Majestic]

Features

Title	Star	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
Cheating Blondes	Thelma Todd-Reife Haroldе	Apr. 1,'33	66
Gigolettes of Paris	Madge Bellamy-Gilbert Roland	Mar. 15,'33	65
What Price Decency?	Dorothy Burgess-Alan Hale-Walter Byron	Mar. 1,'33	60	Mar. 11,'33

FIRST DIVISION

Features

Title	Star	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
Big Drive, The		Jan. 19,'33	91	Jan. 28,'33
Condemned to Death	Arthur Wontner	Oct. 10	78½	July 23
Goona Goona		Nov. 28	66	Aug. 27
Ringer, The	Franklyn Dyall	Oct. 30	60	June 11

FIRST NATIONAL

Features

Title	Star	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
Blondie Johnson	Joan Blondell-Chester Morris	Feb. 25,'33	69	Feb. 4,'33
Central Airport	Richard Barthelmess	Apr. 15,'33	75	Apr. 1,'33
Central Park	Joan Blondell	Dec. 10	55	Nov. 19
Elmer the Great	Joe E. Brown	Apr. 22,'33	74	Apr. 1,'33
Employees Entrance	W. William-Loretta Young	Feb. 11,'33	75	Dec. 24
Frisco Jenny	Ruth Chatterton	Jan. 14,'33	76	Dec. 17
Grand Slam	Paul Lukas-Loretta Young	Mar. 18,'33	65	Jan. 14,'33
Lilly Turner	Ruth Chatterton-Geo. Brent	May 13,'33	64	Apr. 29,'33
Little Giant, The	Edward G. Robinson	May 20,'33	74	Apr. 15,'33
Match King, The	Warren William-Lili Damita	Dec. 31	79	Dec. 17
Mind Reader, The	Warren William	Apr. 1,'33	68	Feb. 25,'33
Silver Dollar	Edward G. Robinson	Dec. 24	78	Nov. 5
They Call It Sin	Loretta Young-Geo. Brent	Nov. 5	74	Sept. 3
20,000 Years in Sing Sing	Bette Davis-Spencer Tracy	Feb. 1,'33	81	Nov. 5
You Said a Mouthful	Joe E. Brown	Nov. 26	72	Nov. 19

Coming Feature Attractions

Heroes for Sale — Richard Barthelmess-Loretta Young — June 17,'33
She Had to Say Yes — Loretta Young-Lyle Talbot

FOX FILMS

Features

Title	Star	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
Adorable	Janet Gaynor-Henry Garat	May 19,'33	83	May 20,'33
After the Ball	Esther Ralston-Basil Rathbone	Mar. 17,'33	69	Mar. 25,'33
Bondage	Dorothy Jordan-Alex. Kirkland	Mar. 31,'33	65	Apr. 15,'33
Broadway Bad	Joan Blondell-Ginger Rogers-Ricardo Cortez	Feb. 24,'33	59	Mar. 11,'33
Call Her Savage	Bow-Owsley-Todd-Roland	Nov. 27	88	Dec. 3
Cavalcade	Clive Brook-Diana Wynyard	Apr. 15,'33	110	Jan. 14,'33
Dangerously Yours	Miriam Jordan-Warner Baxter	Feb. 3,'33	73	Feb. 4,'33
Face in the Sky	Spencer Tracy-Marian Nixon-Stuart Erwin	Jan. 22,'33	77	Feb. 4,'33
Golden West, The	Geo. O'Brien-Janet Chandler-Marion Burns	Oct. 30	74	Oct. 15
Handle with Care	James Dunn-Boots Mallory	Dec. 25	75	Dec. 24
Hello, Sister	James Dunn-Boots Mallory	Apr. 14,'33	56	May 13,'33
Hold Me Tight	James Dunn-Sally Eilers	May 26,'33	71
Hot Pepper	Victor McLaglen-Edmund Lowe-Lupe Velez-El Brendel	Jan. 22,'33	76	Jan. 28,'33
Humanity	Boots Mallory-A. Kirkland	Mar. 3,'33	70	Apr. 29,'33
Infernal Machine	Genevieve Tobin-Chester Morris	Feb. 10,'33	65	Apr. 15,'33
Me and My Gal	Joan Bennett-Spencer Tracy	Dec. 4	78	Dec. 17
Pleasure Cruise	Genevieve Tobin-Roland Young	Mar. 24,'33	72	Apr. 1,'33
Rackety Rax	Victor McLaglen-Greta Nissen-Neil O'Day	Oct. 23	75	Oct. 29
Robbers Roost	George O'Brien-Maureen O'Sullivan	Jan. 1,'33	64	Apr. 1,'33
Sailor's Luck	James Dunn-Sally Eilers	Mar. 10,'33	78	Mar. 25,'33
Second Hand Wife	Sally Eilers-Ralph Bellamy	Jan. 1,'33	64	Jan. 21,'33
Sherlock Holmes	Clive Brook-Miriam Jordan	Nov. 6	69	Nov. 26
Smoke Lightning	George O'Brien-Neil O'Day	Feb. 17,'33
State Fair	Janet Gaynor-Will Rogers-Lew Ayres-Sally Eilers-Norman Foster-Frank Craven	Feb. 10,'33	100	Feb. 4,'33
Tess of the Storm Country	Janet Gaynor-Chas. Farrell	Nov. 20	75	Nov. 26
Too Busy to Work	Will Rogers-Marian Nixon	Nov. 13	70	Nov. 12
Trick for Trick	Ralph Morgan-Victor Jory	Apr. 21,'33
Warrior's Husband, The	Elissa Landi-Ernest Truex-David Manners	May 12,'33	68	May 6,'33
Zoo in Budapest	Gene Raymond-Loretta Young	Apr. 28,'33	85	Apr. 22,'33

Coming Feature Attractions

Arizona to Broadway — James Dunn-Joan Bennett — June 23,'33
Berkeley Square — Leslie Howard-Heather Angel
Devil's In Love, The — Victor Jory-Loretta Young — July 21,'33
F. P. One — Conrad Veidt-Jill Esmond-Leslie Fenton — July 28,'33 — 90 — May 20,'33
Five Cents a Glass — Marian Nixon-"Buddy" Rogers — June 30,'33
I Loved You Wednesday — Warner Baxter-Elissa Landi-Miriam Jordan — June 9,'33
It's Great to Be Alive — Edna May Oliver-Raul Roulien — June 2,'33
Life in the Raw — George O'Brien — June 16,'33
Man Who Dared, The — Preston Foster-Zita Johann — July 14,'33
Man-Eater — Marion Burns-Kane Richmond
My Lips Betray — Lilian Harvey-John Boles
Pilgrimage — Marian Nixon-Norman Foster
Power and the Glory, The — Colleen Moore-Spencer Tracy
Shanghai Madness — Spencer Tracy — Aug. 4,'33

FREULER FILM ASSOCIATES

Features

Title	Star	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
Deadwod Pass	Tom Tyler	May 5,'33
Easy Millions	Skeets Gallagher-Dorothy Burgess-Merna Kennedy	May 29,'33
Fighting Gentleman, The	Wm. Collier, Jr. - Josephine Dunn-N. Moorhead	Oct. 7	65	Oct. 15
Forty-Niners, The	Tom Tyler	Oct. 28	59
Gambling Sex	Ruth Hall-Grant Withers	Nov. 21	65
Kiss of Araby	Maria Alba-Walter Byron	Apr. 21,'33
Penal Code, The	Regis Toomey-Helen Cohan	Dec. 23
Savage Girl, The	Rochelle Hudson-Walter Byron	Dec. 5
When a Man Rides Alone	Tom Tyler	Jan. 15,'33

(THE RELEASE CHART--CONT'D)

Coming Feature Attractions

Black Cat, The
Bulldog Edition
East of Sudan
Green Paradise
My Wandering Boy
Red Man's Country
Silent Army, The Sisters of the Follies

MAJESTIC

Features

Title	Star	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
Crusader, The	Evelyn Brent-H. B. Warner	Oct. 1	72	Oct. 8
Gun Law	Jack Hoxie-Betty Boyd	Apr. 15,'33	63
Law and Lawless	Jack Hoxie-Hilda Moreno	Nov. 30	62
Outlaw Justice	Jack Hoxie-Dorothy Gulliver	Oct. 1	61
Trouble Busters	Jack Hoxie-Lane Chandler	May 15,'33	55
Unwritten Law, The	Greta Nissen-Skeets Gallagher	Nov. 15	70	Jan. 4,'33
Vampire Bat, The	Lionel Atwill-Fay Wray	Jan. 21,'33	67	Jan. 28,'33
Via Pony Express	Jack Hoxie-Marceline Day	Feb. 6,'33	62
World Gone Mad, The	Pat O'Brien-Evelyn Brent	Apr. 1,'33	80	Apr. 22,'33

Coming Feature Attractions

Buried Alive
Curtain at Eight
Sing, Sinner, Sing — Paul Lukas-Leila Hyams
Woman in the Chair, The

MAYFAIR PICTURES

Features

Title	Star	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
Alimony Madness	Helen Chandler-Leon Waycoff	Apr. 1,'33	65	May 13,'33
Behind Jury Doors	Helen Chandler-Wm. Collier, Jr.	Dec. 1	67
Heart Punch	Marion Shilling-L. Hughes	Oct. 15	64	Oct. 29
Her Mad Night	Irene Rich-Conway Tearle	Oct. 1	67	Oct. 29
Her Resale Value	June Clyde-George Lewis	Apr. 15,'33
Justice Takes a Holiday	Patricia O'Brien-Lloyd Whitlock	Feb.	'33
Malay Nights	John Mack Brown-D. Burgess-Ralph Ince	Nov.	1
Midnight Warning	William Boyd-Claudia Dell	Nov.	15
Revenge at Monte Carlo	June Collyer-Jose Crespo-Lloyd Whitlock	Feb.	'33
Sister to Judas	Claire Windsor-John Harron	Jan.	1,'33 — 75	Feb. 18,'33

METRO-GOLDWYN-MAYER

Features

Title	Star	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
Barbarian, The	Ramon Novarro-Myrna Loy	May	12,'33 — 88	Apr. 15,'33
Clear All Wires	Lee Tracy-Benita Hume	Feb.	24,'33	Feb. 18,'33
Devil's Brother, The	Laurel and Hardy-Dennis King-Thelma Todd	May	5,'33 — 92	Apr. 8,'33
Faithless	T. Bankhead-R. Montgomery	Oct.	15 — 74	Oct. 15
Fast Life	William Haines-Madge Evans	Dec.	16 — 75	Dec. 10
Fast Workers	John Gilbert-Mae Clarke	Mar.	10,'33 — 66	Mar. 25,'33
Flesh	Wallace Beery-Karen Morley-Ricardo Cortez	Dec.	9 — 75	Dec. 17
Gabriel Over the White House	Walter Huston-Karen Morley	Mar.	31,'33 — 87	Apr. 8,'33
Looking Forward	Lewis Stone-Benita Hume-Lionel Barrymore	Apr.	28,'33 — 83	Apr. 1,'33
(Reviewed under the title "The New Deal")
Made on Broadway	R. Montgomery-Sally Eilers	May	19,'33 — 70	Apr. 8,'33
Mask of Fu Manchu, The	Boris Karloff	Nov.	5 — 67	Dec. 10
Men Must Fight	Phillips Holmes-Diana Wynyard	Feb.	17,'33 — 72	Mar. 18,'33
Outsider, The	Harold Huth-Joan Barry	Jan.	28,'33 — 90	May 2,'33
Peg O' My Heart	Marion Davies-Onslow Stevens	May	26,'33 — 85	May 20,'33
Prosperity	Dressler-Moran	Nov.	18 — 76	Nov. 12
Rasputin and the Empress	Ethel, John and Lionel Barrymore	Mar.	24,'33 — 127	Dec. 31
Secret of Madame Blanche, The	Irene Dunne-Phillips Holmes	Feb.	3,'33 — 78	Jan. 21,'33
Son Daughter	Helen Hayes-Ramon Novarro	Dec.	23 — 79	Jan. 7,'33
Strange Interlude	Norma Shearer-Clarke Gable	Dec.	30 — 112	Sept. 3
Today We Live	Joan Crawford-Gary Cooper	Apr.	21,'33 — 115	Apr. 22,'33
What! No Beer?	Buster Keaton-Jimmy Durante	Feb.	10,'33 — 78	Feb. 11,'33
Whistling in the Dark	Ernest Truex-Una Merkel	Jan.	21,'33 — 78	Feb. 4,'33
White Sister, The	Helen Hayes-Clark Gable	Apr.	14,'33 — 101	Mar. 25,'33

Coming Feature Attractions

Dinner at Eight	Marie Dressler-Wallace Beery-Lionel Barrymore-Jean Harlow-Madge Evans-Karen Morley-Edmund Lowe-Lee Tracy-Jean Hersholt
Eskimo	Native Cast
Hell Below	Robt. Montgomery-Jimmy Durante-Robt. Young-Walter Huston-Madge Evans	June	9,'33 — 105	Apr. 15,'33
Hold Your Man	Jean Harlow-Clark Gable	June	30,'33
Lady of the Night	Loretta Young-Ricardo Cortez	July	14,'33
Night Flight	H. Hayes-J. Barrymore-L. Barrymore-C. Gable-Robt. Montgomery
Nuisance, The	Lee Tracy-Madge Evans	June	2,'33 — 80	May 6,'33
(Reviewed under the title, "Never Give a Sucker a Break")
Reunion in Vienna	John Barrymore-Diana Wynyard-Frank Morgan	June	16,'33 — 100	May 6,'33
Strange Rhapsody	Nils Asther-Kay Francis	July	7,'33
Stranger's Return, The	Lionel Barrymore-Franchot Tone-Miriam Hopkins
Tarzan and His Mate	J. Weissmuller-M. O'Sullivan
Tugboat Annie	Marie Dressler-Wallace Beery-Robt. Young-M. O'Sullivan
When Ladies Meet	Ann Harding-Alice Brady-Robt. Montgomery	June	23,'33

MONOGRAM PICTURES CORPORATION

Features

Title	Star	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
Black Beauty	Alex. Kirkland-Esther Ralston	May	10,'33 — 70	Apr. 29,'33
Breed of the Border	Bob Steele	Mar.	1,'33
Casey Jones	All Star	May	25,'33
Crashin' Broadway	Rex Bell	Dec.	30
Diamond Trail, The	Rex Bell	Dec.	30
Fighting Champ	Bob Steele	Dec.	15
Gallant Fool	Bob Steele	May	29,'33
Guilty or Not Guilty	Betty Compson-Tom Douglas	Nov.	15 — 7 reels
Hidden Valley	Bob Steele	Oct.	10 — 6 reels
Jungle Bride	Anita Page-Charles Starrett	Feb.	15,'33 — 63	Feb. 25,'33
Lucky Larrigan	Rex Bell-Helen Foster	Dec.	1
Man from Arizona, The	Rex Bell	Oct.	1 — 6 reels
Oliver Twist	Dickie Moore-Irving Pichel-Jackie Searle	Feb.	28,'33 — 80	Mar. 4,'33
Phantom Broadcast	Ralph Forbes-Vivienne Osborne	Mar.	15,'33 — 68	Apr. 8,'33
Self-Defense	Pauline Frederick	Dec.	15 — 68	Dec. 10
Strange Adventure	Regis Toomey-June Clyde	Nov.	20 — 7 reels
West of Singapore	Betty Compson	Jan.	31,'33 — 68	Apr. 15,'33
Young Blood	Bob Steele	Nov.	5

Coming Feature Attractions

Fighting Texans, The	Rex Bell	June	15,'33
Sphinx, The	Lionel Atwill-Sheila Terry	June	1,'33

PARAMOUNT PUBLIX

Features

Title	Star	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
A Bedtime Story	Maurice Chevalier-Helen Twelvetrees	Apr.	21,'33 — 87	Apr. 29,'33
Big Broadcast, The	Stuart Erwin-Bing Crosby-Kate Smith-Leila Hyams-Mills Bros.-Boswell Sisters-Cab Calloway-Vincent Lopez-Arthur Tracy-Sharon Lynn	Oct.	28 — 80	Oct. 8
Billion Dollar Scandal	Carole Lombard-Robt. Armstrong	Jan.	6,'33 — 78	Dec. 31
Crime of the Century	Stuart Erwin-Wynne Gibson	Feb.	24,'33 — 75	Mar. 4,'33
Devil Is Driving, The	Edmund Lowe-Wynne Gibson	Dec.	9 — 70	Dec. 10
Eagle and the Hawk, The	F. March-C. Grant-J. Oakie	May	19,'33 — 72	May 6,'33
Evenings for Sale	Herb Marshall-Sari Maritza	Nov.	11 — 65	Nov. 5
Farewell to Arms, A	Helen Hayes-Gary Cooper	Jan.	6,'33 — 78	Dec. 10
From Hell to Heaven	Carole Lombard-Jack Oakie	Feb.	24,'33 — 70	Feb. 18,'33
Girl in 419, The	James Dunn-Gloria Stuart	May	26,'33 — 76	May 6,'33
He Learned About Women	Stuart Erwin-A. Skipworth	Nov.	4 — 68
Hello, Everybody	Kate Smith	Feb.	17,'33 — 70	Jan. 14,'33
Hot Saturday	Nancy Carroll-Cary Grant	Oct.	28 — 73	Oct. 22
If I Had a Million	Gary Cooper-Wynne Gibson-Geo. Raft-Richard Bennett-Mary Robson	Nov.	— 95	Nov. 12
Island of Lost Souls	Chas. Laughton-Richard Arlen-Leila Hyams	Dec.	— 70	Dec. 10
King of the Jungle	Frances Dee-Buster Crabbe	Mar.	10,'33 — 74	Mar. 4,'33
Lady's Profession, A	Alison Skipworth-Roland Young	Mar.	3,'33 — 72	Feb. 25,'33
Luxury Liner	Geo. Brent-Zita Johann-Frank Morgan	Feb.	3,'33 — 70	Jan. 28,'33
M	Peter Lorre		66	Apr. 8,'33
Madame Butterfly	Sylvia Sidney-Cary Grant	Dec.	30 — 88	Dec. 31
Murders in the Zoo	Charlie Ruggles-Lionel Atwill	Mar.	31,'33 — 55	Mar. 11,'33
Mysterious Rider, The	Kent Taylor-Lona André	Jan.	20,'33 — 59
Night After Night	Geo. Raft-C. Cummings	Oct.	14 — 70	Oct. 8
No Man of Her Own	Clark Gable-Carole Lombard	Dec.	— 76	Dec. 24
Pick Up	Sylvia Sidney-George Raft	Mar.	24,'33 — 75	Mar. 25,'33
She Done Him Wrong	Mae West-Owen Moore	Jan.	27,'33 — 66	Feb. 18,'33
Sign of the Cross	Fredric March-Elissa Landi-Claudette Colbert	Feb.	10,'33 — 123	Dec. 10
Song of the Eagle	Chas. Bickford-Mary Brian-Richard Arlen	Apr.	28,'33 — 83	Apr. 29,'33
Story of Temple Drake, The	Miriam Hopkins-Jack LaRue	May	12,'33 — 72	May 13,'33
Strictly Personal	Marjorie Rambeau-Eddie Quillan-D. Jordan	Mar.	17,'33 — 70	Mar. 4,'33
Sunset Pass	Randolph Scott-Tom Keene	May	26,'33
Supernatural	C. Lombard-Randolph Scott-V. Osborne	May	5,'33 — 64½	Apr. 29,'33
Terror Aboard	Neil Hamilton-Chas. Ruggles-Verree Teasdale	Apr.	14,'33 — 65½	May 6,'33
Tonight Is Ours	C. Colbert-Fredric March-Paul Cavanagh	Jan.	13,'33 — 76	Jan. 7,'33
Trouble in Paradise	Miriam Hopkins-H. Marshall-Kay Francis	Oct.	21 — 73	Oct. 29
Under Cover Man	Geo. Raft-Nancy Carroll	Dec.	2 — 74	Dec. 10
Under the Tonto Rim	Stuart Erwin-Verna Hillie	Apr.	7,'33 — 59
Wild Horse Mesa	Randolph Scott-Sally Blane	Nov.	25 — 72½
Woman Accused, The	Cary Grant-Nancy Carroll-John Halliday-Lona André	Feb.	17,'33 — 73	Feb. 4,'33

Coming Feature Attractions

College Humor	Bing Crosby-Jack Oakie	June	30,'33
Disgraced	Helen Twelvetrees-Wm. Harrigan
Gambling Ship	Cary Grant-Benita Hume	June	23,'33
Her Bodyguard	Wynne Gibson-Edmund Lowe
I Love That Man	Nancy Carroll-Edmund Lowe	June	9,'33 — 75	May 6,'33
I'm No Angel	Mae West
International House	Peggy Hopkins Joyce	June	2,'33 — 65	May 20,'33
Jennie Gerhardt	Sylvia Sidney-Donald Cook	June	16,'33
Mama Loves Papa	Charles Ruggles-Mary Boland-Lilyan Tashman
Song of Songs	Marlene Dietrich-Brian Aherne

RKO RADIO PICTURES

Features

Title	Star	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
Animal Kingdom	Leslie Howard-Ann Harding	Dec.	23 — 78	Dec. 10
Cheyenne Kid	Tom Keene	Jan.	20,'33 — 54½
Christopher Strong	K. Hepburn-Colin Clive-Billie Burke	Mar.	31,'33 — 72	Mar. 18,'33
Conquerors, The	Ann Harding-Richard Dix	Nov.	18 — 80	Nov. 19
Diplomaniacs	Bert Wheeler-Robt. Woolsey	May	12,'33 — 63	Apr. 15,'33
Emergency Call	Bill Boyd-Betty Furness	May	26,'33
Goldie Gets Along	Lili Damita-Chas. Morton	Jan.	27,'33 — 68
Great Jasper, The	Richard Dix	Mar.	3,'33 — 76	Feb. 11,'33
Half-Naked Truth, The	Lee Tracy-Lupe Velez	Dec.	16 — 77	Jan. 7,'33
India Speaks	Richard Halliburton	Apr.	28,'33 — 75	May 13,'33
King Kong	Fay Wray-Bruce Cabot	Apr.	7,'33 — 100	Feb. 25,'33
Little Orphan Annie	Mitzi Green-Buster Phelps	Nov.	4 — 70	Oct. 29
Lucky Devils	Bill Boyd-Bruce Cabot-William Gargan-D. Wilson	Feb.	3,'33 — 60	Dec. 31
Man Hunt	Junior Durkin-Mrs. Wallace Reid	Mar.	24,'33 — 68	Feb. 4,'33
(Reviewed under the title "A Successful Bunder")
Men Are Such Fools	Lee Carrillo-V. Osborne	Nov.	18 — 66
Men of America	Bill Boyd	Dec.	9 — 75	Nov. 12
Monkey's Paw, The	Ivan Simpson-Louise Carter	Jan.	13,'33 — 52	Oct. 1
No Other Woman	Irene Dunne-Chas. Bickford	Jan.	6,'33 — 58	Jan. 21,'33
Our Betters	Constance Bennett	Mar.	17,'33 — 72	Mar. 4,'33
Past of Mary Holmes, The	Helen MacKellar-Eric Linden	Jan.	20,'33 — 62	May 6,'33
Penguin Pool Murder	Edna May Oliver-Jas. Gleason	Dec.	30 — 75	Nov. 12
Renegades of the West	Tom Keene	Nov.	25 — 55
Rockabye	Constance Bennett-Joel McCrae	Nov.	25 — 75	Nov. 26
Sailor Be Good	Jack Oakie-Vivienne Osborne	Feb.	10,'33 — 68	Mar. 4,'33
Scarlet River	Tom Keene-D. Wilson	Mar.	10,'33 — 57	Jan. 21,'33
Secrets of the French Police	Gwili Andre-Frank Morgan	Dec.	2 — 58	Dec. 17
Silver Cord, The	Irene Dunne-Joel McCrea	May	19,'33 — 74	May 13,'33
Son of the Border	Tom Keene-Julie Hayden	May	5,'33 — 55
Sport Parade, The	Joel McCrae-Marian Marsh	Nov.	11 — 65	Dec. 24
Sweepings	Lionel Barrymore	Apr.	14,'33 — 80	Mar. 18,'33
Topaze	John Barrymore-Myrna Loy	Feb.	24,'33 — 78	Feb. 11,'33

Coming Feature Attractions

Bed of Roses	Constance Bennett-Joel McCrea
Cross Fire	Tom Keene-Betty Furness	June	30,'33 — 55	Apr. 8,'33
Double Harness	Ann Harding-William Powell
Flying Circus (Tent.)	Arline Judge-Bruce Cabot-Ralph Bellamy-Eric Linden
Jamboree	Robt. Armstrong-Helen Mack
Melody Cruise	Phil Harris-Charles Ruggles	June	2,'33
Morning Glory, The	K. Hepburn-D. Fairbanks, Jr.
Public Be Sold, The	Richard Dix-Doris Kenyon
Purity Girl (Tent.)	Ginger Rogers-Norman Foster
Tomorrow at Seven	Chester Morris-Vivienne Osborne	June	9,'33 — 64	May 13,'33

STATE RIGHTS

Features

Title	Star	Dist'r.	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
Alone	Elena Kuzmina	Amkino
Bachelor Mother	Evelyn Knapp-James Murray	Goldsmith	Jan.	8,'33 — 71	Jan. 21,'33
Bal, Le	Andre Lefaur	Protex		80	Oct. 8
Blame the Woman	Adolphe Menjou-Bebe Ita Huma	Principal	Oct.	15 — 74	Nov. 5
Charlotte Lowenskold	Birgit Sergelius-Eric Barclay	Scandinavian
Contraband	Don Alvarado-Dorothy Sebastian	Hoffberg	Apr.	1,'33

(THE RELEASE CHART--CONT'D)

Title	Star	Dist'r.	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
Devil's Playground, The		Principal	Jan.	1,'33...54
Eternal Jew, The	M. B. Samuylow	Jewish Talking Pictures
Face on the Barroom Floor, The	B. Fletcher	Invincible		66	Oct. 22
Forgotten Men		Jewel Productions	Feb.	'33...84
Fourteenth of July, The	Annabella - Georges Rigaud	Tobis-Rene Clair		85	Jan. 28,'33
High Gear	James Murray - Joan Marsh	Hollywood	Apr.	14,'33...67	Apr. 22,'33
Horizon (The Wandering Jew)	Nikolai Batalov	Amkino
Hotel Variety	Hal Skelly - Olive Borden	Screencraft		68
In the Days of the Crusaders	Alberto Pasquali	Monopole	Oct.	1...75	Oct. 15
Italy Speaks		Enrico Cutali			Feb. 25,'33
Jungle Gigolo		Principal	Feb.	15,'33...55
Jungle Killer	Carveth Wells	Century Productions	Dec.
Lady of the Night	Francesca Bertini	Portale Plcts.	Mar.	9,'33
Love and Passion		Yugoslavian Plcts.
Manhattan Tower	Mary Brian - Irene Rich-James Hall	Remington	Dec.	1...67	Nov. 19
Men and Jobs		Amkino	Jan.	1,'33...70	Jan. 14,'33
Moon Over Morocco	Rene Lefebvre-Resine Derean	Protex	Jan.	21,'33...80	Feb. 25,'33
November Night (Polish)	S.Jaracz-J.Wegrzyn-J.Smosarska	Capital	Apr.	27,'33...97	May 6,'33
Out of Singapore	Noah Beery	Goldsmith Plcts.		61	Sept. 24
Piri Knows All	Margit Dayka	Arkay Film
Potemkin		Kinematrade	Mar.	31,'33...54	Apr. 15,'33
Pride of the Legion	Sally Blane-B. Kent	Mascot	Oct.	10...70	Oct. 29
Return of Nathan Becker	David Gutman	Worldkino	Apr.	13,'33...71	Apr. 29,'33
Shadow Laughs, The	Hal Skelly-Rose Hobart	Invincible		67
Shame	Vladimir Gardin	Amkino	Oct.	15...65	Dec. 3
Socko		Hoffberg		30
Soviets on Parade		Kinematrade	Mar.	31,'31...60
Sucker Money	Mischa Auer	Hollywood	Apr.	5,'33...70	Apr. 15,'33
Thunder Over Mexico		Sol Lesser			May 20,'33
Truth About Africa, The		Wm. Alexander		47
Virgins of Bali		Principal	Dec.	8...46	Dec. 17
With Williamson Beneath the Sea		Principal	Nov.	24...59	Dec. 3
Wives Beware!	Adolphe Menjou	Regent Plcts.
Woman in Chains	Owen Nares	Invincible		69	Aug. 19

(Reviewed under title "The Impassive Footman" — Assoc. Radio British)

TOWER PRODUCTIONS

Features

Title	Star	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
Daring Daughters	Marian Marsh-Joan Marsh	Feb.	'33...60	Apr. 15,'33
Red Haired Alibi	Merna Kennedy-Theodore Von Eltz-Grant Withers	Oct.	15...72	Oct. 29
Reform Girl	Noel Francis-Dorothy Peterson-Skeets Gallagher	Mar.	'33...70

UNITED ARTISTS

Features

Title	Star	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
Cynara	Ronald Colman-Kay Francis	Dec.	24...80	Nov. 5
Hallelujah, I'm a Bum	Al Jolson	Feb.	3,'33...82	Feb. 18,'33
I Cover the Waterfront	Claudette Colbert - Ben Lyon - Ernest Torrence	May	17,'33...75	Apr. 29,'33
Kid from Spain, The	Eddie Cantor	Nov.	17...90	Nov. 5
Magic Night	Jack Buchanan	Nov.	5...76	Nov. 12
Rain	Joan Crawford	Oct.	22...85	Sept. 17
Perfect Understanding	Gloria Swanson	Mar.	11,'33...84	Mar. 4,'33
Secrets	Mary Pickford-Leslie Howard	Apr.	16,'33...90	Feb. 18,'33

Coming Feature Attractions

Title	Star
Joe Palooka	Jimmy Durante-Stuart Erwin
Masquerader, The	Ronald Colman-Elissa Landi
Samarang	Native Cast
Yes, Mr. Brown	Jack Buchanan

UNIVERSAL

Features

Title	Star	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
Afraid to Talk	Eric Linden-Sidney Fox	Nov.	17...76	Sept. 24
(Reviewed under title "Merry Go Round")
Air Mail	Pat O'Brien-Ralph Bellamy	Nov.	3...63	Oct. 8
Be Mine Tonight	Jan Kiepura-Magda Schneider	Mar.	23,'33...78	Feb. 18,'33
Big Cage, The	Anita Page-Clyde Beatty	Mar.	3,'33...75	Mar. 4,'33
Cohens and Kellys in Trouble	Chas. Murray-Geo. Sidney	Mar.	23,'33...69	Apr. 22,'33
Destination Unknown	Pat. O'Brien-Ralph Bellamy	Mar.	16,'33...67	Jan. 28,'33
Fighting President, The		Apr.	14,'33...50	Apr. 15,'33
Flaming Guns	Tom Mix-Ruth Hall	Dec.	22...57
Hidden Gold	Tom Mix	Nov.	3...56
Kiss Before the Mirror	Nancy Carroll-Paul Lukas	May	4,'33...67	Mar. 11,'33
Laughter in Hell	Pat O'Brien-Gloria Stuart	Jan.	12,'33...68	Jan. 7,'33
Lucky Dog	Charles "Chic" Sale	Apr.	20,'33...55	May 13,'33
Mummy, The	Boris Karloff-Zita Johann	Dec.	22...78	Dec. 3
Nagana	Tala Birell-Melvyn Douglas	Jan.	26,'33...74	Jan. 7,'33
Old Dark House, The	Boris Karloff-L. Bond	Oct.	20...74	July 16
Out All Night	Summerville-Pitts	Apr.	13,'33...72	Mar. 11,'33
Private Jones	Lee Tracy-Gloria Stuart	Feb.	16,'33...89	Apr. 1,'33
Rome Express	Esther Ralston-Conrad Veidt	Feb.	16,'33...87	Jan. 21,'33
Rustler's Roundup	Tom Mix—Diane Sinclair	Mar.	16,'33
Terror Trail, The	Tom Mix	Feb.	2,'33...57	Feb. 18,'33
They Just Had to Get Married	Summerville-Pitts	Jan.	5,'33...75	Feb. 11,'33

Coming Feature Attractions

Title	Star
Fiddlin' Buckaroo	Ken Maynard-Gloria Shea
In the Money	Lew Ayres-Ginger Rogers
King of Jazz (Reissue)	Paul Whiteman-John Boles-Bing Crosby	June	1,'33	Apr. 5,'30
King of the Arena	Ken Maynard	June	1,'33
Rebel, The	Vilma Banky-Luis Trenker	June	8,'33
S. O. S. Iceberg	Rod La Roque-Gibson Gowland
Salt Water	Summerville-Pitts
Shoot the Works	Mary Brian-Leo Carrillo

WARNER BROS.

Features

Title	Star	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
Ex-Lady	Bette Davis	Apr.	8,'33...62	Feb. 18,'33
Forty-Second Street	Warner Baxter - Bebe Daniels - Geo. Brent	Mar.	11,'33...89	Mar. 18,'33
Girl Missing	Ben Lyon - Mary Brian - Peggy Shannon	Mar.	4,'33...69	Apr. 8,'33
Hard to Handle	James Cagney	Jan.	28,'33...76	Jan. 7,'33
Haunted Gold	John Wayne	Dec.	17...58
I Am a Fugitive from a Chain Gang	Paul Muni	Nov.	19...90	Oct. 22
Keyhole, The	Kay Francis-George Brent	Mar.	25,'33...69	Apr. 8,'33
King's Vacation, The	George Arliss	Feb.	25,'33...60	Jan. 28,'33
Ladies They Talk About	Barbara Stanwyck	Feb.	4,'33...64	Jan. 7,'33
Lawyer Man	Wm. Powell-Joan Blondell	Jan.	7,'33...72	Dec. 3
Parachute Jumper	Douglas Fairbanks, Jr.	Jan.	28,'33...72	Dec. 31
Picture Snatcher	James Cagney	Apr.	29,'33...75	Apr. 1,'33
Scarlet Dawn	D. Fairbanks, Jr. - Nancy Carroll	Nov.	12...58	Nov. 12
Somewhere in Sonora	John Wayne	May	20,'33
Telegraph Trail, The	John Wayne	Mar.	18,'33...55
Untamed Africa		Apr.	8,'33
Wax Museum, Mystery of the	Lionel Atwill-Fay Wray	Feb.	18,'33...72	Jan. 7,'33
Working Man, The	George Arliss-Bette Davis	May	6,'33...67	Apr. 8,'33

(Reviewed under the title "The Adopted Father")

Coming Feature Attractions

Title	Star
Baby Face	Barbara Stanwyck		74	Apr. 1,'33
Captured!	Leslie Howard-Doug. Fairbanks, Jr.-Paul Lukas
Gold Diggers of 1933	Warren William-Joan Blondell-Aline MacMahon-Ruby Keeler-Dick Powell	May	27,'33
Goodbye Again	W. William-Joan Blondell
Life of Jimmy Dolan, The	D. Fairbanks, Jr.-Loretta Young	June	3,'33...70
Man from Monterey, The	John Wayne-Ruth Hall
Mary Stevens, M.D.	Kay Francis
Mayor of Hell, The	James Cagney	June	24,'33...80	May 20,'33
Narrow Corner, The	Douglas Fairbanks, Jr.
Private Detective 62	William Powell	June	10,'33
Silk Express	Neil Hamilton-Sheila Terry	June	10,'33
Voltaire	George Arliss-Doris Kenyon

WORLD WIDE

[Distributed through Fox Films]

Features

Title	Star	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
Between Fighting Men	Ken Maynard	Oct.	16...62
Breach of Promise	Chester Morris-Mae Clarke	Oct.	23...67
Constant Woman, The	Conrad Nagel-Leila Hyams	Apr.	23,'33...75	Mar. 3,'33
(Reviewed under the title "Auction in Souls")
Death Kiss, The	Adrienne Ames-David Manners-John Wray	Jan.	8,'33...75	Dec. 24
Drum Taps	Ken Maynard	Jan.	29,'33...61
False Faces	Lowell Sherman-Lila Lee	Oct.	13...83	Dec. 3
Fargo Express	Ken Maynard	Nov.	20...62
Hypnotized	Moran and Mack	Dec.	25...70	Dec. 24
Lone Avenger, The	Ken Maynard	May	14,'33...61
Phantom Thunderbolt	Ken Maynard	Mar.	5,'33...62
Racetrack	Leo Carrillo-Kay Hammond	Feb.	25,'33...78	Mar. 11,'33
Study in Scarlet, A	Reginald Owen-June Clyde	May	14,'33...72
Tombstone Canyon	Ken Maynard	Dec.	25...62
Trailing the Killer	(Special)	Dec.	4...68	Oct. 15
Uptown New York	Jack Oakie-Shirley Grey	Nov.	20...80	Nov. 19

Coming Feature Attractions

Title	Star
Tarnished Youth	Jetta Goudal-Gilbert Roland

GERMAN

Features

Title	Star	Dist'r.	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
A Door Opens	Lily Rodlen-Curt Lucas	Protex	Feb.	4,'33...70
A Night in Paradise	Anny Ondra-Herman Thimig	Kinematrade
Barberina, The King's Dancer	Lil Dagover	Capital	Oct.	25...87	Nov. 12
Beautiful Maneuver Time	Ida Wuest	World's Trade
Cadet, The	Frans Fiedler	Film Exchange		80	Apr. 8,'33
Captain of Koepenick, The	Max Adalbert	Kinematrade	Jan.	16,'33...93	Feb. 18,'33
Comradeship		Assoc. Cinema	Nov.	8...78	Dec. 10
David Golder	Harry Baur	Protex		80	Oct. 29
Don't Tell Me Who You Are	Liane Haid-Gustav Froehlich	Interworld	Feb.	15,'33...91	Feb. 25,'33
Enchanted Escapade	Kaethe von Nagy	Protex	Dec.	7...83	Jan. 28,'33
Friederike	Mady Christians	Kinematrade	Feb.	25,'33...80	Mar. 18,'33
Gitta Discovers Her Heart	Gitta Alpar	Capital		91	Oct. 15
Gloria	Gustav Froehlich	Tobis	Oct.	27...87	Nov. 12
Hertha's Awakening	Toni Van Eyck	Protex	Mar.	10,'33...82	Mar. 25,'33
Herzblut	Renate Muller	Cines-Pittaluga	Sept.	30...77	Oct. 15
His Majesty, King Ballyhoo	Hans Moser - Heinz Ruehmann	Capital	Nov.	15...86	Feb. 11,'33
Kuhle Wampe: Whither Germany?	Hertha Thiele-Ernest Busch	Kinematrade	Apr.	22,'33
Louise, Queen of Prussia	Henny Porten	Assoc. Cinemas	Oct.	4...92	Oct. 15
M	Peter Lorre	Paramount	Mar.	31,'33...96	Apr. 8,'33
Maedchen in Uniform	Hertha Thiele	John Krimsky - Gifford Cochran		110	Oct. 1
Man Without a Name, The	Werner Krauss	Protex	Nov.	5...90	Dec. 17
Morgenrot (Dawn)	Else Knott - Rudolf Forster	Protex	May	15,'33...85
Party Does Not Answer, The	Dorothy Wieck	Capital	Nov.	29...76	Dec. 31
Ronny	Willy Fritsch-Kaethe von Nagy	Protex
Song of Life	Albert Mog - Margot Ferra	Tobis	Mar.	24,'33...66	Apr. 15,'33
Spell of Tatra, The		Protex	Feb.	17,'33...65	Feb. 25,'33
Upright Sinner, The	Max Pallenberg-Dolly Haas	European Films	Mar.	28,'33...78	Apr. 15,'33
Victoria and Her Hussar	Michael Bohnen-Friedel Schuster	Kinematrade	Apr.	8,'33...90	Apr. 22,'33
Yorck	Werner Krauss	Protex	Nov.	23...99	Dec. 16

OTHER PRODUCT

Features

Title	Star	Dist'r.	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
Counsel's Opinion	Henry Kendall	London Film		71	Apr. 22,'33
Fires of Fate	Lester Matthews	British Int'l		72	Oct. 15
Flag Lieutenant, The	Henry Edwards-Anna Neagle	British and Dominions		85	Dec. 31
Ghost Train, The	Jack Hulbert	Gaumont-British		68	Feb. 25,'33
Good Companions, The	Jessie Matthews	Gaumont-British		96	Apr. 29,'33
Green Spot Mystery, The	Jack Lloyd	Mutual, London		66	Sept. 3
Here's George	George Clarke	P.D.C.-British		64	Nov. 5
Josser on the River	Ernest Lotinga	British Int'l		71	Sept. 17
Just My Luck	Ralph Lynn	British and Dominions		80	May 20,'33
King of the Ritz	Stanley Lupino-Betty Stockfield	Gaumont-British
Leap Year	Tom Walls - Anne Grey	British and Dominions		89	Dec. 17
Lodger, The	Ivor Novello	Twickenham		84	Oct. 15
Looking on the Bright Side	Gracie Fields	Assoc. Radio - British		82	Oct. 15
Love in Morocco	Rex Ingram	Gaumont-British	Mar.	18,'33...67	Oct. 15
(Reviewed under the title "Baroud")
Maid of the Mountains, The	Harry Welchman - Nancy Brown	British Int'l		80	Apr. 22,'33
Man They Couldn't Arrest, The	Hugh Wakefield - Renee Clama	Gaumont-British	Mar.	11,'33...70	Mar. 25,'33
Marry Me	Renate Muller-Geo. Robey	Gaumont-British		85	Apr. 22,'33
Men of Tomorrow	Maurice Braddell	Paramount-London Film		80	Apr. 15,'33
Night and Day		Gaumont-British
Private Wives	Claude Allister-Betty Astell	British Lion
Radio Parade		British Int'l		70	May 13,'33
Sally Bishop	Harold Huth - Joan Barry	British Lion		82	Dec. 10
There Goes the Bride	Jessie Matthews - Owen Nares	Gaumont-British		79	Mar. 11,'33
Wedding Rehearsal	Roland Young	London Film

(THE RELEASE CHART--CONT'D)

SHORT FILMS

[All dates are 1932 unless otherwise stated]

COLUMBIA

Title	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
CURIOSITIES
C 237	Sept.	1	Sept. 24
KRAZY KAT KARTOONS
Antique Antics
Broadway Malady	Apr.	18,'33
Bunnies and Bonnets	Mar.	29,'33
Crystal Gazabo	Nov.	7 — 1 reel
Medicine Show	Feb.	7,'33 — 1 reel
Minstrel Show, The	Nov.	21 — 1 reel
Prosperity Blues	Oct.	8
Russian Dressing	May	1,'33
Seeing Stars	Sept.	12 — 8	Dec. 17
Snow Time	Nov.	30
Wedding Bells	Jan.	10,'33
Wooden Shoes	Feb.	25,'33 — 1 reel
LAMBS GAMBOLS
Hear 'Em and Weep
Ladies Not Allowed	Sept.	8 — 2 reels
Lambs All-Star Gambol	Dec.	20 — 21½
Poor Fish, The	Apr.	27,'33
Shave It with Music	Sept.	30 — 19
MEDBURY SERIES
Laughing with Medbury in India		1 reel
Laughing with Medbury in Philippines	Nov.	11 — 1 reel
Laughing with Medbury Among the Wide Open Faces	Oct.	11 — 1 reel
Laughing with Medbury Among Dancing Nations	Dec.	23 — 1 reel
Laughing with Medbury in Wonders of the World	Dec.	13 — 1 reel
SCRAPPY CARTOONS
Bad Genius, The	Dec.	1
Beer Parade, The	Mar.	4,'33
False Alarm
Flop House	Nov.	9
Great Bird Mystery	Oct.	20
Match Kid, The	May	9,'33
Sassy Cats	Jan.	25,'33
Scrappy's Party	Feb.	13,'33
Wolf at the Door, The	Dec.	29
SUNRISE COMEDIES
Campus Codes	Jan.	19,'33 — 21
College Gigolos	Jan.	3,'33 — 18½
Fifty Million Dollars Can't Be Wrong		2 reels
Smith and Dale
His Vacation	Sept.	8
I'm a Fugitive from a Chain Store	Feb.	11,'33
Mind Doesn't Matter	Nov.	21 — 19½
Partners Two	Jan.	19,'33 — 22
The Curse of a Broken Heart	Feb.	4,'33 — 18
The Strange Case of Poison Ivy	Mar.	23,'33
WORLD OF SPORT
All's Wet That Ends Wet	May	5,'33
Good Old Winter Time
Rough Sport	Dec.	29
Throwing the Bull	Jan.	14,'33 — 11

EDUCATIONAL

[Distributed through Fox Films]

Title	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
ANDY CLYDE COMEDIES
A Fool About Women	Nov.	27 — 22
Artist's Muddles	Jan.	29,'33 — 20
Boy, Oh Boy!	Dec.	25 — 21
Feeling Rosy	Apr.	30,'33 — 21
Giddy Age, The	Sept.	25 — 21½	June 4
Loose Relations		20	May 20,'33
Sunkissed Sweeties	Oct.	30 — 22
BABY BURLESKS
Glad Rags to Riches	Feb.	5,'33 — 11	Dec. 31
Kid' In' Hollywood	May	14,'33 — 11
Kid's Last Fight, The	Apr.	23,'33 — 11	Dec. 3
Pie-Covered Wagon	Oct.	30 — 10	Dec. 31
Polly Tix in Washington	June	4,'33
War Babies	Sept.	18 — 10	Aug. 6
BATTLE FOR LIFE
Battle of the Centuries	Oct.	2 — 9
Desert Demons	Nov.	27 — 9
Killers	Oct.	30 — 10	Apr. 29,'33
Sea, The	May	7,'33 — 9
World Beneath Our Feet, The
BRAY'S NATURGRAPHS
An Oregon Camera Hunt	Sept.	11 — 9
Giants of the North	June	4,'33
Our Bird Citizens	Oct.	9 — 8	Dec. 10
Our Noble Ancestors	Dec.	4 — 9
Pirates of the Deep	May	7,'33 — 9
Stable Manners	Nov.	6 — 7
Wild Company	Jan.	1,'33 — 10
Woodland Pals	Jan.	29,'33 — 1 reel
BROADWAY GOSSIP
No. 1	Sept.	25 — 11
No. 2	Dec.	11 — 9	Dec. 31
No. 3	Feb.	5,'33 — 11
No. 4	Mar.	5,'33 — 11
No. 5	Apr.	30,'33 — 11
CAMERA ADVENTURES
Cougar's Mistake, The	May	28,'33 — 9
Taming the Wildcat	Jan.	15,'33 — 8
The Forgotten Island	Sept.	4 — 10
The Iceless Arctic	Nov.	6 — 11
Two Hundred Fathoms Deep	Mar.	19,'33 — 8
DO YOU REMEMBER
Gaslit Nineties, The	Nov.	27 — 8	Jan. 7,'33
Highlights of the Past	Apr.	9,'33 — 8
Old New York	Sept.	11 — 10	Jan. 14,'33
Puffs and Bustles	Mar.	12,'33 — 7
When Dad Was a Boy	Jan.	22,'33 — 8
GLEASON'S SPORT FEATURETTES
A Hockey Hick	Dec.	11 — 19
Always Kickin'	Oct.	9 — 20
Off His Base	Sept.	18 — 20
GREAT HOKUM MYSTERY
Burned at the Steak	Oct.	16 — 18
Evil Eye Conquers, The	Jan.	8,'33 — 14
In the Clutches of Death	Nov.	13 — 14
On the Brink of Disaster	Feb.	19,'33
HODGE-PODGE
Across America in Ten Minutes	Jan.	1,'33 — 11
Animal Fair, The	Jan.	15,'33 — 10
Bubble Blowers	Sept.	11 — 10
Down on the Farm	Dec.	18 — 10
Little Thrills	Oct.	23 — 9
Out of the Ordinary	Apr.	9,33
Skipping About the Universe	Feb.	12,'33 — 10
Traffic	Nov.	6 — 10
Women of Many Lands	Mar.	12,'33 — 9
Women's Work	Sept.	25 — 9	Mar. 11,'33
Wonder City, The	Nov.	20 — 9	Feb. 25,'33
MERMAID COMEDIES
Big Flash, The — Harry Langdon	Nov.	6 — 22	Oct. 15
Hitch Hiker, The — Harry Langdon	Feb.	12,'33 — 21
Knight Duty — Harry Langdon	May	7,'33 — 22	May 13,'33
Tired Feet — Harry Langdon	Jan.	1,'33 — 22
Vest with a Tale, The — Tom Howard	Dec.	4 — 22
MORAN AND MACK COMEDIES
A Pair of Socks	May	14,'33 — 20	May 13,'33
As the Crows Fly	Feb.	5,'33 — 19
Hot Hoofs
Two Black Crows in Africa	Mar.	5,'33 — 20
OPERALOGUES
Brahmin's Daughter, A	Jan.	8,'33 — 22
Canteen Girl, The
Walpurgis Night	Oct.	30 — 20
SPIRIT OF THE CAMPUS (Reinald Werrenrath)
California	Mar.	5,'33 — 10
Cornell	Dec.	18 — 9	Dec. 17
Georgia Tech	May	7,'33 — 9
McGill	May	28,'33 — 9
Michigan	Dec.	4 — 8
Yale	Oct.	9 — 10
TERRY-TOONS
Burlesque	Sept.	4 — 6
Cinderella	May	28,'33 — 6
College Spirit	Oct.	16 — 6
Down on the Levee	Mar.	5,'33 — 6
Farmer Al Falfa's Birthday Party	Oct.	2 — 6	Dec. 3
Forty Thieves, The	Nov.	13 — 6
Hansel Und Gretel	Feb.	5,'33 — 6
Hollywood Diet	Dec.	11 — 6
Hook and Ladder No. 1	Oct.	30 — 7	Nov. 5
Ireland or Bust	Dec.	25 — 6
Jealous Lover	Jan.	8,'33 — 6
Oh! Susanna	Apr.	2,'33 — 6
Pirate Ship	Apr.	30,'33 — 6
Robin Hood	Jan.	22,'33 — 6
Romeo and Juliet	Apr.	16,'33 — 6
Southern Rhythm	Sept.	18 — 6
Tale of a Shirt, The	Feb.	19,'33 — 6
Toyland	Nov.	27 — 6	Dec. 17
Tropical Fish	May	14,'33 — 6
Who Killed Cock Robin?	Mar.	19,'33 — 6
THREE-REEL SPECIAL
Krakatoa	Apr.	23,'33 — 23
TOM HOWARD COMEDIES
A Drug on the Market	Jan.	22,'33 — 11
The Acid Test	Nov.	27 — 11
The Mouse Trapper	Sept.	11 — 12
TORCHY COMEDIES (Ray Cooke)
Torchy's Busy Day	Oct.	2 — 20
Torchy's Kitty Coup	Jan.	22,'33 — 21
Torchy's Loud Spooker	Apr.	23,'33
Torchy Rolls His Own	Nov.	20 — 21
Torchy Turns Turtle	Apr.	23,'33 — 21
VANITY COMEDIES
Hollywood Run-Around — Monty Collins	Dec.	18 — 20	Mar. 25,'33
Honeymoon Beach — Billy Bevan-Glenn Tryon	Oct.	23 — 21
Keyhole Katie — Gale Seabrook-John T. Murray	Jan.	15,'33 — 20
Techno-crazy — Monty Collins-Billy Bevan	Apr.	23,'33 — 19	May 13,'33

FOX FILMS

Title	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
MAGIC CARPET SERIES
1 Alpine Echoes	Aug.	14
2 Incredible India	Aug.	21 — 9
3 Big Game of the Sea	Aug.	28 — 8
4 The Tom-Tom Trail	Sept.	4 — 9
5 By-Ways of France	Sept.	11 — 9	Dec. 17
6 Manhattan Medley	Sept.	18 — 10
7 Rhineland Memories	Sept.	25 — 8
8 Fisherman's Fortune	Oct.	2 — 9
9 Zanzibar	Oct.	9 — 9
10 Belles of Bali	Oct.	16 — 8	Jan. 7,'33
11 Sailing a Square-Rigger	Oct.	23 — 10	Dec. 10
12 Venetian Holiday	Oct.	30 — 10	Nov. 12
13 Havana Hot	Nov.	6 — 9
14 Paths in Palestine	Nov.	13 — 8
15 Ricksha Rhythm	Nov.	20
16 Pirate Isles	Nov.	27 — 9
17 From Kashmir to the Khyber	Dec.	4 — 9	Nov. 19
18 Silver Springs	Dec.	11
19 Desert Tripoli	Dec.	18
20 In the Guianas	Dec.	25 — 9
21 Mediterranean Memories	Jan.	1,'33
22 The Lure of the Orient	Jan.	8,'33 — 9
23 Here Comes the Circus	Jan.	15,'33
24 Sicilian Sunshine	Jan.	22,'33 — 10	Mar. 25,'33
25 Gorges of the Giants	Jan.	29,'33 — 9	Dec. 31
26 When In Rome	Feb.	5,'33
27 Berlin Medley	Feb.	12,'33 — 9	Nov. 26
28 Rhapsody of the Rails	Feb.	19,'33
29 Taking the Cure	Feb.	26,'33
30 Down from Vesuvius	Mar.	5,'33
31 Paris on Parade	Mar.	12,'33
32 Broadway by Day	Mar.	19,'33
33 The Iceberg Patrol
34 Mississippi Showboats
35 Sampans and Shadows
36 Boardwalks of New York
37 A Gondola Journey
38 Isles of the East Indies
39 Pagodas of Peiping

METRO-GOLDWYN-MAYER

Title	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
CHARLEY CHASE
Arabian Tights	June	3,'33 — 20
Fallen Arches	Feb.	4,'33 — 19
Girl Grief	Oct.	8 — 20
Mr. Bride	Dec.	24 — 19
Now We'll Tell One	Nov.	19 — 19	Oct. 22
Tarzan in the Wrong		20
Young Ironsides	Sept.	3 — 20
COLORTONE MUSICAL REVUES
Hollywood Premiere	Jan.	7,'33 — 18
Menu
Over the Counter		18	Feb. 25,'33
Wild People	Feb.	4,'33 — 16	May 20,'33
FITZPATRICK TRAVELTALKS
Barbados and Trinidad	Sept.	24 — 9
Big Ditch of Panama, The
Come Back to Erin		9	June 4
Cuba, Land of the Rhumba	Feb.	25,'33
Daughters of the Sea		9
Iceland	Jan.	14,'33 — 10	Feb. 11,'33
Leningrad	Dec.	17 — 9	Mar. 11,'33
Norway	Feb.	4,'33 — 9
Over the Seas to Borneo		9
Rio the Magnificent		9
World Dances, The		9
FLIP, THE FROG
Cuckoo the Magician	Jan.	21,'33
Funny Face	Dec.	24 — 8
Lunchroom, The
Music Lesson, The	Oct.	29 — 8
Nursemaid, The	Nov.	26 — 7
Techno-cracked		8
LAUREL & HARDY
Me An' My Pal		21
Scram	Sept.	10 — 21	Oct. 15
Their First Mistake		21
Towed in a Hole	Dec.	31 — 21	May 13,'33
Twice Two	Feb.	25,'33 — 21
ODDITIES
Chill and Chills	Sept.	10 — 9
Duck Hunter's Paradise	Dec.	31 — 10	Dec. 31
Microscopic Mysteries	Oct.	18 — 10	Apr. 8,'33
Toy Parade, The	Dec	3 — 7	Dec. 17
Whispering Bill	Dec.	31 — 10
OUR GANG
A Lad an' a Lamp	Dec.	17 — 17	May 20,'33
Birthday Blues	Nov.	12 — 20
Fish Hooky	Jan.	28,'33 — 19
Forgotten Babies	Mar.	11,'33 — 17
Free Wheeling	Oct.	1 — 20
Kid from Borneo, The	Apr.	15,'33 — 19
Mush and Milk	May	27,'33
PITTS-TODD
Alum and Eve	Sept.	24 — 18	Aug. 13
Asleep in the Feet	Jan.	21,'33 — 19
Bargain of the Century		20
Maids a la Mode		18
One Track Minds
Sneak Easily	Dec.	10 — 17
Soilers, The	Oct.	29 — 19
SPECIAL
Roosevelt, the Man of the Hour		18	Apr. 15,'33
SPORT CHAMPIONS
Allez Oop	Mar.	11,'33
Auto Racing	Apr.	1,'33
Block and Tackle	Nov.	5 — 12	Mar. 11,'33
Bone Crushers	Feb.	8,'33 — 8
Chalk Up	Dec.	10 — 10	Jan. 7,'33
Desert Regatta	Sept.	17 — 10
Football Footwork		12
Motorcycle Mania	Jan.	28,'33 — 9
Old Spanish Custom	Oct.	15 — 10	Mar. 11,'33
Pigskin	Oct.	22 — 12	Dec. 10
Swing High	Dec.	10 — 10	Dec. 17
Throttle Pushers		9
TAXI BOYS
Bring 'Em Back a Wife	Jan.	14,'33 — 20
Call Her Sausage
Farewell to Legs
Hot Spot	Oct.	22 — 18	Oct. 1
Rummy, The		18
Strange Innertube	Sept.	22
Taxi Barons
Taxi for Two	Dec.	3 — 18
Thundering Taxis	June	24,'33 — 16
Wreckety Wrecks	Feb.	18,'33 — 19	Mar. 25,'33

PARAMOUNT PUBLIX

Title	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
HOLLWOOD ON PARADE
No. 1	Aug.	26 — 10	Aug. 13
No. 2	Sept.	23 — 1 reel
No. 3	Oct.	21 — 1 reel
No. 4	Nov.	18 — 1 reel
No. 5	Dec.	16 — 1 reel
No. 6	Jan.	13,'33 — 1 reel

(THE RELEASE CHART--CONT'D)

Title	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
No. 7	Feb.	10,'33... 1 reel	.....
No. 8	Mar.	10,'33... 1 reel	.....
No. 9	Apr.	7,'33... 1 reel	.....
No. 10	May	5,'33... 1 reel	.....
No. 11	June	2,'33... 1 reel	.....
No. 12	June	30,'33... 1 reel	.....
ONE REEL ACTS
Be Like Me Ethel Merman	Feb.	18,'33... 1 reel	.....
Breaking Even Tom Howard	Sept.	30.....	.....
Detective Tom Howard of the Suicide Squad Tom Howard	June	9,'33... 1 reel	.....
Hawaiian Fantasy Vincent Lopez	Jan.	20,'33... 1 reel	.....
Let's Dance Burns and Allen	Mar.	17,'33...10...May 13,'33
Moonlight Fantasy Vincent Lopez	Apr.	14,'33... 1 reel	.....
Musical Doctor Rudy Vallee	Oct.	28.....10.....Oct. 1
Rhapsody in Black and Blue Louis Armstrong	Sept.	2.....	.....
Rookie, The Tom Howard	Dec.	23..... 1 reel	.....
Walking the Baby Burns and Allen	May	12,'33... 1 reel	.....
Your Hat Burns and Allen	Nov.	25.....	.....
PARAMOUNT PICTORIAL—NEW SERIES
No. 1—Mists of the Morning—Temple Bells of Indo-China—Famous Radio Personalities	Aug.	12..... 1 reel	.....
No. 2—Just Mentioning the Unmentionable — New England Sunsets—Famous Radio Personalities	Sept.	9..... 1 reel	.....
No. 3—Making Friends in the Desert—The Fall of the Year — Radio Star-Maker	Oct.	7..... 1 reel	.....
No. 4—Distinctive Hair for Distinctive Heads — The Blooming Desert — The Camels Are Coming	Nov.	4..... 1 reel	.....
No. 5—John Mongol Comes to Town—Have a Little Ski—Meet Your Favorite Radio Personalities	Dec.	4..... 1 reel	.....
No. 6—Land of Sun and Shine — La Rumba de Cuba—Big Shots of U.S. Navy	Dec.	30..... 1 reel	.....
No. 7—This is Ducky — Music from the Ancients —Bringing You the News	Jan.	27,'33... 1 reel	.....
No. 8—Glass Making at the Corning Glass Works — "Going Back Home" — Costuming the Earl Carroll Vanities	Feb.	24,'33... 1 reel	.....
No. 9—A Drama of the Northland — Paramount Pictorial Presents Amelia Earhart	Mar.	17,'33... 1 reel	.....
No. 10—Birth of the Year — Laboratory Sleuth — Three X Sisters	Apr.	21,'33...10...Apr. 22,'33
No. 11—Dr. Roy Chapman Andrews - Ward Wilson-Danbury Fair	May	19,'33... 1 reel	.....
No. 12—	June	16,'33... 1 reel	.....
No. 13—	July	14,'33... 1 reel	.....
SCREEN SONGS
Ain't She Sweet Lillian Roth	Feb.	3,'33.....	.....
Aloha Oe Royal Samoans	Mar.	17,'33... 1 reel	.....
"Boilesk" Watson Sisters	June	9,'33... 1 reel	.....
Dinah Mills Bros.	Jan.	13,'33... 1 reel	.....
Down by the Old Mill Stream Eton Boys	June	30,'33... 1 reel	.....
Just a Gigolo Irene Bordoni	Sept.	9.....	.....
Peanut Vendor, The Armida	Apr.	28,'33.....	.....
Popular Melodies Arthur Jarrett	Apr.	7,'33... 1 reel	.....
Reaching for the Moon	Feb.	24,'33... 1 reel	.....
Romantic Melodies The Street Singer	Oct.	21..... 1 reel	.....
School Days Gus Edwards	Sept.	30.....	.....
Sing a Song James Melton	Dec.	2.....	.....
Sing, Sisters, Sing Three X Sisters	June	3,'33... 1 reel	.....
Song Shopping Ethel Merman		..... 1 reel	.....
Time on My Hands Ethel Merman	Dec.	23..... 7...Jan. 7,'33
When It's Sleepy Time Down South Boswell Sisters	Nov.	11..... 1 reel	.....
SCREEN SOUVENIRS — NEW SERIES
No. 1	Aug.	5..... 1 reel	.....
No. 2	Sept.	2..... 1 reel	.....
No. 3	Sept.	30.....10.....Oct. 15
No. 4	Oct.	28..... 1 reel	.....
No. 5	Nov.	25..... 1 reel	.....
No. 6	Dec.	23..... 1 reel	.....
No. 7	Jan.	20,'33... 1 reel	.....
No. 8	Feb.	17,'33... 1 reel	.....
No. 9	Mar.	17,'33... 1 reel	.....
No. 10	Apr.	14,'33... 1 reel	.....
No. 11	May	12,'33.....	.....
No. 12	June	9,'33... 1 reel	.....
PARAMOUNT SOUND NEWS Two Editions Weekly
SPORTS EYE VIEW
Aggravatin' Bear, The	Apr.	28,'33... 1 reel	.....
Balance	June	23,'33... 1 reel	.....
Canine Thirlls	Feb.	3,'33... 1 reel	.....
Catch 'Em Young	Dec.	9..... 1 reel	.....
Fighting Fins	Oct.	14.....10.....Oct. 15
Hot and Cold Thrills	Mar.	31,'33... 1 reel	.....
Jabs and Jolts	May	26,'33... 1 reel	.....
Over the Jumps	Jan.	6,'33... 1 reel	.....
Stuff on the Ball	Nov.	11..... 1 reel	.....
Water Jamboree	Sept.	16..... 1 reel	.....
Wonder Girl, The Babe Didrickson	Mar.	3,'33... 1 reel	.....
TALKARTOONS
Betty Boop's Bamboo Isle	Sept.	23.....	.....
Betty Boop's Big Boss	June	2,'33... 1 reel	.....
Betty Boop's Birthday Party	Apr.	21,'33... 1 reel	.....
Betty Boop's Crazy Inventions	Jan.	27,'33... 1 reel	.....
Betty Boop for President	Nov.	4..... 7.....Oct. 1
Betty Boop's Ker-Choo	Jan.	6,'33... 7.....Dec. 10
Betty Boop, M.D.	Sept.	2..... 7.....Dec. 10
Betty Boop's May Party	May	12,'33... 1 reel	.....
Betty Boop's Museum	Dec.	16..... 1 reel	.....
Betty Boop's Ups & Downs	Oct.	14..... 1 reel	.....
Betty Boop's Penthouse	Mar.	10,'33... 6...Feb. 25,'33
Is My Palm Read	Feb.	17,'33... 1 reel	.....
Minding the Baby	Sept.	26..... 1 reel	.....
Mother Goose Land	June	23,'33... 1 reel	.....
Snow-White	Mar.	31,'33... 1 reel	.....
TWO REEL COMEDIES
Blue of the Night Bing Crosby	Jan.	6,'33...20.....Sept. 16
Bring 'Em Back Sober Sennett Star	Nov.	18..... 2 reels	.....
Caliente Love Sennett Star	Mar.	10,'33... 2 reels	.....
Cook's Day Off, The Sennett Star		.....	.....
Courting Trouble Charles Murray	Oct.	28.....19.....Dec. 17
Daddy Knows Best Walter Catlett	June	16,'33... 2 reels	.....
Dentist, The Sennett Star	Dec.	9.....20.....Dec. 3
Don't Play Bridge With Your Wife Sennett Star	Jan.	13,'33... 2 reels	.....
Doubling in the Quickies Sennett Star	Dec.	16..... 2 reels	.....
Dream Stuff Sennett Star	May	12,'33... 2 reels	.....
Druggist, The Sennett Star	Apr.	21,'33.....	.....
Easy On the Eyes Sennett Star	Feb.	17,'33... 2 reels	.....
False Impressions Sennett Star	Nov.	4..... 2 reels	.....
Fatal Glass of Beer W. C. Fields	Mar.	3,'33... 2 reels	.....
His Perfect Day Sennett Star		.....	.....
Hollywood Double, A Sennett Star	Nov.	25..... 2 reels	.....
Honeymoon Bridge Sennett Star		.....	.....
Hubby's Vacation Sennett Star		.....	.....
Human Fish Sennett Star	Dec.	30..... 2 reels	.....
In the Bag Sennett Star		.....	.....
Knockout Kisses Sennett Star	June	23,'33... 2 reels	.....
Lion and the House, The Sennett Star	Dec.	23.....18.....
Ma's Pride and Joy Donald Novis	Oct.	14.....18.....Aug. 27
Morning After, The Sennett Star		.....	.....
Pharmacist, The Sennett Star	Apr.	21,'33... 2 reels	.....
Plumber and the Lady, The Sennett Star	Mar.	31,'33... 2 reels	.....
Prosperity Pays Tom Howard	Nov.	4.....	.....
Roadhouse Queen Sennett Star	May	26,'33... 2 reels	.....
See You Tonight Sennett Star	June	2,'33... 2 reels	.....
Shot for Love Sennett Star		.....	.....
Sing, Bing, Sing Bing Crosby	Mar.	24,'33... 2 reels	.....
Singing Boxer, The	Jan.	27,'33.....	.....
Singing Plumber Donald Novis	Sept.	23.....	.....
Sweet Cookie Sennett Star	Apr.	14,'33... 2 reels	.....
Temporary Butler Sennett Star		.....	.....
Too Many Highballs Sennett Star	Feb.	10,'33... 2 reels	.....
Uncle Jake Sennett Star	May	5,'33... 2 reels	.....
Wrestlers, The Sennett Star	Jan.	20,'33.....	.....

RKO-RADIO PICTURES

Title	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
CHARLIE CHAPLIN SERIES (Re-Issues)
Easy Street	Sept.	30.....19½....Dec. 17
The Floorwalker	Dec.	23.....20½.....
The Pawnshop	Mar.	17,'33.....	.....
The Rink	Nov.	11.....20	.....
The Vagabond	Feb.	3,'33...21	.....
CLARK & McCULLOUGH SERIES
Druggist's Dilemma, The	May	5,'33...17	.....
Hocus Focus	Mar.	3,'33...20	.....
Jitters, The Butler	Dec.	30.....20½....Aug. 20
Millionaire Cat, The	Oct.	21.....21	.....
HARRY SWEET COMEDIES
Firehouse Honeymoon	Oct.	28.....18...Jan. 14,'33
Heave Two	Mar.	10,'33...20½	.....
Loops, My Dear	Jan.	6,'33...17	.....
Shakespeare With Tin Ears	June	30,'33...18½	.....
Thrown Out of Joint	May	12,'33...21...May 13,'33
HEADLINER SERIES
No. 1—Shampoo, the Magician Roscoe Ates-Hugh Herbert	Nov.	25.....17	.....
No. 2—Private Wives Skeets Gallagher W. Catlett	Jan.	27,'33...21	.....
No. 3—Hip, Zip, Hooray Nat Carr	Mar.	31,'33...18½.May 20,'33
MASQUERS COMEDIES
Abroad in Old Kentucky		.....	.....
Bride's Bereavement, The	Nov.	18.....19	.....
Lost in the Limehouse	Apr.	7,'33...20½	.....
Moonshiner's Daughter, The		.....	.....
Through Thin and Thicket	Jan.	20,'33...17½	.....
Two Lips and Juleps	Sept.	9.....20	.....
MICKEY McGUIRE SERIES
Mickey's Ape Man	Feb.	10,'33...18	.....
Mickey's Big Broadcast		.....	.....
Mickey's Busy Day	Sept.	2.....18.....Aug. 6
Mickey's Charity	Dec.	2.....18	.....
Mickey's Disguise		.....	.....
Mickey's Race	Apr.	14,'33...18	.....
MR. AVERAGE MAN COMEDIES (EDGAR KENNEDY)
Art in the Raw	Feb.	24,'33...19	.....
Fish Feathers	Dec.	16.....18	.....
Inferior Decorations		.....	.....
Merchant of Menace, The	Apr.	21,'33...19½	.....
Parlor, Bedroom and Wrath	Oct.	14.....20½	.....
PATHE NEWS Released twice a week
PATHE REVIEW Released once a month
SPECIALS
So This Is Harris		28...Mar. 11,'33
TOM AND JERRY SERIES
Barnyard Bunk	Sept.	16..... 6	.....
Happy Hoboes	Mar.	31,'33.....	.....
Magic Mummy	Feb.	7,'33... 7	.....
Panicky Pup	Feb.	24,'33... 7	.....
Pencil Mania	Dec.	9..... 7	.....
Piano Tooners	Nov.	11..... 7½	.....
Puzzled Pals		7...Apr. 22,'33
Spanish Twist, A	Oct.	14..... 6	.....
Tight Rope Tricks	Jan.	6,'33... 7	.....

STATE RIGHTS

Title	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
ATLANTIC FILM
Playgrounds in the Sky		10.....Nov. 5
Sportsmen's Paradise		10.....July 30
BEVERLY HILLS PICTURES
Coocoo Capers		.....	.....
Flame of the Pacific		23.....	.....
Terrors of the Amazon		29.....	.....
CAESAR FILMS
Veneziana		..... 1 reel	.....
CENTRAL FILM
A Pilgrimage Through Palestine		10.....Dec. 3
Boston Common—and Proper		10...Jan. 7,'33
Hula		..... 3 reels	.....
In Old New Orleans		.....May 28
Syria		.....May 21
F. M. S. CORP.
Newslaughs		..... 7...Jan. 28,'33
IDEAL
Evolution		28.....Sept. 3
INDUSTRIAL
The Silent Enemy		30.....	.....
MARY WARNER
Berlin: Its Sports and Recreation		8.....	.....
Berlin: Rhythm of a Metropolis		8...Apr. 8,'33
Glimpses of Germany		8.....	.....
Green Heart of Germany, The		20.....	.....
Springtime on the Rhine		7.....	.....
The Mosel		8.....Oct. 15
Trier, Oldest City in Germany		6.....	.....
Vintagers' Festival in the Palatinate		10...Mar. 11,'33
Winter in the Bavarian Alps		..... 1 reel	.....
Young Germany Goes Ski-ing		..... 1 reel	.....
MASCOT
Technocracy		10...Jan. 7,'33
MASTER ART PRODUCTS
Melody Makers Series:
Sammy Fain		10.....Dec. 24
Benny Davis		9.....	.....
Gus Edwards		.....	.....
Cliff Friend		9.....	.....
Night of Romance		7.....	.....
Tongue Twisters		9.....	.....
PRINCIPAL
Beer Is Here		.....	.....
Get That Lion		29.....Aug. 27
Isle of Desire		3 reels	.....
Isle of Peril		32.....July 16
Isles of Love		..... 1 reel	.....
Killing the Killer		11.....July 30
Matto Grosso		24...May 13,'33
New Western Front		25.....	.....
Primitive		..... 1 reel	.....
Tiger Hunt, The		20.....Dec. 31
Voodoo		36...May 13,'33
Walpi		.....	.....
WARD PRODUCTIONS
Your Technocracy and Mine		..... 9½.Feb. 11,'33

UNITED ARTISTS

Title	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
MICKEY MOUSE
1. Mickey's Nightmare	Aug.	8..... 7½....Oct. 8
2. Trader Mickey	Aug.	26..... 7	.....
3. The Whoopee Party	Sept.	16..... 7.....Nov. 12
4. Touchdown Mickey	Oct.	7..... 6½	.....
5. The Wayward Canary	Oct.	28..... 7¼	.....
6. The Klondike Kid	Nov.	18.....	.....
7. Mickey's Good Deed	Dec.	9..... 8	.....
8. Building a Building	Dec.	20..... 7	.....
9. The Mad Doctor	Jan.	20,'33... 6	.....
10. Mickey's Pal Pluto	Feb.	10,'33... 7	.....
11. The Mellerdrammer	Mar.	3,'33.....	.....
12. Ye Olden Days	Mar.	24,'33.....	.....
13. The Mail Pilot	Apr.	14,'33.....	.....
SILLY SYMPHONIES
1. Bears and Bees	July	15..... 6½	.....
2. Just Dogs	Aug.	12..... 7	.....
3. Flowers and Trees	Sept.	9..... 8.....Oct. 15
4. Bugs in Love	Sept.	21..... 7	.....
5. King Neptune	Oct.	7..... 7.....Oct. 29
6. Babes in the Wood	Dec.	2..... 8...Apr. 1,'33
7. Santa's Workshop	Dec.	30..... 7.....Dec. 24
8. Birds in the Spring	Dec.	30.....	.....
9. Father Noah's Ark	Jan.	27,'33.....	.....

(THE RELEASE CHART--CONT'D)

UNIVERSAL

Title	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
OSWALD CARTOONS
Beau Best	May 22,'33	1 reel
Busy Barber	Sept. 12	1 reel
Carnival Capers	Oct. 10	1 reel
Going to Blazes	Apr. 10,'33	1 reel
Ham and Eggs	June 19,'33	1 reel
New Deal, A	July 17,'33	1 reel
Ocean Hop (Reissue)	Apr. 24,'33	1 reel
Plumber, The	Jan. 30,'33	7	May 13,'33
Shriek, The	Feb. 27,'33	7	Mar. 25,'33
Teacher's Pest	Dec. 19	7
Wild and Wooly	Nov. 21	1 reel
POOCH CARTOONS
Butcher Boy, The	Sept. 26	7	Sept. 17
Cat and Dogs	Dec. 5	1 reel
Crowd Snores, The	Oct. 24	1 reel
Fine Feathers	July 3,'33	1 reel
Hot and Cold	May 8,'33	1 reel
King Klunk	July 31,'33	1 reel
Lumber Champ, The	Mar. 13,'33	7	Apr. 8,'33
Merry Dog, The	Jan. 2,'33	1 reel
Nature's Workshop	June 5,'33	1 reel
Terrible Troubador, The	Feb. 13,'33	1 reel
Underdog, The	Nov. 7	1 reel
RADIO STAR REELS
Morton Downey—No. 1 With Vincent Lopez	Oct. 31	2 reels
The Street Singer Nick Kenny—No. 1	Nov. 14	2 reels
Morton Downey—No. 2 With Brown and Henderson	Nov. 28	2 reels
Art Jarrett Nick Kenny—No. 2	Dec. 12	2 reels
Down Memory Lane Louis Sobol—No. 1 With Texas Guinan	Dec. 26	1 reel
Married or Single Nick Kenny—No. 3 With Little Jack Little	Jan. 16,'33	21
I Know Everybody and Everybody's Racket Walter Winchell—No. 1 With Paul Whiteman	Jan. 30,'33	21	Feb. 11,'33
Morton Downey—No. 3 The Holdup With Joe Young	Feb. 14,'33	21	May 13,'33
Radio Murder Mystery Louis Sobol—No. 2	Mar. 6,'33	2 reels
Morton Downey—No. 4 My Pal the Prince	Apr. 17,'33	2 reels
Beauty on Broadway Walter Winchell—No. 2	May 15,'33	2 reels
SPECIALS
Voice of the Vatican	Mar. 13,'33	10	Mar. 11,'33
Your Technocracy and Mine	Apr. 15,'33	1 reel
STRANGE AS IT SEEMS SERIES
No. 21—Novelty	Aug. 22	1 reel
No. 22—Novelty	Sept. 19	1 reel
No. 23—Novelty	Oct. 17	1 reel
No. 24—Novelty	Nov. 14	1 reel
No. 25—Novelty	Dec. 12	1 reel
No. 26—Novelty	Jan. 23,'33	1 reel
No. 27—Novelty	Mar. 20,'33	1 reel
No. 28—Novelty	Apr. 17,'33	1 reel
No. 29—Novelty	May 29,'33	1 reel
No. 30—Novelty	June 12,'33	1 reel
No. 31—Novelty	July 10,'33	1 reel
UNIVERSAL BREVITIES
Boo!	Dec. 26	1 reel
Dr. Jekyll's Hide	Sept. 26	9	Oct. 1
Good Old Days, The	Nov. 21	1 reel
Greeks Had No Word for Them, The	Oct. 24	1 reel
Lizzie Stratta	Jan. 23,'33	10
UNIVERSAL COMEDIES (1932-33 SEASON)
A Quiet Night Bert Roach	May 31,'33	21	May 13,'33
Alias the Professor James Gleason	Mar. 8,'33	21	May 13,'33
Boys Will Be Boys Frank Albertson	Nov. 30	2 reels
Family Troubles Henry Armetta	Jan. 11,'33	21	May 13,'33
Finishing Touch Skeets Gallagher June Clyde	Oct. 19	2 reels
Hesitating Love L. Fazenda-M. Prevost	Nov. 16	2 reels
Hunting Trouble Louise Fazenda	Feb. 8,'33	20	Mar. 11,'33
Kid Glove Kisses Slim Summerville	Sept. 21	2 reels
Lights Out James Gleason	Dec. 24	2 reels
Mister Mugg James Gleason	May 10,'33	21	May 13,'33
My Operation Vince Barnett-June Clyde	Dec. 28	2 reels
Officer, Save My Child Slim Summerville	Nov. 2	2 reels
People vs. Vince Barnett Vince Barnett	Mar. 22,'33	21	May 13,'33
Pick Me Up Marie Prevost	Apr. 5,'33	19	May 20,'33
Rockabye Cowboy James Gleason	Jan. 25,'33	21	May 13,'33
Room Mates Frank Albertson	Apr. 19,'33	20	May 20,'33
Should Creoners Marry? Frank Albertson	Feb. 22,'33	2 reels
Who, Me Frank Albertson	Sept. 7	2 reels
Yoo Hoo! James Gleason	Oct. 5	21	Sept. 3

VITAPHONE SHORTS

Title	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
BIG V COMEDIES
No. 1—Sherlock's Home Jack Haley
No. 2—Here, Prince Joe Penner
No. 3—You Call It Madness Richy Craig, Jr.
No. 4—Hey, Pop Roscoe (Fatty) Arbuckle
No. 5—Then Came the Yawn Jack Haley
No. 6—The Run Around William Demarest
No. 7—Trouble Indemnity Codee and Orth
No. 8—The Build-Up Jack Haley
No. 9—Buzzin' Around Roscoe (Fatty) Arbuckle
No. 10—Wrongorilla Jack Haley
No. 11—How've You Been? "Fatty" Arbuckle
No. 12—An Idle Roomer Jack Haley
BROADWAY BREVITIES (NEW SERIES)
No. 1—C'est Paris Technicolor Musical	Sept. 3	17
No. 2—Passing the Buck Alexander Gray	Sept. 24	18
No. 3—Tee for Two Technicolor Musical	Oct. 8	17	Nov. 12
No. 4—Tip-Tap-Toe Hal Leroy-Mitzi Mayfair	Oct. 22	19
No. 5—A Modern Cinderella Ruth Etting	Nov. 5	18
No. 6—Picking a Winner Technicolor Musical	Nov. 19	16	Nov. 18
No. 7—The Red Shadow Al Gray-Bernice Claire	Dec. 3	18
No. 8—Sky Symphony Stoopnagle & Budd	June 3,'33
No. 9—Poor Little Rich Boy Phil Baker	Dec. 24	18
No. 10—Hey, Hey, Westerner Technicolor Musical	Dec. 31	17	Oct. 15
No. 11—That Goes Double Russ Columbo	June 17,'33
No. 12—Bygones Ruth Etting	Jan. 14,'33	18
No. 13—Pleasure Island Technicolor Musical	Feb. 25,'33	18
No. 14—Yours Sincerely Lanny Ross	Mar. 11,'33	19
No. 15—Speaking of Operations Pick & Pat	Jan. 28,'33	18	May 13,'33
No. 16—Northern Exposure Technicolor Musical	Apr. 8,'33	16
No. 17—Nothing Ever Happens Musical	Mar. 25,'33	18	May 13,'33
No. 18—World's Champ Jack Dempsey	July 11,'33
No. 19—The Way of All Freshmen Hal Leroy-Mitzi Mayfair	Apr. 22,'33
No. 20—Along Came Ruth Ruth Etting	May 6,'33
No. 21—Fifi V. Segal-Chas. Judels	May 20,'33	21	May 13,'33
No. 22—The Double-Crossing of Columbus Charles Judels
No. 23—Pie a la Mode
No. 24—Crashing the Gate Ruth Etting-Roy Atwell
HOW TO BREAK 90 BOBBY JONES
No. 1—The Grip	May 15,'33	9
No. 2—Position and Back Swing
No. 3—Hip Action
No. 4—Down Swing
No. 5—Impact
No. 6—Fine Points
LOONEY TUNES SERIES
No. 9—Bosko and Bruno	7	Dec.	10
No. 10—Bosko's Dog Race	8	July	8
No. 11—Bosko at the Beach	7	Nov.	5
No. 12—Bosko's Store	7
No. 13—Bosko the Lumberjack
LOONEY TUNES (NEW SERIES)
No. 1—Ride Him, Bosko
No. 2—Bosko the Drawback
No. 3—Bosko's Dizzy Date
No. 4—Bosko's Woodland Daze
No. 5—Bosko In Dutch
No. 6—Bosko in Person	7	May	13,'33
No. 7—Bosko the Speed King
No. 8—Bosko's Knight Mare
No. 9—Bosko the Sheep-Herder
MELODY MASTERS (NEW SERIES)
No. 1—Music to My Ears Jack Denny and Band
No. 2—Municipal Band Wagon
No. 3—Smash Your Baggage Small's Paradise Band
No. 4—The Lease Breakers Aunt Jemima	9	Dec.	3
No. 5—The Yacht Party Roger Wolfe Kahn's Band
No. 6—Hot Competition The Continentals-Barris-Whiteman-Ted Husing
No. 7—Abe Lyman and Band	10	Apr.	1,'33
No. 8—"How's Tricks?" Jean Sargent-George Owen and Gang
No. 9—That's the Spirit Noble Sissle and Band
No. 10—The Alma Martyr Fred Waring and His Pennsylvanians
No. 11—The Name Is Familiar Leon Belasco and Band
No. 12—The Audition Hannah Williams - Phil Emerton's Band
MERRY MELODIES (New Series)
No. 1—You're Too Careless With Your Kisses	8	Dec.	17
No. 2—I Wish I Had Wings
No. 3—A Great Big Bunch of You
No. 4—Three's a Crowd
No. 5—Shanty Where Santa Claus Lives
No. 6—One Step Ahead of My Shadow
No. 7—Young and Healthy
No. 8—The Organ Grinder
No. 9—Wake Up the Gypsy In Me

Title	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
ONE-REEL COMEDIES
Baby Face Victor Moore
Military Post, The Robert Guzman
No-Account, The Hardie-Hutchison
No Questions Asked Little Billy
Strong Arm, The Harrington-O'Neill
ORGAN SONG-NATAS
For You Organ-Vocal		1 reel
Say a Little Prayer for Me Organ-Vocal		1 reel
When Your Lover Has Gone Organ-Vocal		1 reel
JOE PENNER COMEDIES
Moving In		2 reels
Rough Sailing		16
Stutterless Romance, A		1 reel
Where Men Are Men		2 reels
PEPPER POT (NEW SERIES)
No. 1—Rambling Round Radio Row No. 1
No. 2—Nickelette
No. 3—Contact
No. 4—If I'm Elected
No. 5—King Salmon
No. 6—Rambling Round Radio Row No. 2
No. 7—Babe O' Mine
No. 8—Dangerous Occupations
No. 9—Out of the Past
No. 10—Love Thy Neighbor
No. 11—Rambling Round Radio Row No. 3
No. 12—A Whale of a Yarn
No. 13—Africa Speaks—English
No. 14—Rambling Round Radio Row No. 4	10	Apr.	29,'33
No. 15—Sea Devils
No. 16—Parades of Yesterday
No. 17—Breakwater
No. 18—Little White Lies
No. 19—Rambling Round Radio Row No. 5
No. 20—You're Killing Me
No. 21—Inklings
No. 22—Rambling Round Radio Row No. 6
No. 23—Around the World In 8 Minutes	8	Aug.	20
No. 24—Fishermen's Holiday
No. 25—Stuck, Stuck, Stucco
No. 26—Seeing Samoa
SPORT THRILLS SERIES TED HUSING
No. 1—
No. 2—
No. 3—
No. 4—Old Time Sport Thrills
No. 5—
No. 6—
TWO-REEL COMEDIES
Dandy and the Belle, The Frank McGlynn, Jr.-Mary Murray
Freshman Love Ruth Etting
Old Lace Ruth Etting
WORLD TRAVEL TALKS— E. M. NEWMAN
No. 1—Little Journeys to Great Masters		1 reel
No. 2—Southern India		9
No. 3—Road to Mandalay		1 reel
No. 4—Mediterranean By-ways		9
No. 5—Javanese Journeys		9
No. 6—Northern India		1 reel
No. 7—Oberammergau		1 reel
No. 8—South American Journeys		9	June 25
No. 9—Soviet Russia		1 reel
No. 10—Paris Glimpses		9	July 30
No. 11—Dear Old London		1 reel
No. 12—When In Rome		9	June 18
No. 13—Berlin Today		9	Oct. 29
WORLD ADVENTURES E. M. NEWMAN (New Series)
No. 1—Dancing Around the World		1 reel
No. 2—Transportations of the World		1 reel
No. 3—An Original Cocktail		10	Oct. 8
No. 4—Curious Customs of the World		1 reel
No. 5—From Bethlehem to Jerusalem		10	Apr. 1,'33
No. 6—High Spots of the Far East		10	Sept. 16
No. 7—Main Streets		1 reel
No. 8—Beauty Spots of the World		1 reel
No. 9—Workers of the World		1 reel
No. 10—Wonder Spots of the World		1 reel
No. 11—Costumes of the World		1 reel
No. 12—Strange Ceremonies		1 reel
No. 13—Top of the World		1 reel

SERIALS

MASCOT

Three Musketeers, The

UNIVERSAL

(EACH SERIAL 12 EPISODES OF TWO REELS)

Title	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
Clancy of the Mounted Tom Tyler-Jacqueline Wells	Feb. 27,'33	20 (each)	Feb. 4,'33
Lost Special Frank Albertson	Dec. 5
Jungle Mystery Tom Tyler	Sept. 12	20 (each)
Phantom of the Air Tom Tyler-Gloria Shea	May 22,'33

CLASSIFIED ADVERTISING

the great national medium for showmen

Ten cents per word, money-order or check with copy. Count initials, box number and address. Minimum insertion, $1. Four insertions for the price of three. Contract rates on application. No borders or cuts. Forms close Mondays at 5 P.M. Publisher reserves right to reject any copy. Address correspondence, copy and checks to MOTION PICTURE HERALD, Classified Dept., 1790 Broadway, New York City

USED EQUIPMENT

UNUSUAL BARGAINS IN USED OPERA Chairs, Sound Equipment, Moving Picture Machines, Screens, Spotlights, Stereopticons, etc. Projection Machines Repaired. Send for catalogue H. MOVIE SUPPLY COMPANY, 844 So. Wabash Ave., Chicago.

HIGH GRADE LENSES, ALL SIZES; SELL OR trade. Cheap. BOX 288, MOTION PICTURE HERALD, 407 So. Dearborn St., Chicago, Ill.

BARGAINS RECONDITIONED ARCTIC-NU-AIR blowers noiseless drives. Write for prices. SOUTHERN FAN CO., Box 440, Atlanta, Ga.

DON'T TEAR OUT THOSE OLD CHAIRS WHEN few repair parts will make them like new. We save you twenty percent by dealing direct with us, the only direct selling organization capable of serving the circuits with rehabilitation and maintenance service in all parts of the country. Replacement chair parts for all makes of chairs in stock. Also big selection of used veneered and upholstered theatre chairs for immediate delivery at bargain prices. Write ILLINOIS THEATRE EQUIPMENT COMPANY, 1024 South Wabash Avenue, Chicago, Ill.

HOLMES SEMI-PORTABLE SOUND PROJECtor, $295.00; Western Electric type Soundhead, ideal for Non-Theatricals. Original cost, $2,000.00. BOX 298, MOTION PICTURE HERALD.

WORLD'S LARGEST CLEARING HOUSE DEfies competition—Soundheads, $19.75 up; Reflector Arcs, $35.00; Amplifiers, $10.00 up; Generators, $74.75; Chairs, 50c up; Rectifiers, $22.50. We Buy or Trade. What Have You? S. O. S. CORP., 1600 Broadway, New York.

NEW EQUIPMENT

VENTILATING, AIR WASHING, REFRIGERATing systems now within reach. Fit present blowers. Details ready. S. O. S. CORP., 1600 Broadway, New York City.

"MAGIC WEATHER"—COOLING EQUIPMENT, air washers for use with your present fans—fans only—or fans, washers and ice bunkers or refrigeration. Distributors wanted. SCOTT-BALLANTYNE COMPANY, Redick Tower, Omaha, Nebr.

PROJECTION MACHINE PARTS. MAIN DRIVE gear, $4.00; Formica double bevel gear, $4.50; Spiral shutter gear, $1.10; intermediate gear and shaft, $7.50; intermittent film guide, $1.30; guide holder, 45c; asbestos heat shield, $1.50; pad roller, 90c; magazine roller, small, 45c; large, 65c; feed sprocket upper or lower, $1.80; constant feed sprocket for RCA, $4.00; all parts guaranteed. Bargains in sanitary supplies. At your service. CROWN MOTION PICTURE SUPPLIES CORP., 311 West 44th Street, New York City.

INFLATED DOLLARS STILL BUY CHEAP—Soundscreens, 29c ft.; Acoustical felt, 22½c yard; Lenses, $6.75; Exciter Lamps, 59c; Photocells, $4.95; Carbons, 60% discount. S. O. S. CORP., 1600 Broadway, New York.

"LARGEN" SOUND SYSTEMS" POWERS, Simplex or Motiograph sound heads—No extras—fully guaranteed. Distributors wanted. SCOTT-BALLANTYNE COMPANY, Redick Tower, Omaha, Nebr.

REPAIR SERVICE

BEST GRADE REPAIR WORK. PRICES right. Free relief heads. Prompt service. GUERCIO AND BARTHEL, 1018 South Wabash Avenue, Chicago, Ill.

PROJECTIONISTS UNIONS

THE NEW NATIONAL PROJECTIONISTS' Union—Independent Motion Picture Operators' Union, National Executive Offices, 3546 Vincent North, Minneapolis, Minn.

PRINTING SERVICE

500 ENVELOPES AND 500 WHITE BOND LETTERHEADS, $2.75. WEBSTER'S PRESS, Farmland, Indiana.

POSTERS

GOOD, CLEAN, USED ADVERTISING CHEAP. Liberal credits. Highest cash prices paid for paper on current releases. We pay transportation charges. ALABAMA POSTER EXCHANGE, 528 North 18th St., Birmingham, Ala.

GENERAL EQUIPMENT

QUIT SLAVING—OWN YOURS OUTRIGHT—Wide Fidelity Sound $179.70 up complete—Install yourself—no experts necessary. Portable Soundfilm Complete, $195.00. S. O. S. CORP., 1600 Broadway, New York.

EQUIPMENT EXCHANGE

IF YOU WANT TO REPLACE ANY TYPE OF equipment with brand new material we will be glad to make an allowance on your old equipment and a better price on new equipment. Let us know what you need and what you want to exchange and we will send complete details on our proposition. EQUIPMENT EXCHANGE, c/o MOTION PICTURE HERALD, 1790 Broadway, New York City.

POSITIONS WANTED

EXPERIENCED SOUND PROJECTIONIST. References. Go anywhere. HERBERT MOORE, 5775 Field Avenue, Detroit, Mich.

BUSINESS STIMULATORS

LIMITED SUPPLY ON HAND. FIRST COME first served. MYSTO, the new puzzle game. Seven blocks that reproduce an endless variety of tricky silhouettes and figures. More entertaining and educational than jig saw puzzles. Each set contains instruction booklet. Blocks are unbreakable. The latest puzzle craze to give out as door prizes to grown ups and children. Backed up by national newspaper advertising. $10 per hundred, $90 per thousand. No orders accepted unless check or money-order accompanies it. BOX 137-A, MOTION PICTURE HERALD.

TECHNICAL BOOKS

"RICHARDSON'S HAND BOOKS OF PROJECtion" in three volumes. Universally accredited as the best and most practical. Aaron Nadell's "Projection Sound Pictures." Complete information on sound equipment. Both text books complete for $12.80. QUIGLEY BOOKSHOP, 1790 Broadway, New York.

WORLD FAMOUS THREE VOLUMES—"SOUND Projection," "Servicing Projection Equipment," "Simplified Sound Servicing," set $3.95, individually, $1.50. S. O. S. CORP., 1600 Broadway, New York.

TRAINING SCHOOLS

LEARN MODERN THEATRE MANAGEMENT. Approved home-study training. Free Catalog. THEATRE MANAGERS INSTITUTE, 315 Washington St., Elmira, New York.

HELP WANTED

BRANCH MANAGERS WANTED IN EVERY State. Knowledge of projection helpful but not necessary. Business consists of theatre supplies. BOX 280, MOTION PICTURE HERALD.

ORGANIST FOR NEW LONDON CINEMA. MUST be British subject. State experience, salary required and last three positions held. Must be versatile, able to play classical and popular music, and either Community or Concert Type Solos. Apply BERNSTEIN THEATRES, 197, Wardour Street, London, W. 1.

THEATRES WANTED

LEASE ON THEATRE. MIDDLEWEST town. 4,000 up. JONES BROS., Beatrice, Nebr.

DATE BOOKS

NEW, IMPROVED, LOOSE-LEAF DATE BOOK; compact, complete, 6 x 8; permanent binder and year's filler, 80 cents. Money back guarantee. PREMIER ADVERTISING SERVICE, 1717 Wyandotte, Kansas City, Mo.

THE FOUNDATION

of the finest pictures you are showing this year is Eastman Supersensitive Panchromatic Negative. Introduced two years ago, this film is recognized by producers and cameramen as the most trustworthy base on which to build the splendid motion picture of today. Eastman Kodak Company, Rochester, N. Y. (J. E. Brulatour, Inc., Distributors, New York, Chicago, Hollywood.)

EASTMAN

SUPER-SENSITIVE

PANCHROMATIC NEGATIVE

Paramount

has a background of success in 1932-33 that no other motion picture company can equal.

Cut this statement out and paste it on your wall for guidance in the sweet buy and buy of 1933-34.

Paramount Pictures

if it's a PARAMOUNT PICTURE it's the best show in town!

MOTION PICTURE HERALD

A CONSOLIDATION OF EXHIBITORS HERALD-WORLD AND MOTION PICTURE NEWS

This week's plain talk:—

"Thou shalt not ruin"

FRED S. MEYER, president of Motion Picture Theatre Owners of Wisconsin

"We, in the motion picture business, have come to realize that our own success is wrapped up in the success of others."

H. M. WARNER, president of Warner Brothers Pictures, Inc.

"It looks to me like maybe business is going to pick up too quickly."

R. B. WILBY, Valatenga Theatres, Atlanta, Georgia

SCHAEFER OF PARAMOUNT—PERSONALITY STORY OF NEW GENERAL MANAGER

In Two Sections—Section One

Vol. 111, No. 10 Entered as second-class matter, January 12, 1931, at the Post Office, at New York, N. Y., under the act of March 3, 1879. Published Weekly by Quigley Publishing Co., Inc., at 1790 Broadway, New York. Subscription, $3.00 a year. Single copies, 25 cents. June 3, 1933

THE TALK OF THE INDUSTRY!

The announcement on the opposite page is reprinted from last week's trade papers at the suggestion of industry leaders!

Acclaimed by the trade press! Cheered by exhibitors! The most optimistic message of years! It is only part of the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer Prosperity Party! No other company could afford to match it! And take a tip! Right now on the M-G-M lot in Culver City, California, there are at work at one time more great box-office stars, more famous producers and directors than have ever been simultaneously assembled in all the glowing history of — merrily yours — M-G-M.

Pictures

WHAT M-G-M THINKS ABOUT THE FUTURE OF MOTION PICTURE THEATRE BUSINESS

Have you noticed what's doing at the M-G-M studios?

A few inside facts (not entirely complete and perhaps subject to changes.)

Interesting, aren't they?

DINNER AT EIGHT — Imagine! In one picture! Marie Dressler, Wallace Beery, John & Lionel Barrymore, Jean Harlow, Lee Tracy, Madge Evans, Jean Hersholt, Karen Morley, Franchot Tone, May Robson. George Cukor directs a film feast!

ESKIMO — First came M-G-M's Tahitian expedition "White Shadows in The South Seas". Then to Africa for "Trader Horn." And now, thank heaven, Director W. S. Van Dyke and company are safely back from the Arctic with "Eskimo" after months of danger-filming.

NIGHT FLIGHT — Road-show size! A brilliant BIG idea. And the cast: Clark Gable, John & Lionel Barrymore, Helen Hayes, Robert Montgomery, Myrna Loy and more! Clarence Brown directs!

WHEN LADIES MEET — Ann Harding, Robert Montgomery in Rachel Crother's stage hit. Hollywood Reporter says: "Another M-G-M box-office wow! If it isn't the answer to showman's prayer it's too late for prayers!" Harry Beaumont directs!

HOLD YOUR MAN — Clark Gable and Jean Harlow together again by demand of the public that loved them in "Red Dust." Here's a rousing story of a smart aleck crook who escapes everything but love. Muriel Kirkland, Stuart Erwin in the cast. Sam Wood directs!

THE NUISANCE — Hollywood Reporter says: "They'll turn out in droves for this one. New Tracy picture's swell." Hollywood Herald says: "Comedy smash. A joy to behold!" Lee Tracy, Madge Evans, Frank Morgan, Charles Butterworth. Jack Conway directs!

TUGBOAT ANNIE — Marie Dressler-Wallace Beery again! Advance Coast reports say it's got more heart-tugs, comedy, thrills than "Min and Bill." Satevepost story of the lovable, tough character Tugboat Annie. Mervyn Leroy directs.

CAT AND THE FIDDLE — Ran a year on Broadway! Romance of a singer and artist with a background of French studio life. Grand Songs. Ramon Novarro in the leading role, perfect for him. Jeanette MacDonald too!

LADY OF THE NIGHT — Dramatically different slant on night life in a great city. Cast thus far: Loretta Young, Ricardo Cortez, Franchot Tone, Una Merkel. William Wellman directs!

STRANGER'S RETURN — The age-old struggle between the old and the new on a modern farm by the author of "State Fair", Phil Stong. Cast: Lionel Barrymore, Franchot Tone, Miriam Hopkins, Stuart Erwin, etc. King Vidor directs!

HOLLYWOOD REVUE OF 1933 — M-G-M Stars! Hollywood celebrities! Song writers like Rodgers & Hart, Nacio Herb Brown; Arthur Freed, Gus Kahn, Oscar Levant! Albertina Rasch dancers! Edmund Goulding directs. Watch it grow!

TARZAN AND HIS MATE — Johnny Weissmuller in a brilliant return to the fans who await him! Sequel to "Tarzan the Ape Man" is twice as fast and romantic. Maureen O'Sullivan again the heroine.

BEAUTY — Typical M-G-M showman-exploitation picture. Faith Baldwin's best seller, dramatizing women's eternal search for beauty and her shrewd use of it. George Fitzmaurice directs!

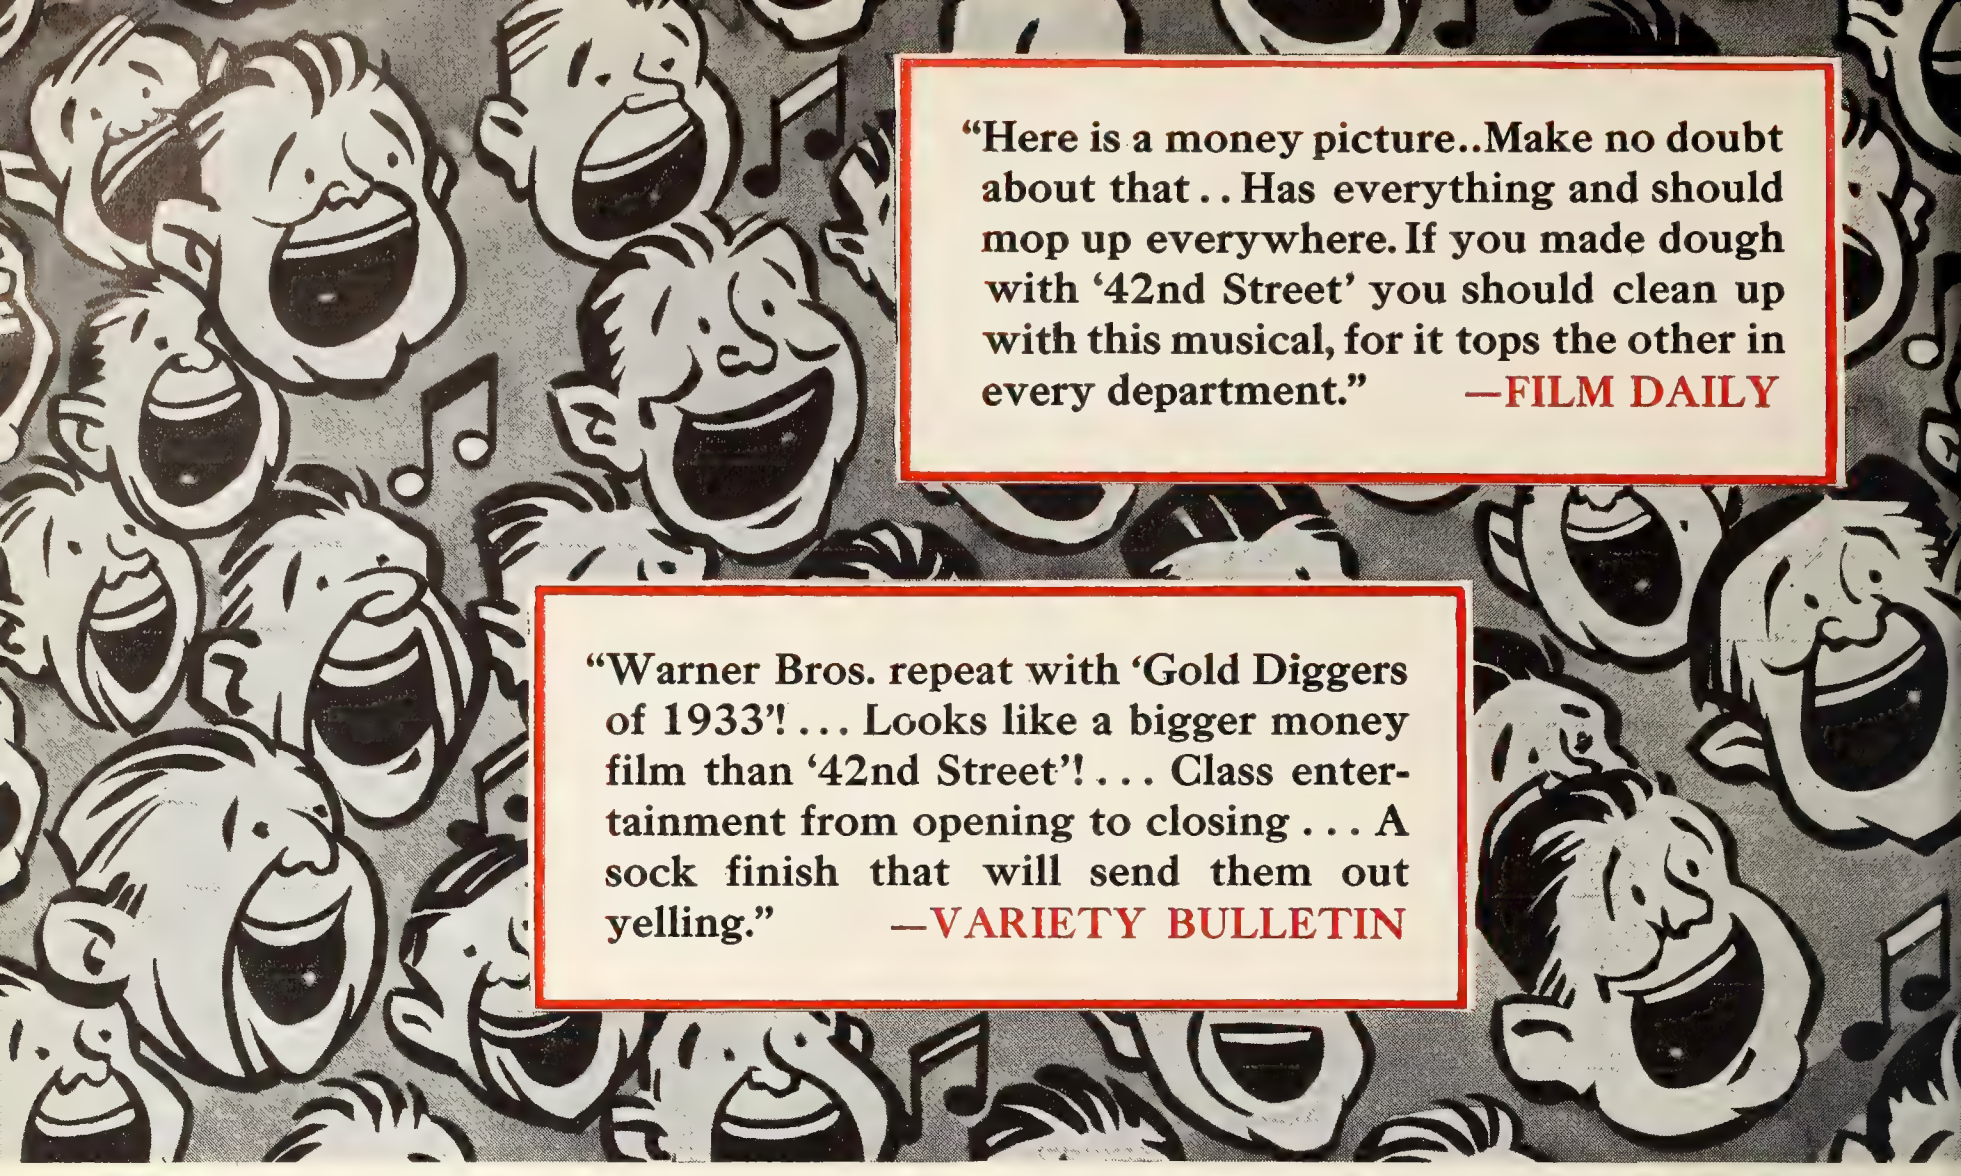
STRANGE RHAPSODY — Celebrated Hungarian play becomes gripping screen spectacle. Love story against the background of the assassination at Sarajevo which precipitated the World War. Nils Asther, Kay Francis, Walter Huston, etc. Directed by Richard Boleslavsky who made "Rasputin."

LA BELLE PERKINS — Like "The Champ" this gives Jackie Cooper opportunity to appear in a drama involving adult relationships, tense exciting. Background of a school, with characters real as life!

JACK PEARL (All-Star Comedy) — "The Big Liar" is the title. Jack Pearl, Jimmy Durante, Stuart Erwin in the leading roles. Russell Mack directs. Something delightfully different—Watch!

ANOTHER LANGUAGE — Helen Hayes and Robert Montgomery in the play that taught Broadway that the true, human things of life are most dramatic. Written by Rose Franken, an unknown, it became the sensation of the year!

ED WYNN COMEDY — Recognizing the importance of presenting this nationally beloved comedian in a picture worthy of his top-rank following, M-G-M assures exhibitors that the genius of its studios is dedicated to the creation of a tremendous box-office attraction. Title to come.



SOVIET — Wallace Beery, Clark Gable heroes of "Hell Divers" in another giant dramatic spectacle. M-G-M showmanship ingenuity takes from Russia's titanic struggles a theme of brilliant human values.

DANCING LADY — Joan Crawford in the silken-allure that spells box-office. Never has she had a more perfect role than in this Satevepost serial story of a dancer's rise from obscurity to fame through flaming adventures! Brown and Freed, "Broadway Melody" composers together again especially for this! Robert Z. Leonard directs.

VIVA VILLA — Wallace Beery takes the thrilling, colorful role of the famed Mexican bandit. Mile-a-minute romantic story by Edgcumb Pynchon. Jack Conway directs.

And More! More! More! From the ONE and ONLY!

Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer

"Here is a money picture..Make no doubt about that . . Has everything and should mop up everywhere. If you made dough with '42nd Street' you should clean up with this musical, for it tops the other in every department." —FILM DAILY

"Warner Bros. repeat with 'Gold Diggers of 1933'! . . . Looks like a bigger money film than '42nd Street'! . . . Class entertainment from opening to closing . . . A sock finish that will send them out yelling." —VARIETY BULLETIN

TRADE CRITICS' QUARTET LEADS ROARING

"42ND STREET DAYS

GOLD DIGG

TOPPED "42ND STREET" BY FIRST ENGAGEMENT

SOLD OUT ONE WEEK IN GALA COAST PREMIERE
FRIDAY, WITH $1.50

WARNER BROS.

answer the pleas of the industry with a greater show than "42nd Street!"

1933-'34 Pre-Release. Vitagraph, Inc., Distributors

CHORUS OF INDUSTRY'S NEW THEME SONG..

ARE HERE AGAIN"

ERS OF 1933

400 IN FIRST 3 DAYS OF AT DENVER ORPHEUM!

ADVANCE AT $5 TOP FOR AT GRAUMAN'S CHINESE TOP AFTER OPENING!

TAKE SID GRAUMAN'S TIP!

You're giving them more laughs —more songs—more girls—more show than "42nd Street." . . So it's worth more money!

RAISE YOUR ADMISSION SCALE FOR "GOLD DIGGERS OF 1933"

★ ★ ★ ★ FOX

GIVES THE WORLD A GREAT NEW STAR!

And what a reception the world gives him!

Ever alert for new names to brighten your marquee, FOX turns up another winning number in HENRY GARAT. Rarely has a star won such widespread and spontaneous praise...from press and public alike. When you play "Adorable" take the advice of Motion Picture Herald: "You have a new name, Garat to sell. Shout him from the roof tops and don't worry that he won't deliver!"

Praise from HERE

Henry Garat is a fine-looking chap who plays and sings splendidly... a most welcome addition to our film firmament. —N.Y. American

Henry Garat undoubtedly will be provocative to American maidens. He is handsome, arch, romantic. —N.Y. Mirror

Henry Garat has the possibilities of becoming one of the best actors of the screen. —N.Y. Daily News

You will be delighted with the young officer—portrayed by Henry Garat —N.Y. Telegram

Henry Garat plays with ease and charm. His debut has turned out exceptionally well. —N.Y. Sun

Garat is a handsome and likeable actor. —N.Y. Eve. Post

Praise from THERE

Henry Garat should attain great popularity. He is different from any one now on the screen. —Syracuse Post-Standard

Janet Gaynor's new leading man, Henry Garat, has a magnetic personality. —Phila. News

Fans will like Henry Garat immensely. —Phila. Ledger

Henry Garat lives up to advance reports and makes a completely successful debut. —Baltimore News

Henry Garat has a magnetic personality, a breezy air that will particularly captivate women. —Baltimore Post

Praise from EVERYWHERE

He gives a convincing, sterling performance . . . a clever performer who will go far. — Charlotte Observer

Henry Garat will measure up to the high requirements of Janet's admirers. —Albany News

Henry Garat is a new star who is going to mean a lot. —Albany Times-Union

JUN -5 1933

©CIB 192081

MOTION PICTURE HERALD

Vol. III, No. 10 June 3, 1933

JUST WISHING

A CURIOUS naivete is displayed by the Motion Picture Theatre Owners of Maryland, as reflected in a dispatch to Motion Picture Daily, recording a resolution by the exhibitors, published in an advertisement in the Baltimore Morning Sun, declaring against the building of any new theatres in that city. Further copies of the resolution were sent to the mayor and members of the city council. To be sure, such a resolution can have only the weight of opinion. It insists that investors in new theatres would lose their money, that existing houses would face loss of revenue and that new theatres would prevent the existing houses from buying "the highest type of entertainment."

It is quite possibly true that Baltimore does not really need any more theatres—few cities in the United States feel right now today any sharp insistent demand for more seating capacity. But no set of resolutions and no formalized wishing on the part of established interests can hope to maintain any status quo. If investors want to take a chance, they will take it—are entitled to take it.

New theatres will continue to be built so long as there is an amusement industry.

△ △ △

TOM TALLY IS BACK

THERE'S a thrill of showman memories in the news that Mr. Thomas L. Tally of Los Angeles again becomes active in exhibition with the reopening of the Criterion as a first run house in June, getting the house back from Fox West Coast Theatres. Mr. Tally comes near to being the very first exhibitor in the United States, in the sense of operating a motion picture theatre on a permanent basis. Mr. Tally's first real theatre was the Electric Theatre, opened in April of 1902 at 262 South Main Street in Los Angeles. And that was three years before the Harris nickelodeon in Pittsburgh started the real movie theatre wave. Mr. Tally, it will be remembered, too, was long active in West Coast theatre affairs, and it was his leadership which started the movement for the formation of First National Theatres Circuit.

△ △ △

MORE AUTHORS—MORE NURSES

THE motion picture with its clamor for more and new material should be positively delighted with the report of the Personnel Research Foundation which discovers that there is in progress a rapid increase in the number ot authors in New York City. Meanwhile we are cheered by the figures that show a sharp decrease in the number of physicians and undertakers and a sharp upturn in the number of nurses. Someway we like that trend in nurses, too.

But there comes a wee wondering if maybe that increase in authors does not after all just reflect unemployment. A rather large fraction of Broadway's unemployed are generally reported as "free lancing and writing". Further, with all due courtesy to the researchers, persons who report themselves as authors on questionnaire forms are more commonly expressing a wish than a fact. Some of the best writers in this country are listed as farmers.

Incidentally, seven out of every ten thousand women in New York worked on newspapers and magazines in 1910 and there are sixteen in place of that seven now. It has been said that "Woman's work is never done," and that fits them for newspapering perfectly.

△ △ △

WILLIAM H. MEADOWCROFT

THIS week we remember the birthday of Mr. William H. Meadowcroft, for nearly sixty years a member of the staff of the late Mr. Thomas H. Edison and for twenty-five years his private secretary. Mr. Meadowcroft was eighty years old on Monday. He spent the day at home over his papers in his library at Boonton in New Jersey. Each working day he still spends a few hours at the Edison Laboratory at his desk across the big room where his old friend worked so industriously so many years. Mr. Meadowcroft, it is interesting to recall, is the originator of the electric light sign idea. He made the first sign of light bulbs for the Electrical Club of New York. His early efforts, made in the same years when the motion picture was getting itself born, did not meet immediate success, but the Great White Way came finally and amply to vindicate him.

△ △ △

THE daily press is having a lovely time with Miss Ruth Chatterton's accredited remark: "Nothing dramatic ever happens to a good woman". Without pausing to reflect, the names of Florence Nightingale, Jeanne d'Arc, Evangeline, Edith Cavell and Carrie Nation come to mind.

△ △ △

NBC announces that Dr. Frank N. Freeman of Chicago, psychologist, is going on the air with a set of questions which will result in a determination of the intelligence of the radio audience. Wonder how he is going to deal with the members of the audience smart enough to tune him out and go to a show?

△ △ △

OUTSTANDING in Warner's "The Gold Diggers of 1933" are musical sequences in which the screen action is decidedly abstract and most modernly cinematic—interesting and most significant because here again, for a glint, we see the motion picture doing what the motion picture only can do. That is real use of the medium.

MOTION PICTURE HERALD MARTIN QUIGLEY, Editor-in-Chief and Publisher

Incorporating Exhibitor's Herald, founded 1915; Motion Picture News, founded 1913; Moving Picture World, founded 1907; Motography, founded 1909; The Film Index, founded 1906. Published every Thursday by Quigley Publishing Company, 1790 Broadway, New York City. Telephone CIrcle 7-3100. Martin Quigley, Editor-in-Chief and Publisher; Colvin Brown, Vice-President and General Manager; Terry Ramsaye, Editor; Ernest A. Roveistad, Managing Editor; Chicago office, 407 South Dearborn street, Edwin S. Clifford, manager; Hollywood office, Pacific States Life Building, Wid Gunning, manager; London office, 41 Redhill Drive, Edgware, London, England, W. H. Mooring, representative; Berlin office, Katharinstrasse 3, Berlin-Halinsee, Germany, Hans Tintner, representative; Paris office, 19, Rue de la Cour-des-Noues, Paris 20e, France, Pierre Autré, representative; Sydney office, 102 Sussex street, Sydney, Australia, Cliff Holt, representative; Mexico City office, James Lockhart, Apartado 269, Mexico City, Mexico. Member Audit Bureau of Circulations. All contents copyright 1933 by Quigley Publishing Company. All correspondence should be addressed to the New York Office. Better Theatres, devoted to the construction, equipment and operation of theatres, is published every fourth week as section 2 of Motion Picture Herald. Other Quigley Publications: Motion Picture Daily, The Hollywood Herald, The Motion Picture Almanac, published annually, and the Chicagoan.

THIS WEEK - - - -

CUTTING COSTS

As great a percentage as 75 may be cut from the cost of feature production as a result of utilization of the percentage contract, rather than straight salary method of talent remuneration as planned by Jack Cohn of Columbia, last week claimed Lewis Milestone, first director so to operate under an agreement with Columbia executive Cohn in which also is included Laurence Stallings, writer. The reason: a director adding production expense will automatically cut his own profit from the potential net on the film's gross intake. All leading directors and writers will prefer percentage contracts, foresees Director Milestone. He adds: "An extension of the practice will cut costs all along the line. Even the bankers will be satisfied. . . ."

MALPRACTICES

Rampant in the Connecticut territory are the related cinematic malpractices of bicycling, sub-renting, use of stolen prints for unauthorized exhibition, is the claim of authorities, the New Haven Film Board of Trade and certain exhibitors, whose complaints have brought investigation by United States Attorney George H. Cohen and the vigilant Copyright Protection Bureau. Charged is the mysterious disappearance of prints from vaults, later returned after sub-renting. Honest exhibitors claim inability to compete. Attorney Cohen plans no prosecutions, merely warning, explaining, but emphatically indicating that future violations, with ignorance no longer a good excuse, will be pushed to prosecution. . . .

BITING DENIAL

Cracklingly emphatic was the "absolutely unfounded and untrue" with which United Artists producer Mary Pickford this week denied a published New York report that she was leaving the company, "irked" over the budding Joseph Schenck-Darryl Zanuck producing unit which will release through United Artists. "To the greatest possible advantage to United Artists," Miss Pickford considers the Zanuck contract. "Delighted to be associated with him," she only hopes "arrangements may be made so that he can supervise at least some of my productions," which should close the incident. . . .

WITHOUT OPTION

No lien, option have the Brothers Warner on motion picture feature titles concerned prominently with the phrase "gold diggers." So did Federal Judge Patterson in the United States district court in New York decide last week, when before him came Warner legal lights, asking an injunction against Majestic Pictures and Capital Film Exchange using the title "Gold Diggers of Paris" for a planned film, contending conflict with Warner's "Gold Diggers of 1933." No conflict, no infringement, ruled the court, and permitted Majestic to proceed with the Parisian variety of feminine miner. To Alfred Krellberg, attorney representing Majestic, goes credit for keeping his client's gold diggers out of legal entanglement. . . .

WORLD'S FAIR—AND FILMS

Not to be neglected by the motion picture industry, apparently, is the stupendous conglomeration of science and sights which is the Century of Progress Exposition, Chicago's World's Fair, to carry on for five months. One side of the picture has Chicago's exhibitors in a condition approximating quake at the thought of battering their heads against the terrific competition the Fair will form. Another phase indicates several producers, notably Columbia, MGM, Universal, planning feature films with stories built around the Fair. Still another aspect is the 60-odd film theatres of various sorts on the grounds, ranging from houses embodying studios to 16mm. houses serving to "sell" the public commercially on the product of various industrial enterprises. . . .

In This Issue

Plain Talk—In which R. B. Wilby, Fred S. Meyer and H. M. Warner discuss problems of the day — Page 9

George J. Schaefer, Paramount's new general manager—A word sketch by Terry Ramsaye — Page 13

Broadway and the United States—Sidney R. Kent and "Jaysee" Jenkins comment on what the public wants in pictures — Page 19

Dr. Goldsmith decries "babel" of supposedly scientific findings on motion picture psychology — Page 20

Radio program sponsors' appeal to public to stay at home for its entertainment arouses industry — Page 18

FEATURES

Editorial — Page 7
The Camera Reports — Page 21
J. C. Jenkins—His Colyum — Page 38
Asides and Interludes — Page 24

DEPARTMENTS

What the Picture Did for Me — Page 39
Showmen's Reviews — Page 34
Managers Round Table — Page 43
Technological — Page 57
Short Features — Page 50
The Release Chart — Page 51
Box Office Receipts — Page 30
Classified Advertising — Page 58

TO FILM'S RANKS

Into the film industry, following the Rockefellers and others, has now gone still another of America's top-income tax group. Last week into Technicolor went John Hay and Cornelius Vanderbilt Whitney, purchasing a substantial interest and forming Pioneer Pictures Corporation, planning a series of features in color, to be released through RKO. First production of Pioneer will be directed by Merian C. Cooper, using Technicolor's three-color process. On the Radio Coast lot will the planned series be produced. With the usual grapevine telegraph functioning, Technicolor stock moved upward, remained strong in the past two weeks, buoyed by the anticipation of newly injected capital, now a fact. . . .

SCREENED OPERA

Only partially altruistic is the currently slowly simmering idea of the Warner company to produce grand opera of all nations, with performances by leading opera stars of the day. Incidental only is the thought of preserving opera for the future via the screen. More important is the thought that the company has been recently successful with musical films, combined with the belief that technical equipment is now capable of reproducing operatic work, and the thought that potentialities of substantial gross on operatic films should currently make it worth while. Not yet convinced themselves, Warner officials have yet to arrive at a decision. . . .

COMPETITION

Topping it off with six floors of entertainment varieties—literally so, the topmost six stories and the roof itself—is the next move in the Rockefeller Center project in the heart of New York, incidentally adding another bit of pondering for those having to do with the filling of the seats in the Music Hall and RKO Roxy. To help the dream to reality comes the semi-release of Frank W. Darling as director of Playland at Rye. . . .

PRESENTATIONS

To the Skouras-operated Fox theatre in Detroit last week came stage shows, foreshadowing the establishment of the city as a production center for stage presentations designed for a theatre circuit composed of St. Louis, Indianapolis, Milwaukee, Detroit, plus other midwest Skouras theatres. In charge of the presentation production is Alexander Oumansky, dating his experience from the Chicago Opera, Metropolitan Opera and Capitol theatre in New York, Paramount, Los Angeles. Rotating, the Oumansky-Detroit presentations will move over the circuit, spurring the box office with girls, song and dance. . . .

Plain Talk

by TERRY RAMSAYE

Now that the motion picture industry has come into the days of what may be termed the reconstruction, now that many a chieftain has fallen and new chieftains are being made, with the crucible all a-boil with the beginning of new policies, reforms of old policies and conjectures about the future structure of the amusement machine, a deal of plain speaking is to be had from active, thinking showmen.

In the tide of mail which flows across the editorial desks of Motion Picture Herald each day there is reflected a new militancy, a new attitude of demand that what shall be done now shall be done for the industry. Conservative men who have long held their peace and spoken softly about the status quo and the status quo ante are saying things now in terms that are remarkable for their sharp cut clarity.

Out of an influx of expressions at hand today, three are here presented, all expressing demand for and insisting on the necessity of a new recognition of the common interest of all parties to and participants in what we call the motion picture industry.

Most outspoken about conditions is R. B. Wilby of Atlanta, one of the most conspicuously successful and long experienced showmen of the Southland.

Mr. Wilby has never been charged with either radicalism or timidity. He has and admits a wide partnership in the motion picture as it is today, and as it is today he finds much that needs mending.

Here are extracts from a letter of response to a line of inquiry from Motion Picture Herald:

"We've been through more troubles than an industry deserves and yet we find the most wasteful distribution ever devised in any industry still riding on top and in the saddle. It costs 4 to 5 per cent of one of our deluxe theatre's grosses merely to make a physical shipment to it—for there certainly is no selling in connection with placing pictures in "A" theatres any more. If the places from whom I buy plants, or Sears Roebuck, spent as much money for shipments as these picture distributors do, there would be no possibility of having a garden anyway.

"Pessimistic, here I sit with stock in some of these companies, and they operate accessory departments at a loss in each exchange where it is self-evident that they could make money out of accessories, and sell them to exhibitors at lower cost, if they followed the plan of the National Trailer Service, and let one company go into the accessory business. I can't be other than pessimistic when I pay 15c for a 1-sheet that ought to be printed for 4c and then see the company in which I have stock losing money, selling it to me.

"I see the product, for which I pay 20 to 25 per cent of a real expensive theatre's gross, brought back and played against that theatre at very low admission prices and with the distributor getting peanuts as his part.

"In Birmingham, for example, a picture plays an "A" theatre at 20 or 25 per cent on a single program, then is brought back four or five times downtown as part of a double feature program at 10c. In each case the double feature exhibitor—and I am one of them—pays the distributor from $17.50 to $25.00 and then shoots to hell an investment of about a million that has to return to the distributor some $1,200 to $2,000 to break even. When the people in the saddle have so little foresight as to sell the product back against the very fellow from whom they have to get their money, how can one be other than pessimistic?

"Of course, it ought to be a good business. When the public of a town like, say Montgomery, Alabama, will spend better than $250,000 a year on an amusement enterprise, it's only that the people from one end to the other who get that money are fools that they do not make a profit. It's still a good business that can collect a quarter of a million from the public in Montgomery, Ala., for time spending. It's not the public's fault that business is in the hands of a lot of people who can't get anything out of that quarter-million, but instead must start with property men on the West Coast and go through film salesmen, branch managers, probably me, theatre managers and a whole lot of other guys in an effort to throw it away.

"Why we haven't sense enough to have common physical distribution of films, a common source of advertising accessories, reasonably decent protection to the first-run exhibition of a picture, the production of actual human stories rather than a lot of psychological studies, and perhaps a few common-sense exhibitors, I don't know.

"It just looks to me like maybe business is going to pick up too quick. If it will stay this bad, we'll shake some of the damn foolishness out of the game, even if we shake a lot of old-timers like me along with it, either or both of which might be an advantage."

▽ ▽ ▽

Out in Milwaukee, Fred S. Meyer, president of the Motion Picture Theatre Owners of Wisconsin and Upper Michigan, has been reflecting on some aspects of the projected activities of the Federal government and the Roosevelt administration in behalf of, or at least in, American business, including presumably the motion picture. Writing to The Herald, Mr. Meyer says:

"Nothing and nobody can save this industry unless the industry wants to save itself.

"Obnoxious protection has failed to diminish competition. Double features merely expedited our down-grade transition. Give-aways and rackets proved to be just that and no more.

"President Roosevelt is responsible for many courageous undertakings. In my opinion the most encouraging sign of and for our industry was his remark that if 90 per cent want to play ball and 10 per cent don't, that's where the Government will step in.

"As an individual who has consistently opposed federal regulation of our industry, I have now come to the conclusion and frankly admit that neither Allied, M.P.T.O. nor the Hays office, nor the three combined, can save this industry because the power of enforcement is lacking.

"It has been argued that a Government which frankly admits that it could not enforce the 18th Amendment cannot hope to cope with the regulation of business. I for one refuse to believe, much less subscribe to such a theory.

"In our business today, constituted as it is, I am convinced that from 60 to 75 per cent want to play ball as it should be played.

"It is because of the minority that our present day chaos has come about.

"No one has disputed the fact that good pictures still draw good money at the box office.

"One of the reasons why there haven't

(Continued on page 12)

R. B. WILBY wants to know why not

Centralized physical distribution of films?
A common source of advertising accessories?
Effective protection to first runs?
Humanity instead of "psychology" in productions?

FRED S. MEYER makes observation that

Sixty to seventy-five per cent want to play ball as it should be played.
Good pictures still draw good money at the box-office.
The industry's troubles come from cut-throat competition and unfair trade practices.
One cause is lack of mutual trust and confidence between exhibitors.

H. M. WARNER
sets down as a declaration

We operate numerous theatres and it is necessary that these theatres be supplied with good pictures by other producers. We cannot be selfish and gloat over the other fellow's predicament when he turns out poor pictures because his trouble means trouble for us.

WE'RE NOT KEEPING 'EM ON ICE!...

CONSTANCE BENNETT

Glamorous . . Gorgeously Gowned

in

"BED OF ROSES"

with

JOEL McCREA

John Halliday Pert Kelton Samuel Hinds

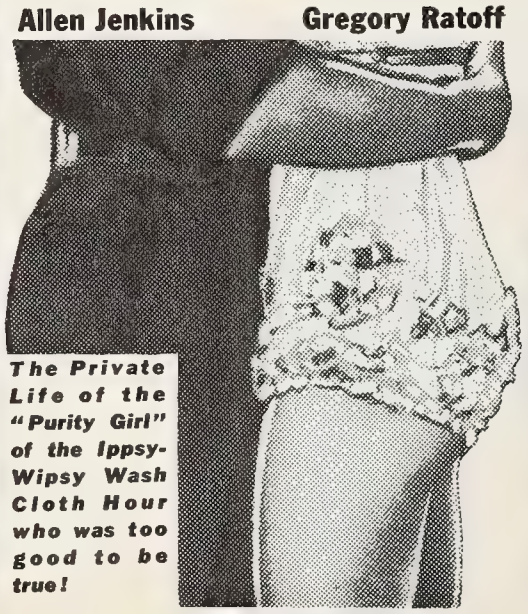
Directed by Gregory La Cava

Pandro S. Berman Production

★

The throbbing love story of a girl who wanted to make her life a bed of roses . . but forgot that every rose has its thorn!

THE YEAR'S BIG LAUGH ON THE RADIO BUSINESS!



"PROFESSIONAL SWEETHEART"

with

GINGER ROGERS NORMAN FOSTER

ZASU PITTS FRANK McHUGH

Allen Jenkins Gregory Ratoff

The Private Life of the "Purity Girl" of the Ippsy-Wipsy Wash Cloth Hour who was too good to be true!

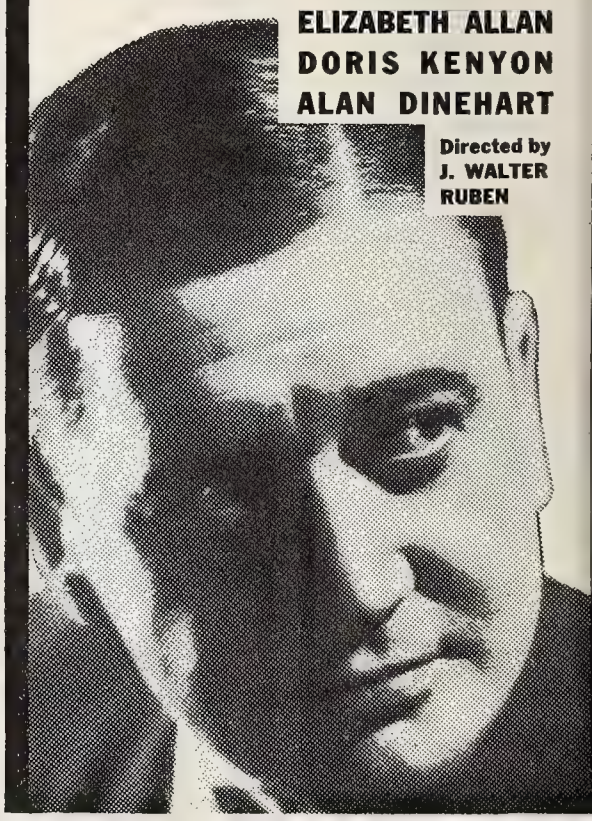
RICHARD DIX

in

"THE PUBLIC BE SOLD"

[TENTATIVE TITLE]

A smashing up-to-the-minute business romance of a hard hitting young advertising man who knew how to sell a bill of goods to a million people . . . or a girl!



with

ELIZABETH ALLAN

DORIS KENYON

ALAN DINEHART

Directed by J. WALTER RUBEN

Cool

your aching brow Mr. Exhibitor . . . RKO RADIO HAS PICTURES . . . and we're not keeping 'em on ice for the fall and winter! You're going to get 'em now . . . THIS SUMMER . . . right when the thermometer is getting sunstroke and your box-office needs a shot in the arm!

Two Great Stars brought together in a Great Drama of Modern Marriage!

★★

ANN HARDING
WILLIAM POWELL

in

"DOUBLE HARNESS"

with

Henry Stephenson, Lucile Browne, George Meeker

Directed by JOHN CROMWELL

IRENE DUNNE

in "THE SILVER CORD"

with

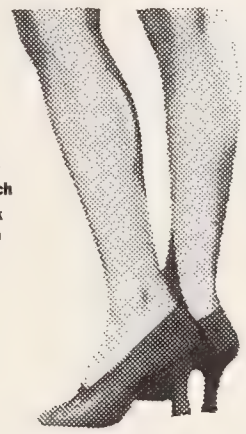
JOEL McCREA

Frances Dee, Eric Linden
Laura Hope Crews

Directed by John Cromwell from Sidney Howard's Theatre Guild Play

Pandro S. Berman Production

UNANIMOUS PRAISE FROM THE CRITICS FOR THE BEST WOMAN'S PICTURE IN YEARS!



GIRLS AND MUSIC AND WAVES OF LAUGHTER!

"MELODY CRUISE"

with

CHARLIE RUGGLES
PHIL HARRIS

Greta NISSEN

Helen MACK

Marjorie GATESON

Chick CHANDLER

and a Flock of Girls that will make the wild waves wilder!

Directed by Mark Sandrich

Louis Brock Production

Everywhere . . . on the air they're playing the big song hit "Isn't This a Night for Love"

AND A DOZEN OTHERS . . . READY, IN WORK AND COMING!

WHEELER & WOOLSEY in "Diplomaniacs" . . . Bill Boyd, William Gargan, Wynne Gibson in a smash drama of the hospital racket "EMERGENCY CALL" . . . "India Speaks" with RICHARD HALLIBURTON . . . Chester Morris and Vivienne Osborne in "TOMORROW AT SEVEN" . . . "FLYING DEVILS" air thriller . . "FLAMING GOLD" . . The last EDGAR WALLACE story "The Death Watch" . . . Phillips Holmes, George Stone, Fay Wray in "THE BIG BRAIN" . . . "THE DELUGE" . . . and another CONSTANCE BENNETT production.

YOU'LL GET 'EM WHEN YOU NEED 'EM . . . WE'RE NOT KEEPING 'EM ON ICE!

RKO Radio PICTURES

MERIAN C. COOPER Executive Producer

COLUMBIA 9 MONTH NET IS 8% HIGHER THAN 1932

Profit Netted in Three Quarters, Including Bank Moratorium, Totals $546,778; Schneider Named Company Treasurer

Columbia Pictures Corporation emerged from the worst period of the depression with an increase of 8 per cent in profits for the nine months ended March 25, 1933. The net profit for this three-quarters period, which includes the bank moratorium, amounted to $546,778, after all charges and provision for federal taxes. This is equal to $3.02 a share on the common stock, after deducting preferred dividends, and compares with $506,994 for the nine months ended March 26, 1932, when the common earned $2.70 a share. There were 167,885 no-par common shares outstanding on March 25, 1933, excluding shares in the treasury.

The balance sheet as of March 25 shows current assets, including $949,239 in cash, of $4,823,347, and current liabilities of $1,-082,099. There was but a slight difference in current assets and liabilities as compared with the same period in 1932.

Assets included approximately $2,000,000 in released productions, negatives, prints, etc., at cost, less amortization. Completed films not yet released, pictures in work,, scenarios, at cost, advertising accessories and film stock and supplies were listed at approximately $945,000.

A. Schneider, formerly assistant treasurer of Columbia Pictures Corporation, was elected treasurer of the company at a meeting of the board last week.

The consolidated statement of operations for the nine months ended March 25, 1933, which follows, includes financial activities of domestic and foreign subsidiaries:

Net profit before amortization of film, interest charges and income tax*.....		$4,409,103.69
Deduct: Amorization of film..	$3,797,269.12
Interest charges.....	21,626.62
		3,818,895.74
		$ 590,207.95
Other income		49,299.22
Net profit before Federal icnome tax.....		$ 639,507.17
Provision for Federal income tax.....		92,728.54
Net profit carried to surplus.....		$ 546,778.63

* After deducting $23,469.22, depreciation of furniture and fixtures in main office and branches charged to profit and loss.

Depreciation of studios and studio equipment amounting to $110,672.12, has been capitalized as production cost and is being written off as film amortization.

The consolidated earned surplus account for the same period follows:

Balance, June 25, 1932.....	$1,296,807.61
Deduct: Preferred dividends.....	39,164.25
Add: Net profit for nine months to March 25, 1933.....	546,778.63
Balance at March 25, 1933, carried to balance sheet	$1,804,421.99

In line with the corporation's expansion plans, negotiations were consummated early in the week for acquisition of an additional floor in the home office building at 729 Seventh avenue, New York. A number of departments will be moved and the location of others rearranged next week. It is four years since the company moved its home offices from 1600 Broadway to one floor in its present quarters. Since that time supplementary space was required several times each year.

The new move gives Columbia three and one-half floors—the entire ninth, tenth, eleventh and part of the seventh floor, a total approximate area of 35,000 feet. In addition to the executive offices, the eleventh floor will be occupied by the legal, scenario, tax, general and accounting departments and projection room. Departments tenanting the tenth floor will be the sales, sales accounting, purchasing, branch operations and print. The ninth floor will be occupied by the advertising, publicity and exploitation division, and the art, foreign and accessory departments. The seventh floor space will be taken over by the mailing, mimeographing and shipping departments.

Kansas-Missouri MPTA To Vote on National Relation

A movement that has been under way among certain leaders of the MPTA of Kansas and Missouri to discontinue affiliation with the MPTOA will reach its climax at the organization's convention in Kansas City June 6-7 when the proponents expect to bring the matter up for open discussion.

Members of the board of directors are among those favoring establishing the territorial unit as an independent group. The attitude of those in favor of continuing affiliation is that they will agree to have the matter placed before the membership for a vote and majority rule will prevail. Difference of opinion over policies of the national organization is said to be one of the causes for the agitation.

Delaware Independents Formulate Regulations

The bylaws committee of the Independent Motion Picture Theatre Owners Association of Deleware met in Wilmington last week and formulated laws to govern the association. The laws were drafted along the lines of those of the M. P. T. O. A. and Allied and will come up for adoption at the next meeting in Milford on June 14.

Members of the committee are A. Joseph DeFiore, president of the association; E. C. Evans, secretary, and Reese B. Harrington.

Universal Loss in Quarter Ended January 28 Is $213,211

Universal reports a net loss of $213,211 for the quarter ended Jan. 28, after deducting all charges, as compared with a net of $181,557 for a year ago.

Gervers To Open Agency

F. Ralph Gervers, who resigned last week as director of exploitation of Columbia, plans to open an advertising, publicity and exploitation service in New York. The agency will handle motion picture and theatrical accounts.

Plain Talk

(Continued from page 9)

been more good pictures is become the producer did not get his production cost back again. The reason for that lies in cut-throat competition and unfair trade practices. This has come about because of lack of mutual trust and confidence on the part of one exhibitor in his competitor.

"If the Government will now set up the machinery that will outlaw star stealing, and if this same Government will say what is and is not fair in the way of protection and general trades practices, then I am firmly convinced that our industry is headed for even happier days than those we enjoyed in the early days of sound, and if this does not happen, then nothing, regardless of quality of product, can make our industry long endure. Our past and present method of operation is bound to head us into oblivion unless 'F. D.' and the powers that be step in and say 'Thou Shalt Not Ruin.'"

▽ ▽ ▽

A definitely related line of thought, expressed in very different tempo, but as plainly to the point, is conveyed by an expression this week from H. M. Warner, president of Warner Brothers Pictures, Inc., set down in Warner Club News, an organ of the company, in which he says:

"Edmund Burke, the noted British statesman, in one of his addresses in Parliament, once said: 'Public Calamity Is a Mighty Leveler.'

"During the past few years this fact was brought home to all of us. It made us realize that we cannot live by ourselves and for ourselves.

"For years we had calmly pursued our own way, with never a thought to whither we were drifting and what the morrow might bring. We didn't care. We had become softened in an era of prosperity.

"Little did we realize, until the depression hit us, how interwoven are the lives and happiness of all humanity. Success built upon the failures of others cannot prove lasting. Europe went bad, yet we failed to consider what the effect would be on us in America.

"Finally the effect reached us and we were in no condition to meet it.

"We are a sadder, but wiser people today. We have learned that people cannot live for themselves and by themselves, but that our lives and happiness are wrapped up in each other.

"What we need most today is cooperation, hard work, unselfishness and sincerity, the love of man for man, the restoration of the human touch.

"We cannot hide our heads in the sands of indifference like an ostrich and overlook things that are going on around us.

"We, in the motion picture business, have come to realize that our own success is wrapped up in the success of others. We operate numerous theatres and it is necessary that these theatres be supplied with good pictures by other producers. We cannot be selfish and gloat over the other fellow's predicament when he turns out poor pictures, because his trouble means trouble for us.

"Let us all take stock of ourselves—give a thought to the other fellow—be sincere and cooperate for the common good."

SCHAEFER WANTED WORK—HE HAS IT

General Manager of Paramount Sought Affiliation That Would Stick; Became Booker in 1920

by TERRY RAMSAYE

At Last an Operating Chief Has emerged out of the chaos that was Paramount and there is a beginning of a new career of endeavor by that once domininant corporation. George Schaefer, these many years in the service of the concern, with experience from branch to home office, has been appointed to and announced in the general managership by Adolph Zukor.

This comes after a considerable period of assorted candidacies for the post and submerged but considerable political debate between the several factors of power in the background of the situation, including the trustees in bankruptcy.

The final selection of a general manager may be taken to indicate an approximate end of the issues over who does what, with more attention now to be paid to the what.

Mr. Schaefer's principal experience in the service of Paramount has been in relation to sales and distribution, the arm of the corporation which grew into large powers and influences during the long and strenuous administration of Sidney Kent.

Being one of the industry's most enthusiastic travelers, Mr. Schaefer is widely and intimately known across the selling map of the country.

GEORGE J. SCHAEFER

Like Most of the Men in Important positions in the industry, this George Schaefer set out to do something else and fell into the motion picture by sheer accident and propinquity.

Mr. Schaefer says he was born in New York, but the archives show that it was in Brooklyn, November 5, 1888, or the year before the big blizzard. When he came to looking about for a career the motor car industry looked promising, and he turned up in a pleasant post with the long since departed Palmer-Singer concern, a contemporary of American Underslung, Alco and all that school of road locomotives.

Palmer-Singer had bankers, and troubles. Britton Bush, representing a Wall street investment house, was sharing the troubles of the motor car company and a somewhat exciting young motion picture company, the World Film Corporation, which devoted most of its advertising to announcing that Lewis J. Selznick was vice president and general manager. Mr. Schaefer, approaching behind Mr. Bush, went into World Film, as secretary to the extraordinary and alert Mr. Selznick. From "L. J." the young man learned very rapidly about movies and Broadway as seen from West 46th Street. There was never a better school, nor a more able instructor.

That was in 1914, when Lewis J. Selznick was engaged in laying the foundations for his spectacular career in the industry a few years ahead. C. R. Seelye was sales manager of the World Film Corporation then, and was withal a rather capable spokesman in the presence of reporters. So it came that one day when Mr. Selznick had got well acquainted with his new secretary he called him up to the large mahogany desk and said: "George, you should take Seelye to lunch, a nice lunch, and you should tell him that when he talks every time he should say 'L. J. Selznick says,' 'L. J. Selznick thinks,' 'L. J. Selznick is going to do,' 'L. J. Selznick is doing'—and not so damn much 'C. R. Seelye says and does'—understand, George, always 'L. J. Selznick, vice president and general manager.' "

Looking back in retrospect, one may well fancy that both Mr. Schaefer and Mr. Selznick made a success of that big movement. Results were had.

Mr. Schaefer, after some exposure to the aggressive policies of the Selznick administration, promoted himself out of his secretaryship into the sales department by complaining that he was overpaid as a secretary.

When the world went to war Schaefer discovered opportunity in screen and film service to American transports, and had notions of a great business that could be done upon all the ships of all the seas when peace should come again. He and associates formed Maritime Pictures Corporation, with some slight measure of success—a success marred chiefly by the fact that an interior rivalry kept away from Maritime the large and important flow of product from Paramount—then Famous Players-Lasky Corporation.

When Mr. Schaefer went looking for a job again it was in quest of "a company that was going to stay in business awhile." The company he elected was Paramount, that same which it is now his special concern to keep in business. So it came that, in 1920, there was a new booker in the New York Paramount exchange by the name of Schaefer. In a year he was sent to Boston to be district manager for New England. He had several industrious years in New England, what with the highly successful Paramount product to sell on the one hand and the very excellent trout fishing from Vermont to Maine on the other.

Incidentally this new general manager at Paramount is a big, husky chap, not at all looking his forty-five years, and with a color that indicates he has been outdoors a deal more than most of his contemporaries. He takes his fishing seriously and will indulge in tournament flycasting on the lawn when he can not get to water. And while he has had complete motion picture Pullman education in pinochle, and can defend himself at an Atlantic City convention, he prefers trap-shooting.

In 1926 Mr. Schaefer Was Brought back from his happy New England to work from the home office as a lieutenant of Sidney Kent and was appointed sales manager for district Number 1, the East. He was promoted to the post of general sales manager when Mr. Kent left Paramount in 1932.

As might be expected of a native of Brooklyn, he lives in New Rochelle, with a family which includes his wife, Maria Agnes, three youngsters, ranging from 18 to 10 years, and two nephews. There, weekends, he supervises their education with reference more especially to flycasting and trap-shooting.

Mr. Schaefer, being endowed with a vast endurance, and a gay disregard of distances, has been conspicuously the air traveler in recent years. He has found it possible to go half across the United States between forenoon and midnight and hold four sales meetings on the way. Paramount branch managers and salesmen in range of New York have a habit of reading the weather reports—because Schaefer is likely to parachute in any time.

"You have," I remarked to Mr. Schaefer the other day, in his panelled office, still bedecked with the floral offerings signalizing his new post, on the twelfth floor of the Paramount building, "stuck around this company until you have plenty of job. Let that be a lesson to you."

"Well, I was looking for a job that would last a while—in fact I asked for work when I came here in 1920," Mr. Schaefer admitted with a grin across a wide face. "And now I've got it."

"You know," he flashed up, "I like the outlook, too. The years we put in with this company giving a real distribution service still count. Right now today the exhibitors across the country are the fellows who are wishing us well and boosting most to see Paramount succeed."

Universal Sells Havana Office

Universal has sold its Havana exchange to a local syndicate, coupling with the deal a sale of its product for Cuba for five years.

With PAUL

WHITEMAN

JOHN BOLES, BING CROSBY, SLIM SUMMERVILLE, JEANIE LANG, The Rhythm Boys, Grace Hayes, Jeanette Loff, Stanley Smith, and scores of other stage and screen stars. Produced by Carl Laemmle, Jr. Directed by John Murray Anderson. Presented by Carl Laemmle.

•

New Technicolor Prints!
New Accessories!
New Box-Office Appeal!

JAZZ

Says Hollywood Herald, of Universal's sensational revival of the greatest musical ever produced: "From start to finish, this is a joy to the eye, and certainly it is top-notch entertainment . . . A good showman who really gets across to his public what this presents in the way of entertainment should be able to do a terrific business with it . . . a smash finish which still ranks with anything ever offered on the screen."

BLUE-SKY SECURITIES LAW BARS WILDCAT ISSUES IN FILM MARKET

Chiefs of U. S. Motion Picture Bureau Prepare to Contact Film Business on Code to Meet Industry Control Bill

by FRANCIS L. BURT
Washington Correspondent

Daniel C. Roper, Secretary of Commerce, this week suggested to President Roosevelt that the motion picture as well as other commodity divisions of the Department of Commerce be retained as a nucleus for the new government organization designed to control industry, which will probably be headed by Colonel Hugh S. Johnson. Mr. Johnson this week was assigned offices in the Commerce Department Building at Washington. The various commodity divisions, including the motion picture, previously were scheduled to be eliminated according to a reorganization plan under consideration at the Capital.

The commodity divisions possess considerable data which will be necessary to the industrial recovery organization of the Administration, and the heads of the various divisions are acquainted with the practices and needs of the industries which they now serve, Mr. Roper indicated.

A general upward trend in the nation's business activity was reported by the Department of Commerce late Wednesday. Employment, payrolls, prices and production in more than 25 industries were indicated to be on the increase.

Will H. Hays, reporting to the Department on the motion picture industry, said: "The motion picture business, dependent on box office receipts, which in turn depend essentially on general employment, has not shown any marked nationwide improvement. This is not especially discouraging, because we are moving into our usual seasonal decline." Mr. Hays told the Department that more than a seasonal upturn in the fall may be expected.

Admission Tax Continued

Passage of the industrial recovery bill by the House of Representatives, enactment by Presidential signature of the "blue-sky" securities law and announcement by the Administration of its intention of legalizing suspension of the gold standard, were the high spots of the week in Washington.

The passage of the industrial recovery bill by the House on May 26 brought closer federal control of all industry, expected to be an accomplished fact within another week.

The recovery bill, as it passed the House, also provided for continuation for another year of the present 40-cent exemption on admission, which originally was to have expired on July 1, 1934, with other taxes in the present revenue law.

The Administration's demand for legislation formally throwing the United States off the gold standard will mean little or nothing to the average citizen. The measure is designed to give legal standing to the already operative gold embargo, its most important effect being in the invalidation of the "gold payment" clause in Government and other bonds and contracts. The measure is aimed largely at averting litigation designed to test the validity of the gold embargo under certain conditions.

But of direct importance to the motion picture investor and the film industry as a user of public capital, approval by the President of the blue-sky securities act was easily the most important event of the week.

Under this legislation, new issues of capital securities must be submitted to the Federal Trade Commission for approval before they can be sold to the public. All data relating to the issue itself and to the company which floats it must be provided. "Wildcat" and "fake" securities no longer will flood the market and, equally important, it no longer will be possible to throw issue after issue of stock on the market until a company is over-capitalized. All facts filed with the Commission will be made known to the investing public.

Bar to "Wildcat" Securities

The act is not an emergency measure, but is a permanent addition to the federal statutes and is considered by Administration officials as one of the most important pieces of legislation passed by the present Congress. Its operation, it is estimated, will save the public some $25,000,000,000 a year, heretofore lost in worthless securities. Flotation of numerous fraudulent motion-picture issues by "fly-by-night" promoters are on the records, although there has been little activity of this nature in recent months.

With its work rapidly approaching completion, Congress is preparing to adjourn June 10, not to meet again until next January. On June 12 the center of recovery activity will shift from Washington to London, where the world economic conference will meet.

The final piece of Administration emergency legislation, that relating to tariff, is expected to go to Congress this week. With this legislation, President Roosevelt hopes to accomplish what heretofore has been impossible, the negotiation of reciprocal treaties with other countries. From the standpoint of the film industry, reciprocal treaties would possibly accomplish much in tearing down tariff barriers to sales of American films abroad, but whether this would be accomplished depends entirely upon what America could afford to give for such a concession. It is the difficulty of obtaining enough without giving too much that has wrecked similar efforts in the past.

With the passage of the industry control bill near, the motion picture business, like others, was preparing to discuss the nature of a code to govern the trade in keeping with the provisions of the bill. It was learned this week that the Department of Commerce in Washington, through its various trade divisions, already has begun contacting the nation's industries, offering possible aid in the drafting of codes, or establishing a contact between industry and Washington. Chiefs of the Motion Picture Bureau of the Department of Commerce were preparing to contact the film industry.

Each Branch to Draw Up Own Control Code; Joint Meetings Called Likely on Exhibition and Distribution Drafts

The motion picture business, because of its already established labor organizations and trade associations, is generally regarded as being in an excellent position to draft a competitive code.

Each branch of the industry—production, distribution, exhibition and labor—will draw up its own code, the completed program of each comprising the industry's operating statutes for the coming two-year emergency period. Final drafts of exhibition and distribution codes will probably be drawn at joint meetings. The production code will be drafted in Hollywood and the labor code, already clearly defined, probably will not require much revision.

Local and National Codes

The problems of exhibition and distribution being the most complex, it is expected that exhibitors will find it necessary to draw local as well as national trade practice codes. Regional exhibitors' organizations will meet locally to draw up codes which may be incorporated in the national program. It is expected that the national exhibitors' committee will complete its program in joint session with a distributors' committee.

Despite the fact that industry leaders are unwilling, at this time, to forecast ultimate results of the forthcoming conferences, they have said that many existing practices will be discontinued. They also feel that there will be many important changes in exhibition contracts next season.

Hollywood already is making plans for participation in any possible readjustment. Cecil B. De Mille has been suggested as chairman of the production delegation. John B. Elliot, Roosevelt-McAdoo campaign leader in Southern California, is in Washington this week, and prior to his departure from the film capital was contacted by Academy representatives. The subject of producer-employee relations, in any code that may be adopted, was thoroughly discussed. The creative elements in Hollywood have been urged to safeguard their rights and the Academy is expected to play an important part in the conferences.

Allied Plans Own Code

Allied of New Jersey plans to evolve an industry code of its own. Among the practices expected to be covered in Allied's code are block-booking, protection, shut-out buying of film, rental price discrimination and the shelving of films which does not permit competitors of large circuits to purchase those pictures which they do not show.

E. Van Hyning, president of the MPTO of Kansas and Missouri, asserted after a study of the President's bill that "it will place all factors on the same competitive basis and the government will be there to see that what they do is ethical. The bill will bring about what level-headed members of the industry have been wanting right along—regulation within and by the industry itself.

In Seattle last week more than 1,000 official delegates to the National Congress of Parent-Teacher associations were urged to support federal legislation to regulate block booking and other undesirable practices. Mrs. Robbins Gilman, chairman of the national committee on motion pictures, was the speaker. Individually, block and blind booking, if eliminated, will make for pictures produced on a higher plane, the delegates were told.

one of our boys made it

HORSE FEATHERS

THE BIG BROADCAST

LOVE ME TONIGHT

SHE DONE HIM WRONG

NO MAN OF HER OWN

TROUBLE IN PARADISE

NIGHT AFTER NIGHT

UNDER COVER MAN

BEDTIME STORY

SIGN OF THE CROSS

FAREWELL TO ARMS

BLONDE VENUS

PHANTOM PRESIDENT

70,000 WITNESSES

IF I HAD A MILLION

KING OF THE JUNGLE

GUILTY AS HELL

ISLAND OF LOST SOULS

TONIGHT IS OURS

STORY OF TEMPLE DRAKE

COLLEGE HUMOR

GIRL IN 419

EAGLE AND THE HAWK

INTERNATIONAL HOUSE

JENNIE GERHARDT

PICK UP

PARAMOUNT

in 1932-33 has a record of success no other company can equal

if it's a PARAMOUNT PICTURE it's the best show in town!

RADIO SPONSORS' "STAY HOME" PLEA WIDENS BREACH WITH EXHIBITORS

Theatre Men Protest Commercial Advertisers' Appeal in Newspaper Ads and Broadcasts To Listen In at Home

The competitive breach between radio and motion pictures as entertainment factors has been widened by a new radio campaign through which the sponsors of important programs appeal to the public to stay at home for their entertainment. For several months past the radio is said to have made severe inroads upon box-office receipts due to general business conditions, plus the fact that the networks have been employing the services of nationally-known stage and screen stars such as Eddie Cantor, Ed Wynn, Jack Pearl, Kate Smith, Bing Crosby and many others. Exhibitors have complained that persons who in normal times attend the motion picture theatre have stayed at home to listen in. The radio, therefore, built up new and vast audiences.

Suggest Listeners Stay Home

Now, sponsors of national programs are requesting radio listeners to stay at home on certain nights to listen to specified programs. The 17,000,000 homes in the United States possessing radio receiving sets are being told, both by newspaper advertising copy and in commercial broadcasts, to take their entertainment from the air. With such large commercial advertisers as the Gulf Refining Company, with its persuasive Will Rogers, asking the public to remain in their homes to listen to free music, free comedy and entertainment, the theatre man has a new problem to unravel. The Gulf company's advertisement is typical of many.

Many exhibitors have been asked whether attendance fell off to any appreciable degree on nights when some particular screen or stage star was on the air and, with but few exceptions, the reply has been that while such a condition was distinctly noticeable they felt that any falling off would eventually be counteracted by playing a picture in which the star of the air appeared. This might apply to films in which Cantor, Kate Smith, Bing Crosby, Pearl, Wynn, Rudy Vallee, Stoopnagle & Budd, the Marx Brothers, Morton Downey, Paul Whiteman, and scores of others appear.

Many theatre men, independent exhibitors and circuit heads alike, have expressed the opinion that the entire situation might be improved by an arrangement with broadcasting companies whereby such players as those mentioned would not "appear" between 6 and 10 p. m. To this, however, it was pointed out that the broadcasters are not likely to consent, as these hours mean as much to them and to the sponsors as they do to the theatre man.

Another factor of which exhibitors have complained is the free admission of prospective theatre customers to broadcasting studios when the "big names" are on the air. Thousands cram the studios of both Columbia and National Broadcasting Company in New York, not only on Sundays, but every night. The same is true elsewhere.

In a few sections exhibitors have attempted to alleviate the situation by amplifying broadcasts, interrupting their regular program to give patrons the air performances which might otherwise cause the customers to remain at home. Theatres have advertised this extra attraction and, in some instances, the result has been gratifying.

Theatre leaders in New York, however, do not believe this practice will completely solve the exhibitors' troubles.

"Advertising which asks people to stay at home to listen to specified programs will raise havoc with theatre attendance," Sam Dembow, Jr., Publix executive, said this week. "It has been bad enough before this new departure, and under present conditions it is practically impossible to do anything about it. Competition with interests paying large sums of money to artists for fifteen or thirty minutes on the air is out of the question for us. Our only hope is to come to some definite understanding with the broadcasters whereby their stellar attractions will be kept off the air when we are trying to draw patrons into our theatres. This, however, is not likely."

Mr. Dembow also said that while it is possible in some measure to combat the situation by prohibiting film artists under contract from accepting broadcasting engagements during those film contracts, the radio has built up a sufficiently powerful array of names who are radio stars in their own right to make such procedure almost meaningless.

Franklin Doubts Wide Effect

Harold B. Franklin, RKO theatre executive, said that while he believed the radio to a certain extent has kept patrons out of theatres, it has not had the devastating effects which the theatre man attributes to it.

"Exhibitors should worry more about what daylight saving time and baseball are doing to theatre attendance at this time than they should about the radio," he said. "Cases in which the average broadcast hurt theatre attendance are very few and far between."

Martin Beck, former RKO executive, said he was not sufficiently familiar with the situation to discuss it, and Monroe Greenthal, in charge of United Artists' exploitation, said the radio has been an asset rather than a liability. Mr. Greenthal pointed out that "plugging" of songs from films has been one of the greatest selling points for those pictures, but he agreed that this applied only to musical pictures which, to quote Mr. Franklin, "are very few and far between," nor are all exhibitors in a position to book pictures which will draw any benefit from such radio "plugging."

Ten years ago the novelty of the radio made some inroads on theatre receipts, but after the novelty wore off there was little or no direct influence upon theatre grosses by broadcasting. Now the problem has rearisen in a new dress.

Rudulph Brewers' Publicity Head

Gerald K. Rudulph, director of advertising and publicity for RCA Photophone for the past three years, has resigned to become director of advertising and sales promotion for the Schreiber Brewing Co., Buffalo.

Clark Fox Manager Towell Treasurer

John D. Clark has been appointed general manager of Fox distribution, and Sydney Towell has been made treasurer of Fox Film Corporation, according to an announcement made this week by Sidney R. Kent, president. Mr. Clark, who joined the company in December as personal representative of the president, recently was elected to the directorate.

Starting his career in the film industry seventeen years ago as a salesman in Philadelphia, Mr. Clark successively was branch manager of the Philadelphia office of Famous Players-Lasky Corporation, and western divisional sales manager of Paramount Publix, which post he resigned to join Fox.

Mr. Towell, who succeeds Charles E. Richardson, resigned, as treasurer, has been comptroller of the company for several years.

RKO Operating 101 Houses; Decentralization Finished

Radio-Keith-Orpheum is now operating a total of 101 theatres, according to a statement issued last week by Harold B. Franklin, RKO theatre head. Twenty-eight theatres have been dropped since the company went into receivership, January 27, at which time it was operating 129 houses.

According to Mr. Franklin, no further dropping of houses is planned. Of the remaining theatres, 70 per cent are in the metropolitan area. Before the Orpheum circuit bankruptcy and the RKO Theatres receivership there were 148 theatres in both circuits.

Building Restriction Discussed

Members of the Baltimore city council committee on buildings and building regudations were present at a public hearing to consider a resolution passed by the MPTO of Maryland, Inc., of which Frank A. Hornig is president, opposing construction of any additional theatres in Baltimore. On the council's third reading file is an ordinance for which consideration has been asked granting the Homeland Amusement Company permission to build a residential theatre. No one appeared at the hearing to represent the MPTO of Maryland.

Nizer Toasts Meyer

Louis Nizer was toastmaster at a luncheon on Thursday at the New York Motion Picture Club in honor of Phil E. Meyer. Among those attending were Jack Cohn, David Loew, Al Lichtman, Leon Rosenblatt, Jack Springer, Lee Ochs, Sidney Samuelson, Charles L. O'Reilly and Bert Sanford.

Fred Hammel Dead

Fred J. Hammel, manager of the Andalus, Cincinnati suburban house, was killed last week by an automobile.

BROADWAY AND/OR UNITED STATES

Sidney Kent and "Jaysee" Present Two Varying Views on What the Public Wants in Pictures

How far is Broadway from the United States? How far are the big towns from "the sticks"? Have we one public or many publics? Do people want one kind of show in the hometown small neighborhood and "something snappier" when they go outside that intimate community life?

These questions arise as one considers two equally sincere, equally authoritative and carefully considered statements that the editorial tide has tossed up on the desk of the editor of Motion Picture Herald this week.

